FOREWORD

This volume has not been constructed to serve merely as a record of the collegiate year at the University of Wisconsin.

Neither is it but a compendium of student life and activity to be used as a guide to all those who would know something of university life at Wisconsin.

While we hope that this book may always be the source of pleasant reminiscences for all who desire a memory-book of their college days, we have striven to arouse an appreciation for the great State of Wisconsin which has made possible our University.

And so it is our sincere wish that this volume may be truly representative of the University of Wisconsin—a Great University backed by a Greater State.

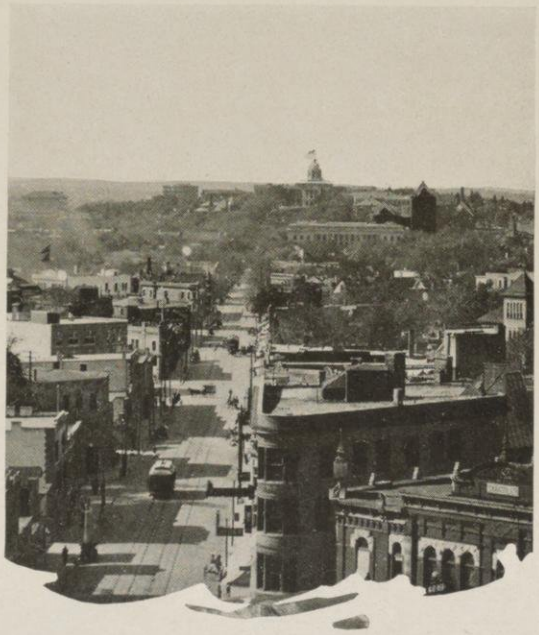
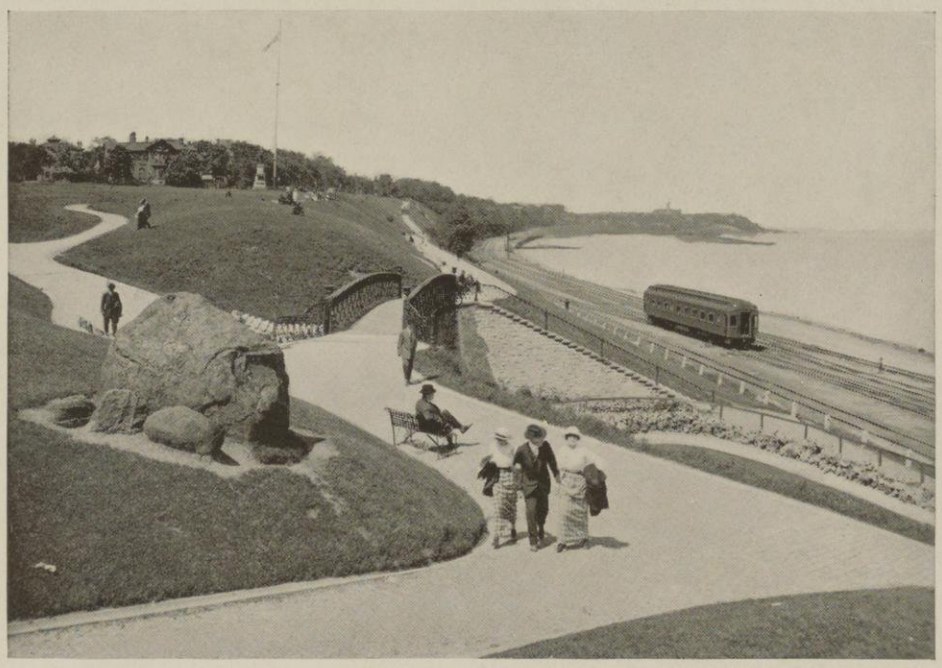
"Wisconsin"

A reproduction of Edwin H. Blashfield's masterful painting "Wisconsin" which adorns the Assembly Chamber of the State Capitol. ~ A female figure, symbolizing "Wisconsin," is seated upon a rock, surrounded by suggestions of her past. Before her, the form "Today" points through the woods toward the Capitol, dimly seen in the distance. Behind "Today," the figures of lumbermen, miners, and farmers, with their families, typify the "Present," and at the extreme left a symbolization of the "Future" shelters with her hand her little "Lamp of Progress," as she listens to the "Conservation of Force." ~ In the following pages we have portrayed a few of the representative cities of Wisconsin in the endeavor to express an appreciation of our State. These cities show the "Present" of Wisconsin—the University will do much in shaping her "Future."



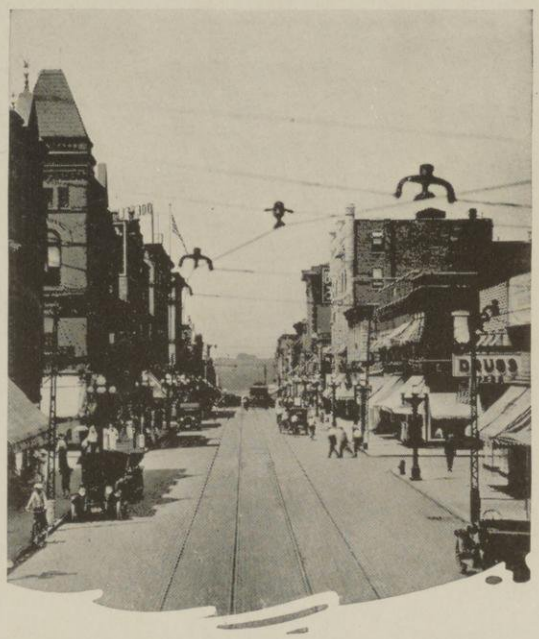
Madison

the home of the State Capitol and of the University of Wisconsin.



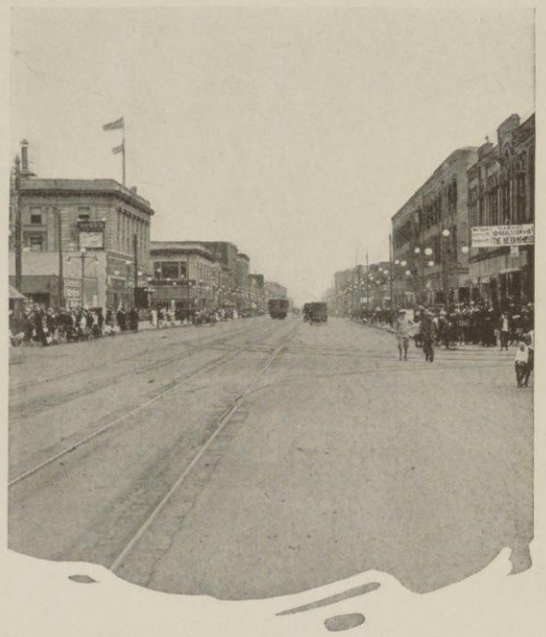
Milwaukee

Wisconsin's largest city and foremost manufacturing center.



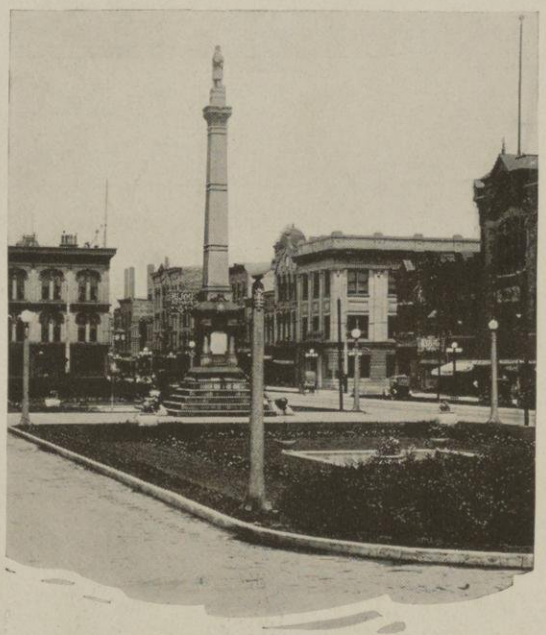
La Crosse

the only large Wisconsin city on the Mississippi River.



Superior

in tonnage, this northern city ranks as the sixth port in the world.

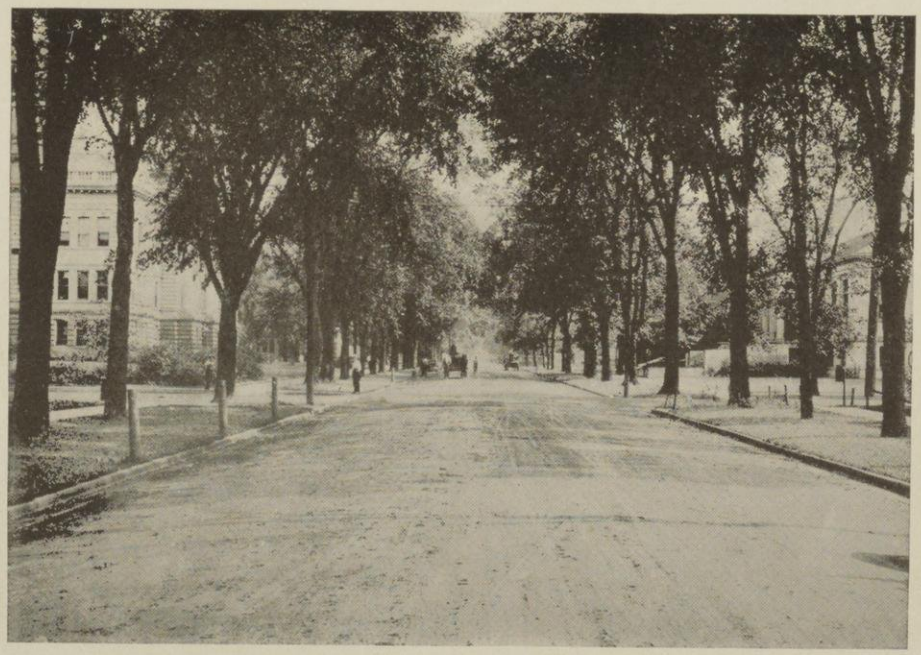


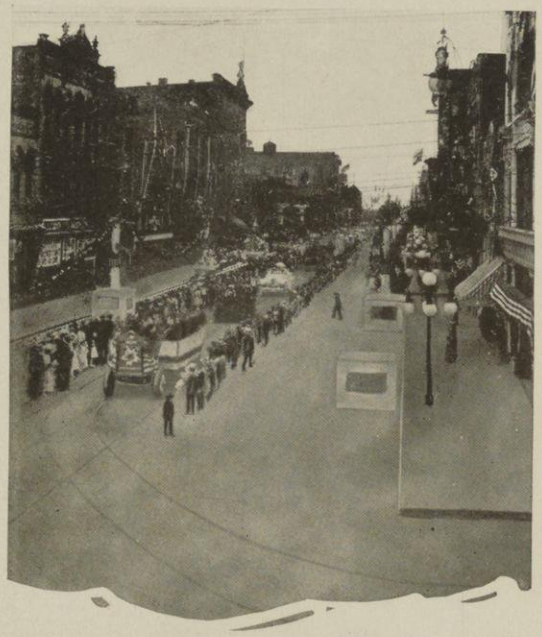
Racine

in the manufacture of machinery, Racine is one of the most important cities in the middle west.

Oshkosh

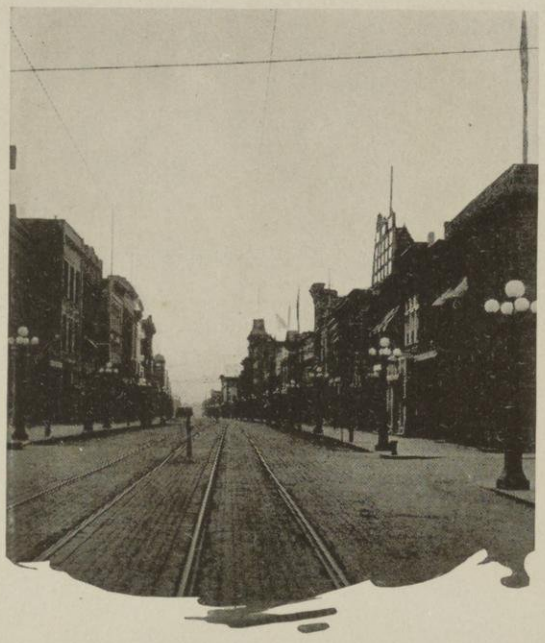
the manufacturing of lumber and timber products are the chief industries of this Fox River Valley city.





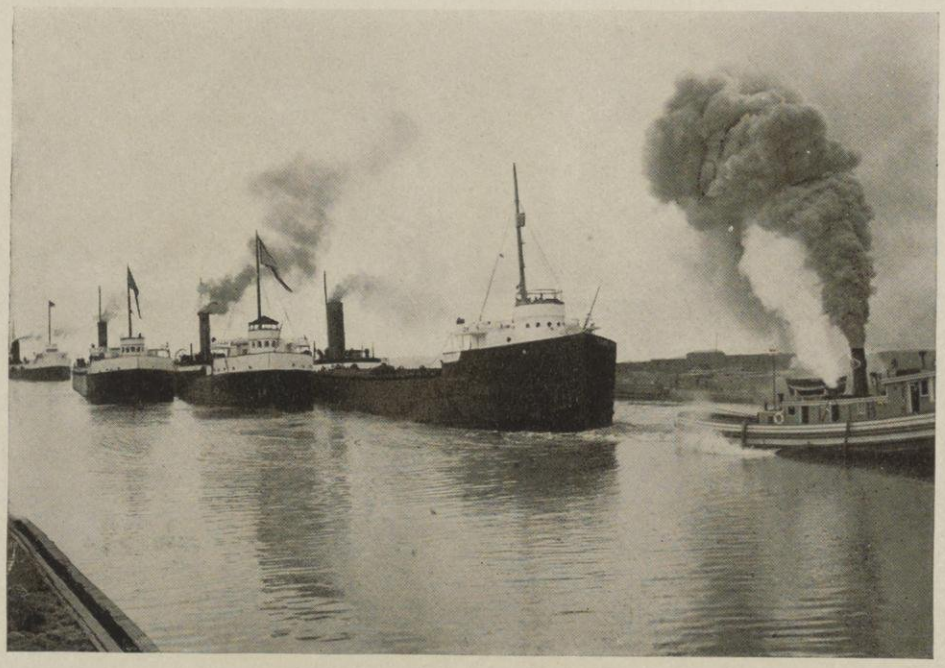
Green Bay

an important manufacturing and distributing center at the foot of Green Bay.



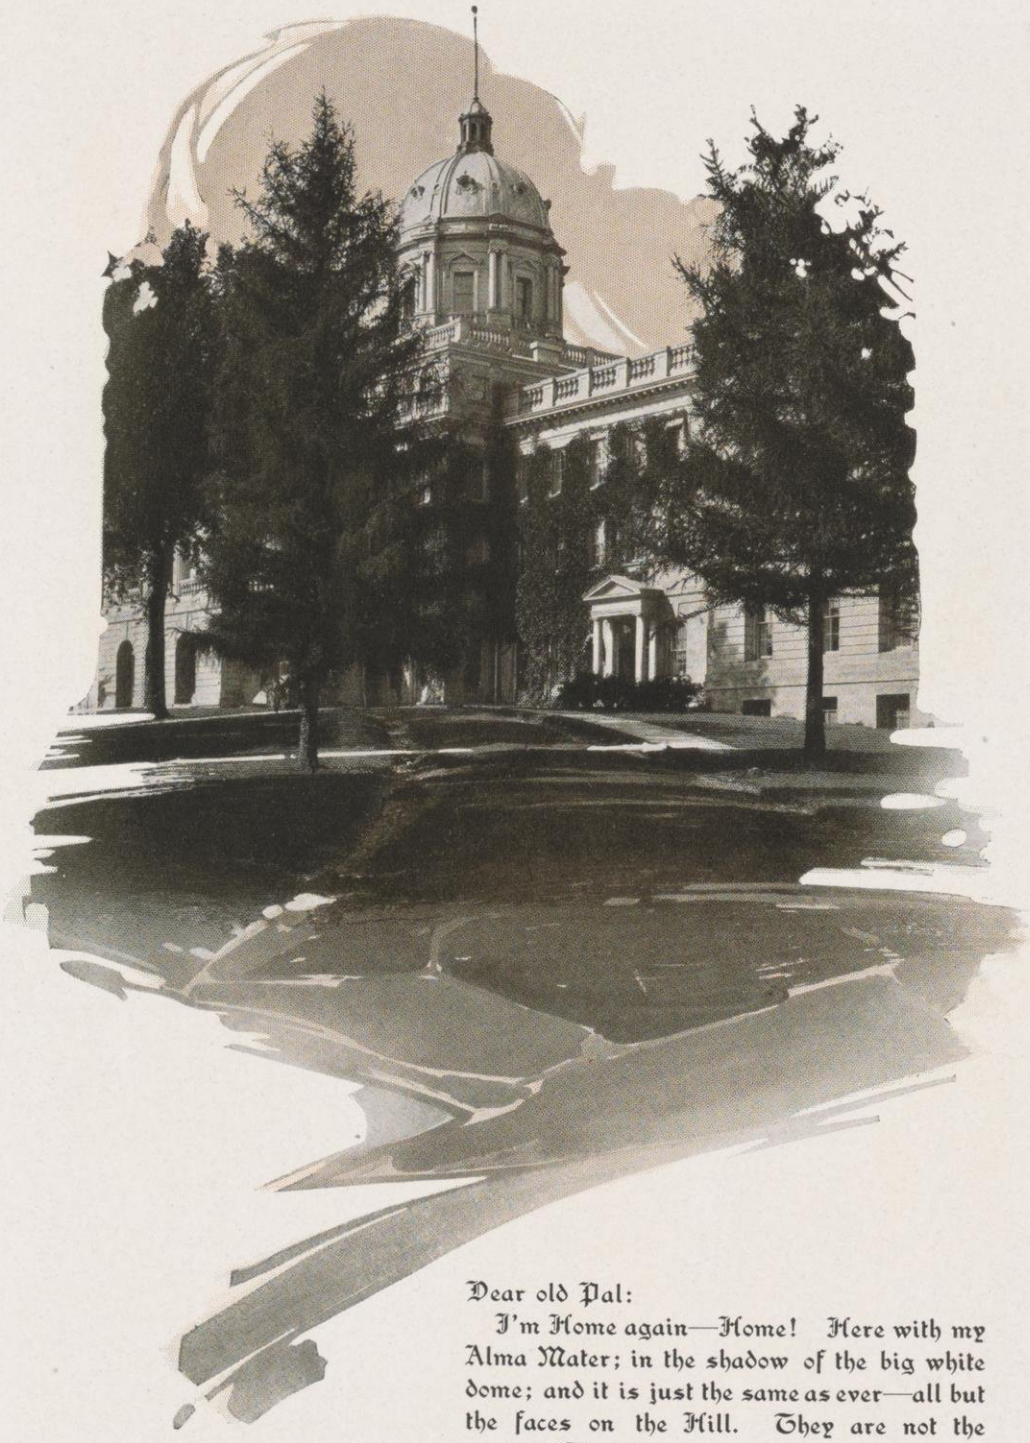
Fond du Lac

this Fox River Valley city has trebled its output of manufactured goods in the last ten years.



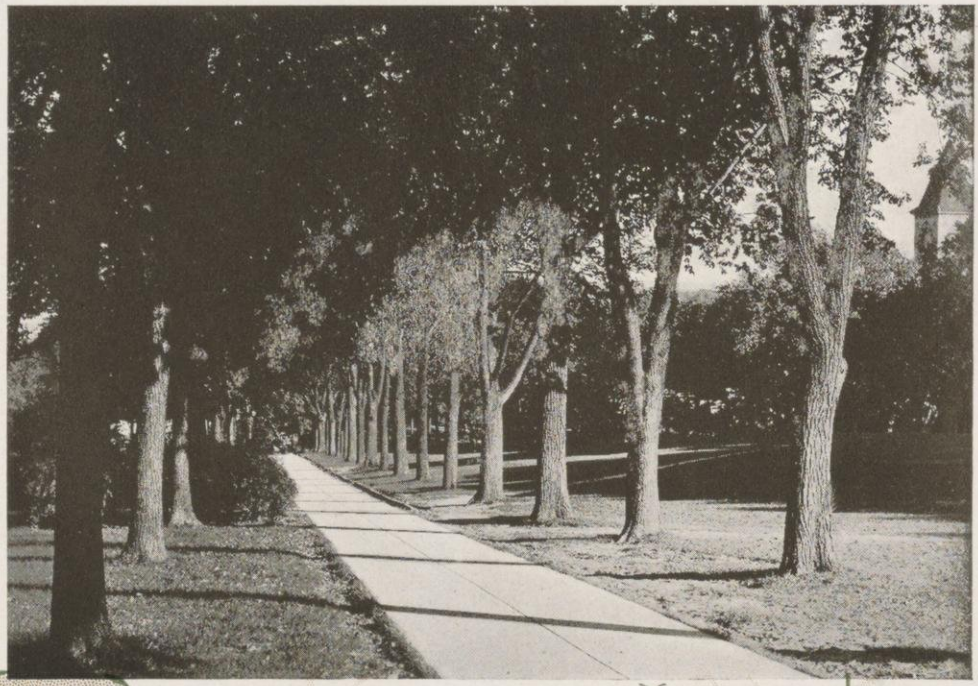
Sheboygan

a Lake Michigan port that is best known for its furniture and leather industries.

