ALL JAMBOREE PLANS ADVANCE DEFINITELY NOW

Work Moves Rapidly Forward

With deadline dates for virtually all of the preliminary work of the Varsity Jamboree committee set, plans for the annual spring frolic are rapidly getting under way. The committee for special acts and stunts will hold tryouts at 7 o'clock tomorrow night in the concert room of Lathrop hall for all groups who have acts prepared. Late entries for these features may still try out for the jamboree by applying to Roger Baker '25 before tomorrow afternoon.

The committee for posters has announced the judges for the contest and selections of the best poster probably will be made tomorrow or Thursday. Prof. William H. Varnum, of the industrial education and applied arts department, Miss Margaret M. McCarthy, instructor in speech, Gladys I. Peterson '23, and Maynard Brown '23 will judge the posters. The winner will be awarded a prize of $5. The poster will be placed on exhibition in some store window on State street. The awards will be made on the basis of originality and the spirit of carnival and frolic in keeping with the Jamboree.

All possible haste in committee work for arrangements is being done at present because little time remains after the spring vacation. A number of students already have begun work on costumes for the dance and many novel masquerade creations are expected to be shown on the night of the carnival. Prizes will be given for the best costumes and also the best group costume outfit.

CHINESE COINS ARE DISPLAYED HERE FOR WEEK

Chinese coins dating from 100 B. C. to the present time, a full rigged Norwegian sailing vessel, and a portrait of the wife of the first governor of Wisconsin are some of the new exhibitions at the Historical museum this week. This week's display contains many features of general interest.

Between 400 and 500 Chinese coins, some of which date back to the time before Christ, are being shown. There is brass, iron, and copper cash about half of which is perforated to allow stringing on thongs. Some of them are strung together in swordlike devices. The Chinese believe these ward off evil spirits.

Silver and bronze medallions received by Mrs. Reuben G. Thwaites for her help in restoring life in the devastated fields of France are on exhibition. Mrs. Thwaites, who is the mother of Fred T. Thwaites is one of the two Wisconsin women to receive this honor.

A miniature model of a full rigged Norwegian sailing vessel, the kind that sailed before the early '90s from Norway to all parts of the world, has been made by J. J. Alousan, formerly of Madison. Mr. Alousan occupied his spare time for five years in fashioning this boat, which is perfect in every detail. Every pulley and rope is expertly fashioned.

The portrait of Mrs. Catherine Dunn Dewey, wife of the first governor of Wisconsin, is being displayed this week. The painting is by James R. Stuart.

Prof. Ernst Speaks on Anatole France at Lathrop Tonight

Prof. F. A. Ernst of the French department will speak on Anatole France and read selections from his works at the meeting of French club in Lathrop parlors at 7:30 o'clock tonight. Louise Schieffelin '26 will sing French songs. All who are interested in French are invited to attend the meeting tonight.

YEAR WILL SEE COMPLETION OF FIRST 30 TIERS

Nineteen twenty-three will see the first 30 tiers of the horseshoe stadium at Camp Randall completed, according to plans in the office of State Architect A. A. Peabody. Letting of the contracts for construction will take place within a month, and not more than a month later than that, actual work will begin.

This new addition will add nearly 8,000 seats to the present capacity, bringing the total number of seats up to 35,000.

The addition, which will connect the east and west stands at the north end of the field, will be composed of eight 50-foot sections 30 tiers high. One more 50-foot section will be built on to the south end of the west stand, which is now of wood.

The athletic council has set out certain amounts of money from the gate receipts of preceding years for the work. As is the practice in most conference universities, there will be a flat rate for all seats of $2.50 which will do away with much of the confusion of refunds, etc.

APPLICANTS FOR CON EXAMS MUST REGISTER

STUDENTS HERE TO EDIT PAPER

JOURNALISTS WILL CONDUCT YELLOWSTONE TOURIST AT PARK THIS SUMMER

Students in the course in journalism will form the nucleus of the staff of the Yellowstone Tourist, a semi-weekly paper, which will be published next summer at the Yellowstone National park.

Donald Anderson '24, Bozeman, Mont., will be editor, Halbert Hoard '23, Fort Atkinson, Wis., will have charge of advertising, and Charles Carey '25, Pittsfield, Ill., will be one of the news assistants. Other members of the staff will be Norman Collins, Seattle, managing editor, William Tratt, Fort Atkinson, Fritz Norgan, Madison, and Norval Langworthy, Beloit, assistants.

The paper will be published at Mammoth, Wyo., and only during the park season. It is estimated that over 120,000 people visit the park during each season. Although the Tourist is not the first paper to be published in a national park, it will have a very pretentious program for such a publication.

The Tourist will contain not only news, but road reports and feature stories of the wonders of the park. The world news will be given in brief and personal items on the visitors will be gathered.

Experience gained by Collins and Anderson two years ago when they published a paper, The Tourist Tattler, will serve as a base for the plans of the new publication. In discussing that experience Anderson declared that he learned from it that an efficient organization was necessary.

"We have organized early this year," said Anderson, "and have already started things going. We have just started writing to national advertisers, and have formed a competent news and advertising staff but it is not complete yet by any means."

The "loop," which will be the news field and the distribution center, is a strip of road 150 miles long that makes a circuit of the park. It will be covered at least twice a week by men to distribute the papers, to collect for sales and advertising, and to gather the news and advertisements.

The Tourist will be printed in a small shop far from a city and modern conveniences. The nearest city with a daily newspaper is 60 miles away.

STUDENT CONVENTION CLOSED SUNDAY

The Y. M. C. A. student industrial conference closed Sunday afternoon.

"It was very much a success," declared Mildred Replinger '23. "We were well pleased with the conference, and it is likely that similar conferences will be held again, probably not in Madison, but in different parts of the state."

This was the first time that anything of the kind has been attempted in the United States. There were 30 persons at the conference, fifteen industrial workers, and 15 students. The students were from Milwaukee, Chicago, Northwestern, Milwaukee Darrow, and the university.

The meetings, while usually for the discussion of some general subject, and having as leader in the discussion some speaker, were all informal, and were in the nature of round table discussions.

