ROAR OF GUNS TO START FOUNDERS' DAY CELEBRATION

Street Decorations to Rival
Those of Homecoming
Are Planned

A roar of guns will start the celebration of the seventy-fifth birthday of the university which is to be held at 7:30 o'clock next Monday evening at the stock pavilion. For this Founders Day store windows will be decorated, and the street decorations will rival those seen at homecoming.

Every student will have opportunity to join in the birthday celebration of University of Wisconsin which President Elliot of Harvard characterized as "the greatest state university in the country," and to aid in making next Monday one of the greatest days in the long picturesque history of Wisconsin.

Alumni to Return
Speeches at the stock pavilion will be short. The use of the amplifiers made for spreading from music through the capitol will make the speeches heard in every part of the pavilion. All phases of faculty and student life will be represented on the program.

Prominent alumni will return to represent their respective organizations and to assist the faculty and student body in pledging loyalty to the University of Wisconsin. Alumni associations all over the United States are holding meetings contemporary with this one of the student body to commemorate the university birthday.

Birge to Preside
President Birge will preside as toastmaster, and will call upon the various representatives for their pledges of loyalty. It was on February 5, 1849 that a class of 17 pupils met with Professor John W. Sterling in a room of the Madison Female college, and commenced study. Levi Booth and Charles T. Kakely received the first degrees conferred by the University of Wisconsin. February 5, 1924 is therefore the seventy-fifth anniversary of the beginning of instruction at the university.

FACULTY TO GIVE 3 BENEFIT PLAYS

Proceeds to Go to A. A. U.
Scholarship Fund For Women

Three one-act plays with faculty casts will be presented at 8:15 o'clock tomorrow night in Lathrop hall under the auspices of the Madison branch of the American Association of University Women. Course tickets at $1.25 each, including admission to the three plays and to an outdoor May fete at the College club, are on sale in Bascom hall today and tomorrow. The proceeds will be turned over to the scholarship fund for University of Wisconsin women.

The cast for "Heart," a comedy by Alice Gerstenberg, includes Mrs. Gilbert Smith, Mrs. J. F. A. Pyre, Mrs. H. J. Schubert, and Mrs. Hobart S. Johnson. The play will be produced under the direction of Mrs. Pitman Potter.

"Trifles," a tragedy by Susan Glaspell, will be presented under the direction of Miss Margaret McCarthy, with a cast including Prof. E. H. Gardner, Prof. C. F. Gillin, Irwin Maler, Miss Elsa Wertheim, and Mrs. Harold Stewart.

"The Falcon," a romance by Alfred Tennyson, will be given by a cast including Carl Hohlfeldt, Alfred Ludden, Miss Caryl Parkinson, and Mrs. Pitman Potter, under the direction of Miss Margaret McCarthy.

Miss Elizabeth D. Young is chairman of the committee for the scholarship fund, which is awarded each year by the organization. Last year a sum of $400 was raised for the fund.

Only a limited number of course tickets remain to be sold.

Males to Strive for Perfect Ladyhood at Haresfoot Tryout

Before reaching a state of perfect ladyhood every man who appears at the Haresfoot tryouts beginning with the preliminary registration tomorrow night will have his feminine charms and graces judged according to a scientific basis.

The number of men who believe that they have the attributes of a perfect lady and who wish to try out for Haresfoot's twenty-sixth annual production "Twinkle Twinkle" is expected to exceed 400 in contrast to 200 who showed up last year.

No gentlemen need be alarmed that he will be called upon to display his ability at the meeting at 7:15 o'clock tomorrow night in Music hall for the session will be brief and only an outline of the extent and nature of the work to be done will be given. All males above the rank of freshmen are eligible to attend.

Those who think themselves incapable of assuming feminine characteristics for chorus and cast work will have a chance to maintain their masculine identity in the orchestral and production end of the show.

Every candidate will have a card containing information about everything from the number of pounds he weighs to the size of his foot. From these measurements the composite Haresfoot girl will be evolved and around her as a standard the rest of the chorus will be picked by the judges.

DISCUSSION GROUPS ORGANIZED BY "Y"

Professors to Give Talks on Current Topics to Leaders

To stimulate student thinking, discussion groups are now being organized in the fraternities and the student rooming districts by the Y. M. C. A. discussion committee, Arno J. Haack '25, announced yesterday.

"The purpose of this organization is to give an opportunity for students to discuss freely questions of every nature, but especially problems which could not be met in the class room," Haack declared.

Nearly 100 letters have been sent out telling house presidents and district leaders about the coaching classes to be held every Friday noon. Only the group chairmen or their substitutes will be admitted at these coaching classes.

Interviews will be held soon with each of the leaders. The groups may meet any time during the week except Sunday morning. This is planned to eliminate conflicts with church services.

At the coaching classes professors will speak on international, racial, economic, philosophical, and religious questions. The work will fit in with the annual religious conference to be held February 29 and March 1 and 2.

"Realizing that discussion groups wherein men may discuss questions of interest freely and intellectually is in line with the spirit of a school with the ideals of Wisconsin, the Y. M. C. A. committee on discussions has arranged for these meetings," Arno Haack stated. The program of the coaching classes are:

Feb. 15, "Is Civilization Really Progressing?" Prof. E. A. Ross; Feb. 21, "International Relations," Prof. P. B. Potter; Feb. 29, "War," Prof. Carl Russell Fish; March 7, "The Race Problem," Prof. Don D. Leschier; March 14, "Our Affairs at Home," Prof. J. L. Gillin; March 21, "Are Campus Conditions Satisfactory?" Dean Harry Glickman; March 28, "Religion," H. H. Lumpkin; April 7, "Our Life Work," Prof. William H. Kieckhefer.

SHARP TO TALK ON LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Prof. Frank C. Sharp of the philosophy department will give an impartial discussion of the League of Nations at a luncheon of the Knights of Columbus today. Professor Sharp has made a detailed study of the league in its present form and of the possibilities for it in the future.

BUNTING AND MILLER ADDRESS DANE MEDICS

Dr. C. H. Bunting and Dr. William S. Miller will speak before the Dane County Medical society and the University of Wisconsin Medical society on Feb. 19 in the first floor lecture room of Science hall. Dr. Bunting will speak on "Lymphoid Resistance and Susceptibility" and Dr. Miller will speak on "The Reticulum of the Lung."

