Commerce School Secures Positions For Its Graduates

Although the commerce department places its greatest emphasis, according to C. L. Jamison, who is in charge of securing positions for graduate commerce students, upon helping employers to find good employees rather than in helping students to find good employers, the course in commerce aids its graduates materially in obtaining positions.

The graduate files with Mr. Jamison an application blank which includes his photograph and a record of his university scholarship and activities. These blanks are mailed to companies who apply for help, and through the aid of these records men are often hired without appearing in person.

Last year, 50 companies sent representatives here looking for employees. The commerce department arranges to have its students meet the men in whose companies they might be interested, and thus many students are either hired on the spot or later receive offers of employment by mail.

The positions obtained offer salaries of $125 to $150 per month, and at present the Bell Telephone company and its subsidiaries employs the greatest number of Wisconsin commerce graduates.

GLASS MANUFACTURE SHOWN IN PHOTOPLAY

The "Romance of Glass," an industry dating back to 2423 B. C., was shown in a moving picture at the Chemistry building yesterday afternoon.

The movie gave all the phases of the glass industry from the time that the Phoenicians landed on the coast of Palestine and accidentally discovered that melting soda and sand would give a transparent fluid including the discovery of glass blowing by Egyptians in 1500 B. C., to the invention of the Owen machine which uses 200 tons of molten glass at one time and makes them into jars.

The pictures were shown by courtesy of the Ball Glass Manufacturing company and the Ford Motor Car company.

PROF. JOHNSON DESCRIBES DAZZLING CLAVILUX RECITAL

"It is the most astonishing and fascinating thing I have ever seen," Prof. Gertrude Johnson of the speech department, speaking of the clavilux recital she saw recently in New York, told members of the National Collegiate Players at a luncheon yesterday.

Professor Johnson was in the audience of 3,000 who saw Thomas Wilfred play his color organ at Aeolian hall in New York city the night after Christmas.

"Everybody came to the performance very much skeptical of Mr. Wilfred's ability to entertain, it seemed," Professor Johnson said, "but before he had finished his first number, gasps of wonder and delight were furnishing a regular accompaniment for each new image of color and motion he played on the screen.

"Between the numbers of the first group, many involuntarily clapped their hands. In an instant the whole crowd was hushing and shushing them as though they were interrupting a great singer. It was perfectly amazing, particularly since there was no sound whatever that they could interrupt.

"Mr. Wilfred actually painted pictures on the screen before us. He sat, talking intimately and interestingly to us, while he painted first a horizon, then cliffs on an ocean's shore, and then light on the ocean. As a final stroke he set the waves in motion. The crowd went into ecstasies and called him back time after time."

Mr. Wilfred will play his clavilux here next Tuesday night in the Madison high school auditorium. A block of reserved seat tickets will be on sale in Bascom hall this morning for $1.50 and $1. The remaining ones are on sale at Hook Brothers' Music store.

TWO FRESHMEN WIN HIGH HONORS

Engineering School Confer Scholastic Ratings For
First Semester

Two freshmen engineers have received high honor ratings in the engineering school for the first semester and nine have received honor ratings. The ratings are compiled on the basis of credits earned. Those who earn 2 1/2 points per credit receive high honor rating, those who earn 2 1/4 or more grade points per credit receive honor ratings.

The two freshmen who have received high honor ratings are William B. Murphy and R. K. Nel'or. The nine who have been posted on the Engineering building bulletin board as earning honor ratings are W. H. Fuldner, J. G. Baker, O. E. Brown, B. A. Fairweather, H. Louis White, H. S. Merz, S. W. Sewell, J. H. Forrester, and Arno T. Lenz.

In addition to these, the names of 36 other freshmen have also been posted on the bulletin board, who though not earning the honor rating, are ranked in the upper 15 percent of the class in regard to standings.

W. S. G. A. HAS DISPLAY ABOUT LIBRARY WORK

A display describing library work as a vocation for women is posted on the W. S. G. A. vocational board in Lathrop hall. A large map of the United States shows the location of the graduates in 28 states, Canada, the Panama Canal zone, and the Philippine islands. Statistics concerning the requirements for entrance to the Library school, the courses offered, degrees granted, and the possibilities for employment in the library field are posted. Each week a different phase of the opportunities for women in the business world at large are posted by the W. S. G. A. vocational committee so that the women of the university may know the fields that are open and prepare for a profession while in school, according to Mary Devine '25, chairman.

PROGRAM FOR SUMMER SESSION OUT JAN. 17

Students who are interested in the summer school program for the coming summer session, and want to know in advance what courses will be offered, before they make out their programs for next semester can get information in regard to the summer school program from the heads of the departments in question, or at Dean Goodnight's office. It will be possible to obtain the summer session schedules at the registrar's office tomorrow.

EUTHENICS CLUB WILL GIVE BANQUET FEB. 12

An anniversary banquet will be held by the Euthenics club February 12, according to Aileen Theisen '25, president. No more meetings of the club will be held this semester.

Industrial Girls Speak of Future Plans at Banquet

"Co-operation is always, no matter where it is, no more than a give and take proposition," said Miss Eva Kronquist, an industrial girl, who spoke at the industrial banquet, for the university and town women, at the Y. W. C. A. last night.

About a hundred and seventy-five guests were served at the banquet. Miss Margaret Hugo acted as toastmistress, and Miss Gladys Comstak '25 welcomed the girls. Miss Alice Corl responded with a wish that the girls would become better acquainted. After which Miss Inger Sven, an industrial girl, told some of her experiences while attending the university's summer school last summer.

The plan for the following summer, including plans that 25 girls, whose expenses would be paid by their community, would be sent by communities of the middle western states. It is hoped that at least six girls can be sent from Madison. These plans were outlined by Miss Lois Bacon.

Penalties Meted to 2 Freshmen By Disciplinary Body

Penalties of three and five credits were given to two students in the College of Letters and Science by the disciplinary committee at its weekly meeting Wednesday night.

In one of the cases a freshman had handed in a theme which had been graded by the instructor and handed back for corrections. In returning the theme the student by mistake handed in a theme from which he had copied his own.

The other case was that of a first year woman who changed the date on her medical excuse in order to make it coincide with the date on which she had a written quiz.

The committee refused to reinstate a man suspended from the university a year ago for dishonesty. His application for re-entrance was read at the meeting, but was rejected.

The W. S. G. A. is holding a dancing party for all university women tonight in Lathrop parlors. A specialty dance will be given.

Unidentified Youth Found in Women's House on Langdon

An unidentified man was found in a woman's rooming house operated by Mrs. A. V. Luckey, at 630 Langdon at 9:30 last night. The man began to climb the stairs when one of the women students who was coming down from the third floor suddenly noticed him. When asked what he was doing there he said that he was looking at the pipes and then ran and jumped out of the window.

An examination of the premises showed that he had brought a ladder and used it in climbing to the first floor. He left the ladder there after escaping.

