VOL. XXXIX, NO. 78

UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN, MADISON, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 19, 1929

PRICE 5 CENTS

Nine Madison Stores to Try Check Premium

Merchants Will Charge Nickel for All Amounts Under Dollar

Nine Madison stores will charge a premium of five cents for every check cashed where the minimum purchase amounts to less than one dollar beginning Jan. 1, announced E. J. Grady, manager of the Co-op who is heading the movement. Also, he said, five cents will be charged for all insufficient fund checks retained.

The stores putting this policy into practice are:

Giller's delicatessen, Brown's Book store, Gatewood's Book store, the Co-op, Cramton's Drug store, The University pharmacy, Mallat pharmacy, Morgan's, The Campus Grill, and several others who are not yet ready to make definite statements.

Experimental Policy

"This is not a permanent policy," said Mr. Grady. "It is purely experimental, and if effective in reducing the number of small checks which we are requested to cash, and in reducing the expense of clearing them, the policy will be discontinued."

This action is the result of the Madison banks' recent decision to place a charge on all store checks which they clear starting Jan. 1.

Necessary Because of Expense

"Because of the great expense which will be incurred when the banks begin charging for clearing our checks, and because of the large amount of checks which we cash, most of which are for students, the Madison merchants most concerned with the check problem feel it necessary to make the charge," said Mr. Grady.

"This does not mean that we do not want to cash student checks," he explained, "but the new rule should tend to decrease the number of small checks that are cashed."

In discussing the 25 per cent premium for all insufficient fund checks retained, Mr. Grady explained that the action was necessary because so many insufficient fund checks belonging to the same persons were found in several stores.

Big 10 to Argue Liquor Control

Affirmative Teams Will Urge Law Modelled on Canadian Plan

Prohibition will furnish the question for debate in the spring Big Ten men's intercollegiate debating schedule, it was announced by Prof. A. T. Weaver, chairman of the speech department, at the meeting of the Forensic board held Wednesday noon in the Union.

Formally stated, the question is, "Resolved: That the American system of prohibition should be so modified as to permit the several states to adopt liquor control similar to that of the Canadian provinces."

The spring schedule calls for the Wisconsin affirmative team to debate against the Ohio State negative in Madison, and for the Badger negatives to meet Purdue's affirmative team at Lafayette. Both contests will be held on the night of March 20.

Is Rubber Contest

Wisconsin and Ohio State were the only schools in the conference which won both of their debates in the fall schedule just completed, in which the chain-store system was the question argued. Therefore the debate here between the teams representing those institutions will probably be the contest that will determine the supremacy in Big Ten debating circles for the year 1929-30.

The Wisconsin teams will be chosen after preliminary and final tryouts to be held about a week or 10 days after classes are resumed after the Christmas recess, the exact dates to be announced later.

Fall Finalists Eligible

To give new debating material an opportunity to assert itself, the personnel of teams will be altered as much as possible from those teams which were entered in the fall contests, and all candidates who survived the prelimi-

Blondes Are Out!
Prom Chairman Lusby Gives Views on Feminine Color Schemes

Gently but firmly, William Ernest Lusby '31 has decided the fate of some 500 junior co-eds. "While blondes are very attractive, and many of my friends have light hair and blue eyes, I don't think I'll pick a blonde Prom Queen," was his dictum yesterday afternoon.

At one fell swoop, then, half a thousand third-year blondes were eliminated from the lists. Weighing the question in his mind, Lusby was momentarily undecided.

"Blondes take wonderful pictures," he mused. "It's grand to look into blue eyes." Then his firm jaw took on a firmer set.

"But the girl of my dreams has always had dark brown hair and almost black eyes," he decided. "And my Prom queen will be a brunette."

The King has spoken. Long live the King. But many are the hearts that will be broken today, pondering the question whether peroxide is as pernicious a liquid as alcohol is reputed to be.

Board Raps Non-Athletic "W" Awards

The Athletic Board will direct a protest to the Athletic council against wearing of monograms closely resembling the varsity "W" by R. O. T. C. and band men, it was decided at the board's meeting Wednesday night in the Memorial Union.

