SHAKESPEARE IS A HUGE INDUSTRY,
ELLSWORTH SAYSSlides Used Depict London as
It Was During Author's Life

"Shakespeare is not simply an author, he is a big industry," said William W. Ellsworth, in his lecture on "Shakespeare and Old London," delivered in the auditorium of Chemistry building last night. "Hundreds of professors are teaching thousands of pupils the life and works of this man," continued Mr. Ellsworth, in reviewing the modern proofs of Shakespeare's popularity.

Slides showing the different parts of London through which Shakespeare might have entered on his arrival in the city were presented.

"We are able to recognize the London of Shakespeare's time and to link it up with the London of today because of the fact that most of the old names of streets, parks and other localities of the city are the same today as they were then," explained Mr. Ellsworth in describing some of the favorite haunts of Shakespeare.

In recounting the life of Shakespeare, Mr. Ellsworth said that many modern scholars of literature are giving credence to the theory that Shakespeare may have spent several years teaching school after he left Stratford-on-Avon.

"As yet we have no basis for this belief, but the fact that he might have taught school is easily understood. This experience would have given him the more complete knowledge of Latin and Greek which he later showed, and which scholars could not connect up with his early education," explained Mr. Ellsworth in commenting on this theory.

Clark Richardson '27 takes the part of the henpecked husband, Don Rufino, who resorts to strategy in order that his family plans may be realized. Alanson Remley '28, as the young Argentinian Louis, is the hero of the play, and a convincing lover. Lewis Mrkvicka '25, has the part of an American salesman.

The part of Felipe, a young Spaniard in love with an American girl, who is intent upon marrying a Valentino with sparkling eyes, is portrayed by Richard Church '28.

James Cuneo, grad, takes the role of Pepe, a servant. Miss Jean Alexander '25 has copied remarkably well the character of the English instructor, Belle Smith. In praising the work of the others in the play Mr. Wofsy said, "All the other characters are excellently done, and in fact the cast that is presenting the play displays an array of talent which is most creditable."

COUNCIL CONSIDERS
NEW RUSHING RULEFraternity Scholarship Elevation Sought By Good-night's Proposal

A scholarship requirement for fraternities as a whole and the penalizing of chapters who do not attain the required standard will perhaps take the place of the present rule which prohibits fraternities rushing freshmen before they are enrolled, according to plans now under consideration by the Interfraternity council and Dean Scott H. Goodnight, the latter announced yesterday.

This announcement comes coincident with the letter in the Daily Maroon by Ernest H. Wilkens, dean of colleges at Chicago university, who disapproves of the three-week rushing plan adopted by the Interfraternity council there, since it detracts the freshman from his school work at the beginning of the semester and develops the wrong attitude toward school work.

"I don't like and never did like the wild and frantic rushing the first few days of the semester," Dean Goodnight said. "The freshman gets the wrong impression of school life."

"There are disadvantages to a delayed rushing period, however, due to the unwillingness of the fraternities to play fairly and wait. We've tried it twice and it failed dismally. In one sense, less damage is done by having it over with early, than by having the semester broken up later on."

By the new plan it is hoped that fraternities will see that it is to their interest not to demoralize the freshmen and to keep them working.

LECTURE TO BE GIVEN BY KANSAS GEOLOGIST

"A Boat Trip Down the Colorado," illustrated with moving pictures, is the delightful subject which Raymond C. Moore, state geologist of Kansas and professor of geology in the University of Kansas, has chosen to speak on Wednesday, March 11, at 8 o'clock in the Engineering auditorium. The lecture is being given under the auspices of the department of geology.

Professor Moore spent the summer of 1923 in the Colorado valley with the United States geological survey expedition. The moving pictures were taken at this time.

FUND AN AID IN FORMING EUROPE'S
FUTURE LEADERSStudents Assisted in Struggle to Gain Knowledge at Foreign Universities

Whether Europe will have leaders tomorrow who have had the advantages of an education and international relationships is being determined in the main by the extent of the work of the Student Friendship fund and similar organizations, according to Prof. M. Rostovtzeff of the history department.

That the Student Friendship fund has two aspects is the opinion of Prof. Rostovtzeff, who has seen the conditions that exist in Europe today. First, he said, the organization helps the student physically by helping him to get for himself necessities to continue in school. Employment, text books, in some cases food and shelter, are given.

Fund a Great Aid
Hundreds of students would not be able to stay in school if it were not for this function of the fund. In the case of Russia, the fund not only helps the students in the country itself, but the refugees in other countries.

