

LIBRARIES

UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN-MADISON

Kunu·kwé okhale? Lu·kwé.

[s.l.]: [s.n.], 1970/1979

<https://digital.library.wisc.edu/1711.dl/VIVQHZDFRGC4P85>

The libraries provide public access to a wide range of material, including online exhibits, digitized collections, archival finding aids, our catalog, online articles, and a growing range of materials in many media.

When possible, we provide rights information in catalog records, finding aids, and other metadata that accompanies collections or items. However, it is always the user's obligation to evaluate copyright and rights issues in light of their own use.

Women and a Man

They say that there was at one time a woman who kept several young girls. Then it happened that, I guess I'd say, they found themselves a young man or it happened that the man found them and he disguised himself as a woman. The caretaker didn't notice a thing. She thought he was a girl and she even admired her. The caretaker even liked her. In a while the caretaker notices that it seems as if the girls are putting on weight. It must be that there is a man lying around somewhere. So the woman in charge said, "There is surely a man amongst you in your group of women. So I will have to examine you right away."

Then they say she said, "All of you here go into that room so I can examine you."

Then they stood there and the caretaker went quickly through them until she came to the end of examining these girls. Then she said, "It seems as though what happened is this. From what I see in you here there is a man around so now I will examine you women again."

Then what happened was that she said, "Now what we have to do is all of you will undress and then I will examine you."

Now the male was prepared. It seems as if he knew so he had tied a string on his privates and then the time came for her to examine the girls again. She started here and was examining along until finally she came to where the male was standing. Now she examined him again. Just then she got mad because the string broke and it hit the examiner right on the face.