S. on the representation that it was in transit to Havana.

CONFERENCE SPORT NEWS

BADGERS TAKE LAST WORKOUT FOR MICHIGAN

Meet Big Ten Champs at Randall

Varsity baseball men will work out this afternoon for the last time before the closing game of the season with the undefeated Conference leader, Michigan. The game is set for tomorrow afternoon on the Camp Randall diamond.

Michigan defeated Wisconsin at Ann Arbor 11 to 3 early this spring, and since then the Wolverines have been setting a pace that has left every other Big Ten team far in the shade. The Michigan squad won their crucible battle last Saturday from Ohio State at Columbus.

Ohio Wins Second Place

The Buckeyes are relegated definitely to second place, and Illinois has ended its season in third place. Michigan has defeated both of these teams two times.

KfourS, itals il...aDkl h 4grB Coach Guy Lowman has performed almost a miracle in molding together a team which has fought its way into fourth place. Starting with practically no battery men and with only three letter men to fill the other places on the nine, the Badgers have turned in rather consistent wins against big odds. The latest victims of Cardinals are the famed Butler college ball tossers.

Team Drills Hard

The team worked out hard Wednesday and took another long drill yesterday afternoon. The team ended up in a short game with the Frosh nine. Johnson did most of the hurling for the Varsity and Pickford was on the hill for Reudiger's outfit.

As Jerry Pickford pitched, the win over Butler Tuesday, Johnson will likely get the slab assignment tomorrow. Dugan or Pollock will play in right field.

CHI PSIS BEAT ALPHA SIGS IN ONE WAY GAME

The Chi Psi baseball team won the consolation cup of the interfraternity baseball league by whipping the Alpha Sigma Phi team 18 to 1. "By" Barwig pitched an excellent game, striking out 17 men and allowing only two hits. The game was played on the Madison-Kipp ball field and was featured by some heavy slugging, including two home runs over the fence.

"Swede" Wieland, short stop on the frosh team, who caught for the winners, with a 0 to 0 score in the fourth inning, started a batting rally which netted nine runs, hitting a home run with the bases full.

Sid Eagleberger hurled a good game for the first three innings, but was hit hard for the rest of the game. He scored the only run for the Alpha Sigs.

Tax Commission To Appeal Decision In Inheritance Tax Case

The Wisconsin tax commission announced today that it would appeal to the U. S. Supreme court the decision of Federal Judge Claud Z. Luse, holding unconstitutional the section of the Wisconsin inheritance tax relating to taxation of property of non-resident holders of stock in foreign corporations the property of which is located in this state.

The lower court decision held that the state could not apply its inheritance tax to stock owned by a non-resident decedent in a foreign corporation owning property in Wisconsin. The state contend that it has this taxing right.

Reconstructed wook that can be molded into desired shapes was invented by a University of Wisconsin professor recently, and is now used commercially.

All men vote in court election today.

INITIATE FOURTEEN INTO OUTING CLUB

Fourteen new members were initiated last night at the regular business meeting of Outing club held in Lathrop concert room at 7:15 o'clock. Out of this number 2 were seniors, 5 sophomores, and 6 freshmen. The two pin wearers announced were Ethel Kennedy '25, and Ruth Peterson '25. Plans for a stunt to be given at the S. G. A. party next fall were made, and Edith Jorris '26 was appointed to take charge of the annual Hobo hike which will be held next October.

JUNIOR CREW RACES CULVER

Compet Will Take Place on Lake Maxinkuchee at Culver

The junior crew will row the Culver Military academy today on Lake Maxinkuchee at Culver Indiana.

The race with Saint John's last Saturday although not a victory for the juniors, showed the strength of the crew, for the cadets won by only three quarters of a shell length. The Culver crew is especially strong this season and will probably give the Badgers as good a race as Saint John's.

The big feature in the remainder of the crew season at Wisconsin will be the stop-off and race of the University of Washington crew here on Lake Mendota. The westerners will arrive here on June 8 and will race the varsity crew on June 16. The week's stay is to be a period of training for the Washington crew in preparation for its race on the Hudson.

