Farm Leaders Complain of Elimination from University Life

By S. S.

That they are being run off the campus and eliminated from many university activities was the consensus of opinion in a poll of Agriculture and Home Economics students taken by the Daily Cardinal on the Agricultural campus Thursday. Leaders in student activities and students picked at random expressed those opinions. One of the most thorough analyses of the situation was given by Ralph Puy Hodgson '29, president of the Saddle and Sirloin club. He said:

Not Anxious to Return

"It is true what Dean Russell says about our getting pushed off the campus, but we are not so disturbed about it as to coax the students on the hill to take us back. In fact, we have a number of activities of our own on the Agricultural campus with which we are progressing rather well."

He went on to state that "some of the most prominent athletes of the university are agricultural students, including the wrestling team."

Would Unite Students

"We are ready to do all we can to solve the problem of keeping the students of all the colleges united for the best interests of the university," he added.

The independent position of his college was further emphasized by the editor of the Wisconsin Country magazine, Roland C. Wartman '29. In making clear his viewpoint, he stated:

Jobs of Their Own

"The statement that the Agricultural students are being pushed off of the campus is true, yet I see no reason why our students should want to be the sixth assistant on some minor committee when we have plenty of key jobs that are looking for leaders to fill them right in agricultural college activities. It seems that certain group affiliations are necessary in order to hold any of the more responsible positions in all university activities."

From Mary Lou Gissal '29, Home Economics editor of The Wisconsin Country magazine, and otherwise actively engaged in many university activities, came the following statement:

"Not Welcome"

"There is no doubt that there is a feeling on the Agricultural campus that 'Ags' and 'Home Ecs' are not welcome on the hill. In the social life which we enter outside of our classes we find amazement expressed in the fact that we are a part of the 'Ag' school. I can see no reason why this distinction should exist. Probably if

Reed, Blaine Due Here Saturday

Smith Clubs to Present Senators at University Stock Pavilion

Sen. "Jim" Reed of Missouri and Sen. John J. Blaine of Wisconsin will speak at a state-wide mass-meeting at the Stock pavilion here at 8 p. m. Saturday.

The appearance of the two speakers here is under the auspices of the Progressive Republican Al Smith for President club, in co-operation with the Student Smith-Schmedeman club of the university.

Close to 1,000 reservations for seats have already been received from Smith supporters throughout the state. Special trains have been scheduled to run here from Milwaukee and other parts of Wisconsin.

An invitation has been extended to all university students and Madison people to attend the meeting. No admission will be charged, and through amplifiers, arrangements have been completed to make the talks audible throughout the huge pavilion.

Union to Give Play-by-Play Game Reports

Men unable to follow the football team to Lafayette can drop into the Rathskeller Saturday afternoon to eat pretzels and play cards while listening to play-by-play reports of the game.

Two radios and a special Western Union wire will be in operation to carry the news directly from the Ross Ade stadium to the anxious ears. Checkers and playing cards will be distributed to furnish entertainment during time-outs. A huge bowl of pretzels is scheduled as part of the decorations.

The Union is planning to supply these reports for all the out-of-town games this year.

State Society Honors H. E. Cole

Historical Board Holds 67th Annual Meeting; Elects New Curators

Tribute was paid to the late Harry E. Cole, Baraboo editor, by O. D. Brandenburg today at the 76th annual meeting of the State Historical society.

Mr. Cole was a native of Indiana and a graduate of DePauw university. After a short period as high school principal, he purchased the Baraboo Daily News. Mr. Cole was president of the Historical society at the time of his death on Apr. 13, 1927. He was allied with several societies interested in public welfare, and was the author of many historical books. Mr. Cole was active in archeological work in Sauk county and did much to identify historic mounds.

Miss Annie Nunn read the report of the executive committee. The important business was the election of 12 curators whose terms expire in 1931, and of three curators chosen to fill vacancies caused by deaths.

Col. Marshall Cousins, Eau Claire, who was formerly the state banking commissioner, was elected president. Col. Howard Greene was elected vice-president to take the place of Robert Wild.

The three deceased curators and their successors are:

Harry E. Cole succeeded by A. C. Kingsford, Milwaukee; William Irvine succeeded by T. J. Cunningham, Chippewa Falls; and Robert Wild succeeded by C. M. Morris, Milwaukee. The newly elected curators are from the same towns as their predecessors.

The 12 curators who were reelected are: Hans A. Anderson, Whitehall; Henry S. Butler, Superior; Matthew S. Dudgeon, Milwaukee; Carl Russell Fish, Madison; Howard Greene, Milwaukee; John L. Grindell, Platteville; J. T. Hooper, Janesville; William Horlick, Jr., Racine; D. B. Martin, Green Bay; S. M. Pedrick, Ripon; R. K. Richardson, Beloit; and A. H. Sanford, LaCrosse.

Badger-Purdue Game to Be Broadcast from WBAA

The Purdue - Wisconsin football game Saturday will be broadcast from WBAA, Lafayette, Ind., the Purdue university station. Broadcasting will begin at 1:45 p. m. on a wave length of 272.6 meters and a frequency of 1,100 kilocycles.

DESK MEN

All members of the desk staff, including freshmen, are expected to attend the regular weekly meeting of desk men at 3:30 p. m. today in the Lex Vobiscum room of the Union. Eugene Duffield, executive editor, has several important things to tell the desk men. Roll call will be taken. NIGHT MANAGER

Campus Groups Begin to Frown on Roughness in Ceremonies

Good old "hell-week" seems to be started on a definite decline towards insignificance, a poll of some of the Wisconsin fraternities taken Thursday indicated. The forceful application of paddles and other forms of physical torture are being generally frowned upon and the tendency seems to be more toward a mental rather than physical impression on the pledge.

Chi Phi fraternity has culminated three years of partial abolishment with a total doing-away of hell-week this year. The feeling around that house was that the week was too hard on both pledges and actives and not at all necessary. Formal initiation only is now observed there.

Hell-week Abolished

Alpha Chi Rho has also entirely abolished hell-week. This step was taken over a year ago. The only service required of pledges there at the present time is general work around the house, it was disclosed.

Sigma Nu and Chi Psi both reported that they had not made hell-week a part of either of their initiations last year. Plans for this year have not been made, they announced, so whether or not they will continue the policy they began last year is not known.

Prefer Dignity

Another group of fraternities announced that they had done away with hell-week in part, making it more of a dignified period of pledge service and ridicule.

At the Phi Kappa Sigma house, humor and pledge -entertainment make up the most of hell-week. No physical chastisement is practiced and the pledges furnish entertainment at meal times. The quest is held at the end of the week, followed by informal and formal initiations.

Beta Theta Pi has three days of hell-week. Here the description was that "we have cut out a lot of the rough stuff." The quest and formal initiation complete the ceremony.

