HARESFOOT TO HOLD ORCHESTRA TRYOUTS

Final tryouts are to be held this afternoon for the orchestra that will accompany the Haresfoot show "Miss 'Quita" on its twenty-third annual trip through Illinois and Wisconsin during the spring recess.

"Jean" Juster, who is to direct this year's orchestra for the original musical comedy, requests that all those who have signed up heretofore or anyone who would like to try for a place, should meet in 35 Music hall, this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

Those who are chosen make the complete trip with the show and play in seven different cities. About 15 men will be taken on the trip in this capacity, so there is plenty of opportunity to secure a position. Those trying out should bring their musical instruments with them.

Gondolas Glide as Movie Makes Libe a Venetian Court

Upon cutting across lower campus, the average student doesn't think of the library as a beautiful Venetian court building. Well, of course, it really isn't, but since necessity is the mother of invention, and an Italian court scene is part of the Varsity Movie someone had to erect or "reserect" the necessary setting.

The east side of the library, in its Italian Renaissance architecture, seemed to be best suited for the occasion. Italian curtains will be hung in the three arch doors. The lords and ladies in the scene will wear special costumes. There will be attendants and beggars just as one would expect to see in a scene of the movie that traces the evolution of education to the modern day. For all we know this courtly building may be situated on the bank of a canal, where gondolas slowly glide along their way.

Only time will tell about these things as the scene is to be taken this morning, but when you see the real picture it will appear to be moonlight for the film will go through the dark blue coloring process.

The officers' banquet is an annual affair and will be held this year at the studio. The dinner will begin at 6 p. m., and dancing will be enjoyed between courses and after the meal.

FRESHMAN WOMEN GIVE PARTY TODAY

Entire Class to Get Together in Chadbourne Hall

A party for all Freshman women is being given this afternoon by Freshman commission at Chadbourne hall from 3 until 5:30 o'clock. Each of the 25 girls on the commission has invited the girls in her group, but if any girl has failed to receive an invitation she is urged by the committee in charge to be sure and come anyway as the party is an annual affair intended as a get-together for all Freshman women.

Stunts, including a melodrama staged by Chadbourne girls, and a reading by Arline Klug have been planned by Janet Marshall '24, in charge of stunts committee. Lucy Jamieson '24, social chairman, has engaged a three piece Thompson's orchestra for the afternoon. The chaperons will be as follows: Mrs. C. W. Haswell, Mrs. P. E. Smith, Miss C. M. Wesson, Miss Clara Williams, and Miss Lucy Wallrich.

TO HONOR PATRON IN PARADE TODAY

Clay pipes, high-top boots, flannel shirts, and as much moustache as possible will be the conventional costume in the Engineers' parade, which honors the engineers' patron, Saint Patrick, this afternoon.

Each engineering society will have a float in the parade, and there will be several group attractions besides. The Blarney stone, unearthed from its resting place beneath the Engineering building, will be the central feature.

The best make-up and the best take-off on other colleges, will be selected by special judges, and given prizes appropriate to the occasion.

The parade will form on Park street near the Shop building at 1:30 this afternoon, and from there will go down State street toward the capitol. Tractors have been loaned by local dealers to furnish the motive power for the parade, which will be nearly all on wheels.

DEBATEERS WIN AUDIENCE WITH DIRECT APPEAL

Recognition of Soviet Russia Upheld Against Illinois; No Decision

By A. J. FEHRENBACH

Keen thrusts of sarcasm, an abundance of humor and an intense conviction characterized the intercollegiate debate at Music hall last night, in which Sterling Tracy '22, Ralph Axley '23, and Thomas Amie '21, closer, who composed the Wisconsin affirmative team, took issue with the Illinois trio on the question of the recognition of Soviet Russia by the United States.

The negative side of the same question was defended by Wisconsin at Ann Arbor last night by Charles D. Assovsky '21, Martin R. Kriewaldt '22, and I. Arnold Perstein '21, closer. The debate at Michigan was formal. No decision was rendered in either debate.

Speeches Brilliant

Last night's event at Music hall will be written into the history of Wisconsin forensics as one of its most brilliant chapters. All of the devices for effective public speech were employed with consummate skill, and the Badgers as well as their opponents, proved themselves logical and forceful public speakers.

