1971-1972 MEMBERSHIP DIRECTORY

Part I—Alphabetical Listing

This issue of the Review carries Part I of the 1971-1972 membership directory. Members are listed alphabetically according to the type of membership they hold. Part II, a geographical listing, will appear in the next issue of Review and should be especially valuable in planning meetings, setting up committees and similar activities.

Every effort has been made to assure that the directories are as accurate and up-to-date as possible. However, because the directories are prepared from computerized lists and because of the lead time required for printing, mistakes are bound to occur.

All members are asked to check their listings carefully for incorrect spellings, addresses and to be certain that when both husband and wife are members, this is indicated.

When correcting errors, the following procedure will enable the WASAL staff to assure proper listing:

- 1) Corrections should be typed or clearly printed.
- 2) Please copy the listing in full exactly as it appears in the directory.
- 3) Retype or print the listing in full exactly as it should appear in corrected form.
- 4) Since the same computer lists were used in preparing both directories, any errors that appear in this directory will be repeated in the second directory. Members need send only one correction however.

The assistance of our members is greatly appreciated and will contribute to the efficiency and economy of future Academy mailings. ☐

WISCONSIN ACADEMY

President

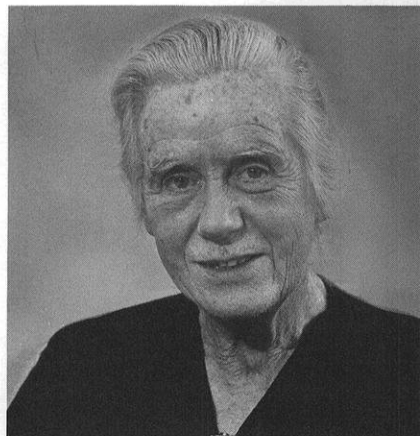

F. Chandler Young is vice chancellor for student affairs of the University of Wisconsin-Madison, a position he has held since 1968. Born in Chicago, Dr. Young earned the B.A., M.A. and Ph.D. at the University of Wisconsin where he was named the assistant to the associate dean of the College of Letters and Science in 1946. He was later appointed associate dean and professor. Dr. Young's specialty is student counseling, a field in which he is a recognized authority.

President-Elect

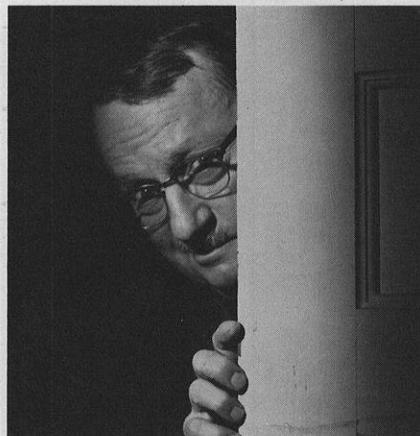

Louis W. Busse is professor of pharmacy at the UW-Madison. A native of Reedsville, Wisconsin, he attended Lawrence College and the University of Wisconsin where he was awarded the Ph.D. in pharmacy. He was named associate dean of the UW School of Pharmacy in 1954 and serves on numerous committees as well as in many state and national organizations. Dr. Busse is a leader in the continuing education for professional pharmacists.

Vice Presidents

For the Sciences—Elizabeth F. McCoy is professor of bacteriology at UW-Madison. A life-long Madison resident, Dr. McCoy earned bachelor's, master's and doctor's degrees at the University of Wisconsin. She served as a National Research Council Fellow in England and in Czechoslovakia and later as an Associate in Research Medicine at the University of California. In addition to teaching and acting as advisor to Ph.D. candidates, Dr. McCoy has been very active in bacteriological research. Other interests include conservation and wild-life activities.

For the Arts—Edgar L. Obma is a widely-known portrait photographer with a studio in Dodgeville. He studied with the Oscar DeLounge Studio in Milwaukee and later with Helene Sanders and Nicholas Haz in New York City. An associate of the Photographers Society of America, Mr. Obma is a Master of Photography and a judge of state and national competitions. Other interests include art, archeology and architecture. Among his outstanding portraits are those of Frank Lloyd Wright and the late President Kennedy.

For Letters — Hazel S. Alberson is an emeritus associate professor of comparative literature at UW-Madison, where she served for two periods as department chairman. Born in Washington, Iowa, she is a graduate of Monmouth College. She earned the M.A. at Duke University and the Ph.D. at the University of Wisconsin. Dr. Alberson is well-known for her WHA programs "Great Books" and "Visions That Are Timeless." She has been co-editor of two literary volumes and is the author of numerous articles.