Bedacht to Talk at Union Tonight

Communist Candidate for Senator to Campaign for Foster in Speech

Max Bedacht, Worker's (communist) candidate for United States senator of Illinois, will speak under the auspices of the Foster-for-President club tonight at 8 p. m. at the Union.

This information was given out last night by David Gordon '32, who, with Cyril Talbot '31, Maxwell Lorch '31, Al Schalk '32, and Carroll Blair '31, form the executive committee of the organization.

Bedacht will speak on the probable effect of the coming election upon the working classes and the education of this country.

Graduates to Open Social Season With Informal Dance Tonight

The Great hall of the Union will be the scene of high festivity this evening when the graduate students initiate their social season with the first informal dance of the year.

Lighting effects in red, blue, and gold will be arranged in the great arcades of the hall and at either end of the ball room the furniture will be so placed as to form cozy retreats for those who do not care to dance and for those who desire to play bridge.

The First Badger Orchestra will furnish the music for the evening, and members of Rodolf's dancing class will entertain during the intermissions.

Dean and Mrs. Charles Slichter of the graduate school will receive the

Cardinal to Add Rotogravure Art Section Sunday

A rotogravure pictorial section in the Daily Cardinal will become a regular Sunday feature, beginning with the issue of Oct. 21. The section will be four pages, of approximately the size of the ordinary metropolitan newspaper.

Pictures of events in colleges and universities throughout the United States will be used in this section, which will prove to be an interesting addition to current college news in the United States.

Athletics, society, politics, scholarships, activities, in fact anything which has to do with college life, will be illustrated in this new section, which will be a standard part of every Sunday issue of the paper.

Rotogravure sections have appeared in the Daily Cardinal during the last few years as a special addition to the Home-coming edition. Comments on this former feature have led to the introduction of the rotogravure pictorials as a weekly attraction.

Spain in 1857 Had Coeducation

Ortega Tells About Country as "Casa Cervantes" Elects Officers

Co-education in Spanish universities existed in 1857, more than a decade before any American institution took in women students—but Spanish señoritas did not take advantage of it till after the World War, according to Prof. Jose Ortega who spoke last night at the Casa Cervantes on "Latest Impressions of Spain."

"The women of Spain are at present conscious of their present problems, and are facing seriously their social situation," he said. About 500 to 600 are at present enrolled in the educational institutions of Spain. Suffrage has been extended to women, and the most active club of Madrid is the "Liceo Feminina," a feminine cultural center.

Prosperity of economic Spain was stressed by Prof. Ortega. The influence of American business has been felt, and the government is making an effort to attract tourists, resulting in the expositions of Seville and Barcelona in 1929, in which the United States is the only country outside Latin America that has been invited to participate.

Election of officers of the Casa Cervantes were held and resulted as follows:

Philip Judson '31, president; Mary Saylor '30, secretary; Lucile Draper '30, treasurer.

Dean Nardin to Address Women Athletic Majors

Dean Louise Nardin will speak at a mass meeting of the majors in the women's physical education department this evening at 8 o'clock at Lathrop hall. This is the third general meeting of the majors to be held this year and the usual plan of singing songs will be followed. Following the program ice cream will be sold to raise money for the scholarship fund.

guests for 8 to 9 o'clock and others who will appear in the reception group are Dean Louise Nardin, Professor and Mrs. Kieckhofer, Prof. and Mrs. Carl Russell Fish, Dr. and Mrs. Cole, Prof. and Mrs. Riker, and Prof. L. R. Jones.

The reception will be formally closed at 9 o'clock by the initiation of the grand march, the leaders of which will wear green freshman caps, mortar boards, and circus regalia.

Those in charge of the dance are: W. M. Banfield and Marie Correll, co-chairman; Louise McNaught, Agnes Zelmet, Myrtl Starr, Viola Wood, Louise Clark, R. G. Shands, and P. H. Senn.

Candidacy Still Is Unchallenged; Doyle on Ticket

Bartholomew, Gutheim Enter Race for Sophomore Leadership

BULLETIN

At a late hour last night James Hanks, Chi Psi, announced that he would also run for the presidency of the senior class. Chester Kurtz, Phi Kappa Sigma, will be his running mate for the position of secretary-treasurer.

By W. P. S.

The last night before the deadline for filing petitions in the coming student elections was fraught with wild rumors, startling announcements, and a polished and cultured political meeting staged by the sophomore class. Important developments follow:

Wallace Jensen, Chi Phi, announced his candidacy for senior class president. John Doyle, unaffiliated, announced his candidacy for senior secretary-treasurer, supporting Jensen. Jensen is so far unopposed.

Bartholomew Nominated

Kenneth Bartholomew, Theta Chi, was chosen for sophomore president in a meeting that talked of "purposes" and "aims" and was featured by a revolt staged by another party.

Frederick Gutheim, unaffiliated, whose revolt in the Bartholomew meeting lacked just seven votes of a majority, announced later that he would make the third candidate for sophomore president.

'Twas a $5 Meeting

It cost somebody five bucks for the Old Madison room of the Union, where, in the most dignified meeting of the sophomore class, Bartholomew was nominated last night.

This was not the sophomore class that had heard peppy "get out the vote" talks at meetings for Hugh Bloodgood, Alpha Delta Phi, the first candidate for sophomore president;

Smith and Boyd Head R.U.R Cast

Players Present Fantasy Tonight at 8:15 in Bascom Theater

Capek's fantastic mind will unfold itself from Bascom theater at 8:15 tonight as Wisconsin University Players present the exotic melodrama, "R. U. R.," in all its futuristic splendor.

Dorothy Boyd '31, newly found campus star, plays the leading role opposite Ralph Smith '30, last year's Haresfoot favorite. Donald Varian '30, under the guise of Dr. Gall, is scheduled for one of the heaviest bits of acting ever recorded in student theatricals.

The remainder of the cast is chosen with Prof. Troutman's characteristic ingenuity and consists of Rosamond Rosenthal '30, Thoburn Rowe '30, Gilbert Williams '31, William Olson '31, Van Johnson '31, Janet Tietjens '31, George Hines '30, Rosalie Gill '31, and Maurice Levine '30.

This play carries in its melodramatic theme all human accomplishments to the nth degree. Yet it is all quite comprehensible to an age that knows of synthetic creation of life, the revivification of glands, of psychoanalytic developments, birth control, and the universal possibilities of radium. Television, the color ray, and mechanistic art all play a large part in the production of this master play.

"R. U. R.," (Rossum's Universal Robots) incorporates the finest of acting with science's highest achievements. It is the story of future life in an element of unmistakable romance. Its emotional range is pitched in extremes, from the peaks of love to the unending depths of despondency.

Players will repeat their presentation in a matinee at 2:30 tomorrow, and two more stagings on the coming week-end.

