VISITORS ASK BOARD ACTION ON CLUB PLEA

Board Petitions Regents; Birge
States Plea Was Not Smothered at Meeting Wednesday

A resolution urging the Board of Regents to take a definite stand on the proposition of free speech and the open forum at the university was passed by the Board of Visitors at its meeting Friday night and made public yesterday by George P. Hambrecht, member of the board. This stand of the visiting board was taken because the regents at their meeting last Wednesday took no action on the petition of certain students in favor of the forum.

Birge Explains Action

The statement of the Social Science club representative presented to the Board of Regents did not urge the opening of the halls of the university to all speakers regardless of their ideas, according to a statement of Pres. E. A. Birge yesterday. "Mr. F. Doefler appeared before the regents as the representative of the Social Science club," wrote President Birge. "The question was not one of 'free speech' and he (Doefler) recognized that there must be some university control over the use of the university platform. He suggested for such control a committee composed of representatives of various interests, including the students."

Visitors Petition

Members of the visiting board, including Mr. Hambrecht, who introduced the petition to the regents from the visitors, expressed themselves as believing that the regents should not have summarily disposed of the students' petition. They believe that a constructive policy should be laid down to govern the president in determining what speakers should be allowed the privilege of the university platform. Mr. Hambrecht declared that the past policy of denying certain speakers the use of university platform was wrong.

Print Shop Awarded Senior Program Job

The contract for the printing of the senior graduation invitations and programs was let yesterday to the Print Shop of Madison by the executive committee of the class. The committee chose this concern over the other bidders, E. A. Wright Company and Charles H. Elliott Company, both of Philadelphia.

The contract was let to the Print Shop because of advantages of price and convenience. "The invitations will be sold at 40 cents a copy this year, a reduction of 15 cents under last year's price," said Fred Brewer, chairman of the invitations committee, yesterday.

The contract as let calls for 6000 invitations but additional ones can be ordered if necessary. Orders will be taken for the invitations in March.

White Rabbit Will Lead Alice Back Thru Wonderland

"Where are we going?" Alice will gasp when she follows the White Rabbit breathlessly up the steep hill on December 16.

"You'll soon see," the Rabbit will snap, pulling her through the magic door.

Alice will stand aghast. The land of Mother Goose will arise before her—a living dream. A land, where black silhouettes of Little Boy Blue, Bo-Peep, and the Cat and the Fiddle completely cover the walls. Myriads of nursery folk dart about in festive costume. Little Miss Muffit just remembers that it was December 16, and dances into the Y. W. bazaar at Lathrop hall. She sits under the sugar plum tree unconscious of the descending spider, but watching closely Little Jack Horner who sat in the corner.

"Come, let's join the others," urges the White Rabbit, adjusting his gloves and looking at his watch. "Only a minute more."

Amid the music of the Pied Piper and Little Boy Blue, the laughter of the Little Children who lived in the Shoe, they wander hand in hand.

"Why—there's the Walrus," cried Alice, "and the Mad Hatter—and oh, there's our own Wonderland up here on earth."

Holiday Rates Apply on Northwestern Line

This rate applies only in cases where the regular fare exceeds $2.50. The final return limit has been set for January 4.

Evening

Sigma chapter of Alpha Epsilon Phi, national sorority, was installed on the campus Friday evening. Mrs. Alice Borchard Greene of New York City, grand dean of the sorority, officiated at the installation, which was held at the Park Hotel and followed by a formal dinner. Guests were present from the chapters at the University of Illinois and Northwestern.

The charter members of the Wisconsin chapter are Janet S. Epstein, graduate; Frances Perstein '23, Sylvia Nemeroff '23, Rose Deutch '23, Sylvia Rosenberg '24, Evelyn Hauptmann '24, and Yvette Goldberg '24.

The pledges to the sorority are Jeannette Goldstein '23, Bessie Gold '23, Helen Malsin '23, Sophia Tashoff '24, Cecile Eiseman '24, and Ethel Epstein '24.

BIRGE APPROVES GIFTS TO NEEDY STUDENT ABROAD

Local Friendship Fund Campaign Opens Today—Movement Nation Wide

With the official endorsement by Pres. E. A. Birge of the Student Friendship fund to be furnished by American college students to needy students in foreign universities, the campaign for student contributions opens locally to-day.

"I am glad to see that the cause of the indigent students of Europe is finding a warm response in the hearts of American students," said President Birge. Concerted action to the end of aiding in the relief of the distress of our fellow students beyond the seas will be taken by the University of Wisconsin students.

Season is Appropriate

"The Christmas season is the most appropriate one for a donation of this character. Under the supervision of the World's Student Christian federation, a half million dollars is being raised by American students for the alleviation of the distress of the academic citizens of European universities.

"Because of the exchange rate favoring this country, money donated here goes a long way, and a substantial Christmas present from students and faculty members of this university will do far more good than any other Christmas gift money we could invest.