The debate was opened by Ralph

MEET TO DECIDE WRESTLING AND BOXING HONORS

Twelve Bouts on Card in All-University Event Today

Final matches to decide the all-university boxing and wrestling championships will be held at the university gymnasium this afternoon, the first event starting at 2 o'clock. The rings will be roped off on the third floor of the gymnasium. A record crowd is expected, as the wrestling and boxing matches are the only athletic events scheduled, the track and swimming squads having departed for the conference meets.

There will be 12 matches on the card, six bouts and the same number of wrestling events. It has been the custom in the past to conclude the season's activities with this program, but this year competition will continue further into the spring. However, this card will be by far the keenest of the season, for it will determine the university champions in each class.

The following is the list of boxers who will contend for the various titles on this afternoon's program: Johns, Martin, Klak, Kogis, Dawson, Murdock, Lupton, Strain, Sulton, Demoling, Pierson, Johnson, Miller, and LaPoop.

Frank Nickerson, "Dad" Vail, Robert Quick, "Bob" Duncan, and Coach Hitchcock will act as officials.

We cannot yet conceive of a lake dip yet, however. If our feet can be so cold on terre haute, what would they be should we plunge into the lake?

The Betas threw a smoker at the lawdye Thursday evening to which nobody was invited.

Although the library did not burn at all, 'tis said the smoke poured out in volumes. But this is a low form of wit for which one should be pun-nished.

It has been suggested somewhat vehemently that the fire was unsuccessful because of the large amount of water in the gasoline. We have always maintained that naptha is the de looks expedient in a matter of this kind.

It is our modest opinion that the fire started through the spontaneous combustion of certain ethyl compounds which Kirk Avery keeps in his desk constantly.

Well the Betas are not especially original. The Kappas had a fire of their own the other night. If we were to choose between watching a Beta and a Kappa fire we should most certainly be found on Sterling court.

We got the watch we now possess by standing under a burning building and seizing the opportunity which the occasion offered. The Beta watches are all in hock anyway so no watch schemes such as ours would have crystallized Thursday night.

The Phi Psi nautical project of last year's fame is marooned in University Drive bay. It is now harboring a family of muskrats.

UNION TO BRING ST. OLAF'S CHOIR HERE IN CONCERT

Dale M. Merrick '21, chairman of the Junior Prom, will be in charge of the concert to be given by St. Olaf's Lutheran choir in the university gymnasium April 7, under the auspices of Union board.

The choir is composed of 50 young men and women from St. Olaf's college at Northfield, Minn.

There will be no mail-order sale of seats, but the sale will open ten days before the performance at Smith Brothers' Music store.

The choir is well known in the east from its tour last year, which included such cities as New York, Boston, Washington, Brooklyn, Baltimore, Minneapolis, Cleveland, Buffalo, and Philadelphia. Eastern musical critics were enthusiastic over their entertainments, and the Buffalo Express said, "The work of St. Olaf's choir is in some respects the last word in choral singing." Although return engagements were desired in every city, this year's tour will not take the choir east of Chicago.

Instead of the lighter music which most college choirs and glee clubs use, St. Olaf's choir will sing the chorals of Bach, Hadyn, and Handel, the great masterpieces of choral music. F. Melius Christensen, the conductor, is said to be a master of choral training.

The first straw hat of the season was worn about the square shortly after noon today. It was a sailor, mellowed by previous exposure to the rays of the sun, and it vied with the bare knees of a Scotch highland soldier in attracting

IRELAND HELD U. S. PROBLEM

Dr. T. L. Harrington Pleads for Recognition of Republic

The United States should recognize the Irish republic just as other nations recognized the republic of the United States when it was fighting to rid itself of the English yoke, said Dr. T. L. Harrington of Milwaukee in a talk on America's Problem: Ireland, at a St. Patrick's day observance held at Music hall Thursday evening under the auspices of the Mercier club of the university. Gov. Blaine presided.

As a small nation being down-trodden by an autocrat, Ireland is distinctly an American problem, said Dr. Harrington, who served as a captain in the American expeditionary forces.

Much was made of the fact that the United States was repaying her debt to France; but the United States is even more indebted to the Irish, who composed 38 per cent of Washington's army, said Capt. Harrington.

