Legislation on Fire Prevention Needed, Claim

Carelessness Cause of Many Disasters; Safe Roofs
Suggested

EDITOR'S NOTE

This is the third of a series of articles which are being run from time to time giving the results of a survey of fire hazards in the university residential section.

Probably the greatest flaw in the present structural code is not prohibiting roofs of combustible material. This feature, augmented by the danger of high winds greatly enhances the possibility of a wide spread conflagration.

While in the high value district there is a rule to this effect, the residential district, in which the buildings are of admittedly inferior construction, has no protection. Severe group to block fires are possible in many portions of this section.

Legislation Opposed

Harold U. Brown, Madison branch manager of the Wisconsin Inspection Bureau, in a recent interview stated that, "legislation to prohibit further building of roofs, using non-combustible shingles has been vigorously opposed in the past by the lumber industry."

It is obvious that such a law would seriously affect the lumber industry in Wisconsin, as slate, asbestos composition, and other patented shingles would be necessary. As it is now, citizens of Madison prefer to roof their homes with the cheaper, but infinitely more hazardous wood shingles.

Public Indifferent

It is difficult to conceive how a citizen can be so apparently indifferent to his own fate as to invite disaster by a means which may easily be prevented.

Waste through the destruction of property by fire makes no more impression upon the American mind than does any other sort of waste. The impressive figures of destruction by fire, as published every year, seem to leave no more imprint upon the public mind than do the annual statements.

Expert Speaks on Occupations

"Adjustment" Is Subject of
Talk by Mrs. Florence S.
Robnett

After college—what? University women who are asking themselves this question will have the opportunity of hearing it answered by Mrs. Florence S. Robnett who is to speak on the subject "Adjustment" at 4:30 today, in Lathrop parlors.

In addition to this, all those who wish to talk with Mrs. Robnett about vocations will have the opportunity of meeting her in Mrs. Flett's office in Lathrop hall from 9 to 12 and 2 to 4 today and from 9 to 12 and 1:30 to 3:30 tomorrow. Placards have been posted on the Vocations committee bulletin board in Lathrop hall, and students are asked to sign there for fifteen minute conferences.

Mrs. Robnett comes to the university under the auspices of the Vocations committee of W. S. G. A., and as managing director of the Chicago Collegiate Bureau of Occupations has had a great deal of experience in advising college women about vocations. For fifteen years Mrs. Robnett has been active in various phases of vocational work, and has been connected with the Chicago Collegiate Bureau of Occupations for the past several years. Her work has taken her as lecturer and advisor to most of the colleges and universities throughout the middle west.

Test College Unready for Co-education

That a women's education experiment is to be started at the University of Wisconsin was denied Thursday by Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn, chairman of the experimental college. Dr. Meiklejohn stated that the rumors concerning a girl's experimental college were without grounds, and until the men's experiment was better established, he was "not even thinking about it."

The women's experimental college is a possibility for the distant and indeterminate future, Professor Meiklejohn allows, but until the officials are satisfied that the present venture is strongly established, no plans will be laid for another.

Admitting, when asked, that the girl's college is a possible extension in the field of education, Mr. Meiklejohn denied that it was any nearer organization now than it ever has been, even before the men's college was established last fall.

"When we first started working on the idea of an experimental college there were three possibilities open to us," he said. "It could be for men, for women exclusively, or it could be co-ed since Wisconsin is a co-educational institution."

"The men's dormitories were available to us as a site so we started with men students."

The idea may be broadened to include a separate women's group or it may be extended to include the college of letters and science since the purpose of the present experiment was to work out an educational system that might be used for the entire college.

Until the system has been worked out more fully with the present men's groups and the university officials have approved of it as satisfactory, no further plans will be laid or thought of, according to Mr. Meiklejohn.

Ballard Refuses Capitol to Lecturer; Address May be Postponed

Mrs. Bertrand Russell will arrive in town today, but whether or not the Public Study group will finally be able to provide a hall where she may speak could not be determined at a late hour last night.

Clinton B. Ballard, superintendent of public property, succumbed yesterday to what he called a "storm of objection" and revoked the permit for the use of the assembly chamber of the capitol.

Halls Closed

Turner hall, Woodman hall and almost every other meeting place in Madison declined to allow the lecture. Most managers turned down the request simply because everyone else was doing it.

"Such a storm of objection has been aroused by the permit for Mrs. Russell to speak in the capitol that I have virtually been forced to call the permit off," declared Mr. Ballard.

Citizens Protest

"Men and women have been bombarding my office all day with telephone calls, letters, and personal visits, protesting against the use of the state house for the lecture.

"I was even threatened with injunction proceedings to prevent the staging of the lecture, but I don't know now who made the threat. So many howls have been made, that I have lost track of names."

May Postpone Lecture

Ernest L. Meyer, head of the committee attempting to secure a platform for Mrs. Russell, announced that the lecture may be postponed until Saturday if no hall were obtained and if Mrs. Russell could stay in Madison.

Five hundred posters triumphantly announced that Mrs. Russell will speak anyway after having been barred by the Wisconsin Student Forum, the Women's club, and the Labor Temple were found tacked up on

SPERLING '30 HEADS UNION COMMITTEE

The sophomore Memorial Union committee yesterday elected Jerome Sperling as its chairman and Jessie Price secretary. The nine members of the committee lunched with Porter Butts, secretary of the union, at the University club.

Various projects in connection with the actual running of the building were discussed. Special attention was given to the question of student supervision. After the luncheon Mr. Butts showed the members of the committee through the Memorial Union building.