CHILD LABOR NOT CAPITAL'S FAULT

—LOVEJOY
Sociologist Says Way to Wipe
Out Evil Is Through
Good Schools

"The employer is not responsible for child labor; it is the system in which he is enmeshed," Owen R. Lovejoy, sociologist, said in his address yesterday afternoon on "Present Tendencies in Child Labor Legislation."

"The earliest reforms against child labor were first advocated by owners of textile mills," Mr. Lovejoy declared in sketching the history of child labor.

A slow but far-reaching movement for the betterment of schools rather than a sudden dramatic reform at child labor laws is the means of destroying child labor, in Mr. Lovejoy's opinion.

The lecturer cited the work done by Wisconsin toward child labor legislation. Wisconsin was one of the first states to provide for a department for such legislation, he said.

"We are telling other states what Wisconsin has done toward this end," Mr. Lovejoy said, speaking of the work of the National Child Labor committee of which he is chairman.

Child labor in rural communities is harder to combat than that in large cities, the sociologist said because of the prevailing idea that farm labor does not harm the child. The cause of it he declared to be the inefficiency of country schools.

"The average rural school teacher receives the munificent salary of $356 a year," the speaker pointed out.

The work of the National Child Labor committee to create an amendment to the federal constitution for child labor legislation is not with the idea of passing a rigid law prohibiting child labor but rather to insure child welfare, was the explanation of Mr. Lovejoy in advocating improved methods for schools.

"The law, if passed, would be an enabling law. It would give congress power to take those steps which would gradually remove child labor," he asserted.

Foreign Flashes

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—President Coolidge today stated in reply to the Senate resolution calling for the resignation of Secretary of the Navy Denby because of his connection in the Teapot Dome oil scandal that the dismissal of a cabinet officer is an executive function, and the senate had no right to interfere.

LONDON, Feb. 12.—Prime Minister MacDonald in his maiden speech in the House of Commons stated his belief that the Labor party would stay in power although it does not have a majority, and that amicable agreements with France would soon be arrived at.

BACCHUS AND HYGEA, FOOTBALL IDOLS, DIE

While everyone was having his troubles studying for the final exams, the news came from Illinois stating that the Wisconsin badgers, Bacchus and Hygea, had died. The cold weather was too much for Bacchus who was taken to his death by pneumonia. A few days later, Hygea also became very ill and died. Now the question remains: what will be our next season's football mascot?

SOROKINE TO GIVE LECTURE SERIES

University of Petrograd Professor Gives Talk on Revolution

"Revolution is the result of certain biological impulses that come to a head and finally break down fundamental social structures and habits," Prof. Petirim Sorokine said, who is here from the University of Petrograd to give a series of lectures on "The Sociology of Revolution."

He gave his initial lecture Wednesday afternoon in 165 Bascom hall. His subject matter was an introduction to his whole subject, and was a general outline of the course and results of a typical revolution.

"There are two definite periods in the course of a revolution," said Prof. Sorokine. "One is what we might call the period of destruction, during which social habits and structures disappear after the attack by these biological impulses of the individuals. The other period is that of restraint, during which the direction of a capable leader, a director, is needed. This is the most crucial part of a revolution. It involves more bloodshed often than the period in which the first outburst takes place, and only direct action is efficacious. Regular speech methods of establishing a new social order and overcoming the effects of a bloody reorganization will not be effective."

Prof. Sorokine will give lectures Wednesday and Thursday afternoons at 3:30 o'clock in 165 Bascom hall and on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoons of each week for four weeks.

He will go into greater detail and draw definite conclusions from material gathered from revolutions of all time, from those that occurred before the time of Christ up to the recent Russian Revolution during which he experienced many adventures.

S. G. A. Valentine Party to Be Held Next Friday Night

A Valentine dance with Valentine features will be given by the S. G. A. from 7 to 8 o'clock Friday night in Lathrop parlors. Special music will be furnished for the occasion.

Preceding the dance, a supper will be held in the S. G. A. rooms for the district chairmen in order to enable them to have an informal get-together to discuss the plans for the coming semester. The chairmen will later take charge of the dance. All the new girls in addition to the old girls already familiar with the dances are urged to come.

Old girls who have moved to another district are asked to call at the S. G. A. office and put their new address on file.

New girls are required to pay 50 cents dues for this semester. The dues may be paid at the S. G. A. office between 10 and 2:30 o'clock any day this week.

REGISTRATION FIGURES ARE NOT AVAILABLE

Not even tentative estimates can be made as to this semester's enrollment figures according to a statement made yesterday by William D. Hiestand, registrar. "We cannot tell whether the enrollment is approximately the same, nor whether there has been a marked change," he declared. "No figures have been compiled either in respect to the university as a whole or in respect to individual colleges." "Complete figures cannot be had before a week at least," the registrar stated.

By HARRY W. FAVILLE

With Ken Elsom going on one of his scoring sprees, the varsity quintet piled up a seven point lead at the beginning of the second half, broke a 22 to 22 tie near the end of the game, and pulled out safely on the long end of a 25 to 23 count, garnering a sweet revenge for two consecutive defeats administered by the fast stepping Butler aggregation.

The game was devoid of speed and action in the first half. Wisconsin counted on Gibsons' field goal early in the period, but a goal by Grigg and free throws by Paul and Nipper shoved Butler into a 5 to 2 lead.

Elsom Sinks Three

Play for some time was listless and unexciting, with neither team showing any speed or adeptness. Gibson sank four free throws toward the end of the half and Wackman counted a goal from the field, the half ending with Wisconsin leading 8 to 6.

At the beginning of the second period Ken Elsom stepped into the limelight and sank three baskets

PROM CONDUCT IS GIVEN APPROVAL

Absence of Liquor Makes Social Function Great Success

That the Junior prom Friday night was one of the most orderly proms held in recent years is the consensus expressed by state and university officials yesterday afternoon.

Governor Blaine said that he thought this was one of the best conducted proms and President Birge commented that "no news was good news."

"A few empty bottles were found about the capitol, but evidence indicates that these were left by outsiders, and not by students," Herman W. Sachtjen, state prohibition agent, said yesterday.

The only criticism on prom came from Dean S. H. Goodnight, dean of men, and this was of a constructive nature.

"My only objection to prom is that it is becoming more of a public affair in place of being for the students," Goodnight stated. "Tickets get into the hands of outsiders and the spectators crowd on to the floor."

"The dancing at the 1925 prom was clean and wholesome. There was no cheek to cheek and eccentric dancing as there was on the floor several years ago," the dean concluded.