No description of the man's face could be given. He was said to be very well dressed and approximately 20 years old.

Prof. E. E. Swinney expects the opening concert to be a fair indication of the prospects of the club for the year. The regular appearance of the club in Madison will be at the usual time, early in March.

The concert will open at 8:15 o'clock. The program will consist of 10 ensemble numbers by the Glee club with violin numbers by Miss Erna Duncan, a series of solos by Eugene Leonardson '26, and piano numbers by Robert Nethercut '25.

The program is:

PYTHIA PRESENTS ONE- ACT COMEDY TONIGHT

A one-act comedy will be presented for Pythia by several members of the club tonight at 7 o'clock in 35 music hall. The cast is composed of Elizabeth Nelson '25, Kathryn Bigham '26, Annabel Douglas '25, and Rose McKee '27. The play will be given in costume and has required the efforts of the cast for the past three weeks. After the play tryouts will be held to fill the positions on the team to debate Castalia which was left vacant by the withdrawal of Eileen Blackey '25. Miss Blackey has been placed on the university debating team, which necessitates her dropping her place as captain of the Pythia team.

CHESS CLUB CONTEST POSTPONED TO JAN. 17

The faculty-student chess meet has been postponed to Saturday, Jan. 17, at 7:30 o'clock in the University Y. M. C. A. Both sides will be represented by a team of five players. Chances of another victory for the student team has been weakened by the absence from school of R. U. Reel, the state champion, according to F. G. Kojis, Med. 2, secretary and treasurer of the club.

PROFESSOR HAGEN POINTS RETURN TO HELLENIC STAGE

Defect of Modern Stage is Separation of Actors From Audience

That the present stage is void of architecture and is constructed on the painter's point of view, was the contention of Prof. Oskar Hagen, Carl Schurz professor of history of Renaissance art, in his talk last night on "Stagecraft and Its Antecedents" in the auditorium of the Biology building.

"The painter has entered the stage of today and is the major actor, however, modern stagecraft is again tending toward permanent architectural decoration and is at the roots of the primitive stage of the ancient Greeks.

Old Stage Spirit Absent

"The present theater does not have the spirit of the stage of long ago. The marvelous scenery and lighting effects among other things distract the minds of the audience. The axiom of the present stage is, that, to produce illusion you must blunt the senses; to produce art you must stimulate them."

The Renaissance theater, or the theater of today, displaced the Hellenic theater due to the overpowering influence of the Renaissance movement, which desired the destruction of every remnant of medievalism, and the reestablishment of the ancient art.

Return to Hellenic Predicted

As evidence that the "present time will abandon the Renaissance theater and return to the Hellenic," Professor Hagen pointed out that the Hellenic theater with its vitality and organization lasted for 1,500 years and satisfied all requirements, while the present day theater is but 300 years old and already there is a decided movement for a change, showing that there is something lacking in the make-up of the Renaissance theater.

"This defect in the modern stage," Professor Hagen explained, "is the definite separation between the actors and the audience. This separation is marked by the noticeable tendency to prevent the enthusiasm of the drama from being grasped by the audience. What is needed is an inseparable unit of dramatic feeling, which could be produced by a oneness of actors and audience."

EQUESTERIAN GROUP INITIATES 8 MEMBERS

At a recent meeting of the Prince of Wales club petitions for membership were accepted from eight co-eds who ride. They were Alice Lyon '28, Catherine Clauson '27, Mary Louis Barter '26, Alice Laboulet '27, Florence Perry '27, Dorothy Bateman '27, Charlotte Johnson '28, and Dorothy Potter '28. The new members will be formally initiated after the time of probation has expired. At the meeting a committee was also appointed to decide upon a uniform for the girls riding in the exhibition drill at the Little International. This committee is composed of Ellen Dryden '27 and Eugenia McQuatters '26.

ROPER WINS $3 PRIZE IN NEWSPAPER CLASS

Howard W. Roper '25 received the first prize of $3 offered by the class in special feature writing for the best article written from an interview with another member of the class. His title was, "Mamma said, 'I didn't raise my girl to be a journalist.'" "Interviewing according to Bleyer," by Lorraine Krentz '25, won the second prize of $2. Ruth Stevens '26 and Dorothy Johnson '26 won the third and fourth prizes of $1 each.

BADGER TRACKMEN LEAVE FOR I. A. C. MEET, OUT TO WIN

Will Be First Test of the Season For Wisconsin
Runners

After taking a light workout last night Coach Jones, Coach Burke and eight Badger athletes are all set to leave at 1 o'clock this afternoon for Chicago to compete in the collegiate relay and special events at the Illinois Athletic club games.

Just how the Badgers will fare at this meet is not certain as several factors may enter in to prevent the Wisconsin tracksters from making the best possible showing. In the first place the men have only had a week and a half to get in shape since the Christmas holidays. Secondly, the Badgers have never run on a board track before and this may have a bad affect on the men.

Seven Teams Enter

Besides Wisconsin there will be teams there from Northwestern, Illinois, DePauw, Butler, Notre Dame and Chicago universities. Chicago and Northwestern will have especially strong two mile quartets and will force the Badgers to go the limit all the way in the collegiate two mile relay for a victory.

Pat McAndrews will face a fast field of starters in the special handicap 60 yard dash. Caffee, Canadian flash, who ran for Canada in the Olympics last summer, will be among the men that McAndrews will have to beat to the tape. It is not known just how much of a handicap the Badger speedster will be given in this event. He is not in the best of condition at present and unless his handicap is fairly large the most he will get out of the race will be the experience.

3 Shoot from Scratch

Herb Schwarze will be shooting the shot from scratch in the handicap shot put event. Along with the Wisconsin ace at scratch will be Pope, a Washington university shot putter, and Schildauer, an old Illinois university athlete. Some of the men in this event have a handicap as high as six feet six inches and although there is little doubt but that Schwarze will make the best heave, but one of these men with the big handicap may win the event.

Last year Schwarze won the event from scratch after a close battle with Lieb of Notre Dame, who had a four inch handicap. The big fellow is determined to win the event again this year.

It is not known who will make up the opposition that Harry Hill and Earl Ellison will have to face in the 300 yard dash and mile run respectively. Of all the men competing in the events for Wisconsin, Hill is in the best condition of any of them.

Petaja for Hilberts

A last minute decision by Coach Jones puts John Petaja in place of Bert Hilberts on the two mile

Wisconsin Splashers All Set To Defeat Corn State Mermen

Herschberger-Stewart Dual to Be Interesting Side-Light of the Meet

High hopes are being entertained at Iowa for a victory in the dual swimming meet with Wisconsin here Saturday. This will be the first conference meet for the Badger splashers, and although Iowa is swimming 17 men who were in the conference last year, Coach Joe Steinauer feels that his men are the equal of the more experienced Hawkeyes.