The second aspect of the fund, according to Prof. Rostovtzeff is the bringing together of the students in international conferences which causes them to realize each other's needs and teaches them to co-operate and in this way develops friendship.

"Europe without its lawyers, its doctors, and its men trained in political economy would be a catastrophe. The young people of Europe must be trained in the universities and colleges that already exist or in newly established ones if Europe is to be guaranteed the right kind of leaders," Prof. Rostovtzeff said.

Journalism Opens
Authorship Path,
Ellsworth Asserts

"Journalism leads most easily and naturally to authorship," declared W. W. Ellsworth, in a special lecture on "The Joy of Writing," which he delivered yesterday afternoon in 165 Bascom hall before journalism students.

"Most great writers were at one time or other journalists," he said. "Charles Dickens owed his success to the wholesome training of severe newspaper work. Stevenson, once a journalist, warned newspaper men who aimed to become authors, to write leisurely and carefully to counteract harmful effects of the hasty writing which their work calls for."

"The only way to learn to write is to write," he declared. "Creative ability comes from within. Many of our best writers never went to college."

"The man who has in his soul the love of good books and the love of writing can laugh in the face of poverty and misfortune," Mr. Ellsworth said in concluding his talk.

APPROACH QUOTA
FOR BADGER SALETwo-Day Campaign Nets 700
Subscriptions; Drive
Closes Today

More than 700 Badgers have been sold during the first two days of the Badger spring subscription campaign according to returns made to Ben Anderson '26, business manager, late yesterday afternoon. Just 300 copies remain to be sold to reach the quota set at 1,000 copies.

Heaviest sales are expected today when the campaign closes. Frances Cobabe '26 is in charge of sales today. The booths will be continued, but those unable to sign up for the yearbook at these places may sign up at the Badger office in the Union building.

"The important thing to remember," said Anderson, "is that if we make our quota of 1,000 subscriptions in this campaign, there will be no Badgers on sale in the spring because we ordered only 4,000 books but of this number 3,700 have been sold already."

Subscription books held by the fraternities and sororities competing for a loving cup to be awarded for the largest number of sales will be turned in by Monday morning. The Badger office will be open tomorrow morning to receive returns.

CAGERS SET FOR ILLINI TILT AFTER HAWKEYE VICTORY

Meanwell Works on Basket Shooting; To Use Brooks at Center

Short passing and shooting practice was the work that Coach Meanwell sent his cagers through in the workout of yesterday. All of the men are in the best of condition from their game with the Hawkeyes and eager for the coming fray with the Suckers.

Bain, Barnum, Merkel, Brooks and Miller were the men used at the center and forward positions. The starting lineup for the Illinois game appears to be the same as the one that started the contest against Iowa. Brooks has been showing real form in the last few games and will probably start the next game. Barnum has been shooting better and is rapidly developing into a good forward. Brooks at center with Merkel and Barnum at the two forward positions is the combination which is being used most effectively.

Barwig and Diebold are being used at the defense positions with regularity. They are playing a powerful defense game and are mostly responsible for the close score of the Iowa tilt.

BURKE'S TRACKSTERS TO MEET WOLVERINES

Intent upon balancing the Iowa defeat with a victory over Michigan, the Badger frosh tracksters will enter the annex track Saturday afternoon in a telegraph meet against the Wolverine yearlings. Results of the meet will appear in Tuesday's Daily Cardinal.

Capain Sopenfield, broadjumper, and Heckendor, highjumper, who were the only ones to score first against the Hawkeyes, are expected to cop again Saturday.

Reeves and McKee are also looked to for places in the half mile event. Prospects of initial places by Chapman in the mile and Ellison in the two mile are equally good.

ZON, FOREST SERVICE EXPERT, TO GIVE TALK

An illustrated lecture on "The Forest as a Plant Community," will be given at 4 o'clock Friday, March 6, in the auditorium of the Agricultural Chemistry building, by

MICHIGAN GRIDDERS "SMILIN' THREE" IN FAREWELL TO LITTLE

ANN ARBOR, March 4.—"We are smiling through our tears, George," said Captain-elect Bob Brown, in speaking at a farewell banquet in honor of Coach Little, tonight. "The tears are caused by the deep regret we feel in having you leave us. The smile comes from knowing that you are going out to bigger responsibilities and to show we are happy for you."

Tonight's banquet was small in numbers. It was limited to members of the football squad and Coach Little's closest personal friends. It was planned as a final tribute from those closest to the coach. Less than 100 were present.