Although Dean F. Louise Nardin dean of women, was unable to remain at prom for any length of time on account of a cold, she commented yesterday that she was glad to have been a guest at such a prom. Dean Nardin saw nothing out of the ordinary and no reports have come to her office.

S. G. A. WILL HAVE NO NATIONAL MEET

Eastern Conference Votes Down Proposed Plan For Big Convention

As a result of the negative vote cast by the Eastern conference of Women's Self Government associations, held at Oberlin College, there will be no national meet of the associations.

This does not prevent the Mid-western and Western associations from meeting in joint sessions every two years, according to the first W. S. G. A. News-Letter, published January 28 in Bloomington, Indiana. Mary Thorton, president of the S. G. A. at the University of Indiana is editor.

The approximate plan of the Western and Mid-western colleges presented by the three delegates at the Eastern conference was as follows:

"It was resolved that last year's conference at Columbus, Ohio, be considered a national conference, and that the next national conference be held in the East, and the one following, two years later, be held in the West. That the hostess college for the Mid-western conference be national president, and that the national presidency go to the East the next year."

The plan was overruled by the Eastern conference on the grounds that university and college problems are sectional, not national, and that exchange of ideas of problems would not be beneficial enough to warrant a national conference.

Cornell College, Michigan Agricultural college, De Pauw university, Milwaukee Downer college, Knox College, and the universities of Indiana, Michigan, Illinois and Cornell contributed to the first issue of the News-Letter, which endeavors to give an account of the activities of the S. G. A. in the Mid-western colleges.

A league house with honorary membership based on womanliness, scholarship and campus activities at the University of South Dakota, the establishment of a traditions committee and activities chairman at Cornell University, an "Earn-A-Dollar" campaign at De Pauw University, a "Hello Walk" on Knox college campus and the pledge of $5,000 to the Memorial campaign by the S. G. A. at the University of Indiana are some of the activities in which the Mid-western colleges are engaged.

English Lecturer to Address Civic Club at Luncheon

Samuel K. Ratcliffe, English journalist and lecturer, will speak on "The New Parliament and Its Leaders," before the Civic club at its regular Saturday luncheon in the Woman's building February 23, the club announced yesterday.

Mr. Ratcliffe is a contributor to the Manchester Guardian and was its representative in America recently. He served for three years at Calcutta as acting editor of the Statesman, the largest paper in India, and was a member of the London Daily News staff in 1907.

Intimately acquainted with Lloyd George, Stanley Baldwin, and Ramsay MacDonald, Mr. Ratcliffe is an authority on the recent developments in English politics. He is known in America chiefly as the author of the Century article "English Lecturers in America."

Although it is not known how long he will be able to stay in Madison, efforts will be made to have Mr. Ratcliffe give a second address to the general public.

Miss Julia Marcum, 79, of Williamsburg, Ky., is the only woman member of the G. A. R. and the only woman who draws a civil war pension in her own name. Students Write Equivalent of 466 Books in Final Exams

A small library 466 average volumes containing 53 million words by conservative estimate, are written by Wisconsin students during every period of final examinations.

This is learned from calculation based on a series of means obtained from examination booklets. If the fact and fiction that goes into final exam bluebooks were put into novels, the 466 copies of modern Arabian Nights would result.

It is necessary to assume a few things to get the figures given that do not hold true in all examinations. Supposing each student holds himself down to one eight-page bluebook and puts 95 words on each page mostly "the's," he will write 1520 words to a book writing on both sides of the page.

There are approximately 7,000 students, writing examinations, and each one writes five bluebooks full before he has drawn that last long sigh of relief. Here is the grand total: 53,200,000 words gray the heads of patient instructors when the little blue pamphlets go to the reckoning.

The average novel contains 114,000 words. Divide this into the number above that looks like Ford's income and one comes out some where around 466. That is how many novels could be made from the flow of words that stupid questions draw from vacuous minds.

Do the instructors read 466 novels written by involuntary Barron Munchausens? Well, university regulations say they must.

COMPLETE CAMPUS LIFE MOVIES AT CALIFORNIA

Moving pictures comparing campus life of the present day at the University of California with those of '69 and '71 are nearing completion for presentation. They are being taken under the direction of Edward Mayer, secretary of the Visual Instruction department of the University Extension division.

The pictures are intended to acquaint the public with the size of the University and its branches. They will be at the disposal of the Alumni association. It is hoped by that organization that by this means the people of the state may understand why such large sums of money are needed for the yearly upkeep of the University.

MARINETTE—The Four Seas clubhouse at Miskauno island, which was destroyed by fire last fall, will be rebuilt, according to announcement received here. The club is owned by a group of Chicago men.

TO MEET LOWMAN
THIS AFTERNOONFew Weeks Remain Before
Squad Leaves For Southern Training Trip

While the baseball fever is slowly creeping over the country, and major league clubs are leaving for warmer parts to start their training camps, Wisconsin calls her diamond artists to the colors at the gym today.

Coach Lowman, veteran baseball mentor, and one of the most successful diamond coaches in the conference, makes the first call for baseball men. All baseball men are requested to report to "Doc" Elsom's gym room at 4:30 p. m. sharp this afternoon, to listen in on the season's plans, and to start work immediately in the annex.

Only a few weeks remain for the men to get in shape before Wisconsin's annual training trip through the south, and it is imperative that every baseball man be on hand this afternoon to know what's going on.

Five veterans will be on deck when the team rounds into shape. Capt. Aschenbrener, catcher, Ellington, second base, Servatius, third base, and Dugan in the outfield. Johnson is a pitcher from last year's squad also, and will be depended upon to bear the brunt of the hurling burden this year.

About twenty battery men have been working in the annex, under Coach Lowman, since Christmas, and are slowly getting the crooks out of their throwing arms. The infield and outfield must also get going at this time, if Wisconsin is to have a successful baseball team again this year. Illinois and Michigan, as usual, will have strong lineups, and games with both of them are already scheduled.

This year, above all, there is a splendid chance for a baseball aspirant to win his "W" in this sport, because of the dearth of material.

Every man out on time to hear Coach Lowman this afternoon at four-thirty sharp!

GYM SHOOS
by Orie

Two conference basketball games Monday — the results show that almost anything can happen in this Big Ten race. Minnesota finally crashed through with a defense that stopped the Michigan men like a stone wall, while their offense of Ecklund, Pesek and Racey piled up the counters. The final score was 27-16.

Ecklund, the Gopher forward, is bent upon topping the lanky center from Ohio in individual scoring honors. All three aforementioned Minnesota men are within striking distance of the top right now, even though the Gophers have dropped six out of eight games.