Stewart, dash man, is the most highly touted of the Iowa squad, but Herschberger will give him a run for his money in the 40 yard dash. Herschberger is in fine shape for this distance, and he swam a beautiful 100 yard race against the frosh men last Wednesday night. Frazier is second only to Herschberger on the varsity, but although he has been consistently placing second in the 40 against the frosh, his time has not been very good.

Cook Takes Plunges

Captain Simpkins, Wheatley and McGinnis will furnish stiff opposition to the Iowa men in the dives. Cook is Wisconsin's only hope in the plunges, all the other men having been declared ineligible. Cook came back into his own against the yearlings Wednesday night, after his bad defeat by Welch the evening before.

Bell and Abendroth are the strongest Badger men in the 200 yard breast stroke. Bell has been placing first by the skin of his teeth in the last preliminary meets, and his time will have to come down before he can outswim the Iowa men.

Hotchkiss Stars

Hotchkiss is the best varsity man at the 220 free style, and he won this event both Tuesday and Wednesday nights. Wednesday night Everett Fox, freshman flash at this distance, attempted to nip Hotchkiss' laurels, but fell short. This is the first time that Fox has been in the water for several weeks, and his lack of training showed. He is a fast man, however, and when he is in training he should be able to cover the 220 in slightly less time than Hotchkiss. The Wisconsin relay men have been making good time lately, and with both Herschberger and Stewart in this event, it promises to relay team. Although Hilberts is one of the best 880 men in school when he is in condition, right now Petaja is perhaps two seconds faster and Wisconsin needs every additional second that it can gather in this race.

A record crowd is assured at the meet as all of the 8,000 seats have been sold and tickets are being scalped at a high price for the meet.

Nurmi, in his attempt to beat Joie Ray's Coliseum record, will be the chief attraction.

be a hot race to the finish. Gilbreath is the best back stroke man on the varsity squad, swimming the 150 in less than two minutes.

In the last workout before the Iowa meet Saturday the varsity won their dual with the frosh by a large margin. The varsity displayed the best form of the season and hopes for a victory took on a more rosy hue.

Another Czerwonky

The only bright spot in the way of work done by the frosh was in the 220 yard breast stroke when Glenn Wray, a new member of the yearling team made the best time that has been made this season when he traveled the event in 2:58 flat. Bell, varsity man in this event, had a particularly poor night.

Herschberger, varsity speed demon, went better than ever in winning the 40 and 100 yard dash events, and promises to give Stewart, Iowa flash, a real battle for first place. He sped over the 40 yards in 19.3.

The varsity relay team won their event in the fair time of 1:19.3, while Hotchkiss continued to show good form in winning the 220 yard free style.

Captain Simpkins and Wheatley again tied for first place in the dives with McGinnis and Hall tying for second place.

All in all this is the best showing that the varsity has made so far this season in their dual meets with the frosh.

Cage Jottings

Guesses aren't so good, first this week Wisconsin lost to Ohio, and Wednesday night Purdue defeated Michigan, 37 to 36. Score on guesses this year now stands: right, 5; and wrong, 3.

No conference games tonight, but tomorrow is a big one for the cagers. Three games are on the program, and Monday has two carded.

Navy has some competition in the east now. Princeton has loomed up with a formidable five, this team having won eight straight games against good teams. It will be a great battle if they meet.

The high basketball score for this week so far is 75. It was made in a game between the Springfield Teachers and Ozark college. The Teachers won, getting their 75 to Ozark's 18.

Chicago's main object in the Western conference race at the present time is to hold their own until January 24, because after that date it is expected that the Maroons will be able to step away from opponents. Why? Alyea, star center, who was declared ineligible, will be back and the combination of Alyea and Barnes is a winner.

Rubber latex has come to be used in the manufacture of cardboard, linoleum and leather substitutes out of paper.

MICHIGAN QUINTET FACES TWO HARD TEAMS THIS WEEK

Coach Mather Fears Ohio and Badger Games Saturday
and Monday

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Jan. 15.—After the heart-breaking defeat at the hands of Purdue Wednesday night, the Wolverines have settled down to hard training for the games with Ohio on Saturday night, and with the Wisconsin team Monday night.

Losing by a 37 to 36 score is always a hard pill to swallow, and the Wednesday night defeat is no exception. Playing a good brand of basketball, but lacking the winning punch, Coach Mather's quintet has decided to forget it, and prepare for the next two games which promise to be among the most difficult of the year.

It is known that the Ohio contest will be a tough one, the Buckeyes just finished walking over Wisconsin to a 27 to 20 tune, and any team that beats a Meanwell five is to be considered good.

The Wisconsin game on Monday night is what puzzles Mather a great deal. The Badgers have been a failure this year up to the present, but it can never be said that a Wisconsin basketball team will be a failure for the year even though they drop their early games. Reports from Madison say that the Badgers went stale, and if that was the case.

WISCONSIN PUCKSTERS START SEASON WITH WIN OVER JANESVILLE

Air Tight Defense Result of Coach Iverson's Long Hours Training

The long hours that Coach Kay Iverson has been putting in with the Badger puck pushers since the holiday vacation have not been in vain. The work of a real coach is certain to produce results as is evidenced by the score that the Badgers ran up on the Janesville Y. M. C. A. hockey team last night. The 3 to 0 victory is worth all the sacrifices that the men have made to get themselves in condition.

At no time during the game was the Wisconsin goal seriously threatened on account of the air tight defense put up by the Cardinal defense men and goal tender. All week Coach Iverson has been stressing the importance of defensive work in hockey.

"A goal a period," seems to be the motto adopted by the Wisconsin pucksters. In the first period Captain Gross, in a beautiful piece of work, shot the puck past the Janesville goal tender for the first counter of the game.

Although playing left defense Teich managed to sneak the rubber pellet past the much worried opposing goal guard for a second counter in the second frame of the contest while Lidicher shot a fast one into the goal for the final score in the last round of the fray.

Just as a captain should, Gross, captain of the Badger hockey team, led his team mates to victory and led them as far as being the most consistent man on the rink is concerned. His playing was of a high calibre for so early in the season and he gives promise of being one of the most dangerous men on skates that Wisconsin has had for some time.

The Janesville team boasts of being one of the strongest in southern Wisconsin and the fact that Coach Iverson's team defeated them by such a large score indicates that the Badgers may be represented by one of the strongest teams that has veer played for Wisconsin.

Coach Iverson admitted before leaving Madison that he did not think the Badgers had a chance to win on account of the short period of time he has been working with the team, but the squad outstripped his fondest dreams and incidentally spoiled the Janesville Ice Carnival as far as Janesville spectators were concerned.

Credit Iverson.

Too much credit can not be given to Coach Iverson for the splendid showing made by the Badgers. He

ICE BOATS RACE OVER HARD TRACK

Five Enter to Date; Entries Open Until Time of Race

To win the ice boat race to be held on Lake Mendota tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock, will require more skill than was necessary to win last year. In the first place competition will be much keener.

In addition, the course over which the boats race this year will not be as easy as before. Owing to an immense crack extending across the lake near this shore, the old course cannot possibly be used. Instead Bernard's regular course has been obtained. This course is out in the main part of the lake, and is used for all the city races.