"In bidding Michigan 'goodbye,'" said Coach Little, "I also find tears in my eyes. My hope is that my going to Wisconsin will bind the two schools together in the closest possible bond of athletic brotherhood and sportsmanship. My hope is that Wisconsin may become Michigan's greatest rival and her closest friend. After all, winning games is nothing more than the climax. It is the preliminary work that counts—and the behavior under fire that counts even more. I want my teams at Wisconsin to win. But I'd rather see every team lose every game than win by taking an unfair advantage or by forgetting the elements of sportsmanship and gentleness of character and courtesy and consideration that make college athletics such an inspiring thing and such a beneficial thing."

"I hope that many of you may make the trip to Madison next fall and see the game with Wisconsin. I cannot promise you that Wisconsin will win, but I can promise you three very definite things; first, a hard, clean-cut gentleman's game; second, a real brand of football; and third, a welcome so genuine and warm that you will leave loving Wisconsin, next to Michigan, next to Michigan, best of all."

Raphael Zon, director of the Lake Forest experiment station.

Mr. Zon is a world authority on forestry matters and is a member of the United States forest service. As the director of the Lake Forest station, Mr. Zon is well informed on the state of forestry in Wisconsin, and during the course of the lecture he will speak briefly on Wisconsin forestry.

Cage Jottings

Who holds third place in the conference basketball race at the present time? This will be decided for a time at least after tonight's game between Purdue and Illinois. The Suckers are third at present, but Purdue has been climbing steadily, winning four straight games, and bent on making the Illinois game, the fifth.

It looks like a Purdue victory. Since Spradling has returned to the Indiana institution, the team has been going like a house on fire. The way things have been going, Purdue should rank high when the final reckoning of the year is given out.

At the movies in Madison, "Isn't Life Wonderful!" featuring Wisconsin after defeating the Iowa basketball team last Monday night.

Reports drifting over from the gymnasium bring the news that Doc Meanwell has been driving the team hard in preparation for the game with Illinois Monday night. Brooks has his place at center cinched, the reports say.

Don't forget "SINK THE SUCKERS."

Today's Intramural News

Kappa Sigma and Theta Xi are sure to get one of the four interfraternity basket ball cups as a result of their victories in the semifinals last night.

Kappa Sig beat Theta Chi 14 to 11 in a game featured by the accurate basket shooting of Stehr and Steve Polaski who garnered five points each for the winners. Beck was high point man for Theta Chi with five points.

Theta Xi beat Sigma Phi Sigma in a less thrilling game 23 to 7. Sigma Phi Sigma was unable to stop Theta Xi's scoring aces, Larson and Ellerman. Both players managed to get away for seven points in a frenzy of basket shooting. Rick lead the scoring for Sigma Phi Sigma getting six of a total of seven.

Players on the winning teams are: Kappa Sigma; Morrison, Stehr, Solbraa, Nelson, Polaski, Meyers and Crowfoot. Theta Xi; Tyle, Larson, Ellerman, Schwarze, Wisnole, Opitz, Mead and Juneau.

Removal of the clock tower on the city hall was started Wednesday morning by C. B. Fritz Co. Razing of this cupolo will remove one of the greatest targets for local humorists. The tower was removed when the council gave up all attempts to keep the large clock in repair.

BADGER, IRISH CLASH TONIGHT, ONLY HOME INDOO RMEET OF YEAR

Stars Versus Well Balanced Team; Wisconsin Has
50-50 Chance

Tonight at 7:30 o'clock Wisconsin and Notre Dame will face each other on more even terms than they did a few months ago on the gridiron. The track meet will be close, exceedingly close, but followers of the Badger cinderpath team have it doped out that the Cardinal team will be able to eke out a scant victory.

So far this season the Badgers have been performing in high class style but this is the first opportunity they have had to run before a crowd that was full of Wisconsin spirit and they are more anxious than ever to turn in a victory over the doughty Irish trackers.

Championship Hopes

This will be the only chance that local fans will have to see the crack Wisconsin team in action indoors as next week they leave for the indoor conference meet and then settle down to hard work for the long hop out to California. A large crowd is expected to attend the meet to take advantage of this opportunity to see what looks like the nearest approach to a conference championship track team that Wisconsin has had for a number of years.

The dashes will find McAndrews, McGiveran and Francis or Smith lining up against Layden, Casey and Barr; in the hurdles, McGinnis, Tuhtar, McGiveran and Roberts will compete with Walsh, Barron and Casey. In the 440, Flueck, Hilberts, Kennedy or Hill will match strides with Stack and Cox while in the half Captain Vallely, Bergstresser and Carter will take on Cox and Mastersen.

