PLAN VENETHIAN NIGHT TO END SPRING MEET

Two Day High School Tourney and Carnival Starts on May 26

GAGE TO BE CHAIRMAN

Venetian Night on May 27 this year, will be the culminating event of a two-day athletic and carnival program taking in the 28th annual interscholastic track meet, a tennis meet, a varsity dance, the regatta, and spring features, according to Leslie P. Gage '23, general chairman.

Heretofore the interscholastic meet has been conducted by the high school association of the state, but this year it will be held under the auspices of the athletic department of the university, and Venetian Night will be in the form of a special entertainment for the visiting high school teams and their friends.

Adopt Plan of Other Schools

This plan has been used for a number of years at Indiana and Illinois universities with uniform success. The annual spring festival at Indiana and Illinois is one of the biggest on the calendar and rivals Homecoming in its interest.

The athletic department believes that the same system can be employed at Wisconsin to great advantage. By holding the meet under the auspices of the university, the night affair takes the form of an additional special program, and at the same time the necessity of duplicating work by the various organizations conducting the affair is avoided. Centralized committees will have complete charge of the two day program and work out plans making it of the best features of the year.

CURTAIN CLUB PLAY RECALLS DAYS OF INDIANS

By William M. Sale

"Lo! the poor Indian!"

The recurrence of this phrase of many decades ago forced itself into my mind, as I left the third annual production of the Curtain club, "Red Bird," presented at the Parkway theatre last evening.

Behind W. E. Leonard's drama of early Wisconsin history, a play replete with historical data and enlivened with many spots of spirited detail, one felt somehow the slightly heavy-handed touches of propaganda for the abused red-skin which interfered with the artistic completeness of the play. The action frankly episodic rather than directly dramatic, seemed to drag in places. Each scene, while quite definitely related to every other, was a complete incident in itself.

Dialogue, not action, is the essence of "Red Bird;" dialogue, turned with a decided ear for the artistic and quite well read by the principals in the cast. The dramatist, confronted with the task of revealing the feelings of a race traditionally restrained in expressing its emotions, found it necessary to make his characters wax too loquacious, and the desire to tell a few interesting legends led Mr. Leonard to the use of devices not readily accepted.

Ralph Scheinpflug as "Red Bird" delivered his lines with feeling and with spirit. He seemed to possess the essential pride of the Indian chieftain, and interpreted a difficult part with dignity. Through the varying moods of the play his delineation was suited to his changing role. In the last act, especially, where, with only a few lines spoken chieftain, and interpreted a difficult the shackled Indian. Scheinpflug carried the part with nice restraint.

I liked, too, Prof. B. Q. Morgan as Eagle Beak, an aged Winnebago, who delivered his lines with effect and who acted with meaning. Mr. Alvin Reis as Major Whistler and Prof. Robert West, as Inspector McKenney brought into their parts a deal of vitality, and afforded in their brusque Yankee manner a decided contrast to the stolid Indian. Polls Open At 8:30 For Spring vote

The proposed amendment deciding the Cardinal shall go into the hands of the stockholders, or whether it shall continue to be a "student owned and controlled" paper, far out of the reach of the stockholders, will be voted on in the elections today.

Everything has been prepared for the elections which open at 8:30 and will continue until 5 o'clock this afternoon. The agricultural students will vote in Ag hall, engineers at the Engineering building, medics, at Science hall, commerce students at Sterling hall L and S students whose names begin with A to L at Biology building, and those from M to Z, 101 Bascom hall.

Every student will be checked in as he enters the polling place, and checked out when he leaves after voting. No ballots will be accepted unless handed to the ballot clerk, and voters cannot place their ballots in the box themselves.

In this way it is hoped that no attempts to "stuff" the boxes will even be attempted, and it will compel students to vote while in the polling place, and not permit them to take his ballot, and have it filled out by some politician.

All members of the student senate will be excused from classes, and will be present all day at assigned booths to supervise the voting.

All university women will gather at Picnic Point, May 9, for the annual S. G. A. picnic, if plans formulated at the board meeting this week materialize. Mary Baldwin, '23 is general chairman of the committees in charge.