REGISTRATION DEADLINE

Deadline for the registration of candidates for the fall campus elections will be at 12:30 p.m. today. At that time all persons wishing to run for office in the coming elections must be registered at the office of Dean of Men, and must have paid his fees.

this was a sophomore class which thought that traditions were 'hooey' (cultured term) and believed they had problems, one of which was the gaining of student representation in faculty meetings, an idea from the fertile mind of Mr. John Dern.

All Not So Calm
But all was not as calm, cultured, and erudite as the conduct of the meeting by Mr. Sidney Hertzberg, president of the Intel club, would indicate. Mr. Hertzberg opened the meeting by calling for an open discussion of sophomore problems by the 70 persons present.

Mr. Einar Lunde pointed out that in this representative meeting it would be possible to consider the class problems as a whole.

Traditions Attacked
Mr. Dern attacked the ballyhoo of traditions, while Mr. James D. Porter, supporter of Mr. Bloodgood, winced a bit. Mr. Dern went on and expounded his idea for student representation at faculty meetings. "Students should have a voice in deciding their curriculum," Mr. Dern cried.

Mr. Nudelman dragged the meeting back to strictly sophomore politics. He suggested that the faculty be let alone. There was no objection to closing the discussion, so the chair called for nominations.

Lunde Names Bartholomew

Mr. Lunde rose immediately and nominated Kenneth Bartholomew. He assured the group that Mr. Bartholomew would choose to run, although he was headed for Lafayette, Ind., at the time of the meeting. There was a second. The chair called for other nominations.

A period of silence, and Mr. Dern rose. He nominated Mr. Frederick Gutheim, who, like his opponent, was not present at the meeting. Mr. Dern said something about the sound ideas which Mr. Gutheim, as editor, would pour into the Wisconsin Lit. He also said something more about traditions.

Majority Slight

Mr. Chapman said that Mr. Bartholomew was a 'fighting man' as was shown by his gridiron exploits. Mr. Nudelman added that the fact that Mr. Gutheim was unaffiliated would not make non-fraternity men vote for him, as the sophomore class was picking a man, not a fraternity. He said Mr. Bartholomew was the man.

A short discussion ensued, and the vote was taken, the meeting declar-

Gutheim to Run

Reached last night after the meeting, Mr. Gutheim said he would run anyway, and would file his papers today. "I still think that the plan for class organization is an issue," he said, "and I do not believe that even with the present changes it represents the best that can be achieved. Now in the time of change is when constructive ideas will bear the most fruit."

He said that in his platform, to be issued later, he will state that sophomore voters "are not called upon to decide that class unity or class tradition is a good thing."

In the voting, Mr. Bloodgood and his assistants voted for Mr. Gutheim, hoping to swing the "revolt" into a complete "revolution."

Boilermakers' Hopes Pinned on Backfield

HERE'S the DOPE

By Harold Dubinsky

Saturday's game more and more important as the shades of winter advance upon us. This Saturday Wisconsin and Illinois open their Big Ten schedules, while the remainder of the teams with the exception of Northwestern are meeting conference foes.

Wisconsin-Purdue

It is our opinion that Wisconsin will win the Purdue game by a score neighboring 20-6. The Badgers have that certain something they have lacked for many years, and we feel certain that Purdue will be squelched by the Wisconsin attack. Coach Thistlethwaite has three complete teams, any one of which is quite capable of holding a strong conference foe. Such backfield stars as Behr, Bartholomew, Cuisinier, Lusby, Hayes and Harold Smith will do the damage.

Illinois-Indiana

We admit that Indiana has a powerful eleven but we can't quite forget that Illinois, title winner of last year, has practically an intact veteran team. If our wishes were to be consulted we would ask that Indiana smother Illinois, but wishes don't count a great deal in results. Illinois will defeat Indiana and the score might be 20-12. Who knows?

Minnesota-Chicago

Up at Minneapolis they plan on having a regular whoopie homecoming with Chicago as the goats. This idea of picking a weak team for the homecoming game is just the thing to do. It's great for the grads. Anyway Minnesota should swamp Chicago somewhere around 25-0. In the cold North they have the perturbing habit of gathering tough and rough players. That's a bad habit, especially for other teams.

Ohio State-Michigan

We are quite sure that Ohio State will win from Michigan Saturday when the two elevens meet at Columbus. The task of venturing a score for this game is by no means an easy one. We judge that the game will be close ending 19-12 in favor Ohio.

Graph Will Give Purdue Returns

Lafayette Connected with Camp Randall for Play
by Play Announcing reserves-Oshkosh Normal football game Saturday will be given play by reports of the Badger varsity's game with Purdue at Lafayette. Athletic department officials announced today that the gridgraph will be installed at the stadium where a vivid account of the Wisconsin-Purdue battle will be presented.

A direct wire will be run to the field here from the press box at Ross-Ade stadium, Lafayette and the news of the Badgers' progress against Coach Phelan's team will be telegraphed to the stands immediately by means of the gridgraph machine. This plan will add more color to the B game.

Coach Irv Uteritz has made several shifts in his line-up this week in an attempt to improve his offense which was a bit ragged in the first half of the opening game with the North Dakota Aggies. The reserves will meet a stronger team in the Oshkosh teachers and Uteritz is anxious to keep his slate clean.

The admission price for this game will be fifty cents. There will be no advance sale. Open sale begins Saturday morning at all the ticket booths at Camp Randall. The game will get under way at two o'clock.

Cardinal Line Fit and Ready to Stop 'Pest'

Boilermakers Last Minute
Favorites to Cop Lafayette Conference Classic

The old red wagon came out of retirement yesterday and added the impetus of Badger tradition as a further inspiration to the 33 men who left for Lafayette, Ind. where they open their conference schedule against a rejuvenated Purdue eleven.

The Wisconsin players looked fit for their battle, and for the first time this season, the entire squad will be able to perform without injuries incapacitating any of the men.

Purdue Now Favorites

Somehow public opinion upon the game has changed as the contest draws near. The Cardinals at first odds-on favorites to win by virtue of their fine showings against Notre Dame and Cornell college, have gradually been replaced as victors by the Boilermakers. The Chicago Tribune announces that the Phelanmen will win by virtue of a better backfield.

Upon the ability of a line, thus far deemed one of the strongest in the conference, and upon which its opponents have yet to make huge dents, the Badgers hope to stop the line plunges and off-tackle runs of Welch and Harmison, the Purdue threats, as well as to open up holes for their offensive attack.

U. W. Backfield Brilliant

As for the Wisconsin backfield, it boasts of a galaxy of stars such as Ken Bartholomew, "Bo" Cuisinier, Sammy Behr, Harold Smith, Gene Rose, and Harry Rebholz. In these men, and many other ball-toters, the Cardinals hope for an offensive attack that will end with the ball across the goal line.