Lawrence Davis '30, appointed to interview R. O. T. C. heads, reported that they failed to show any disposition to co-operate in adopting a different emblem. Homer Davidson '31, said that the band was a little more willing to co-operate, but that no definite action was promised.

Members of the board feel that the wearing of "W's" by men who have not won them in varsity sports tends to lower the prestige of the award.

Requirements for the awarding of letters to members of the "B" basketball team was also discussed at the meeting, but no action was taken, pending submission of recommendations to the athletic council.

Hillel Players' Key Awarded to Ten at Annual Banquet

Ten persons were awarded membership in the Hillel Players at the annual banquet at the University club Wednesday night.

Mrs. John Guy Fowlkes, director of the recently presented "Disraeli," was named an honorary associate member. She was presented with the Players' gold key by Rabbi Solomon Landman.

Those who received the Players' keys are: Esther Sinaiko '31, Joseph Edelstein '31, Esther Rubinstein '32, Sol Tax '30, Ashur Leibson '33, Harry Sweet '33, Rose Chechek '33, Ben Goldman '31, Louis Kaiser '33, Sol Davison '30.

Hunt Club Polo Team

Will Practice Tonight

The polo team of the University Hunt club will practice today at the Stock Pavilion from 6:30 to 7:30 p. m. The stunt team will practice from 7:30 to 8:30.

The no-cut rule compels students to attend otherwise disregarded classes this week against their will, but school spirit and studiousness have been completely eclipsed by the prevailing holiday spirit.

Everywhere students are seen singing Christmas carols, buying or wrapping Christmas presents, packing bags, or wiring home for money with which to make their exodus.

In preparation for a quick get-away from classroom to train Friday noon, instructors as well as students have ordered taxis to be waiting for them. The Yellow cab company reported

Four Teams Set for Last Debate Contest Today

D. U.'s Meet Independent Group; Phi Beta, Pythia Clash

Delta Upsilon will compete today at 4 p. m. in 260 Bascom against an independent team composed of David Sigman '31, Jacob Muchin '31, and Rexford Watson '30, in the men's final contest of the Intramural Discussion tournament.

The subject to be discussed is "The Future of Inter-Collegiate Football." Members of the Delta Upsilon team are Robert C. Bassett '32, Marshall North '31, and Phillip F. Icke '30.

The women's final contest will be held in 212 Bascom. Phi Beta, dramatics sorority, represented by Elizabeth Kyle '32, Adelle E. Boyce '31, and Inez E. Koegel '32, will compete against a Pythia team composed of Dorothea M. Sander '30, Lois G. Mullen '32, and Dorothy M. Krueger '31.

These two final contests which may be attended by the public will be followed by a contest between the winning men's and women's teams soon after the Christmas recess. This contest will be broadcast over WHA, university radio station, and the winning team will receive a cup. Members of the winning teams will be presented with medals at this time also.

In the semi-final contests held Wednesday afternoon, Delta Upsilon defeated the independent team of John E. Ferris '32, Marc Catlin '32, and Edgar Gordon, grad. The independent team of Sigman, Muchin and Watson defeated another independent team composed of Robert B. O'Neill '32, Maynard Reierson '32, and Henry Youngerman '32.

An Alpha Delta Pi team consisting of Florence Naujoks '31, Bernice H. Perschbacher '31 and Rosalie Buckley '31, was defeated by Phi Beta.

Committee 'A' to Work Alone

Marjorie Carr '31 Declares Independence of Original Research Group

Student committee "A," appointed by members of the university faculty to study the curriculum of the college of letters and science, will continue its work independent of a second student committee formed this week by another group of students, according to statement made yesterday by Marjorie Carr '31, temporary chairman of the committee.

"We have no objections to the formation of other student committees," said Miss Carr, "but we intend to work independently of them."

The lecture system, the quarter system, prerequisites of university courses and the major system were discussed at the first meeting of the group Tuesday night. The committee has taken no definite stand on any question as yet, but intends to hold a neutral position until it has thoroughly acquainted itself with all sides of the problem.