Prof. D. D. Lescohier of the Economics department here, and Miss Margaret Johnson, of the Vocational school, both addressed the conference on Saturday.

Two national Y. W. C. A. secretaries, Misses Head and Halsey, were present at the conference. Miss Halsey addressed the last meeting of the group, which was at the Y. W. C. A. Vespers Sunday afternoon. Miss Pyott, who was to have spoken at this meeting was unable to be here.

"The conference has surely started us to thinking more seriously than we ever have before," declared Miss Replinger.

PIANIST COMES TO APPEAR IN RECITAL HERE

Josef Lhevinne, the great Russian pianist, comes to Madison to give a recital Wednesday.

Josef Lhevinne is acclaimed by critics to be the greatest living pianist. He made his American debut in 1916, when he played the Rubenstein Concerto, No. 5, with the Russian Symphony under the baton of Wassili Safonoff.

Lhevinne's popularity as a pianist of transcendent powers has long been marked. His European activities have been many, as may be gathered from the fact that in a single season he has appeared no less than three times in Copenhagen, Berlin, Vienna, Budapest, London, Paris. His appearance in Madison is an event of unusual interest.

None seem to have a fairer claim to the title of Rubinstein's successor than Lhevinne, if such a title were not an absurdity. His hearers are impressed immediately with his largeness and his ease at the piano. There is in his playing much of the poetry of Paderewski's art, but it is far more composed and free from nerves. Mr. Lhevinne has quietly taken his place in the front rank of the great pianists of the day.

The Lhevinne concert will be held at the Christ Presbyterian church at 8:15 o'clock next Wednesday.

BRAYTON TO TALK ON PROPAGANDA IN NEWS

"Propaganda in the News" will be the subject of A. M. Brayton's talk to the Press club tonight at the regular meeting at the Delta Pi Delta house, 501 N. Henry street.

Mr. Brayton said late yesterday afternoon that he did not intend to hold strictly to the subject, but to talk on points of general interest to journalists.

This meeting will be the last one before Pi nite, Saturday, March 31. Chairman Jerome Bjerke will give out final plans for the annual journalist frolic. Pi nite will be held in Lathrop Concert room.

WEATHER: WARMER

Today will be warmer, followed by cold tonight. The sky will be slightly overcast. Tomorrow will be fair and moderately cold. The maximum temperature yesterday was 27.9 at 4 p. m., and the minimum was 7.2 at 7 a. m.

1924 BADGER TO BE DISTRIBUTED ABOUT MAY 25

3,700 SUBSCRIPTIONS ARE SOLD

To avoid any misunderstanding which may arise from Campus rumors, May 25 has been set as the official date of publication for the 1924 Badger, Gamber F. Tegtmeyer '24, editor-in-chief, announced yesterday.

"Much disappointment has always been caused in previous years through the spread of unfounded gossip as to the date the annual will make its appearance. To prevent such an occurrence this year, May 25 is announced as the approximate time, according to the present state of things, that the completed year book will be placed in the hands of subscribers," Tegtmeyer explained.

TO BE AS FIRST PLANNED

Over 3700 subscriptions are recorded up to the present, and when all the lists are called in from fraternity and boarding houses, an additional large number will be added. The advertising has surpassed last year's record, making it possible for the 656 page edition of the 1924 year book.

The art work of the annual is its most unique feature. The cover is in a rich, deep brown with a bronze University seal set in classical design. Six scenes have been taken, which by method of diffused photography, will be gorgeously reproduced as intaglio inserts. The complete art idea is to be worked out as in classical spirit. Inserts have been executed with the purpose of having them symbolic of the entire section, rather than attempting to make them pictorial. Subdivision headings by student artists show the same classical scheme.

WALLACE TALKS ON MEANING OF CROSS AT MEET

The first noon-day Lenten service held by the Campus Religious council in Music hall during Holy week was addressed by the Rev. J. Sherman Wallace, pastor of the First Baptist church. Reverend Wallace spoke on the "Meaning of The Cross" and he used numerous examples from history and from his own experience to illustrate the real meaning of the cross to Christians.

"The helplessness of love, the sinfulness of sin, and the Kingship of service, all are revealed through the cross," Reverend Wallace said. "The cross meant death and suffering to Jesus. What does it mean to you? We have cut it from wood, carved it from marble, and molded it in gold, but the true significance of the cross can only be revealed through service," Reverend Wallace declared.

The meeting today in Music hall will be addressed by the Rev. Hope H. Lumpkin, rector of Grace Episcopal church. Other meetings will be held each day during the week from 12:45 to 1:15 o'clock. H. J. Walter Coutou '24, president of the council, is in charge of the meeting.

GALLI-CURCI WILL SING

AT STOCK PAVILION IN MAY

Madame Galli-Curci, favorite soprano soloist, will give a concert in the university stock pavilion on May 21, H. C. Schafer '25 who has charge of the Agricultural College Federation part of the concert, announced yesterday.

The Agricultural College federation is to arrange for the converting of the stock pavilion into a concert hall. The scale of the prices will be: 1000 seats at 75 cents; 2,500 seats at one dollar; 2,000 seats at $2.00; and 500 seats at $3.

Galli-Curci, now regarded as the greatest soprano in America, made her debut with the Chicago Opera company in November, 1916. The rise of the singer has been remarkable and not equaled on the American stage in recent years.

ILLINI BUDGET IS $10,000,000

Sentiment in State Legislature
Seems to Be in Favor of Passage

URBANA, Ill.—That the statewide request for generous appropriations to the University of Illinois, which was made to the legislature Wednesday, will probably win the passage of the full $10,500,000 sought by the institution, regardless of Governor Smalls' attitude, is the opinion of leaders in the general assembly.

The governor, in his veto message of 1921, cut 1,640,000, from an appropriation of the same amount, passed by the fifty second general assembly. His budget this year calls for 9,211,265 dollars.

About eight million dollars of the appropriation asked is for operating expenses and the remaining 2,500,000 dollars is for new buildings and land.