The other members of the committee are: John Catlin, John Dixon, Waldo Hawkins, Edgar Peske, Katherine Bury, Janet McDonald Smith, and Catherine Posthuma.

Deadline on Phone Calls May be 11 P. M.

The old university ban on telephone calls to women's rooming houses after 11 o'clock may be reinstated. When the house mothers held their meeting in Lathrop hall Wednesday evening they decided that late phone calls are not one of the things which make a house mother's life a bed of roses.

The house mothers also requested that an inspection of the local fraternities and sororities be made to ascertain if the fire conditions are as bad as recent articles in the Daily Cardinal have alleged.

Miss Fist Hollers "Heads!" And Becomes Editor of Lit

Two-Bit Piece Solves Way Out of a Very Awkward Situation

It was an awkward situation. The genial reporter had been awakened at 4:45 in the afternoon to make a quorum so the Lit staff could play meeting, and when he arrived, Mr. Jim Chichester, who poetically has registered from the staff, leaving it again exactly one (1) person shy.

It was an awkward situation, and was saved only by the efforts of a son of Erin, Mr. Carl Nelson by name, who persuaded Mr. Chichester to be resigned not to be resigned until after the meeting was over.

The meeting had been called to elect a successor to Mr. William Paff, erstwhile editor of the Literary Magazine. It was to this business that the gathering now addressed itself. Two names were suggested, that of Mr. Nelson, whom we have mentioned before, and Miss Gladys Fist, whom we have not. A vote on them was

200 Gaily Costumed Couples Will Dance at Arts Ball Tonight

Two hundred gaily costumed couples will dance tonight at the Beaux Arts ball in the Crystal room of Hotel Loraine. Joe Shoer's Parkway orchestra will furnish the music.

The party is a new feature of Wisconsin's second semester social season. It is being given by the newly organized Beaux Arts club, an association of art students. Modeled on the famous art balls of Paris and New York, it will bring an entirely new spirit into the realm of Wisconsin life.

Several surprise features are promised before the party breaks up at one o'clock Saturday morning. The features are being kept a deep, dark secret by Don Easton '30, chairman of the ball, but it is rumored that the Haresfoot laddies (or is it lassies) have something more than a highwater mark up the sleeves of their ball costumes.

Mrs. Bertrand Russell will arrive in town today, but whether or not the Public Study group will finally be able to provide a hall where she may speak could not be determined at a late hour last night.

Poets Must Seek Truth, Tietjens Says

Reading from her own poetry, Eunice Tietjens pleased a critical audience of 200 persons last night in Bascom theater where she appeared under the auspices of the Arden club.

Assuming a friendly and informal attitude, Mrs. Tietjens opened her presentation with "Bacchante of My Child," the poem written about her daughter, Janet, who is a sophomore in the university.

The poetess read several of her poems among which were "The Hand," "City Walls," "The Great Man," "Alligator Joe," "My Mother's House," "Song of a Wanderer," "Lecturer," "The Man Who Loved Mary," and "Lament of a Poetry Editor."

"Poets say things that everybody would like to say and somehow don't get around to say," Mrs. Tietjens explained. "The function of a poet is to search out among his own reactions those which seem to him to be universal so that the readers will feel him point out truths that they themselves are thinking of."

"Poetry is something that you feel a little, but not too much," continued the poetess. "If you feel it too much it blares like a phonograph record. But if you are not touched, you can't write anything at all."

The poetess met the members of Arden club and friends at Arden house following her readings.

None Hurt as Badger Special Is Derailed

NEW ORLEANS, La.—Haresfoot bandmen and several university alumni, travellers on the Wisconsin good-will special now touring the South, were shaken into wakefulness in the misty hours of the morning yesterday when their sleepers left the track, jolted over ties, and headed into the muddy bank of the Mississippi.

A twisted rail, it is believed, was responsible for the mishap. A score of trainmen, planking, jacks, two switch engines and several hours of time were necessary to set the Badgers on the trail once more, uninjured except for a thorough shaking up.

The good-will delegates were guests of the international trade exhibit at New Orleans yesterday, and left for Mobile and surrounding cities at 5 a. m. this morning.

CHOOSE PRODUCTION STAFF AIDS TODAY

Applications for work on the production staff of the Wisconsin University Players, whose next presentation will be "The Swan," can be made this morning between 11 and 12 o'clock, and this afternoon between 1:30 and 3:30 o'clock, according to an announcement made by Charles Crownheart '29, in charge of this department.

The cast for "The Swan," which was chosen last Saturday by Prof. W. C. Troutman, will be announced Sunday, when the footlight list will be checked over for eligibility. The stage personnel has been chosen from the most experienced members of both the Haresfoot club and the presenting organization.

"The Swan" is a subtle satire on European royalty, and brims with action, laughter, and pathos. Prof. Troutman considers it the hardest play ever attempted by his protégés.

Wisconsin Men Out-Scrap Foe in Rough Game

Wolves Resort to Professional
Tactics, but Badgers
Soon Learn Tricks

BY HAROLD DUBINSKY

It took the Wisconsin hockey sextet just half the game to learn the Michigan style of professional play, and from then on it was knock for knock, with the Badgers slipping in skillful shots between the knocks to win the first of the two game series from Michigan 3-1, last night on the lower campus rink. The second game will be played tonight at 8 o'clock.

By checking the Michigan efforts with play as equally brutal as that attempted by the Wolverines, Wisconsin was able to score in each of the three periods to retain the lead in conference hockey. There was little doubt in the minds of the spectators as they left the game last night that it was the roughest and toughest fight ever seen on the lower campus.