"I take pleasure in recommending this worthy cause to all members of the university."

Faculty Behind Drive

Faculty members will speak at every fraternity and sorority and also in many of the student boarding houses during the supper hour tomorrow night. An endeavor will be made to reach every student of the university and impress upon him the significance of the opportunity of aiding distressed foreign students through the friendship fund.

A Christmas tree will be placed at the foot of the hill as in former years and, as gifts to the fund increase, gold stars will be added to the tree.

PURNELL'S ACT IS WINNER IN UNION VODVIL

A. O. Pi's "Frivolity Revue" is Second—Audience Acts as Judges at Last Night's Show

By WALTER A. FRAUTSCHI

The audience played a great part in the final performance of the 1921 Union Vodvil last night. The awarding of places was done this year by a ballot taken at the door following the performance. The results of this new experiment in judging show that first place was awarded to "Bill" Purnell '22, in his act "99% Nerve and 1% Talent," and the "Frivolity Revue," composed of A. O. Pi's and "Reg" Garstang '22, was given second place.

It is evident from the results of the balloting that Purnell had a little more than 1% talent. He had many imitations which were original and clever, and his tragical rendition of "All by Myself," followed by a take-off on a cabaret singer's method received the most applause. He also imitated in true vaudeville style the characteristics of Eddie Cantor and Ed Wynn.

More Than 99%

"Bill" was quite original when he brought out a placard bearing the legend "Vote your ballot for Bill." The audience not only seemed to appreciate the 99% nerve but also, took his suggestion. "Bill" Sumner was at the piano during the act.

The "Frivolity Revue" was the conventional chorus girl type of act. The girls danced up and down the aisles while "Reg" Garstang bashfully "Said it With Music."

The setting for the act was rather plain: A pale blue back-drop and a few ferns filled up the stage when the girls were not present. In the center of the stage a large black and white handbox waited to receive the nine syncopators after the last song.

Plan Student Sale of Christmas Seals

The Anti-tuberculosis association will hold its annual Christmas seal sale among the student body beginning Monday, Dec. 12, and lasting one week. Pres. E. A. Birge and Gov. John J. Blaine have endorsed the sale on the campus.

"Wisconsin has always responded to this appeal with admirable spirit, and we want every person to purchase seals and aid a good cause," said Carl J. Engelhardt '22, who has charge of the sale.

All fraternities and other organized groups can give orders directly to Engelhardt at B. 6754, and Dorothy Ware '22, B. 305, has charge of all sorority orders. Seals will also be on sale at the University pharmacy, Sumner and Cramp-ton's, the Y. M. C. A., and at Barnard and Chadbourne halls.

IT is fitting and proper that some little comment be made in these columns on the big event of the week end, which is familiarly known as Union Vodvil. Since the affair is primarily a light-hearted, care-free group of entertainers, it ought to offer admirable opportunities for us. Let's see what we can do.

A. THE orchestra, with the aid of "Bill" Sumner and "Cece" Brodt, finally succeeded in getting out of tune, and kept up the excitement before the first act and during the intermission by creating no small amount of discord.

B. WITH the aid of some suspicious looking bottles, the Alpha Gamma Rhos managed to hold the attention of the audience, but when said audience found out that the bottles didn't contain what they had hoped for, the act had to "cave the stage" because only two inquisitive ones volunteered to experiment on the liquid contents.

C. DOT CREMER and the Butts' worked into the program very well, as they gave the stage hands ample time to set the scenery for the next act. However, it is unfortunate that Port is so good looking, as it only makes the contrast between the brothers more painful.

D. MUSIC has the power to soothe the savage breast, so they say, but Helea Cheetham, in the Theta act, must have gotten her signals mixed, because Milly Miller and Marg Boesch looked and acted just as wild as usual. But you all know how hard it is to break a habit, once it has taken a firm hold.

E. THE grand piano managed to horn into Bill Purnell's one-man sketch, which gave it a perfect batting average up to this time. Getting back at Bill, it might be said that he swiped one of his jokes from this column, which, of course, means that the act was not up to the expected quality.

F. "Trifles" was misnamed, and would probably have had a greater appeal had it been called "Woman's Curiosity." Nevertheless, the cast "tended to their knitting" and although they forgot to drag the dead man onto the stage, filled up their allotted time as well as could be expected.

G.

THE Glee club was quite a disappointment, as they came out and sang. Of course, everyone was looking for some good jokes and dialogue, being misled by the title "Glee," but then that was only a technical mistake.

H.

BY falling back on the help of girls and the orchestra, Bill Kellett kept his name on the program. Solveig Winslow and Florence Miller may have tried to give the appearance of being "green" by the choice of their costumes, but they didn't fool anybody. Dorothy Oechsner knew better, and so acted naturally.

I.