During the past week, both Wisconsin and Purdue have been stressing offensive work. The Badgers in both of their games, showed fine defensive ability, but were unable to display a like offense, and Coach Thistlethwaite's charges looked considerably better in this department after the past week of drilling.

Purdue has much the same situation. None of Coach Phelan's men

Women Pitch Close Shoes in First Tilts

Although hampered by rain throughout the entire week, enough clear weather permitted the staging of eight horseshoe matches to open the women's intramural fall schedule.

Gamma Phi nosed out Barnard in a closely contested match, 21-11, 20-21, and 21-19. Theta Phi Alpha put up a good fight in their first game with Schneiders, but lost 20-22. In the second game, Schneiders found little opposition, and won 21-4. Charter House defeated Alpha Omicron Pi, and the merics had little trouble vanquishing Phi Mu.

Chadbourne and Kappa Delta furnished the closest match, Chadbourne winning the first game 21-13, but losing the last two games by the scores 18-21, and 12-21. Phi O Pi dropped both games to Tri Delta by a close margin, 19-21 and 17-21. The French house won from Beta Phi Alpha, 21-3 and 21-14. Pi Phi lost to Sigma, 16-21 and 9-21.

Hockey games for Thursday were postponed because the field was too soft. Friday's games scheduled at Camp Randall are:

3:30—Beta Sigma Omicron vs Gamma Phi.

4:30—Hillel vs 929 University Avenue.

TENNIS TOURNEY SECOND PLAY MUST END OCT. 20.

Contestants in the all-university tournament are advised matches played off by Saturday Oct. 20th, or they will be required to forfeit them. Instead of using the varsity courts as before, the players are to use the dormitory courts. V. Wake defeated G. Havens, 8-6, 6-4, in the only second round match played to date.

Harriers Fear Hoosier Stars in Quad Meet

Indiana May Upset Badger
Titles Hopes at Evanston
Saturday

By G. K.

Fully prepared for the hardest kind of competition, the Badger harriers are leaving Friday at 5 p. m. for the quadrangular cross country meet at Evanston. The race will start at 10 a. m. Saturday.

Indiana in all its strength looms as the team that must be beaten. Led by Fields, one of the strongest runners in the conference last year, and a contender for the Olympic team, they have also another excellent runner in Leas, a sophomore. Besides these two, there are Clauman and Banks, who placed seventh and eighth in last year's quadrangular meet, and Steele, another good sophomore.

Wildcats, Chicago, Not Feared

Although Northwestern and Chicago have several good individual runners, their team strength is not sufficient to cause worry. In fact these two teams always stage a minor race for third place and leave the first two places to Indiana and Wisconsin.

Those selected by Coach Jones to enter the meet are: Captain Bill Bur-

That the spectators who usually protest a referee's decision in a football game are those who have not a very thorough knowledge of the game was clearly brought out by Prof. Guy S. Lowman, university football coach, in an address before the Knights of Pythias last night at their club house.

The different types of penalties and the means by which the ball may be advanced, such as rushing, passing and kicking, were explained by the coach for the club members.

YOST RETURNS TO FACE "RUNNING AWAY" CHARGE

Ann Arbor, Mich.—Fielding H. Yost, athletic director at Michigan university, has returned to Ann Arbor for the Ohio game Saturday and is disappointed because students of the university accused him of "running away" when he made a short business trip to Nashville, Tenn.

Yost explained that he no longer was coach of the team because his duties as athletic director were too heavy to allow him to spend full time with the squad.

Yost also denied he ever had any intention of leaving Michigan.

For All Wisconsin

-:- 1928-29 -:-

1. Raise fraternity initiation requirements and standards relating to probation.
2. Establish a point system regulating participation in student activities.
3. Clean out university politics.
4. Place Madison traffic ordinances on a metropolitan basis.
5. Take part in the presidential election in November.

Deadline Today

The 12:30 Requirement This Noon Will Be Rigidly Enforced

ALL candidates for the seven class offices, which are to be filled in the annual election on Nov. 2, must have their nomination papers filed in the Dean of Men's office by 12:30 p. m. today. After this time the entire campaign slates will be officially made public, and actual personal solicitation of support on behalf of each candidate may begin.

The deadline date and time, as stated under definite authority, will be enforced rigidly this fall, and can be assumed to be final without hesitation. The entire elections committee has made this clear.

Further, the announcement of the candidacies of various office seekers always relieves the university of that period of tension which precedes the filing of nominations and which often has developed unfair practices. From now on, candidates will have to do their campaigning before the entire student body; there can be no hedging behind fraternity caucuses and secret platforms.

The coming two weeks will be watched with interest, with the practices and methods of each candidate under careful scrutiny.

Phi Eta Sigma

Election to It Should Be a Pledge to Continue Fine Work

THE Daily Cardinal congratulates the 10 initiates who were received into Phi Eta Sigma, honorary freshman fraternity, at its annual fall ceremony Wednesday night. Their work during the first year which merited each of the 10 students a grade point average of 2.5 or better, is indeed deserving of the honor conferred. For such an average indicates that these men have made a firm start in their university careers.

Phi Eta Sigma, however, should not be regarded by freshmen as a consummation of excellent work. Rather, it should be regarded as a ledge to continue that which has been so well begun. As Dean Scott H. Goodnight said, Phi Eta Sigma "expects men to gravitate to the top."

Both Dean Goodnight and Prof. J. F. A. Pyre

advocated sound principles to these new men to enter university activities and to concentrate, in addition to their studies, upon the rich fields of life which demand a wider range of knowledge. For, now that the men have proved their initial capabilities, they are ready to take part in these other fields. We hope that Phi Eta Sigma will be an inspiration to make the most of them in the coming three years.

Write to "Dad"

A Personal Invitation for November 24 Is What Really Counts

ONCE each year the university plays host to Wisconsin fathers. That one time is best known as "Dad's" Day when the fathers of all students are invited to Madison to see and live, if only for a brief time with their sons and daughters.

A fine tradition has been developed by the student and faculty members who have given their time to making the event a success. Each father is given an invitation officially from the university. That often is hardly enough, as it is the personal invitation from son or daughter to father that really counts. It is something that no committee can do and only the individual can accomplish.

Our fathers are interested in what we are thinking and doing and a "Day" or even a weekend is a pretty short time for them to get any idea at all. At the most, only a peek into university life can be given. That, however, to most fathers will suffice and send them home satisfied with the returns on the undoubted investments they have made.

This year much greater facilities are offered in the way of entertainment—a new Union building at which all can gather together for a good time has materialized; a football team that has attracted national attention may be seen in action. All in all a happy time should be in store for father, son, and daughter.

So, write home to "Dad" tonight!