Badgers Score Early

Michigan bewildered the Wisconsin sextet with its furious body checking and shady play, and despite the fact that Wisconsin scored in the first four minutes of the game, held the Badgers down with their type of play. But the Badgers, with heavier and taller men, soon picked up the professional tactics and outplayed their opponents, proving themselves the class of the conference with their brilliant sophomore offense and veteran defense.

Fisher Makes Goal

Swiderski, a substitute Wisconsin wing, socked in the puck for the first Wisconsin score after four minutes of play in the first period. The Badgers had been crowding the puck in Michigan territory and Swiderski merely pushed the puck across to score. During the remainder of the period the play got rougher by minutes, and neither side scored, although spills and penalties were frequent.

Tickets for the Sophomore Shuffle which is to be held Tuesday evening, Feb. 21, in the Crystal Ballroom of the Hotel Lorraine, are now on sale for $2.00 each, it was announced last night by Jack Husting '30, chairman of the committee on tickets.

Students may obtain the tickets from Gelvin's, Pete Burns', the Co-Op, or the University pharmacy. Many of the members of the Sophomore class also have them for sale.

"Although it will be possible to obtain tickets at the door on the night of the dance," Husting stated, "we urge as many as possible to buy them ahead of time. By doing this, they will simplify matters at the door, both for themselves and for those running the dance."

This year's Sophomore Shuffle is the fourth in the history of the university, the tradition having been started in 1925. The dance committees, under the leadership of William Ramsey '30, have arranged to have the Shuffle be the first all-University one o'clock party of the second semester.

Joe Shoer's Parkway band will furnish the music for the dancers. Though the dance is called the Sophomore Shuffle," Ramsey said, "it is a Sophomore dance only in that it is being sponsored by the second year class."

The dance will be informal.

Judge Marcus Kavanagh, chief justice of Chicago's criminal courts, who is to speak in Madison at Music hall, Tuesday night, Feb. 28, under the auspices of the Forensic board, has behind him one of the most interesting legal careers in the judicial history of the United States.

At the age of 24 he was elected city attorney of Des Moines, Iowa, and two years later became judge of the Ninth judicial district of Iowa. After the Spanish-American war, in which he served as commander of the Seventh Illinois infantry, he was appointed judge of the Superior court of Chicago, which office he has held continuously for the past 26 years.

During that time he has presided over the trial of thousands of cases, civil and criminal, and has handed down many decisions which, because of their significance, have found their way into the legal history of the country. He is especially noted for his efforts to reform the methods of the very awkward. The gathering could not have been more embarrassed somebody had address it in French. But Mr. Nelson was present with a solution.

There is circulating about this nation, believe it or not, an article of commerce known as a two-bit piece, a silver disc of the value of twenty-five pennies, one quarter of a dollar. The two-bit piece has inscribed on it an eagle which the vulgar call "tails," and the head of a lady, who is named Liberty, to distinguish her from a theater curtain, which is named Asbestos. This lady is commonly known as "heads."

Mr. Nelson's idea was that the coin be flipped.

Mr. Jim Chichester, who poets in his spare time, held the quarter. On the first flip Miss Fist backed the eagle, and "tails" appeared. On the second flip Mr. Nelson backed Miss Libby T., and she arrived. This, as can be seen, made the honors even, and made the next flip the deciding one. Miss Fist put her trust upon the lady, while Mr. Nelson backed the bird. The coin was thrown, and Mr.

Chichester, who poets in his spare time, Mr. Nelson, and Miss Fist, watched it twirl through the air. Heads appeared upward and Miss Fist won the editorship of the Lit by a nose.

Things being as they were, Miss Fist proceeded to appoint a staff. Mr. Nelson and Miss Viola Wendt were appointed associate editors, and Miss Beth Evans was made literary editor. The new staff will put out the next Lit.

The meeting being over, Mr. Chichester resigned.

rush, and the Badgers, having had no practice for more than a week, were noticeably weakening under the Michigan style of play. During this period the visitors made their best bid for the game, and outplayed Wisconsin, especially in the early minutes.

The Wolverines crowded the Wisconsin goal and succeeding in scoring when two Badger players were off the ice on penalty. Fisher, fast moving wing on the visiting team was the scorer this time.

Not to be outdone, the Wisconsin sextet, reinforced with frequent changes in lineup, fought the Michigan outfit on even terms for several minutes, and then Murphy, Wisconsin's fighting wing, pulled a fast one over Michigan by scoring on an easy rebound shot. The Michigan goalie had stopped it with ease, and was in the act of giving it to his defense man to carry out of danger. But this defense man was just a bit too hasty for he missed the puck, and Murphy, with an alert movement shot the puck into the cage to give Wisconsin a 2-1 lead. From then on it was all Wisconsin, with occasional offensive attempts by the visitors.

Final Period Not So Rough

During the final period the play was not quite so rough as it had been during the opening sessions of the game. By this time the Badgers were functioning equally well at body checking and rough tactics, and the Wolverines were careful how they played.

Don Meiklejohn, Badger star center, succeeded in scoring Wisconsin's third tally by merely drawing the Wolverine goalie out from his goal and shooting from the side. The remainder of the period was almost as rough as any other. Michigan made vain efforts to score, but they failed to bewilder Capt. John Mitchell, whose spectacular play at goal was quite up to his past performances and in some instances superior to them.

Great Victory

And so as the shot ending the game echoed about the rink, it was a great moment for Wisconsin. A hockey victory at Wisconsin is something to brag about, but especially one over Michigan—Wisconsin's time honored rivals.