A close estimate of the strength of Wisconsin's varsity crew will be determined by the race with the Pacific coast crew. Washington lost to the Navy last year at Poughkeepsie by only one shell length and she has practically as strong a crew this year. The showing Wisconsin makes against the westerners will represent in a way the showing that she might make against the strongest contenders at Poughkeepsie this season.

Washington is bringing her freshman crew also and it is probable that the Badger juniors will race the Pacific yearlings.

BOWMAN BREED ELECTED HEAD OF PISAOL CLUB

Bowman Breed '24 was re-elected president of the Pistol club at a meeting commemorating the end of the third year of its existence as a university organization, yesterday.

The club was greatly handicapped this year, as only three of the eleven men who composed last year's team returned to the university. Through the excellent coaching of Sergeant Mason, eight more men were developed into good marksmen, as shown by the team's fine showing. Each member of the team also won a U. S. expert badge, the highest award made by the government to any R. O. T. C. pistol shot.

Farm Women Saved $29,000 Through Clubs

That farm women enrolled in Home Makers' clubs in five Wisconsin counties have saved approximately $29,000 as a result of their work in these clubs is the final report compiled from accounts of the club chairmen. These reports were made at recent "Clothing Get-Togethers" held in River Falls, Onalaska, Sparta, Evansville and West Bend.

Three Drive Too Fast On Rural Roads

Fast driving over rural roads cost three men $10 fines in Superior court today after their arrest yesterday by Deputy Sheriff William Boyle, B. E. Cooper, G. Shipley and J. Griffin were the offenders.

STATE NORMAL SCHOOLS MEET IN TRACK EVENT

Predict Speedy Races at Randall

The annual Wisconsin state normal school track meet which has been held at Madison for the past five years will be run off this afternoon on the Camp Randall track at 2:30 o'clock.

That the meet will be fast is evidenced by the quality of the teams which are entered. Throughout the state, normal schools this year have produced track teams of excellent calibre, and the meet today will see the best of them in competition.

Strength is Uncertain

While little is known of the exact strength of the teams, it is certain that Oshkosh and La Crosse will be among the high point winners. La Crosse recently took second place in a meet in which teams from several western states competed, and the Riverside team is out today to prove its superiority over Wisconsin normal school teams.

Oshkosh is particularly strong in the weight events, and with a generous sprinkling of point winners in other events they can be expected to finish near the top of the list.

Northern Schools Unknown

Whitewater normal always produces a good track team, and the one this year is no exception. If the breaks go with them, they should be among the leaders.

The northern schools are unknown quantities to a large extent, but if they can be judged by their track work of former years, they are certain to make their presence felt strongly.

SWIMMING MEET WILL BE HELD NEXT SATURDAY

The swimming meet which was scheduled for last Saturday and postponed because of the coldness of the water will be held at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning, according to John Manierre '25, chairman of the swimming events.

There will be a 40 yard dash, 100 yard dash, lighted candle race, undressing race and inter-fraternity relay. All these events are for men, and the winners will be awarded prizes offered by Madison business houses.

Competition among the girls will also be held in the 40 yard dash and the inter-sorority relay. No entries have as yet been made in the sorority relays. Girls who wish to compete should call Lois Barry at Chadbourne hall. Men wishing to enter should get in touch with John Manierre, Badger 3813. Attractive prizes are offered the winners of each event.

Public Accounting Course Given By Madison School

The Madison college, school of business administration, announces a course, starting September 17, covering two years which prepares the student for state certified public accountant examinations. Catalogues may be had upon request from the registrar of Madison college at Madison.

Elect Jacobson to Head Yearlings After Soph Game

Irving Jacobson, a pitcher, was elected captain of the frosh squad after yesterday's battle with the sophomores. Jacobson, who hails from Hudson, Wis., is a sophomore.

Prospects for the varsity team look bright at the present time, as a result of the baseball ability shown by numerous frosh. The squad has been coached by George Ruediger, Badger captain who was declared ineligible because of professional playing.

Jacobson is one of the most promising candidates for a regular berth. With a little more training he should become a dependable heaver.

Besides the new captain, Coleman is another promising candidate for the mound. Coleman is a southpaw and his work has been above the average. Galle and Petaja are other pitchers on the squad.

The brunt of the catching has been borne by Cramer, a first year man who has shown real catching. Wold and Tjoflat have also been receiving, and a merry battle is expected for next year's regular berth behind the plate.