Wrecking the Yankees

Their Power Will Not Doom Baseball as Some Fear

SPORT writers, now that the New York Yankees have battered their helpless National League opponents into submission for the second consecutive year, are beginning to "sell" Miller Huggins' super baseball club. The professional critics, who keep the public alive to the existence of baseball, have everything figured out that the Yankees of 1926-27-28 have been to powerful, and that for the best interests of the game it is essential that the team be broken up. To keep men like Ruth, Meusel, Gehrig, and Pennock on one team, they say, will only spell the doom of the National League, which cannot keep pace with the American, while it will kill interest in the latter. For, so long as the Yankee club remains intact, there seems to be little hope for the other 15 big league ball clubs.

All of this is interesting it means that writers are becoming worried about the triumphant New York team. But, granted that the Yanks do seem invincible with their present lineup, we cannot see how their extraordinary strength will ultimately lead to the downfall of professional baseball. Fans in Cleveland, Detroit, or Washington may tire of seeing Miller Huggins win championships, but so long as "Babe" Ruth hits home runs, "Lefty" Grove strikes out batters, and "Goose" Goslin hits .380, they will not cease going to games. Most baseball rooters are not interested in pennants, and except for the "dyed-in-the-wool baseball bug," the game holds its interest more for its opportunity to afford recreation and excitement than for its championship races. The majority of spectators in major league cities are transient fans, who attend the game for its own sake and to see particular "star" performers. They do not care about league supremacy.

Again, the would-be wreckers of the New York team are putting too much emphasis upon the fall world series classic. To them, the purpose of the big league races is to develop pennant winners and potential "world champions," while to Mr. Average Fan pennants mean nothing. Outside of New York City, it is of minor importance whether the Yanks win the October series; the team could win indefinitely without affecting interest in baseball seriously.

Upon further analysis, baseball will owe its salvation in the future more to journalistic good will than to the maintenance of close competition among teams. The newspapers of the United States made the game what it is today, mainly through their presentation of free publicity, and while this publicity continues, interest will continue.

For example, from now until spring this talk about the wrecking of the Yankees will afford a good topic for newspaper discussion; it will keep the game alive during the winter months. And by this generous presentation of "hot stove league dope" the newspaper will do more than anything to keep fans interested. Were journalists to bar all baseball news, many would never realize in March that another season is at hand. With another season then, the victorious team of the previous year is of little significance. The Yankees of 1928 will be forgotten. Intact or disintegrated, New York will be only one of 16 baseball teams, for conversation will center about baseball as an institution, about the new season, and about the new races. Yet newspaper publicity, just as this fall, will be the basis of all discussion.

Skyrockets

Aimed at the Higher Things of Life

By THE HALF WIT'S HALF BROTHER

Well, the zeppelin was landed by radio among other things. There is no limit to the ingenuity of these announcers in getting things to broadcast. It's just too bad that Lincoln made his Gettysburg address when he did and that my roommate wasn't a great man when he changed his socks last.

Ode to Melancholy, Petty Larceny, Pusillanimousness, the Theta House, and Many Other Things to Make This Title Longer and More Complicated Than Any of Samuel Hoffenstein's or Dorothy Parker's I Thank You. "The Assyrian came down like the wolf on the fold, And his cohorts were gleaming in purple and gold; And the sheen of their spears was like stars on the sea, When the blue wave rolls nightly on deep Galilee."

I do love these lines they can put me to sleep, But this paramount fact is my one cause to weep. However exactly they picture the tribe Dear Public, I tell you I was not the scribe.

Continuing the Credo wherever I left off:

21. I believe that walking home with a girl in a rain storm is an expression of true love as well as the fact that you have no other way to get home.

22. I believe that Wisconsin will beat Purdue more admirably than did Minnesota and that Purdue should after the game join Michigan in the organization of the Ain't We Awful club.

23. I believe that class politics were never in a better condition. Everybody knows less than ever before and that is just the situation that the dormitories are used to.

24. I believe that student cars should be allowed on the hill in order that Mr. Brown, the man-with-the-stick, will not annoy us by looking so indolent.

25. I believe more firmly than anything else that there has been enough of this for today.

True joke out of a class room so you know it's rotten: Young Fella, excitedly, "Is this Beowulf?" Political Reporter, "Yeah, that's him standing up there with the white hair."

How to Raise Polar Bears for Profit with Punctuation

After a summer's growth and a trip to Europe and Memphis the darlings should be old enough to know how to act. But ah they don't. Today's harangue will have to do with instructing the cute things in the essentials of Emily Post.

One of the first things they have observed is that they meet girls on the street and have to be ready to greet the girls in some manner. Just be ready that's all. Girls don't speak to you here but you can pretend all this. When the girl passes the bear with a glassy forward stare, instruct the young things to take three steps past her, stop, bend over, pick up a brick, straighten up and heave the brick at the neglecting girl. This works as a good remedy if the bears have been proficient in their baseball lessons included in my previous instructions.

When the bears go to a dance and are introduced to girls who don't for their lives remember their names until they discover what this and that big things they are on the campus, instruct the bears to tell the offending Miss that she's a liar and both she and he know it. This system works very well if the girl does not turn out to be your sister.

Teach the bears to precede the lady downstairs and to lead the lady upstairs and to always jump into a rumble seat first because she may be fat and not allow room for both of you.

That's all for today; but remember that bears must comb their hair for Homecoming; prepare them for this.

Farewell for now you'll miss me much but don't give up there are none such who write so long without a laugh but me.

The general public sale of seats for the concert to be given at the Capitol theater Tuesday, Nov. 13, by Galli Curiel will not start until Tuesday noon, according to Len Brown, Capitol theater manager. Mail orders for seats are now being received; prices ranging from $1.50 to $4 and the open sale from the box office will start next Tuesday noon.

Book Notes

THE Happy Mountain, by Maristan Chapman, Viking Press, $2.50.

The Happy Mountain is a glowing, vivid picture of peaceful primitive people in the hills somewhere in Tennessee or Carolina, and much of its color comes from the odd language used. The hero, Wait-still-on-the-Lord-Lowe, is a lanky lad who gets a hard dose of spring fever. He wishes to see the outside world and the city of which he has heard but does not even know the name. But the world is very cold; his utter simplicity, fostered by the friendliness of mountains, is amazing. He cannot understand the attitude of people on the plains toward him when he goes to the door of a farm house seeking food and lodging, and is either shooed away or taken for a tramp and humiliated with a crust of bread. In his hills it was an honor and a relief from tedium to welcome a stranger into one's home over night. Finally Wait-still, after a series of mild adventures arrives at the city and there makes his greatest discovery—that the train which he had seen daily come to Glen Hazard, his home village, came from and returned to the city. So he takes the train home and marries the patiently waiting Allardene.