For the visitors, Fisher and Capt. Maney starred with brilliant skating and shooting. Wisconsin's entire sextet played first class hockey, but it was little Don Meiklejohn and pugnacious Max Murphy who starred, with Capt. Don Mitchell performing his duties in a calm, efficient manner, as is usually the case. Capt. Mitchell is completing his second year on the Badger varsity and by his play last night, as well of that in other games of the past, has qualified himself for the honor of being Wisconsin's "all-time" star goalie.

A newcomer to the ranks of the Badger squad was Jimmy Drummond, a reserve center, who for the past two years has been ineligible. He will come in handy as a substitute for Meiklejohn. Last night he played a smart game, and covered his territory well. Carrier, offense man, got a rather nasty stick blow in the face and was taken from the game with a bloody nose.

May Start Construction of Badger Field House

One unit of Wisconsin's athletic field house will be built immediately if the Board of Regents approve the financial plan offered by Director Geo. E. Little at a meeting of the Athletic council Wednesday night.

Mr. Little's plan, which will be brought before the regents at the March meeting, was not made public. It will provide for the basketball and track unit and a seating capacity of from 12,000 to 14,000.

CARDINAL SPORTS Athletics in the Collegiate World

'Snother big outing for the athletes tomorrow. Everybody plays and the sports writers pay.

Four teams from different schools, swimmers from Illinois, fencers from Michigan, gymnasts from Iowa, and basketball players from Ohio State, will visit the city. Then in addition, the Wisconsin track team will be at Northwestern for the annual quadrangular indoor meet, and the wrestlers will choo-choo down to Uubana for a mix-up with the champion Illinois mat-team. Anything else you'd like, sir?

What has been known in quiet circles for some time became public knowledge yesterday when the athletic council's approval of a new field-house project was announced. George Little and other university officials have been looking at plans for a field-house until they're near-sighted, but not too near-sighted to keep them seeing a way through. This here college may yet have a place to play basketball. Who can tell?

Carroll college won its sixth straight basketball game Wednesday night, defeating Lake Forest, 31-24. Lake Forest had previously won almost all its games and this triumph stamps Carroll as one of the strongest college teams in the middle west this season.

Gymnastics and fencing, two interesting sports, seldom attract large crowds here. The reason, perhaps, is the same as that which prevents people from flocking madly to track meets, cross country meets, etc. in which the element of team conflict is relatively small. But anyone who has seen a gymnast go through tricks on the flying rings, or the horizontal bar, or the parallel bars, will scarcely deny that these boys earn all the praise they get. The meets tomorrow will be held on the fourth floor of the gymnasium in the regular gymnastics and wrestling room.

Four of the strongest basketball teams in the country are making plans to upset each other in games tomorrow night. Indiana entertains Purdue at Bloomington, and Pittsburgh's 40-points-or-we-won't-play team meets Notre Dame at Pitt. Notre Dame provides the middle west's last chance for beating Pitt, since the Panthers have knocked off five western conference teams—Michigan, Chicago, Northwestern, Iowa, and Ohio State—and seem very coy about finishing any game in second place.

Gymnasts Face Iowa Tomorrow

Hawks Have Good Squad; Fencing Team to Meet Michigan

Encouraged by a conference victory over Purdue last week, the Badger gymnastic team is busily practising for their next Big Ten meet, which is with Iowa Saturday afternoon at two o'clock in the gym.

The Wisconsin men won by a 45 point margin at Purdue, and in doing so displayed fine form. Little is known of the Iowa squad this year, except that in a recent triangular meet against Illinois and Minnesota, the Hawkeyes took second, losing out to Illinois.

Last year the Iowa team defeated the Cardinal team. This year, with most of their veterans back, Wisconsin rules somewhat as a favorite to win from the Hawks.

The fencing team will also swing into action when they meet representatives from Michigan Saturday directly after the gymnastic meet. Thus far the fencers have been unable to break into the win column often.

In an effort to bolster his freshman gymnastic squad, Coach "Art" Massey has issued a call for all men, who are interested in gymnastic and tumbling work to report to him at once any afternoon on the third floor of the gymnasium.

Work for the newcomers will consist of tryouts and lessons on the horizontal bar, the parallel bars, and side horse, and tumbling work on the mat. The present frosh squad has been considerably cut by ineligibility, and new material is being sought.

The Badgers experienced a touch of bad luck at Purdue, when Springer, a last year's veteran who had just become eligible, sprained his thumb while doing an exercise in his first meet of the year at Purdue, and is now lost to the team.

The remainder of the squad is in good shape, and most of the men are showing mid-season form. Marked improvement is noticeable in the tumblers, and Capt. Hinderliter, Neller and Brill doing their usual steady work, the Badgers look for a good meet with Iowa.

Candidates for Track Team Wanted; Frosh in Telegraphic Meet

WANTED—More candidates for the track team. If you think you can shatter the walls of the gym annex with the shot; if you believe you can scrape the rafters in the pole vault; in short, if you can run, jump, or throw, your appearance at the gymnasium will be appreciated, in fact, it is desired.

Need Freshmen

The call for track men extends particularly to freshmen, who will be given an opportunity to present their talents in a telegraphic meet on Saturday afternoon in the annex of the gymnasium. The meet begins at 2 o'clock, and the events to be run off are:

Pole vault, shot put, 40 yard dash, 40 yard high hurdles, one mile run, high jump, one-half mile and two mile runs, broad jump and a relay race.

Charles Junkermann '29, junior manager of the track team, will be in charge of the meet.