Captain Vallely, Cassidy and Petaja, or Bergstresser will run against Judge, Wentland and Cox in the mile, while Kubly, Piper and Petaja will give Wentland and Judge plenty of competition in the two mile.

Tuhtar, McGinnis and either Roberts or O'Neill will jump against Carey, and Schwarze and Limberg will toss the shot with Boland and Milbauer. Krieger, Schmidt and Fox will probably do the pole vaulting for Wisconsin against Harrington and Carey of the Notre Dame camp.

Officials Picked

Coach Jones has announced the following officials for the meet. Referee and starter, James D. Lightbody; judges of the finish, Prof. Sid Miller, Maj. L. L. Lampert, Capt. W. R. McGuire, Prof. G. L. Larson, Dr. R. W. Barstow and R. B. Duncan. The following will serve as timers, Prof. Warren Taylor, Prof. J. F. A. Pyre, Dr. J. C. Elsom, E. C. Gerber, H. E. Vail; judges of weights, Prof. J. H. Walton, Prof. W. H. Wright, Dr. A. S. Crawford, James Brader, Prof. O. L. Kowalke. Judges of the jumps are Dean Scott H. Goodnight, Prof. Fred Schlatter, Frank Leitz, A. L. Basely. Inspectors are G. T. Nightingale, Lt. H. L. Rogers, Val. Rideout, Prof. J. G. Moore, Irvin Uteritz. Announcers are "Shorty" Walsted, cheerleader, and Bill Sarles, assistant. Clerks of the

AMBITIOUS PUP TRIES OUT FOR SWIM TEAM

The dog paddle—that is Coach Steinauer's newest event for the Indiana swimming meet tomorrow night. Making his debut with a graceful splash the new contestant made his appearance at 3:30 o'clock yesterday. After swimming half the length of the tank in record time, the star performance was cut short by Coach Steinauer, who yelled, "Pull him out," and thus the worthy ambition of a black air-dale pup was thwarted.

BALL SQUAD HIT BY FIRST INJURY

Lowman Plans to Develop Team of Sluggers; Also Good Bunters

Baseball is starting to take its toll of injuries, the season's first being a split finger received in yesterday's practice by Lloyd Larson, Larson, who is being trained for the catching position by Coach Lowman, got the injury when a fast pitched ball got him on the finger when he was receiving behind the plate.

Coach Lowman spent a long time yesterday drilling the men in batting. A hitting team is what Wisconsin needs, and if Lowman can do it he will. Form and the development of a good eye are what he has been stressing, while an ability to bunt the ball also has occupied part of the time.

Varney, who has been playing on the basketball team, has reported for active work on the diamond and will probably have a place in the outfield when the season starts. Tangen also has reported. He played last year at the third sack, and was considered one of the best in the conference at that position.

Following batting practice, Coach Lowman held fielding and baserunning practice. Feuchtwager, first; Donegan, second; Wieland, short; Tangen, third; and Lamboley at catch played in the field, while the rest of the team ran the bases.

course are David Taub and Carl Klath.

The meet starts promptly at 7:30 o'clock in the gymnasium annex.

Badger Co-eds Win Three Cornered Shooting Match

Victory for the varsity Women's Rifle team resulted from the triangular shooting meet held between Wisconsin, the University of Kansas, and the University of Montana. Our total score was 490 as compared with 477 for Kansas, and 446 for Montana.

The whole team of 10 members shot in the meet, but only the five highest scores were counted. Those who fired in this meet for score are Barbara Bacon '27, Florence Allen '27, Helen Nisbett '27, Grace Sherman '26, and Marie Wells '27.

The average individual score for Wisconsin was 98. That of the University of Kansas was 95.4, and for the University of Montana it was 89.2. This meet is the first one to be held this year but Wisconsin will participate in seven other contests. Challenges have been sent here by the Universities of Nebraska and Michigan, while Wisconsin has challenged the Universities of Illinois, Washington, Minnesota, Northwestern and the Iowa Agricultural College Women's team.

Plans are also in preparation to have a contest between the men's and women's varsity rifle teams.

PUGILISTS END INTERCLASS BOUTS; WORK FOR ALL-U CHAMPIONSHIP

The elimination bouts of the all-university boxing tournament came to a brilliant finish in the boxing tower of the gym last night after four pairs of fighters had performed in a quadruple of interesting fights.

As a result of the matches this week these men have tendered the following interclass championships: H. Vogel, featherweight; Blanchard, junior lightweight; Larson, junior welterweight; Shields, welterweight; Campbell, middleweight; Cole, heavyweight; and Ziegweid will meet Ihland, Monday night, to see who gets the lightweight title.