"The annual S. G. A. spring outing is the one time during the year when all the women students get together on the general comradeship basis that is so characteristic of the Wisconsin co-ed," said Cleo Parsley, president of S. G. A. Groups will leave Lathrop hall for Picnic Point from 4:30 on.

President of Senate Believes Cardinal Would Profit By Change

PAPER HAS LOW RATING

"If you want a better Cardinal, the only possible thing that we can do is to vote today for the amendment to the Cardinal constitution," said Robert B. Stewart '22, president of the student senate, last night.

"While I was at the Mid-west student conference," Mr. Stewart continued, "I had with me some of the best issues of the Cardinal, yet I was harrassed by many for bringing such a poor paper. People all wondered why we had such an inferior college paper at Wisconsin, considering the size of the school.

Has Poor Constitution

"The only statement I could make to back the Cardinal and the only reason I could give was that the founders of the Cardinal drew up a constitution which put the Cardinal so far out of reach of the students, or the stockholders of the Cardinal corporation, that it is utterly impossible to do anything legally toward bettering the publication.

Need 3,500 Votes

"If the students or stockholders of the corporation see that something must be done to put out a better paper, they cannot do a thing unless 3,500 stockholders get out and vote for the change. It is utterly impossible to get 3,500 students out to vote by any ordinary means, and it is even doubtful when we exert every effort to put the election across.

"After hearing the caustic remarks of numerous persons at the convention in Kentucky, and after being scored for bringing a paper like the Cardinal with me, I cannot impress too strongly the necessity for having every one vote affirmatively on the amendment today."

REYNOLDS IS MEMBER COMMERCE MAG STAFF

Robert Reynolds '23, candidate for the Cardinal Board of Control, is associate editor of the Commerce magazine, instead of the Country magazine, as stated in the election booklet.

COIF ELECTS

The following men have been elected to the Order of the Coif, honorary law society:

Walter Thomas Jenks, Phillip Fox LaFollette, B. A., Alvin Matthew Loverud, B. A., Ray Thomas McCann, B. A., Carl Francis Mikkelsen, Ellis David Potter, B. A.

VOTE FOR THE AMENDMENT!
TODAY the student body faces the responsibility of turning out 3,500 strong to vote on the amendment to the constitution of The Daily Cardinal.

At present half the student body must vote on an amendment to make it legal. The proposed amendment would place the figure at 500. It would guarantee a decisive vote at any regular election.

The constitution of the Cardinal is out of date. For five years none of its affairs have been conducted legally, according to the constitution.

To remove this deplorable condition Dean Richards of the Law School recommended amendment. The Board of Control and the Student Senate have framed an amendment to make revision possible.

Vote for it.

Will Broadcast Speech of Blaine With "W" Wireless

Gov. John J. Blaine will broadcast his Arbor Day message to the people of Wisconsin over the wireless telephone at the university wireless station, beginning at 9 o'clock tonight.

The governor's speech will begin immediately after the regular program sent out from the station every Friday night.

A series of four tests is being conducted with the Pearl Harbor station in the Hawaiian Islands, just 3 miles outside of Honolulu. The tests are run from 1:30 to 2:30 on Tuesday mornings. The first was held last Tuesday and the telegraph message sent out was received by the Hawaiian station.

It is hoped during the next three tests to make the wireless telephone heard also, but it is hardly likely that this will be possible, according to Malcolm P. Hanson, chief operator of the university station.

Work is progressing rapidly on the four special new audion tubes for the new transmitter. When these are added the transmitting instruments will have double the power they now have, making the station one of the most powerful in the country.

Revise System For Soph-Senior Honor

Revised requirements for sophomore and senior honors and high honors were fixed at a recent meeting of the Letters and Science faculty. The purpose is to adjust inequalities between students taking unequal numbers of credits, Prof. L. W. Dowling said yesterday.

The new rule requires the usual 135 grade points for honors and 165 grade points for high honors for those students who take the 60 credits required in the College of Letters and Science; but when additional credits are taken, one and one-half grade points for each additional credit are required for honors, and two grade points for high honors.

MULLINGAR, Ireland — Fighting broke out today between the regular and irregular Irish Republican army forces stationed here in anticipation of Eamonn De Valera's anti-treaty meeting on Saturday. The hostilities continued for two hours, both sides using rifles and machine guns. One was killed on each side and others were wounded.