IN spite of all Les Gage's efforts, Heinz Rubel got into this act. He showed good judgment, though, by blacking his face, thereby making blushes entirely a private affair. It is rather regrettable that the horses failed to arrive for the act, but as someone said, we don't see how they could have put 15 more of them on the stage besides Heinz.

J.

"REG" Garstang was right in his element with a chorus of enticing A. O. P's flocking around and trying to make dates with him. He appeared a little bashful, probably because he is not used to doing his fussing in public. At the close of the act, the chickens all went back into the coup, after having displayed their plumage to the audience by trooping up and down the aisles.

THE D. G's and the Psi U's threw a two-night party this week end. Friday night it was held in the latter's house and then all yesterday morning the Psi U's let the girls drag the decorations over to the D. G. house, where the party was held last night.

"I've barked my sin," said the man with the wooden leg, as he caught it in the doorway.

VARSITY FIVE WINS EASILY; SCORE 27 TO 13

Michigan Aggies De- feated in First Pre- lim Game

Displaying almost mid-season form, the Badgers stepped out last night and won the first game of the preliminary schedule by defeating the Michigan Aggies by a score of 27 to 13.

The results of many weeks of preparation were evident as time after time Captain Ceaser and his mates worked the ball into easy scoring distance. The work stopped there, however, as countless short-range shots were missed.

Captain Heasley and Brown were the outstanding lights of the Aggie aggregation, while the honors in all departments of the game were evenly shared by Doctor Meanwell's men.

Crowd Sees Opener

When the two teams lined up for the opening whistle, nearly 2,000 fans were seated in the gymnasium ready to watch the initial performance of the season. They were not disappointed, as both teams gave nice exhibitions of play and furnished the crowd with a thrill every now and then.

The opening whistle had hardly sounded when Gibson made a technical foul and the Aggie captain started the scoring by making the free throw. During the next five minutes, both Taylor and Heasley missed chances to score via the free throw route. Gibson then sent the ball through the ring for the first basket of the year. A few minutes later the Badgers started a scoring rally, Ceaser and Taylor caging baskets in quick succession.

Coach Furnidee made a change in his lineup, and the work of the invaders seemed somewhat improved. Heasley scored two points on a long shot, making the score read 8 to 3. Following beautiful exhibitions of the Meanwell style of game, Rollie Williams and Ceaser each garnered baskets. During the remaining minutes of the half, Heasley scored a basket and a free throw, and Ceaser and Taylor chalked up 2 and 1 points, respectively. Just before the half ended, the Michigan coach made several shifts in his lineup, but they were unable to score, and the count stood 6 to 13 when the gun announced the end of the period.

Ceaser Shows Well

Ceaser seemed to employ his eye to the best advantage in the first half, making 3 field goals. Although Taylor's shooting was way below par, the ex-captain played the floor well and his defensive work was way above that of last year. Gibson played the position almost in veteran style, his passing, shooting, and jumping being well performed. With a little more experience, the big sophomore will fill the bill in an efficient manner this year. Tebell made several nice dribbles down the floor, but seemed at a loss to know what to do with the ball when he neared his own basket.

The opening of the second half found Irish replacing Tebell at back guard and Johnson in at center. After Heasley had gathered two points on free throws, Taylor, Johnson, and Brown all scored on field goals. The Badgers offense commenced to work more smoothly, and Johnson and Ceaser each scored again. The play seemed to lag for several minutes, neither team scoring. Johnson broke the monotony by caging a basket, and Gage followed suite. Four minutes before the half ended, Johnson again sent the sphere through the hoop for the final counter of the game. Ceaser and Tebell were sent back in, making the lineup the same that started the contest with the exception of the center position.

Williams' Work Features

The big feature of the second period was the spectacular dribbl-

Forty Report For Work on Maroon Basketball Squad

Under the guiding hands of Coaches Nels Norgren and Molander, the University of Chicago basketball team is fast rounding into shape for the strenuous campaign of the Conference season. Four practice games have already been played which have given the coaches an excellent line on the Varsity aspirants.

Forty men responded to the call for basketball candidates, and after two weeks of hard practice, the squad has been reduced to twenty-five. The coaches are reluctant to predict a successful season for the Maroons, for an entirely new team has to be built. The nucleus of last year's team—Birkhoff, Crisler and Vollmer—has been graduated. To offset this great loss the strength of the squad has been augmented by the addition of "Mitt" Romney, star on the University of Utah five of 1918; Johnny Bryan, who was a tower of strength on the U. of C. 1918 team; and Bruce Sheppherd, a flashy forward from Kalamazoo College.

The team will probably open the Conference season with Captain "Bob" Halladay at center; "Bob" Stahr, "C" man from last year, and Romney at the forward jobs; "Bill" McGuire, of the 1920 quintet, and Bryan or Cox at the guard jobs.

Numerous practice games have been scheduled for the Christmas vacation period. Colgate plays her on December 31.