Thomas N. Burke, president of the Mercier club, introduced Gov. Blaine. Mrs. James P. Hyland, accompanied by a harpist, sang Mother Machree and other Irish songs. Miss M. M. McCarthy of the university recited some Irish poems. Waldemar von Gelch played Praise to St. Patrick in variations on the violin.

DEBATERS DISCUSS SOVIET IN RUSSIA

Axley, who made a calm, measured analysis of the question and stated the affirmative position. The first surprise of the evening was sprung by Keele, Illinois, who threw all formality aside in making his attack upon the analysis of the question made by the first speaker.

Tracy Speaks Well

Tracy was given a tremendous ovation by the crowd that packed the hall. He carried the fight back into Illinois territory, resorted to every trick including plausibility, reason, logic, wit and ridicule. Throughout his speech, Tracy seemed to hold his audience without gestures or without moving about the platform.

Chadwell, Illinois, drew a picture of the awful conditions that prevail in Russia caused by the Bolsheviks who have, he maintained, abolished all private property and nationalized the land.

Amlie Closes

Calm and peace was restored on the troubled waters of Chadwell's bombastic eloquence when Thomas Amlie, closer, came forth to speak. Amlie's appeal was made entirely to reason. He drove home a series of effective thrusts at the contentions of the negative that led the audience to conclude that he was speaking extemporaneously, as one who knows the subject from every angle.

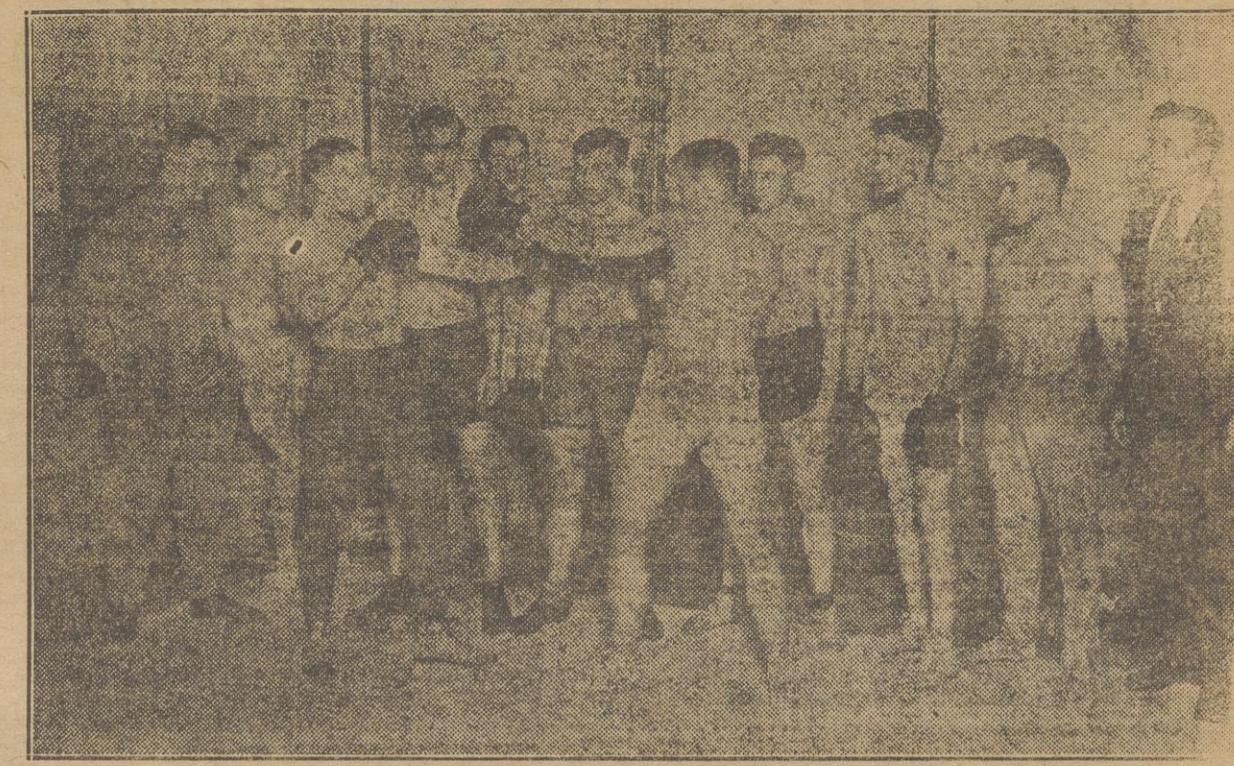

The rebuttals were cleverly handled by all speakers. Apt and telling thrusts were liberally exchanged by the debaters.