Stewart Returns After Attending Mid-West Confab

More Than 30 Colleges Send Student Representatives to Lexington

"More than 30 colleges and universities sent representatives to the mid-west conference at Lexington, Kentucky, on April 20, 21, and 22," declared Robert B. Stewart '23, president of the student senate, who returned from the conference, Sunday.

"No university in the Mid-West had all disciplinary control in the hands of the students; We cannot divorce ourselves from the faculty, for they have as much to say as we have. Their name creates the name of the school. Cooperation between the students and the faculty ought to be a mutual proposition."

"Student publications are effectively controlled at Michigan university, and the system employed there is one of the best in cooperation, according to Stewart. There is a central publication board which hires a permanent secretary and treasurer. The efficient handling of finance and advertising gives a surplus amount of money which is held over from year to year.

In a short time a university press, student owned and controlled, will be established from the surplus funds. In this way the publications have an element of stability and continuity.

"Wisconsin is the only school where talk of hazing is used as a method of enforcing the wearing of green caps. Illinois distributes pamphlets about the traditions to all the high schools, and the freshmen are educated in this matter before they come to the university.

"Both Michigan and Illinois reported no trouble over the wearing of caps, and in both institutions distinctive headgear was reported to be voluntarily worn by each class.

"Our system of self-government was declared admirable if it works. The conference was in unanimous favor of strong cooperation between the faculty and students in all governments."

Newlywed Couple Must Leave School

Robert Johnott '24 and his bride, formerly Doris Moses '23, university student who eloped on February 1 to Rockford, Ill., and kept their marriage secret until this week, were required to withdraw from the university after a conference with Deans F. Louise Nardin and Scott H. Goodnight, yesterday afternoon.

"Mr. and Mrs. Johnott were not required to withdraw on account of their marriage or for keeping it secret, though the university does not encourage elopements," said Dean Goodnight last night. "The reason for the faculty action is the conduct of the couple since their marriage."

Johnott declared after the conference that he would carry the matter to the faculty committee on appeals.

AVOIDING unpleasant personalities has ceased to be a virtue, following Adrian Scolten's communication in last evening's State Journal.

Scolten resigned as president of the Board of Control at the unanimous request of the editorial and business staffs, unopposed by the remaining four members of the Board of Control.

Let the facts that have thus far been withheld be made known:

First: As the paid publicity agent of campus organizations he has attempted to use his position to secure the publication of publicity stories in place of the news, the lack of which he so deplures.

Second: He has repeatedly usurped the power of the whole board, without its knowledge, to make demands on staff members; and has done this in direct opposition to a ruling of the board to the effect that all demands should be made directly upon the managing editor or business manager. Scolten states that the board should control the paper. Some discrepancy here.

Third: Last June, Scolten, as a board member, voted for himself to be this year's managing editor. He now deplures the fact that high staff members, in whose appointment he had a part, are not journalism students. He, himself, is enrolled as "L. and S. 3."

Fourth: He has consistently opposed women's representation on the board, refusing to consider the appointment of a woman to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Miss Caryl Parkinson last January. In the present communication, Scolten contends that the paper "is not broadly representative of student life and of university interests."

Scolten contends that communications attempting to state his case have been suppressed. Presumably, he refers to the one which is published today signed by Max Peterson, a faculty member. Lack of space alone has prevented the publication of this communication up to this time. Whether faculty communications are deemed news, no one knows; but it must always remain, that so long as The Cardinal must continue in its present size, such articles can be published only when space permits.

It is regrettable that the paper cannot find better printing facilities in the city of Madison to make for a larger and better printed student newspaper. But present conditions are accepted because they are the only possible conditions. This is a fact known alike to the board and the faculty advisory committee, both of whom have worked, as the staff has, to improve this matter.

To contend that the serious achievements of the university are not given substantial consideration without naming any specific lack of attention paid to any student endeavor leaves little room for a direct reply. Scolten states that publicity gets the inside track, without realizing, perhaps, that the success or failure of student organizations and their achievement depends primarily upon the support offered them by the student paper. This support comes in the form of the publicity story, if one desires to term it thus.