Williams Released as Gopher Mentor

Coach Harry L. Williams, for years in charge of sports at Minnesota, has been ousted from his position as head football coach.

In a thorough clean-up of the coaching staff, the Gopher athletic council annulled contracts with every member of the Minnesota coaching staff. The action will mean the release of Williams, Coach Frank of the track squad, Dr. Cooke, basketball mentor, and other minor sport coaches.

ing and pivoting of Rollie Williams. The star guard dribbled through the Aggie's defense with ease and was responsible for several of the baskets made by Johnson and the forwards.

Johnson appeared to have more drive and shooting ability than Gibson, but he did not have the technical points of the game as well in hand. Between the two men, Doctor Meanwell has apparently solved the pivot position for the coming season, as a little practice will make excellent centers of both of them.

On the whole, the team appears to be as good right now as did the champions of last year at the end of the season. The defense relaxed a few times, but this is to be expected at this time of the year.

"Horse Shoes" Are Soccer Champions

The Horse Shoes easily defeated the Black Circles in the final struggle for the soccer championship of the university on the lower campus yesterday afternoon by a score of 5 to 0.

The Horse Shoes playing in four inches of mud were outnumbered by one man, but held their opponents scoreless. The ball was so heavy from the large amount of mud which clung to it, that it was hard to kick any great distance.

PI K. A.'S WIN CINDER MEET IN FAST TIME

Sigma Nu Places Sec- With Theta Chi Third

Running away from the strong Sigma Nu squad, the well balanced Pi Kappa Alpha team yesterday won the fastest inter-fraternity meet that has been held in the annex in many seasons. Repeating their victory of last year, the Pi Kaps carried off the first cup by piling up a score of 40 points against 21 by Sigma Nu and 18 by Theta Chi. The relay, which was the feature event of the afternoon, was taken by the Theta Chis.

In the 40 yard high hurdles, Newell, a speedy Pi Kap, skimmed over the sticks to tie the annex record of 5 2-5 seconds, made in 1916. Hamman, Sigma Phi Epsilon, and Salentine, Sigma Nu, also did some spectacular work in the hurdles.

Mile Run Feature

Thiessenhusen, Theta Chi, in the mile and two mile runs showed wonderful ability, winning both events in close to record time. The broad jump also brought much exceptional talent to light. Roberts, a Phi Gamm, cleared a space of 21 feet 11 1/2, very near to the indoor mark.

Aviating some 11 feet 9 inches, D. Jones of Pi Kappa Alpha skimmed the bar for a win in the pole vault, going three inches over his mark made in the frosh-soph meet last Saturday.

In the relay the speedy Theta Chi squad of sprinters carried off the cup. Sigma Chi was second, followed by Phi Kappa Sigma, Pi Kappa Alpha, and Sigma Nu in order.

The scores of the first five teams were: Pi Kappa Alpha 40; Sigma Nu 21; Theta Chi 18; and Alpha Vollmer—has been graduated. To tied for fourth at 13.

40 yard dash—Hurley, Lambda Chi, first; Roberts, Phi Gam, second; Crane, Beta, third; Newell, P. K. A., fourth. Time 4 4-5.

40 yard low hurdles—Salentine, Sigma Nu, first; Newell, P. K. A., second; Tuhtar, Sigma Nu, third; Otto, Sigma Phi Epsilon, fourth; Gibson, Theta Delt, fifth. Time 5 2-5.

One mile—Thiessenhusen, Theta Chi, first; Schneider, T. K. E., second; Wade, P. K. A., third; Moorehead, A. G. R., fourth; Koch, T. K. E., fifth. Time 4 4-5.

THE PEOPLE'S CHOICE

It is unfortunate that the 1921 Union Vodvil production, justly called the most completely finished performance in the history of these shows, should be marred by the obviously unfair system of judging which was used at last night's performance.

Ballots were distributed to the audience and each person voted his preference after the final act. Without questioning the merit of the acts which won by this system, and they were undoubtedly both excellent pieces of work, the Cardinal feels that the method adopted can but expose the producers of the show to criticism. In a performance which represents local talent, friendship and acquaintanceship with the actors most naturally enters into a decision. It is unfair to ask students to pass an unbiased judgment of such nature.

Opinions in regard to the best act have been as numerous as the number of acts entered, and there cannot help but be a large amount of unfavorable comment following the announcement of the winners. Justified, or unjustified, this criticism will arise to mar the success of the event. Dale Merrick, general manager of the show, deserves the highest credit for assembling and producing a performance of varied and entertaining nature; those who assisted him in the production did their part well; but it is to be regretted exceedingly that a corps of capable and disinterested judges was not selected to decide upon the merits of the acts.

The total vote cast last night numbered about two hundred and fifty. This should not be taken as even representative of that part of the student body which saw the show, granting student ability to pass an uncolored judgment. We shudder to think what might be the result—the gathering of the clans on the night of the judging, assembling to obtain the right to place the people's choice first.