Dr. David Kinley, president of the university, and the heads of the five departments and four trustees made up a delegation which appeared before a joint meeting of senate and house appropriations committee.

Facts presented by President Kinley and his staff showed the crowded conditions of the class rooms, cramped laboratories, and a big educational institution which has long since outgrown its equipment.

An illustration of needs other than in class rooms was shown in the fact the prize dairy herds are kept in the old barns which were erected 33 years ago and which have so fallen into decay that repairs are impossible.

"What we have received for building purposes has scarcely enabled us to meet the added demand for space without giving relief from pressure," President Kinley said. "It is unfortunate that we are obliged to put twelve university officers in one 17 by 33 foot room for consultation with students and to put folding chairs in the recitation rooms because we haven't the proper means to seat all of the students.

The people of Illinois should be able to contribute as much per year as do the people of Michigan, declared Kinley.

A memorial from the Industrial club of Chicago urging the passage of the bill was received.

Comings Will Address Younger Progressives

The Young Men's Progressive association will meet in the office of the secretary of state Tuesday evening at 7:45. Lieut. Gov. Comings will address the meeting.

Ross To Speak Before City Real Estate Board

Prof. E. A. Ross, of the university, will speak on "Mexican Land Policy" at the weekly luncheon of the Madison Real Estate board to be held Friday noon at the Madison club.

LIFE VOCATIONS DETERMINED BY MANY SENIORS

That practically three-fourths of the students graduated from the University of Wisconsin last year went out into life quite decided upon their life vocation is shown by statistics emanating from the deans' offices today.

Granting that those students who graduate from the special technical courses go into those fields of business in which they have specialized, F. W. Roe, dean in the College of Letters and Science estimates that at least 55 per cent of those who receive the bachelor of arts degree leave school with definite aims and plans for their life work.

Students completing courses in the colleges of Agriculture, Electrical engineering, Chemical engineering, and Mechanical engineering, the Law school and the Medical school, are almost certain to find employment in the particular field for which they are prepared.

Besides the students who graduate from the School of Music, the course of chemistry, the course in pharmacy, the school of education, and the department of physical education, and who one as a rule found to follow up their work in the business world, there are the commerce and journalism students who are more than likely to continue in the field in which they have spent four years of college work.

After deducting the number who have taken special technical or commercial training, there are not more than 400 remaining as graduates from the non-technical courses a fourth of whom are more than likely to be found in the teaching profession.

NEWS OF CONFERENCE SPORTS

BADGER PREPS HOPE TO GO TO CHICAGO MEET

Rules Must Be Same as W. I. A. A.

The high school championship of America is the goal to which the Wisconsin high school boys, state champs, are looking.

The Madison school won the greatest state tournament ever held in the Badger gym and they are already looking for new fields to conquer.

Entrance Still Doubtful
While it is still doubtful whether or not the Badger Preps will be allowed to enter the national meet which is to be held at Chicago early in April, the opinion of several members of the W. I. A. A. seems to be favorable.

The W. I. A. A. rules are strict and they allow no team to play at any time unless the rules of the game are strictly in accordance with the local rules. If the rules under which the national tournament is to be held conform with the W. I. A. A. rules, there should be no reason to hold the Madison boys from the meet.

No Worry About Finances
The financial problem is partially settled by the announcement by Dr. S. H. Chase, Woodrow street, who has a son on the championship team, that he is anxious enough to see the boys represented in the national tourney that he will donate liberally to railway fare and incidentals. The boys will be fed and housed in fraternity houses at Chicago.

An investigation will be made shortly by the officials of the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic association to ascertain the eligibility of the Wisconsin school to enter the Chicago tourney.

State Tourney Was Big Success
The state tourney which was held here last week end was a huge success from every standpoint, according to fans who viewed the games and to officials of the tourney. The play was as clean as has been shown by any team since the innovation of the state tournament here.

Many players of near varsity calibre were exposed by the play and it is possible that Wisconsin athletics may prosper with the addition of some of these men.

Oshkosh Normal to Have Coaching School Thursday

Dr. W. E. Meanwell will give the third of a series of one day basketball coaching schools in the Normal school gymnasium at Oshkosh, Thursday.

Dr. Meanwell divides the day into halves. From nine to twelve he lectures on the technique of basketball. From two to five he goes on the floor and demonstrates the passes and technique about which he has lectured.

"The purpose of these one-day coaching schools is to spread university basketball throughout Wisconsin and boost university athletics," Dr. Meanwell said.

"At the other two schools I have held this year at Superior and Wausau there has been an attendance of about one hundred coaches and players."

Fraternity Baseball Men to Meet Next Tuesday

Representatives from all fraternities interested in the inter-fraternity baseball tournament will meet with Coach G. S. Lowman in the office of the gymnasium at plan a schedule for the spring series. Any club or organization on the campus which desires to play in the tournament are requested to send representatives to the meeting.

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—The body of an 18 year old boy with a pocket knife sticking in it, was found here today in a culvert on the Milwaukee road, Center City. The body which was wrapped in a woman's petticoat, was bound with ropes and twine and lacerations and cuts on the face of the boy led the police to declare that he had been murdered.

Ohio Honors Old-timer With Varsity "O" Earned in 1883

Through the efforts of the Springfield alumni, David F. Snyder of Springfield, Ohio, has been honored by the Ohio State university with his varsity "O." Award of the coveted letter to Snyder by the athletic board was for his prowess in track in 1883, when he was the all-round track star of the university and was awarded the Franklin prize, an alumni honor for general athletic proficiency. Snyder is the oldest athlete to be honored with the varsity "O."

WISCONSIN RIFLE TEAM WINS CLOSE MATCH FROM PURPLE

Winning by the narrow margin of five points, the Wisconsin rifle team has been declared victor in a match with Northwestern university for the week ending March 17. Wisconsin made a team total of 3726, while Northwestern scored 3721. The Badger rifle team was composed of ten members, each man shooting four positions. Only exceptional shooting on the part of the Badgers enabled them to win, for the Northwestern team is one of the strongest in the country.