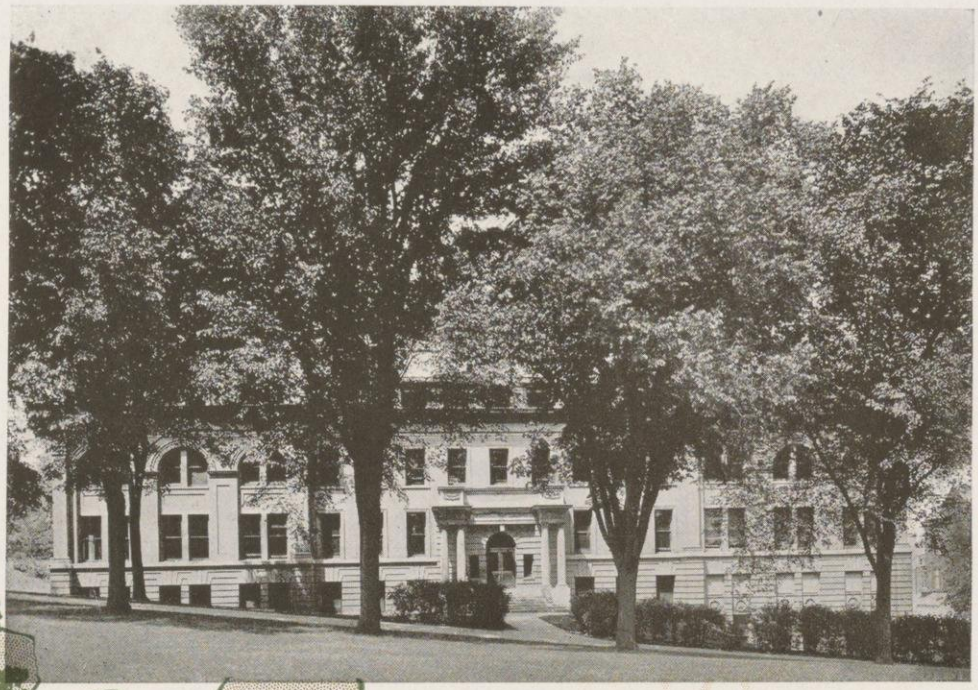


Dear old Pal:

I'm Home again—Home! Here with my Alma Mater; in the shadow of the big white dome; and it is just the same as ever—all but the faces on the Hill. They are not the same. The old boys have gone—



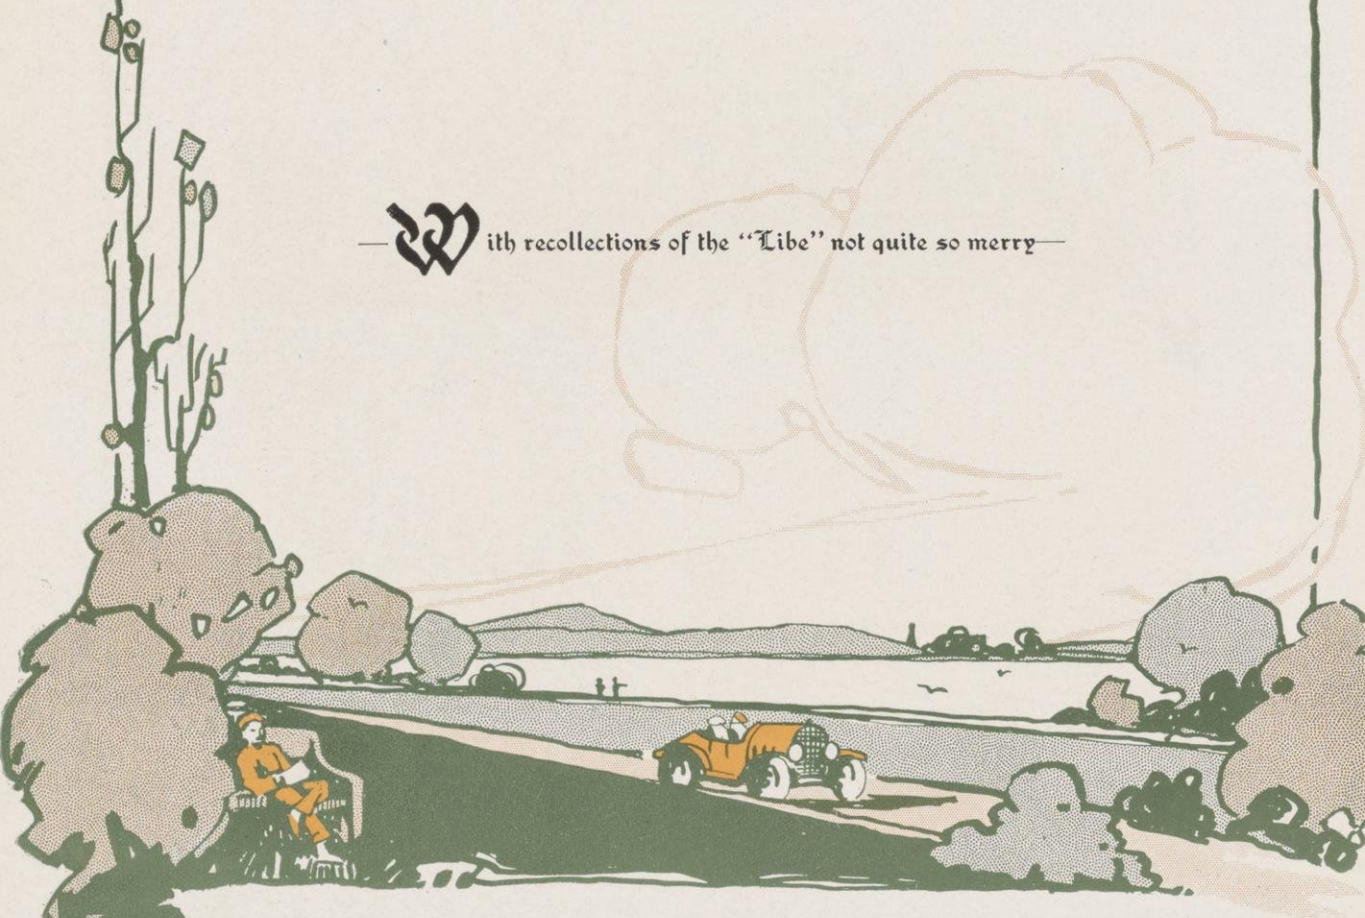
—But down the Hill, the big elms are still majestic, overpowering in their nobility; always a deep, rich green—

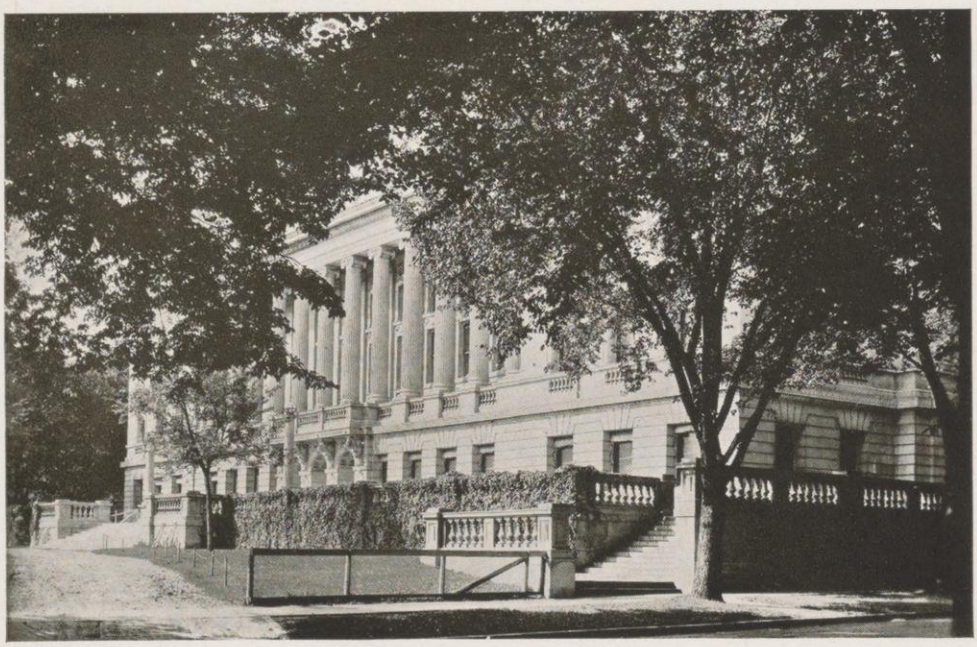


And past the Engineering Building, memories of their jolly, maudlin melodies come back to me—

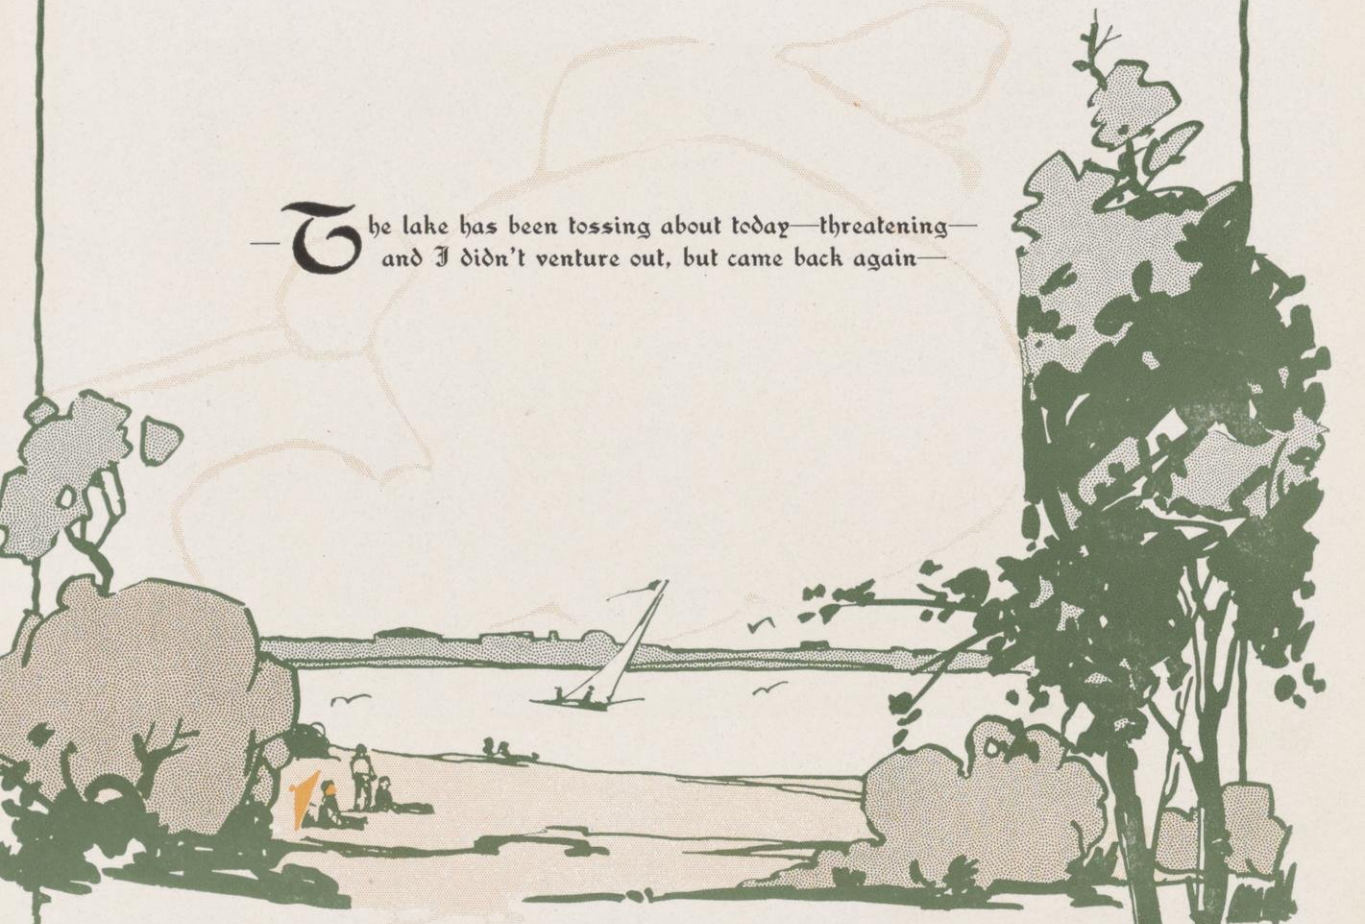
AT THE VNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN

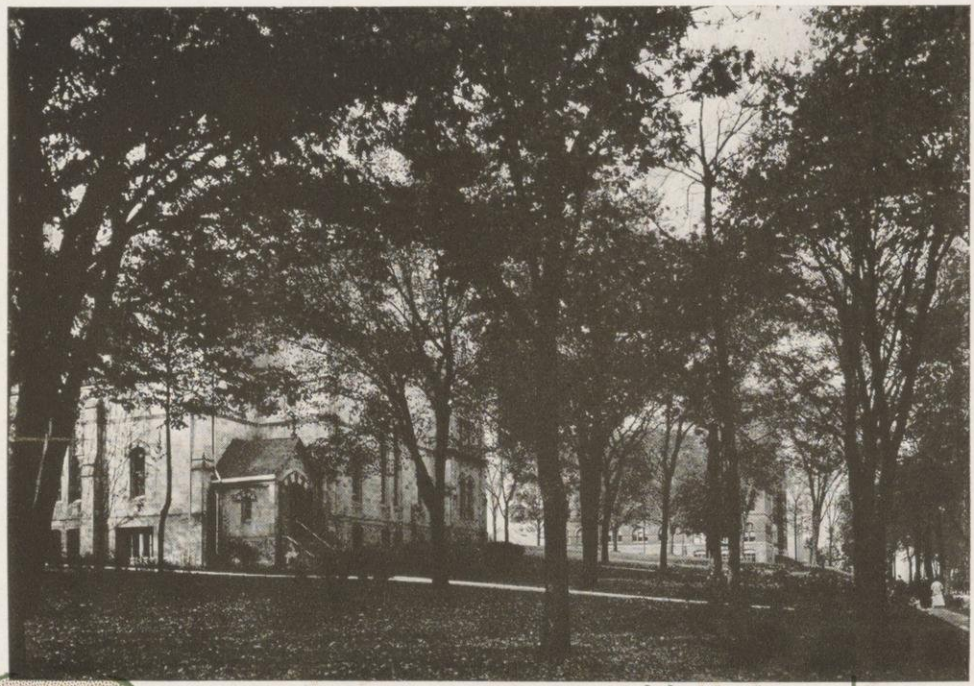
—With recollections of the "Libe" not quite so merry—

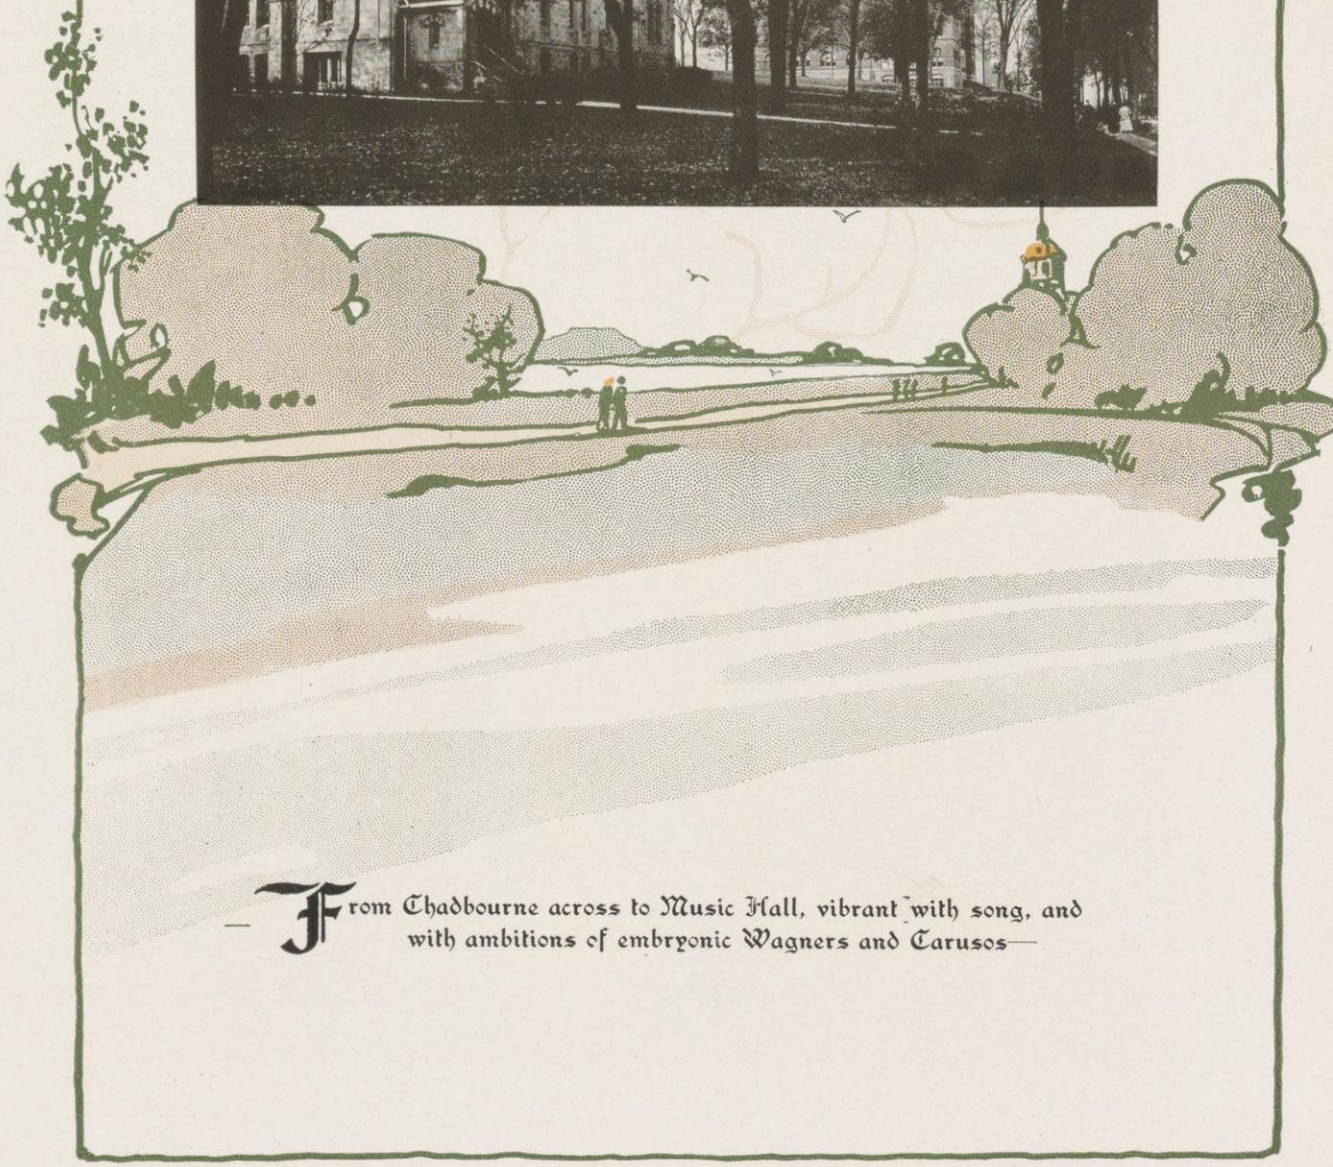




—The lake has been tossing about today—threatening—
and I didn't venture out, but came back again—

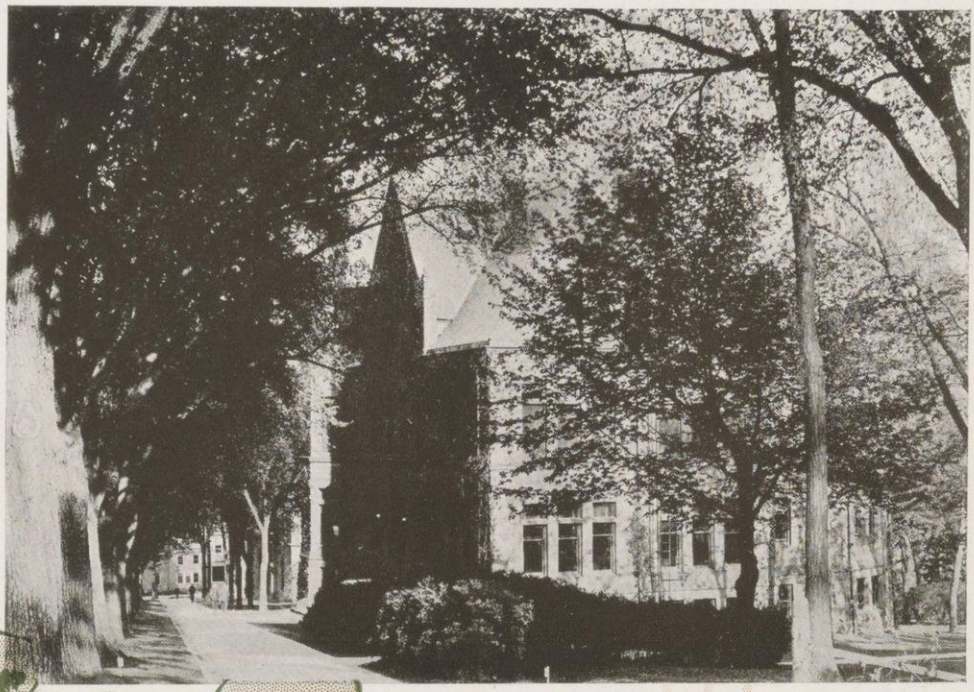






— From Chadbourne across to Music Hall, vibrant with song, and with ambitions of embryonic Wagners and Carusos—

AT THE VNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN



—Well, well, well! Is this the Law School? It is still dusty, old Pal. Dusty—but learned—

— Jrather hurried past South Hall; Dean Birge has his office—and a window—on the ground floor!