All the rules of regular ice boat racing will be strictly observed. Men will be stationed at each of the flags to see to it that each boat goes around the outside and plays fairly. The judges are George Martin, Kay Iverson, the new hockey coach, and a third man to be chosen from the Four Lakes Yacht club.

Entries may be made up until just before the race by registering with Arthur Timm, president of the Winter Sports club, and paying the $1 entry fee. Up until now there are five entries. Sherman Morris, Calvin Coehring, Harold Kubly, George Breitenbach, and George Gore are the men competing to date.

knows the game from the ground up and has succeeded in imparting some of his knowledge to this year's team. If he can succeed in instilling further knowledge of the game into the men Wisconsin will be well represented on the ice rinks this winter.

The game was relatively free of fouls, only one foul being called on each team. Mr. Parrett, an old hockey star from Madison, officiated at the meet.

The Wisconsin lineup was:
Center—Gross (Capt.)
R. Wing—Jansky
L. Wing—Lidicher
R. Defense—Moorehead
L. Defense—Teich
Goal Guard—MacLean
Score—Wisconsin, 3; Janesville, 0.

So It Seems

Saturday night Steinauer's swimming squad takes to the tank in the first Big Ten meet of the season. Steinauer has had a tough time with the ineligibility hoodoo this year, as usual, but he will give the Iowans a good scrap in spite of obstacles.

Steinauer and his trouble with ineligibility has been the center of many jokes, but it is as tragic as it is funny. Steinauer, every year, prepares to expect ineligibility just as the worm expects to turn. Like death, taxes, and final examinations, ineligibility comes to his swimmers without fail.

At times it is pitiful. In one case it was found one swimmer was ineligible because he had been charged with the cost of a hat band, which remained unpaid to the military department. The quarter was paid and the man was eligible. The latest case of "mental dry rot" told in the tank room is that one swimmer is ineligible because a glass holder, valued at $2, was broken in a chemistry course. The swimmer paid his half, but the partner in the experiments failed to pay his dollar.

So the relentless machinery of higher education decreed the man ineligible. Now the fee is paid and Steinauer has another swimmer to fortify chances Saturday night.

Those who watch embryo swimmers braving the cutting waves of Mendota during the summer do not know half the romance of swim-

VARSITY GRAPPLE FROSH SATURDAY

Vaccination May Keep Three Regulars Off Mat in This Meet

A freshman-varsity wrestling meet has been scheduled by Coach George Hitchcock for Saturday afternoon in order that the varsity wrestlers might have the benefit of the practice meet and the outstanding first year men be given a chance to show their skill against more experienced men.

"The freshmen squad includes several good men this year and I expect the meet Saturday to be a close one although the varsity men ming. The lake is so large. The swimmer is so small. He hardly seems to be moving. But turn out Saturday night and see real competition.

Wisconsin has one swimmer who will show real speed as he ploughs the length of the tank, half under water and half out. That man is Herschberger. There is no Czerwensky on the squad this year to clean up in the breast stroke, but Steinauer has a well-balanced squad.

And they're eligible!

When interviewed in regard to their attitude toward accepting the position of Athletic Director at Wisconsin, neither Little nor Brewer, two of the prospective candidates, had a word to say. The situation will remain a secret until January 21 when the Athletic Council will take some action on it.

MEANWELL RUSHES WORK FOR BATTLE WITH WOLVERINES

Michigan Out For Revenge After Heart Breaking De- feat By Purdue

The Wisconsin cage squad was sent through one of the hardest workouts of the season yesterday in preparation for the coming game with Michigan on Monday. The Meanwell men will not play this week while the Wolverine five will face the Ohio quintet on Saturday, Jan. 17. This will give the Michigan men little rest between the two games, and it is likely that they will be in poor shape to face Captain Diebold and his team mates.

That Michigan is a strong team is shown by their excellent play against Purdue Wednesday night. The Boilermakers were able to nose out a one-point victory, but the game belonged to anyone until the final whistle. Michigan started the season with a win from Northwestern defeating them by a larger score than did the strong Illinois five. The man to man defense that was used against Northwestern in this game showed that the Badgers will have real difficulty in running up a large score. The real strength of the Michigan men will be found in their game with Ohio on Saturday, and the result of this contest will show the comparative strength of the Wisconsin and the Michigan quintets.

Work on Passing
The work last night was on passing and shooting phases of the game. These were the two departments that the Wisconsin men were weak in against Ohio, and Coach Meanwell is determined that his team will show real form in their next contest. All of the men are in condition, and are eager to redeem themselves against the Michigan aggregation.

should win," said Coach Hitchcock yesterday.

Several of the varsity squad have been vaccinated this week and are unable to practice but they are expected to be able to wrestle Saturday and if not Hitchcock intends to use other men who are giving the varsity men a hard race for their divisions. He is planning on entering some second-team men in the match with Carleton college February 14.

THE LEGISLATURE TO THE FORE

Among the notable events of this week is the convening of the state legislature here at Madison for the regular session. For some months the state's political attention will be centered on the capitol and what happens therein while politics and statesmanship will vie, as usual, to see which will be the dominating factor in the legislation passed.

Among those who have reason to follow the legislative proceedings with interest, few have any better cause than the thousands of people who are connected with the university, whether it be as tax payers, as administrators and teachers, or as students. For much of the energy of both houses will be spent on affairs directly concerning the university, and in the light of present conditions it is safe to assume that this session will be more significant as far as it concerns the university's welfare than have been most of its predecessors. One of the first matters to be brought up, paramount in the minds of the students, is the question of permitting the 1926 Prom to be held in the capitol building. But far more important than this are such questions as the appropriations for the ensuing year, including provisions for an extensive building program.

Most of the meetings of both houses are open to the public; if students should be present on those occasions when university questions are discussed, they would not only learn much concerning parliamentary procedure, but they would perhaps be able to grasp a sympathetic view of the legislators' policies.

DANCING AS A FINE ART

Despite the all-absorbing interest in academic work that pervades the entire campus just at present, a considerable number of students and faculty are expectantly looking forward to seeing Anna Pavlova this evening at the Parkway. Few of the great dancers of the world have a reputation that can touch Pavlova's, and her entire ballet company is accomplished and justly famous.

Of all the fine arts, perhaps none affords greater opportunity to the artist for self-expression of physical and mental beauty, and even of spiritual and moral idealism. Ted Shawn, who for years has danced opposite Ruth St. Denis, declares that in order to give expression to the beautiful, a dancer must himself live a beautiful life, and that one of his chief prerequisites is moral purity. But in addition to giving expression to beauty in human character and form, interpretative dancing and the ballet involve music, all the artistic technique of the theater, such as staging, lighting, etc., color, plastic form, grouping, and even poetry. Its field is the entire range of human emotions.

Interest in aesthetic dancing and the ballet, as in all forms of art, is one of the earmarks of culture.