Some of the freshmen track men who have exhibited signs of superiority in their events are, Smith and Behr in the shot put; Davidson, a quarter miler; Wixon, who runs the mile; Lunde, a pole vault; and Bell, Gress, Kemp, and Fitchett.

ENGINEERING CLUB OPENS CONVENTION

The Engineering society of Wisconsin will open its twentieth annual convention in the auditorium of the Engineering building this afternoon when Mr. G. E. Heebink, city engineer of Beloit and president of the society, calls the meeting to order at 2 P. M.

Sessions will be held today, tomorrow, and Saturday. As a feature of the smoker to be held in the hydraulics laboratory this evening, Dean Turneaure of the College of Engineering will describe his South American trip, visiting his son Stewart who is a geologist with a mining company in Bolivia.

Mr. H. S. Bostock, Madison, will present the latest magical tricks in his repertoire. Local engineers and architects are invited to be present to meet the out of town guests.

Varsity Tank Squad Avengers Earlier Defeat by Frosh Team

National Sport Slants

See where A. N. (Bo) McMillan, former Centre College all-American quarter-back, has practically cinched the job as football coach of Kansas Aggies? Bo, however, must first secure his release from Geneva college, Beaver Falls, Penn., and that will probably be as tough as getting a Scotchman to agree to donate a nickel to the Irish Free State fund. The former nemesis of Old Johnny Harvard is one all-American who made good at the coaching game, having won 48 games, lost 8, and tied one in his five years at Geneva.

The pro basketeers are having a merry race in their circuits. In the eastern division the New York Celts are running away with the marathon, but in the western half the title scramble is as hot as a blast furnace. Fort Wayne is leading with 18 games won and 17 lost, closely pressed by the Cleveland Rosenbloms with a record of 18 games won and 23 lost. What a farce this sort of standings would be in the conference!

The career of Wayland Dean, former Louisville pitcher, leads him on a dizzy merry-go-round. After performing brilliantly and helping to win an A. A. championship for the Kaintuck Colonels, he was traded to the lowly Phillies. He refused to report and was suspended. The Chicago Cubs then bought him and now Papa Wrigley has traded him back to the Bourbons. Big Ed Holley goes to the Cubs in exchange. The Boston Beantpot Braves have picked up another recruit, a pitcher from the Texas league by the name of Rasty Wright. Maybe they plan to trade him to the Giants some day for another Hornsby.

We Lose, Win, and Lose

After throwing out Irving Jaffe's victory in the 10,000 meter race at the Olympics in St. Moritz, the International committee reversed their decision because of American protest and allowed the victory thus crowning the first Red, White, and Blue champion and ending a dispute which threatened to reach large proportions. Now they again throw out the win. Why don't those foreigners make up their mind? This is no war payment game.

INDIANA PREPARES FOR PURDUE GAME

Preparing a defense to offset the dangerous offensive attack of three Purdue goal shooters is the task Everett Dean is facing in pointing his team for Purdue at Bloomington Saturday night. Murphy, Wheeler and Harmeson are a trio of basket getters who can be ranked with any set of Big Ten scorers. They are as dangerous away from home as at Lafayette. Hitting the basket consistently appears to be their natural hobby.

sharpshooters. McCracken did a wonderful feat in keeping Murphy from the baskets in the contest at Lafayette. He has the same job awarded to him on this occasion. The bulk of Indiana's scoring will be up to Dale Wells, LaPorte, forward and James Strickland, Owensville forward. Wells is consistent in connecting with the basket from a distance while Strickland usually is able to dribble in closer for his points. McCracken when not watching Murphy may be depended upon for a few shots.

Fast Times Feature Meet; Forty Points Piled Up on Yearlings

A vengeful varsity swimming team matched strokes against the frosh yesterday at the armory and defeated them 40-20 in the second Varsity-Frosh meet held this week.

The frosh, who won the first contest last Monday 34-30, found themselves unable to cope with the increased vigor that sent the varsity swimmers through the water in time that was more than passable in a conference meet.

Perhaps the best alibi that might be given for the freshman is that in the absence of Kerby Raab, their star diver, they lost five sure points.

High Class Diver

Raab, who is one of the best yearling divers to ever enter the university, has gone to Minneapolis over the week-end to compete in the Central A. A. swimming meet. Last year the youngster placed high in competition at the national meet and hopes to repeat this year.

Both teams were so evenly matched that each won three first places, but the majority of seconds and thirds fell to the varsity swimmers and gave them a margin of victory.

Two of the events held ended in ties between the two teams. In the 160 yard relay, Pederson and Thompson, the last swimmers for the varsity and the frosh both finished in a dead heat, to make the event a tie. So fast was the event, that both teams swam the distance in 1:18.3, less than a second behind the record for the distance established by the Minnesota team last week.

The 40 yard crawl ended with Wade of the frosh and Davis of the varsity finishing at the same time. Both men kept abreast of each other throughout the two laps, and were followed closely by Pederson, the other varsity man in the event.

Carlin, sensational freshman breast stroke swimmer, repeated his earlier victory over McGovern, varsity man in this event. The 220 yard dash gave the varsity first and second places when Weickers and Lindsey finished in this order.

Thompson, star yearling back stroker had little difficulty in winning his event over the opposing varsity men, while the 100 yard dash fell before the fast strokes of Crowley, husky varsity dash man.

Fresh Win Relay

The freshmen won the medley relay when a fine bit of breast stroke swimming by A. Meyer of their team, gained a large enough lead for them to win the race. Cuisinier won the diving for the varsity.