AT THE VNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN

—Through the trees, there gleams the haunt of newer Huxleys

—And a vista, over the Hill, gives a magic hint of Castles on the Rhine—

AT THE VNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN

—While twilight down in Arcady is sweet—

—The winding way shows the lights and shadows of an old Italian master—

—And the bridge on the road has an air of rustic romance—

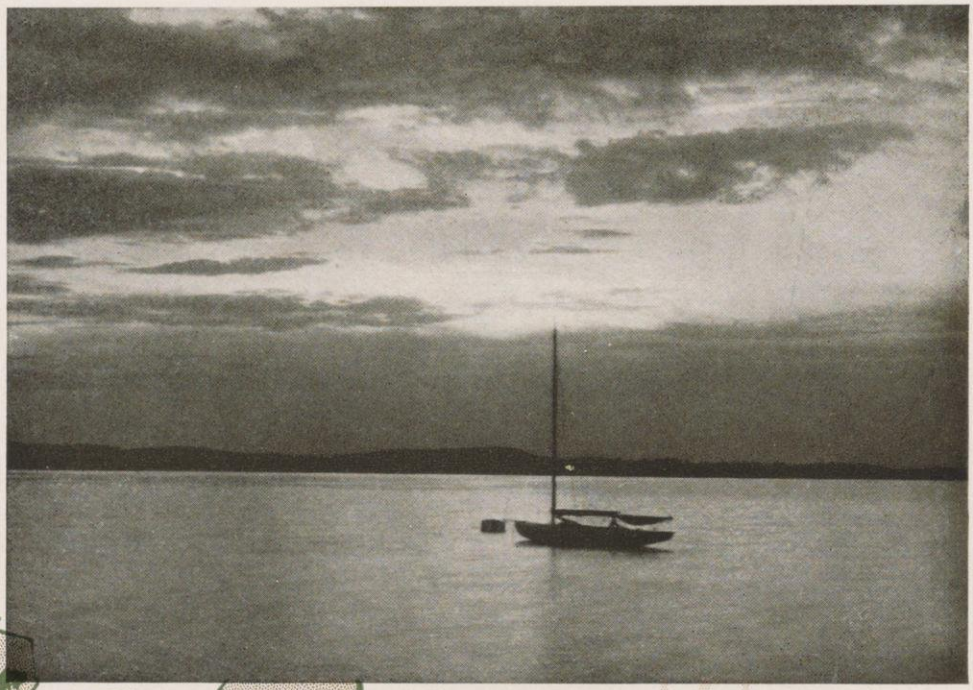
—The cove is quiet at sunset—



—The evening is stilled—colorful—mysterious; with a solitary ship painted against the sky—

—And in the hushed moments, there came home to me the beauty of my Alma Mater, her grace, her ineffable spirituality—and I loved her with the old love, sweetened by absence—and a new meeting. The old Grad's heart is full tonight.

Good-bye, old Pal—good-bye.

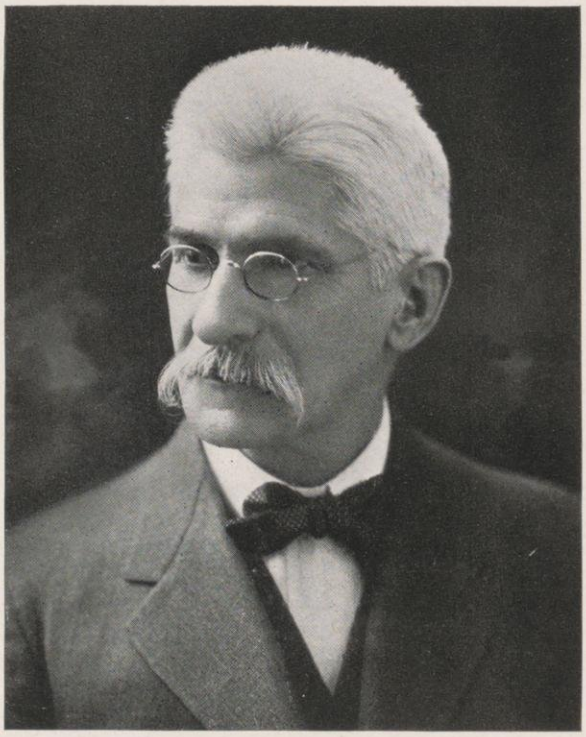
Letters and Science

College of Letters and Science

THE position of the College of Letters and Science in the University is well expressed by Hesperia's motto: "Magna Parens Virum." This College has always held the relation of the "Great Mother" of most of the other colleges and courses in the University. It is itself the embodiment of the spirit which has been in all ages the creator of universities—the love of learning for its own sake. This love, one of the oldest and the deepest of human affections, has given rise to universities in all lands where civilized man has lived and at every period of his life. Most of the special and technical institutions of higher learning have been born of the universities, which have at the same time incarnated and developed this spirit. This has been our history also. Starting as departments of the general course, Agriculture, Engineering, and Medicine have taken on an independent existence as separate colleges. Pharmacy, Chemistry, Music, and Commerce still remain as courses within the general jurisdiction of the College. No one can doubt that as years pass these and others which will succeed them will follow the example of the older children and set up for themselves, expressing in new phases and new activities the spirit which all have received from her.



Dean Birge

The College of Letters and Science has represented in Wisconsin for more than three score years the same spirit that her older sisters and their ancestors have represented in the world for as many thousands of years. All of them draw to their classes those whom the love of learning attracts. These come as their predecessors have come for ages—most of them without knowing why, brought by many and various motives, mainly undefined. The love of learning is rarely the obvious one. But it is always there; it lies beneath all the others; it sustains them and gives them whatever worth they have. Somehow or other in life's mysterious way this motive strengthens and grows during college days. In a few students it reaches full strength and dominates their life. In many more it clarifies and inspires life; in some it just maintains itself, a feeble spark; in a few it dies out forever.

So it has been here in Wisconsin and so it always will be. This has been the history of the College today. The Badger of the twenty-first century will find it the same.

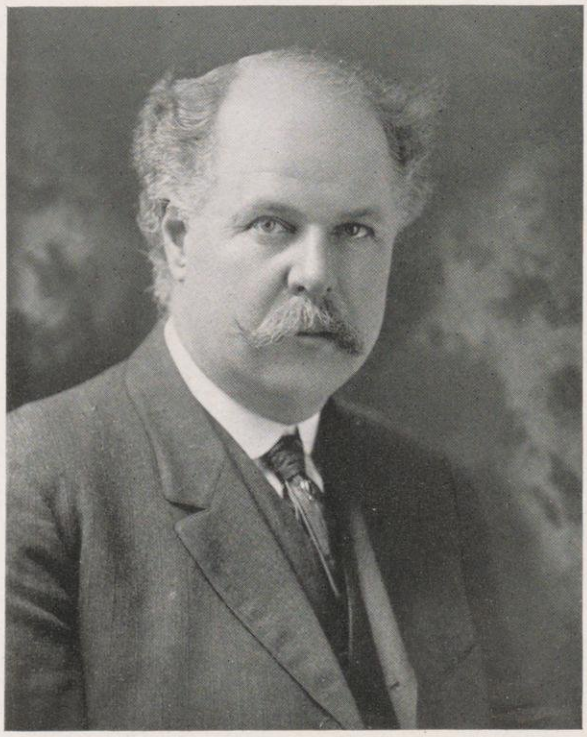
Agriculture

College of Agriculture

CAN we pierce the veil of the future and discern the pathway ahead? Is it rash to predict what place the future agricultural college will hold in the educational world? For centuries the wisdom of the ages was confined to the cloister and the cell, but the birth of the scientific method unshackled the fetters that bound the human mind and made possible the age of science and invention.



DEAN RUSSELL

The arts of man have absorbed this impulse and from these forces have arisen the modern applied sciences. Agriculture, although the oldest and most basic industry of the human race, was the last of the arts of man to receive the energizing stimulus of science. Now Home Economics is throbbing with the same impulses, and the degree of specialization which the past three decades have witnessed in the development of agricultural science is soon to be witnessed in the science of the home. The farm and the home are so intimately bound together in agriculture that one can hardly be considered without the other. The emphasis of the agricultural college in the past has been directed in a large measure to better farming, but increased production means little unless accompanied with better business methods, and increased profits do not avail much unless they result in better living. No permanent rural life is likely to develop unless the farm offers as good an opportunity for a satisfied life as does the city. Scientific agriculture gives as broad an intellectual scope as any human activity and, with the development of rural living on a par with city life, why may not the trained mind find in the open the opportunity for the fullest and best development?

To this aim the agricultural college of the future should address itself. Its call to service will lie in the training it gives its students which will best prepare them to fulfill the obligations that later will rest on them to maintain strong and virile rural communities.

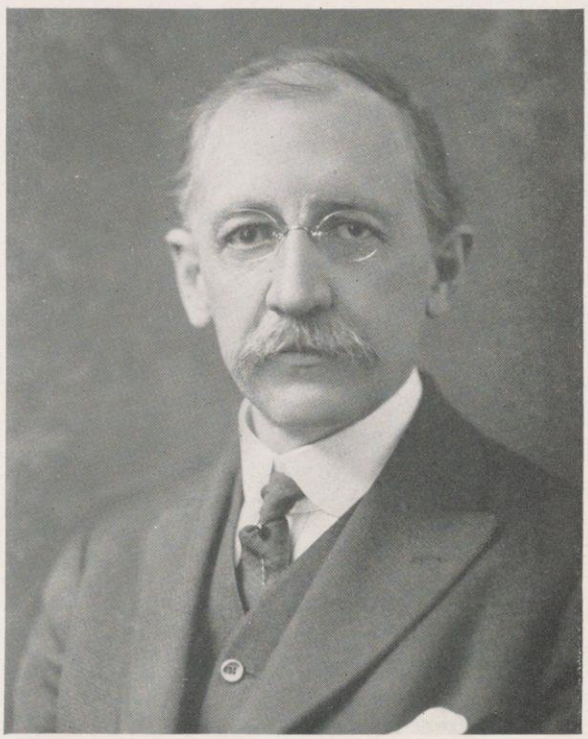
Engineering

College of Engineering

I AM asked to state, in a few words, what I think will be the trend of development of the College of Engineering in the near future. I believe that the chief function of this College in the future, as in the past, will be the training of men for the engineering profession. A second function, and one which will be of growing importance, is the conduct of research in the applied sciences relating to the work of the engineer and to the manufacturing industries of the State.



Dean Turneaure

To perform these functions in an adequate manner, the College must be prepared to develop as the demands upon the profession develop. Greater responsibilities are yearly being placed upon the engineer, and the interests that are dependent upon his ability and integrity are of increasing magnitude and importance. The modern movement in the direction of the employment of city managers, the constantly increasing concentration in the management of large industries and the movement towards greater efficiency in all kinds of organizations, are phases of present-day civilization that tend to increase the demand upon the engineer. These conditions will require a better and more thorough training for the prospective engineer in the future than in the past, and the school must be developed to meet this demand. The field of employment for the engineering graduate is constantly widening and many are now engaged in lines of work in which a few years ago technical knowledge was considered quite unnecessary. The proportion of graduates of this College who are not employed in the engineering profession, or in business closely related thereto, is very large—more than 90 per cent.

The work of the College of Engineering will doubtless be improved in several directions, but especially in the following three ways: First, by encouraging broader and longer courses of study on the part of many of the best students; second, by gradually improving the teaching staff through the employment of men of the highest ability, both as teachers and as investigators; and, third, by giving increased attention to research in the engineering sciences and in problems relating to the industries of the State.

Commerce

Course in Commerce

THE Course in Commerce trains men for business, but its ideal product is a type of business man different from the ordinary. It is a business man who is not only successful in his chosen occupation, but who also measures up to the right standards as a citizen and a member of society. This complex ideal explains the character of the curriculum and other features of the course. It has not inappropriately been called a college course plus, the phrase college course connoting those of its elements which are designed to confer a liberal education and the plus or addition, the vocational elements.

Director Scott

The design has been to amalgamate and not merely place these apparently heterogeneous elements in juxtaposition. To this end both groups of courses have been modified without destroying or in any way weakening their liberalizing or their vocationalizing influence, and they have been carefully correlated. To achieve the results in view, therefore, the course should be taken as a whole and in the order in which it is prescribed. Two years of it will not suffice nor can the courses arranged for the junior and senior years be successfully taken before those of the freshman and sophomore years.

In addition to the curriculum the important features of this course are the close relations which it is attempting to foster between students and faculty, alumni and undergraduates and students and business men. Towards these ends the Commerce Club, the Beta Gamma Sigma society and the advisor system are made to contribute and the result is an esprit de corps which is admirable and an atmosphere which every student feels as soon as he has thoroughly identified himself with the course. The new quarters arranged for the course, in the building now under construction on Charter Street, will strengthen these features. This new building will be welcomed by the Course in Commerce, as the entire second and third floors will be devoted to lecture rooms and classrooms for Commerce students —a decided improvement over the present scattered facilities.

Law

College of Law

THE time is rapidly approaching when the Law School that confines its activities solely to the teaching of the English or common law system and its practice, will not be regarded as performing its full duty to the student or to the public. The classical eulogists of the common law asserted that its principles were sufficient to solve any problem that might arise in a civilized state. This view has prevailed with the English and American bar. As a result of this belief in the self-sufficiency and perfection of our system, very little attention has been paid to the study of Roman or Civil Law, which lies at the basis of the legal systems of the continent of Europe. Confronted suddenly with the social and economic problems that the older European states have been struggling with for a long period, we are beginning to awaken from our provincial complacency. The immediate resulting reaction has been a mass of hasty legislation of the cut and dry order that threatens to continue with increasing volume.

Dean Richards

The true aim of all legislation and judicial decision is to adapt the law to the necessities of actual life. If we are ever to have even an approximation of a scientific legal system, we must study all systems that have stood the test of time. We cannot hope for orderly progress toward a definite goal without considering the nature and practical scope of law, as shown by the juristic principles common to all systems.

The American law school entrusted with the education of the future American bar is the medium through which these truths will be brought home to the new generation of lawyers. The University of Wisconsin Law School should enter this field. It has the necessary facilities for courses in the history of English law, and comparative law. A course in the history of law is on the program for this year. Without impairing the purely professional courses, or without great expenditure, much further development along these lines is possible. It is in this direction that we may expect the most significant development in the near future.

Medicine

College of Medicine

LAST year the editors of the Badger desired a brief summary of the medical school as it then existed. This year the editors desire a brief forecast of its future. A medical school was one of the integral parts in the plan when the University was organized two generations ago. A generation passed before anything specific in the direction of medicine was attempted. An excellent pre-medical course was then established but nearly another generation passed before there developed out of this the first half of the modern four year medical course which we now have. It seems not too much to anticipate that before the end of the third generation after the birth of the University, Wisconsin may have a complete medical school.

Dean Bardeen

Modern medicine presents a splendid combination of scientific research and practical social usefulness. In no field is there greater opportunity to combine service and duty. After a training in the laboratory branches of medicine, such as is now comprised in the first two years of the medical course as given at Wisconsin, the student gets his further training in the clinical branches in hospital wards and dispensaries partly by seeing others work and hearing them talk, partly by actual help in caring for the sick. The last is the really important part of the training when properly supervised. We believe that as the hospitals of the State improve they will offer opportunity for a large part of the practical training now involved in the third and fourth years of the medical course and in the subsequent intern year. The students, after finishing the first half of the medical course which they now get at Wisconsin and getting some practical training at Madison, would be divided into small groups, each group residing in an affiliated hospital. While earning room and board by useful services in the hospital they would get practical training from the members of the hospital staff. Each group would shift from time to time to another hospital so as to get the benefit of different kinds of service. Each group, for instance, should spend some time at Mendota to become acquainted with mental disease—some time at Wales or a similar institution to become acquainted with tuberculosis. Such a plan would involve no great state hospital at Madison although some hospital facilities would be needed there for the elementary training. It would give the students opportunity to complete their medical education at a minimum expense and to learn to serve through service.

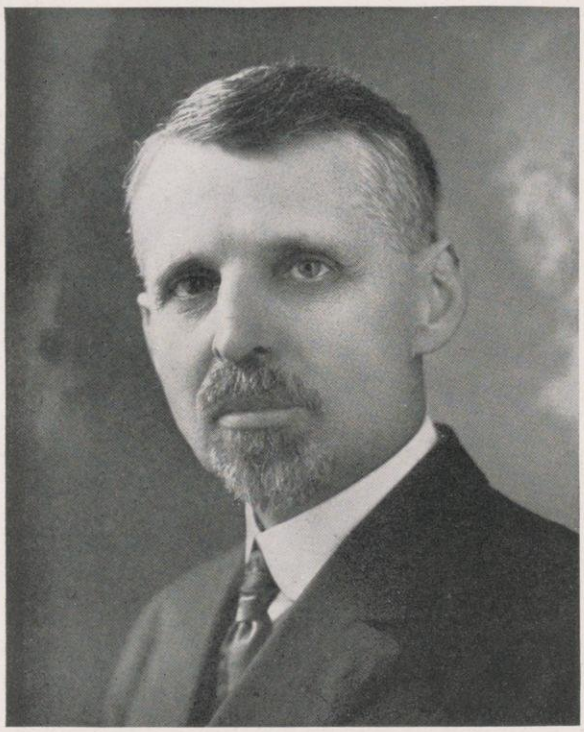
University Extension

UNIVERSITY Extension in recent years has become the strong leader in all educational activities having for their direct object the spread of knowledge and training among those who for any reason are unable to matriculate in an institution. These may be roughly classified into two main groups,—first, students who desire to work for academic standing and who fulfill the necessary requirements to that end; and second, persons who seek educational opportunities solely for the intrinsic value of the knowledge which may be gained.



Dean Reber

To the first group the University offers advantages similar to those enjoyed by resident students with definite regulations which take into account the conditions under which the non-resident student works. Courses for academic standing are given mainly by the correspondence-study method or by correspondence combined with local classes, and cover the same ground as the resident courses.

The service open to the second group is very wide and inclusive and affords a means of reaching the highest aims of popular education. This development opens to the people, in addition to courses of study adapted to individual needs and circumstances, channels of specific service designed to promote civic, political, and humanitarian advancement. Among the outstanding opportunities offered to the second group are vocational courses based upon existing industrial and commercial operations and adapted to the capacity of the learner; courses for professional men and women dealing with up-to-date advances; package library and other aids to the formation of debating clubs and the promotion of intelligent public discussion; a lecture service of wide scope and interest; the service of bureaus of health, municipal reference, sanitary engineering, visual instruction, child welfare, community music, commercial, social, and civic center development; the conduct of community institutes, exhibits, and surveys, and many other forms of informational and inspirational service.