SMUGGLING

A new type of bootlegging has developed from the last immigration law. According to figures published by the department of labor, about 1,000 illegal immigrants enter this country daily. The greater part of these are Europeans who have been refused entrance through the regular channels and are, for the most part, either criminals or are diseased—at any rate undesirable.

Facts recently published reveal that this is a much more lucrative practice than the bootlegging of either liquor or drugs. It is well-organized and seems to have a regular schedule of rates. The average rate per person over land borders is between $50 and $100, while at sea-ports the cost of being smuggled in varies from $500 to $1,000. The rates from Cuba are less, being about $250 per head.

A strange fact is that most of the bootlegged immigrants from Cuba are Chinese who are landed at obscure ports on the Florida coast, which are, for the most part, poorly guarded. Reassuring reports, however, come from the border patrol, recently increased to 450 men evenly divided between the Canadian and Mexican borders. The jails along the southern frontier are full and the border towns are calling for relief. It seems an obvious conclusion, therefore, that some steps should be taken to guard our sea-ports in a similar manner.

Secretary Davis' recommendation that the new immigration restrictions should apply to the western hemisphere as well as to the eastern would not remedy matters as these undesirables are being smuggled in now; what is needed is a more adequate guard system. Legitimate Canadian immigration has never been regarded as undesirable, and it is an interesting fact that Mexicans who come across the border generally return to Mexico when employment here ceases.

THE REASON

At this time of year, when examinations are staring us in the face, one often wonders why there should be exams, anyway. To the struggling students, examinations do seem a bit unnecessary and the attitude of the faculty unjust, to say the least. However, there is an excellent reason for examinations besides that of showing the faculty how little we know; it makes us realize how little we know. "But we knew all that before," you say. True; but there is no better way of remembering a thing than to have missed it on an exam. The examination is not for the instructor's good; it is for yours.

The Lizzies are once more freezing up.

"The highest and most difficult thing in the whole art of life is to keep pure and to grow mature."—A former leader of the German Youth Movement, killed in the war.

The article published in this column Wednesday morning was reprinted from the Vox Studentium which calls itself "a monthly paper seeking to develop mutual knowledge and understanding among students of all nations" and which is published in Geneva, Switzerland.

Idle thinkers who are suffering under the delusion that winter sports flourish only at Dartmouth, in the Twin Cities, and at St. Moritz, Switzerland, should be informed that Madison is the center of the world's ice-boating, and that local mariners of the crystal wastes hold several international trophies, won here and at regattas in the east. And yet how few students take advantage of Nature's bounty in providing the setting for all manner of winter sports!

EXTRA STARTING NEXT WEEK GREEK HISTORY

This is the greatest venture undertaken by any university publication ever. A marvelous illustrated History of Greece for the erudition of Skyrockets' patrons. First CHAPTER will appear early next week. WATCH!!

So far we seem to be the only ones to get the Red Hot Dope on dear old Ellis, and the latest that we have to offer comes in the way of a telephone conversation. "Hello, is this Esther?" "Yes, who is this?" "This is Ellis talking!" "Oh! (with much enthusiasm) How are you Ellis?" "Fine, but the reason I called you was to say that I learned how to dance, in addition to getting a natty college suit during Christmas, and I wondered if I could have a date now!"

Well, we hung up at this point, but we warn you, Ellis, you are being watched, and these party telephones may expose more.

And as for Prudence of the Parsonage, she writes us: At Wisconsin they call the weaker sex the speaker sex.

The most embarrassing thing happened last night. I was dressing for a date when one of the fond sisters called up stairs and said, "Your boy friend is down here, Prudence, and you better come down before he rusts. You know he's a little wet."

Everyone in the home town is saying—"I wish that someone would find Sally for some of these Radio guys."

And as Methuselah says as he goes over to the gym for a shower, "It's a good course, and it's frequent use keeps me from becoming coarse."

And Prudence finishes by writing, "When Methuselah left, all inspiration to write further Rockets left also." You haven't met us yet, you know, Prudence!

Our dog was scratching his back this morning, and we asked him if he wanted us to get him some flea powder, but he says with great indignation, "No, it is only my vaccination working, don't bother with the powder."

Which reminds us, we saw a girl this morning and we thought she was losing her socks, so we promptly told her we knew of a place where she could get a pair of garters for 15 cents, but she looked at us kind of surprised like and said, "Ain't you a member?" and then explained real nicely that it was a society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Smallpox and that three scratches showed that you were an honorary member and that your vaccination was working SWELL!

WICKED WOMEN!!!
Neva, Neva, base deceiver,
Wicked woman, make-believer!
O, if only I could leave her,

All my cares would get the hook!!
First she'll squeeze me, try to tease me,
Almost make me think she sees me
Then she'll freeze me, how she'll tease me

With her come-and-get-me look.
Naughty Neva, when I kissed her,
Flared up madly: "See here, mister,
Bet your life I'll be your sister

But 'll never be your cook!"
Still she dates me, still she baits me,

Fascinates and captivates me
Night and day she appropriates me
With her come-and-get-me look!

Dear: "Do you care for a peanut?"
Darling: "Thanks, I shell."

We ask you what is wrong with a man like Ted Gray, who will be so taken with a show at the Orph that he will go alone in the afternoon and then take a date at night. Can it be that he wants to make sure that the show is sweet and pure when his date is a Co-ed?

PROM FINANCES ARE REGULATED

Committees Keep Detailed Account of Expenses From Day to Day

In order that the financing of Prom will be efficiently done this year the finance committee under William Howard '26 and the ways and means committee under Thane Blackman have been working together since Prom arrangements started some weeks ago.

The ways and means committee has been preparing the budget for Prom so that committees will not run over their allotments and so that all chairmen will know beforehand—De Longe Photo just how much money they have to work with.

Working with Blackman on the ways and means committee are Osborne Hand, William Reid, Judson Smith and Edward Kerr.

Starting before vacation William Howard of the finance committee has been maintaining daily office hours at the dean's office in South hall. Itemized statements are prepared each day by chairmen giving an account of all money spent for their committee work. Without the present system those in charge would not be able to know from day to day just how much Prom is costing and is going to cost.

Howard E. Willey, Andy Nord, Donald F. Hansen, William J. Taylor and Lenore S. Lucsmann are the members of the committee helping William Howard.

Former Wisconsin Men Write Books For Commercial Use

Three new books written by men now or at one time connected with the university are on the market by the McGraw-Hill company, New York.

Glenn D. Gardiner of the Chevrolet Motor company, Janesville, a former student of Prof. John R. Commons, has written a new text on "Foremanship Training." This book will be used in the near future in connection with correspondence courses in the vocational department of the Extension Division.

"Properites and Uses of Wood," is the work of Arthur Koehler, on the staff of the U. S. Forest Products laboratory. Mr. Koehler also is an instructor in correspondence study courses in the Extension Division.