THE QUESTIONNAIRE

A TRULY worthwhile undertaking is that of the Commerce Magazine in making a survey of the life and interests of the average individual student at the university. Already the project is gaining much publicity and it is fair to say that it will be as good advertising for the school as anything in some time past.

The survey is a good thing in itself just as much as it will be good for giving publicity of a non-detracting nature to the university. It is perhaps the largest survey of its kind ever undertaken in the country, and judging by the response accorded it, its complete success is assured.

The results of the survey when tabulated will be of great interest indeed; it will be interesting to know the varied interests of the individuals in a body embracing representatives of such varied environments. It is of interest to know that while some in school dance six or eight times a month, there are others who dance once a year; that having no dates contributes to making some of our students blue.

The honesty and lack of exaggeration that is being evidenced in the questionnaires will help to make the survey one of practical statistical value. Those who do not have dates are truthful in stating so, as are those who spend little or much at school.

Nothing definite can be ascertained from the report as yet, since they are far from complete, but it is certainly surprising to note from the questionnaires already in that those who keep up in the daily news are in the minority. Everybody reads the headlines, but comparatively few know in any detail what happens in the world at large from day to day. For a university group it is hard to realize that very few indeed read good books regularly. Magazines, however, are more widely read.

Judging from some of the survey lists, there is a tendency toward students coming from wealthy homes. There are, too, a goodly number who find it necessary to contribute toward earning their way through school. Perhaps the school is falling short in its work, for many of the students are lacking in self-confidence.

Without a doubt, the completed survey will reveal many surprising facts about the students here—and interesting ones also. The aim of the survey will be realized to the fullest extent if all of the students co-operate in filling out the blanks without exaggeration and turning them in on time. Nothing of this nature has ever been tried here before and if everybody helps to put the thing over in the right way, the final analysis, by virtue of its large field, will be a commendatory contribution toward letting us know what we really are and what we're getting out of being here.

HELP THE FACULTY HELP THE GIRLS

THE Little Theater troupe of the Library school is appearing Monday evening at Lathrop hall under the auspices of the University Women's league. The program will present a number of the most prominent in faculty dramatic circles, and the proceeds of the event are to be used in helping to furnish one of the women's co-operative houses. This should be an added inducement to make the entertainment offered in Lathrop hall well supported.

The university may be justly proud of the two co-operative houses that it has. The first attempt for a co-operative organization was started by Mortar Board, senior women's honorary society, some years ago. The success achieved resulted in the establishment of a similar institution last year.

The state contributes to the support of Chadbourne and Barnard halls. The co-operative houses are self-supporting.

Men's Glee Club Presents Annual Program Friday

Thirty-fourth Concert Given at Parkway— Club Has Grown

In presenting its thirty-fourth annual concert at the Parkway theater on next Friday evening, Dec. 17, the Men's Glee club reaches a high point in its varied career. The club has been enlarged from some 20 members to a group of over 40, and—most important—the program has been chosen, not for the usual sort of glee club singing, but for real musical value and interest.

Time was, when the club originated in 1887, that a glee club program consisted of a comedy skit, a banjo solo, and a rah rah song. These days, following the lead of the Harvard club, a glee club becomes a real musical unit, and is a great factor in the cultural development of college men and women.

Under the direction of E. Earle Swinney, of the school of music, the University of Wisconsin Men's Glee club has grown in size and musical taste.

Orchestra in First Concert of Season

This afternoon at 3 o'clock the University Orchestra will give a free concert in the auditorium of the University School of Music.

The orchestra this year numbers 25 violins, two violas, three cellos, one string bass, one harp, three flutes, two clarinets, two French horns, one bassoon, one piano, one bass drum and cymbals, one pair of timpanies, and two trumpets.

For the first time in many years, an entire symphony will be presented. The remaining features of the composition are arranged especially for the University Orchestra by the members of the Instrumentation Class of the School of Music and by Major E. W. Morphy, the conductor of the organization.

The First Regimental concert band will give its first concert of the winter's series next Sunday, Dec. 18, at 3 o'clock at university gymnasium.

Slaughter Exhibits His War Flags To Thrilled Reporter

THE reporter visited a Latin class and expected to be enormously uplifted. But there was a sweet, laughing gentleman at the desk where the stern and hoary preceptor should have been, and there was something decidedly engaging about the look in his eyes. So the reporter got a little excited. Moreover, it appeared that the delightful gentleman at the desk—Prof. M. S. Slaughter,—was telling a story.

"So Jason gave the serpent aspirin," he said, "and put him to sleep. Then Medea ordered her air-plan and breezed away."

I looked inquiringly at the person next to me.

"Mr. Slaughter is telling us an ancient myth," she said. "We'll have to know it for the exam."