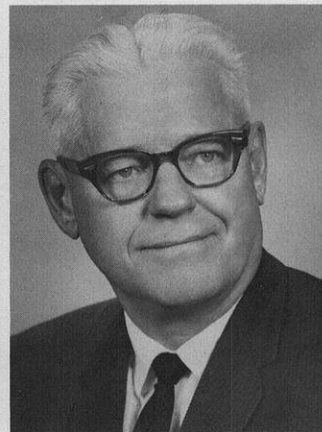

OFFICERS FOR 1971-1972

Secretary

Martha Hanson (Mrs. Robert) received her formal education at Indiana, Butler and George Washington universities, majoring in zoology and botany. She taught at Butler and the University of Wisconsin. Mrs. Hanson is a frequent tour leader for the Nature Conservancy and the Botanical Club of Wisconsin, which she also serves as treasurer. She is both a photography teacher and judge.

Treasurer

George Sprecher is a former assistant director of the Wisconsin Conservation Department, a position which he held from 1948 until his retirement in 1967. A life-long resident of the Madison area, he earned the B.A. in commerce at the University of Wisconsin. Mr. Sprecher continues to be active in conservation affairs and serves as chairman of Academy Investment and Budget Committees.

Librarian

Jack A. Clarke is a professor of library science at the University of Wisconsin-Madison, and served as acting director of the UW Library School in 1970-71. A graduate of Michigan State University, Dr. Clarke also studied at the University of Poitiers, France and earned the Ph.D. at the University of Wisconsin. He has served as director of libraries at UW-Eau Claire and as librarian at Washington Cathedral Library and Doane College.

Executive Director

James R. Batt is a native of Hastings, Nebraska and completed his undergraduate education with honors at Hastings College. He earned the M.A. at Boston University. Prior to his Academy appointment, Mr. Batt had been assistant director for academic programs of the Coordinating Council for Higher Education and assistant to the chancellor of the UW Center System. He is also editor of the Wisconsin Academy Review.

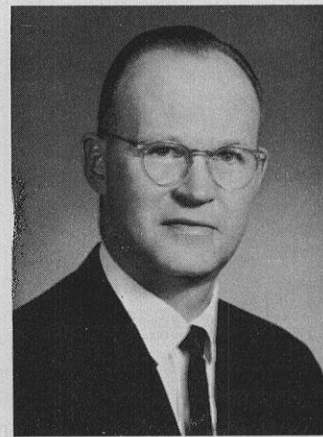

Director, Junior Academy

LeRoy Lee is a science teacher at Memorial High School in Madison. He earned the bachelor's degree at WSU-River Falls and the master's in biology at the University of Michigan. Mr. Lee first served as a Junior Academy Committee member in 1967, later heading the organization in 1969-70 on a voluntary basis. He was appointed Junior Academy director in 1970.

Editor, Transactions

Walter Peterson is now in his second year as president of the University of Dubuque, Dubuque, Iowa. He earned his Ph.D. at the University of Iowa and taught at Milwaukee — Downer College where he was chairman of the Social Science Division. Following the Downer-Lawrence merger in 1964, Dr. Peterson was appointed professor of history at Lawrence College in Appleton.

ACADEMY NEWS

RETIREMENT

William M. Lamers retired from his position as assistant superintendent of Milwaukee Public Schools in June, 1971 after 30 years of service. He also retired from the Board of Trustees of the Milwaukee Public Museum of which he had been president for 18 of his 21 years as a member. Other cultural and civic activities in the Milwaukee area in which he has long been involved undoubtedly will benefit from his freedom from professional duties.

Mr. Lamers was born in Milwaukee in 1900. He received A.B. and A.M. degrees from Marquette University and was an instructor in English there until 1929, when he received his Ph.D. He then became professor and director in the university's School of Speech, serving also as executive secretary of the Catholic Dramatic Movement. He assumed the position of assistant superintendent of Milwaukee schools in 1941, acting as a Dale Carnegie instructor as well from 1943 to 1962. Numerous associations and organizations in the field of forensics and education benefitted from his service in an advisory capacity and he was very active in the Milwaukee Civil Defense Commission.

Mr. Lamers is a veteran of many civic boards, among them the Municipal Art Commission (president, 1953-61), Milwaukee Symphony Association, Trustees of Milwaukee Public Library, and Directors of the Milwaukee Auditorium-Arena. He was vice president in the arts of the Wisconsin Academy in 1965-66 and the year previous served as chairman of the committee which studied possible statewide support for the Milwaukee Public Museum. During the Wisconsin State Centennial Exhibition in 1948 he was general chairman of the Education Exhibit and in 1941 was directing chairman of the Convention of Music Educators National Conference.