The preliminary matches are now to give way to three weeks of strenuous training by those who have earned the right to appear in the final wind-up of the tournament on the afternoon of March 28 in the varsity basketball arena. Coach Ray Moore wants all boxers who want to try out for the tournament to report in the boxing tower of the gym at 4:30 o'clock Monday.

Women will be invited to witness the contests—contests which, from all indications, will be chock full of thrills, entertainment, and excitement from gong to gong. Polished pugilists will combat for all-university ring championships.

The climax of last night was the gruelling battle between Blanchard and De Pue, contenders for junior lightweight honors. Blanchard was expected to furnish strong opposition for De Pue, but the way he manager to carry the bout was not so easy. The men lost no time in getting started, and they fought incessantly. Blanchard manned himself better than De Pue in practically all departments of the contest. The fight ended in a storm of applause.

The crowd appreciated the somewhat humorous exhibition staged by Henry Vogel and Abrahams. Vogel won. Abrahams was floored in round two.

Ziegweid found little difficulty in dancing clear of Johns' swings and managed to land some good blows. Ziegweid meets Ihland Monday to decide the lightweight title.

A multiplicity of slugging, plenty of clinching, and no style at all was the kind of bout in which Larson beat Sherbert. Sherbert balanced his lack of defense with some strong hay-makers, but Larson evidently deserved the junior welterweight crown.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE ON FRIENDSHIP

March 4 came and went without making much more or less of an impression on the campus than any other ordinary March day might be expected to make. On the whole, the university was not thinking of affairs of government, or of the relations of this nation with its sister countries throughout the world.

While the university went on revolving about its own axis, more or less indifferent to the outside world, Calvin Coolidge for the second time took the oath of office as President of the United States, and standing on the historic east steps of the national capitol he delivered an inaugural address that is of greatest importance to every man and woman in the world, and most of all to the American youth. It is important to the world because it reveals the attitude of this nation toward a program looking toward general permanent peace. It is of greatest significance for the youth of this country because it is an official public expression of the new idealism of young America, and completely abandons the policies of our forefathers. It marks the triumph of the new over the old, and definitely sets the policies for which the young people in this country, as they gradually come into places of responsibility, will have the chief burden of execution.

This message from the nation's chief executive is especially timely for the university now, when this campus is making its contribution to the welfare and rehabilitation of the students of Europe through the Student Friendship fund. The real essence of this fund is neither relief work nor charity, but it is the establishment of friendly relations and mutual regard between those here and abroad who two decades from now will hold the reigns of government in their hands. The Student Friendship fund stands out today as one of the most concrete means in existence of effecting a real world peace, and is right in line with the program President Coolidge expounded. To quote from his address, we have the following description of the policy of our country:

"In common with other nations, it is now more determined than ever to promote peace through friendliness and good will, through mutual understanding and mutual forbearance." And again,

"Our program is never to oppress, but always to assist."

Such sentiments have not always been spoken by the heads of governments. In fact, only recently has this element of unselfish, unequivocal good will taken a major place in the sphere of international relations. The era of peace is perhaps just on the threshold of realization.

It should not be amiss at this point to remark that Wisconsin's response to the appeal of the Student Friendship fund will give an appreciable impetus to the entire movement of friendship and good will here and abroad.

$8 SHIRTS

When one sees that in an advertisement of a small town store shirts were quoted at $8, one realizes that the after-effects of the war have been unduly prolonged. There seem to be enough people who submit to this refined and respectable branch of highway robbery to enable the perpetrators of this crime to keep on with their nefarious practices.

These artificially inflated prices are merely a hangover from the war, sponsored and kept alive by the shopkeepers, who, in some instances, have paid their head salesmen salaries greater than those received by either cabinet officials or supreme court justices.

Naturally the consumer pays for this extravagance when he pays the excessive prices asked for commodities—and it seems that there are always some fools who like to be fleeced. The whole system is wrong; it sets an example of extravagance to others.

Common-sense students, even if they can well afford to meet these exorbitant demands, should refuse to patronize dealers who charge prices beyond all reason. Thus they will help to stabilize conditions and maintain healthy prosperity.

Wisconsin lacks funds. Write home about it.

Dean Goodnight is quoted as saying that too much money prevents study. Yes, and that's not the only thing that does.

Are you reading the Wisconsin Should Know articles in the editorial page of this paper? Are you reading Mr. Kronshage's articles also published in this paper? You should be reading both.

The successor of Professor Rostovtzeff was named recently. Bitter irony, for there need not have been a successor to him; he might well have been his own successor, according to reports. That's another item for Wisconsin Should Know. But perhaps Professor Vasilief will turn out to be a splendid teacher too.