University Extension is established and growing. Its future is assured because it alone, of all educational systems, approaches the high ideal of equal opportunity for all.

Increased activity of sophomores in hazing members of the freshman class may lead to the prosecution of some of the rioters, it was learned last night. ANNUAL BAG RUSH SET FOR OCTOBER 6

First and Second Year Men to Decide Supremacy on Lower Campus

The annual sophomore-freshman bag rush has been set for 4 o'clock Friday October 6 on the lower campus The date was decided by the rush committee of the student conference.

In order that the rush may be fairly even 126 police will be appointed to hamper the sophs in any attempts at unfairness and it is thought that the wholesale carting off of frosh this year will be avoided Arlie Mucks was chosen chief of police and an assistant will soon be picked No football men will be allowed to enter the rush either as participants or police according to Coach Withington.

The list of men found ineligible by the clinic will be published in the Daily Cardinal on the morning of the rush. From the data already compiled it would appear that this list will be unusually large

The rush committee of the conference wishes to obtain the names of any husky upperclassmen who are desirous of wielding a "billy." The names should be handed to any of the following committeemen. Al Haake, Hilding Anderson, Art Couture Herman Zische, A. Schulz, before they meet Monday night. Further arrangements and all appointments will be made at this time

Addition of Stars Gives Second Year Men Good Chance

Interest in the annual soph-frosh football game to be played at Camp Randall this afternoon has taken a decided spurge in the last few days. The sophomores have not been more than ordinarily confident of victory although their backfield added several stars to their ranks. Willard Fuller, "Pewee" Vaughn, both stars on last year's freshman team, will direct the play of the second year men from the quarterback position as both these men were considered as varsity material last year but on account of ineligibility have not been allowed to work with the varsity squad. FEW FRESHMEN LEAVE BUT MANY ARE CLOSE

Small Number Put Out of University at Thanksgiving Time

About 350 students of the freshman class of the college of letters and science are doing unsatisfactory work according to meagre reports of the scholastic status of the university which have emanated from the office of the various deans.

Custom which has become precedent prevents the faculty from issuing reports for publication which will give the student body exact facts on how the students stand in their university work. Only averages of colleges and courses are ordinarily published.

Freshmen who were sent home at Thanksgiving can probably be numbered on one hand. The first departure in any number will be made at Christmas time, while the grand exodus will not come until the end of semester in February.

FRESHMAN DEC TO BE HELD TONIGHT

Annual Contest to Be Open To Both Men and Women

The annual all university freshmen declamatory contest will be held tonight at 7 o'clock in room 165 Main hall.

All freshmen, both men and women, may enter this contest and try out for places in the final freshmen contest to be held on March 8. The orations may or may not be original, but must not be longer than eight minutes, a longer oration will disqualify the speaker.

The candidates awarded the first four places tonight will compete with four representatives of the four men's literary societies, one being selected from each society, in the final contest on March, and the winner of this contest will be awarded a gold fob medal.

The judges for the contest are: N. P. Blart, S. Fred Miller, and John Gross. Mahlon H. Caradine, secretary of the Forensic board, will preside.

A revised schedule of all oratorical events has been announced, and until further notice stands as follows:

Freshmen dec—Tonight.

The Football Season

IN the spring of 1916 the destiny of football at Wisconsin was placed in the hands of Dr. Paul Withington, a Harvard graduate and former football star. On his appointment he came to Madison, issued the call for spring practice, drilled a squad of men, met the student body and secured its instantaneous support. The lid was pried off the 1916 season October 7 by the Lawrence game, which proved a valuable experience and ended with a 20 to 0 score. The next Saturday the South Dakota Aggies were trounced 28 to 3. This game showed marked improvement in team work and brought forth signs of fight which were not present against Lawrence. The Haskell Indians, another team on the preliminary schedule, showed up many of our weak spots on both defense and offense, and we were satisfied with a 13 to 0 score.

Coach Withington

Determined to come back against Chicago, the work, spirit, and confidence of the squad, coaches, and student body combined into one great victory on October 28, when Stagg's Maroons were humbled by a 30 to 7 score before one of the largest and most enthusiastic Homecoming crowds ever assembled at Camp Randall. This was the first victory over the Midway eleven since 1912 and the greatest since 1901. A week later, overconfidence and too much Harley defeated us at Columbus against the Buckeye machine, coached by Jack Wilce, the old Wisconsin gridiron star. The next two weeks were spent in preparing for the Minnesota battle, but a mistake was made in perfecting an attack instead of a defense, with disastrous results. The Gopher machine outclassed all exhibitions of football ever seen on the Minnesota field, and defeated us 54 to 0. With Captain Meyers and Taylor both out of the game on account of injuries sustained in the Minnesota slaughter, prospects looked bad for the Illinois game November 25. Strenuous practice, headwork, and a driving attack held the Suckers to a scoreless tie, however, in the hardest fought game of the year.

The 1916 football season was a success. It marked the rejuvenation of Wisconsin athletics and spirit, accompanied by the introduction of the Harvard system of play which has already demonstrated its efficiency. With Captain-elect Hancock, Meyers, Simpson, Edler, Kelley, Carpenter, Cramer, Berg, Kieckhefer, Kralovec and Garnsey of this year's team, all of whom are acquainted with the new style of play, and the wealth of freshman material from which to pick, prospects are indeed bright for next year.

The 1916 Football Team

CAPTAIN MEYERS

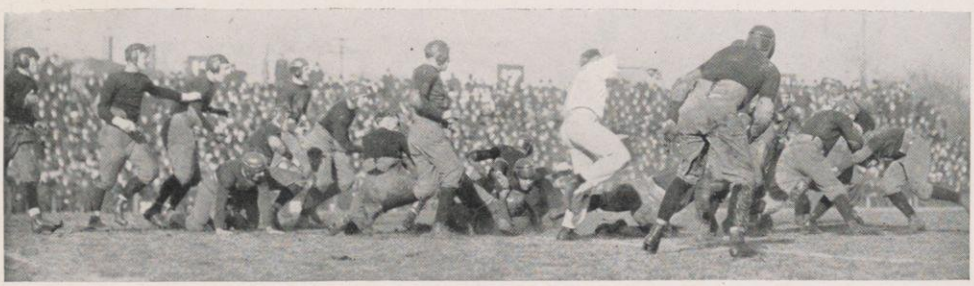
Captain Paul Meyers, All-Conference end in 1915, was among the first to become an enthusiastic and ardent follower of Dr. Withington and the Harvard system. He deserves a great deal of credit for the way he led our team through a most strenuous season, made more difficult because of the code of entirely new methods which the men had to learn. "Paulie" received a place on some of the All-Western teams, where he rightfully belongs. He is a good tackler and is exceptionally fast in getting down under punts. He is also one of our basketball players, having won his "W" in that sport this year. He will be with us again next year, and with the captain's responsibility removed from his shoulders, and with two years of Varsity experience, he should be one of the two or three best ends in the West.

HOWARD HANCOCK

Howard Hancock, the pride of Shullsburg, Wisconsin, is going to captain the 1917 football team. For two years he has been the mainstay of Wisconsin's lines, and his cheery disposition and willingness to work, especially qualify him for next year's leadership. With an abundance of last year's line men who have already had the rudiments of the Harvard system drilled into them, back next Fall, Wisconsin should have a powerful forward wall, made particularly so with "Handy" on one side. He can always be depended upon to play a steady and consistent game. Those who saw the Chicago game can well remember how we made gain after gain through his headquarters, and how time and again he turned back the rushes of the Chicago line plungers. He will be a popular captain and Wisconsin fans have confidence that he will make good. "Up and at 'em, Handy, we're all for you!"

HAROLD OLSEN

"Ole," of basketball fame, decided in his senior year to go out and make the football team, thereby adding one more "W" to his collection of laurels. He was a good example of what Coach Withington can do with a man who will really work. "Ole" was very inexperienced at the start, but before the season was half over, he was playing like a veteran. He was especially good at line plunging and, with Simpson and Berg, he helped form a backfield hard to stop. He was also a reliable drop kicker and a good defensive man. He was basketball captain this semester, is president of the Athletic Board, and was president of his class last year. Harold graduates in June, and in September he assumes his duties as Head Coach of football and basketball at Ripon College. Here's success and good luck to you, Ole!



The Minnesota Game

EBER SIMPSON

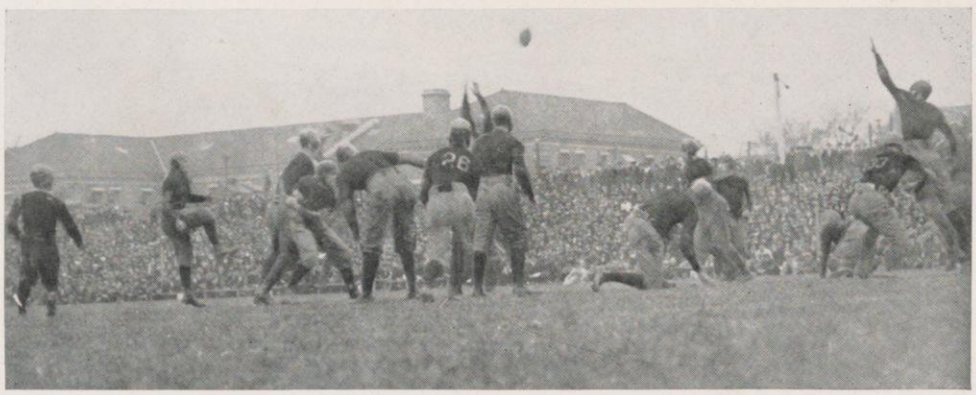
Eber Simpson, one of the best all-around athletes in the West, came to us with a great record as a football player. Eber started right by being captain of his Freshman team in 1914 and Varsity quarterback in 1915. No one who saw the Minnesota game in 1915 will ever forget Eber's sensational 80-yard run from the kick-off. Last year at half-back, Eber showed up even better than he did the year before. His long end runs, which brought the spectators to their feet so many times, and his ability to throw the forward pass, made him one of the best backfield men in the Conference. He was also an accurate and reliable goal kicker. Eber played first base on the Varsity baseball team last Spring, and was also a guard on the basketball team. He will be back next Fall and Wisconsin expects even greater things from him.

"RED" KELLEY

No football team is complete without its fighting, red-haired Irishman. Wisconsin was not lacking in this essential in 1916, for William Michael Kelley was at his old job on the end of the Cardinal line. "Red" played end on the 1914 team, but was out of school the following year. However, when he returned in September, 1916, it didn't take him long to fit into his old position. His playing in the Minneota game at Minneapolis last Fall was one of the few redeeming features of Wisconsn's play. He also played consistently in the Illinois game. "Red" will be back next year, and with Paul Meyers on the other wing, Wisconsin should have a pair of ends that will rank with any in the Conference.

RAY McCRORY

Although Ray McCrory won his football "W" in 1915, he never had a chance to show his real ability until late last year. The former Milwaukee high school star was one of the best punters Wisconsin has had in several years. He could always be depended upon to play a heady, consistent game at quarterback, and in last year's Illinois game, his kicks outdistanced those of the much-touted McComber. "Mac" graduates in June and Wisconsin will lose one of her best football players when he goes.



OLSEN SCORES ON DROP-KICK—CHICAGO GAME

MINNESOTA GAME—HANSEN GAINS

"MOOSE" GARDNER

"Moose" Gardner received his athletic training at Ashland, where he appeared in northern Wisconsin track meets as a "dark horse" in the weight events and starred as tackle on the Ashland high school football team. "Moose" was a hard, aggressive fighter—a great offensive guard. In the Illinois game, as a tackle he tore through the sucker wall and stopped many plays before they were even started. When a sophomore, he won a "W" in the shot put and last Spring, he was honored by being elected to the Athletic Board.

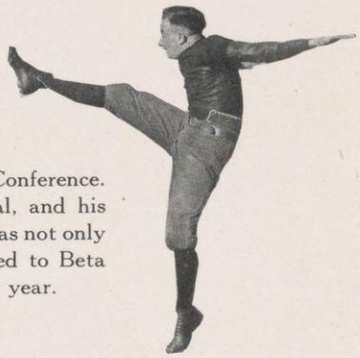
"MONK" EDLER

Ray Edler won a place among the greatest half-backs in the West last year, by his spectacular 57-yard run for a touchdown against Chicago. "Monk" hails from Janesville, where he secured All-State honors by reason of his great all-around playing for two years. He entered Wisconsin as a sophomore from Beloit College, and Conference rules prevented him from playing in 1915. His great open field running and his work in circling the ends brought the crowds to their feet time after time. He will be back on the job next Fall and will make a strong bid for an All-Western position.

"HERB" CRAMER

Although one of the lightest men on the squad, "Herb" Cramer surely delivered the goods as an end. He began his football career on the corner lots of Madison and later he starred on the right end of the Madison high school line. He played on the Frosh eleven at his old position, but injuries kept him out of the game most of the season when a sophomore. After his showing with the Varsity last Fall, Wisconsin looks forward to his services for next season. "Herb" is also out for baseball and from present indications he should win another "W" in that sport.

GLENN TAYLOR



Ever since his remarkable showing in the Illinois game of 1915, Glenn Taylor, quarter-back, has been a shining light in Wisconsin football. He was a fast, heady player, a dangerous tackler, and the best man Wisconsin had in handling punts. He was one of the best kickers in the Conference. Glenn was a good safety man and an excellent field general, and his graduation will cause no little loss to our backfield. Taylor was not only an athlete—he was a good student as well, and was elected to Beta Gamma Sigma, honorary Commerce fraternity, in his junior year.

"POLLY" KOCH

"Polly" Koch was one of the most dependable line men on the Wisconsin team. He was a powerful defensive tackle, which position he held for two seasons. It was to no small degree that "Polly" aided in "Staggering Chicago," and he was also a tower of strength in the Ohio game. It is hoped by all that there is nothing to the rumor that he will not be back next Fall, and although he is not with us this semester, we hope that he will be out for football when the call for candidates is sounded next September.

"CHARLEY" CARPENTER

Not only can "Chuck" Carpenter hammer and pound the ivory keys to the delight of dancers, but he can also hammer the strongest opposing wall on the gridiron. Before coming to Wisconsin, he was All-State center, having played a great game with Racine high school. "Chuck" had little difficulty in making center on the Freshman team and he continued at the same position on the Varsity. He was second choice for center on most of the All-Western elevens. Carpenter was a powerful man on both offense and defense, and with two years ahead of him, he seems slated for an All-Western position.

The Illinois Game

"LOUIE" KREUZ

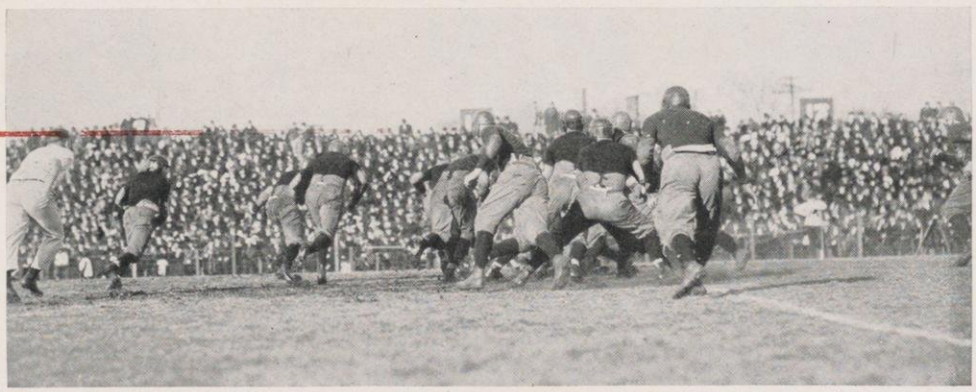
For three years Louis Kreuz has given valiant service to the Varsity as fullback. "Louie" was a persistent fighter and was full of that "never-say-die" spirit that wins football games. His playing against Ohio State last year eclipsed all fullback work Wisconsin has seen for some time. With Ohio in the lead, and with but a few minutes to play, "Louie" brought back the spirit which put over another touchdown. He is also a "W" man in track, having won second place in the javelin throw at last year's Conference meet. We shall miss him in both football and track next year.

"HERB" KIECKHEFER

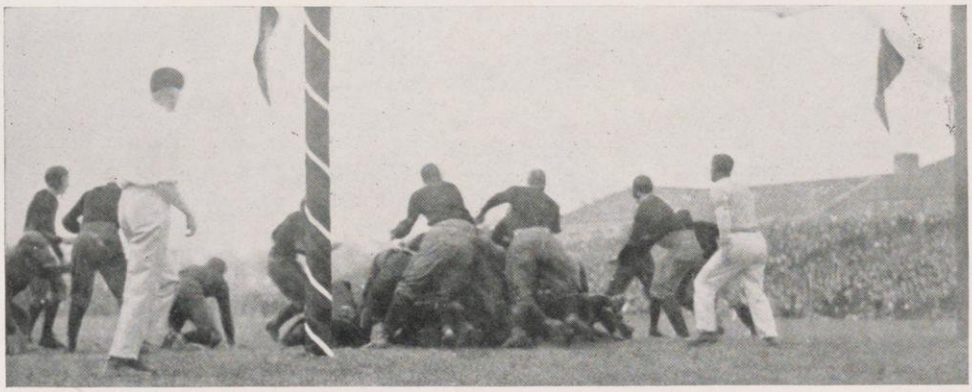
Last Spring, during preliminary practice, one of the coaches pointed to a big, lanky sophomore who was passing the ball around, and remarked that there was a man who should make All-Western before he graduated. That sophomore was Herbert Kieckhefer and the way he started out his Wisconsin football career indicates that the coach's prophesy is very likely to come true. "Herb" had the misfortune to sprain his ankle at the beginning of last football season, his injury keeping him out of play for two or three weeks. But toward the close of the season, he got into shape and played some great football. With two years to play, we see nothing but a brilliant future for him.

MAX BERG

Max Berg's favorite pastime was bucking the line and as fullback last year, he had plenty of opportunity to indulge in it. Built "close to the ground," and possessed of unusal speed, Max was a hard man to stop once he got started. He was a thorough student of the Harvard style of play and he made the team by hard work and lots of fight. Due to injuries, Berg was kept out of part of the last few games, but his line plunging in the Chicago game will be remembered for a long time by Wisconsin fans. The doughty fullback has another year to compete in Big 9 football, and we all hope he is with us again next Fall.



Minnesota Gains Around Left End



HOLDING CHICAGO ON THE 5 YARD LINE

"SWEDE" FILTZER

Robert Filtzer began his football career with Milwaukee North Division high school, winning All-State honors as a tackle in 1911. He played on the Freshman team here and held down the position of right tackle on the Varsity for two years. In the Minnesota game of 1915, it was "Swede's" great defensive work that earned for him the right to be classed with the best linemen of the Conference. His playing during the 1916 season was consistent throughout and Wisconsin loses a good football player when he graduates in June.

"ED" GARNSEY

Edward Garnsey shows promise of being one of Wisconsin's best ends. Although he played center in high school, it was not long before Coach Withington discovered that he had in this sophomore all of the qualities of a good end. "Ed" won his "W" by serving as an understudy to Captain Meyers, when the latter was injured. He was particularly apt in breaking up the interference of his opponents, and in "turning in" the plays that were directed around his end.

"LES" GRAPER

Wisconsin lost the services of one of the best offensive guards in the West when physicians advised Leslie Graper to keep out of football because of a weak heart. "Les" played center on the Fort Atkinson high school team, and last Fall—during his last year at Wisconsin—the old fascination for the game brought him out as a candidate for the Varsity. Critics placed him as our best lineman, and he always earned the respect of his opponent by his clean playing. "Les" was a hard-working, consistent player—always on the job—and Wisconsin will miss him next year.

"ART" KRALOVEC

Every year some "dark horse" turns up and lands right in the spot light. "Art" Kralovec, better known as "Krallie," was last year's sensation. He is another example of what persistent and hard work, combined with Doc Withington's coaching, will do with an inexperienced man. For weeks, at the beginning of the season, "Krallie" plugged along with the "All-Americans," determined to stick, and just as he was about to give up all hope of making the first squad, he was presented with his cardinal jersey and later his "W." He played in the Chicago and Ohio State games and exhibited some real football. "Art" played at both guard and center. It is our opinion that the big Agric will be one of the best guards in the Conference next season.