"The work of the committee will cover many months," said Miss Carr, "and we do not expect to take any decided position as to what proposals we shall make to the faculty committee for some time."

that all reservations for taxis Friday noon have been filled since Tuesday.

For the past two weeks many have been making pilgrimages to the depots for reservations. A total of 3,000 are expected to leave via the Northwestern line Friday, 1,500 to 1,800 on the Milwaukee road, and on Saturday approximately 1,000 will leave Madison.

Nine special trains on the Northwestern line with an average of 400 to a train will transport the travelers. Six trains will go to Chicago, three to Milwaukee and the Fox River valley, and seven to Winona, LaCrosse, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Duluth, and Su-

Charity Head Issues Final Plea in Drive

A final appeal for contributions to the Wisconsin Good Will Chest, university charity fund, is to be made today, Emmet G. Solomon '31, charity committee chairman, announced Wednesday night.

Tags will be sold on the campus and in all university buildings today to enable students and faculty members to contribute to the Good Will Chest during the last day of the charity campaign.

By Wednesday night $639.77 had been put in the Good Will Chest. The University Young Women's Christian association donated $50, and groups and personal gifts totalling $86.60 were contributed Wednesday.

As the result of the generosity of in-

Twenty-one per cent of the space in University of Wisconsin fraternities is unoccupied during the first semester of the present year, the annual report of Dean of Men S. H. Goodnight, on inspection of fraternity, sorority, and special interest houses reveals.

"This situation presents a serious problem which fraternities must face," says Dean Goodnight in his report. "They are not in a position to bear the economic loss entailed in allowing one-fifth of the space in their houses to remain unoccupied during the first semester of each year. They should take effective measures to check this loss by pledging enough men in the second semester to insure the occupancy of all rooms in the following fall."

Conditions Appear Worse

Women's houses and dormitories led in per cent of rooms occupied, with 96. Eighty-six per cent of the space in sororities was occupied. The average space occupied for all houses was 85 per cent.

Ninety-eight buildings, of which 90 are operated entirely by students, came under this year's inspection. By request of J. D. Phillips, business manager, Barnard and Chadbourne, not operated by students, were investigated this year, and with the consent of the owners, Langdon hall and Colonial Lodge, two large private women's dormitories recently opened, French, German, and Spanish houses, under departmental control, were also inspected.

Sororities Accommodate 640

Women's houses and dormitories have accommodations for 840 students, according to the report, and now house 809 students. Sororities may accommodate 640, and were occupied by 564. In fraternities but 1,220 students are lodged, though there are accommodations for 1,550.

Care and condition of houses this year appeared to be not so good as last year, in the estimation of in-

Lawyers Hear Kopp at Smoker

Attorney Must Be Civic Leader, Says Bar Association Head

"The successful lawyer should be a civic leader as well as a professional man," declared W. A. Kopp '00, president of the Wisconsin State Bar association, in a talk to 150 members of the university law school association at its annual smoker Wednesday evening in Tripp commons.

"A lawyer's essential duties are to his profession, his clients, and the courts," averred Mr. Kopp. He stressed the place of the lawyer in the civic life of the community.

On behalf of the association, gifts were presented by Wade Boardman L3, its president, to benefactors of the body: Prof. O. S. Rundell, acting head of the law school; Prof. J. D. Wickham, Prof. W. H. Page, Miss A. Merz, secretary to the law school dean, and "Dean" Harris, veteran janitor.

Cigars, doughnuts, and cider were furnished by the association. John Taras L3 headed the committee, Nathan Hinden L3 led singing, accompanied by Adrian McGrath Med 3, and Herman Scholl L3, gave vocal solos. Oliver Miner L3 satirized students and faculty in a humorous monologue.

Christmas Spirit Pervades Campus; Students Prepare for Holiday Exodus

By RUTH BIEHUSEN

The no-cut rule compels students to attend otherwise disregarded classes this week against their will, but school spirit and studiousness have been completely eclipsed by the prevailing holiday spirit.

Everywhere students are seen singing Christmas carols, buying or wrapping Christmas presents, packing bags, or wiring home for money with which to make their exodus.