Summary:

Relay—Varsity (Crowley, Lange, Davis, Pederson), and Frosh (Wade, Shafter, Krueger, Thompson) tied for first. Time 1:18.3.

Breast stroke—Carlin (F), first; McGovern (V), second, Kinkead (V), third. Time 2:50:3.

40 yard crawl—Wade (F), and Davis (V), tied for first; Pederson (V), third. Time 20:2.

220 yard dash—Weickers (V), first; Lindsey (V), second; Krueger (F), third.

Back stroke—Thompson (F), first; Bailey (V), second; Von Maltitz (V), third. Time 1:52.

Basketball Tickets

THIS issue of the Octopus includes an editorial on the unavailability of basketball tickets. It is an editorial that we have always wanted to write, but which we shied for fear our conclusions might be based on false prejudices.

The Octopus, although a humor magazine, seems to have hit the nail on the head, and we shall feel that the athletic department is neglecting a fine opportunity to set itself right with the student body if it does not answer the Octy editorial, either through its columns or through the columns of The Daily Cardinal.

We, too, would like to know why so many townspeople are present at each and every basketball game. We, too, would like to know why there never was any open sale on Notre Dame tickets. Surely the students deserve a fair explanation of these phenomena.

Collecting Union Pledges

A STORY in The Daily Cardinal yesterday carried the news that a test suit brought by the Memorial Union Building association to collect an unpaid pledge had been successful. Judge Runge, in civil court, agreed that the pledge was an executory contract and was collectible, although signed when the defendant was a minor.

This case, should it be carried to a higher court and upheld, is of importance to everyone who has pledged a sum of money to the Memorial Union, for the consequences of this decision are obvious. Many students who have pledged themselves while minors, but now are of age, are liable for their pledges, according to this decision. We do not doubt that there are hundreds of such cases.

But we do doubt the wise policy or the sagacious judgment of the Memorial Union Building association in attempting to collect these overdue pledges by court suits.

When a student signs a pledge to pay $50 to the Union, he probably intends to pay, and a good share of such students do pay, but because Memorial Union drives are a thing of the past is no reason, we believe, to start court action to collect overdue pledges. Such pledges were given in good faith, with the full understanding that certainly no court proceedings would result if payment was delayed or not made at all.

The notes signed as pledges, we have always believed, were based more on faith than on binding legalities. Surely paid pledges were worthy donations for a worthy cause, but they were certainly not notes for value received.

Regardless of the court decision, which upholds the right of the Memorial Union Building association to collect on pledges signed by those now of age, we shall feel it a breach of confidence and faith on their part if they should resort to the courts for collection. The Union surely does not want money from those either not in spirit with the Union and not willing to pay, or from those unable to pay. The lure of the shekels, which are needed badly, we understand, should not force the Union to collect regardless of the spirit in which the money was given.

We have always figured that the spirit, as well as the money, was an essential part of a subscriber-to-Union transaction. Surely we have not reached the point where subscribers, talked into signing a pledge by an enthusiastic solicitor, must now, although entirely out of thought with the Union, pay their pledges. We sincerely hope that a clear explanation of the situation will be forthcoming shortly from the officials of the Union.

Student Automobiles

SOME time ago, Dean Goodnight explained that a non-auto rule could not exist at Wisconsin since it was practically unenforceable. The barring of automobiles at other colleges has led to a great deal of discussion, but we have been particularly interested in the convictions of Dean Max McConn, of Lehigh university, writing in the Marsh issue of Plain Talk.

Only if a college considers itself a "super prep school," thinks the dean, is it perfectly logical to ban the automobile. "It is then the duty of the college," he writes, "to accept all the children of the community, or at any rate all the children of the well-to-do, at the age of 16 or thereabouts, regardless of their mentality or their interest or lack of interest in the things of the mind, and to house them, feed them, guard them, guide them, and incidentally force upon them some attention to booklearning for four years, just as the lower 'prep' schools have done for the preceding four years.

The faculties and deans should not stop with barring cars. There are also the movies, the radio, the victrola, the local cabarets, cards, and an abundance of cheap fiction, both thrilling and salacious, on every newsstand. If the 'prep school' conception of the college is to prevail, further steps should be taken at once. Students should be strictly forbidden to visit either the movies or cabarets where dancing may be indulged in except at rare intervals and by special permission of the dean. All radio equipment and musical machines should be ordered out of dormitories and fraternity houses, and playing cards should be frowned upon as severely as it was by the early Puritans, though for a different reason. And an index expurgatorius of magazines should be published and enforced.

"Any college which is seriously seeking to maintain the status of an institution of higher learning," the Lehigh dean continues, "may properly welcome the automobile as a useful adjunct, an instrument for speeding up its processes of elimination. Motor cars will frequently bring to the attention of the faculty cases of 'students' who are not real students at all, and who, for their sake and that of the college, should cease as soon as possible to clutter up the campus. In such a case it is not the automobile alone which should be sent home, but the young men with it. If a young man has so little real interest in learning that, given a free choice between working at his books and driving around in an automobile, he chooses the latter with any dangerous frequency, then the young man has no business at college anyway."

Dean McConn has expressed a number of sentiments that we have always wanted to hear from a university authority. It is indeed childish, high-schoolish, to pass a non-auto rule, and we, personally, can not see how any school with such a rule can properly call itself a university of high ideals, modern tendencies, and judicious liberality.

Difficult entrance exams might result in the discharge of a great many faculty members; for there would be no one to take the "pipe" courses.