The Basketball Season

THE basketball season of 1916–17 was the closest and best race in the history of the Conference. The teams were uniformly strong and well balanced and the style of play advanced. Four teams, Illinois, Minnesota, Chicago, and Ohio State, looked particularly strong at the beginning of the season, each having four or more regulars of the preceding season in play, while Purdue had three veterans remaining. Illinois and Minnesota appeared overwhelmingly strong and were picked to win easily. Wisconsin was less fortunate and began the season against this array of seasoned talent with but two regulars, one of whom, Levis, ended his playing career at the close of the first semester. This loss at forward made it necessary to reconstruct the team to secure the necessary power in the offense, so Olsen was shifted from guard to forward, where he played very acceptably, and Meyers, sub-forward, became a regular at guard. Chandler, center in 1916, became eligible in the second semester, and again filled that position. The new team won six of the remaining seven games; developed the high scoring, short pass, short shot style, so that the team led all opponents in goals from the field, an honor held by Wisconsin for the sixth consecutive year, and perfected an almost air-tight defense. By the close of the season Wisconsin was equal or superior to any team in the Conference, as was shown by doubling the field goals of their opponents in games with Chicago and Minnesota, to whom games had been lost in the first semester. In view of the relative strength of opponents and of the unusual handicaps encountered in the development of the team, the season's record of but three defeats in eighteen games is more creditable than those made in our championship years.

Coach Meanwell

In 1917–18 Wisconsin will find itself in the fortunate condition of Illinois and Minnesota this year, in that four first string men of the five remain and also four experienced substitutes. To this array must be added the largest and best squad of freshmen we have had since 1914. Therefore we can look forward to the coming season with pleasure and confidence.

HAROLD OLSEN

"Ole" Olsen, playing his third season, was admittedly one of the best men the Conference has seen in recent years. He took up Levis' burden as captain the second semester, and carried the honors becomingly. "Ole" made all-Conference twice in succession by hard, faithful, brilliant work. Many a victory was directly the result of his accurate passing and dribbling, his great speed and remarkable stamina. He starred consistently, but in his last appearance here, against Minnesota, the fans saw him at his best. Besides his basketball laurels, Olsen won his "W" at halfback last Fall, was president of the Junior class, and also presiding officer of the Athletic Board of Control.

GEORGE LEVIS

All-Conference honors for two years made "Windy Levis the logical choice for captain. His record of being the highest individual point-getter in the Big Nine for two years might have been raised to three, except for his graduation in February. The closest guarded man in the Conference, Levis dazzled the opposition with his dribbling and passing, and life became sweeter to many a guard when he finished. "Windy" had the forward game down to a science, through his enthusiastic and conscientious devotion to it, and basketball and baseball both lose heavily in his passing.

WILLIAM CHANDLER

"Bill" Chandler is one of the best floor men in the Conference—steady, reliable, heady, and good in both offense and defense. He jumped center for the Conference champions as a sophomore, but scholastic shortcomings kept him out the first half of this year. "Bill" delivered, when the second semester gave him to the squad in exchange for Levis, and without his stellar work we might have lost both the Minnesota and Northwestern games. "Bill" is a member of the Athletic Board, president of the Junior class and of the "W" club, and one of the best basketball prospects for next season.

GEORGE CARLSON

"Pete" Carlson deserves more credit than he ever received for his steady, consistent work. He met all comers impartially, as defensive guard, and time and again turned a hostile rally the other way. "Pete" is a shining example of what Dr. Meanwell can make of a man who wants to stick and learn the game. His masterful defense and his accurate passing, together with some timely shots, went a long way toward the Minnesota and Indiana victories. Watch "Pete" for all-Conference honors next season.

PAUL MEYERS

"Paulie" Meyers, ex-football Captain, proved just about as good a running guard as an end. Under Dr. Meanwell's directions he developed rapidly into a guard who could take care of the best of forwards. His guarding of Ralph Woods of Illinois and Stadsvold of Minnesota won him his spurs. Meyers' strong points are his quick thinking, equally quick acting, and clever footwork. He returns next year, and gives promise of helping Carlson form one of the best guarding pairs in the Conference.

CHARLES McINTOSH

"Chick" McIntosh was the man chosen to play forward opposite Captain Levis, and he made good. Handicapped by lack of experience, and confronted by unusually good guards, he made them all hustle, turning out to be one of Wisconsin's best point-getters. The Illinois and Chicago games, especially the one at Chicago, saw McIntosh at this best. "Chick" is a likeable fellow, extremely popular, and with a year of valuable experience behind him, he should make his mark in his senior year.

VICTOR HEMMING

Probably the most difficult job on the team fell to the lot of "Vic" Hemming—that of filling Chandler's shoes at center, with practically no experience in the middle circle. Hemming overcame this handicap by showing speed and fight and eagerness for the game, and the first Illinois and Northwestern games won him his emblem. His year of Conference experience, with Dr. Meanwell's style pretty well drilled into him, will make Hemming a strong bidder for a regular berth next year.

EBER SIMPSON

Eber entered basketball as his third major sport and made his "W" his second year out. Although football and baseball are his favorite sports, he proved one of our best defensive guards this winter, able to stick to the fastest men he was set to watch. Eber is the best all-around athlete in school, with four letters won and another baseball emblem on the way, and another year of competition still before him. The fans count him as one of the men who will help us get back the title next year.

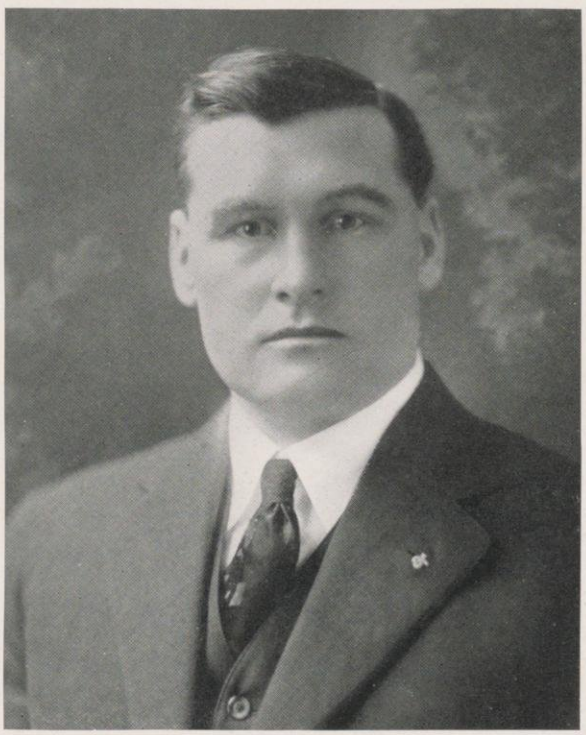
The Track Season

CAPTAIN HARVEY'S calling together of the track team for its 1916 outdoor season, brought forth such men as Mucks, Schardt, Williams, Nelson, C. B. Smith, Merrill, Field, Benish, Felten, Carter, L. Smith, Burke, and Casey. With these veterans as a foundation, and with the addition of a fair amount of new material, Coach Jones set to work to develop another championship team.



Coach Jones

In April the Wisconsin track team opened its season by sending representatives to the Drake Relays and to the Pennsylvania games. At Drake, the Badger runners won the four mile, the mile, and the half mile, breaking the world's record in the half mile. At the Pennsylvania games Wisconsin scored more points than any other school, wininng the American long-distance medley, and taking second place in the four-mile relay, third place in the sprint medley, and fourth place in the mile relay. In addition, Burke won the 440 yard hurdles, and Carman Smith took second place in the century.

These special relay meets over, Coach Jones turned his attention to the dual meets with Purdue, Minnesota, and Illinois. Purdue and Minnesota were easily taken into camp, but in the Illinois meet the Badgermen were beaten by the points decided by the javelin throw—a new event for Wisconsin. The stage was then set for the Conference meet, with Wisconsin and Illinois the ruling favorites. The meet was one of the most hotly contested in the fifteen years of the event's existence; the result hanging in the balance up to the closing moments. Finally, luck broke favorably and Captain Harvey and his cohorts came through with a clean cut victory, scoring 49 points, while Illinois, Wisconsin's nearest contender, garnered 35¾ points.

With another championship added to the one secured last year, it is with unusual interest that Wisconsin will be watched this spring. A triumph in 1917, thus making three consecutive championships, will give Wisconsin the coveted loving cup which has been in the Conference for fifteen years, and which will be given to the school winning the championship three years in succession.

CAPTAIN HARVEY

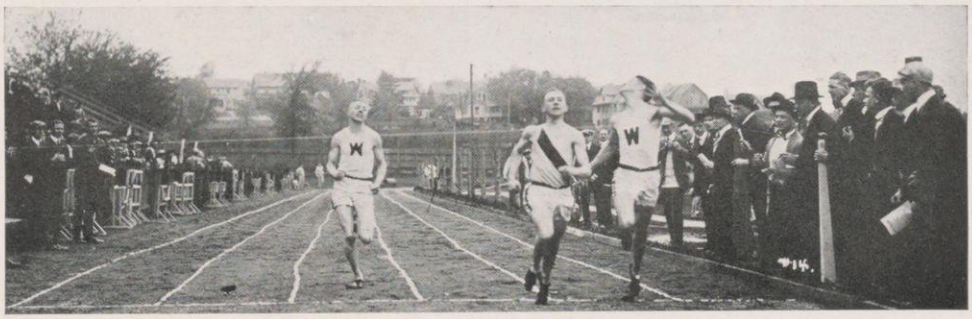
In the history of Wisconsin athletics there never has been a man more worthy of piloting our track team than Dow Harvey. Clean-cut and likeable, hard working, always in training, game to the core, and an excellent student, he represents the ideal type of athlete. For two years he was one of the best milers in the Conference, but last year, due to a wealth of distance runners, he changed to the half mile, and performed just as creditably there. He won this event in all of the spring meets. At the Conference he ran a remarkable race against Scott of Missouri, forcing the latter to break the Conference record to win. As a relay runner, Dow won a great deal of his fame. He was on the four mile and one mile teams at Drake, the one mile and medley at Pennsylvania, and on the winning relay team at the Conference meet. Harvey also has gained distinction as a student, having been elected to Tau Beta Pi. By his graduation our track team has suffered a loss that will be difficult to overcome.

CARMAN SMITH

Captain-elect Carman Smith, one of the best all-around track men in the West, and for that matter, in the whole country, was one of the biggest factors in making Wisconsin famous on the cinder path last spring. He is not only a star dash man but also a reliable broad jumper, low hurdler, and relay runner. In the half mile relay at Drake he ran one of his greatest races, and was in a large measure responsible for the world's record made in that event. His most brilliant achievement was at the Conference meet, where he was the individual point winner. Here Smith placed first in the 100 and 220 yard dashes and second in the broad jump. Carman is a hard and consistent worker and is in every way qualified to lead this year's team to a third Conference championship.

"BALDY" MERRILL

"Baldy" Merrill, 1915 cross country captain, and one of the best distance runners in the West, had a very successful season both in cross country and out door track last year. He was on the record-breaking four-mile relay team at Drake, and was one of the four at Pennsylvania who forced Cornell's men to break the world's record before they won the four-mile relay. He ran the two-mile in most of the spring meets, always finishing one, two, or three. "Baldy" was not only a good track man—he was a "Phi Bete" as well and is one of the few men who can wear a "W" and a golden key at the same time.



CARTER AND PETERSON IN THE HUNDRED

ARLIE MUCKS

Who is there in the whole sport world who has not heard of Arlie Mucks of Wisconsin? Breaking records is Arlie's favorite pastime and there is no doubt that some of his records will stand for a long time to come. Ever since he represented the United States in the discus throw at the Olympic games held in Sweden in 1912, Mucks has been the foremost weight thrower of the country. For the past two years, he has won first place in the discus throw and the shot put at the Conference meet. He is also a point winner in the hammer throw. He holds the world's record in the discus throw—155 feet, 8 inches, and has a record of 49 feet. 4½ inches in the 16 pound shot put. He is the first man that has ever won two national championships for two consecutive years. Mucks accomplished this by winning national championships in the discus throw and the shot put at San Francisco in 1915 and repeating the trick at Newark, N. J., in 1916.

MEAD BURKE

In prep school, Mead Burke was a quarter-miler, but here at Wisconsin he adapted himself to the hurdles. Judging from the results, we have no cause to be sorry for the change. He is equally good in both the low and high hurdles. His most brilliant achievement of the year was at the Pennsylvania races, where he combined his prep school training with college coaching, and won the national 440 yard low hurdle race. He was a member of the Drake championship mile relay team. He will be a great asset to the team this year, both as a hurdler and as a relay man.

LYN SMITH

Lyn Smith, of football and basketball fame, showed his ability as an all-around athlete by continuing his good work in track. He is not only a good pole-vaulter, winning first place in the Purdue meet, but he was also one of Wisconsin's broad jumpers and could usually be depended upon to jump far enough to add a point or two to Wisconsin's total in any Conference meet. Lyn has more "W's" than he knows what to do with, being a three-sport man.

START OF THE QUARTER-MILE

THIRD IN THE HIGH HURDLES

ARLIE SCHARDT

Arlie Schardt, besides being Wisconsin's best cross country runner and captain of the cross country team, is also one of the foremost milers in the West. He was always ambitious to become a great runner and by hard work and persistence he has developed into one of Wisconsin's greatest track men. Arlie was always sure of a place. In the Illinois meet he ran a wonderful race against Mason, forcing him to break the Conference record in order to win the mile. He also won second in the half-mile in this meet. At the Conference, the mile was his feature race, for he was matched against Mason of Illinois and Fall of Oberlin. The terrific pace was almost too much for him, but he stuck, and finished a close third. We expect great things from him this year, for he should be the best miler in the Conference.

"BILL" CARTER

"Bill" Carter came to us with a brilliant prep school record, and he has certainly lived up to his reputation. His World's Interscholastic record in the 220 yard dash still remains unchallenged. Since he was a sophomore, last spring was "Bill's" first year on our track team, but his work was always like that of a veteran. He was usually sure of a first or second in the 220 yard dash. He placed in the Conference meet in this event, being beaten only by inches. He deserves a great deal of credit for his work as a member of Wisconsin's championship one-half mile and medley relay teams. "Bill" Carter is not in school this year, and we miss him. Here's hoping he comes back.

"LOUIE" KREUZ

Louis Kreuz, Varsity full-back, proved his athletic versatility by winning his "W" in track last spring. During the indoor season he worked in the dashes and hurdles, and when the squad got outside he kept it up for a time, but the unusual supply of good dash men was too much for him. However, he took a fancy to the javelin throw, and after some hard practice in this event he went to the Conference meet and placed second in a field of experienced throwers. He should be even better this year and Wisconsin can undoubtedly depend on "Louie" for some points in this year's Conference meet.

WILLIAMS AND HARVEY WIN QUARTER MILE

"SPEED" WILLIAMS

For three years, Wisconsin track fans have watched the sturdy legs of Ray, alias "Speed" Williams, and wondered how he managed to tear around the track the way he did. He was without a doubt one of the classiest quarter-milers in the Conference last year. As anchor man on our championship mile relay team he proved absolutely reliable. Perhaps one of "Speed's" greatest achievements was accomplished in the Illinois meet last spring when he won the 440 yard dash after a hard race, and immediately after, because Wisconsin needed a few more points to win the meet, he went into the half mile, and with a remarkable display of nerve and endurance, he nosed out two Illinois men for third place. "Speed" made Dismond shatter the intercollegiate record to beat him in the 440 at the Conference meet. It was a great race, and he was beaten only by a few inches. Williams was a hard, consistent worker and a sure point winner. His loss will be keenly felt by the Varsity this year.

TOM CASEY

Tom Casey was one of the best sprinters Wisconsin ever had, the 100 yard dash being his favorite race. He first gained prominence indoors, but when the squad got outside, his work was even better. As a member of our champion relay team he deserves unusual credit. Tom was injured toward the close of the season, and was thereby unable to show his best form in the Illinois and Conference meets. He is back in school this semester and he should be a favorite in the dashes this spring.

GEORGE BENISH

Benish was another of our crack cross country runners and was also a mainstay in the two-mile and the mile. He was a member of our successful four-mile relay team at Drake and Pennsylvania. He ended up a very successful season by placing second in the two-mile at the Conference. Benish always ranked with Mason of Illinois and Watson of Minnesota—these three being the best two-milers in the Conference—and he always succeeded in winning his share of points in "The Baby Marathon."

"SPIKE" HUSTON

"Spike" Huston, pole vaulter and high jumper for three years, did unusually good work during the indoor season. In showing us the art of horseback riding in the U. W. circus, however, he fell from his horse and broke his ankle. This put him out of commission for almost the remainder of the season. Nevertheless, "Spike" came out and tried against Illinois, but his ankle was too weak. He went to the Conference meet still limping. There he displayed one of the greatest exhibitions of Wisconsin spirit that has been seen in many a day. He realized that he was only good for one jump in the pole vault. If he could clear 12 feet, he knew he would place and would add that much more to the growing championship score. He waited until the bar reached 12 feet, and then, without any previous warming up, he made the mighty effort to get over. He cleared the bar, but in coming down he barely brushed it, and knocked it off. That was "Spike's" last effort for Wisconsin. He was carried from the field. It is such spirit that won the championship for the Cardinal. We are proud of "Spike" Huston, and we regret that he is not with us this year.

HILBERT FELTEN

Felten is another of our best cross country runners, he being on the championship team of 1915. His specialty was the two-mile run and in this event he put up some great races last year. He was a good running mate for Benish, the two-mile being well taken care of by this pair. Owing to parental objections, Felten is not in track this year and his loss is a blow to this year's track team as it was to the 1916 cross country team.

"PETE" PETERSON

It didn't take "Pete" long to make himself known at Wisconsin. He went out for track in his Freshman year with a vengeance and a year later was awarded his "W." For a Sophomore, "Pete" made a wonderful record last year. He placed in every 100 and 220 yard dash he entered. In the Conference he ran two beautiful races, placing a close third in the 100 and fourth in the 220 yard dash. "Pete" was likewise one of the quartet of relay stars that made history for Wisconsin at Drake and Pennsylvania. He is with us again this year, stronger than ever and more ambitious. Keep your eye on the "Lanky Swede."

BENISH GETS SECOND IN THE TWO-MILE

"SLIM" NELSON

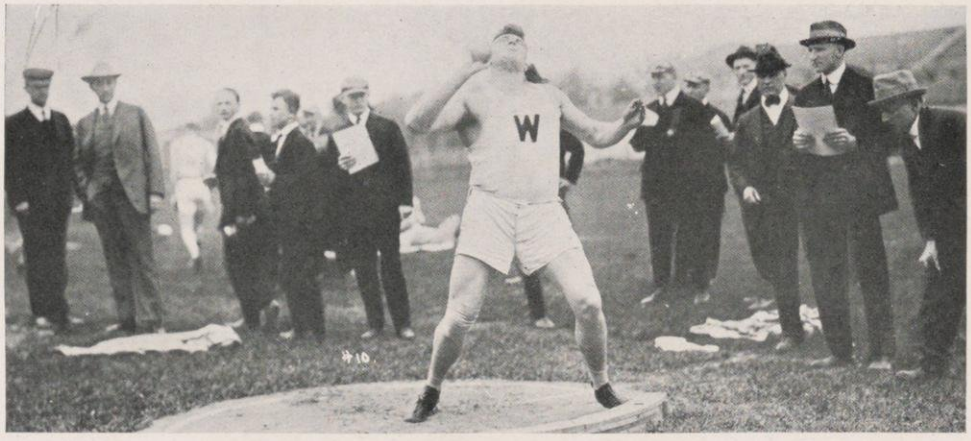
Every winning track team must be well supported with long legs. "Slim" Nelson did this part by supplying seven or eight feet of legs last spring. He was our best high jumper, and by constant work and lots of fight, he won a great many points for Wisconsin. His best performance was in the Illinois meet, when he tied with Webster for first place, both men clearing the bar at six feet, one half inch. Les should be the class of the Conference in the high jump this year.

HARRY FIELD

Harry Field is another of our reliable relay men. In his other events, the 440 yard and the broad jump, he was unfortunate in being outclassed by his team mates, Williams and Smith, but he showed his worth in the Conference relay. He was lead-off man in this event, and he ran a beautiful race. Field's record is another example of what hard work and perseverance can accomplish on the track. He has improved steadily each year until he is really one of the most reliable men on the team.

HARRY HEINTZEN

Heintzen, Burke's running mate in the hurdles, was one of the most reliable men on the 1916 team. With Burke, Albright, and Smith, he completed a very formidable quartet of hurdlers that helped greatly in placing Wisconsin on top. His indoor work was exceptionally good, his speed in the 40 yard high hurdles made him a joint holder of the Annex record in that event. His presence on the team this year will be a great help, and we expect a great deal from him in both the high and the low hurdles.