In preparation for a quick get-away from classroom to train Friday noon, instructors as well as students have ordered taxis to be waiting for them. The Yellow cab company reported that all reservations for taxis Friday service.

The majority of people leaving via the Milwaukee road will spend their holidays in Chicago or the east. Five specials are scheduled on this line for Friday—at 1 p. m. the special to Milwaukee will leave; two will leave at 1:05 p. m., one to Wausau, Tomahawk, and Merrill and another to LaCrosse; the Chicago special at 1:15 p. m. and at 4:15 p. m. the last special to Kansas City and Omaha will carry the west-bound students.

A large number will travel to Omaha, and this year, due to the long va-

Players Offer 'Fool' Tonight

Baptist Student Organization Plans Novel Lighting Effects in Production

Contrasting with extreme simplicity in settings, elaborate lighting will give effectiveness to special scenes in Channing Pollock's "The Fool," which will be produced Thursday night by the Wayland players, Baptist student dramatic organization, in Central High School auditorium.

The most elaborate effect is achieved in the first act when a black panorama giving depth to the stage forms a background for a silver cross. By unusual illumination the cross becomes brighter and brighter and adds to the atmosphere of the play.

To suddenly reveal the "poor man," a part played by Robert D. Wright '32, who represents the Holy Spirit spotlights flash on and transform the scene.

The variety in lighting is also used to indicate changes in the time of day, according to Frank Hubbard '33 who is stage manager. Assisting him are Frank Weinhold '33, and Roger C. Fontaine '32.

James Wellington, local business man who recently graduated from the university, is business manager for the play. Assisting him are Robert "Bud" Blau '33, in charge of posters and advertising; Robert Botts in charge of programs; Harry Hess '32, tickets; and Marion Wallace '33, properties.

Prohibition to Be Debate Subject

(Continued from Page 1) nary fall tryouts, whether they were eliminated in the finals or not, will be eligible to enter the final tryouts in January without competing in the preliminaries.

Since a university ruling at Purdue forbids graduate students from competing in intercollegiate debates, only undergraduate students will be chosen to represent Wisconsin against the Indiana school. Graduate students, however, will as usual be eligible for positions on the team which debates against Ohio State.

All candidates in the preliminary tryouts will be asked to give a four minute speech on either side of the question as it has been stated above and will be either eliminated or allowed to compete in the finals according to the decisions of the judges to be chosen by the speech department.

Dream Fortune Vanishes as 'Con' Man Nips Grad

A city slicker, who offered a story of a search for $1,000,000 in greenbacks as bait, victimized Harrison Forman '29, Milwaukee, journalism graduate, of $1,200, reports from El Paso, Texas, revealed Wednesday.

A newspaper advertisement seeking financial backing for an "expedition of an adventurous nature" made Forman acquainted with the swindler, a man known as Grant.

Forman, who worked his way through the university by conducting a dancing academy, was on his way around the world. He sold his car for money to finance Grant's search for the lost million, but the supposed partner in the scheme checked out of an El Paso hotel secretly after Forman began to suspect that the scheme wasn't strictly above board.

Students Prepare for Holiday Rush

No special train service will be given Saturday, but the special round trip rates of fare and one-third will be effective after midnight Friday. It is expected that a large number of students will take advantage of these rates and wait until Saturday, the greater number of them going to Kansas City and Wisconsin valley points.

Two busses carrying 66 students will leave from the corner of State and Francis streets at 2 p. m. Friday for New York and other eastern cities.

"Almost all of the students are going home for the holidays," Mrs. Clara B. Flett, assistant to the dean of women, said Wednesday. "Most of the rooming houses will be closed, and as far as I know now all of the sorority houses will also be locked. Due to the long vacation, the majority of girls are leaving Madison, and those remaining here will only be a negligible and insignificant number."

Some of the students are unfortunate, however, and will have to take correspondence work during their vacation. Permits for taking the courses are at present being brought to the extension division, and many of them will begin work Friday.

"Many are not beginning new courses but going on with studies they have already started. Only those interested in credit are taking the courses, and consequently foreign languages, sociology, and English are in demand. Practically no science courses are taken," Mrs. Amy H. Smith, recorder, extension division, announced.