Leo Harmon has been holding down first base and has shown indications of developing. Hagood usually received the assignment for the second sack. Third base has been taken care by Tangen, who has proved himself a steady fielder. Wieland has done creditable work at shortstop.

The outfield has five candidates with the choice narrowing down to Jerry McCarthy, frosh basketball captain, Doyle Harmon and Schmitt. McCarthy is one of the best frosh gardeners uncovered in years and is expected to land a berth on the varsity next year. He is an exceptionally good batter.

ENGINEER WILL BATTLE LOCAL BOXING CHAMP

The engineers will send a large delegation to Monona park this evening to see their boxing star, "Spike Medillo," perform in a four round contest against Jim Bolitho, a local boy.

"Spike," who is a mechanical engineer, '24, can make any of the 145 pounders step a fast pace. In his first local ring appearance, he let his man down for the count in two rounds. He extends a cordial invitation to all law students to attend the bout, so that they may better appreciate the versatility of the Wisconsin engineer.

The tall youth has been working hard daily preparing for this bout. There will be four other fast bouts on the card and altogether 26 rounds of milling. The performance begins promptly at 8:30 o'clock.

Letters and Science Nine Trims Plumbers By 15 to 10

The Letters and Science baseball nine walked on the Plumbers with a 15 to 10 score in a 7 inning game staged on the lower campus yesterday afternoon. McCord pitched for the L and S crew while Kubosch and Smith did the heavy slinging for the Engineers.

Sons and daughters of farmers, retail merchants, and workmen constituted 40 per cent of the freshmen entering the University of Wisconsin this year.

VARSITY SQUAD TOES MARK IN BIG TEN MEET

Many Records May Be Shattered

Ready to pit their strength in the annual Conference meet tomorrow against some of the best college athletes in the country, 20 Badger track men are waiting for the starting pistol at Ann Arbor, Michigan, today.

Unless preliminary races are held today, the Wisconsin men will be on deck to workout on the field of competition this afternoon.

As a result of one of the most spectacular spring seasons for many years, fans look to the Conference meet to be a fast, record-breaking event. Men from Big Ten schools have consistently broken conference records in various events during the season and, if they work true to form tomorrow, they should aid in making the meet a world-beater.

Despite the crop of fast conference teams this year, there is little doubt Illinois and Michigan will tie up in the feature struggle of the day.

Iowa May Get Third

Both Michigan and Illinois have well balanced teams, and they should both score in almost every event. Illinois has gone through the season undefeated, beating Michigan by an 80 to 55 score, and humbling Wisconsin, victor over both Chicago and Minnesota, by a still greater margin. On neutral ground the dope would point to Illinois as a certain winner, but the Wolverines will be running on familiar ground and may turn this advantage into points.

While Iowa is favored to place close behind these two pace-makers, it is not improbable that Wisconsin may win the required number of points to take third place.

A pole vault record of ten year's standing which was set at 12 feet 8 1/4 inches by Johnie Gold of Wisconsin is expected to fall before the efforts of several aspirants. Brooker and Prosper of Michigan and Collins and Brownell of Illinois are all capable of making this height and the heated competition in the event may figure in setting a new record.

May Break Records

De Hart Hubbard, dusky Michigan star, will in all probability break the present record of 24 feet 1 in in the broad jump. The work he has done in dual meets this spring is such that few fans would be surprised to see him near the world's record of 25 feet 3 inches held by E. O. Gourdin of Harvard.

Milton Angier of Illinois, who holds the javelin record of 196 feet 11 inches, will again perform in the conference meet tomorrow. Angier now holds the national record of 203 feet 9 1/2 inches as a reward for his spectacular heave at the Drake relays this spring.

Wisconsin's power lies in the runs with a possible bit of strength in some of the field events. Badger half-milers, milers, and two-milers have all slammed in their events in dual meets this spring and it is probable that some of these runners will score tomorrow.

Tom Nichols may place in the hammer throw, but the presence at the meet of Hill of Illinois will rob him of first honors at least.

Badger Jumpers Good

Donohue, Patten and Tuhtar are all capable of clearing the high jump bar at something over 6 feet, and they should succeed in scoring a few points.