When You Were a Freshman

THREE YEARS AGO

FLOYD COLLINS, entombed in a Kentuck cave for days, was reached by rescue workers yesterday and found dead, according to official announcement from the scene of the tragedy at Cave City, Ky. The finding of the body yesterday ended a period of frantic digging and setbacks which began on Jan. 31.

The Wisconsin quintet showed a surprising reversal of form last night and easily defeated the strong Iowa team, 16-15. A brilliant comeback in the last few minutes of play was the most exciting event in a basketball game here in two years.

TWO YEARS AGO

Radical changes in the voting policy for the officers of the Y. M. C. A., requiring attendance of all prospective voters at the first membership banquet, arranged for this Thursday evening, was announced at the cabinet meeting of the association last night.

With the announcement of the first public rehearsal of the Men's Glee club tomorrow afternoon, came also the rumor that both the Glee club and the concert band may soon make records of "On Wisconsin" and "Varsity" for the Victor Talking Machine company.

ONE YEAR AGO

Prof. Leonard S. Smith opened the annual convention of the Wisconsin engineers today at the University club. The context of his speech declared that a war between the United States and Japan would be impossible in the future unless this country proved to be the aggressor.

President Glenn Frank has been appointed chairman of a committee on the Associations of Wisconsin Presidents and Deans to consider methods of co-operation between the university and the colleges in the state.

When a student signs a pledge to pay $50 to the Union, he probably intends to pay, and a good share of such students do pay, but because Memorial Union drives are a thing of the past is no reason, we believe, to start court action to collect overdue pledges. THE PATHETIC STORY OF GRANDPA

Once upon a time there was an old man who had very long whiskers (no relation to the Smith brothers). One fine morning the old man's granddaughter said to him, "Grandpa, do you sleep with your beard inside the sheets or outside the sheets?" Now all his life, Grandpa had never thought about that and so he really couldn't tell whether he slept with his beard inside or outside the sheets. It troubled him, so that night he was determined to find out. For a time he lay with his beard outside the sheets, but it didn't seem right to him so he put it inside the sheets and still wasn't sure. He couldn't sleep. He kept on alternating, first inside and then outside; he became very wretched. Finally he got up to get a drink of water. On the way back to his bed he slipped, fell down, broke his neck, and died, and so the little granddaughter never found out whether Grandpa slept with his beard inside or outside the sheets.

There now, I've written all that without saying a thing about filling up space.

vorace and domestic relations courts. If a plan proposed is rotten, then the quicker it may be condemned. Foul growths grow best in darkness and under suppression. The wisdom of teaching students to study facts on their merits has been shown again and again. Sexual relationships are a major study in our university, and when the students leave school to enter marriage it will not be with an arm thrown across their eyes so they may not see, as a little child does to avoid the terrors of the dark.

College Students Wanted by Police

Chicago, Ill.—University of Chicago students, if big and brawny, need not worry about jobs after leaving college. Michael Hughes, chief of police, has invited them to join the force? "Why shouldn't they?" asked Mr. Hughes. "The policeman works only eight hours a day and is paid during illness. A patrolman gets a minimum of $2,200, which is not to be sniffed at. Many college graduates start at much less than that." The Berkeley, Cal., police force makes a specialty of hiring college men, and stresses the social service phase of the work.

SCIENCE PREDICTS RADIO ADVERTISING

Transmission of billboard pictures and advertising window displays by radio from a central broadcasting station is foreseen as a result of a recent invention by C. Francis Jenkins, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. It is similar to the apparatus used for receiving weather maps sent by wireless, but instead of being registered on a disc, the pictures are recorded on a broad, flat surface by a carrying arm that sweeps over it like a fountain pen. This arm is actuated by impulses broadcast from the central radio station.

VALENTINE PARTIES GIVEN BY CHURCHES

Valentine parties will be the features at several of the student church headquarters tonight, including the Presbyterian, Episcopal, and Congregational houses. The parties are a part of the plan by which the various churches of the city provide social centers for university students.

The Episcopal student headquarters will entertain tonight at a Valentine party at the St. Francis house. Dancing will be from 9 to 12 o'clock.

The Presbyterian alliance is the group under which the Presbyterian student headquarters events are held. Any students are eligible for this group under whose supervision many successful parties have already been held this year. It has been customary to hold at least one party each month. The Christmas party and the Hard Time party have been some of those held so far.

The work of the Congregational students association is carried under the direction of Rev. Donald E. Webster. Some of the big events of the year are the two banquets held each year and the four larger parties which are held for 150 or more students. Other parties are held weekly.

The Bradford club of the Congregational students meets every Sunday night for a program including supper and a social hour. Other groups take up discussions of various subjects of applied Christianity. An active dramatic organization, the Pilgrim Players, has been very busy this year and has already presented Goodman's "Dust of the Road" in three of the Madison churches. Both secular and religious dramas are planned by this club.

6x14Gay MacLaren, Dramatist, Declares Younger Generation Is Best EverCigarettes Placed on Par with Candy, but Attacks
Excess

That modern youth are the best yet is the verdict of Miss Gay MacLaren, actress who presented her play, "Father and Dad" at the university of Michigan recently. On the surface the young people of today seem to be hard and reckless, but at heart they are all right. They are out for all they can get and will spend Dad's money with a free hand, but if trouble comes they are right there to help him.

"A generation ago," says Miss MacLaren, "the mothers scolded their daughters to pull their skirts down over their ankles. Now the struggle is to make the daughters keep their knees covered. There is always a lot of railing at the younger generation, the prediction is always that they are going to ruin. Personally, I think they are better than ever."