However, athletics, a major branch of student achievement, has found this year for the first time a full page devoted to its interests; many columns have been devoted to engineering and agricultural exploits, and a special representative of these two schools has been appointed for the first time; the books and works of college professors have been given space in the new Sunday Feature Section; and each activity has been met with support as it takes its place in the university calendar. The Memorial Union drive, perhaps the biggest school undertaking for many years, received column after column of "publicity."

Places on the Cardinal staff are open to all who desire to compete, and recommendations are made purely on the basis of service rendered. The paper is not an organ of the Course in Journalism, and it is not the desire of Professor Bleyer, director of the course, that it should be. Surely, positions held by students from other colleges tend to make the paper more truly representative of the whole university, rather than a publication by a group of a few hundred.

Improved methods on the business staff of The Cardinal were necessary and were adopted. To the former treasurer of the board, Ralph Balliet, must be given the credit for many suggestions which have been of material aid in placing the paper upon a sounder financial basis. However, Balliet has continually stated that his investigations only exposed loose practices, without the slightest indications of dishonesty. These practices have fortunately been corrected.

Motives need not be implied for Scolten's actions in the past or his present stand. They may have been the best. But they have undoubtedly worked for a lack of harmony between staff and board, which is always the ultimate aim of both bodies.

IGNORING FOREIGNERS

The university boasts of its large number of foreign students. Every year a list is published, its purpose being to point with pride at the many nationalities represented within the walls of the university. And yet little attempt is made on the part of the student body to make the campus pleasant for its alien members.

Carl Sandburg, Chicago poet who is to give a lecture-recital in Lathrop hall May 3, will give readings from his books, "Chicago Poems," "Cornhuskers," and "Smoke and Steel."

Mr. Sandburg is a typical Middle-Western poet. In his two books "Cornhuskers," and "Smoke and Steel," he portrays the rural and city life of the Middle-West expressing their ideals through the strength of his own personality.

Some of the institutions that have been entertained by Mr. Sandburg this year are: University of Chicago, University of Indiana, Minnesota University, University of Iowa, Cornell College, and Mount Holyoke College.

Arctic Explorer Speaks on May 5

Vilhjalmur Stefansson, Arctic explorer of world fame and recognized authority in his field, who speaks in the University gym May 5th, is illustrating his lecture with screen pictures in order to prove his claims that the frozen north, instead of being frozen, is largely a green and fertile country.

Annihilating all existing ideas of arctic geography, the explorer gives an account of the north which is a revelation with respect to the economic possibilities of the arctic regions. He has drawn revised maps which have been accepted and approved by international geographic societies.

"The Forensic board feels when it brings Stefansson that it is bringing someone of distinguished educational merit; and in setting the price, it was decided that it should be low, so as to be within reach of every student," said R. B. Stewart, president. "We are anxious to have the students turn out and show their appreciation of a serious, yet intensely interesting form of entertainment."

Tickets are being sold by mail only. All seats are reserved: prices are 50 and 75 cents. All orders must be sent to R. B. Stewart, 723 Conklin Place.

Did they lather with Soapstone in the Neolithic Age?

CAVE men had whiskers. Then one day John W. Troglodyte hacked them off with a hunk of sharp bronze and discovered—that men had faces.

Faces are more popular than whiskers. Williams' helped. The J. B. Williams Company made the first real shaving soap ever manufactured in this country.

Jones '77 used Williams'—no other. And now Jones '22 uses one of the finest Williams' Shaving Soap that Williams knows how to make—Williams' Shaving Cream.

Lather? Rather. Rich and thick and quick. Once over is usually enough if you use Williams'.

You'll like the smooth, cool "feel" of your face afterward. No complexion soap is more wholesome.

King of Sweden Near Injury in Auto Crash

GENEVA—The narrow escape from serious injury of King Gustav of Sweden in the automobile accident at Grenoble, France, yesterday, was due to the fact that he was sitting in the chauffeur's seat, it was explained on his arrival here. Physicians found only contusions. The automobile was struck by a machine owned by a Geneva banker. The king's chamberlain was gravely injured. Gustav has left for Baden, Germany, where he will join Queen Victoria.

Communications

(Reynold's Platform.)