I was fascinated, and pursued the jovial gentleman from the classroom to his office and was immediately received into his exuberant friendliness; so we chattered down the hill together, and to his

It was the warmest, sweetest house imaginable, full of pictures you could be fond of, and old books, and strange little things of brass and cameo and silver, that had been brought from far away, received into the harmony of the place.

"And what is that mysterious object in the corner?" I inquired, when we were sitting comfortably before the fire, pointing to a strange, red thing in the corner. My kindly host smiled suddenly, and rose.

"Oh! That is my most precious possession. I wonder if you would like to see me parade?"

So he went to the corner, swung the brilliant red flag of the city of Venice over his shoulder, and marched triumphantly down the room, like a little boy.

"The city of Venice gave it to me, when I finished my Red Cross work there. I'm fond of it." And he put it carefully away again.

I picked up a queer little bronze device from the table.

"That's from Tivoli," he said. "Have you ever been in Tivoli? No?"

It is one of the dearest corners of the earth, to me—Horace loved it too. You know Horace was a remarkably human poet—my students are only beginning to find that out

And it was then, as he talked more of the old people—Horace, Horace's friends, the Italian fountains and hills they loved, that the warmth and loving kindness and delicious humor deepened about him. Here was a rare personality.

I had a sudden thought as I walked away.

"Why, he must be nearly sixty!" And then, "I don't believe it! He'll never be older than a sigh, or a gay laugh, or perhaps a caress."

QUEER PERSONALITIES EXPOSED IN ARTICLES OF THE DECEMBER LIT

By WALTER K. SCHWINN

There is much good writing in the present number of the Lit; the articles are in excellent taste, and each is interesting. Pipa would do well to pass this way, and voice her optimism.

The genus homo seems to be the main theme in the Lit this month. We have at least three pieces in which the emphasis is placed on one fact: what interesting thing man is, anyhow! There is Mrs. Bregstein in the "Portrait of a Woman"; and Castalia Dutch in "Easter Sunday"; and Clare and Bobby in "Labor Day." The horoscope is almost complete, you see, and the actions of the characters interested are, in each case, read with skill. The psychology presented is presented with foundation and with a clear understanding of the character dealt with.

Earl Hanson's story, "Easter Sunday" is the most interesting, in its development and handling. The gradual giving away of Castalia Dutch from mere perverted goodness to sheer insanity is presented with much detail, and in a manner that leaves no doubt as to the reasonableness of the final calamity. Hanson writes with a simple, easy style that is very effective. "Portrait of a Woman" is in a different manner. Mrs. Bregstein is a static character, and does not change throughout the piece, but her portrait is none the less vivid and realistic. Martha Dreiblatt writes directly and concisely, with good detail. "Labor Day" by Gwendolyn Jones has a distinct atmosphere, which fits into the story well, and greatly heightens the effect. Her portrayal of a day in the lives of Clare and Bobby is just a little formless, but the effect is good. "Finis" by William M. Sale is another bit of atmospheric writing, with ver successful dialogue. A trick ending of this piece is rather

Replies Made To Survey Reveals Many Opinions

Questionnaire Shows Trends of Thought in University

A wave of the "Sunday Blues" has descended upon the students at the University of Wisconsin, according to the first 1,200 answers received by the Commerce Magazine in its questionnaire survey of the student body. Whether it will hold first place in answer to the question "When are you blue?" or whether it will give place to "Love affairs," "Money troubles," "She doesn't love me," "No dates," or "No lovin'" will be more readily ascertained next Wednesday when the last of the 7,000 questionnaires have been turned in at the orange ballot box in the University Pharmacy.

Some of the Answers

One man claims to be able to live on $35 a month; another spends $4,000 during the school year. "If the man isn't making enough, I'll work," writes a freshman girl; but a junior who dances eight times a month and spends $220 a month won't be satisfied with less than $18,000 a year income when she comes to the age for jumping off—three years from now.

What We Read

A minister's son reads Jim Jam Jems—guess who it is. Nobody reads good books, and regularly, although the Cosmopolitan, American, Saturday Evening Post, Ladies Home Journal, and Good House-keeping are read by most of the students.

Hobbies

One man's hobby is "horses"; another's, "loving." A shy little sophomore girl answers "Philipp Morse" to the question "Do you smoke?" For the most part, however, the answers avoid attempts at humor and are definite and honest.

"Hump" Desmond '22, and "Reg" Garstang '22, who will write the feature article on the results, have figured that 5,000 questionnaires, times fifty questions each, times seven necessary calculations, totals 1,750,000 tabulations. It will mean uncountable hours, days and weeks of work but the sensational results will warrant any expenditure of effort.

News Services After Results

"No wonder national news services and agencies are after the exclusive rights on the results," says Prof. E. H. Gardner. "It is the largest and most comprehensive survey every undertaken in any school in the country." "It has my heartiest support," says Prof. William Scott, director of the Course in Commerce, "the faculty is watching the progress of the work with great interest." And Prof. Harry Glicksman, assistant junior dean says, "Anything that supplies facts as to conditions, qualities, and background in student life is a good thing. I doubt if there is a man or woman student who will not want to fill out one of these questionnaires, especially since they do not sign their questionnaires."