JOHNSON GETS HOCKEY HONORS

Named on All-Western Squad By Coach of Marquette University

Edwin E. Johnson '24, captain-elect of the Wisconsin hockey squad, was picked for the position of left wing on the All-Western team recently selected by Basil L. Corbett, Marquette University coach.

Two Minnesota men, and one player each from Marquette, Notre Dame and Michigan were also chosen.

Here is what Coach Corbett said regarding the Badger leader: "The business of picking the two forwards or wing men is a real task. The writer believes that Johnson of Wisconsin and Bartlett of Minnesota played the most consistent hockey and have qualifications most desired for these positions. Johnson is big and rangy and a good shot. He played his position well, and was responsible for a good number of Wisconsin's scores."

"Combacker of Wisconsin was an outstanding center, but his work did not measure up to that of Carle," said Corbett.

Thomas A. Tredwell, goal tender, and Robert O. Blodgett, defense, were designated as "excellent men."

The personnel of the All-Western hockey team follows:

Goal—Comb, Michigan.

Right defense—Castner, Notre Dame.

Center—Carle, Marquette.

DRAKE DIRECTOR PLANS RACE AS FEATURE AT NEXT GAMES

A big feature for the Drake games, April 27 and 28, is being planned by K. L. "Tug" Wilson, athletic director at Drake university. The present plans are to hold a 1,000-yard race competing with the best middle distance runners of the country. Ray Watson of the Illinois A. C., Arthur Wolters of Ames, and Phil Spink of Chicago A. A. will be starters in the race. It is hoped that Earl Eby, former Pennsylvania track captain, may also compete.

McInnis, the great distance runner, will not be along when the Oxford track team comes to the Pennsylvania relay carnival, April 27 and 28. Eight runners will represent the English school.

UNIFORM GIVEN FOOTBALL MEN PRACTICING NOW

Short Practice Held in Annex

About 45 uniforms were issued yesterday afternoon to the football candidates who are reporting for spring practice. Four new men reported. They are Weiskirch, Walsh, French, and Schafer. The coach conducted a short practice in the gym annex to get a line on the men who are out.

The practice consisted of handling the ball and practice in starting. The men showed a lack of ability to handle the ball. Some of the men are new to the game; this accounts for their clumsiness in glueing their fingers to the oval. In the practice that the coach is holding now he expects to get the men accustomed to handling the ball, so that when the fall practice opens he can devote all of his time to the finer points of the game.

Below to Be Out

Captain "Marty" Below and Art Saari appeared in the annex, but did not take part in the practice. They will both be out within a day or two and will put their all into making the spring training a success.

There is not as large a number out as the coach would like, but new men will be reporting from time to time until when Randall Field is open there will be a large squad out. Some of the men who are reporting appear to have the stuff to fill some of the gaps that are left in this year's team by the graduation of Captain "Rollie" Williams, "Gus" Tebell, the Badger athletes supreme, and "Shorty" Barr, who last fall was considered one of the best passers and field generals in the conference.

The team will feel the loss of these premier players, but Coach Ryan feels that he has a wealth of material to draw from that will do themselves credit in the places these men have left open.

CENSORSHIP AND THE CARDINAL

The Wisconsin State Journal, in its issue of last Sunday, devotes a column and a half of its editorial page to showing that the sport news policy of the Journal is an altruistic one and that The Cardinal is a censored publication.

The contentions of the Journal are based upon its sport story of March 21 announcing in a banner headline that Coach Meanwell may join the Gopher ranks, which anouncement, coming without any authoritative foundation, The Cardinal briefly lamented editorially as being psychologically destructive and adversely influential where the interests of the many high school basketball players, then in the city, and their future relations with Wisconsin are concerned.

The Journal, answering editorially Sunday, points out that The Cardinal in its news columns characterized the story as a "rumor flurry" and in the same breath said editorially "it was news, of course." And subsequently the Journal deduces that the two statements, apparently consistent, reflected an "inspired press" censorship. The Journal seized upon the phrase, "news of course," and built an editorial around it denouncing The Cardinal and the athletic department. Perhaps, for the benefit of the Journal, we should have placed "news" in quotation marks, labelling it sarcasm.

There's news, and then there's "news." The Journal in referring to the supposed inconsistency of the two statements of The Cardinal, fails to make an important distinction. What The Cardinal characterized as a "rumor flurry" was that Coach Meanwell may go to Minnesota. What The Cardinal editorial stated as fact known for some time was that Coach Meanwell had received offers from other schools. Unfortunately the Journal has not seen fit to distinguish between "may go" and "has been offered."

It is true that Coach Meanwell has had offers and that it has been known for some time. There is nothing startling in that knowledge. Doctor Meanwell, as well as every successful coach, receives offers each year. But when that coach does not intimate that he is preparing to leave, it is conjecture and not news that says he may go.

And The Cardinal maintains that the conjecture made by the Journal last week, coming as it did at the beginning of the state basketball tourney, did not achieve the altruistic motive of saving Coach Meanwell for Wisconsin, but, unwittingly perhaps, worked detriment for Wisconsin in that it presented discouraging prospects to future Badger basketball men, who stopped not to consider but jumped to the conclusion that the Badger mentor would soon sever his relations with Wisconsin. And such reactions of the high school men are fact. We talked with players who were in a hub bub of excitement over Coach Meanwell's pending departure and were lamenting the fact that they should not have the opportunity to work here under him.

Arguing the ethics of the Meanwell "news" would not be worth the space used here were it not that it makes up the material from which the Journal pieces two and three together to make four and, along with some misquoting, that makes the deduction bear out the assumption that The Cardinal is censored. Or, in the words of the Journal editorial:

What the "Cardinal" says would not be important if it did not reflect so nicely what is meant by those who frequently refer to the "inspired press." It is in part the amendability of the Daily Cardinal to dictation of certain university influences whose main dealing with the news is to suppress it, that brings out, if indeed it does not make necessary, such critical publications as the "Scorpion."

It is unfortunate that the Journal should assume the general premise of censorship and then point logically to an alleged particular instance to prove it.