MUCKS WINS THE SHOT-PUT

"EDDIE" SCHRANK

"Eddie" is another football man who has learned to throw the javelin. This field event is fast becoming popular in the Conference, and is now slated as a regular part of most of the meets. "Eddie" went for it with heart and soul, and toward the end of the season was showing remarkable form. In the Conference meet he placed fourth, competing with many experienced throwers. With two more seasons ahead of him, he should be a great help to our track teams.

AXEL FORSBERG

Axel Forsberg, although not as brilliant a track star as some of his team-mates, was a hard worker, consistent and faithful. He went out for track because he liked it and he stuck to it until he was successful in winning his letter in his Senior year. Axel's best race was the half mile, and he could always be depended upon to make a good showing in this event.

GEORGE BOOTH

George Booth has represented Wisconsin in athletics for three years. Besides being a "W" man in track, he was a good basketball player, a member of the football squad and a good swimmer. George has won points in track for Wisconsin in each of the three years he competed—his specialty being the hammer throw. He graduated in 1916.

The Conference Meet

A SECOND consecutive Conference championship topped off a wonderful out-door season for Coach Jones' men. Wisconsin finished the Conference meet at Evanston with 49 points, Illinois took second with 35¾ points, Chicago third with 20¾, and Missouri fourth with 20¼, followed in order by California, Purdue, Mississippi A. C., Kansas, Notre Dame, Minnesota, Oberlin, Indiana, Northwestern, Ames, and Ohio State.

A well-balanced team, led by that worthy trio, Smith, Mucks, and Harvey, scored in every event but one, and finished up an afternoon of success by winning the relay. Smith of the Wisconsin team won first individual honors, and Mucks broke one of the six Conference records of the day; so, all in all, life was quite pleasant to Coach Jones on that particular third day of June.

Carman Smith beat his old rival, Hohman of Illinois, in both the 100- and 220-yard events, and then won second in the broad jump. Simpson of Missouri was his nearest rival for individual honors, winning both hurdles and fourth in the broad jump.

Mucks hung up a new record, as usual, in the discus throw, and also took first in the shot put. Liversedge of California, set a new shot put record but was disqualified. Mucks got the points, but turned the trophy over to the coast athlete, who was thrown out on a technicality.

Captain Harvey ran a beautiful half-mile, but lost by inches to Scott, the phenom from the Mississippi Ag college. The Badger distance men pushed their rivals hard and picked off seconds in the long grinds, and Peterson and Carter each bagged a third and a fourth in the dashes. Huston's lame ankle permitted of only one try in the pole vault, and Spike barely missed in his single leap at 12 feet.

The relay was the most sensational event of the meet. Field led off and beat the pick of Conference starters to the lead. Carter and Smith added to Field's lead in their relays, and gave Williams, the anchor man, a reasonable lead over Binga Dismond, the Chicago colored marvel. Ray held his own and romped over the line a winner.

The Drake Relays

COACH "Tom" Jones' cinder-path artists made the first of their three great showings of the 1916 out-door season in the relay classic at Drake University. They won the three major relays at Drake, and startled the West by shattering one world's record and two university records in a single afternoon.

Wisconsin's half-mile relay quartet—Smith, Peterson, Carter, and Casey—set a new world's record of 1:28 4-5. Each man negotiated his 220 well under 23 seconds, and the quartet set up a mark that will be hard to beat.

The four-mile team—Captain Harvey, Schardt, Merrill, and Benish—had to go against its own record of a year previous. The milers gave Wisconsin her second win of the day, clipping a full second off their 1915 record, and setting a mark of 18:03 2-5. Michigan's touted four-mile team was among those who saw the Badgers set their new record.

The quarter-milers, representing Wisconsin, made it a clean sweep for the Cardinal in the mile relay the same afternoon. Captain Harvey led off, Burke and Williams took the middle quarters, and Smith of the half-mile team finished, and when he broke the tape another university record had fallen. The quartet had covered the mile in 3:31 1-5.

Needless to say, Wisconsin's performances were by far, the most noteworthy of the meet, and the first Wisconsin team that competes at Drake after this and fails to break any records, won't look natural to the Iowans. The showing of the ten cinder stars at Drake made it imperative that Wisconsin be represented at the Pennsylvania meet, the results of which proved the Drake winners to be real champions.

The Pennsylvania Meet

WISCONSIN relay teams won first in only one distance at Philadelphia, but the individual performances of the Badger athletes carried the team through to leading honors in the big eastern classic. Arlie Mucks, star discus and weight man, went along with the winners of the Drake relays, and the combination proved effective against the best track teams of eastern universities.

Mucks gave the easterners a couple of new marks to throw at, when he bagged two firsts for individual honors in the meet. This member of the 1912 American Olympic team won the discus throw and repeated in the shot put. He threw the discus 145 feet, 11¾ inches, for a record nine inches better than Duncan's old collegiate record. His heave of 48 feet, 1½ inches, won the shot put hands down. It is interesting to note, in this connection, that Mucks' eastern discus record is over nine feet shorter than the record he set against Illinois the following month.

Wisconsin's medley relay team won their race handily, Pennsylvania being their most dangerous rival. Merrill ran the mile, Captain Harvey the half-mile, Williams the quarter, and Smith the furlong.

Mead Burke won Wisconsin's fourth victory, at Penn., scoring first in the quarter-mile hurdle race by a comfortable margin.

Carman Smith of Wisconsin and Smith of Michigan had a great race in the century dash, and the Wolverine broke the tape at the end of a pretty 100 yards with the Badger sprinter a good second.

Second place in the half-mile relay was the best Wisconsin could score. Carter, Burke, Williams, and Smith ran, and only a yard separated Smith from Ted Meredith, the Penn. star, at the tape.

The four-mile team failed to duplicate its Drake speed on the eastern track, and Cornell and Michigan teams finished ahead of the Wisconsin quartet.

The meet was a feature event, and team scores were not counted. Pennsylvania was the only team in a class with Wisconsin's little squad in picking off points, however.

The Indoor Track Season

WISCONSIN opened her 1917 indoor track season in a dual meet with Notre Dame. The Badger team, captained by Carman Smith, and made up of such well tried men as Schardt, Golden, Burke, Casey, Peterson, Nelson and Field, went into the contest the acknowledged favorites. Contrary to expectations, however, Wisconsin, weakened by the loss of Mucks in the shot-put and of Harvey in the half mile—events ordinarily going to the Badgers—was defeated to the tune of 48 to 38.

Coach Jones

At the Illinois relays, the Wisconsin delegation, composed of but three men—Carman Smith, Tom Casey, and Mead Burke—won third place. Carman Smith took individual honors, scoring eleven points in three events.

On March 10, the Annex witnessed a spectacular struggle in the shape of the Wisconsin-Illinois dual meet. Until near the end of the meet Wisconsin led by a narrow margin, secured through the remarkable work of Carman Smith in the dashes and broad jump, Schardt and Burr in the distances, and Chase in the shot-put. In the high jump and pole vault, however, Illinois came back strong, tying the score. In the final event of the meet, the relay, Captain Smith, starting with a slight handicap, raced Spink of Illinois to a dead heat, making the final tally 47½–47½.

In the windup of the indoor track season, Chicago won the Conference championship by a series of remarkable performances that resulted in the establishment of several new records. The Midwayites scored 38 points to Illinois 23 and Wisconsin's 20. Point winners for Wisconsin were Schardt, first in the mile run; Smith, first in the 50 yard dash; Burke, second in the 60 yard high hurdles, Andrews, fourth in the hurdles; Endres, tied for second in the pole vault; Burr, fourth in the two mile run; and Casey, fourth in the 50 yard dash. In the relay, Wisconsin beat out Illinois for third place, Chicago and Northwestern taking first and second places, respectively.

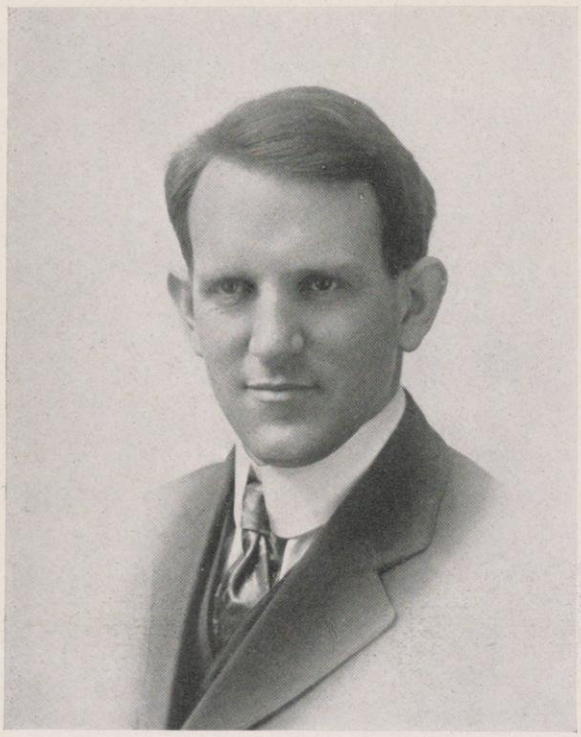
Review of the Season

THE beginning of the Cross Country season found only three veterans available as a necleus for a squad—Captain Arlie Schardt, Demmer Golden, and Stuart Lawson. From the showing made in the preliminary practice, Schardt, Golden, Lawson, Dayton, Brann and Johnson won the right to constitute the sextette to race the Minnesota runners. They met the Gophers November fourth and came successfully through the first test of the season, winning by a close margin.



Coach White

After the victory in the dual meet, the work of the squad was directed towards preparation for the conference race at Purdue. Although cold weather and snow were a serious handicap to progress, practice was held daily. By reason of his showing during previous seasons and in the Minnesota meet, Captain Schardt was regarded as the favorite. Consequently it dampened the spirits of the team considerably when he was injured by a fall on the ice, just a few days before the Purdue meet. Despite the injury to his leg, Schardt refused to stay out, and ran a splendid race, as did the whole Wisconsin team. The lineup was slightly different from that of three weeks before, Burr and Crothers displacing Johnson and Brann in the final meet. The Conference race was faster and harder fought than usual, and the Purdue team deserves great credit for winning the championship. The Wisconsin team ran a good race and were in the running all the time.

During the season several intra-mural contests were held. These helped to bring out a number of good runners, hitherto unknown. The material seems very promising for next year, and the 1917 team will make a strong bid for championship honors, with Golden, Dayton, Brann and Burr of this year's team back in the harness.

Captain Schardt's place will be a hard one to fill, however, as will those of Lawson, Johnson, and Crothers, the other seniors on the team. Next year's team is confronted with the difficult task of regaining the Conference leadership, which Wisconsin lost after several championship seasons, and Coach White must be given a big squad to work on if he is to turn the trick.

The Baseball Season

PROSPECTS for a successful 1916 baseball season were anything but encouraging at the beginning of practice last year. With only five veterans—Captain Boulware, Pederson, Levis, Moon, and Slaby—back, and the pitching staff deplorably weak due to the loss of all the pitchers but "Herb" Moon, Coach Lewis faced the difficult task of developing from the fifty or more raw recruits an aggregation strong enough to face such teams of veterans as Illinois and Chicago were putting on the diamond.

COACH LEWIS

Because of the lateness of the season and the unfavorable weather, there was very little chance for outdoor practice before the spring trip. However, from his recruits, Coach Lewis selected a squad which completed the Spring training trip with encouraging success—losing but one game in seven.

During the Conference season, the team made a very creditable showing, winning four out of ten games. The boys worked hard and faithfully at all times, although there was a lack of unity and "completeness" that comes only with an experienced team full of confidence.

The prospects for the 1917 season were only fair when practice was called in the Gym Annex late in February.

MANAGER MELAND

The 1916 Baseball Team

"LEM" BOULWARE

Captain "Lem" Boulware, center-fielder on the team for the past three years, proved himself a worthy leader of the 1916 team. His record of hard work and consistent playing marks him as one of Wisconsin's best outfielders. Early in the season he injured his throwing arm and was thereby kept out of several of the Conference games. It will be hard to fill the position left vacant by the graduation of "Bull."

"OS" FOX

Captain-elect "Os" Fox deserves great credit for the record he made last year both behind the bat and as a hitter. Although a new man on the team, he soon showed himself to be one of our most reliable men and at the end of the season had a batting average of 316 for Conference games. He has a good arm and an abundance of "pep," and he should be one of the best catchers in the Conference this year.

"PETE" PEDERSON

"Pete" held down a position in Wisconsin's infield for two years and each year was recognized as one of the best players in the Conference. He was as good with the stick as he was at short-stop and in 1916, he led the team in hitting with an average of 361. Pederson was a cool, heady player and his graduation leaves a big hole in Wisconsin's infield.

The Illinois Game

"HERB" MOON

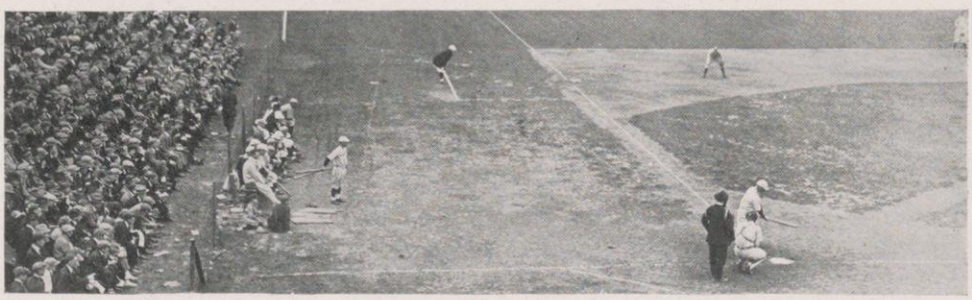
"Herb" Moon was easily our most reliable pitcher last year. A veteran of three years, he never failed to pitch a good game and he always could be depended upon to take his regular turn on the slab. To him Wisconsin owes a large percentage of her victories, for his control and curves were always a constant source of worry to opposing batsmen. Unlike most twirlers, "Herb" was a good hitter, and was very apt to break up a game at any time with a timely hit. By his graduation the team suffered a loss by no means easy to fill.

"WINDY" LEVIS

George Levis gained his baseball experience on Madison's corner-lots and as soon as he was eligible for Varsity play, he had little trouble in qualifying for the third base job. His fielding was more consistent than his hitting, although he was a good man to get on bases by the base-on-balls route. "Windy" was a clown on the coaching line, where his antics were at the same time the despair of the "umps" and the delight of the fans.

"SHORTY" SLABY

After playing second base for two years, "Shorty" was transferred to right field in 1916, where he performed in most of last season's Conference games. Although he was not a heavy hitter, his hits came at opportune times and made him feared by more than one Conference hurler. Slaby was an unusually good base-runner, notwithstanding his short legs.



Behind the Team

EBER SIMPSON

The first appearance of Eber in a baseball suit convinced the followers of the game that he was a "find." He was one of the most versatile players on the team, being able to play any position with equal facility. Eber was one of the best first basemen in the Conference and, although not a 300 hitter, his long drives won several games for Wisconsin. A feature of his playing was his base-running, the second Notre Dame game being won by Eber stealing home in the ninth inning. He should be one of the stars of the Conference again this spring.

"GORDIE" REESE

"Gordie" Reese was another man who made good in his first year on the team. A broken ankle kept him from playing during his first year out, but his all-around playing last season won him his "W." "Gordie" started the season with four hits in the Chicago game, but towards the end of the season he had a batting slump that kept him out of the select 300 class. He played a good fielding game in left field and led the team in the number of sacrifice hits made.

"LEFTY" NEUENSCHWANDER

Early in his sophomore year, "Lefty" proved himself a pitcher of Varsity caliber. Good control and coolness in the pinches made him reliable at all times, especially as a relief man. Trouble with his arm and heavy work in the Law shop made him less active during his last two years, but he could always be depended upon to pitch a good game when called upon.

"POKY" BRENNAN

"Poky" Brennan, by his all-around playing, proved himself one of the best men on the 1916 team. Although a new man on the team, he displayed the coolness of a veteran and won the distinction of being the only infielder in the Conference to play errorless ball all season. With two more years of Varsity eligibility, "Poky" should be one of the mainstays of Wisconsin baseball teams.

MARTIN KLOSER

Martin Kloser deserves great credit for his loyalty and hard work. Early in the baseball season, he injured his arm while stepping backwards off an auto, and as a result he was kept out of many games. "Marty" kept the team talked up every minute and was an able man behind the bat and with the stick.

The Naval Season

WITH inter-collegiate rowing abolished at Wisconsin, Coach Vail had necessarily to confine his crew work this year to intra-mural and inter-class rowing. Several intra-mural crews were formed and races between them staged. A Freshman crew was formed and whipped into excellent shape, and later, a so-called "Varsity" crew was created, made up of men picked from the intra-mural crews. At the close of the season this Varsity crew raced the Freshman crew, winning a hotly contested battle from the latter in a burst of old-time Wisconsin form.

Contrary to the expectations of many, a great deal of interest was shown by the students in crew work. Much good material turned out, and excellent Varsity and Freshman crews were developed.

As careful and as thorough training was given these crews as was given former Badger crews, and so far as could be determined, there resulted no serious detriment to the health of the oarsmen. Indeed, a gratifying number of the men was found to be in an improved physical condition at the end of the season, and this wealth of well-trained material should lend much to the prospects for equally good crews this year. To meet this continued enthusiasm for crew work, the old Varsity boat house was rebuilt and considerable new equipment was installed.

The school as a whole, faculty as well as students, seemed to show a keen interest in the rowing situation,—the prevalent feeling being that, the barriers of false prejudice swept away, Wisconsin will once more enter the lists of inter-collegiate rowing, and, under the experienced coaching of "Dad" Vail, will resume her role as the greatest rowing school of the West.

The Forensic Season

Zischke
Burlingame
Kinne

THE season just closed marks an enhanced interest in forensics comparable to the most favorable season in recent years. Both within the literary societes and in the inter-class and intercollegiate contests enthusiasm waxed high. The inter-literary rivalry of old held its usual position of prominence. The contest for the banner which is presented annually by President Van Hise to the literary society showing the greatest advancement in forensics was more closely contested than in many years. The record of Athenae in winning the banner for six consecutive years has been broken by its accession to Philomathia. The number of forensic "W's" awarded was larger than in any previous year.

The joint debate was admittedly one of the best heard here for some time. The importance and interest attached to the proposition discussed, as well as the constituency of the two teams, made the event one of the most noted of the student body, and served as a stimulus for a continuing season of progress. Hesperia upheld the affirmative of Federal Ownership of a Merchant Marine against Philomathia. The decision, which was 3 to 2 for the affirmative, came as a result of an intense clash on the part of the two closers, Black for Hesperia and Burlingame for Philomathia.

The intercollegiate events were marked by an addition of debates which has enlarged the scope of Wisconsin contests to a virtual nation-wide position. Ohio State, Minnesota, Texas and Southern California are the new universities added to this year's schedule. The old triangle league of Wisconsin, Michigan and Illinois continues. At the conclusion of the latter debates, three men are chosen from the six taking part, to make up the team which takes the trip to Southern California. This team is in the nature of a prize for the men considered as having done the best work in the original intercollegiate debates. The same arrangement holds for the Ohio State and Minnesota teams, the prize in this case being a team of two which meets Texas here.

The Agricultural triangle of Wisconsin, Minnesota and Iowa continues also, and promises to blossom out into the most prominent group of agricultural debating contests staged in the country.

The oratorical contest brought out the usual display of talent and ability among the contestants. Mr. Milo Swanton represented Wisconsin at Urbana, Illinois, in the N. O. L. contest, which maintained its usual standard of excellence. Mr. Edward Livingston, winner of both the Senior Open and the Final Contests, will be Wisconsin's representative at Minneapolis this year in the N. O. L. contest. Mr. Leroy Burlingame, winner of the Junior Ex and of second place in the Final, represents Wisconsin in the Hamiltonian Oratorical Contest at Chicago.

Thus the fame of Wisconsin forensics has spread to new and previously unexplored regions, marking a new epoch in its history. These facts are a fitting commendation to the work of the Forensic Board, since it has been through its untiring efforts that forensics was enabled to maintain its position in student life.

The Military Department

DURING the past two years there has been a decided increase in the interest shown in military drill in the University. This year there is an absence of the continual prodding of the freshmen by the sophomores, which formerly caused the yearlings to dislike the work. To Captain P. G. Wrightson, U. S. A., is due the credit for instilling this spirit into the cadet corps. He served for three years as the Commandant of the Cadet Corps of the University of Wisconsin, and in 1916, was sent to his company with General Pershing, in Mexico.

MAJOR CRAIN

Last fall two men were appointed to take the position vacated by Captain Wrightson. They were Major Charles F. Crain, U. S. A., and First Lieutenant William J. Fitzmaurice, U. S. A.