Wisconsin Should Know

Helping the Physician Fight Contagion

On the top floor of South hall, little noticed by the throngs that pass below hourly, the State Laboratory of Hygiene is busily working for the physicians, public health nurses, health officers, and school and town board officials in the state to aid them in protecting their communities from the spread of communicable diseases. Its principal service is assisting doctors in the diagnosis of diseases in which the diagnosis is aided by laboratory examinations: tuberculosis, typhoid fever, diphtheria, septic sore throat, cerebro spinal meningitis, and so on through the list of bacterial diseases.

The laboratory is an university laboratory and by law is also the laboratory of the State Board of Health. It was authorized by the legislature of 1902 with Dean H. L. Russell as the first director. W. D. Stovall, M. D., the present director, has been in charge since 1914.

In 1923-24 this laboratory received from 2,000 doctors, representing every county in the state, 51,168 specimens for examination: 35,430 for diphtheria, 5,307 for tubercle bacilli, 1,774 for typhoid and paratyphoid, 35 for rabies, 2,586 for gonorrhea, 4,248 samples of water, and 1,518 miscellaneous specimens. The results of the examinations were reported to the doctors and were used in pointing out the treatment and care of the patient and for the protection of the rest of the community from the disease from which the patient was suffering.

Recently a doctor in Neenah reported to the laboratory that he believed one of his patients, who had cut his face while shaving and was suffering from anthrax, had contracted the disease from a new shaving brush. The brush was sent to the laboratory and in a few days the laboratory was able to report that anthrax bacilli had been isolated from the brush. The type of brush, the lot number, and the manufacturer's name were immediately reported by the laboratory to the federal government, with the result that the federal authorities asked the manufacturer to remove all brushes of that lot number from the market.

Water! Water! Everywhere, and not a drop to drink. Ay, truly, methinks that the Ancient Mariner would again say these words should he chance to gaze upon the lower campus rink. And now the Honorable Joseph tells us that mayhap he will have his mermen workout in said rink. Rather a shallow joke, we think, Joe.

The Phi Psis beat the Sigma Nus
And as they came away
'Twas the first time it was ever heard,

And of all the people who are popular, on the campus we vote first place to this person called "THERE," for everywhere we go, we hear someone say, "Hi There," or "Howdy There," and as yet we have never met him. Ah, would that we were popular.

And once more speaking of the hockey team, would one say, we ask, that the reason that they are still working hard after several lost games is because they are a bunch of STICKERS.

And now, the Clinic is beginning to wage war on fraternities because of the brothers giving each other the grip, and they maintain that this will soon develop into a traveling case.

And now Warnie Kohler tells us that he sure has ancestors, and that they run way back, but that he has been afraid to look too far into the dim past for fear that he will find some ropes hanging from the family tree. Call in the detective, James.

Reader's Say So

THAT PUBLICATIONS BOARD Editor, the Daily Cardinal:

Just to attempt to start some discussion relative to the proposal of the Student senate to establish a Publications board, it might be well to present the ideas of the committee responsible for this legislation.

The proposed board is in a measure patterned after organizations at other large universities, as the Illini Publishing company at Illinois, which practically control all student publications, and through the pooling of cash and resources, adequately provide for continued publication of weaker magazines, establish a more or less settled policy of editing, and maintain a coordinated, workable student control of publications. It is our belief that such a board at Wisconsin would go a long way to prevent the condition in which the Literary magazine found itself last year, and would undoubtedly serve to boost or at least maintain such publications in weak moments. Undoubtedly a prosperous periodical such as the Octopus, the profits of which go mostly to private gain, could support with ease less fortunate issues, and perhaps contribute something to a fund to establish a student printing establishment, as does the Daily Cardinal now.

It was thought best, due to the size and present method of control, to leave the Daily Cardinal and Badger to their own boards, dis-into the Candy Shop this noon, and heard that red-hot Haresfoot band play a few numbers, and all that we can say is that they are RED-HOT. We would never say anything against any of those old and staid Eastern schools, but if the Princeton band or the Harvard Bugle Corps can blast any more hot notes to the measure, we want to hear them.

COULD A FIRST RATE CRAP SHOOTER BE CALLED AN OSTEOPATH BECAUSE HE MAKES A LIVING ROLLING THE BONES?

Ken Gardner told us in strict confidence that he has absolute proof that he knows as much as any prof on the hill, and he bases his statement on the fact that all of said profs agree that they can't teach him anything.

"I'm going to Latherup," said the boy as he took his shaving soap and brush in hand.