But we thank the Journal for frankly decrying the "amendability" of The Cardinal to dictation of certain university "influences." The Cardinal is making an honest attempt to find wherein it is censored, wherein an "inspired press" displayed itself in The Cardinal pages, and who does the inspiring and the dictating.

The Cardinal has not hesitated to criticize freely the university, its professors, its courses. It has printed communications of all types sent to it. It learned at a recent meeting of the Conference editorial association, much to the surprise of all representatives present, that The Cardinal was free from the many restrictions imposed upon its contemporaries.

The Cardinal may have been censored in the past. With its staff changing almost completely each year, the present editors cannot know or be responsible for policies that existed in former years.

Whether the Journal's bald charge of censorship comes as a hold-over from past practices, we do not know. But the Journal makes its statement apply to the present. And so we feel an ally in the Journal in attempting to discover exactly of what the censorship consists.

Perhaps frank, specific statements of accusers would help to bring about the clarification of the present befuddled popular impressions of publication censorship at Wisconsin.

THE S. G. A. MEETING
Some S. G. A. rules manifestly are obsolete and need modification or complete deletion from the line-up of regulations for university women.

It is right that the first move to consider and readaptations of those rules should come from the women governed by them. Only by such procedure can self-governing become a reality. And so the mass-meeting of all women called for next Wednesday to consider changes should elicit the attention and attendance of every S. G. A. governed woman. The meeting must necessarily be free from domination by outside influence the dogmatic direction of small groups of women. It is an all-university affair for women.

Independent thought should be given to the proposals before Thursday. Definite decisions should be made at the meeting. And those decisions should not be questioned by the minority that does not attend.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES AND WISCONSIN SPIRIT

Editor, The Cardinal:

This letter will reach you only some time after the talk of Director Jones and others at the Roxena banquet March 20. Distance necessarily accounts for this. No doubt the accusation that the athletes of the university have to fight the co-eds has since then started various charges and counter-charges over the campus.

Some will say no doubt that Mr. Jones was unfair or harsh in his condemnation of a situation that has arisen out of the co-educational system at Wisconsin. Like almost every other alumnus the writer has taken a deep interest in affairs at the university, even though compelled to do so from a distance. What is it that strikes us in the news reports, or fraternity news letters, or on a visit to the old institution? It is that the ideal of a social good time has obsessed the student body.

Whether he put it in polite language or not, Director Jones is right when he implies that the men students are forgetting first principles in their pursuit of parlor games. What the University of Wisconsin needs, what the various organizations of the university need, is a revival of the spirit that made the institution in the first place.

REBATES—HOW COME?

Editor, The Cardinal:

The Co-Op rebates yearly arouse the question, "How Come?" Nobody seems to know the reason for them; whether there is a sound business basis behind them or not is unknown. When paid they fail to arouse any feeling of enthusiasm or satisfaction on the part of the student for the feeling is that an overcharge was made at the time of the purchase in order that a rebate might be given. At least this seems to be the logical explanation of the fact that fifteen per cent of the purchase price is now being refunded. There is no doubt that if there is to be a rebate the student would a great deal rather have it on the individual purchase instead of having his money taken away from him and returned later. An explanation of the system of rebates is necessary. The student senate has a member on the Co-Op board of directors. Perhaps he could clarify the situation.

CLAIM TOBACCO POOL IS LEGAL

Defense Says Its Size Does Not Make it Violate the Law

"The only apparent complaint in the cross-complaint filed by M. H. Bekkedal against the Northern Wisconsin Co-operative Tobacco pool is the size of the organization," Atty. Emerson Ela for the pool argued in Circuit Court yesterday where the pool is endeavoring to have the temporary restraining order secured by the pool against the M. H. Bekkedal and Co., made a permanent one.

The M. H. Bekkedal Co., buyers of tobacco, caused members of the pool to break their contracts with the pool, in hopes that the entire organization of the pool would be wrecked, Ela charged. Bekkedal bought tobacco of pool farmers until a restraining order was secured by the pool forbidding Bekkedal from buying any more tobacco from pool members.

"The mere size of a corporation does not make it a violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust law," Ela continued, quoting from a decision handed down by the United States Supreme Court.

He contended in court this morning that points raised by Bekkedal in his cross complaint are not legal and that the only person having the right to raise these points is the state's attorney.

Ela impressed upon the court his belief that if the pool had 10 members, Bekkedal would not have found fault with the pool but because it is an organization as large as it is he feels the effects of it and seeks to break it.

The defense claimed that prior to June 30, 1922, the date on which the pool claimed it had its 75 per cent, the organization greatly lacked the necessary acreage.

Ela basis his findings on the reports of assessors throughout the state who know the acreage in each of their districts.

He ridiculed the idea of the counsel for the defense trying to prove that the contracts are null and void if exactly 75 per cent of the acreage has not been signed by the pool.

"Although I know that to date we have over 3000 acres more than the necessary 75 per cent, if the court finds that the pool does not have the 75 per cent, and lacks probably 10, 20 or even a hundred acres would it be right for the pool to be wrecked because of this?"

He stated that the reason 75 per cent was used in the contracts was because this figure would make it more economical and business could be transacted on a more definite basis.

Ela denounced Bekkedal for his interfering with the operation of the pool. He showed where Bekkedal admitted on the witness stand that he wanted to "break" the pool if it was within his power to do so.

"The morale of the pool was beginning to weaken through offers made by Bekkedal to tobacco growers throughout the state and if we had not brought this into court there would be no pool left," Ela said.

The judge is expected to make one ruling that will cover the suit against Bekkedal by the pool, the cross complaint filed by Bekkedal against the pool and the demurrer of the pool to M. H. Bekkedal's charges that the pool is unconstitutional.

SARAH BERNHARDT, FAMOUS FRENCH ACTRESS, DIES IN PARIS

At 12 She Wanted To Be Nun; At 20 She Was Famous

PARIS — Sarah Bernhardt died here yesterday afternoon. The end came several hours after supreme unction has been administered by the priest at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Mme. Bernhardt died at 7:59 p.m., expiring in the arms of her son, Maurice, who had just entered the room at that moment.