Major Crain was graduated from the United States Military Academy, at West Point, N. Y., in 1894. He was commissioned a Major on June 18, 1916, and detailed as Professor of Military Science and Tactics at the University of Wisconsin on October 2, 1916. He is a distinguished graduate of the Army School of the Line, and a graduate of the Army Staff College. He has been in the army for twenty-three years.

Assistant Commandant Fitzmaurice was graduated from West Point in 1908. In 1914 he was appointed First Lieutenant in the Twenty-third Infantry. He has been in the army for nine years, and in March of this year was promoted to the rank of Captain.

Annual Inspection

ANOTHER distinguished class won! And the cadet corps of the University of Wisconsin is rated as the best of the fifty odd corps in the Land Grant colleges in the United States! The formal inspection of the corps took place in the morning, lasting from eight o'clock until noon, when the seventeen events which had been prepared were exhibited. All of the units were graded as excellent or good. The only place where the corps received a rather low grade was in appearance, due to part of the corps appearing in blue and part in olive drab uniform.

In the afternoon the corps exhibited in a maneuver the theory that had been taught by Captain Wrightson. The Middleton troops, led by Colonel Kenneth C. King, advanced across the marsh upon an inferior force led by Colonel Owen C. Loynes, which was defending the construction of trenches in the rear. The points of attack were narrowed to two points—the bridge on University Drive and the bridge on the cinder road. The engineer corps rebuilt the bridges, blown up by the retreating troops, but they were too late—the trenches had been completed. Throughout the entire movement, the defense made effective use of the two machine guns at its command.

MERKEL EXPLAINS PLANS OF SENATE TO CONFERENCE

President Van Hise Speaks On "General Philosophy in Government of University"

COMMITTEES ARE ELECTED

Open Meeting Today at 12:45 To Discuss the New Constitution

At the Student Conference meeting last evening Harold Merkel presented the report of the Constitution committee, which was supplemented by a talk on the "General Philosophy in Government of the University" by President Van Hise. On account of lack of time to draw up a constitution to go with the charter, a constitution was not presented at this meeting.

Explains Charter

Mr. Merkel explained the new charter article by article and section by section. He made three main points, which the first was, that "the charter article II does embody ... ver from the faculty ... ir own affairs." (b), (c), and ... centralize the Student Senate ... point for all ... The third ... mphasized ... bership in ... the con... ed to ac... ...rter.

WOMEN INVITED TO TAKE COURSE IN MILITARY UNPREPAREDNESS

"I can see no reason why the girls of the university should not form an auxiliary corps to the regiments," said Lieut. P. G. Wrightson, university commandant.

Lieutenant Wrightson was immensely pleased by the "Red Cross" contingent at the Battle of the University Bridge, as was Major MacFarland who inspected the troops.

Lieutenant Wrightson's idea is of an organized corps who would have not only Red Cross training but training in gallery shooting and marching as well.

"Every woman should know how to handle a rifle and pistol—epecially a pistol" said the commandant, and told of instances where a pistol small enough to lie in the palm of the hand might be of great value.

"Tommy" Atkins' only sorrow was that he had not known of the Red Cross expedition beforehand so that he could have arranged for field hospitals.

If twenty or so girls show desire to enter the course in Military Unpreparedness to be offered next year, Lieutenant Wrightson says they may be admitted.

You might choose your own instructor—good looking or energetic," he said, "or perhaps both."

The members of the regimental staff who are to give the course next year are Scott, Conover, H. H. Brown, Jansky, Helmer Hodges, and Hamilton.

Take your choice

Highest Fraternity Average Now Higher Than Lowest Sorority Average

For the second time since records of the marks of the fraternities have been kept, the fraternity men had an average higher than that of the non-fraternity men. The average for fraternity men is 8.8 and 80 for the non-fraternity men. Also, the highest fraternity average is no longer lower than the lowest sorority average, as heretofore. In the sororities, the highest average for last semester is one per cent lower than the highest sorority average of second semester last year. The lowest average, however, is not as low for last semester as the lowest was last year. In either the case of the active chapters of the pledges, in the sororities. The fraternity average that was lowest last year, however, was not as low as the lowest this year, the lowest last year being 78.4 per cent, and the lowest this year being 75.9 per cent.

The highest fraternity average this year was 85.1 and the highest last

Three Episodes Will Show Development of Woman's Athletics at Wisconsin

M. WAHL IS "SPIRIT OF PLAY"

Helen Barr, Faith Willcox, Ingrid Nelson, Helen Boll, Anna Heise Are Authors

The combined dramatic, literary and musical talent of the Woman's Athletic association will be expressed in the coming play "Now and Then," which has been scheduled for tomorrow evening at 7:45.

Not only has the truth been observed in the portrayal of events which happened in the maiden days of physical education for women here, but the facts have been presented in a way that promises to be exceedingly funny.

Margaret Wahl Gives Prologue

Margaret Wahl, as the Spirit of Play, will introduce the events of the first episode, in a graceful blank verse prologue. In the same character she will explain what occurs before the opening of the first gym classes under Miss Ballard. Sprightly heroic couplets have been chosen for the rhyme scheme of this, as well as the lines directly preceding the other two episodes. The epilogue is in blank verse.

A large orchestra will furnish appropriate music between each act. This is under the direction of Lucile Pritchard and will be made up of several pieces, consisting of violins, violas and other instruments.

Helen Barr has had general ...vision of the play. Miss ... has acted as faculty adv...

A Woman's Prom

Truly the suggestion for a woman's prom is a most excellent one. The women, burdened with obligations, have so few ways of paying back their friends, in fact at present the only ways possible to pay back social debts are the Glee Club dances, the S. G. A. Loan Fund party, the Mystic Circle dances, Barnard and Chadbourne dances, and the affairs given by the better organized rooming houses. And of course these have none of the pomp and splendour of a real prom.

By all means let it be considered seriously. The women's pocket books are just as fat as the men's. "It's a poor rule—etc. Best of all it would rejoice everyone to see that at last men's and women's interests and privileges at this university have reached the stage where they stand on a par.

Representative Women

of the

University of Wisconsin

WE SINCERELY hope for your approval of the pages of this, our portfolio of Representative Women. Their selection has been based, first of all, upon Spirit, — that indescribable something which makes Wisconsin what she is, which makes her live and glow in the world of today. Then, Competency has been considered an indispensable asset. Whether or not these women have proven adequate, capable, fitting in where most needed, has been the large question. And last of all, have they been judged by that severe test of Womanliness, which carries so much with it of esteem from one's fellow-men, of the power to stand for the best, and of a deep and lasting personality.

SENIORS are invited to participate in all alumni festivities—the annual meeting, the parade, the athletic stunts, the dinner, and the dance—on Alumni Day, Tuesday, June 19.

"Speed the day when every man and woman who ever attended the University is enrolled as a member of the General Alumni Association. It is one very practical way of showing your faith in the University and your desire to stand behind it."

"It is, of course, largely by the extent of the support accorded to a University by its own graduates that the world judges of the right of that university to seek the cooperation of others in planning for the future."

The Convex Mirror

THE CONVEX MIRROR

A satirical allegory representing student life and burlesquing personalities and institutions in the University of Wisconsin in Nineteen Seventeen.

If this section is not good humor,
it is at least good humored.

G. A. LOY.

IN THE SIMILITUDE OF A DREAM

In the first year of the gentle reign of Dean Goodnight, and of Grace 1917, it chanced that I attended one of Professor Elwell's lectures. And presently I fell into a deep sleep, and as I slept I dreamed a dream. And behold, I saw as in a Convex Mirror, Wisconsin's University, recognizable, yet distorted.

The Super-Intellectuals were there, and the Half-Baked Leisure Class; the Acrobats from the Collegiate Three-Ring, and the Blue-Ribbon Crowd of Munitions-Maker's Heirs; the Psalm-Singers and the Ham Club. And I awoke wondering.

Wisconsin, what a strange cosmopolitan creature thou art!

Regard now thyself in the Mirror of Caricature.

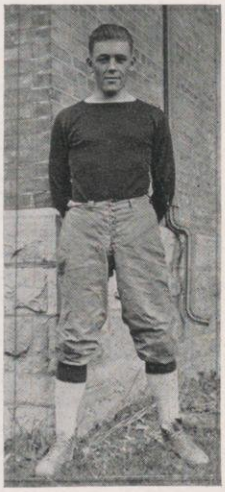
DISCIPLINE

THE SWAMP OF TOUGH LUCK

Canto the First

In which MOST-ANY-FROSH, with some parental words of wisdom and two trunks, enters the CITY OF DESTRUCTION, and starts to overcome his ignorance.

Altho we offer no Magna Charta to the Frosh, we believe that a close study of this book will help him to soften somewhat a naturally hard life.



From Jericho

There was a Frosh from Jericho,
Don't know the state, or care,
With flannel shirt, Sears-Roebuck suit,
And hayseed in his hair.
His outfit was all out of style,
But the Frosh himself was there.

Then there was another Frosh,
From some metropolis,
Who looked the part, and really was
A sweet appearing cuss.
But from pompadour to cordovan
He got beneath your crust.

Another Frosh

Now within the phantom tissue of my dream, each of these Frosh arrived in the CITY OF DESTRUCTION equally qualified for the career his parents dreamed for him; so we will consider him as a composite—ANY-FROSH.

He hurried past several horrid beer saloons and marched up King Street, the world before him, to be ladled into the Varsity Melting Pot with the darlings of a thousand other high schools.

Any-Frosh

There were no reckless, pipe-smoking, sweater-wearing, movie-style collegers in sight, and no one tempted him to do anything wrong, so his little heart beat slower. But he must be wary, for was not college a deep pit, around whose edges a Freshman must tread gingerly. He had only a week in which to find a lovely room and a sympathetic landlady, so he sought out the Y. M. C. A. Morgan's tempted and Singer beckoned, but he was resolute and finally came to the MIDWAY PLAISANCE OF PIETY.

But the Plaisance was full, so Mr. West, the GOOD-SHEPHERD, gave him their directory of rooms, and some fatherly advice.

Army Style Rushing

Another Kind of Rushing

Now it chanced that ANY-FROSH had a third cousin who was a member of the Birds of a Feather fraternity about the time of Garfield's Administration. But as his knowledge of the fraternity situation was a trifle antique, he took no chances, for his relatives' sake, and painstakingly recommended him to thirty or forty of Wisconsin's best fraternities.

So ANY-FROSH didn't choose a boarding place for a couple of weeks, but sampled fraternity menus. Finally one of them, the Caleph Aleph Umphf, strong in Waupun, being hard pressed for Frosh, offered to pledge him. He decided that if this bunch was not the best on the campus, they at least were the most discerning, and accepted. Then he strolled home, his life-size Umphf button upside-down in his lapel, pleased with himself.

But occasionally some good Frosh, with a warped sense of proportion, is spoiled by the attention lavished upon him. Some are afflicted with a mania for fussing, others run for class office, while a few become such dear friends with themselves that they are only fit for their own company. Most of them, however, remain intact.

THE BALLAD OF THE FETED FROSH

Lemm-Marugg

To Wisconsin came one day
A handsome Frosh and gay;
Chase me, girls, I'm sweet as candy, and I've come up here to stay.
For I love to dance and play,
And the frat men all will say,
"Come, Spencer, won't you join us?" And I don't know but I may.

So he went to all the dances
And returned the coed's glances—
He was from Milwaukee, and was used to taking chances.
But he wasn't taking chances,
For no coed's glance entrances,
But stunts like that the size of any Frosh's head enhances.

If a Freshman comes up here
Fond of dancing, poker, beer,
Rushing time is apt to spoil him, swell his head, jam his career.
But if he is sincere,
Not conceited, vain or queer,
It won't spoil him, it will help him. He'll develop, never fear.

Now the moral I give thee
Is that every Frosh should be
Seen—not heard, obedient, and the soul of modesty.
So just take this tip from me
And work hard for your degree,
And you'll go to Freshman heaven, where no college profs will be.

THE HAZING NUISANCE

Now I saw in my dream that a certain number from among the Frosh became too up-and-ready. The severe Sophs, the powers that sometimes be, resorted to torture to quell this mutinous spirit. So it chanced that ANY-FROSH entertained divers coeds, narrowly escaping matrimony with one portly, spectacle-wearing maiden, and was given the Mendota fever treatment. But ANY-FROSH and his co-victims had a come-back. The RUSH was for his benefit.

THE RUSH

This contest was staged on Lake Ehler one afternoon, between the hour of three, and between about a million Frosh, to hear the Sophs tell it, and a Sophomore or two. From the Freshman point of view, it wasn't exactly a success, but the Sophs used U-boat tactics, so they had an alibi.

Please, Dean, good Dean, let me stay.
My work wasn't bad—the prof's fault, you know,
Have a heart, Dean, don't chase me away.

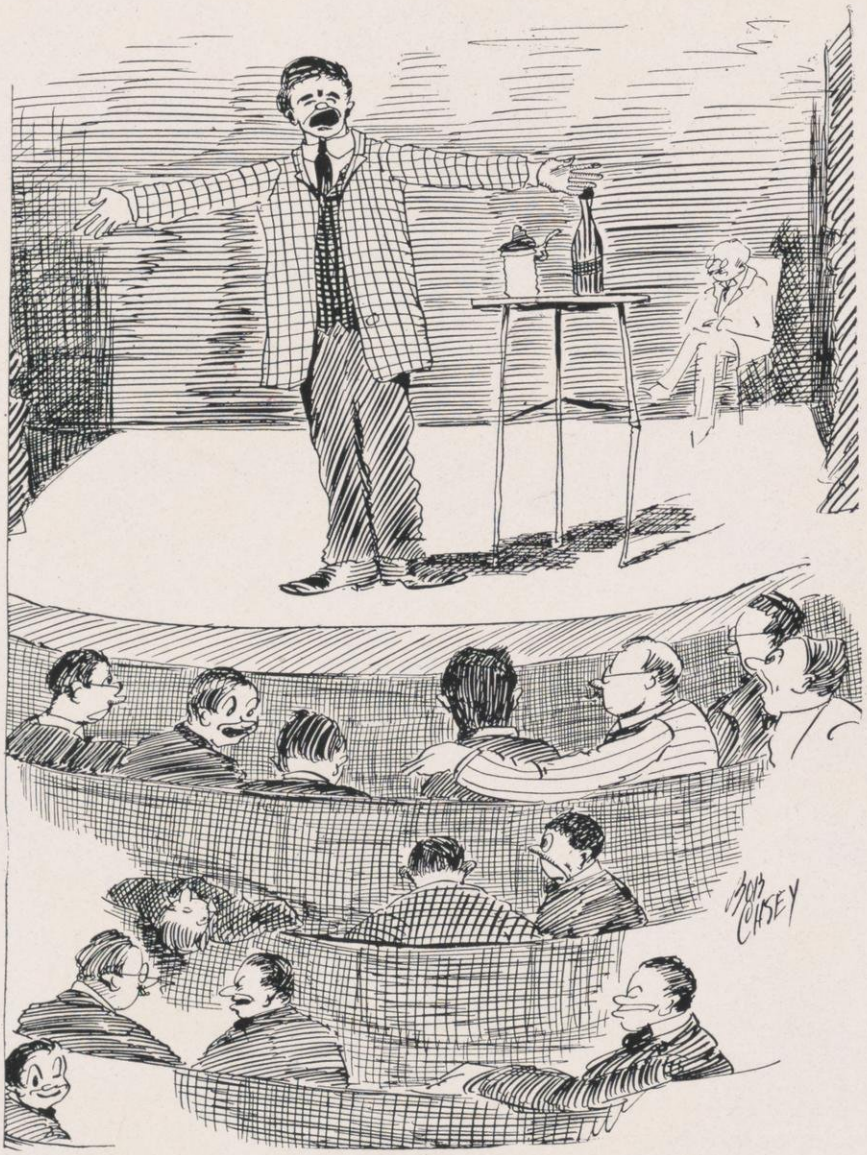
The Swamp of Tough Luck

The Treadmill of Study

WE NEED THE "LIT"



THE FOR'EM

The name is taken from the ancient Latin, probably to suggest the age of antiquity in which many of its boosters dwell. It was considered a good stunt in those days, when the busy "wop" had nothing to do but provide audiences for Cicero. And it is a good stunt now. For where else can the weighty problems of the world be solved?

THE TREADMILL OF STUDY

Canto the Second

In which ANY-FROSH becomes a galley slave on the good barque MIDNIGHT OIL. Phi Beta Kappa beckons—Probation yawns.

Including some observations upon the curious mental growth of some precocious undergraduates.

Precocious Johann

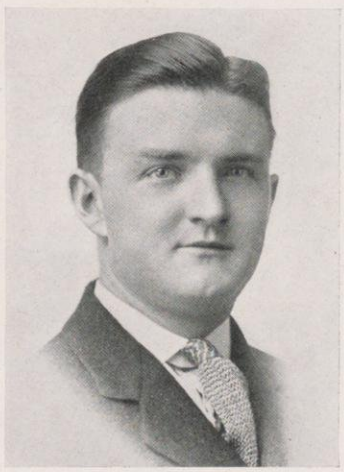
Russia's gift to Wisconsin. A genius of the first water.

It's a mighty good thing to know a lot,
But that all depends on whether or not
You get stuck up by the knowledge you've got.
For a little bit of learning goes a long, long way.

A change of scene now occurs within the polished surface of the MIRROR. The grass-colored chapeau vanishes in the smudge of an authorized bonfire, and ANY-FROSH, emancipated, stimulates a craving for learning. He becomes a fledgling highbrow.

During this stage of the progress of ANY-FROSH come divers characters to lure him from the SEATS OF LEARNING. And on the other hand are those from among the LEARNED who labor to keep him off the thin ice of sophistication and away from the scattered banana peels of indulgence that might hurl him back to the gates of IGNORANCE.

Witness first these benign influences that give him wisdom far beyond the fondest dream of the curriculum.



From Among the Learned

THE FOR'EM

Here may the student glean, in an evening, topics for a year's arguments, and go home, lulled by some infallible panacea for the ills of the world. Some of the famous speakers that the For'em has engaged are these:

Max Eastman
Billy Hohenzollern
His Highness the Shah of Persia
Henry Ford
Carrie Nation
Marjorie Adams
Johann J. Smertenko
Benedict Arnold
Nero (of Rome)

The last two speakers will be awaited with interest because of the distance they will travel to keep their appointments.

His Highness the Pshaw

TO THOSE WITH THE VISION

A clique there is within our college walls,
A cult whose membership, thank God, is few;
To whom, annointed ones, the red shirt calls,
Or Jim Jam Jems. Somewhat bohemian, too,
Aesthetic, faddish, cerebrally exalted crew:
Write silly lines and smirk and bow,
And criticise what men of genius do.
A poem in the "Lit," their name below,
They'd flunk for—each vain, shallow, near-highbrow.

Now for the "Lit."

TRIBUTE WHERE TRIBUTE IS DUE

Praise be unto Allah for these, our literary pioneers, who have saved us from an unlettered generation and an uncultured future.

Coeval with the high price of eggs and tuition, and amid the throes of these war times, to which the bulky mind of the editor felt a sympathetic thrill, the Wisconsin Truly-Literary Magazine was born;—for the simple purpose, as the editors feel compelled to admit, "of the establishment of a new era in the production of Wisconsin literature." Within the inspired bosoms of many of our fellow-students a spasm was felt, which they modestly diagnosed as a Badger Renaissance.

CASTING PEARLS BEFORE STUDENTS

In a masterly editorial in the first issue, the editors define their "goal and hope" as follows: "We wish to reflect the thought of the students of Wisconsin—". The "reflections" in the first five issues show Wisconsin thought to be composed of this heavenly manna:

Several "aesthetic" stories on food and eating.

Ultra-Something poetry. (You can imagine ultra-what.)

Tender asylum-style lyrics.

Marvelous interpretations of Turgenev, Verhaeren, and Zangwill.

Discriminations between "co-eds" and "co-edwins"; Vodka, Bock Beer, and Malted Milks.

Editorials instructing the Regents how to run the University.

RED SHIRTISM

This is the borderland between a fad and a disease. It is transplanted from the "old country," where conditions among undergraduates are explained in the "Lit," as follows:

"The history of Russian thought for the last sixty years can be traced directly through intellectual movements among the undergraduates."

"When the universities are closed, the students are in jail or on the gallows * * * Democracy is at its height."

Here in America, where "democracy is at its height," the transplanted student turns his thoughts from playing hide and seek with the hangman to other branches of revolutionary thought, perhaps no more dangerous than radicalism in art.

"We Don't Want to Start Anything, but"—

THE BALLAD OF THE INTELLECTUAL UNDERGRADUATE

In comfortless chair, before a high-piled desk,
A pallid, sad-eyed student broods; pensively dreaming;
Invoking the Muse, as he would say, vainly—
Muse answered not.