Ohio State continues in the contender class with four wins out of seven games played. Miner and Cunningham showed the Illini how it was to be really good, and sank the majority of the baskets. These two men must be watched when the Buckeyes come to the Meanwell floor on March 3rd. Ohio trimmed the Illini by a 25-22 score.

Mead Burke and Coach Jones are putting the finishing touches on their track hopes these days. Saturday the Varsity will enter into a quadrangular meet with Chicago, Ohio State and Northwestern at Patten Gym. Wisconsin's chances are about on a par with the others, although Chicago seems to have the edge at present.

Good old Joe Steinauer is sure working his head off trying to turn out a "hot-soak" swimming team. Several men will be lost by graduation and scholastic difficulties, and their places will be hard to plug up.

LACK OF FUNDS
HITS ICE SPORTS

Although it may be necessary to cut down some of the events in the Winter Carnival Sports Week unless more money is raised from the sale of the Winter Sports Week buttons, none of the events in which children compete are to be omitted, Don Mowry, general secretary of the Association of Commerce, announced yesterday. The first events to be run were the 50, 100 and 220 yard races for boys and girls of the graded schools at Wirka's rink last night.

Tonight there will be preliminary events for the high school and vocational school contestants. The age limit in these events is 20 years. There will be events for both boys and girls, a chance to compete in the 100, 220 and 440 yard races, and a two mile race for men.

in such quick succession that the crowd had hardly time to realize what was happening. Harker retaliated with two ringers and the teams speeded up to top pitch.

Victory was possible for either team but the Badgers were going too fast to be stopped and goals by Wackman and Barwig ran the score up rapidly. Wackman was put out of the game at the middle of the period for personal fouls and was replaced by Barwig. Wack showed the most stuff he has at any time this year and played a tight defensive game, game, but was called for four fouls.

Butler Ties the Score

The Butlerites rallied with ten minutes to play and started a drive on their own. Up to this time they had had the worst of the argument but now they staged a real comeback and ran the score up to a 22 to 22 tie. For several minutes neither team scored, but Marsh Diebold came to the rescue with a free throw and By Barwig sank a ringer from the side of the floor shortly before the gun.

Farwell started at forward in Varney's usual place and played a fair game, although he seemed a little nervous at times. He was yanked on personal fouls near the end of the game and Tony pranced into the fray, speeding up the game considerably.

The entire game was characterized by rough play and fouls were frequent. Referee Young called several technical fouls on Butler players for an unsportsmanlike attitude and one on the crowd when it hissed a close decision.

Captain Gibson was playing in his best form and sank seven out of eight free throws. His defensive playing was the best he has shown this year while he was an important cog in the offense.

Hooker, playing only the second half, gathered ten points and starred for Butler. He displayed a sure eye for the basket and was the only one of the Hoosiers to score consistently.

PROM FOX TROTS KILL
WOMEN'S ENTHUSIASM

Was it the dull, energy-sapping weather or the three o'clock Prom morning that caused the indifference among the university women this semester in registering for sports and gymnastics? At former times, the first day of registration found the large gymnasium at Lathrop crowded with girls. Both Monday and Tuesday, the lines were thin and straggling and the total number that had registered late yesterday afternoon indicated that there were many that had failed to sign up.

This negligence on the part of the students will undoubtedly cause inconvenience to the instructors, and will react unfavorably upon the students themselves since all gymnasium classes will begin today, as has been announced.

Such a number of rifle enthusiasts clamored for instruction last semester that a new beginners' class has been formed. All these ardent advocates, however, have not appeared for registration.

The ice golfers from the Janesville Y. M. C. A. will try to avenge their defeat of last Saturday at the hands of Coach Blodgett's men when they meet again on the varsity rink tonight at 7:30. The score of last Saturday's game was 3 to 1 in favor of the varsity.

One of the best men on the Janesville sextet is George Fisk, who graduated from the University of Wisconsin last year. The varsity expect to repeat with another victory over Janesville and are working hard to get into full stride for their games with Michigan here on Friday and Saturday.

A. O. PI SORORITY
LEADS IN BOWLING

As the scores for intersorority bowling now stand, Alpha Omicron Pi holds first place, having lost four games. Alpha Chi Omega is second losing five games. Third place is held by Alpha Xi Delta who lost seven games. Alpha Delta Pi is fourth having lost eight games. Kappa Delta has fifth place while Theta and Delta Zeta hold sixth and seventh places, respectively.

On Friday the last set of games is to be played off and the score of this game will decide who is winner of the cup. The cup must be won by the same sorority for three successive years before it becomes their own. Alpha Chi won the cup last year.

The highest individual score of the year was made at the last match in the game between Alpha Omicron Pi and Alpha Chi Omega when Dorothy Swenson, A. X. O., made a score of 216.

The highest team score was made by Theta at the last match in the Theta—Phi Mu game; the score was 731.

Pre-Prom Players
Leave Today; Will Show in Baraboo

The Wisconsin Players who are taking part in "The Torch Bearers" the pre-prom play which was presented at the Parkway last Thursday matinee and night, leave today for Baraboo where they will give their third presentation of the play at the Ringling theater.

This marks the first time in two years that the players have taken any production outside of the city, and from all indications the play which made such a successful run on the professional stage will be seen by a capacity house at the one performance tomorrow night.

Those who will make the trip are Laurens Hastings '24, William Ross '18, Mildred Engler '26, Ellen Flynn '26, Olivia Orth '24, Bert Hilberts '25, Hazel Kaiser '25, Otis Wiese '26, Gordon Abbott '25, Clifford Crowley '26, Charlotte Case '25 and Dorothea Wilgus '24 who take part in the play; Jack Harrington '25, production manager, Kenneth Gardner '25, manager of ticket sales, Roy French of the course in journalism and Prof. Gertrude Johnson of the speech department, directors and two stage hands.

PROFESSOR WILL TOUR
ARABIA IN MOTORCYCLE

Prof. E. A. Ross is planning a year's trip through Arabia and India, to start next June if all his arrangements can be carried through satisfactorily.

Plans now include a trip through the sandy plains of Arabia on a Harley-Davidson motorcycle equipped with a 12-inch "caterpillar" tread. In order not to be too conspicuous among the bearded Mohammedans, Professor Ross may have to raise a beard, he says.

"I have had no word from Dr. Harris, the young medical man with whom I planned to travel," Professor Ross stated. "Dr. Harris is stationed in the interior of Arabia. In case I do not hear from him in the very near future, I may have to give up going to Arabia, and make the trip through India only, accompanied by a friend who recently went to Mexico with me."