The whole story is written in the provincial language of the hill-folk. The author extends the dialect not only to conversation but to the thoughts of the people and to her description of the mountain. Unfamiliar provincialisms are slow reading; used extensively as in The Happy Mountain they make it drag a bit. Still this may have been the effect the author sought since deliberate slowness typifies the movement of the characters of this book. The novel is pleasant reading, for although the author seemingly makes no effort to form a plot the story runs along, comes to an end easily and gives a convincing portrait of the people of Glen Hazard.

Readers' Say So

ANOTHER OPINION ON THE BAG RUSH

Editor The Daily Cardinal:

The Freshmen-Sophomore bag rush is over and I suppose the next thing to do is to forget it; nevertheless, the writer would like to voice his opinion as to how the rush was conducted.

The writer believes (and I am sure all the Freshmen who participated will agree) that the rush was not conducted as fairly as it might be. It seems quite evident, that in a contest where strength is such a deciding factor, the mere handful of Sophs present, could not have out-rushed the overwhelming majority of Freshmen, if the contest were conducted in the fairest possible manner.

Many spectators saw several of the supposedly unprejudiced policemen carry several of the bags over to the Soph side of the field. The writer obtained a statement from no less authority than a policeman himself—that the judge stand had been moved during the rush, so that it favored the Sophomores. These same policemen insisted upon causing as much confusion as possible in the Fresh ranks, hindering their organizing themselves, in every possible way.

Knowing all these things the writer (although he cannot change the judges decision) believes the Freshmen are entitled at least to a moral victory; and that is the purpose of this letter: to convince the readers that to the Freshmen rightfully belong the victory honors of the 1928 Bag Rush.

Educator Foresees American Culture at New High Peak

If present signs may be called promising, there will be in a few years an intellectual renaissance in the United States with Meiklejohn at Wisconsin, Aydelotte at Swarthmore, and Morgan at Antioch as leaders.

The more venturesome of the many experimenters are not only hoping to reorganize the curriculum but like Dr. Hamilton Holt of Rollins college at Winter Park, Fla., strive to abolish the time-honored lecture-and-quiz method of study.

Dr. Holt proposed to provide each department with a laboratory, instructor, and tools, books and conveniences for study. The student would be given textbook and tools, his assignment for the year; and in case he should be unable to master parts of his extended assignment, he would be instructed to call for a special conference with his adviser.

Europeans Stress Research--Lobeck

Emphasis placed on research work in European universities through a control of the amount of teaching which professors are allowed to do, but a conviction that the quality of teaching in America is superior to that found in European universities, are points discussed by Prof. A. K. Lobeck of the department of geology, University of Wisconsin, following his return from a tour abroad which took him to 13 countries.

Work of the University of Wisconsin is well known in university circles of Europe, comments Mr. Lobeck.

Admiration is expressed throughout Europe for the projects in the United States aimed at development of state parks.

"The idea of a 'state park every 100 miles' captivated their fancy," says Mr. Lobeck. "The fact that the United States is setting aside retreats preserving the original character of the landscape was a point of general interest in Europe. The fondness abroad for the outdoor and the lover for picnics is universally apparent, but the masses there must go to established places of entertainment. Everywhere tourists or picnickers encounter the prospect of invading strictly private property."

"The hand of man is in evidence on almost every hand in Europe except in such spots as the rugged parts of the Alps, in the forests of Sweden, the mountains of Lapland, and in the more remote parts of the Norwegian coast," he asserted. The Wisconsin geologist stresses the advantage which Americans have in movements to retain a virgin countryside.

Veteran Gridmen Strive for Place on Illinois Team

Urbana, Ill., Oct. 15.—Inspired by the approach of the first Big Ten game with Indiana here Saturday, Illinois players, veterans and rookies, will strive for the honor of playing against the Hoosiers.

There are few outstanding new linemen and Otto Hills of Chicago, tackle, may be the only one selected to start. Hills received little heralding before practice opened but so far he seems to be the only tackle possibility to compete with the veterans. The ends are still a question. Zup has Deimling and Jolley, lettermen, but he hopes to find more wing men. John Clements, Taylorville; John Tarwain, Sesser, Loyalle; Hinton, Pana, and Jim Lewis, Waukegan, are possibilities.

Ken Fields, Elkhart, Ind., is certain to alternate with Stuessy at quarter and it is even possible that he will pilot the first string backs. Ernie Chittin, Ashland, Ky., is the third quarter.

Campus Costumes Acquire Distinction With Clever ACCESSORIES

Modernistic accents of the vogue of costume jewelry give a touch of sophistication to the street or campus frock. For dress, flat pearl chokers and crystal necklaces compete with Chanel chains . . . Jewelry is so important and truly smart effects can be secured very inexpensively here.

Sport hose of silk and wool will be worn by the well-dressed co-ed on the Hill. They are soft and lustrous, and very practical. Neutral backgrounds have bright notes of color to give the sports attire piquancy.

Beginning with $1.

Variety may be added to your tweed school frock if you wear a tailored collar and cuff set. Silk dresses are freshened by one of the new yoke collars, fashioned of lace. Embroidered crepe de chine sets are gay and pertly clever.

Carry forward the glorious cardinal spirit of Wisconsin by wearing a red gardenia pinned on your coat at the football games. Price 69 cents.

To keep fingers warm at football games or while carrying books, you'll want a pair of the famous Bacmo gloves which are lined, either with a knit lining or with fur. Of imported leather, these gloves wear remarkably well and wash beautifully. At various prices.

Handkerchiefs . . . always the necessary small touches . . . Of hand-drawn pure linen in pastel shades with modernistic trim, a special value for only 29 cents . . . Venetian lace kerchiefs, adorably feminine . . . 75 cents and up. Then sport hankies, fashioned of hand-blocked crepe de chine, to tuck into your trim pocket, for only 49 cents.

University League to Begin Social Season with Luncheon Oct. 20

The first social event on the year's program for the University league will be a luncheon tomorrow at 1 o'clock at the Memorial Union.

Miss Katherine Allen, assistant professor in the Latin department, who is president of the league, will preside at the meeting. Mrs. Glenn Frank will extend the welcome of the League to the Junior Division and to the wives of new members of the faculty.

Mrs. A. V. Miller, vice chairman, will be in charge of decorations. The social chairman, Mrs. H. A. Schuette, and Mrs. Chauncey Juday have secured Prof. J. L. Gillin to talk about his trip around the world last year. His subject will be "The Sociologist Looks at His World."

Others on the program include Miss Ethel Murray, cellist, who has recently become a member of the faculty of the Wisconsin School of Music. Miss Murray has studied in the Royal Academy of Music in Paris and in Berlin. In 1912 she came to America and toured in both the United States and Canada. She will be accompanied by Miss Margaret Otterson.