Prof. C. H. Woolbert, who heads the department of public speaking at Illinois, was chairman of the debate. The Oxford system of debating, in which no decisions are rendered, was explained at the outset by Professor Woolbert. The audience took advantage of the invitation to ask the debaters questions on phases of the subject.

Committee to Pick Successor to Meek

At a special meeting of the school board Thursday afternoon, President E. B. Skinner was authorized to name a committee to secure a successor to Supt. Meek whose resignation becomes effective July 1. The members of the committee are Mrs. W. G. Bleyer, J. B. Ramsay, John Moran and Prof. Skinner. No applications have as yet been received from educators from outside of the city.

INTELLECT AND THE UNDERGRADUATE

Something is wrong in the educational world. Current periodical literature abounds in scathing indictments of the whole pedagogic system from the kindergarten to the highest institutions of learning.

One of the latest and certainly one of the most vigorous and thorough going criticisms of present day education is the article entitled "Intellect and the Undergraduate," by Prof. Grant Showerman. This article appeared in the issue of "School and Society" Feb. 26.

Prof. Showerman has been at Wisconsin for 28 years as a student and professor. He is dead in earnest about conditions on this campus as well as conditions throughout the collegiate world. He speaks boldly and never refers to a spade as an agricultural implement.

He regards intellectual sloth and indifference on the part of a large minority of undergraduates as the evil which threatens the life of liberal education. The deadly effects of this evil he sees despite the fact that never before was the educational machine so well oiled. ". . . at no time," he says, "during the past two or three decades has the mechanism of education been more perfect or its execution more futile, or the character of education has been more unintellectual, than today."

Blind faith in this machine, glorification of mere numbers, and stupid self-satisfaction have blurred the vision of many who look upon education today, he continued. If the facts were faced frankly, he says, it would be seen that "the university, during the first two years is a giant high school, but with even less than the high school discipline." The students are "spoon-fed" and rarely treated as men and women with serious purpose. When the students are really put on their own responsibility and trusted, the result is such as to "disgrace the meanest institution."

But he hastens to relieve the machine of all the blame and places a large share on the shoulders of the growing number of frivolous and indifferent students. One of the most striking paragraphs of his article follows:

"In a word, where the tone of university life was once determined by men and women who by high ambition and actual effort had earned the right to share in its privileges, it is now, not indeed determined, but greatly modified, by girls and boys living in unearned and unblushing luxury at the expense of their own fathers and of tax-paying fathers in general. It is for the sake of these that we are compelled to consume the time and energy of the scholar in mere police duty, that we are forced into makeshift instruction, that we are cramped for class-room space, and driven to beg funds from a liberal and patient but overtaxed public. We are cluttered up with loafers and perverts. The Newly-Limousined, and the Newly-Brilliantined, the Newly-

Beautiful and the Newly-Terpsichorean, cover the campus as the waters cover the sea. We need a Savonarola and the bonfire of vanities."

This speaks for itself.

Prof. Showerman has no panacea to offer. However, he feels that a rigid but rational discipline is called for—discipline that will not fetter the conscientious student, but will effectively suppress the dishonest, unalert, and tardy.

He concludes with a justifiable plea for the old humanities as effective weapons of sane discipline and invaluable aids in strengthening and stabilizing higher education.

The article should be read by every student. However, those who need his message the most will probably heed the least.

U. W. Doctor Denies Co-ed Poison Scare

A story that 200 university girls residing at Barnard and Chadbourne halls were taken ill from poisoning last Tuesday night was declared grossly exaggerated by Dr. R. Van Valzah of the university medical department Friday morning. According to the story the girls were poisoned by food eaten at the halls Tuesday night.

"In the first place not more than 15 girls in all were taken ill, and only one of these was confined to her bed. All the girls affected were residents of Barnard hall. None of the Chadbourne hall girls were taken sick, nor people who ate at the cafeteria," said Dr. Van Valzah this morning.