So without the pale fire of inspiration wrote
A pathetic rhyme, couched in complicated verse,
A tribute to the squirrel's lovely plumage
For the "Lit."

Then sighed he deeply; brooded yet again.
A monograph must he prepare, on Socialism.
He followed Max; the Masses was his text.
He wrote, aflame.

The student highbrow dabbles with, pretends to know
Foreign masters, Shaw, Turgenev; Modernists, Tagore;
Appreciates, prates of, and follows the fashion
Of literary conceit.

THE WHIRLPOOL OF VANITY FAIR

Canto the Third

"Good Morning"

The popular coed queries:

Convex Mirror on the wall
Who is fairest of us all?

And the Convex Mirror replies:

All coeds are of beauty rare,
Each mother thinks her daughter fair;
Convex Mirror wouldn't dare
To nominate the fairest there.

—Apologies to Old Man Grimm.

But the fair, broad stream of GOOD GRADES, upon which ANY-FROSH has been paddling, changes somewhat in its lower reaches. The BLUFFS OF SOCIETY crowd nearer, and the BOULDERS OF LAZINESS and the RAPIDS OF FUSSING obstruct the way, until the WHIRLPOOL OF VANITY FAIR thrusts up its dripping arm and clutches at the wayfarer.

But ANY-FROSH is wary and struggles long with the whirlpool, until finally he emerges from its grasp and finds himself once more on his way toward the SEA OF GRADUATION, hard by SALVATION PEAK.

It was scarcely possible to crowd the coed into the composite of ANY-FROSH and retain his manly appearance. So within the scope of this canto the coed will reign, with those vanities for which she is responsible. Les dames avant tout.

To begin with—

"Buy a Tag, Mister."

WHAT IS SO VAIN AS PROM?

She Says "Yes"

Says Doc to Bertha—

Syncopated Alvi

The Junior Prom is the annual mid-year, cross-country terpsichorean and costuming triumph of the university. We shall not bother with the terpsichorean features—we dare not with the costuming.

Going to the Prom involves several stages of action.

First: Getting a date:

The question—nonchalently put, at least a year before, "Asthma, are you going to be busy February 9, next year?"

The answer—"No, Brigham, why?"

Committing himself—"Will you go to the Prom with me?"

The contract made—"Love to." It depends upon the girl how fast and with how great enthusiasm she says this.

Second: Be sure that you still have the date

Third: Breaking the news to father and securing the wherewithal.

Fourth: The battle itself.

Prom is the culmination of a hundred romances—the beginning of a hundred others. It is a night of heart-breaks, transports of joy, and sore feet. It is a night of competition between the girls at school and the girls from home. Followed and preceded by continual courting.

THE SHORT HORN PROM

Just as vain, but not so expensive

Exquisite in its setting in Lathrop's gymnasium. Contrary to the opinions of the uninformed, the gentlemen did not wear overalls and hip-boots; nor did the ladies appear in aprons. Stan Wanzer, the son of the Squire of Johnson's Creek, an authority on practical hog culture, won the first heat and led the grand march.

Everybody pronounced the affair a grand success. "Shorty" Wells, a modern farmer from Rio, a student, I believe, in the course in the production of painless Canadian thistles, said:

"I ain't had sech a swell time sence our cow, Nell, was a calf."

FLOWERS AND DEMOCRACY

McMurray and Bryan are both democrats,
But otherwise they're not alike,
'Cause Bill likes his grape juice straight from the grape
And Mac likes his for the spike.

Old orator Bill is a silver-tongued bum,
But Mac's line works almost as well—
He promised his voters a socialist prom,
But a prom without flowers is hell.

So bring back the days of five-buck bouquets
Our prom-loving coeds all say—
No flannel-shirt lover will ever discover
It's undemocratic that way.

THE VANITY OF THE DANCE

Dancing is a subtle malady that sneaks up on you like a typhoid germ and attacks you in a way that makes a bad case of typhoid look like a headache. It is characterized by a peculiar distaste for study or work of any sort. The most virulent cases frequently have to leave school to be cured. It can be recognized by hearing the victim referred to as a "heavenly dancer." Saturday afternoon dances are for their benefit. These wonderful dancers live only for the sorority parties they attend, and a movement is on foot to stop these parties.

The only remedy for these cases is to let them alone, until the disease wears itself out. If it is carefully watched in its early stages, it becomes not a disease but a sensation. The only pain that attends it is the look on the victim's face.

THE VANITY OF FUSSING

AND THEN THE COED—

The houri of Islam,
Sweet amorous creature,
Personification of love,
May suit a Turk fine,
With his song and his wine,
But of loving, a coed could teach her.

¶ Fusser, hearken! List to these truths, that thou mayest tread unharmed among the coeds from Chadbourne Hall to Mother Mahoney's cosy corner; from Boyd and Fixem's place to Kehl's, the Shop Girl's Paradise, wherein doth danger lurk. Yea, from Mixer even unto Prom, and within the Library—not the least from among the snare-places.

¶ I counsel thee, devote thyself to the first year coed, and lavish thy father's ducats upon the maiden whom the whole school is not after; that she may say unto thee, "Truly, I have enjoyed myself this evening," and that she may not accept thine offerings as the Bursar thy tuition.

¶ When thou hast been denied a date, telephone not to her friend with thy request, for she hath surely heard of it, and will gloat over thee,—for what maiden desires to play second ukulele.

¶ If thou desirest a date in the month of March, beware that thou plead for it before Christmas, for the datebook of the coed is full, and were it not, what maiden would admit it? Remember, thou art not in thy home town.

THE VANITY OF FALSE PRIDE

A certain coed, typical of many, found herself, one Saturday evening, with nothing to do—no date, no work. Now it chanced that ANY-FROSH was in the same predicament. So he called Aphasia, the coed, on the phone, and invited her to go to the Studio. But Aphasia says to herself, "For goodness sake, does this man think that he can call me up at the last minute and find me without a date?" So she is sorry that she can't go, but intimates that the next Saturday would do.

Two hours later he meets her at a mixer.

This, of course, was a pure coincidence. But just by way of observation, back in anybody's home, the loveliest of the girls will see their friend on any short notice. But it "isn't done" here.

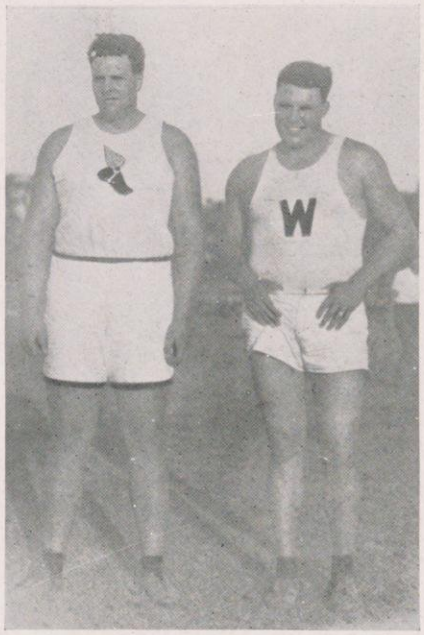
THE GRAIL OF ACTIVITIES

Canto the Fourth

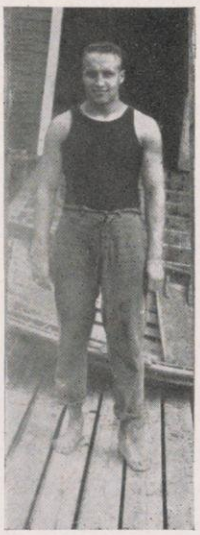
In which ANY-FROSH follows the will-o'-the-wisp of notoriety. His studies slip and so does he and, badly burned by his place in the sun, goes into seclusion for a space to study; or consults the phantom-oculist, and retires just in time to save his sight.



"Shrimp Mucks"

Now grinds are all right in their way,
And Phi Bates earn what they get,
But the fellow that makes college pay
Does more than study, you bet.

ANY-FROSH wants to be a big man in the university. As he goes about the campus, and within the confines of his dinky room, the pale light of AMBITION floats before his eyes, and his gaze travels yearningly down that beam of light in search of the GRAIL OF ACTIVITIES. This is that alluring, cardinal something by which "big men" are recognized. But a few are allowed to attain it, and their names ring down through the traditions of Wisconsin, and their Badger summaries bulk huge.



A-self made man

Not a few among our contemporaries have seen it, will see it, or think they should see it. There is Tommy Hefferan, whose achievements in outline form filled half a page in the election pamphlet. Then there is Smertenko. His list would not be so long as Tom's, but he has a vivid imagination. George von Bunsen de Bourbon Henderson should see it. Cecil Holman should give it the once over.

Finally captured that famous pail—

And gave Tennyson a hunch for his tale.

Has profs and not pagan hosts to fight;
No dames to rescue, no wrongs to right—
Our s'college activity man—

Politics, Prom, and Cardinal, too—
His grades are bum and he doesn't get through
Hard luck, old activity man—
Gets on probation, then what can he do?

POLITICS

Politics is an infernal machine encased in a university organization, manipulated by a simple twist of the wrist, for the purpose of keeping the university democratic.

The finished product is the front page Cardinal story. The raw product is the Election.

The Candidate is a nonenity who desires to become an entity. It is usually a person who is not very well acquainted around the campus until the day of election, when he knows everybody.

The Election Committee is the outfit that prevents people from being too generous with their votes.

ANY-FROSH MEETS LUST-FOR-JOBS

Now I saw in my dream that as ANY-FROSH was going about minding his own business, he met a man known as LUST-FOR-JOBS. A busy-looking man he was, and he spoke to ANY-FROSH after this wise:

"My friend, look at me and learn, and by your Junior year you may have dabbled in every activity that the university boasts."

With this cryptic utterance, and with a wise look, he passed on.

THE CARDINAL

The Cardinal offered him a wonderful chance. There were only 50 ahead of him before he could have Jack Ramsey's job, but somebody might die or be killed, so his chances weren't so awfully bad. Besides, if he gave them six-fifths of his time for the year, they would make him Telephone Editor, or Errand Editor. And think of the experience.

COMMUNICATIONS

There is one type of editorial work that one may take up without any qualifications or previous experience. The Cardinal will publish, without charge, lengthy tales of woe on nothing in particular, signed by Fehrenbach or some partisan of the rights of coeds at mixers.

By this process the Cardinal fills its columns, the writer gets his name into print, and the reader gets a headache.

"Patrick Personality"

Your personality, when you wear a patrick, is expressed in every fold, every roll of the collar, every trick of fastening the belt. It adapts itself to your fancy but never fails to add the last touch of style distinction.

For wear when days are chill and damp, you get great comfort in these Bigger-Than-Weather coats. The soft, fleecy Patrick Cloth resists wind, cold and moisture. It is as distinctive to America as friezes to Ireland, cheviots to Scotland and tweeds to England.

If our representative in your town does not have in stock what you want, write us and we will see that you are immediately supplied through him.

PROFESSOR OTTO'S PET

Once upon a time there were three cats that had fits.
One cat had one fit every day.
The second cat had two fits every day.
The third cat had three fits every day.
Well, the first cat, he went 'n' died.
And the second cat, he went 'n' died.
But the third cat—the one that had three fits per day, is still living, on and on and on.

Now can any of you little boys and girls tell me why the third cat didn't die?

Yes, children, that illustrates the law of the survival of the fittest.

EAT MORE ICE CREAM

A quart of ice cream has the same food value or nutriment as a pound of round steak, a gallon of oysters, four pounds of potatoes, or eleven pounds of cabbage. The basis of good ice cream is sugar and cream, which produce heat and energy while the proteins and caseins are tissue builders. Eat more ice cream because it is the ideal food—then eat some more because you like it.

SALVATION PEAK

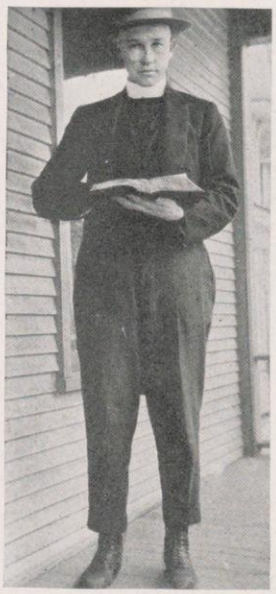
Canto the Fifth

In which ANY-FROSH, our composite hero, has succeeded to manhood, or should have, and becomes an ALUMNUS. Leaves Wisconsin for his $50 per month job, and wonders why his high school pals are bossing him.



Fiedler, You're a Big Boy Now

The day of the self-made man is o'er,
College profs harp from the classroom floor,
We hope to hell it don't come any more,
For we're better off now than we were before.

ANY-FROSH is now a Senior. Within a short time he will pass from the Order of the Elastic Lunch Hour, and his college life, wherein is Easy Sledding, to the World of Business. He will be a College Graduate.

Now, whether he is teaching school or laying bricks, people will come to him with words to spell, and problems of a practical nature to solve. Here must his course in "Man and Nature" and "Musical Appreciation" stand him in good stead. Here must his courses in "Zoology" and "Tennyson" reach out and give him a lift—and the things he forgot in "Freshman English" and "Algebra."

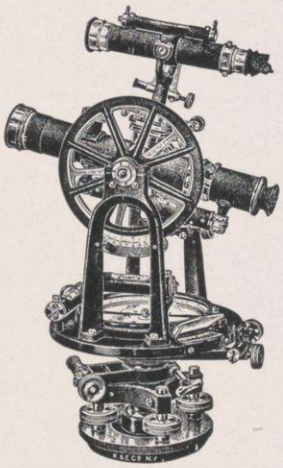
Eleanor

But never mind, ANY-FROSH, for have you not been told that the College Graduate wins in the long run? Have you not been told that your cultural equipment will come to your aid and give you second wind in the home stretch? What though the home stretch comes after your eightieth year, are you not one of the chosen? Sounds reasonable, doesn't it?

Profit by the experience of generations of Engineers and equip yourself with

K & E

Surveying Instruments, Measuring Tapes, Leveling Rods, Etc.



The fact that Engineers all over the world regard K & E products as the standard of excellence is not a mere coincidence. It has taken exactly fifty years of close attention to the needs of Engineers and much painstaking effort on the part of our manufacturing department to achieve this distinction.

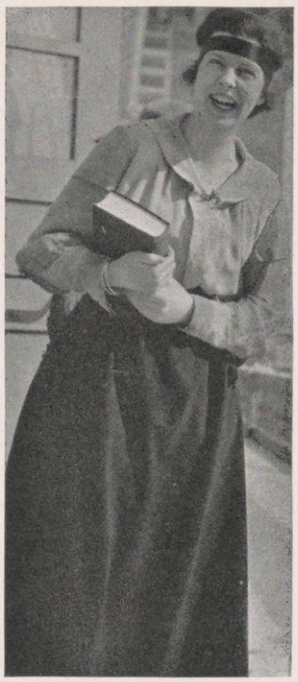
THE BALLAD OF THE COLLEGER



Sing High Ho, Sally of Chadbourne

With joy to college we come—
Sing high-ho, cash and the Bursar!
But life gets stale and food gets bum
When two bits left in your purse are.

Then you stop getting board at the Park Hotel
To be bored at the Y. M. C. A.
And you find that you can't fuss Ellen S.
And you never can dodge the S. G. A.

They put you up for some class office—
Sing high-ho, mob and a meeting;
You get two votes and then Goodnight,
They can you for repeating.

You get into Philo one still night
By a Socialistic quorum;
But they chase you off the campus green
Because you're for the Forum.

And you find M.A. isn't Ma down here—
Of profs there is no pleasin',
And you join the varsity M. E. frat
At the end of the rushing season.

You dreamed you were in the Hall of Fame,
You covered yourself with glory,
But you cover yourself with a ten-dollar suit,
And your name's in the directory.

THESIS

ANY-FROSH is now busy writing his thesis. This is a million or two immortal words, written during the last twenty-four hours of school on any subject from "The Relation of Feeblemindedness to the Elastic Arch" to "The Functions of the Human Tongue from the Days of Pharoah to the Days of Doc Meanwell."

MINCE PIE SECTION

But the career of ANY-FROSH has not all been as distorted as this account suggests. The Convex Mirror twists the vision that comes to it, and reflects it in a semblance to the real, but with many an exaggeration. To gain the true perspective of this recital, place the book face downward on the floor, then in the right hand corner of the next room, stand on your head for an hour and seventy minutes, gazing at it intently. If at the end of that time it still continues to conceal the truth, try reading it in Chinese fashion.

September 12, '16.

DEAR JACK:—Yours of the 23rd at hand and I am pleased indeed to have the opportunity of at least returning in part the favor you once did by keeping up my premium when I did not have the sufficient appreciation of its value. You may quote me as follows:

"The problem a young man has to contend with in starting out in life is not one of ability and competence, but more a matter of standing or reputation. To get this he must not only be keen and industrious, but must be thrifty and saving. The surest way to save and get ahead in the financial world is by going in debt. Having obligations to meet causes one to economize. There is no 'why' to it, try it yourself and see. By going in debt, I do not mean foolish debts, but indebtedness for investments. There is no better standard investment today than insurance and the sooner one goes in debt for insurance the better. The ability to meet the premiums is the real stepping stone to thrift and economy. To quote James J. Hill, 'Unless you have the ability to save, you are lacking in the first element of success.' Insurance teaches one to save, to make a good investment, and thereby to get the proper start toward a successful career.

Credit is a serious problem for the young man. Keeping up insurance strengthens one's credit as well as his character. Every student at the University of Wisconsin will help himself as well as help his Alma Mater by getting insurance at least not later than his Junior or Senior year. Any insurance is good, but I believe that the Northwestern is the Best."

Sincerely yours,

W E Meyer

A Reminiscence

THE last page of "copy" has been blue-penciled and given to the monotype man; the —— Club has finally had its picture taken and the "squeegeed gloss print" sent to the engraver; the surplus contributions have been transferred from the pigeon-holes of the editor's desk to the waste basket and for the "steenth" time this week we have answered the ubiquitous question, "When is the Badger coming out?"

Now it is all over, and we are thankful. Beginning tomorrow we will start to discharge our obligations to this institution of learning. We will break that Pre- and Post Lenten fast from study and seclude ourselves in the sanctum of the Library to make up some ten weeks of reading.

Now that the 1918 Badger is a reality, we wonder how it was accomplished. There was a time, before our election, when the production of a year-book seemed but child's play. We could do it with ease. Later, when work began, we would lie awake nights wandering apprehensively through six hundred and more blank pages, each of which must be filled with gems of thought. Now, when they are black with type and illuminated with pictures, we can look back and say, "It was easy."

There are many to whom we are grateful for the work that has been done on this book. We cannot, for want of space, speak of as many as we should like, but to the following, in particular, we want to express our sincere thanks and appreciation: Mr. M. H. Baumgartner of the Cantwell Printing Company, whose scrupulous care and attention given to every page have produced a well-printed volume; Mr. J. J. Sher of the Bureau of Engraving, whose suggestions and cooperation have proven invaluable; Miss Madelyn Stanchfield and Mr. Edwin F. Morse, the Associate Editors, whose untiring efforts will always be remembered and appreciated. We wish especially to praise Miss Stanchfield for the excellent drawings that appear in the Administration Section, and Mr. Morse for his hearty cooperation in the compiling of all parts of the book. The entire Badger Board, especially Miss Marjorie Kinnan, Mr. James Richardson, Mr. Daniel Steele, Mr. Chase Donaldson, Mr. Arthur Vinje, Miss Dorothy Bell, Mr. Meade Morris, Miss Ruth Stolte, Mr. Joseph Deming, Mr. Stanley Wanzer, Mr. Clarence Grosser and Mr. Matthew Casey are deserving of much commendation for the work that they have done. The help and cooperation tendered the editor by Miss Marion Yost will be appreciated always, as will the many valuable suggestions given by Mr. Randolph Wadsworth, editor of the 1917 Badger.

To all these and more, we are grateful. The past year has been one of pleasureable associations and hard work, and if we have been forced to give up other things for the Badger, it has been eminently worth while.—THE EDITOR.

To the Thinking Student

Your BADGER is something you want. You support it to a greater extent than you do any other publication on the campus. You pay for your page, you pay for your picture, you pay for your book. You do this because

You want the Badger

But you are unable single handed to support a publication like the BADGER. This 1918 BADGER cost $13,500, of which amount the advertisers in the 1918 BADGER have paid $2,500 or 20%. In other words, in order to get out the BADGER

You depend on the Support of your Advertisers

The merchants that advertise in your publications expect to get your trade in return. Most of them gauge their advertising by the amount of your trade. If you would hold their support

You must give the Advertisers Preference over the Non-Advertisers