The University league affords an opportunity for friendly social meetings among those women who are affiliated with the faculty and executive staff of the university, and also introduces new women. Altruistic effort is directed toward assisting young women in the university and contributing toward the co-operative houses.

Any eligible to the League who has not received an invitation is asked to communicate with the treasurer, Mrs. W. A. Rowlands, B. 3729.

The league has announced an interesting program for the coming season. The annual tea given by the league for the members of the junior division is to be on the afternoon of Saturday, Nov. 17, in Lathrop parlors. An evening dancing party will be held Jan. 11 in the Union.

The women of the Experimental college will be hostesses at the tea on the afternoon of Feb. 16 in Lathrop parlors. Another tea is planned for Mar. 16. The date of the dramatic program is set for Apr. 19, and that of the annual Garden party for June 1.

Journalism Enrollment

Increases 10 Per Cent

Ten percent increase this fall in total enrollment for journalism classes and 12 percent increase in School of Journalism registration is announced by W. G. Bleyer, director, following the opening of the 24th year of instruction in journalism at the University of Wisconsin.

Enrollment in journalism classes is 612, a record at the university. The figure is 59 more than the total a year ago.

Juniors in the School of Journalism number 66 and seniors 58. Twenty-two graduate students are enrolled in two seminaries. There are 130 freshmen and 85 sophomores in the pre-journalism course. Other students have chosen journalism courses as electives.

Enrollment in five basic courses includes: reporting 131, elementary journalism 131, copy reading 89, special feature articles 103, editorial writing 61.

How Gold Prospector "Went Scotch"

Minneapolis, Minn.
April 30, 1928

Larus & Bro. Co.
Richmond, Va.
Dear Sirs:

Two years ago last winter I went into the Red Lake gold fields in Canada. It was a tough trail from Hudson, over 140 miles of snow and ice. There were fourteen of us on the trail going in, and frequently at night when seated around a big camp fire, some one would ask me for a pipeful of Edgeworth. These Canadian boys sure like our Edgeworth.

In four weeks' time I ran out of Edgeworth. I was glad to get 'most any old tobacco.

One day, however, I dropped in to Dad Brown's tent, a 72-year-old prospector, and seeing a can of Edgeworth on an improvised table, back there 150 miles from the "steel," I perked up at once, saying, "Dad, I'm plum out of tobacco—how's chances for a pipeful?" "Help yourself," he said. So pulling my heavy duty pipe from my pocket, I loaded it with Edgeworth, packing it in so tightly that I couldn't get the least bit of a draw.

I excused myself for a moment, and stepped outside to remove about three pipefuls to put in my pouch. Dad stepped out, saying, "You're worse than any Scotchman I ever saw." Then I confessed. I told him what happened to my Edgeworth—that I was just dying for a smoke, and he understood right away. He said, "Boy, Edgeworth is mighty scarce in these parts, but I reckon I can spare what's left of that can. Help yourself."

You can just bet your last nickel that I guarded this Edgeworth with extreme care until I got back to the "steel."

Yours very truly,

An empire hung on that strap

THE hitch must be right, the pack must be tight. On details such as that hung the attainment of the day's goal and the final success of the expedition.

Lewis and Clark, first Americans to cross the continent, knew the importance of "trifles" in the concerted plan. They saw to it their equipment was right, they supervised every step from man-power to pack-horsepower, they applied sure knowledge and constant vigilance to their task.

Today's leaders in business have the same point of view.

Men in the Bell System, exploring new country, take infinite pains in preparation. They work toward the smooth coordination of engineering, manufacturing, warehousing, accounting, finance, public service.

"OUR PIONEERING WORK HAS JUST BEGUN"

Center of German Culture Revived in New York City

Following a meeting of the university trustees, President Nicholas Murray Butler announced the re-establishment at Columbia, New York City, of the Deutsches Haus, center of German culture, the work of which was discontinued during the World war. The building at 423 West 117th street has been assigned by the trustees for the use of the Haus, and Dr. Frederick W. J. Heuser, associate professor of Germanic languages and literature, has been appointed director.

The building is being altered and equipped for its new work. Prominent citizens of New York and other cities have contributed to the maintenance of the Haus, and from the Deutsche Akademie of Munich has come the offer to collect and present modern library on the art, philosophy and education of Germany, Austria and Switzerland. A like offer of another library on other phases of the culture of these countries has been made by the Carl Schurz Vereinigung of Berlin.

"A Deutsches Haus, to be the headquarters of the advanced study of the German language and literature, German history and German institutions, was established at Columbia university in 1910 by the gift of Edward Dean Adams," President Butler's announcement explained. About the Haus, a vigorous and scholarly activity was built up under the direction of the late Prof. Rudolf Tombo, Jr.

"Important German scholars were brought to Columbia as exchange professors, and close academic relations were established between Columbia and the universities in German speaking lands," he further stated. The work of the house was brought to a close by the entrance of the United States into the war in April, 1917.

During the past few years interest in the study of German, among graduate and undergraduate students, has greatly increased at Columbia. Many gifts have been tendered the university for purposes connected with the study of subjects pertaining to Germany, and support was offered should the Deutsches Haus be re-instituted. It is expected that the work of the new Haus will begin actively by Dec. 1.

Women Hear Grant in Political Speech Today

"The Political Platforms of the Presidential Candidates" will be presented by Prof. J. A. Grant of the political science department of the university at a meeting of the Woman's club today at 2:30 p. m. George Miller '29 will sing a group of songs at the meeting, which is in charge of the Literature department. Mrs. Thomas Lloyd Jones, chairman.

Timberland Control Subject of Course

In response to appeals from wood-using companies, a short course in timberland management will be given by the university from Nov. 12 to 21.

Special emphasis will be placed on problems connected with reforestation, such as nursery culture, forestry plantings and management. F. G. Wilson, extension forester, will have charge of the course which will be given in Madison and at nursery and forestry tracts in different sections of the state. Experts from the Lake States Forest Experiment station, Forest Products laboratory, and the conservation commission will assist in giving the course. Raphael Zon, director of the Lake States Forest Experiment station, will again take a prominent part in the program and practical men from the industry will assist.

After a week in Madison, the group will go north to spend a day in the nursery and forest plantations of a prominent paper company which has developed its planting program to 500 acres annually. The last two days will be spent on an area which was logged about 20 years ago.

Gillin to Talk to Humanity Club

Luncheon Meeting Will Be Held in Union Saturday Noon

Prof. C. F. Gillen, president of the Madison Art association, contributes a valuable article to the September Wisconsin Magazine emphasizing the market benefits derived by artists from the formation of Art Guilds. Neither town nor assembly of artists is thought too small for an association. Milwaukee and Oshkosh among Wisconsin's largest cities are commended for the maintenance of galleries and the promotion of interest in artistic culture.