Referring to the endless discussion which has been caused by Miss Maude Royden's cigarettes, Miss MacLaren declared that she considered the whole matter too trivial for controversy. Without expressing any opinion on the right or wrong of smoking, she observed that she placed cigarettes on a par with candy and coffee. Drinking too much coffee is a harmful thing, and so are too many cigarettes, but Miss MacLaren sees nothing in it to get excited over.

"It reminds me of an experience I had when only sixteen or seventeen," Miss MacLaren said. "I was very anxious to appear before a women's club in Chicago, but before I could receive permission to do so, I had to be heard by a committee of the club women. I wore my hair in curls down my back, and had a blue ribbon around my head tied in a large bow. The committee admitted that they were perfectly satisfied with my reading, but positively refused to allow me to read before their club, on account of their dislike for that large bow. I consider Miss Royden's case parallel to this."

Why Ban Automobiles at College?

By DEAN MAX McCONN OF LEHIGH

More than forty colleges have banned student automobiles. Other college administrations are considering similar action. They advance seemingly adequate reasons but are these reasons really logical? If automobiles can be banned, why not other things? Are the professional supervisors of our morals and habits already at work in our Colleges?

— Here are the facts about
'Wisconsin's Own'

"Wisconsin's Own" is the spring suit designed by the Wisconsin Style Conference last October.

The Conference was made up of representatives from every fraternity and mens' group on the campus.

Society Brand designers followed the design agreed upon by that representative Wisconsin group.

The fabrics chosen for "Wisconsin's Own" were also passed upon and endorsed by the conference.

The tailors of Society Brand call it "the handsomest suit for spring and one of the finest examples of clothes design."

"Wisconsin's Own" is now being shown at The Hub. Many Wisconsin men who have seen it agree that the suit is truly "Wisconsin's Own"—designed exactly for well dressed Wisconsin.

Fire Prevention

statistics of rainfall or temperature. Before the embers of a fire are cold a new building is started and the old one is forgotten.

The average American is not averse to taking a chance. If it is a question between a heating or lighting appliance which is known to be a safe one and one which though not so safe is much less expensive, he will usually choose the latter and give a hostage to good fortune.

Carelessness Is Cause

There are lines of human endeavor in which this readiness to take a chance is deserving of admiration, but fire prevention is not one of them.

Records of the origin of fires show clearly that the great majority of them are caused by carelessness. Then too, as the records are incomplete, there are many reports of fires that are described as "unknown, not positively known, spontaneous combustion, defective wiring and other inaccurate causes." In many cases the fireman making the report merely puts down the reason that the tenant gives. All this adds greatly to the total of fires caused by carelessness. Individual carelessness is unquestionably the most prolific of all causes and is responsible for many more fires than official records disclose.

The conditions in most of our cities show that the influence of the Underwriters' association which fixes the insurance rates has not been all for the good. They have, in their inspections, rated the general fire hazards of the city on a basis of the fire fighting facilities and have laid inadequate stress upon the prevention aspects of the situation.

Loss In Fires Great

In deplored the futility of making the average citizen realize the benefits of fire prevention, W. B. Munro, in his admirable work on "Municipal Government and Administration" says, "More than a quarter of a billion dollars per annum in fire losses plus the present high cost of public and private fire protection is far too heavy a burden to be borne complacently."

"Is it not a fact worth thinking about that whereas we have cut down the death rate by a substantial margin during the last thirty years the ration of fire losses has not been diminished during this period? The public health authorities have been bending their main efforts to the prevention rather than the cure of the disease. Is it not high time that public sentiment should approach the fire loss problem from the same angle?"

Here in Madison, the deepest thorn in the side of fire prevention is in the severe hazard of inflammable roofs. To effectively combat this danger one cannot be content by relying on more effective water supply and a more completely equipped and reliable fire department. The question must be faced squarely and the only solution is by strict legislation to bar the use of non-fire resisting roofing material by strict legislation.

DUST STORMS CAUSE CURIOUS TROUBLES

Dust storms, which charge barbed-wire fences to a high voltage, stall automobiles by interfering with their ignition systems, and add new worries to radio listeners by causing even worse static than thunderstorms, are among the curious phenomena that visit sections of the great plains east

Lured by Aroma of Neighbor's Tobacco

Boston, Mass.

Larus & Bro. Co.,
Richmond, Va.
Gentlemen:

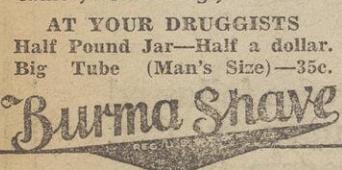

This morning I had a smoking adventure worth recording.

Next to me in the smoking car a gentleman was puffing his pipe contentedly. I was not smoking at the moment, and the aroma of his tobacco intrigued me exceedingly. For twelve years I had smoked Edgeworth without being tempted by any other brand, but the fragrance emanating from the pipe of the gentleman beside me was so agreeable that I could not resist the temptation to speak of it.

"That is wonderfully fragrant tobacco you have there," I remarked. "Would you mind telling me the name of it?"

"It is Edgeworth," he answered. "We then congratulated each other upon our mutual good taste, and I decided that I would continue to use his brand and mine.

—Sincerely yours, of the Rockies in dry seasons, says Popular Mechanics Magazines. In northwestern Kansas, during one of these disturbances, a man became curious about the amount of electricity his aerial was collecting and connected it with the ground wire through a 32-candlepower light. He obtained as brilliant light as when it was connected with his automobile battery. No thunder or lightning occurs during these electrified dust storms, nor is there any known relation between them and earth magnetism. Any metallic object insulated from the earth seems to become highly electrified.