Prof. Henry W. Sweeney, University of Pittsburgh, is the author of "Bookkeeping and Introductory Accounting." Professor Sweeney at one time was assistant professor of the extension course in business administration at the university. Last year he was at Columbia university in New York.

Professor Sweeney collected much of his material for his book while he was teaching his courses here.

Arrangements have been made for a luncheon to be held on Saturday, January 24, in honor of Miss Elizabeth Drew of Cambridge and London, England, who speaks the same day before the Madison branch of the American Association of University Women.

The luncheon will be at 1 o'clock at the College club and is open to members and guests at $1 a cover. Reservations are due Thursday, Jan. 22, at the College club.

PROM PLAY STAGE WORK ADVANCES

Art Classes Take Over All Work in Connection With Stage Settings

Work on building the stage settings for the pre-prom play, "The Rescuing Angel," which will be presented by the Wisconsin Players, is progressing rapidly, according to Mark Porter '26.

The designing and painting, with the planning of furniture arrangement, color schemes, and lighting effects, have been taken over as a project by the art structure class, in the department of Industrial Education and Applied Art, under the direction and supervision of Prof. A. N. Colt.

The class has worked on such problems before, but has never undertaken as large a project. The stage settings for Union Vodvil, 1923, were planned and arranged by the class. To create more of a personal interest, and because the class is small, the work has been divided, so that each member has some special responsibility.

Doris Engel '25 and Howard Anderson '26 are designing acts one and two, Iris Moncar-Sellen '26 has charge of the lighting effects, and Dorothy Harriman '26 and Edith Sleepack '28 are planning the color schemes and furniture arrangements for acts one and two.

The designing for act three is being done by Geraldine Stentz '26 and Francis Champion '28. Catherine Rice '25 is planning the lighting effects and color schemes, and Frank Lathers '26 has charge of furniture arrangement for act three.

The designing has been completed, the sets are being built, and the painting will begin Monday.

Intelligent Voting Requires Political Knowledge—Sharp

"The activities of government today are so varied that a citizen must be well-informed in all of its phases in order to fulfill his duties. In the United States a man, in order to be able to vote intelligently, must be familiar with the present day activities of the government."

Thus said Prof. Walter R. Sharp of the political science department in speaking of the value of the study of political science. Mr. Sharp asserted that this study is particularly valuable to university students because the leaders of the future will be university graduates and a knowledge of political problems will be necessary.

The political science department is offering two new courses this semester. They are Legislative Organization and Procedure which will be given by J. P. Harris and a course in Federalism in the British Dominion by Professor Sharp.

STATE HIGH MUSIC PLANS ARE READY

Professor Coon Expects Large Number Here; Change in Prelim Contests

The state-wide High School Music contest, which will be held under the auspices of the School of Music, will probably draw a large number of amateur musicians to Madison on May 14 and 15 when the finals will take place here at the university, according to Prof. Leland A. Coon. Last year more than 650 contestants were entertained here by the school and various musical organizations, but this year a new plan of preliminary contests, held in various parts of the state, will reduce the number of persons who will come here to compete in the finals. The committee which in conjunction with Dr. Mills, is taking full charge of this competition, includes Profs. L. A. Coon, E. B. Gordon and Miss Aagot M. Borge.

The cups awarded for group events and the prizes awarded to solo winners will be donated by the School of Music and by musical fraternities and sororities. Last year the large cup went to the Madison schools. The events will include a mixed chorus contest, women's glee club contest, and soprano, contralto, boy's voice, piano, and violin solos. Bands will be eliminated from the competition this year because the state band association will hold a separate contest.

Only winners of the preliminary competitions or their alternates, will take part in the finals here. These contests will probably take place at the normal schools throughout the state during the last week in April or the beginning of May, so that more high schools will be able to participate in the competition, while the numbers coming to Madison will be greatly lessened. The schools will be classified somewhat differently from last year, class A including all schools of 400 or over, and class B including all whose student body does not exceed this number.

Progressive Club Hears Outline of La Follette Family

A. O. Barton, author of "La Follette's Winning of Wisconsin" traced the history of the La Follette family in this country in an address before the Young Men's Progressive association Tuesday night in the office of Frederick R. Zimmerman, secretary of state.

"Three La Follette brothers came over with Lafayette," Mr. Barton said, "and, together with an older brother, Joseph La Follette, great-grandfather of the senator, fought in the revolution. After the revolution, Joseph La Follette moved westward and settled in Harding county, Kentucky, near the family of Abraham Lincoln. Lincoln, at one time related an incident of having played in the barn of Jesse La Follette, son of Joseph La Follette and grandfather of Robert M. La Follette.

"Later on the family moved to Indiana where many of the descendants are living. An annual reunion of the La Follettes is held each year at the fairgrounds at Crawfordville, Ind., and plans are being made for the celebration in 1926 of the centennial of the moving of the family into Indiana.

"Josiah La Follette, father of the senator moved to Wisconsin from Indiana and it was here that Robert M. La Follette was born in 1855. His father was of French Huguenot descent and his mother, Mary Ferguson, was Scotch-Irish. The senator was the first native born governor of Wisconsin."

"King of Ivories" Goes From Radio to Theater

Harry M. Snodgrass, the popular radio pianist, whose nightly solos from station WOS at Jefferson City, Mo., have been heard all over the country, has abandoned the "theater of space" for the "theater of ideas"—that is, has deserted radio for a vaudeville tour. He will be assisted by J. M. Whitten the well-known announcer, who recently won second prize in the National Announcer Popularity contest held by the "Radio Age."

Years ago, vaudeville began bringing the foremost stars of musical comedy and legitimate drama for the entertainment of Orpheum audiences; then came the stars from the moving pictures and now, in bring-

MADISON MAN IS HOUSE SPEAKER

Herman Sachtjen Named as Leader of Assembly in Fifty-seventh Session

Control of senate and house organization in the fifty-seventh Wisconsin legislature having passed to the state administration forces, the session settled down today to hear what Gov. J. J. Blaine had to say in his message. The joint session of the house and senate convened shortly before noon and was expected to adjourn for several days at the conclusion of the reading.

Electing Herman Sachtjen of Madison, as speaker of the assembly on the third ballot, administration forces today gained control of the organization machinery of both houses of the legislature by a hair-line margin.

The administration victory in the senate was obtained by a majority of 1, and Mr. Sachtjen has but two more votes than was necessary to elect. The victory scored by the administration in the senate occurred when Senator Herman J. Severson, of Iowa, voted for the governor's committee on committee.

The assembly re-elected C. E. Shaffer as chief clerk and Thomas Bartingale as sergeant at arms.

On the first ballot for speaker, Mr. Sachtjen lacked 7 of the necessary 50 votes to elect. The result of this ballot was as follows: Sachtjen 43; Perry 32; Weber 6; Olson 5; Price 5; Tuffley 2; Brooks 1; Warden 2; Ingalls 2 Barber 1.