During vacation the Memorial Union desk will be open only ten hours a day, and will be closed Christmas and New Years morning. All dining units will be closed on Dec. 24 and 25. Tripp commons and the tea room will be closed throughout vacation, but the refectory will be open as usual.

The Irving cafeteria and coffee house will close Friday night and will not be open until Monday, Jan. 6. Lawrence's restaurant will be closed Christmas day but will otherwise be open each day from 6 a. m. to 8 p. m.

Survey Reveals Houses Unfilled

(Continued from Page 1) spects. Grades of A or A— were given to 78 per cent of the houses last year, and but 68 per cent received the grade this year. B plus grades were earned by 20 per cent last year, and 25.6 this year. However, six per cent of those investigated this year were graded below B, while only 1.1 per cent fell below last year.

List Fire Hazards

Last year no women's house was graded lower than A—, while ten were given B's this year. Four fraternities were given C grades and one received D this year, while only one received C last year.

Fire hazards resulted in grading down of the majority of the delinquents, according to investigators, for housekeeping was in general no worse than usual.

Causes of fire hazards were listed as follows: Electric cords on metal supports or through door, 36; too much paper and rubbish in the basement, 30; overloaded fuses, 13; wood and coal in the same bin, 9; fire exits blocked or inadequate, 9; metal boxes for waste paper left open, 4; unsafe wiring, 2.

Hazards Rechecked

Fire hazard inspection was made by H. A. Langley, delegated by City Fire Chief John Lahm at the request of Dean Goodnight. Following his first inspection, Mr. Langley returned to make certain that conditions were corrected.

Houses in which conditions were not commented on disparagingly were as follows:

Scorrieties: Alpha Epsilon Phi, Alpha Gamma Delta, Alpha Omicron Pi, Chi Omega, Delta Delta Delta, Kappa Phi, Phi Omega Pi, and Phi Upsilon Omicron.

Special Interest Houses: Anderson house, Barnard hall, Chadbourne hall, Cleveland house, Fallows house, Langdon hall, Nurses' dormitory, Spanish house, and Tabard Inn and Annex.

Fraternities: Alpha Epsilon Pi, Delta Kappa Epsilon, Phi Pi Phi, Phi Sigma Delta, and Sigma Chi.

The War and Steiner

From THE CHRISTIAN CENTURY

A confession of what the World War did to Dr. Edward A. Steiner, Grinnell college, Iowa, which may explain somewhat the current disrespect for, and distrust of, scholarship, learning, culture.—Editor.

I AM OF COURSE an American, and should I be deported I would indeed be a man without a country. I owe no other political loyalty, never did and never can. My ardor, however, is cooled by my war experience, for I have had to learn through bitter disillusionment that nationalism is everywhere the same force for good and ill, and in this crisis of the world's history the ill is the greater.

Nationalism is the one and only human organization which is anarchic in its relation to similar organizations. It not only flouts law, it puts a premium upon lawlessness. It is incapable of maintaining steadily those sentiments which we call human. It knows neither gratitude nor friendship nor repentance for its sins. Nationalism is religion in its most primitive form, its divinity still asks for human sacrifices and it tolerates no other gods by its side. The good in nationalism I still cherish and I still love America above every nation in the world, but only in those things in which I still believe it is, or can be, above every nation in the world.

To the 100 percent America, the white, Protestant, Nordic America, I am as total a stranger as I was to the Austria-Hungary of his Teutonic, Catholic, Apostolic majesty, Francis Joseph II, under the shadow of whose throne I was born.

I have discovered two Americas. The one in which I am living but in which I am regarded as a foreigner, in which I pay taxes, whose laws I obey and whose democratic institutions I revere; and the other America toward which I am aspiring. In that America to be, I am a native and fully at home.

My attitude toward the Christian church has also undergone certain changes. I go to church but I am not at home in my pew. My brothers in the church with a very few notable exceptions were not my brothers when I needed them. Whatever comforts came to me when I was declared disloyal by my community, because I could not spit hate words in the Christian pulpit, came to me from outsiders.