Professor Ross has just returned from a short trip to New York where he conferred with a number of publishers, and made addresses in several eastern trips.

HIGHWAY COMMISSION CAN RESCIND ORDER

The state highway commission after obtaining jurisdiction over a petition of a city for the construction of a bridge, may rescind a previous action and such action be followed by another decision, Asst. Atty. Gen. Bump held in an opinion to the highway commission. The question of jurisdiction was raised in connection with an application for a bridge at Stevens Point.

NO ACTION IS TAKEN ON MILK ORDINANCE

No action was taken by the city board of health Monday night on the proposed amendment to the city milk ordinance. The amendment would make it necessary to have all cattle tuberculin tested before their product could be sold in Madison. The matter was discussed at length.

Given to Members Of Judging Teams

Honor medals were awarded to the members of the two livestock judging teams of the college of agriculture by the Saddle and Sirloln club.

Lester E. Caldwell, Verlyn F. Sears and Marvey G. Becker, members of the dairy cattle judging team which competed at the Dairy congress at Waterloo, Ia., and at the National Dairy show at Syracuse, N. Y., last fall, were awarded medals by R. S. Hulce, the coach.

Byron F. Heal, Irving M. Benson, Harold E. Murphy, and Lester E. Caldwell received the medals from S. D. Sims, coach of the International Livestock judging team which competed at the Kansas City American Royal Stock show and the International Livestock exposition in Chicago last fall. Samuel H. Sabin, Academy, S. D., was the other member of the team honored.

"INSUFFICIENT FUNDS"

Last fall a great hullaballou went up from a group of students who were provoked with the attitude of the athletic department when it boosted the price of admission to the grid-graph. To provide funds for intra-mural athletics was the excuse offered by the athletic department for its raising the price.

Now the word comes that here are not enough funds to finance the activities of the winter sports week. Last year there was no such trouble. Is it that the price of the grid-graph was not raised enough? that it will be raised next year to $1? Evidently.

When the price was raised students had visions of a completed toboggan slide similar to the one which ran down to the lake from the observatory many years ago, visions of intra-mural sports unstinted by financial difficulty, of much needed bath houses.

Now we learn that the funds are insufficient.

MAVIS FOR PROM QUEEN

Politics for some people are a lot of fun and the more they have the merrier. They seem to thrive on even the mere thought of boosting this or that candidate, on squabbling over naive issues, or playing crafty tricks and even on the attendant forming of enemies. So it is that they encourage the extension of campus politics.

To elect the prom queen is a measure advocated by persons of this type. Just what would such an election mean? It would mean the increase of political cliques, of political rivalry and jealousies, of all the other equally unwholesome features attendant upon campus politics. Unimaginable complications would arouse in the election of both the chairman and the partner.

True it is that the prom queen is elected at other institutions, but it is not done with a deal of success and is not practiced widely.

Certainly prom is not for the chairman; no one realizes that fact more than he. But that argument is exceedingly lame when used in favor of the election of the chairman's partner. But the chairman must be considered, his partner too, and advocates of the election must realize and sympathize with the predicament in which any chairman and his partner, with little in common would be placed.

It is not a grave matter of tremendous importance, after all; but it is annoying to see attempts made to give politics much more prominence than they already enjoy.

ODDS AND ENDS

Several class rooms yesterday were so crowded that it was impossible for some students in them to find a seat. As a result, coats belonging to the students were piled sky-high on the floor and at the end of the hour were kicked about and tramped on. When such a condition as this prevails, it is too bad to see that no more coat hanging facilities are made in the halls; nay, that what facilities now exist are done away with. The cloak room on the third floor of Bascom hall, for instance, has been done away with. During the top-coat months, at least, the university should provide cloak rooms and hangers.

Right along this line it might be suggested that more lock coat hangers might be installed in the various buildings. In these days when ice boats are stolen in the wee small hours of the night, and sables are taken without second thought in broad daylight it would seem advisable to have a few more lock hangers for student use. Some one has also suggested that the men's study room in Bascom hall might be improved. At best it is a poor place in which to study.

The library has been complaining that "borrowed" books are seldom returned and that the store of reference volumes is greatly depleted every year. If those who borrowed books from the library would not be afraid to return them, the authorities would be very much gratified.

Some campus regulations seem extremely peculiar. Take, for instance, the rule in connection with courses for which laboratory work is required. A failure in such a course requires the student to repeat his laboratory work "no matter if he has received a grade of excellence in that department." (The quotation is taken from a physics professor.) On the face of it, this regulations seems unreasonable and is the foundation for many knocks. But it has reason and is based on the theory that if a student has not passed a given course he can not very well have much of a knowledge of the laboratory work in connection with that course no matter what that grade may be. In a way, it is another slam at the cribber. If cribbing occurred less frequently, the student who failed a science course but passed his laboratory work might not be under such suspicion.

The Glee club is to have an understudy.

No one is surprised to hear that 800,000 blue books were used during the examinations period. Each student probably felt that he had written at least half that number himself at the end of the examination period.

Go hear Prof. Pitirim Sorokine. It will be worth your while.

"Personality puts a man over," says an efficiency expert in a lecture. And sometimes if he isn't careful, it is liable to put him over the hills to the poor-house.

Let the German Babies Die (By Recoil)

Daily in certain districts of Germany, dirty, ragged children wander through the streets searching for crumbs and garbage pickings. Occasionally a few drop indifferently to the gutter and lay there with eyes shut.

Filthy swine! And these are the innocent sucklings they would have us feed....innocent indeed....roaming savagely about misplacing garbage cans, stopping only to rest prone in the filth of the streets. Respectable little folk stay at home and keep their bodies clean.

But, they are starving, you say. Well, let them; they're only workmen's children. Besides, who started the war? You know well enough, it would have been they and not the Kaiser or the rich ones who would have reaped the benefit if Germany had won.

Now don't become stupidly sentimental and go dropping your hard-earned money in relief fund bottles—remember these young barbarians must be punished; France must be helped in her philanthropic aim; the world must be made safe for democracy.

Christ had the right idea. He said: "Suffer, little children."

THE FROSH

What makes the sophs "to breathe so 'ard"?
What keeps them always on their guard?
What makes the profs so full of care;
Brings sorrow, wrinkles and gray hair?
The Frosh!

Who fouls Mendota's waters bright,
By taking baths so late at night?
Who holds his button down so tight,
As up the hill he takes his flight?
The Frosh!