His interest in history led to membership in several organizations and he has served on the Board of Curators for the Wisconsin State Historical Society. An award winning historical novel, Edge of Glory, is one of 15 books he has written. He has had considerable verse published as well as articles and editorials and has been editor of a number of journals. His experience with speech forums and lecture bureaus led to delivery of hundreds of speeches on many subjects and he has been called the "last of the old-time orators."

Retirement to Mr. Lamers means relaxing at home but he also hopes to attend "an occasional Academy meeting." □

William W. Russell, former state conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service (SCS) in Wisconsin, retired in February 1971. He joined the service upon its creation in 1935 during Dust Bowl days. In 1933 he graduated from the Colorado State University in forestry and then worked for the Civilian Conservation Corps doing erosion control work in Colorado, Arizona and Missouri. His SCS assignments included Illinois and Michigan prior to his appointment as assistant state conservationist in Wisconsin in 1959. In 1962 he obtained a master's degree in conservation from the University of Michigan and was promoted to state conservationist.

Under his guidance, the Small Watershed Program (PL-566) expanded and two resource conservation and development projects covering 20 northern counties were developed. Significant guidelines for control of urban-suburban sediment problems also were instituted. Cooperative planning efforts carried out by SCS and the Southeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission have received nationwide attention. His leadership was recognized by the SCS administrator in 1971 with an Outstanding Performance Rating, and the Soil Conservation Society of America selected him as a fellow. Upon retirement, Mr. Russell was awarded a Meritorious Service Certificate by the secretary of agriculture and a Distinguished Service Award by the Wisconsin Soil Conservation District Supervisors.

Mr. Russell's plans for retirement include active participation in environmental clubs and with those seeking pollution control. He says: "A purpose has been served with the environmental excitement. We used scare tactics, too, to get people interested in soil conservation work."□

Edward Schneberger, who began his career as the Wisconsin Conservation Department's first fishery biologist, retired in March, 1971 as chief of research for the Department of Natural Resources. A native of Kansas, he earned two degrees at Kansas State Agricultural College. The University of Wisconsin, where he studied under Professors Birge and Juday, awarded him the Ph.D. in 1933. He remained at the university as a teaching assistant for a year prior to joining the old Conservation Department. Beginning as a junior biologist, he was appointed to head a biology division in 1937. He held the position of superintendent of fish management from 1944 until 1964 when he was named head of the Research and Planning Division (now Bureau of Research).

Mr. Schneberger's official duties included representing the department on various state boards. In 1941 he was assigned to the State Committee on Water Pollution, serving as chairman from 1946 to 1948. During that period hearings relating to the lower Fox River resulted in early pollution abatement orders to communities and paper mills. He also served as secretary and administrative officer of the Wisconsin Scientific Areas Preservation Council. During his administration the areas increased from 39 to 86 and the council was provided with its first budget. He helped define the council's new role in "watch-dogging" permit applications for impoundments, ditching, etc.

As a key organizer of the Upper Mississippi River Conservation Committee in the early '40s, Mr. Schneberger later served as its chairman in 1943 and 1962. An advocate of cleaning up Lake Michigan, he acted as technical advisor on several Great Lakes fishery commissions and as secretary of the Great Lakes Trout and Sea Lamprey Committee from 1948-59. He was a member for several years of the Aquatic Life Advisory Committee, Ohio River Valley Sanitation Commission, and a long-time member of the American Fisheries Society, serving as chairman of its North Central Division in 1956-57 and as president in 1962-63.

Mr. Schneberger has made significant contributions to state and regional water pollution control programs and helped develop some of the first effluent guidelines which led to the collection of damage payments for fish kills. He has been an important spark behind many successful policies and programs of the department and fishery profession. Under his leadership, Wisconsin's sport and commercial fishery programs achieved a sound biological basis. □

IN MEMORIAM

Paul W. Boutwell was born February 6, 1888 at Lyndeborough, New Hampshire and died at Madison on February 22, 1971. He was awarded the B.S. with Phi Beta Kappa honors by Beloit College in 1910. He came to the University of Wisconsin to obtain an A.M. degree in 1912 and a Ph.D. in biochemistry in 1916. His teaching career began as an assistant in the Department of Chemistry at the University of Wisconsin in 1912, where he later served for two years as assistant professor before going to Beloit College as associate professor. The following year he was made full professor and head of the chemistry department, a position he held until his retirement in 1953.

Subsequently he taught occasional courses at the college and served as a research consultant. In 1958 he was honored by the Manufacturing Chemists' Association as an "outstanding teacher in the field of undergraduate chemistry." He also received an Excellence in Teaching Award from the American Chemical Society and both an honorary doctor of science degree and a distinguished service citation from Beloit College.