Editor of the Daily Cardinal:

In view of the communications in yesterday's Cardinal and State Journal, I have been asked to state my position as a candidate for the Cardinal Board of Control.

Having served on the Cardinal staff for nearly three years, I realize the faults of the paper as only a member of the staff can realize them. As a staff member I know the mechanical limitations which hinder the Cardinal in competition with other papers.

Night editors of the Cardinal work until after 3 o'clock in the morning, when the paper goes to press. Whether the paper is filled with university news by that time is purely a matter of the mechanical facilities. If sufficient university news is in type by this time, it fills the paper. If not, the remaining space is of necessity filled with type left over from the Capital Times.

To better the Cardinal, betterment of these printing facilities is needed. This is a difficult obstacle, as Madison printing facilities are limited.

Co-operation among Board of Control, staff, and advisory committee is the only way to overcome this obstacle. I stand for co-operation.

The question of control by the Board of Control is not an issue. By the constitution the board controls. The board has controlled. Nobody denies that it should control. If I am elected, I shall endeavor to keep it in control.

But control does not mean tactless and arbitrary domination. To be effective, the board should work with the staff, through the managing editor and business manager, as the directors of any corporation work with their executives.

I believe that the news policy should be to present the worthwhile activities of students and faculty as well as personal news, and that undesirable publicity should be eliminated. The editorial policy should be an expression of the better judgment of the Board of Control and the leaders of the editorial staff.

On these principles I ask for election.

Robert L. Reynolds '23.

FAVORS BOARD POWER

The editorial in Thursday's Cardinal exhorting the student body to interest themselves in the coming elections is most timely. It is unfortunate that this plea for enlightened voting should be so permeated with terminological inexactitude as to facts of the Cardinal Board. Fairness to such intelligent inquiry urges a frank criticism of certain of these points.

The statement that the Articles of Incorporation have mystified the board is amusing. It may be called into serious question. An honest inquiry would disclose that it is not the meaning of these articles that has bewildered some members of the staff, but rather the fact that the board has tried to put the articles into effect. If the articles themselves do bewilder any of the staff it is a pity that they do not get help in interpreting them.

The statement that proposed changes in these articles attempt "to describe more accurately the division of authority" is at least confusing. That there is no division of authority is clear in the articles of constitution. The Board of Control has the authority entirely. They appoint the staff; they have the authority to stipulate the conduct of the business and editorial offices by the staff; they define the policy of the paper. Such authority may in its exercise be odious to the staff,—if they do not attend strictly to business it is likely to be.

The articles specifically state that the president of the Board has general supervision of the affairs of the corporation. The author of the articles, subsequent to their formulation becoming president of the board, did see fit to compel the staff to strict obedience to his orders. It needs no profound legal

Women Athletes to Revise Constitution

"Closer organization of the Women's National Athletic association secured by having a national secretary and a national standard pin, as well as by amending the constitution so that only colleges which have written constitutions complying with that of the national conference may be admitted as members, will be recommended to the national organization," said Miss Mabel Winter, who has just returned from the mid-west conference.

Intercollegiate competition for women was discussed by the delegates from 29 schools represented at the conference which was held in Boulder, Colorado. In accordance with former action, such competition was not favored.

"Training rules, it was decided, shall be left to the individual associations, although each school in the conference must observe its training rules," said Miss Winter.

Delegates from the University of Wisconsin were: Mabel Winter '22, official delegate, Belle Knights '24, unofficial delegate, and Marjorie Severance '23.

training to see that the students elect the Cardinal Board of Control as directors of the corporation. In this board then reside all authority and responsibility.

In view of this fact the statement that too frequent rows have occurred between the board and the staff is peculiar. If the statement is true it is amazing that the staff have not been dismissed and replaced by those who will honestly and capably and diligently execute the policies defined by the student-elected Board of Control. Any other course than this, "plainty militates against the best interests of the paper and the school."

Comedy and Clever Acts Make French Play Very Pleasing

For those who understood it and for those who did not, the French play presented last night by students and faculty members in the department of romance languages, was good entertainment. It will be repeated tonight by the same cast in Lathrop concert room at 7:30.