The week-end was one of tense anxiety in Bernhardt's home and a floor of messages bidding her to have courage came from her many friends on the continent and in America. This counsel was scarcely needed for Bernhardt's determination to live, which so often has found expression in her positive assertion that she intends to "die in the harness" again came to her assistance and daybreak brought from the sick room word of a slight improvement.

Bernhardt this morning still retained her mental alertness astonishing those about her with her comments. Sometimes she caused them much pain by speaking of the desire to become a nun. To this her mother recorded unqualified opposition, and suggested a theatrical career instead.

"She's too thin to be an actress," said her god-father. "Let her be a nun."

"I won't be an actress," little Sarah categorically exclaimed. "Rachel is an actress. She came to the convent and walked around the garden, then she had to sit down because she couldn't get her breath. She was so pale, oh, so pale. I was very sorry for her, and the nuns told me that what she was doing was killing her, for she was an actress, and so I won't be an actress, I won't."

But fate had determined otherwise, and at the age of 14 Bernhardt was sent to a conservatory. At the end of the first year she won second prize for tragedy. Her first public appearance was at the Comedie Francaise in August, 1862. She took a minor part without any marked success.

Five years later she emerged from laborious obscurity with her first definite success as Cordelia in a French translation of "King Lear," at the Odeon, then as Queen in Victor Hugo's "Ruy Blas," and above all as Zanzett in Francois Coppee's "Le Passant," which she played in 1869.

Then came the Franco-Prussian war. Bernhardt increased her popularity by becoming a war nurse. In 1871 she was made a life member of the Comedie Francaise. She clashed repeatedly with M. Perrin, the manager, over the roles she should take, and once in a fit of pique fled from the theatre and decided to give up the stage. She plunged into sculpture. Her first piece, "After the Storm"—finished some years later—won a place in the Salon. She returned to M. Perrin only to break with him again, incurring a forfeit of 4,000 pounds, which she paid.

SCORED SUCCESS HERE

Sarah Bernhardt appeared in Madison several times during the past 33 years, but the dates of her appearances have been destroyed with other records of the old Fuller Opera house, according to Joseph E. Davis, treasurer of the Parkway. She received great ovations in the Fuller where many other famous men and women of the stage have entertained Madisonians.

"I'm sorry to hear she has died," said Mr. Davis. "She was a fine woman as well as a great actress."

agony she was undergoing. At times also she insisted on talking of her own funeral. She was anxious to know yesterday whether the new coffin she bought 30 years ago was still preserved, saying that she wished to be buried in it.

The long life-story of Bernhardt is almost legendary. Closely woven with dramatic incident, off as well as on the stage, it was set down by herself in a lengthy volume published many years ago. As she and others have told the story, it is summed up here:

The date of her birth, the record of which was destroyed in the flames of the Commune in Paris, was commonly accepted as October 22, 1845. Her mother was Dutch and Jewish, and her natural father, a French official.

As a child Bernhardt spent much of her time with relatives in Paris, and at the age of 12 was sent to the Grand Champ Convent, Versailles, where she made her debut in a little miracle play given by the children. Even at this early age, the pale and sickly child is said to have displayed the fits of temper which were characteristic of her stage career.

Wanted To Be A Nun

After a year or two at the convent, she conceived a passionate desire to become a nun. She toured the United States and Canada eight times in some 35 years, and appeared several times in the larger cities of South America.

The great actress was a grandmother when she last appeared in America, and had suffered amputation of her right leg. Upon her arrival in New York October, 1916, it was evident to the group of friends and admirers who gathered to welcome her that she walked with extreme difficulty.

While playing in New England, she contracted a severe cold which prompted her to take a trip south for her health. A few weeks later she underwent an operation for infection of the kidney and although more than 70 years of age, she enjoyed complete recovery and remained in America for several months.

Has Leg Amputated.

The injury to her knee which compelled the amputation of her leg in 1915 was attributed to many different causes. For years before the amputation the plays in which she appeared were altered to hide the fact that she was able to walk only with great difficulty. The operation was performed in Paris, and upon her recovery she reappeared on the stage to receive the greatest ovation of her career. Her manager announced that henceforth she would interpret only motionless roles.

During the World war Bernhardt made several trips to the French front and gave a number of performances for the soldiers. This, she declared, was the "incomparable event" of her life.

The memoirs of Bernhardt sedulously avoid any mention of her marital experience, and only in the middle of the bulky volume does she mention casually the existence of a son. One of her critics declared that "she never seemed to find the man who could master her."

Horsewhips Author of Book

Years ago a jealous rival of her theatrical career published a satire entitled "The Story of Sarah Barnum," in which the love-affairs of the actress, real and alleged, were shamelessly laid bare. Bernhardt resorted to the horse-whip to punish the author.

In 1882 the actress was married to Jacques Damala, a handsome Greek who had made a name in the theatrical world through his work in "The Ironmaster." He later took a minor part in one of her plays, but after a year on tour they separated. Later she took him back to her home and nursed him through a fatal siege of consumption.

Mme. Bernhardt's natural son, Maurice, showed no inclination to follow the profession of his mother, and after spending a short time in the French army, he married a Russian princess. She died after bearing him a daughter, and Maurice Bernhardt took a Parisienne as his second wife.

Made $500,000 A Tour

Many stories have been told of the fabulous sums accruing to the famous actress, especially in America, but authenticated figures show that the gross receipts of each tour were in the neighborhood of $500,000, of which she usually received fifty per cent. A large part of her earnings were reinvested in theatrical enterprises, and at one time she owned or controlled half a dozen playhouses in Paris.

A physical description of Bernhardt is difficult. In her youth she was undoubtedly what might be called beautiful, although from Engineers at Washington U.

Must Punch Time on Work

At the beginning of next quarter at the University of Washington a time clock will greet all embryo engineers as they go to their shop classes. Thereafter the silver-toned lathe operator or blacksmith may not hope to convince the professor in charge that he beat the clock to work by ten minutes. Since time clocks are generally rather hard to convince that it is really nine o'clock when it is nine thirty, it is expected that the improvement will result in punctual attendance in all departments of the shops.