Professor Boutwell was the author of many scholarly articles in his field of agricultural chemistry and nutrition. He was a member of Sigma Xi, the American Chemical Society and a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. In 1921 he joined the Wisconsin Academy and was awarded Honorary Life membership in 1961. He served as president of the Academy from 1940 to 1942. The fall 1955 issue of Wisconsin Academy Review carried tributes to Professor Boutwell from Beloit College. □ —GMS

Harry Hayden Clark, professor of English at the University of Wisconsin, died on June 6, 1971 at Madison. Widely known as a teacher, scholar and editor in the field of American literature, Professor Clark had directed 104 doctoral dissertations since coming to the university in 1928. In anticipation of his retirement in 1972, a group of his colleagues and former students had planned to publish a collection of essays, "Literature and Ideas in America," in his honor.

Professor Clark was born on July 8, 1901 in New Milford, Connecticut. He received a B.A. from Trinity College and an M.A. from Harvard University where he was awarded the Bowdoin

Professor Clark

Prize for his essay on "The Romanticism of Edward Young." In 1931-32 he studied in Europe as a Guggenheim Fellow.

Beginning his teaching career at Yale University in 1924, Professor Clark also taught at Middlebury College before coming to Madison. He was a visiting professor at the universities of Uppsala and Stockholm, Sweden, during 1953-54 as well as at Northwestern and Stanford universities and at the universities of Iowa, Southern California, North Carolina and Wyoming.

Other fellowships were awarded by the Rockefeller Fund in 1934-35 and the Library of Congress in 1945-46. Professor Clark was given Centennial Awards by Bucknell University in 1946 and Michigan State University in 1955, and received the honorary degrees of doctor of laws from Bowling Green University in 1951 and doctor of literature from Trinity College in 1963. He was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Nu, the International Association of University Professors of English, and the Madison Literary Club. Professor Clark served on the editorial boards of both "American Bookman" and "American Literature." In 1948 he was chairman of the American Literature Group of the Modern Language Association of America, and in 1965-66 was president of the Wisconsin Academy of Sciences, Arts and Letters. He was awarded Honorary Life membership in the Academy in 1970 as a 40-year veteran. □ —GMS

NEWS NOTES

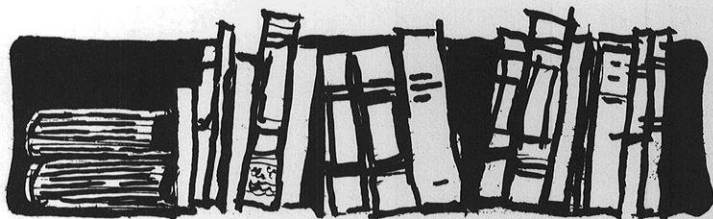

Pianist Van Cliburn joined with the Madison Symphony Orchestra December 2 in a program titled "The Steenbock Concert" by the Madison Civic Music Association.

During the past several years, a number of visiting artists have been brought to Madison as a result of a bequest by the late Professor Harry Steenbock. This year, instead of bringing several recognized artists, Civic Music decided to utilize the entire income from the fund plus a recent supplementary gift from Mrs. Steenbock to bring Mr. Cliburn to Madison.

Professor Steenbock was active in Academy affairs for many years. The WASAL Steenbock Endowment is the result of his generous remembrance of Academy needs. □

Professor Gerard A. Rohlich of the University of Wisconsin Madison campus was named this fall to receive a citation by the Cooper Union for the Advancement of Science and Art. The award is based on Professor Rohlich's contributions in sanitary engineering and water resources.

Dr. Rohlich, a Sustaining Member of the Wisconsin Academy since 1949, is director of the UW Water Resources Center and professor of civil engineering. □

CHARLES KENNETH LEITH, SCIENTIFIC ADVISOR, by Sylvia Wallace McGrath, University of Wisconsin Press, Madison. Illust. 255 pp. $15.00.

Born in Trempealeau Village on January 20, 1875, the life span of Charles Leith (died September 13, 1956) transcended the origins and growth to maturity of geology at the University of Wisconsin. He figured prominently in that growth, first as a protege of Van Hise, later as departmental chairman and finally as elder statesman. He was to have a prominent role in the Geological Survey in Wisconsin, taking an active part in the studies of the iron producing regions of Wisconsin, Michigan, and Minnesota.