Who is it brings his ivory dome,
Through this great 'varsity to roam?
Who makes Dean Roe to froth and foam?
Who takes the sore-eye special home?
The Frosh!

Who is it clutters up the class,
With crass remarks—as green as grass?
Who is it wears out Morgan's chairs;
Sports loud clothes, and puts on airs?
The Frosh!

But if you think the matter out,
The frosh can not be done without.
Some may smile, and some may doubt.
And yet, he is a good old scout—
The Frosh!

We love him for his simple mind,
His youthful ways, and nature kind.
His crudities we pass, and know
That he has simply got to grow—
The Frosh!

We must remember as we go
That we ourselves one time were so—
That each green frosh in four years time
Attains seniority sublime.
The Frosh!

And now and then, we must admit,
As in the evening home we sit,
We wish that we could always be,
From now until eternity,
A Frosh!

A. S. P.

We have resolved to study every night until all of our work is done, to make all of our classes on time, to stay awake in all classes, and cut out fussing—but we think we have made resolutions like that before.

Frosh: No, I didn't go, I figured that I'll have three more chances to go.

Soph: Well I should hope to tell you I was there! Some jig! Say boy that music was—etc, etc.

Junior: Yes, I went to Prom. I guess our class put on about the best one yet.

Senior: Yeah, I went.

Roundy got his passes to the big "rassle" all right and outdid himself in praise thereof. In his Saturday column he waxed fluent and paid his respects to Cliff's partner in the following words—"The prom queen helped make the prom a howling success." Buz: What does he say?
Mule: Why just last night I heard him saying: "Feed the kitty, feed the kitty."

That's a wonderful mouth you have, it ought to be on a girl's face. I don't miss many opportunities.

Larry: Say, why is a barn like a sidewalk?

Ralph: I bite, why is it?
Larry: Because they are both cold in winter. Ha. Ha.

Don: None of hic your durned buishness.

MINNESOTA U. PLANS HOSPITAL ADDITIONS

Plans and bids for two new additions to the Elliott Memorial Hospital at the University of Minnesota will be considered at the next meeting of the board of regents. The additions will enable the hospital to house 90 more patients. One will be the Todd Memorial hospital for treatment of eye ear and throat cases and the cost will be about $162,000. The other addition will be the Chase Memorial hospital that will be erected at an approximate cost of $250,000.

UNIVERSITY GIFTS TOTAL $3,000,000

Donations in Cash and Memorials From Citizens Are Numerous

One the eve of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the university which will be celebrated on the campus next Monday, the alumni throughout the country are recalling the giving to the university of approximately $3,000,000 in cash and the donation of various memorials and buildings.

The total of $3,000,000 includes about $225,000 in cash that has been given or bequeathed to the university for specific purposes and is administered by the Regents in the form of some 30 trust funds. The balance, which includes the estates of Col. William Vilas of Madison, J. S. Tripp of Prairie du Sac, Calvin K. Jayne of Madison, Anna Marston of Madison, and Torger Thompson of Deerfield, is still in trust estates.

Chimes Fund Grows

Eighteen loan funds, aggregating about $25,000 whose income is used to aid needy students are an important item among the gifts. The latest of these was a fund of $5,000 given this month by Kemper K. Knapp '79, of Chicago. From the 17 loan funds, totalling about $20,000, available last year, 309 loans were made to students, amounting to more than $14,000 or an average of $46.16 per loan. In addition, more than $1,300 of interest on other university trust funds was available for the same purpose.

Not included in the above total are the Washburn observatory, which was given by ex-Gov. Washburn in 1878, the Bradley Memorial hospital, the future million dollar Memorial Union Building for which alumni and friends have already subscribed about $850,000, the Hoard memorial, erected by dairymen of the state, as well as the gifts of Thomas E. Brittingham of Madison, which include the Lincoln statue on the upper campus, the John Muir Knoll bust, and the Van Hise bust. Almost every graduating class has left some permanent memorial on the campus, and the last seven classes have subscribed $2,000 each for a set of chimes for the campus.

Many Requests Received

The 30 trust funds established by generous friends and alumni for specific purposes include: Mary M. Adams Fellowship in English, $10,000; C. K. and Mary M. Adams Fellowship fund, $23,586.71; William J. Bryan Prize fund, $495.57; Amelia E. H. Doyon scholarship, $5,000; Henry Gund Scholarship in German, $5,000; M. M. Jackson professorship in law, $20,000; John A. Johnson Student Aid fund, $20,010.84; James T. Lewis Prize fund, $641.25; Fannie P. Lewis Scholarship fund, $10,000; Latin League fund, $3,738.10; Milwaukee Gas Light fund, $431.49; Secretary's Loan fund, $1,259.68; Christian R. Surplus of Mechanics Is Reported In Wisconsin

In a report of the U. S. department of labor it is stated that Madison has a surplus of building mechanics, clerical help, and handy men, while there is a shortage of high-grade machinists and farm hands. The report also states that there is a surplus of female clerical help and sales people, and a shortage of competent domestics.

Wisconsin Depicted Through Three Quarters of a Century

EDITOR'S NOTE

Prof. J. F. A. Pyre of the English department has written a short history of the university to commemorate the seventy-fifth birthday of the institution. The short summary will be printed in the Daily Cardinal in four installments starting today.

By J. F. A. PYRE
First Installment

"February 5, 1849, a class of seventeen pupils met with Professor John W. Sterling in a room of the Madison Female College (lent to the University authorities by citizens of Madison) and commenced study. Two members of this class became, in due time, the two earliest graduates of the University: Levi Booth and Charles T. Wakeley received baccalaureate degrees, July 26, 1854,—the first degree conferred by the University of Wisconsin. February 5, 1924, is therefore the seventy-fifth anniversary of the beginning of instruction at the University of Wisconsin.

"There are several first events in the annals of the University from which its genesis might be officially dated. The Constitution of the State of Wisconsin, adopted by popular vote, in March, 1848, contained a clause providing for the establishment of a State University 'at or near the State Capitol.' An act of legislature, so establishing the institution, became a law when signed by Governor Nelson Dewey, July 26, 1848. The Board of Regents, appointed by Governor Dewey, held its first meeting and appointed the first Chancellor and the first Professor of the University, October 7, 1848. The purchase of that portion of the campus known as 'the Hill' was authorized January 16, 1849. Chancellor John H. Lathrop arrived in Madison in October 1849, and was formally inaugurated in the presence of the legislature and the state officers, January 16, 1850. North hall, the first building erected on the campus, was opened to students September 17, 1851. Each of these events has its sentimental value and rational meaning as a beginning of the University, in one sense or another.