Assembly Kills Sachtjen

Child Labor Bill 37-25

The Sachtjen bill, designed to extend child labor regulations to beet field, pea canning and cherry orchards was killed by the assembly yesterday. The vote was 37 to 25.

Mr. Sachtjen stated that the action of the assembly would indicate that the assembly is progressive until its own interests are threatened and said that no real progressive could vote against the bill. The bill would have empowered the industrial commission to prescribe regulations for the employment of children in orchards and field.

The assembly killed the Laffey bill requiring the licensing of every person owning or operating an automobile or motorcycle.

the French standpoint her slimness was against her. The greatest interest in the actress, aside from her art, was the tenacity with which she clung to her girlish appearance. At 75 she might have passed for a woman of 30, so well had the features of her younger days been preserved.

Nakoma Mail Route

Extended Two Miles

Extension of the Nakoma rural mail route was announced today by Postmaster W. A. Devine. The extension will accommodate about 23 families who formerly were forced to walk a considerable distance to their mail boxes on the Nakoma road. The new route leaves the main road at Monroe st., going to Pipers' corner, then retraces to the Orth corner, southeast and south through Nakoma proper then on to the Verona road to the Fitchburg road. The route is increased from 26.875 miles to 28.675 miles. The salary of the carrier is increased also from $1,890 to $1,950 a year.

SECOND FIDDLE
Featuring Glenn Hunter.
Presented at the Strand.
Directed by Frank Tuttle.
Released through The Film Guild Incorporated.

By CHATTY

We suppose that the theatrical and moving picture fields are crowded to overflowing with ambitious young men and women. If they are all as capable as Mr. Glenn Hunter is fans will not want for favorites. Perhaps this is extravagant praise, but Glenn Hunter promises much if his exhibition in the "Second Fiddle" is a fair example of his work.

He is in great demand in moviedom, and rightly so, we think. The fact that "Merton of the Movies," in which he takes the title role, bids fair to become a second "Lightnin'" in New York so far as number of performances is concerned is indicative of the young actor's capability. Somehow he reminds us of Richard Barthelmess. The vehicle in which he is playing at the Strand is very much like a Barthelmess picture, if there is such a thing as a distinctly Barthelmess picture.

Glen Hunter is ably supported by Mary Astor, another comparatively recent addition to the cinema. She has something of a pathetic manner about her that is appealing. But she can be jolly if she chooses, and proves herself a good dancer.

Leslie Stowe looks and acts the part of a half-witted, whiskey crazed murderer and thief. He has the physical appearances for such a role and makes the best of them.

The story brings out well the responsibility which an older brother owes to his younger brother. Although it may be overdrawn, it must not be condemned for such a feature. It is almost a general rule that movies and plays must be exaggerated to a certain degree in order to drive home their points.

We see a small lad come home from college whither his youthful brother has sent him on earnings made from a garage. In thanks for the younger boy's sacrifice, the other immediately begins to make things uncomfortable for his younger brother by assuming a superior air and playing the general part of a cad.

DYKEMA PUBLISHES
GROUP OF SONG GAMES

Professor P. W. Dykema of the School of Music is publishing a very interesting series of singing games in the Junior Home magazine. He is taking a number of the singing games that have been most popular in earlier times, and he is training groups of children to sing and play them. Pictures of the groups are used to illustrate the articles.

Professor Dykema has given special attention to these singing games that have played such an important part in the life of our ancestors, and he is presenting them in such an attractive way that children who are now growing up will gain pleasure from singing and playing them.

The Junior Home magazine is published in Chicago and is devoted to the interests of young people in the home. It gives special attention to games, plays, songs, stories, nature study, history and manual activities that are educational in character. The magazine is edited by Professor M. V. O'Shea of the Department of Education of the university.

By R. B. S.

The Orph has something to offer this week in the way of entertainment and there isn't an act that is bum. As individuals, Raymond Bond and Lambert won the evening.

The Minute Man:

Pretty good stuff and far above the usual one act skit. Better plot, action, and acting and Raymond Bond is an extremely clever character.

Bell and Rinnart:

Good pianist. Bell was a better contortionist than a dancer.

Wells and Winthrop:

Soft shoe dancers with an expert act but not quite enough variety.

Lambert and Fish:

Silliness to the nth power. At once inane and entertaining.

Kennedy and Berle:

More stage presence and poise than any children we have ever seen on the circuit. Berle might put some polish on the Cantor and tone down a little on the tragedy stuff and be really good.

The Homely
Appeal Best

By H. H. P.

The homely, human appeal is best. That's a valuable journalistic rule; and last night at the Parkway Lightnin' Bill Jones proved for about the two thousandth time that it also applies to the theater. Lightnin' is a pleasant, lovable old codger of a purely American type, which seems likely to become extinct in these piping times of prohibition and metropolitan expansion. But Lightnin' himself, we predict, won't become extinct for a long time.

Frank Bacon has been mourned and missed, but we don't see how he could have done his famous role any better than Thomas Jefferson did it last night. Bill was real, free from stage mush and buncombe, and the only impression of theatricality we got was in the star's rather set curtain speech. But thank goodness, actors aren't orators.

The producers of "Lightnin'" have shown especial kindness to the road patrons by giving their star a good company. We don't know, but we imagine the original company is pretty well intact. Parts that might have been rendered as conventional stage types came to life as personalities.

We hope more students have tickets for the "Lightnin'" performances today than attended the Parkway last night. It looked somewhat as if the townspeople had won the race to the box office.

"Lightnin'" seems to mark the beginning of an excellent run of plays. George M. Cohan's "So This is London" is scheduled for next Monday night; and soon after spring vacation Otis Skinner will return in Booth Tarkington's great play, "Mr. Antonio."

FREDERICK WARNS TO RESERVE BOXES NOW

Many reservations have been made for boxes at the Military ball April 20.