Good comedy and clever situations make Moliere's "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme," a delightful play. Unusual costumes and the acting of those who took part were largely responsible for the success of the production. The whole thing was carried through without the usual amateur hitches.

J. Stuart Hamilton playing the part of the ambitious, simple-minded plebeian, furnished most of the comedy. His part furnished excellent opportunity for true comedy and he took good advantage of it. Hamilton's accent is wll-nigh perfect and he refrains from overdoing his part. The audience enjoyed his lessons in fencing, dancing, and singing and his initiation into the claudine mysteries of Turkish knighthood.

During the Turkish scene, Julian Teller as the master of ceremonies got away with some good burlesque. He wielded the scimitar with effect, all the while murmuring orinetal lingo which translated meant, "I dub thee knight." His quick change from the servile role of valet to the important position of Moslem interpreter demonstrated Teller's versatility.

John Irwin playing the dual role of the lover of the bourgeois' daughter and the music master who tried to cultivate the plebeian's ear for music, provided the more serious phase of the presentation. Hul-Cee Acton made a dignified and convincing nobleman in his suit for the hand of the marquise, Helen Smith. His ease on the stage was appropriate to his part as a confidence man of a few centuries ago.

If the portrayal of French women of the 17th century was true to life there were some attractive women living during Moliere's time. Lillian Wengler as Lucille was worthy of the elaborate Mahammedan frame-up. Helen Smith, Marguerite Pons, Dora V. Ingraham, and Janet Epstein, acted the other feminine roles in capable fashion.

For those who came in late it might be said that the play opens with Monsieur Jourdain, a nouveau riche, attempting to get culture by the short course method. He is so pleased with his success that he refuses to let his daughter marry her lover who is not a noble. Meanwhile he is cleverly duped by the smooth Dorante. Cleonte the lover impersonates a Turkish mogul and marries the girl after winning her father by the donation of a Turkish title.

The development of the plot was smooth, but the play dragged in places because of the lack of action and the difficulty of maintaining much interest with French conversation alone.

Much credit is due to Mrs. Jeanne H. Greenleaf who had charge of direction.

NEWS OF CONFERENCE SPORTS

MICHIGAN TO BATTLE HERE ON SATURDAY

Varsity Prepares to Keep Lead in Conference

Coach Guy S. Lowman has been sending his baseball squad through a series of stiff practices since Tuesday in preparation for the battle against Michigan, which is scheduled to take place here on Saturday afternoon. The outcome of this game will decide whether or not the Badgers will remain at the head of the conference percentage column.

With the weather permitting, Coach Lowman an opportunity to smooth away a few more of the rough spots from his machine, the Badgers should be in fine condition for the game with the Wolverines. The infield is composed of real ball players who have shown themselves of a calibre competing with anything in the midwest, and the outer gardens are covered by men who can field as well as hit.

Pitchers Are Ready

Captain Paddock will probably be the hurling choice for Saturday, since he was spared the possibility of having to work against Chicago last Tuesday. Hoffman and Christianson are likewise ready for duty, the former putting up a wonderful exhibition against Notre Dame. He has plenty of stuff and is capable of hurling a good game if the weather is at all warm. Christianson had not a chance to display his wares yet this season, but he established a firm reputation as a moundsman last year.

Combacker Plays Second

The men will line up against Michigan the same as in former games, with the exception of the second baseman. Foy and Skaife appeared to have the inside track on the position until last Monday, when Combacker drew the assignment and played a clever game. The return of Ruediger has caused Dugan to be shifted to the outfield, allowing Christianson to stand on the reserve hurling list.

Much of Michigan's hopes in this season's pennant race are being centered on a pitcher named Milton Dixon. His work is said to be even better than it was a year ago, when he was partly responsible for the splendid record made by the Wolverines. Fischer's whole nine, however, is composed of players who are capable of giving Dixon air-tight support in addition to knowing how to handle the stick.

Frat Track Meet Takes Place Saturday

The first event of the annual interfraternity track meet will begin at 4 o'clock, Saturday afternoon, instead of 2 o'clock as originally planned, according to an announcement made by Coach Mead E. Burke yesterday.

Many Greek letter squads have entered the meet and some close competition will be seen before a winner is decided. Pi Kappa Alpha, Sigma Nu, Theta Xi, and Theta Chi are four favorites which are sure to finish up in first division.