"In distinguishing this seventy-fifth anniversary by the title, 'Founder's Day,' we acknowledge our great debt to those far-sighted and in some cases, self-sacrificing men to whom the University owes its existence. But in passing over all official events and dating its existence from that humble first meeting of seventeen 'preps' and one professor, we recognize the important fact that, in the last analysis, the University exists for, and by virtue of, the students of the University. The University operates through several official agencies and is dependent upon certain material facilities, and it accomplishes through these a number of secondary results, but the one great end—to which all facilities are merely the means and all other results merely incidental or contributory—is just this primary end, that its students may be, just what they are, and what it is such a priceless thing for them to be, and to have been, namely, students. When, on that morning in early February, five and-seventy years ago, the mighty mother called her first children about her knees, and opened her 'wondrous riddle book', then, we may say the University of Wisconsin first became a reality.

"Present and former students of the University, therefore, can pay no truer homage to the work of its Founders nor more grateful tribute to Alma Mater than by reminding themselves on this occasion what it has meant to them to be students of the University and reviving—or intensifying—in themselves, the student state of mind. To those whose days of studenthood belong to the past, this will mean the recall of youth, of a certain carelessness and delight in life, of the free mind,—free to entertain the things of the mind, and of the spirit. To all it means friendliness, chat, reminiscence; it means song and good cheer; it means 'all together, fellows!' it means 'hats off to Varsity!' It means banishment to business, for the time being. It means 'no seats reserved' for private grudges, or social prejudices, or political animosities. It means forgetting selfish rivalries in renewing the generous enthusiasms of youth, and in paying the common tributes of affection and loyalty, and of serious thought, to Alma Mater.

"It is natural at a time like this, to review the past and to speculate on the future. That which we think of as reminiscence, when applied to our personal loves, becomes, when we review the life of an institution, History. The University of Wisconsin is at the threshold of its fourth quarter-century. And it is interesting to find, on reviewing the preceding seventy-five years, that the history of the University falls quite significantly into three main periods of approximately a quarter century each. The first period embraces the twenty-five years of struggle and tentative advance between the meeting of the first University class in February, 1849 and the arrival of John Bascom in the spring of 1874 when the Wisconsin that we think of really began. The second quarter-century entirely comprehends the presidencies of Bascom and Chamberlin and includes all the effective services of President Adams, ending at the turn of the centuries, 1899-1900. The third quarter-century brings us to the present year. It centers in the fifteen years administration of President Van Hise, of which certain characteristic developments about reached their climax at the exact middle of the period, in 1913; and it begins and ends under the administration of Dr. Birge, first, as Acting President, during and following the last years of President Adams, and finally, since the Great War, as President of the University.

"The development of the University in each of the periods above outlined in terms of administrative history, I shall endeavor to set forth in a subsequent article."

American-Scandinavian Foundation Offers 20 Scholarships of $1,000 Each

In a recent statement the American-Scandinavian Foundation offers 20 scholarships of $1,000 each to American college and university students for graduate study and research in Denmark, Norway and Sweden.

This Foundation conducts an annual exchange of students between American and Scandinavian universities and has awarded each year since 1919 ten fellowships for study in America to Swedish students, five to Danes, five to Norwegians, and 20 to Americans for study abroad. The American-Scandinavian student interchange, begun in 1911, has given 300 students a year of foreign travel and research.

Twenty fellowships for the year 1924-1925, now open to competition in America, are restricted to students of American birth.

Chemistry, physics, metallurgy, agriculture, forestry, electrical engineering, and weather forecasting are listed among the subjects which the American students may take up. There are also opportunities for students of humanities, language and literature, history, and economics. The experience of previous years shows that the subjects most popular with American students are forestry in Sweden, agriculture in Denmark, and hydro-electric engineering in Norway. There is one fellowship for the study of weather forecasting at the Geophysical Institute of Bergen, Norway.

Publishing Hints Prove Profitable to Journalists

The "hunch" question of the final examination in the course in country weeklies in the journalism department proved to be a success, according to Prof. E. Marion Johnson, in charge of the course.

Each student in the course, as one question in the final examination, was required to submit seven hunches or dollar-pullers which could be sold to the Editor and Publisher. These hunches consist of reportorial and business short cuts which have proved effective in some newspaper offices and which might prove valuable to anyone publishing a paper.

"Some of the numbers were exceptionally good" said Mr. Johnson. "It is my plan to have those students who sell their hunches and dollar-pullers form an "Editor and Publisher" club, subscribing for the magazine with the remuneration received from the hunches. The Editor and Publisher would be of use to anyone interested in the newspaper business."

DAIRY GRADUATES HAVE JOBS AWAITING THEM

Nearly two-thirds of the 84 students graduated from the winter dairy course of the college of agriculture have "jobs waiting for them." Many of the men will stay in Badger creameries and cheese factories, but some will go to other states and foreign countries. The enrollment in the course was decidedly cosmopolitan, for there were men in the course from Canada, Switzerland, and Argentina, and many of the states of the United States. The fathers of some of the graduates were members of this course over 20 years ago, according to E. H. Farrington, who is in charge of the course. There have

Postmaster General Designates
February 18 to 25 as Better Mailing Week

The Post Office department, or, in the final analysis, the tax payer, pays an annual toll for the support of a malignant waste amounting, in round numbers, to $1,740,000.

This economic waste — this strange disease — is nothing more or less than the careless addressing of mail matter; the depositing of letters and packages with incomplete, inadequate or incorrect addresses, an overwhelming majority of which comes from large patrons of the mails.

In another effort to stem the tide of this waste; to save money for the taxpayer and to turn back into constructive business channels the millions now lost through mistakes, Postmaster General New has designated the week of February 18 to 25, as Better Mailing week.

During that week he will seek the cooperation of chambers of commerce, boards of trade, large business and industrial enterprises, and the press of the country, with a view to having antiquated mailing lists brought up to date and every check placed against the possibility of letters reaching the postal system without accurate addresses.

"21" With Richard Barthelmess Is At Strand This Week

Richard Barthelmess returns to a modern role in "Twenty-One" which will be shown at the Strand for four days starting today.

"Twenty-One" with its bathing parties its taxi bandits and its strong modern theme, should have widespread appeal to those fans who wish to see Barthelmess in the costume of 1923.