"Letters have been sent out to many organizations, urging that reservations be made at once. Because of spring vacation cutting in, orders for boxes must come in this week. This will give the committee time to make the proper distribution, and will assure everyone of having a suitable box," said Bill Frederick, chairman.

"A charge of $7.50 is to be placed on all boxes, to pay for the maid service and cost of getting the box in shape.

"Reservations can be made by calling Bill Frederick, B. 497. Preference is to be given to organizations making the first applications.

"Special arrangements will be made for small parties, of four to eight couples, by combining two or more such groups, so enabling them to have one large box.

"First come, best served is the policy of the committee on boxes. Get your order in at once, if you want the best."

And here our story is told—a tale of adventure on an island of derelict ships—some, centuries old—locked together in a tangle of seaweed and peopled by a colony of men and two women—ruled by a giant brute with the strength and soul of a pirate siren!

DEAN ANSWERS
NOTED AUTHORMiss Nardin Lauds Spirit of Women in Public Life

Should women in public life use their feminine talents or should they copy men? Ida M. Tarbell, author and lecturer, in a recent address in Providence, R. I., said that women can put much into public life that men have not, if they use the feminine talents with which they are inherently endowed and if they will be their natural selves.

Dean F. Louise Nardin says in answer to such a statement, "Of course, women should be their natural selves, but in being so they should not attempt to throw overboard a civilization which they find when they enter public life."

"But women can undoubtedly contribute much that is new to public life," she continued. "Look at your self-government associations for women that lay down rules of conduct, and ideals. Where is there a men's organization on the campus similar to that?"

Dean Nardin expressed the opinion that women's clubs were organized before men's and that the organization of the latter was more for personal advantage.

"A social responsibility," she said, "is the second contribution of women. Women think more of giving the child a chance than of punishing the one who has not had a chance. They have more thought for social welfare."

The individual viewpoint instead of that of the institution is the third addition of women to public affairs, according to Miss Nardin. She concedes that women are criticized for this very reason and are accused of being too hasty in judgment.

"Women are radicals. Do you know why?" she asked. "They are radicals because they want to get at the root of an evil and chop it away."

LEGISLATORS VISIT AT OHIO

Buckeye Statesmen Will Attend Social Sciences Meet

(Special to The Cardinal)
COLUMBUS, O., March 26—Members of the state legislature have been invited to attend one session of the annual meeting of the Ohio Academy of Social Sciences here next Thursday, Friday and Saturday. A special invitation has been extended the legislators by C. W. Reeder, Ohio State university secretary-treasurer, to hear Dr. Luther Gulick, director of the National Institute of Public Administration of New York city. Dr. Gulick will speak Friday afternoon on "Reorganization of County Government in New York State."

The sessions of the Academy of Social Sciences will be held in conjunction with the fifty-second annual conference of the Ohio College association and other allied societies. More than 200 college presidents, deans, members of the faculties and others are expected to attend the numerous sessions.

TRY TO RAISE STANDARDS

Efforts to raise college standards in Ohio are seen in proposed amendments to the constitutions of the Ohio College association. One provided that each member college shall have at least eight professors engaged exclusively in college work in place of six at present. Another would raise the requirements for admission of high school graduates to college to 15 points in place of 14 as at present.

Limitation of the number of students regularly under the charge of one teacher to 30 in recitation classes and 25 in laboratory sections is provided in another approved recommendation. It also is urged that the normal teaching load of a full-time teacher shall be 15 class-hours with a maximum of 18 class-hours.

REQUIREMENTS FOR TEACHERS

New requirements are advocated in regard to the training of teachers in the colleges. A new amendment would specify that for future appointments reparation shall be required amounting "at least to graduation from a college of the standing of members of this association, together with the possession of the M. A. degree from a standard university or its clear equivalent in graduate study."

In addition, the committee suggests that the association follow the example of the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools of the Middle West in recommending to its member-institutions that "a majority of the persons appointed henceforth to the faculty either hold the degree of Ph. D. from a standard university or have training equivalent to that required for such a degree."

WOMEN'S LITS TO DEBATE ON LABOR PROBLEM

Pythia will oppose Castalia in the fifth annual joint debate between the two societies at 7:30 o'clock Friday night in Music hall.

"Resolved, that the constitution should be so amended as to permit federal child labor legislation," is the question to be debated this year. Pythia, represented by Martha Dalrymple '25, Blanche Jandell '26, and Katherine Bigham '25, has the affirmative. Castalia's team, which will defend the negative, is Frieda Auchter '25, Eleanor Hansen '25 and Fanny Gallin '24.

Four years ago, in the Spring of 1919 the first women's debate open to the public at the university was held. Since this time Pythia and Castalia have met each other in four annual debates. The first and second of these were won by Castalia, but Pythia has been the winner of the last two debates.

The questions debated have always been current political topics, usually some question before the congress in session at the time of the debate.

The outcome of the debate Friday night is of special interest to both societies, because the victors will have the advantage of winning three debates out of five from the opposing society.

SCHOOL OF CHEMICAL ENGINEERING PRACTICE

A graduate school offering a course of study leading to the degree of Master of Science, with field stations established at six different companies located in Bangor, Maine; Boston, Mass.; and Buffalo, N. Y. These companies produce sulphite and soda pulp, paper, caustic soda, chlorine, heavy acids and salts, sugar, coke, gas, steel, ammonia, benzol, etc.

The more important operations of Chemical Engineering, as typified by the above processes, are studied systematically by means of tests and experimental work on full scale plant apparatus. One of the objects of this work is to fix in the mind of the student the principles of Chemical Engineering and to correlate these principles with practice.

The work is non-remunerative and is independent of control by the plant management, and therefore the whole attention of the student is directed to the study of Chemical Engineering.

The total number admitted to the school is limited and the students, studying and experimenting in small groups, receive individual instruction.

Before admission to the School of Chemical Engineering Practice, all students must have adequate preparation in chemistry and engineering. The able student can complete the requirements for the Master of Science degree in one and one-half years.

At the present time, thirty-one colleges and universities are represented among the men attending the School of Chemical Engineering Practice and these men comprise over one-half the enrollment.