On the second ballot Mr. Sachtjen's total rose to 48, lacking but 2 of the necessary majority. Mr. Perry's vote remained the same.

The result of this ballot was as follows: Sachtjen 48; Perry 32; Weber 6; Olson 5; Price 3; Warden 2; Tuffley 1 Brooks 1; Barber 1.

On the third and decisive ballot, Assemblymen Huckstead of Neillsville H. H. Smith, of Milwaukee; H. W. Stokes, Jefferson, and R. C. Trembath, of Hurley, voted for Sachtjen, thereby giving him the necessary number. The final result was Sachtjen 52; Perry 29; Weber 7; Olson 4; Price 2; Tuffley 1 Brooks 1 Warden 2 and Barber 1.

Throughout the balloting, the socialist members cast their votes for Frank Weber, of Milwaukee. On the final ballot, Assemblyman Frank L. Prescott, of Milwaukee, changed his vote from Mr. Perry to ing two of the most popular artists with radio fans to vaudeville, a precedent is being set that should interest the devotees of this newest of entertainments, the radio, as well as vaudeville patrons in general.

Miller of Menomonie; Frank Weber, by Thomas M. Duncan of Milwaukee, and Charles B. Perry, by Ethan M. Minier of New Richmond.

For sergeant at arms, Mr. Bartingale received 53 votes, Sixtus Lindahl 28, Alfred G. Becker 8, and Thomas G. Gretney 10.

PRESIDENT CALLES FREES DR. LORENZ

Governor Blaine Hears That Head of Control Board is Released

A telegram received from President Calles at Mexico City, Mex., by Gov. Blaine here this morning states that Dr. William F. Lorenz, Madison, chairman of the state board of control has been released from jail at Progreso, Mex., where he was imprisoned along with the officers of the sailing vessel "Ruth" when that boat was captured off the Mexican coast several days ago, and its crew charged with filibustering.

Dr. Lorenz, it is expected, will start for Madison immediately.

The message translated reads: "Your Dr. William F. Lorenz and companions were set free immediately after their arrest. President Calles."

The state department at Washington, however, has not received official notification of Lorenz' release although it was stated that his freedom was expected momentarily.

That Dr. W. F. Lorenz will leave the state board of control at the expiration of his term in February was stated today.

Dr. Lorenz went on the trip which landed him in jail in order to rehabilitate his health. Dr. Lorenz found that the responsibilities of his work on the board of control and as head of the Wisconsin Psychiatric institute had taxed his strength.

Even before leaving for his trip it is said that Dr. Lorenz had decided to retire from the board. Dr. Lorenz feels that he has said the policies of the board from a scientific standpoint and that the work from this time on will be largely administrative. Dr. Lorenz is essentially a scientific man and he desires to be relieved of the administrative work of the board of control. For that reason he will retire at the end of his term.

Two Lobbyists Are Registered For the Legislative Session

The first legislative lobbyist to register at the office of Secretary of State Zimmerman was the Rev. S. Paterson Todd of Milwaukee, secretary of the Wisconsin Lord's Day Alliance. The Rev. Todd has had considerable experience as a lobbyist having appeared frequently before legislative committees at the national capitol at Washington. At the time of his registration here Mr. Todd stated that he is here in the interests of all reform legislation.

The only other lobbyist registered up till late Thursday morning was L. P. Bellinghausen of Milwaukee. He is appearing in the interests of the Milwaukee County Contractors association, and is interested in street and highway legislation and public contracts.

La Follette Departs for Rest in Florida

WASHINGTON—Senator La Follette of Wisconsin left here Wednesday night for a vacation in Florida, where he will seek recuperation and rest. He expects to spend a month in Florida, the length of his stay depending upon the weather and the press of business in the senate. His first stop will be at Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Whether he will return in time to participate in the closing days of congress is uncertain.

REPEAL OF LIQUOR LAW IS SOUGHT

Wets Begin Advance For Re- peal of Severson Prohibi- tion Enforcement Act

Wets in the Wisconsin legislature today took their first step in seeking repeal of the Severson prohibition enforcement act.

A bill removing the act from the statute books was introduced by Assemblyman Frank J. Gieszynski, Milwaukee socialist, on the second day of the 1925 session.

Socialist assemblymen are expected to support the bill as a unit.

The wets have about 60 members in the lower house, according to their claims, but whether all of them can be persuaded to back an out-and-out repeal measure is uncertain.

A joint resolution ratifying the federal child labor amendment was proposed by Assemblyman B. Z.
Glass, Milwaukee, republican.

Preceding the reading of the message, a number of resolutions and bills were introduced in the assembly, one of the principal resolutions being aimed to bring an expression of the stand of the republicans toward the national administration. Introduced by Frank L.
Prescott, republican, of Milwaukee, it would call upon the republican members of the legislature to declare "their devotion to the principles of the Republican party," as set forth in the platform adopted at the Cleveland convention, and express confidence in President
Coolidge and Vice President Dawes.

Assemblyman B. M. Z. Glass, Milwaukee, introduced a resolution providing for ratification of the child labor amendment to the federal constitution. Such action was recommended in Gov. Blaine's message.

Expression on a short session proposal, which also was endorsed by the governor, was had in the assembly, which adopted vive voce as a resolution placing it on record as favoring adjournment by May 1.

Three important bills were among the measures introduced in the assembly. Thomas M. Duncan, socialist, Milwaukee, presented a proposal for repeal of the laws relating to the personal property offset in income taxes and in occupation taxes on grain storage and coal.

Foreign and Local NewsOrph Doesn't Hold to High Standard
in Last Half Bill

By S T U

This half's show at the Orph flattens out, and is relieved only slightly by several numbers of jazz singing and dancing. The jokes are venerable, and most of the girls in keeping. Most of the tunes were played by the orchestras here last summer. On the whole, this collection is beneath the high standard set by former Orph shows.

LES GLADDONS, the living statues, contort themselves in striking lights, and in postures as hard to hold as they are uninteresting to watch.

HOLLY, the golden-voiced, has a rube act which is well accepted, more or less.

WILL FOX, in buying an automobile, gives us an interesting exposition of the troubles of a man who purchases a Snappy Six and gets into trouble with it, after the manner of the jokes in Life and Judge. Someone gives a too realistic portrayal of a madman in the jail scene. Beyond this the act is only a high average skit.

FLORENCE BRADY and GILBERT WELLS have a good deal of animation and life. His singing of "Over-heated Mama" was the best thing on the bill. His partner does several character songs rather well. This act had more speed to it than any of the others.

OLIVER and OLSON have a clever though overdone nut act, in which her personality and dancing shows up very well. The costumes are bright and well handled. This act has sparkle of a sort.

NELLIE JAY and her JAY BIRDS finish up the evening with several songs such as The Clock on the Mantel, and Charley My 3-y. They play in a not unusual style, but they have a good-looking girl on the banjo.

Tonight it is "the incomparable Anna." It's pretty expensive going, but it is certainly worth it. We only wish the Parkway would bring more attractions of this nature to Madison.