Father: "My son, where did you get that picture?"
My son: "At McKillop's, father."
Father: "Well, well, I didn't know you were artistic."
My son: "I wasn't pa, I was drunk!"

A little boy went out one night,
And drank, and drank, and drank,
His father finding him like this
Did spank, and spank, and spank.
And thus we gain the moral clear
It doesn't pay to blotch
Our reputations when we're young
By stealing father's Scotch.

Ay, Ay, Rodolph, we saw your little Belinda strolling down Langdon this very noon, and not alone, oh, no, for with her was the varsity football guard, and we warn you, Rodolph, he is a hard one to TACKLE, for he may throw you BACK, and as he has a powerful LINE, and has CENTER many gifts, so your interrupting might be the END of you.

Man (on train) "When we pass through the tunnel, I'm going to kiss you."

Young Thing: "Sir, how dare you? I'm a lady."

Man: "That's all right, if I preferred a man I'd call the conductor."

And now Auf Wiedertsain and Adois, and may you all rest in peace.

turbing present conditions as little as possible. Further, instead of making the proposed Publications board elective, as are present boards, the committee considered it best to take it out of politics as much as possible, forming the organization from a special Senate committee of three or more, and of one representative from each publication affected.

At present there exists in the senate's constitution, a provision for the appointment by the senate, of a Publications' Advisory board of three members, empowered to demand financial statements, vouchers of expenses, account books, and receipts from the various student publications, and in case of poor financial condition or irregularities, require a complete accounting and placing of responsibility for such conditions. As far as can be determined, this body has functioned either feebly or not at all, and at present no measure of student control over minor publications exists, other than regular staff positions.

The senate committee would very much appreciate any communications, advice, and comments from the faculty or student body before the next meeting to be held Wednesday, March 11.

AT THE THEATERS

Foreign and Local NewsVariety of Theme Is Keynote of Week's Theatrical Program

By H. E. R.

Only a fair group of productions will be shown at the Madison picture theaters next week, but the legitimate stage will soon emerge in glory. The greatest attraction along these lines will probably be at the Parkway on Saturday, March 13, when "Blossom Time" will be shown.

The Strand is going to open the week with "Janice Meredith," a highly touted screen feature, starring Marion Davies. This production centers its action around the time of the Revolutionary war, and ye hero is none other than Harrison Ford. Holbrook Blum plays another of the important characters. The last half of the week this theater will show a western play, "The Hurricane Kid," starring Hoot Gibson and Marian Nixon.

Mrs. Wallace Reid and Percy Marmont will make their appearance at the Madison the first part of the week in "Broken Laws," which entails much exposure of the wild life of wild youth, and the evils of the drug traffic.

Then "Contraband" will be shown, as taken from the highly interesting story by Clarence Budington Kelland. Lois Wilson, Raymond Hatton and Noah Beery are the principal characters in this melodrama, concerning the downfall of a small town's wicked solon, caused by a girl, a sissy, and a newspaper.

The opening show at the Parkway is "The Devil's Cargo," starring Pauline Starks and Wallace Beery. The plot is thickened when two young girls and one good man are cast adrift on the open sea with a cargo of the lowest sort of human beings, and are forced to cater to the slightest wishes of a mad man. Then Virginia Valli and Norman Kerry will enact "The Price of Pleasure," a melodrama concerning the marrying for love of a young, rich man to a beautiful, poor girl, and the dire consequences which result. Saturday will mark the return of "Blossom Time," an operetta, which has for its plot the one romance of Franz Schubert's life, and which has music adopted from the themes of his greatest compositions. There will be a matinee and evening performance Saturday.

The Orpheum will have "Alabama Land" as its big feature the first part of the week. The act is composed of nine singers and dancers of ability. Then for the last half "Let's Dance," an act of the McCushion Twins, dancers, will be featured. Eddie Franklyn and three others assist in putting it across.

Irene Homer will have a chance to show her ability as a comedienne at the Majestic, for the company is going to play "The Alarm Clock," comedy written by Avery Hopwood, writer of "Up in Mabel's Room" and "Getting Gertie's Garter." Two more new characters will be added to this stock company, and Mr. Daniel Delaney has been greatly excited over the success of the show in its early rehearsals.

"Her Night of Romance"
Featuring Constance Talmadge and Ronald Colman
Presented at the Strand
By G. S. B.

In "Her Night of Romance," Constance Talmadge furnishes her usual number of chuckles and quasisocking situations. As Dorothy Adams, beautiful American heiress, she arrives in England with her usual flourish and two determinations—first, to consult a famous specialist about her weak heart, and second, not to be married for her money.