Dr. Van Valzah declared that samples of the food at Barnard that evening have been analyzed, but that no report has yet been made. He said that it is quite possible the illness may have been due to food eaten by the girls in other places.

Membership Doubles

The conference membership doubled since last meeting at Chicago, when 28 schools entered.

Almost unanimous approval greeted Wisconsin's plan for standardization of points. The 100 point basis of awards, with standard points given for athletic achievements only, and with only standard points to be transferable from one association to another, was adopted.

The conference opened with an address by Louise Vancleave, president of the Indiana association and of the conference. Welcoming addresses were given by Agnes E. Wells, Indiana dean of women, and Juliette Maxwell, head of the physical education department.

The rest of the program includes a sectional swimming contest with Mabel Winter, Marguerite Croskey, and Edith Ewald entered for Wisconsin; discussions of expansions policies; conference pins; classifications of schools for the transference of points; and a debate, "Resolved, That basketball shall be played by members of A. How long can a Camel live on his hump?

"as long as there is old price merchandise to be sold there will be high price merchandise on Sale."

The wholesale prices on men's clothing started dropping last November.

We've told you that now so many times that you are probably tired of listening to it—but here—

Have you considered that the store that took its medicine and sacrificed its old stock in December and January is now able to offer you recuperative values—while the clothier who still owns a houseful of last Fall's goods is still plugging along with war prices for you to pay?

Well, that's the sum and substance of it and because things are as they are—we want to go on record here in capital letters by saying

OUR DECKS ARE CLEAR AND OUR CABINETS EMPTY OF ALL GOODS BOUGHT LAST FALL AND IN THEIR PLACE ARE NEW GOODS—BOUGHT AND MARKED AT THE NEW PRICES THAT YOU AND YOURS HAVE BEEN WISHING, HOPING AND PRAYING FOR.

AT THE FULLER

"Blind Wives" the massive William Fox stupendous expose of modern society is being well received at the Fuller where it will be shown today and Sunday for the last times. Aside from being a stirring dramatic subject in several episodes, "Blind Wives" is a bewildering fashion show displaying many luxurious creations.

"Blind Wives" is really five plays skilfully woven into one. Two of the leading players enact five different parts each, and another plays four parts. Estelle Taylor, who made quite a name in "While New York Sleeps," another Fox special, has the feminine lead. She plays the grand lady, a French weaver, a crippled girl of the slums, the unfaithful wife of a Russian fur hunter, and a beautiful model in a fashionable dressmaking establishment. All difficult parts—and Miss Taylor does them all equally well.

Marc MacDermott plays opposite her in all the scenes. He is her wealthy husband, her rejected sweetheart, her sister's beau, her husband in the Russian scenes, and her cruel employer in the dressmaking establishment. MacDermott is always good. He knows what is required of a part and he gives it a finish that makes it a pleasing memory. In fact, aside from the fine story that Edward Knoblock wrote, the work of Miss Taylor and Mr. MacDermott is worth going a long way to see.

Harry Sothern—who, by the way, is a nephew of the noted E. H. Sothern—plays the barber in the slum scenes, the sick husband in the French scenes, the fur hunter in the Russian scenes, and the hard-hearted dressmaking boss. He too, does some remarkable work.

AT THE STRAND

Vera Gordon, the Mother of "Humeresque," is playing at the Strand theater for the last times today in her latest picture "The Greatest Love," which is said to possess not only human interest to an unusually high degree, but a baffling mystery which holds up the suspense of the story until the end.

Mother love is the dominant feature of the picture, and the rise of the little immigrant family from poverty to power in the new land of opportunity, later followed by tragedy and humiliation, constitute a cross section of life which might be met just around any corner of a big city.

There will also be shown a Cartoon, a Bray Pictograph, and a Post Nature picture "Fishing."

Pauline Frederick in "Roads of Destiny" will be the attraction at the Strand Sunday to Tuesday.

WEATHER

Fair and cooler weather accompany high barometer in the lower lake regions and in the Atlantic states. Southerly winds, rising temperature and scattered showers on the plains precede an area of low barometer that is crossing the northern Rockies. Rain and cooler follow this disturbance in the north Pacific states.

He had reached the upper floor when he was discovered by Miss Esther Van Wagoner, who switched on the lights and chased him down the stairs.