Professor Gillen's article is illustrated by a number of pictures of painters. Among others is Jessie K. Chase's colorful study of Oaks, on a Hill in Edgewood; and Katherine Ely Ingram's fine winter scene entitled Camp 5 is also reproduced.

In referring to our state artists who have already achieved distinction, Professor Gillen adds to the two names above given, those of Arthur N. Colt, Emily Winslow, and Mrs. Herbert Rind.

Approximately a century since, A Bronson Alcott, father of Louise Alcott of Little Women fame, founded a school-library still living in an almost bookless New England village. The struggling school-master first loaned, then gave, a half dozen of his own beloved books—and the good work went on.

Madison and the surrounding country has thousands of beautiful etchings, prints and paintings. Doubtless many of them would be given, or loaned for exhibition if suitable permanent galleries could be established.

Fraternities Vote to Change Rough Week

Eight fraternities at Indiana voted in favor of confining Rough week to a single week-end and abolishing long road trips, and one opposed the new plan, in an action taken in the chapter meetings. The resolution was previously adopted by the Interfraternity council. This action has been brought on account of the disagreeable and sometimes harmful features of rough initiation as conducted by some fraternities in the past. Incidents have shown where rough initiation was injurious to the scholastic standing of the fraternities, as well as sometimes causing harm to the initiates.

Hickman Goes to Gallows at Noon for Girl's Death

William Edward Hickman, all lines of appeal having failed him, prepared to march to the scaffold of San Quentin penitentiary at 10 a. m. today to pay the extreme penalty for the murder of little Marian Parker in Los Angeles 10 months ago. The time set for the execution is noon, Madison time.

"The Fox," as Hickman was wont to style himself, has given up all hope of evading the hangman's noose and says that he is ready to die. When he was led away Wednesday evening to the bare cell next the execution chamber he was apparently resigned to his fate.

Jerome Walsh and Richard Cantillon, attorneys for the youthful slayer, were working frantically as time ebbed to obtain a sufficient number of affidavits as a possible method of having a sanity hearing opened within the prison walls. Warden James B. Holohan, who has the power to call such hearings, indicated he would not take any step in that direction.

Medical Students to See Biological Products Picture

Students in the School of Pharmacy and the School of Medicine are to see the moving picture "How Biological Products Are Made" today at 3:30 p. m. in the auditorium of the chemistry building. It is a picture that shows how anti-toxins and vaccines are made.

Last Monday night, through the co-operation of the state board of pharmacy examiners, the picture was presented to the class taking the state pharmacy examinations. It will be shown in the Madison hospitals before the nurse's training classes sometime this week.

The public is invited to attend the showing of the picture this afternoon.

Starters Unknown

In accordance with the style he has set this season, Coach Thistlethwaite has not, as yet, released a starting lineup. It seems quite certain that a good majority of the men taken upon the trip will see action.

In their reserves lies the strength of Wisconsin, with Coach Thistlethwaite having at his disposal at least two players for each position who are capable of being substituted at any time with no harm done to the power of the active team.

John Barrymore, elegant, handsome, histrionic master of drama, silent and spoken, comes to the Strand in his latest picture "The Tempest".

We saw the picture in New York and enjoyed it. Barrymore is always good, Louis Wolheim is funny, Camilla Horn is nice to look at and can act.

The story is of the Red Revolution of 1918. Barrymore does more acting and less prancing than usual. The greatest of actors has rarely shown his ability on the screen. In this picture he shows a variety of sides that has not been seen in his former works.

Sees Extension, Club Work Unity

Prof. Kolb Tells Blue Shield Club Members of Opportunities

"I see a real chance for the country life club to hitch up with extension work in Dane county," was the statement made by Prof. J. H. Kolb, of the department of rural sociology, as he addressed the Blue Shield County Life club last night, at the Wesley foundation, following one of the regular supper meetings of the club.

Professor Kolb's talk, on the "Trend of Rural Life Work in Dane County," developed several ideas as to the club's future plans. It is intended to co-operate with the county organization, and new features, such as play-days, evening programs, plays, co-operative activities with local dramatic productions, are being outlined.

The club met informally to discuss committees for the coming year, and to set up its program of work.

Professor Kolb, who lunched with Wilbur Witte, president of the Dane County federation, was enthusiastic over the great opportunity afforded for county-wide organization, now that the federation has been inaugurated.

22 Initiated in Dolphin Club at Cottage Thursday

Initiation of 22 women into Dolphin club, women's swimming organization, was held at 5:30 p. m. Thursday at the W. A. A. cottage on Lake Mendota.

Jessie Peek '29, Lois Stocking '30, and Florence Kinsella '30 formed the initiation committee, Miss Peek being chairman. After having supper at the cottage, the group returned to Lathrop pool, where they began work on their public exhibition to be held as a part of Fathers' week-end.

The girls initiated were as follows: Marion Antisdell, Dorothy Burkett, Madine Buck, Janet Cohn, Susanna Deal, Nancy Duncan, Estelle Ford, Judie Grovenor, Rae Mayer, Marjorie Healy, Helen Meisels, Betsy Owen, Merle Owen, Anne Powers, Helen Mae Quinn, Ruth Read, Mary Virginia Sloan, Margaret Swenson, Barbara Weinburgh, all of the class of '32, and Dorothy Davis '31, Rachel Phenisie '31; and Sylvia Meyer '29.

Survey Indicates Abolishment of 'Hell-Week' Here

(Continued from Page 1) period of three days. Here, too, the dramatic and musical entertainment furnished by the pledges is the biggest part of the week. Minor duties include bellhop duty, call-boy duty, and the work of a bootblack. The quest and formal initiation complete initiation.

No "Kid Stuff"

Hell-week at the Acacia fraternity was characterized as a period of time in which the pledges are given to understand that they are only pledges. "We don't go in for kid stuff," said one member, "and all our work is done inside the house."

"The outside world would never know that we were having initiation," was the way hell-week at the Sigma Chi house was described. Energetic paddling and torture are not used at all.

Plans Incomplete

Delta Theta Sigma has, as yet, made no plans for this year. Last year hell-week was in force, consisting of three days' work, closing with the quest. Formal initiation follows immediately after the quest.

Alpha Tau Omega, Theta Xi, and Theta Chi are among the number who retain hell-week in all its force. Alpha Tau Omega commented that they saw no reason and had no desire to change. Theta Xi's representative said that no one there was dissatisfied with hell-week and that they had had no trouble.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity has not, as yet, made their plans for this year, but opinion seems to be that hell-week will be held again this year.

the same as last. Some dissenting opinion was noticed last year when the subject of modification was broached, but nothing resulted.

B. W. Allin, '21, who has been an instructor in agricultural economic here, has accepted a position with the Forest Taxation inquiry, maintained by the U. S. government at New Haven, Conn.