Ronald Colman as Lord Paul Menford, pretends to be the specialist and gets himself into several ticklish situations. Robert Gran, Dorothy's doting father, helps complicate the affair and affords a number of laughs.

The plot is good although not very different from most of Miss Talmadge's productions, but there are enough clever touches to make it interesting. Anyway the manner in which the lovely Constance shrugs her way between gasps and grins is enough for most of us. The cast is small but well chosen, as each character makes a good foil for the others. The chief criticism is that English atmosphere is somewhat lacking.

Mask and Wig

By CHATTY

The feature of the day—indeed, the feature of the week—is the advent of Harry Snodgrass. In fact, such a great event is his coming to town today that the Orpheum has been very nearly completely sold out for a week.

The radio is a great advertiser. It made it possible for this "King of the Ivories" to step right out into the world and rule his chosen sphere from the word go.

Connie Talmadge—long a pet of screen fans—has one of her usual and usually entertaining pictures at the Strand. Connie is a leader in her particular school—if a method of acting in the movies can be called a school. Anyhow, she is the queen of the movie jazzers—they can hardly be called flappers.

It is hard to tell whether or not to be taken in by the advertisement in the Daily Cardinal yesterday for "The Temple of Venus." But it is mighty probable that the ad will draw quite a number of eds from this here institution to the Madison.

Irene Homer, the new leading lady at the Majestic, is all she is cracked up to be—charming and a good actress.

She will go a long way towards helping the Majestic Players give some real competition to the Dorothy La Vern company when that organization comes to the Orph in two weeks.

Movie Snapshots

"The Temple of Venus"
Starring Mary Philbin
Presented at the Madison

A modern idyllic love story provides a thinly veiled pretext in this picture for a background of beautiful scenery and one's mythological characters. The story is not very well worked out, but holds interest. The most vivid impressions one takes away from the picture are a raging sea and Cupid in an automobile.

"New Lives for Old"
Starring Betty Compson
At the Parkway

A fascinating picture crowded with surprises from the first curtain to the last. Betty Compson capitalizes on her beauty and her brains rather than on her femininity. The plot is a pleasant diversion in constructiveness, and unusually "meaty" in content.

The Weber bill for investigation by a legislative committee of the feasibility of establishing a state-owned cement plant to manufacture highway materials today was passed in the assembly, 71 to 16, and now goes to the senate.

The assembly reconsidered its passage of the Holly bill to permit county or municipal operation of elevators, warehouse and cold storage plants, but refused by a vote of 37 to 60 to kill the measure by indefinite postponement. The bill was placed on next Tuesday's calendar for further action.

PLAN BOOTH FOR EDUCATION EXHIBIT

Herlberg Supervises Work Which Will Show Arts and Social Developments

Under the supervision of Oscar Hertzberg, Letters and Science fellow who is connected with the bureau of educational research, the plan illustrated graphically above will be the basis for the department of education booth at the university exposition to be held in the gymnasium, April 16 to 18.

The exhibit will be divided into four general parts. The first will be that of industrial education and applied arts. Under the department of education division will be an exhibit of the study of mental and social development. It also includes an exhibit on elementary education, another on educational psychology, and one showing the development of secondary education in this country and foreign lands.

The third group will be of the work done in the Wisconsin high school by the university department. This will include an exhibit of the manual arts and allied teaching.

The physical education part of the exhibit will be taken care of by Miss H'Doubler. It will show the training of teachers for physical education work in high schools.

Mr. Hertzberg plans to consolidate all his plans for the next university exposition, four years hence.

What THE DANGER LINE means to you

If you will look in a mirror, you will see a tiny V-shaped crevice around each tooth where it joins the gums. This is The Danger Line. Food particles lodge there and ferment, forming acids which lead to Acid Decay. The gums also suffer from the effect of these acids, becoming irritated and sore—perhaps receding from the teeth. Then you have conditions favorable to Pyorrhea.

Serious diseases often result from infection due to Acid Decay at The Danger Line. Heart and kidney trouble and rheumatism are among them.

Make The Danger Line safe

Squibb's Dental Cream, because it is made with Squibb's Milk of Magnesia, protects against Acid Decay, relieves conditions favorable to Pyorrhea, cleans and polishes beautifully and protects for hours after use. For Milk of Magnesia has long been recognized throughout the dental profession as a safe, scientific means of counteracting acids dangerous to the teeth and gums.

Buy Squibb's Dental Cream, made with Squibb's Milk of Magnesia—today. It is delightful to use. It is free from abrasives and injurious astringents. It makes The Danger Line safe.