Questionnaires Due Wednesday

Seven distributing points have been named so that each and every student will be able to get a questionnaire. At nine o'clock on Wednesday night, Dec. 14, the ballot box will be emptied of its contents for the last time and the count will begin.

Erika Morini To Present Varied Program In Violin Recital; Choral Union Gives Messiah for First Time Tuesday

Erika Morini, who will come to Madison on December 15, at the Christ Presbyterian church, is known as the world's greatest woman violinist. When she was in New York recently the enthusiasm was so great that four recitals in one week were demanded of her.

Erika Morini was born in Vienna. Her father was a musician of considerable ability who recognized her talent when she was a youngster and did everything to give her musical training. After success had been assured at Vienna, she was engaged to play with Arthur Nikisch, famous conductor of orchestras in

For the first time in six years the Choral Union will devote the entire program to this work. The soloists include Glenore D. Caton, soprano; Josephine Jones Iltis, contralto, both of the University School of Music; William L. Miller, Madison's well known tenor, and Charles E. Lutton, baritone of Chicago. Mr. Lutton is a graduate of the Vocal department of the Northwestern School of Music.

Dr. Charles H. Mills, director of the University School of Music, will preside at the organ, playing from the full orchestral score in order that the complete richness of Handel's accompaniments shall be presented.

"Erik Dorn" Not For Those Who Believe In Simple Virtue

Ben Hecht's Book Filled With Sayings of Clever
Poseur Who Sees Life as Biology—
Reviewed by Hanson

ERIK DORN, by Ben Hecht, published by G. P. Putnam's Sons. $2.00.

From a combination of an F. Scott Fitzgerald and Knut Hamsun's Pan, there would result an Erik Dorn. He is a peculiar, neurotic specimen, a man who can hold our interest but never our sympathy. He is imbued with all the self-indulgence and sex-complexes of a Pan, and with all the shallow cleverness of a Fitzgerald. He is a cynical observer of life—the only thing in life that really touches him is love and what he calls biology. That, however, dominates him entirely.

Life is biology! A neurotic author fairly shrieks the message at the reader. War, the German revolution, art—all are extremely interesting as biological phenomena, but futile and foolish as far as anything more is concerned. A cold, driving rainstorm and the face of a woman through the glass-door of a house have a far greater hold on the imagination of Erik Dorn than all the paintings and pieces of sculpture in the world. An old roue flirting with a girl on the streets of Munich is a real illustration of life—the bloody street-battle being fought only a few blocks away between royalists and revolutionists is imbecility and sham.

The main interest in the book lies in its striking cleverness and the unusual and startling figures with which it is filled. Erik Dorn is full of clever and cynical observations about his associates and the life about him. "There are two kinds of newspaper men, those who try to write poetry and those who try to drink themselves to death. Fortunately for the world, only one of them succeeds." And further on, "Intelligence is the quality which enables people to brag." The last is a clever cut at the everlasting "blah" of the pseudo-intellectuals, but perhaps a trifle too strained to make a good epigram. Erik tells his mistress once, that she is like the queens of China, walking through the moon. And she wonders why she could not just as well be the kings of Afghanistan standing on their hands, or the presidents of the United States riding horseback.

It is these striking passages, and the portrayal of the peculiar, almost perverted character of Erik Dorn which constitute the best features of the book. If you are interested in the character and sayings of a clever poseur with a biology-complex, the story is worth your reading. If your leanings, however, are more toward the beauties of virtue or toward literary technique, it will hold a small place in your estimation.

Olin Park Suggested As Name For City Property On Lake Monona By B. B. Clarke

City Should Honor Man Who Helped to Make Madison
Beautiful is View of Local Publisher

"When I look back over the many years in which I have lived in 'Beautiful Madison' and when I recall how the man who fought against all kinds of obstacles in giving to the city the splendid system of parks, over which men and women from every land and from every clime never cease to speak in terms of wonder, I remember how this benefactor of Madison used to assess me more than I felt that I could pay, and somehow collect the money too. I, for one as a little token of appreciation, would love to see this little plot of ground dedicated to this wonderfully aggressive citizen, who has given more time and effort in beautifying and adorning 'Beautiful Madison' than any other man, John M. Olin. And I do believe that while he yet lives to smell the sweet fragrance of the

That the city property on Lake Monona on Spaight street between Jenier and Patterson streets be called Olin park, in tribute to John M. Olin, is the suggestion made by B. B. Clarke in a letter to The Capital Times. The letter follows:

"There's a little park being graded and will soon be ready for beautifying out on Spaight street, between Jenier and Patterson, not a very big spot, but one which will help beautify that part of the city, and prove a blessing to many persons in the years to come.

