1900 SUMMER SESSION

FINE LECTURE COURSES BY PROFESSORS FROM AWAY.

Attendance Same as Last Year—Graduate Courses Given—Plans for 1901.

The Summer Session of 1900 was held from July 2 to August 10. The number of students in attendance was 329—practically the same as that of last year, omitting the engineering students, for whom in 1899 there was given a course in shop work which was not repeated in 1900. The Session was successful in every way. The weather was pleasant and both students and faculty enjoyed their work.

The program, as announced in the catalogue, was fully carried out. As the readers of the Cardinal know, several courses of lectures were given during this Session by professors in other universities. This was a new feature in the Summer Session and added very greatly to the interest of the work. In the Session of 1900 especial attention was given to the departments of economics and history. There was a strong teaching staff from the University faculty including Professors Ely, Turner, and Scott, Assistant Professors Coffin and Meyer, and Dr. Libby. Besides these, Professor Macy of Iowa College taught in the department of political science, with Vice-President Parkinson and Dr. Sparling. Professor Giddings of Columbia University, probably the highest authority on sociology in the country, gave courses of lectures in his department which were well attended by classes composed of graduate students and college teachers. Professor Moses Coit Tyler of Cornell University gave an inspiring course of public lectures on Leaders and Issues of American Politics to audiences which filled the large lecture room in University Hall. Professor H. Morse Stephens of the same college, who is well known to the students of the University, delivered a brilliant course of lectures on the Enlightened Despotism of the 18th Century. Altogether the Session gave to the students of history and economics very unusual opportunities of hearing the leading men of the United States in their several departments.

In the department of German, Professor Francke of Harvard University attracted large audiences to his evening lectures on Early German Religious Art. In addition to the courses announced in the programme, he gave a weekly lecture in German devoted to a careful and brilliant criticism of the German Romanticists of the latter part of the last century.

Mr. William Morton Payne, editor of the Chicago Dial, lectured in the department of English literature on the Great English Poets. His lectures were one of the main features of the department of English literature.

Professor Carter of Princeton University delivered a course of lectures on the Roman Religion, which were attended by very large audiences.

It is not possible to speak in detail of the regular work of the several departments, whose courses went on much as usual during the University year. In all important branches graduate courses were given as well as for undergraduates, and in all studies which are represented in high school work special courses were given fitted to the needs of teachers in the high schools who desire to prepare themselves for teaching the subject, or to review and increase their knowledge.

The programme for the Session of 1901 is now under consideration and will be issued before the middle of the year. It will include lectures in the several departments on a plan similar to that of the last Session. Dr. Birge, who was in charge of the Session of 1900, will also take charge of that for the coming summer.

Dr. Showerman's Lecture.

The first of a series of lectures by Dr. Grant Showerman on Ancient Rome was held in the Main Hall yesterday afternoon. The lecture was introductory to the series to be given. Dr. Showerman then described the topographical situation of Rome. The object of these lectures though is not the studying of Rome geographically, but the study of its ancient antiquities. In the study of the archaeology of Rome, he says it is not where these antiquities are found, but why and how they came here, that is of the most interest to us.

Some students in this work study it topographically, others architecturally, and still others chronologically. But this keeps the student roaming from one part of Rome to another.

The excavating of these antiquities is easy but the identification is another thing.

In studying these antiquities of Rome one gains an increased acquaintance with the literature of Rome, a more thorough appreciation of the life of ancient Rome, a truer appreciation of the modern world and a happy realization that men in ancient times had questions to confront and solve as well as we.

An instance showing that it is no easy matter to identify the findings is shown by the fact that 5 or 6 different names were given by archaeologists to a certain temple and as no two agreed, the name "The Little Round Temple by the Tiger" has been given it.

Standing on any one of the hills in Rome, one is overwhelmed with the thought of the history that has been made within the realm of his vision.

In the excavations the student is able to tell when that part was built by the lay of the brick, the thickness of the mortar, by the inscriptions and literature found, and by the coins and reliefs.

Excavations are still going on at such a rapid pace that books written only four years ago are becoming old for the use of reference and the cry for new books is constantly heard.

—Emerson Ela, law '01, returned yesterday and will resume his studies in the College of Law and will take charge of the work of the University Republican Club, of which he is president.

—J. W. Nevius sprained his ankle in the hand-ball court yesterday. He will be compelled to use crutches for some time.

—Luther E. Brown, '00, is traveling in Europe and will spend two years at the University of Berlin and Munich.

—Mamie Sprague, '00, is an assistant in the Stoughton High School.

—Clarence Norton, '00, is practicing law at Elkhorn.

UNFINISHED BUILDING

EXPLAINED BY DEAN JOHNSON OF ENGINEERING DEPARTMENT.