The University of Iowa will have Charles Brookins listed among their 220 yadr low hurdle men, who is reputed to be the .eetest mortal in the world today in that race, and the only man in the world who has run the distance in 23 seconds. Meet officials will include Charles A. Dean, referee, and Charles H. Wilson, starter.

The Michigan Union building is the headquarters of the athletes and is fairly swarming with the greatest athletes of the world. All teams and men have their allotted rooms.

All men vote in court election today.

ODDS AND ENDS

The student court elections take place today. Since the student court has been a deal more active this year than in passed years the turn out at the polls will probably be much greater than it has been hitherto. The court has proved itself this year and every attention should be focused on the election of its members for 1923-24.

In speaking of these elections, it comes to one's mind that much more concern would be given this matter by the students if the court elections took place at the same time as the rest of the Spring Elections.

Baseball fans seem to feel it their bounden duty to rag somebody at a game. At Wisconsin it isn't so much the umpire as it is the coach. A baseball coach probably knows more about his business than the fans, otherwise he would not hold his position very long. If he sees fit to criticize one of his players, he knows what he is doing and should not be subject to the outspoken antagonistic feelings of the audience.

Then too, such cavilling shows extremely poor spirit, spirit, which is not of Wisconsin fibre. Support your coach as well as your team.

Announcement has been made that no efforts will be spared in making the Memorial Union building "homey." Elaborate plans are under way to make the interior of this structure suit every possible purpose, make it appealing, comfortable, home-like.

Certainly this is a fine step. But what of the exterior of the building? Will the same efforts be made upon it? Or will it be left to the unscrupulous, sometimes in-artistic ideas of architects? It seems evident that the exterior of the building should not be sacrificed for the interior and that any committee in charge of the planning of the building should be more than careful to keep another prostitution of architecture from cropping up on this campus.

For two years the Badger nine has prevented the Wolverines from championship. Each year Wisconsin beat Michigan one game. The team is primed to repeat this action. What about the fans?

Although the Interscholastic celebrations are virtually over—all but the shouting—a feature of the water carnival of last Saturday will take place tomorrow morning. The swimming event were postponed a week because of the temperature of the water. They may not receive the attention which they merit because of their tardiness. They will be worth witnessing, nevertheless, and should attract a deal of interest.

PROFESSIONALISM

This year the very nucleus of the baseball team was put out of service by charges of professionalism and instead of occupying first place in the standing in the Big Ten, Wisconsin today is resting easily in fourth place. Five men were ruled out of play because of this form of ineligibility.

It is too late to cry over spilled milk, but it is not too late to heed the warning for another season. The warning can not be sounded in too loud or extravagant terms.

Five men were lost to the team this year, and among them was the captain. The team has managed to do as well as it has because of the quality of the players who did not fall, because of the Wisconsin "fight" and because of the coach.

Next year, if such a calamity happens again, the fare may be worse and the disaster more calamitous.

Money is money and very tempting at that. But why anyone who has a chance of securing his letter and raising the athletic glory of Wisconsin should put honor beneath fortune is a question.

Perhaps it is that the players think that they can play in a professional class and "get away with it." If so, they are fooling themselves grossly. For the workings of the Big Ten administration are minute and far-reaching, powerful and sure. There is only the slightest chance that players will be able to pull the wool over the eyes of the Big Ten directors this summer and that chance is too slight to be taken.

It behooves those on the freshman squad and those on the Varsity who will return next year to stay out of games at which admission is charged, and in which professionals play on either team.

A POINT OF HONOR

When an honor examination system is proposed or spoken of on the campus it is met with jeers and smiles. That it would not the general consensus of opinion among the students.

As examinations draw near, this matter of the honor system takes on a serious aspect and one wonders just why it "wouldn't work."

It has been given a try throughout the East, notably at Princeton, where it has succeeded with unexpected satisfaction. The system at Princeton has been elaborate to the nth degree. Students were given perfect freedom, even allowed to leave the examination room. Students and teachers alike declared the system's efficacy.

In a few instances, the system has been tried at Wisconsin, and it is reported that here too it has worked admirably. In one large class on the Hill in which it was tried, ten of the students who had been consulted on the project voluntarily came to the teacher with the report that they had not seen a single case of cribbing. And they had voluntarily placed themselves at vantage points. These ten students, furthermore, had said before the test that they doubted the practicality of the system.