I came into the Christian church for no easy salvation. I did not want to escape hell if I deserved it, or go to heaven if I did not. In Christ I saw the Redeemer from sins of hate, greed, fear, and lust, a possible enlargement of personality through the enlargement of human relationship. Of Christian theology I have accepted but little and from theologians I have learned less. My faith in Christ was nourished by Josiah Strong, Graham Taylor, Washington Gladden and Walter Rauschenbusch, Hebrew prophets of the order of Jesus.

There were younger men who drew me and held me but they proved apostates, almost all of them. They have come back, but most of them without repentance, and I have no faith in what they preach. Their peace sermons are dead before they are spoken.

Neither have I faith in the peace resolutions passed by church councils and ministers' meetings. There is a "but" in most of them, if not explicit, at least implied. They remind one of the temperance pledge of a temporarily reformed drunkard. "I solemnly promise never to taste another drop of liquor, but if some one should ask me I will take a drink to prove that I am a good fellow." I know that if war should break out tomorrow, New Testaments would again be bound in khaki by the Bible society, ministers would preach war sermons, and professors in theological seminaries would print books to prove that Jesus was not opposed to war.

Not only have I discovered two Americas, I have also discovered two Christian churches; the one of which I am still a member and to which I give my financial support, and the one which is much smaller and yet is much larger. I believe, I still believe, I believe more than ever in the Holy Catholic church, a very large church whose membership is unnumbered and may also be unbaptized except by the Spirit. I do not believe as heartily as once I did that the organized church will usher in the better and more understanding world. It is as class conscious as most clubs, more race conscious than any Jewish synagogue and as nationalistic as the Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution . . .

The one thing which has kept me from flinging back my baptism and ordination to those who gave it, and bravely returning to my people, was the sort of religious experience which one does not talk about and which comes only when one has lived a brave moment and taken the consequences.

STRENGELY enough, I have lost much faith in what is commonly called higher education; for I found that the intellectual classes were first to "go to pot" when the war broke out. The universities were drunk from war lust and I saw historians who were hysterical, philosophers who had no worthy philosophy of life, psychologists and psychiatrists who were rattle brained, and biologists who were accurate in reporting the growth of a cell, but who did not have a brain cell working when they observed human affairs.

Of course I too am teaching, but fortunately in a college which has kept its campus free from fraternities and sororities. For nearly twenty-five years I have been let loose to operate on the student prejudices; but I should have been able to report greater success if I had been a surgeon and had collected diseased appendices and big fees.

I still believe in the college, and here too I believe and love that college which is not of brick and stone, which the students may only glimpse but rarely know, and which the public never sees; a college which is consecrated to the building of a better world and not to the building of a bigger and better football team. Such a college I fear would starve to death; but such a death would be better than the present compromise with the world, the flesh, and the alumni association.

cerning his compensation money, but the wheels moved slowly and little progress was made. Also during that year John had been so foolish as to fall in love with a Denver girl.

WE SUSPECT that our friend the engineering student gleaned his statistics on the potency and humanity of poison gas from a speech made in October, 1927, by J. E. Mills, head of the United States Chemical Warfare service. Mr. Mills' statements were widely quoted in the press at that time.

"Is gas warfare inhumane?" the chemical war-maker asked. "All warfare is inhumane and barbarous, but the facts are that only two per cent of American gas casualties died, while more than 24 per cent of American battle casualties died."

Working forward from this point, Mr. Mills went on to declare that gas in warfare is a blessing to the world. "It is a blessing, not a curse, that dye factories can change almost overnight from the manufacture of dyes and perfumes that appeal to the taste and vanity of mankind, to the manufacture of the most powerful poisons for use in war."

"The ability to wage gas warfare is a blessing—not a curse—and will make for the future security, peace, and happiness of the world."

Of course there have been times in this country when even a Republican newspaper like the New York Tribune thought otherwise. Say along about the spring of 1915 after the Germans had launched the first large-scale gas attack. Said the Tribune on that occasion: "If poisonous gases can be used in warfare the way is opened to a general relapse to ancient methods of savagery. Germany, though boasting of her own superiority in civilization (Kultur is the synonym used), has taken the lead in this war in cutting loose from the salutary restraints which civilization has put on military brutality."