Will be Four Times as Large When Completed—Beauty of Building Seen Only From Campus.

From comments and criticisms which have come to the undersigned from various parties, it seems necessary to explain that the new Engineering Building is not, at present, a complete structure. It is the south side of what is ultimately to become a very large building facing four ways and enclosing a court which will be twice the size of the present Steam Laboratory on the north. This court will then be wholly occupied by a Steam Laboratory similar to the one which is now constructed but will then be twice the size of the present one. This explains why the brick on the north side of the building is of a lighter color as well as of a cheaper character than the face brick on the other three sides.

It is unfortunate that persons driving upon the grounds can see only the north or unfinished side of the building. In order to appreciate its architectural features and its beautiful facade it would be necessary for persons driving over the grounds to alight near University Hall at the top of the hill and walk down to the building and examine its south front. The building has been so planned that it can be extended in two wings to the north by simply repeating the section of the south facade and finally completing the structure by building across the north side of the then enclosed court. Its north face would then be the duplication of the present south side of the building. In fact the four sides would then be very much alike except that it would be longer east and west than it now is north and south.

With this explanation, which of course should be repeated to strangers visiting the city and University grounds, and in consideration of the absolute requirement on the part of the legislature that the building should be wholly completed for the $100,000, appropriated it is hoped that further criticism on account of the unfinished appearance of the north facade will no longer find expression.

J. B. Johnson,
Dean College of Mechanic and Engineering.

Patronesses for the Reception.

The Committee on Patrons and Patronesses for the reception next Saturday night announce the names of President and Mrs. Adams, Acting-President and Mrs. Birge, Justice and Mrs. Winslow, Colonel and Mrs. W. J. Anderson, Professor and Mrs. O'Shea, Professor and Mrs. Scott, and Miss Mayhew. Elaborate preparations are being made in the way of decorations and entertainment.

Dr. Frank Hall Next Sunday.

Mr. Frank Hall, one of the leading attorneys of the city, will give an address next Sunday afternoon in the Law building on "The Bible and Bible Study." Mr. Hall is one of the best Bible students in the city. His clear and forcible way of presenting his thoughts makes him one of the most popular speakers that the students have an opportunity to hear.

—J. M. Nevin, '00, is attending the law school at Ann Arbor.

High School Department.

Communications for the department should be legibly written on one side of the paper and addressed to High School Editor, Daily Cardinal, Madison Wis.

To the High Schools,—Greeting:—

The High School Department again extends a cordial greeting to its many readers throughout Wisconsin and the surrounding states. This idea, originated two years ago and has proved so instructive and entertaining we believe, that the plan will be continued this year. The Cardinal as heretofore, will be sent to every accredited High School and academy in this and surrounding states.

It is desirable that these copies be placed on the library tables in the various schools that they may be read by the largest number possible.

As a means of systematizing the work it would be well for each school to appoint one or more correspondents who shall gather and forward such matters of interest as they may obtain, to the Cardinal at least once every month. The larger schools might send in matter semi-monthly. Only such items should be forwarded as would be of interest to the students in the state at large, such as matter concerning the school as a whole, omitting personals. It is desirable that as many of the students take part in obtaining these items as possible as this department is primarily for the benefit of the students themselves and the amount of benefit obtained will be measured by the amount of interest displayed by each individual student in seeing that his High School is represented in an interesting and creditable manner. This work will not only afford a vast field of experience for those engaged in it but will also afford an interesting and valuable medium of intercourse between the various High Schools and will enable them to become better acquainted with the work done in each and by this means many learn from the experience of the larger, and the latter be enabled to detect the faults in their own and will result, we think, in raising the standard of work in a material degree. As this department is the department of the High Schools solely, the Cardinal desires that as many schools as possible unite in making it more successful than ever before and wishes to assure them that all matter received, will be carefully and willingly published as often as the amount warrants and space permits.

—Owing to the cancelling of the Lake Forest game for Saturday on account of six players being unable to play since the death of half-back Pierson, the management is at a loss as to how to fill the date. Efforts were made to get Lawrence University but owing to Steven Point Normal, whom they were to play, refusing to release them, they could not come. The Milwaukee Medical College was also solicited for a game but the arrangement fell through at the last moment. A challenge was yesterday received from the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Chicago but as the team defeated Northwestern last week it was thought it would be too hard for the men in view of the Beloit game at Milwaukee on the 13th.

—C. V. Hibbard, '00, is general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. at Northwestern University.

—Miss Bessie King, '00, is teaching in the Nellsville high school.

Library Rules.