JOHN M. OLIN

flowers with which he has strewn the parks and drives of the city, that this park to be, should be called Olin Park, and that while he is with us in the flesh that we do erect a monument to him for the work of his hands so well done."

Radio Research Undertaken By "E. E." Students

Improved radio amplifiers and further methods of selection in the receiving of wireless messages are being studied in original research work that is being conducted in the department of electrical engineering of the University of Wisconsin College of Engineering this semester. Later, work will be started on the determination of wave forms of static, according to L. J. Peters, instructor in electrical engineering, who is one of the group carrying out this series of studies.

The two principal sources of wave interference in wireless receiving are atmospheric strays and other stations. Selectively, or the ability to hear stations with which the operator wishes to correspond and to shut out other stations, is limited by the wasteful resistance of the receiving circuit.

It has been found that the three electrode thermionic or audion circuits, when associated with receiving circuits in certain ways have the effect of lowering the apparent resistance of the circuit, thus making the receiving circuit more selective. The thermionic device, as an amplifier and oscillator, has been in use for some time, but the use of it to increase the selective properties of radio receiving systems by the neutralization of resistance has been generally overlooked.

"Our work here has been to give an exact mathematical treatment of the general subject of resistance neutralizations, which has never been done before and the application of vacuum tubes as neutralizers as a specific example," said Mr. Peters. "We will then apply this to increase the selective properties of circuits."

The second subject of the present research work is the selective properties of magnetically coupled circuits. Properties of magnetically coupled circuits and simple series circuits have been known for some time, and the object of the treatment of these subjects at the university is to formulate exact quantitative ideas of the action of these systems.

No Prizes Selected

Dale Merrick '22 stated after the ballots had been counted that as yet no prizes have been arranged for. He said that he would spend as much money for prizes as was expended last year. The fact that the different acts were made up of varying sizes of groups and contained both men and women precluded any prior announcement of the character of the prizes.

Some change was made in program last night by giving "Bill" Sumner '22 and his "jazz producers" a regular place on the program. From the applause the group received it would seem that the final result in the placing of the acts would have been changed if the audience had been permitted to include this act in its judging.

The audience last night was very generous and encored every act to a greater extent than on the previous night. The people taking part on the whole responded to the warm feeling and seemed more at home than at the formal performance.

Visitors' Board Asks Re-hearing of Plea

sity halls without explanation opened the way to unjust criticism. The visitors desire to appear before the regents and explain their stand, asking for the adoption of a definitely outlined policy.

The action of the regents in failing to take a vote was explained by President Birge as follows: "I proposed that the Social Science club discuss their plan with other student organizations, with members of the faculty and regents, work out a proposition satisfactory to all concerned, and then present it to the regents for their consideration. There was no vote on this suggestion, but it seemed to be acceptable both to the regents and to Mr. Doefler, and with this the matter was laid aside."

Reversal of Form

The attitude of the Social Science club seemed to mark a reversal of form, in President Birge's opinion. "I imagine that those who have followed the discussion of this matter during the past few weeks will be as much surprised as I was at this apparent change in the attitude of the club. I did not see how its position, as stated by Mr. Doefler, could have been inferred from the articles which have appeared in the various papers." President Birge felt that the newspaper reports had been colored. "They obviously do not contain any truth since if there ever was any 'petition for forum' it was not 'smothered' by the regents." (The words quoted are from the headlines of an article in The Capital Times of December 8).

Offering his service and expressing his willingness to be of any assistance in the administration of the selection of speakers, President Birge concluded his statement to The Daily Cardinal.

Woman's Sphere Topic of Ross' Discussion

"Woman in a Man-Made World" is the subject of a lecture by Prof. E. A. Ross of the Sociology department to be given under the auspices of the Unity club at the Unitarian church tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

Professor Ross will discuss the present restricted sphere of women applying the ideas set forth in his book "Principles of Sociology" in which he writes: "Man has monopolized the agencies of control. * * * Men have fixed the framework of law within which women live. * * * Men have made ideals for themselves and for women also."

Alumni May Enter Agric Song Contest

Alumni of the College of Agriculture will be asked to write songs in the "Agric-Home-ec song contest," according to B. B. Langen '23, manager of the Agricultural College Federation song writing contest. Many students in agriculture have already signified their intention to enter songs in the contest.

Prizes for the winners are on exhibit in Agricultural hall. First prize consists of a silver loving cup, while the second prize will be a cigarette case or a bon-bon dish.

Instructor Suffers From Severe Burns

Miss Dorothy Roberts, assistant professor in the Department of Home Economics, is still suffering from burns received when an alcohol lamp exploded in the laboratory last Wednesday. Her condition yesterday was improved, but it is not yet known how serious the results of the burns will be, the physician in charge states.

The title of the picture refers to the enormous gold dredges used in the great gold mining districts of California and elsewhere.