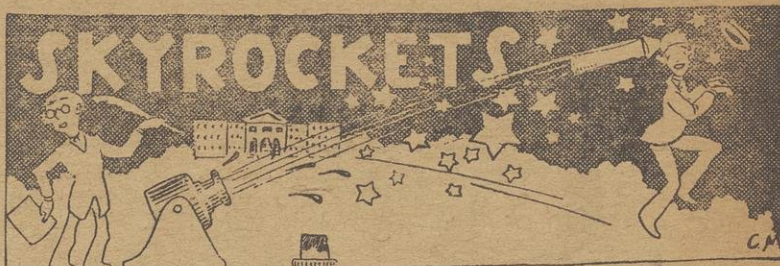

University students are expected to have sufficient honor to withstand the temptation to crib. It is true that there are exceptions. But is it not true that more cribbing will be done in a class that is closely policed, where the student will take delight in being able to "put something over," than in a class here he is unwatched and where he knows that he is on his honor?

Editors Say

EMPTY COLLEGE DEGREES

(Christian Science Monitor)
Those students who have overcome seemingly great obstacles and have striven untiringly to testimonials of their proficiency in the courses of study pursued, may be inclined to regard somewhat grudgingly the complimentary bestowal of degrees, by colleges generally, upon public officials and private citizens arbitrarily deemed worthy of such honor. With the annual commencement season hardly begun in the United States, a resumption of this practice is apparent. There seems almost to be a friendly rivalry among institutions of learning in the selection of candidates for degrees which are too often empty because they are unearned. It may be doubted if in every instance the bestowal of these favors is welcomed or appreciated, though probably in most cases it is highly regarded.

There is a good old-fashioned rule to the effect that what is worth having is worth striving for. Even distinguished public service can hardly entitle one, solely because of that service to designation as a master or doctor of letters or the arts. The impression persists that the complimentary bestowal of these degrees tends to cheapen them in the eyes of the public and to make them less appreciated by those who have devoted years of labor and sacrifice in earning

CONTEMPORARY ONE-ACT

PLAYS

CONTEMPORARY ONE-ACT PLAYS with out outline study of the one-act play, compiled by B. Rowland Lewis; Charles Schnibner's Sons.

Mr. B. Rowland Lewis, in publishing this collection of contemporary one-act plays, has done much in continuing efforts to popularize the one-act in America. For a decade or more writers of the one-act form have been carrying on an uphill struggle to make the public feel the importance of their works.

At last their endeavors are bearing fruit, for the short play has become extremely popular among not only amateur and professional players but also with the reading public.

Most of the pieces contained in this volume are of a light nature; few of them are worthy of a second or third reading except by him who would be a student or writer of the one-act play. Half of them are by authors who are practically unknown to the theatre going and reading public; they are to a large degree experiments, first products written under supervision.

Yet most of them have been staged many times and possess first rate technique. Although a number of time-honored authors such as Lady Gregory, Barrie and Tchekov are included in the book, it seems even at first glance that several serious omissions have been made. For instance, such men as Shaw, Lord Dunsany and Synge were discarded in compiling the collection.

Attention must be paid to the admirable introduction by Mr.

them. This promiscuous process has resulted, as cannot be denied, in the bestowal of many "misfit" Degrees made "ready-to-wear" may easily be unbecoming and almost grotesque. There is an eternal fitness which should be observed in all things, and the matter of college degrees and their haphazard bestowal is no exception.

Lewis, who is professor and head of the Department of English at the University of Utah. Here Mr. Lewis points the way to a method of studying the one-act. Making clearcut illustrations of his arguments and giving valuable suggestions, Mr. Lewis offers excellent aid to the student and writer of the one-act play.

THE OUTCAST, by Selma Lagerlof, translated by W. Worster; Doubleday, Page and Co.

Every now and then people experience strange coincidences in their lives which surprise them in believing that perhaps some of O. Henry's stories are not so impossible after all, and that this world is a small place in which astonishing coincidences are happening continually.

Yet when a novel comes into one's hands and one finds that it is built upon one coincidence after another, one is inclined to be skeptical as to the likeness of the story to true life.