His activities, however, were not limited to the Middle West. He quickly became involved in the study of mineral deposits in various parts of the United States, in Canada and Brazil, and in other parts of the world. His consulting connections with various mining firms became extensive even before the first World War. He was able to intersperse these activities between the demands of his teaching duties at the university, extensive business enterprises of his own, and service as an expert witness in legal cases. Perhaps this was possible largely as a consequence of utilizing the services of his advanced students in the field, a practice which reflected his own training under Van Hise. He not only considered this an important part of a student's education but as an aid in developing connections which would lead to employment later. In his later years Leith's university activities became more tenuous as a consequence of his work as a governmental advisor during the Depression and World War II years.

The author has been successful in portraying a difficult picture — that of a university professor serving as a leader in his discipline while pursuing an active career as consultant, businessman, and governmental advisor. At times it is difficult to picture Leith as a human being. Fortunately, the author comes forth now and then with a view of the individual. The chapters on "Life in the University Community" and "The Postwar Years" are of particular interest in this respect.

One general comment is in order. In a university having the eminence of the University of Wisconsin there must have been a series of key figures who shaped the destiny of the institution and left the stamp of their individuality upon it. The lives of more such faculty members deserve careful study. We should have more biographies which reveal the moulding of the character of the university. Only in this way can the public know of the characteristics and activities of the faculty of a complex institution, and hopefully, come to understand and appreciate it as a community of scholars which is, on the one hand, eager to pass on the accumulated wisdom of the past, on the other, to uncover new knowledge which will bring new levels of understanding. □

Dear Sir,

The latest issue of your magazine contains an article on a matter of some concern to me and I would like to discuss this with you at your convenience. Given a choice of dates to get together, could you pick one for us to meet and go over the matter. I think I would find it interesting and rewarding.

Readers are invited to submit their comments on Review articles or other matters relating to Academy affairs for use in a regular "letters to the editor" feature. Letters generally should be no more than two double-spaced typewritten pages and must be signed by the writer. Name of the writer will be withheld upon request. The staff reserves the right to edit and to reject any material deemed inappropriate. While letters may be edited to meet space requirements, care will be taken to preserve the intent and meaning of all contributions. Letters may be addressed to the Editor, WASAL, 5001 University Avenue, Madison, Wisconsin 53705.

A Note to Review Contributors

In addition to conveying to WASAL membership the official announcements and news regarding Academy affairs, the Wisconsin Academy Review is designed to bring to subscribers a stimulating array of articles, poetry, reviews, photography and art work pertaining primarily to the sciences, arts and letters in Wisconsin. Readers are invited to submit such contributions for consideration by the editorial staff, or they may write or call the editor to discuss possible contributions or contributors. The following editorial policy should be taken into consideration:

- Articles should be submitted on 8-1/2 x 11 paper, typewritten and double-spaced.
- Whenever possible, contributors are urged to avoid professional jargon. The more esoteric papers which focus on some specialized facet of a particular discipline should be considered for presentation at the Annual Meeting and for publication in the Wisconsin Academy Transactions. Review articles are intended for a broader readership; consequently, subject matter and writing style should be determined accordingly. Photographs, charts and illustrations which may complement the copy are also encouraged and should be suitable for reproduction.
- Because of space limitation, copy should generally not exceed seven or eight double-spaced, typewritten pages. Exceptions to this rule should be cleared in advance with the editor.
- Photographs, whether accompanying an article or submitted as separate items, should be black and white glossies, preferably 5 x 7 or larger. Captions should be typewritten on a separate sheet of paper.
- The right to minor editorial revision is reserved by the staff. Major revisions in copy will be accomplished through cooperation with the authors.
- A brief biographical statement should accompany submissions.

The Wisconsin Academy Review will return to its normal publication schedule (March, June, September and December) in 1972. Copy for any particular issue should be submitted no later than eight weeks before publication. Since content of an issue is frequently determined prior to this deadline, it may be necessary to hold copy for a future issue.

Member contributions of articles, reviews, letters, poetry, news notes, photography and art are especially sought; however, membership in the Academy is not a prerequisite to publication. Fifteen copies of the Wisconsin Academy Review issue in which the work appears will be provided the contributor without charge.

ABOUT OUR COVER . . .

The starkly beautiful cover photograph is the work of Edgar L. Obma, the Academy's vice president for the arts. A portrait photographer of 30 years' experience, Mr. Obma maintains a studio in Dodgeville. The photograph was taken on what Mr. Obma describes as "a typical February day in Wisconsin" with the bleak looking countryside and a hazy fog. "I liked the lonesome feeling of the scene," he says, "and the sense of isolation and desolation." Photography buffs will be interested to know that Mr. Obma used a Graph-flex 4 X 5 plate camera for the shot and that no special darkroom technique was employed to produce the etching-like quality of the print.