Drake Relays Have Extensive Program In Meet This Year

(Special to Daily Cardinal.)
DES MOINES, Ia.—Twice as many events, exclusive of preliminaries, will be included in the Drake relay games this year as were run in the 1921 meet, according to the schedule of events issued yesterday by K. L. Wilson, director of athletics at Drake university.

The 1921 meet consisted of 17 events, while this year's games will include 34 final events and 10 preliminaries. Seventeen events which were not included in the meet last year will be run this year in addition to a large number of preliminaries.

Events to appear this year for the first time on a Drake relay program will be the 440 yard low hurdles, the 440 yard relay, in two sections, another section of the university one mile relay, the pole vault, broad jump discus throw, high jump, shot put, javelin throw and the special match mile race, in addition to six new high school events in which competition will be limited to prep teams from schools of a small enrollment.

Net Stars Enter College Tourney

Thirty-two tennis players entered the annual intercollege tournament which will begin today. Entrants must play off their first round matches by next Tuesday, or they will be eliminated by default.

Some of the best racquet wielders at Wisconsin are slated to compete in the tourney. Kenneth Hamlin, freshman from Arizona, is slated to meet Henika, another expert player. Hamlin finished well up in the frosh tourney last fall.

The schedule of matches announced by Coach George E. Linden follows:

Stebbins vs. Meyer; Larson vs. Deutsch; Stehr vs. Porth; Robinson vs. Logan; Hamlin vs. Henika; Kildow vs. Watson; Erdman vs. Crane; Ennor vs. Burnquist; Bennett vs. Hentzen; Baker vs. F. W. Johnson; Dunlap vs. Emmons; Peebles vs. Meng; Gil vs. Buckstaff; Campbell vs. Winston; Patterson vs. Gilson; Balken vs. Giessel.

Theta Xis Defeat Theta Delt Team

Scoring four runs in the first inning, the Theta Xi baseball team defeated Theta Delta Chi, 4 to 1, in an interfraternity game played yesterday.

Emanuel hurled an effective game for the winners and after his team went into the lead during the first session he was unhittable when hits meant runs. Mohr did the receiving for the Theta Xi outfit.

Hildebrand, who started on the mound for Theta Delta Chi, was chased to cover before the game ended. Nolte handled the Theta twirlers.

Roy French played in the outfield for the losing nine. He nipped long flies in big-league fashion, and although somewhat weak with the willow, was one bright spot in the Theta Delt's defeat.

C. A. Zilisch Named Sons of Veterans Head

C. A. Zilisch has been elected commander of the Sons of Veterans. He is also department commander of the United Spanish War Veterans of the state. He is a grandson of a civil war veteran and his election is expected to closely cement the relations between the two organizations. Commander Zilisch and H. G. Vogel were elected camp delegates on the Memorial day committee.

Alexius Baas Songs Go on Radio Tonight

Several songs to be sung by Alexius Baas, baritone, will be broadcast by the university broadcasting station at Sterling hall Friday night.

Twelve Track Men Leave to Compete In Drake Relays

Twelve track and field men left yesterday afternoon for Drake, Ia., where they will compete in the annual Drake college relay carnival, today and tomorrow. Preliminaries in the special events will be held this afternoon.

Coach Thomas E. Jones selected the following men to make the trip: Sundt, Hammann, Stolley, Platten, Wille, Ellingson, Ramsey, Hohlfeld, Wade, Spetz, Johnson, and McClure.

Two Badger stars, Capt. "Al" Knollin and Dale Merrick will compete at the Penn classic, while their mates are picking up points and medals at Drake.

Stars from all universities in the Middle West and many from the Pacific coast will perform in the Mid-Western annual event. The Occidental college team arrived Wednesday from Los Angeles with seven men, including Clifford Argue, foremost dash man and jumper on the coast, with the exception of the brilliant Paddock.

Guy Sundt will undoubtedly pick up several points in the field events. He was bested only by "Ole" Dahl, Northwestern, at the Twelfth annual Big Ten indoor track meet held in March.

Bradley, Kansas Pentathlon champion, will enter in several field events against Sundt. "Pete" Platten, high jumper, should be able to hold his own against any other entrants. He has defeated most of the Conference stars.