Such a novel is "The Outcast." It is founded upon so flimsy a scaffold of happenings, which all depend upon the slightest turn of time and place, that the many unusual situations formed from this scaffold tend to make one doubt the life-likeness of such a work. We keep thinking that this and that vital condition would not be present if so-and-so had not been just where he was at precisely the right time.

Even in so small a country as Sweden so many coincidences could hardly have happened in so short a time during the lives of only a few characters.

To come down to the plot and characterization of the novel, the Swedish author has left little to be desired along these lines. Here is the story of a young Swede and of his bitter struggle to set himself up again among his fellows, who have come to despise him because of a rumor that he has tasted human flesh, and of Siernyn the young wife of a fierce minister, whose life according to an old family tradition is cursed.

The reader cannot help but feel a deep sympathy for these three people; the one, an outcast from his own society; another a young woman stricken with the fear of her jealous husband; the third fighting off the thought of his predestined fate and so in love with his wife that he makes himself misunderstood and loses her.

This membership affords an opportunity of forming acquaintances among women who have similar educational experience, and entitles one to attend sectional and national conventions where graduates of 130 colleges and universities gather to discuss educational methods and problems of the United States. Membership also entitles one to apply for scholarship awards by A. A. U. W.

Corliss Plant Bought By Ex-Governor Foss; See No Tax Burdens

RACINE, Wis. — The plant of the Brown Corliss Engine Co. at Corliss, idle six years, was taken over by Eugene N. Foss, former governor of Massachusetts, and present head of the B. S. Sturtevant Co., of Boston. The factory will reopen at once for the manufacture of heating and ventilating systems. The plant sold for $52,500.

The company at first hesitated about coming to Wisconsin, according to Ex-Governor Foss, because of reports of legislation being enacted adverse to industries, but assurances were received he said that no unjust burdens would be imposed.

Some 956 Wisconsin school teachers attended the last summer session of the University of Wisconsin.

Wets Stave Off Vote On Dry Law Repeal

Lindahl Wins In Asking For Postponement Until Next Tuesday

The state affairs committee bill providing for a state-wide referendum vote on the question of repealing the 18th amendment to the federal constitution was up for consideration in the assembly today, but the wet forces staved off action on account of the large number of absent members.

Assemblyman Lindahl of Superior, wet leader, moved that the resolution be laid over until next Thursday, the motion prevailing, 37 to 30.

The action followed the laying over of several other bills and led Assemblyman Tuffey of Grant to remark sarcastically that he could "not see why the assembly does not postpone the whole calendar until next week."

The assembly killed the Millar bill empowering the board of normal regents to grant bachelor degrees in education to normal students who complete a four-year teacher training course.

Smith Advocates Use Of Portable Pumps

Portable pumps to increase pressure at fires in cities with more than 100 hydrants is advocated by the American Water Works Superintendents' association which closed its convention at Detroit last week, according to L. A. Smith, local superintendent, who has returned to this city.

"Madison should have inaugurated this step years ago, according to the number of plugs here in the city," said Mr. Smith. "The only reason why it was not done before is the fact that the gasoline propelled pumper is a comparatively new innovation in fire fighting equipment."

The convention was attended by 1,162 engineers, 750 of them being superintendents of water plants. W. G. Kirchoff, local consulting sanitary engineer, and C. M. Baker, state sanitary engineer, attended the convention with Mr. Smith.

Excuses Won't Do In The Future, Says Chief

Chief of Police Thomas Shaughnessy today issued a warning to Madison motorists who insist on violating the city parking ordinance.

"My department is through with merely warning, I shall let the courts settle the cases after this," the chief stated.

"Streets have been lined with white paint, showing where it is permissible to park and it will be useless for drivers to offer excuses to me."

Marshals, Dry Officers Make Arrests Speedy

The U. S. marshal's forces are hot on the trail of the federal prohibition officers. The latter does the mopping up followed by the former which serves the warrants. Eight prohibition law violators were arrested at Ashland Tuesday.

The party was composed of Dan Buchanan, Joseph Hollada, Mike Carey, Frank and Conrad Mohr, J. H. Kennedy, Dan Danielson, George Smith. Twenty-seven arrests were made at Superior a week ago when the same system was employed. The warrants were served by H. P. Fuley, deputy marshal.