Attention is called to the rules governing the use of the library published in another column of this issue. It is very essential that those rules be thoroughly understood and rigidly adhered to. The library facilities offered at this institution are unsurpassed in the United States, but in order that they may be properly enjoyed care should be taken that the necessary rules are carefully followed. It is only this way that the fullest benefit to the greatest number of students can be assured.

To be Further Pushed.

The communication from Dean Johnson stating that the new engineering building is but what the first quarter of the finished building will be, is timely and should be heeded by both students and townspeople. The engineering building as it now stands has the finest steam laboratory in the world and is better equipped than any similar building in the United States. The building when entirely finished will certainly be without a peer.

Dean Johnson spent much time and study with the architect of the new building to get the best possible tints and shades for beauty and service.

The south aspect is by all means the best, while that on the north is decidedly out of harmony with the natural surroundings and what little architectural consistency is apparent among the other university buildings. However when entirely completed in conformity with Dean Johnson's plans it will be by all odds the best equipped school building of its kind in the world.

Local and Personal.

—Joseph T. Wojta, '98, has returned to take a post-graduate course.

—Senator Mark Hanna and Senator Frye of Maine, have been secured by the street carnival committee, to speak on the opening day, Oct. 15.

—Dr. Updike will speak on "Importance of Bible Study" on Wednesday, Oct. 3rd at 5 p. m. Ladies' Hall. All University girls are especially urged to be present as plans for organizing Bible circles will be presented.

—President Adams will not leave on his trip, for which the Regents have voted to grant him a leave of absence for a year, until after the 20th. While absent he will visit important points in Europe with the hopes of greatly improving his health. It is hoped by all that he may acquire the desired restitution and be again able to resume his duties at the time for which he is billed to return.

Extracts From University Library Rules.

I. The University library is open daily during term time from 8 A. M. to 6 P. M. and from 6:30 to 10 P. M., except on Saturdays, Sundays and legal holidays. On Saturdays the library is open from 8 A. M. to 4 P. M.

II. Students may become entitled to borrow books for home use upon the presentation of a library deposit card which can be obtained by the payment of $2.00 to the secretary of the Board of Regents. This deposit, less charges for damages and fines, will be refunded upon the return of the card, endorsed by the librarian.

III. The holder of a card is entitled to borrow two books at a time. No two students will be permitted the use of the same card. Books may be retained two weeks and may be renewed for one week. A fine of two cents a day will be charged on each volume retained longer than the rules permit. In order to insure credit for books returned, they must in all cases be delivered to the person at the University library delivery desk.

IV. Encyclopedias, dictionaries and other reference works are not to be taken from the library. All other books are subject to reservation as reference works; when so reserved they may not be drawn from the library except at the close of library hours on Saturdays and must be returned by 8:15 A. M. on the following Monday. A failure to return such books at the proper time will subject the person to fine at double rates and to a forfeiture for one month of the privilege of borrowing reserved books.

V. Unbound periodicals may not be taken from the library by students. When taken from the periodical cases for use in the reading rooms, they are to be returned to their proper places in the case.

VI. All books and periodicals taken from the shelves in the reading and periodical rooms should be returned to their proper places after use. All books obtained from the University library delivery desk should be returned to said delivery desk.

VII. Courtesy to readers demands that the utmost quiet be maintained. Hence all unnecessary conversation is prohibited.

Military Notice.

As some of the military candidates for office in the U. W. regiment seem to have misunderstood the object of the drill examination held October 2d,—a misunderstanding brought about by an editorial notice in the Cardinal of Oct. 2d.—I will explain the object of this second examination.

The written examination, held at the close of the last college year, was for the purpose of learning the student's knowledge of drill regulations. The one appointed for October 2d, was for the purpose of learning his ability to command, his manner of giving a command, his self-reliance, his control of men, etc. All the students who attended the first examination were expected to be present at the second. The misunderstanding caused by the editorial notice referred to caused fifteen candidates to be absent.

A second drill-examination will be held at 4:30 p. m. October, 4 at which those absent on Tuesday must be present or their names will be dropped

Lectures on Ancient Rome.

The attention of all students of the University is called to a course of lectures on the topography and remains of ancient Rome to be given by Dr. Grant Showerman of the Latin department.

Dr. Showerman spent the last two years as fellow of the School of Classical Studies at Rome and has made himself thoroughly familiar with the subject on which he is to lecture. No knowledge of Latin is necessary in order to take the course. Some of the lectures will be illustrated by lantern slides. Two-fifths credit will be given for the course and the lectures are to be on Tuesday and Thursday at 4 p. m. The first lecture will be given on Tuesday, October 2nd, at 4 p. m. in room 38, University Hall.

The University of California has this year, enrolled five Filipino young men among whom are the two sons of the late secretary to Aguinaldo.