The more we think about it, the more we wonder just what this Clavilux business is going to be like. In fact, our curiosity is quite at a high pitch. According to the reports, it will be to color just about what a symphony orchestra is to sound.

Port Butts says that the house is nearly all sold out for the evening performance and that if it is completely sold out a matinee will be given.

If 5,000 people saw the Clavilux at Ann Arbor, one might expect that twice that number would try to see it here. Another call for that Union building with a large auditorium.

The Strand has been putting on some real shows lately. Yondola was one of the best pictures we have seen hereabouts. It combined excellent photography, with a first rate cast, splendid direction and a story, which for the movies, was pretty good. On the whole, of course, movie scenarios are alike, built on the same principles—although such a word as principles really flatters them.

Mae Murray as fascinating as ever in the picture which is showing at the Strand now.

And next week comes "The Thief of Bagdad!"

"The Rescuing Angel," the pre-prom play, is getting under way rapidly under the direction of Bill Tannewitz. From the looks of rehearsals, it ought to be nearly as good as "Stop Thief," of two years ago.

"VANITY'S PRICE," STARRING ANNA Q. NILLSON, PRESENTED AT THE PARKWAY "Vanity's Price" is a powerful picture, of special interest to the feminine audience. With its advance V. P. teaser-publicity it should receive a cordial welcome during its two-day stay. A noted actress struggles to win against

Main Attraction of Coming
Week Is "Thief of Bagdad"

By H. E. R.

"The Thief of Bagdad" will be the main attraction of Madison theaters next week, but the remainder of show programs is not to be lightly passed over.

Douglas Fairbanks is arriving in this town just about four months sooner than we expected him, and for that we thank Mr. Desormeaux of the Strand theater. The production has been received all over the country with wild acclaim for its story, its acting, and most of all, for the effects that have been obtained in it. It should not be missed.

At the Parkway will be shown another of Thomas Meighan's latest pictures, "Tongues of Flame." This is taken from the story written by Peter Clark McFarlane. The actresses are Eileen Percy and Bessie Love. Starting Thursday Agnes Ayres will appear in "Tomorrow's Love" with Pat O'Malley slated as the cooperative man.

Richard Dix in his second starring picture "A Man Must Live," will occupy the screen at the Madison the first part of the week. The story is taken from "The Law of the Jungle." Then Elaine Hammerstein will be featured in a thrilling melodrama named "The Midnight Express." The story concerns the rise to success made by a rich young man who became angry when his son went to N. E. or Kappa Beta, and told sonny never to darken his doorstep again. It is just a good melodrama with some good characters taking the leads. Mr. McWilliams of the Madison is bursting with pride these days. Good luck has befallen him, and he is to have the opportunity of showing Betty Bronson in "Peter Pan" next week. We saw it Christmas vacation, and enjoyed it immensely.

The Majestic is going to throw caution to the winds and produce a bedroom comedy next week. Mr. Daniel Delaney (we hope he sees that "Daniel") says that "Not Tonight, Dearie," is one of the best comedies ever undertaken by the stock company. For some enjoyable

Stock Players Try
Hands at Realistic
Oriental Thriller

By TED

Last Friday evening when Oscar O'Shea of the Majestic Players was announcing "The Green Beetle" as this week's performance he said, "Next week I'm going to play a Chinese part. I may talk Irish, but I'll look Chinese." He was right in part at least, for he certainly looks Chinese, and so does Dan Ford—very villainously so. Mr. Ford has a part this week unusual in that he is on the stage much of the time and yet says not one word during the play.

"The Green Beetle" is not a mystery play; it is called an oriental thriller. It has not the terror in it that "The Cat and the Canary" has, though it was written by the same man, nor has it the surprises of "Spooks" or "The Seventh Guest"; but its second act may give you a chill or two combined with a great many good laughs. It is laid in San Francisco's China Town, and so is mixed up with tongs and Chinese vengeance.

Mr. Hesselberg this week is a rather timorous hero, but does the part very well and overcomes his gunshyness by the last act. Miss Dow's part is not very long, but is satisfactorily done. Miss McKinney is especially good in the last act as the demented mother of the heroine. Frank Gallagher again takes the part of a gruff, fiery tempered father with quite admirable ability.

Worthy of mention also is the setting for the Chinese Curio shop done by Julian McDonald in brilliant colors and somewhat futuristic design. You haven't seen any thing like it at the Majestic before.

the physical laurels of her younger days. "Vanity's Price" is Anna Q. Nillson's latest picture. The all-star cast makes the acting as strong as the plot movement.

hours we recommend the Majestic. P. S.—The prices were just cut this week, too.

The Orpheum has three feature acts for the first half. "A Corking Revue" by a quartet of men singers and dancers will enact some comedy sketches; Senator Murphy will hand us a hot line in his act, "The People's Choice;" and Elsie Clark, the photograph artist, will be on hand. The last half of the week will feature Burt and Rosedales' Revue "If." There are seven dancers and singers who specialize in comedy. Their sketch was written by William K. Wells, who writes the skits for Greenwich Village Follies.

Mae Murray Plays
Modern Parable of Old Myth of CirceBlasco Ibanez's
"Circe, the Enchantress," Starring Mae Murray.
Presented at the Strand.

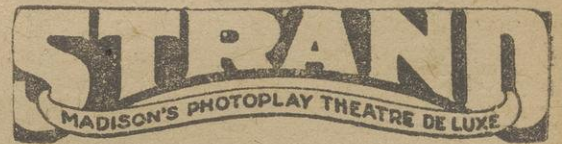

By J. E. L.

A modern parable on the fascinating enchantress of mythology, Circe, finds existence in the life of a beautiful woman, Cecile. Her lovely comeliness was an extravagant gift, for she was harassed from childhood by malicious Don Juans.

From such experiences, she naturally became cynical had an enemy of love. Her resolutions to bring all men to her command are realized—until she encounters a doctor whose kindly sympathies for the commonness of life does not extend into the realm of her jazz festivities. She discovers that real love has awakened for the surgeon, but the latter makes it obvious that his thoughts are not very kindly toward her. In rescuing a child from a speeding automobile, she manages to win his confidence, and a happy marriage brings this scintillating picture to a close.

The theme, from the vivid pen of Blasco Ibanez, proves an alluring one. The picture is beautifully photographed with clear cut close-ups and has a finished continuity. The sets are rich and lavish, especially the ones with beautiful interiors of homes of the wealthy. Miss Murray predominates all these by her own exotic beauty and mannerisms. She wears her customary latest fashion modes and a particularly charming one of clinging lace. Miss Murray again displays her profound ability for jazz stepping to syncopated rhythm.

Max Kaplan Tells Why

Ordinarily at this time of year I hold a conventional type of clearance sale to clear any shelves for incoming Spring stock. This year, however, I want to clear out everything in the store to make room for CAMPUS TOGS clothes, which will be featured here next Spring. That's the big reason for the drastic cuts.