Lawyers Entertain Wisconsin Justices

More than 200 members of the Wisconsin Law school association attended the seventh annual banquet held at the city Y. M. C. A. last evening at which the entire Supreme Court of Wisconsin and members of the faculty were guests of honor. Prof. W. H. Page acted as toastmaster and Justice Charles D. Crownhart, Madison, was principal speaker.

"The lawyer dominates in the world today," said Justice Crownhart in his talk on "The Lawyer and the Law-Maker." "He is the author of our constitutions, the interpreter of our laws, and the guardian of our lives. Although he has been the butt of much wit and criticism he continues to be elected to our legislatures in numbers far out of proportion to other professions."

CANOEISTS APPLY TO BURSAR FOR LOCKERS

G. L. Gilbert, bursar, has announced that he will receive applications for canoe lockers up until May 1. The applications should be accompanied by $10, the rent for one year. Just now all of the 150 lockers are filled, but probable vacancies that will occur on May 1, will make it possible for new occupants to move in then.

CADET INSPECTION IS SET FOR MAY 17

The general staff inspection of the cadet corps by seven officers of the regular army will take place between May 17 and 20. The corps will also be reviewed by Maj. Gen. George Bell, Jr., commandant of the sixth corps area, in connection with the annual president's review on May 30, according to an announcement made by Maj. John S. Wood Monday.

The cadet corps will do three hours extra work on Friday afternoons from this week until the week of the inspection, according to Maj. Wood. The men will be given credit for drill during the following two weeks and will be excused until the president's review.

Memorial exercises in honor of Wisconsin men who died in service will be held in connection with the combined review on May 30. The entire cadet corps will take part in the program.

TENNIS TEAM PLAYS MILTON SQUAD TODAY

Last Year's Veterans Are Nucleus For 1922 Machine

The Wisconsin tennis team opens its 1922 schedule this afternoon when they stack up against the strong Milton college squad. Although somewhat handicapped by rainy weather, the men have been on the courts every night this week and are in fair condition for the opening of the season.

Two veterans are back this year, and will constitute the foundation on which George E. Linden has built his 1922 Varsity machine. Ray C. Gotfredson has had two years of Conference tennis, while "Tommy" Tredwell is a veteran of one year.

These men formed the doubles team the latter part of the 1921 season and proved themselves to be a formidable pair. According to Coach Linden, Gotfredson and Tredwell will, in all probability, play the single matches against Milton this afternoon, and also one doubles match.

MARANVILLE MAY BE SWITCHED TO SECOND, REPORT

From Hot Springs comes the rumor that Rabbit Maranville, veteran shortstop and considered one of the best shortfield men the game has produced, may be displaced at that position this year by a younger gent, one "Pie" Traynor. The rumor goes that the Pirate bosses have decided that Traynor's brilliant playing last year and the fact that he is a youngster still coming up outweigh Maranville's call on the job. The Rabbit would go to second.

better than ever before," said Gage. The university will be host to hundreds of high school pupils and teachers on May 26 and 27, and we want to give them the best to be had in entertainment. It will have much to do with interesting the prospective students in their university and undoubtedly induce many of them to attend next year."

The various committees and sub-committees who will have charge of the events have been appointed, and the names of the members will be announced in the near future.

Red Bird Recalls Old Indian Days

As Rabbit Mouth, Mr. J. R. Sterret made a fairly successful sneering arouser of trouble, though his actions lacked restraint on occasions. Miss Beatrice Humiston added a pleasing touch of color to the piece, though her role offered but slender opportunities.

The setting of the play, handled by Mr. Frank Riley and Prof. W. H. Varnum was well affected. The ominous lighting of the blue and silver drop in the second act presaged the right sense of impending danger, while the fourth act, a dismal prison room lighted by the deep blue of the sky seen through the bars, gave the proper atmosphere for the final tragedy of the piece. All in all, "Red Bird" was a creditable performance with the difficult task of writing, staging and presenting an entirely new play.

Vote "Yes" Today on Amendment.

A plan to organize an alumni association for the law school was outlined by Philip LaFollette '22. This association would consist of all graduates of the law school.