Barthelmess himself executes a jump from the heavy character role in "The Fighting Blade" to a typical youth of today, which, according to preview reports on "Twenty-One" he plays with an ease that is a tribute to his versatility. The picture is said to be replete with human touches and comedy and presents a powerful climax revolving about one of the great problems of the present day—the habits of the younger generation.

All the exterior scenes in "Twenty-One" were filmed in Westchester county—at the Westchester-Biltmore Country club and at Samuel Untermyer's famous estate, Grey-stone.

ADVANCED REPORTING OFFERED JOURNALISTS

A course in advanced reporting especially for seniors in the course in journalism is being offered this semester under the direction of Prof. G. M. Hyde.

This class is to be held two times a week and is meant as a final review in reporting, giving adequate practice, for seniors who will graduate in June and who will go into newspaper work following graduation.

Prof. Hyde will give a number of lectures on reportorial problems, and members of the class will present oral discussions on problems which they have encountered. The practical end of the course, however, will consist in each student spending an entire day each week doing reporting for the two local papers. The student will cover news runs, rewrites, and general news stories, and will in this way gain first hand practice in newspaper work.

WILD GOOSE CHASE MAY PROVE PROFITABLE

Loren Murchison, star sprinter, rises to remark that even the elusive duckling may lure one to fame. It did him. It leaks out that Loren got his first training in running from chasing a goose. Murchison's father was a merchant and to advertise a "Blue Goose" shoe for youngsters frequently liberated a goose in the heart of Muskogee, Okla. The goose wore a blue ribbon. The person who caught the goose got a pair of shoes. Young Loren was ordered to chase the goose to help draw a crowd.

STUDENTS WRITE 11,497 INCHES

Journalism People Contribute News to Three Madison Papers

Students in the sophomore reporting class of the journalism department contributed 11,497 inches to the two city papers and The Daily Cardinal during the past semester. This is equal to 575 columns counting 20 inches to a column. As headlines and pictures are not counted in adding the "strings" the actual amount of space filled was more than 575 columns. These figures represent the work of 132 students.

The average amount of material written by one student was 87 inches or about four and three tenths columns, the average number of stories 14. Thirty-five exceeded the average or did as well, 12 exceeded 200 inches and five exceeded 400 inches or 20 columns which make four pages of newspaper copy.

Last year figures were taken only for the entire year, showing that 115 students wrote 17,000 inches or 875 columns. Three exceeded 1000 inches, eight exceeded 400 inches and 24 exceeded 200 inches.

METHODISTS HEAR BLAKEMAN SPEAK

Pastor Says Students Are Not Irreligious But May Be Unreligious

Declaring that the university may be unreligious, but that it is not irreligious, the Rev. Edward Blakeman, university pastor in charge of the Wesley Foundation work, spoke Monday night before a group meeting of Methodist ministers at Elkhorn.

"While the state university does not have a formal chapel, it can hardly be said to be irreligious when its president, hundreds of its faculty and thousands of its students are engaged in the promotion of Christianity," the speaker declared.

The student spends nearly 60 to 70 per cent of his time away from his professors, the Reverend Blakeman continued. It is because of this freedom that the church is able to enter into his life and exert an

Motion Pictures, Slides, and Lectures Will Be Used In Classes

Those who are interested in keeping warm, and at the same time saving fuel and avoiding objectionable smoke should phone the University extension division or the Association of Commerce and enroll in a six weeks course on "Fuels and Combustion."

The course, which is to begin during the week of February 18, is in charge of Walter E. Wines, professor of mechanical engineering.

Professor Wines has had not only a thorough technical training, but also a very wide experience in practical engineering work, a considerable part of which has been in the management and operation of steam power and heating plants. Among these are the steam plants of the Minneapolis Tribune, University of Minnesota, Chicago Tribune, Minneapolis Art Institute, Dunwoody Industrial Institute, and New York Times.

Motion pictures, slides, lectures, suitable literature, and class discussion are to be the various methods used in conducting this class. In order that the general public may receive accurate and specific information on the burning of soft coal and the elimination of smoke, a public meeting will be held one week before the opening of the class. Well qualified speakers will present the various aspects of the problem, and will discuss the new smoke ordinance, the methods of smoke prevention used in other cities, and what can be accomplished in Madison.

UNIVERSITY PLACES TEACHERS IN JOBS

Bureau Locates Positions For Applicants in Various City Schools

It is not exceptional grades but personality and general teaching ability that place each year on the average 800 out of 1,000 applicants for teaching positions according to the committee on high school relations.

Last year the bureau placed approximately 294 men and 687 women. There is a great demand for Latin teachers and teachers who are able to give library instruction. Few applicants are placed who have not obtained their B. A. degree, although in cases of emergency they are sometimes placed in small schools.

English teachers in the high schools of the state receive less than those of other departments as shown by the bulletin of the Wisconsin Teachers' association just issued by the office of E. G. Doudna, secretary.

According to the table on high school teachers of Wisconsin cities over 10,000 in population, the salaries in political science departments are at a median of $1,800 followed by those in science, with a median of $1,750. The median for English teachers is $1,000 a year.

College diplomas make little difference in the salaries of high school teachers but the tables for the larger cities where the rate of payment is higher than in the smaller cities, show an increase in the number of college graduates over the normal graduates.

STUDENT ASSAULTS GOPHER TEACHERS

Gilbert M. Campbell Attacks 3 Instructors, Severely Injuring Them

Tension on the University of Minnesota campus reached a high pitch recently when Edward A. Warren, instructor in English was made the third victim of an assault on faculty members by an assailant who gave his name as Gilbert M. Campbell, Minneapolis former student at the university.

This act follows similar attacks on Cecil C. Bean and James R. Foster, also instructors in English at the university of Minnesota.

The first attack occurred February 5 when Cecil C. Bean was assaulted when he left Folwell hall with Campbell. Bean was injured severely and had to be taken to the hospital. As Bean could not attend to his classes, Mr. Foster was assigned to one of his classes.

Campbell met Foster at the end of that class seized him by the collar and struck him about the face. The timely arrival of two other instructors stopped the affair before severe injury had been inflicted. Campbell was not detained as it was not desired to create further disturbance at that time.

Sometime later Campbell entered Warren's class and asked, "Are you Warren?" Upon receiving an affirmative answer he struck at Warren who eluded him. The class held Campbell until the police were notified and took him into custody. No reason has been ascribed for the attacks except Campbell's poor health that forced him to cancel his registration December 1.