On the same occasion, plain-spoken Washington Post observed that "Civilized" and "Christian" nations cannot afford to refrain from the use of anything that is effective in dealing out wholesale deaths."

No, we are not won over to the student's argument by either his or Mr. Mill's statistics. We should like to see some figures on the number of gas victims dead between 1919 and 1929 compared with deaths during the same period from other wounds.

Of course, we are to be classified as a sentimental pacifist, who, according to W. Lee Lewis, discoverer of Lewistie, deadliest of gases, "sees only a nation's murdered sons, but catches no glimpse of a splendid devotion to national honor."

And thus are we saddened to see a young student defend instruments of war, of horrible death, on the grounds of humaneness. Is the college now breeding the generation which will throw us into the next war?

READING AND LECTURING

Prof. Robert E. Rogers of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology thinks there are many people who should not be allowed to read books. He says, "A great many people, perfectly honest, useful, intelligent and successful, never receive from the printed page anything which helps them to live more intelligently."

The professor may be right for all we know. But why stop with people who have read a book? Many college professors should not be allowed to make speeches. A great many college professors, perfectly honest, useful, intelligent and successful, have made a great many speeches without helping either themselves or anybody else to live more intelligently. Perhaps Prof. Rogers is one of them.—Omaha World-Herald.

We Hadn't Heard 'Em

They are talking of cutting out the classes at the University of Wisconsin. The professors may say, "Well, gentlemen, find out all you can about calculus this term, and I'll meet you again at the last day."—Minneapolis Journal.

Just our luck—when the lights went out at the party, we were dancing with the chaperon.

"One day we were out along the Drive and had a picnic."

"That's nothing; one night we were out there and had a circus."

We predict that the basketball team will not finish worse than second—in any game.

An Open Letter to Mr. Lushy

Dear Mr. Lushy:
I suppose about now you are beginning to worry about selecting your queen. Dogonit, you ought to worry about it because there are 4,000 co-eds in school; and after you announce your choice, there will be 3,999 who are disappointed.

Two important points in Prom-queen-picking technique are where and how you ask her. In the past some chairmen have stooped so low as to do it in a way that manufactures publicity. Some have asked them in airplanes, others in ice boats, etc., etc., but I am sure you will not seek publicity because Prom should be a nice quiet affair minus all ballyhoo.

May I be so audacious as to suggest the method you use? Why not do it in an old fashioned way that will prove to the prospective cash customers that your heart is in the right place? What I mean is, why not ask her while riding to church with her on a tandem bicycle? Hoping this suggestion is received in the spirit in which it is sent, I remain,

Resp. yrs.,

As Liza and Jake came out of the clinch Jake started playing on her emotions. Liza didn't like this because she wanted to be home by Christmas. Jake, too, wanted to be by home Christmas, so they started walking across China towards America, the land of whoopee and the home of the depraved. When they came to the Pacific they kept on walking on the ice. Every time a ship came along they hailed it. The rattling of the hail against the tin sides of the ship made a big racket. With the money from this racket they soon were able to pay for a first class passage on a ship bound for America. Will they arrive home for Christmas? Read tomorrow's column.

Lehigh Student Wins $10,000

Rhodes Scholar Candidate Writes Prize Essay on Refrigeration

A college man—Dudley L. Harley, Lehigh '30—has shown his heels to many thousands of entrants in a national refrigeration essay contest for a $10,000 first prize. Harley, whose home is in Martinsburg, W. Va., is a candidate for a Rhodes Scholarship from his home state, and expects to use his new wealth in furthering his education and his ambition to be a writer.

The essay which won the contest for the Lehigh undergraduate was composed, written and bound into book form during an enforced extension of his summer vacation, while both wrists were in splints. The wrists were broken in a fall from his horse, Friday, Sept. 13, and the fact that he could not return to school led to his decision to enter the contest. This is not the first contest he has won, however; his education has been furthered by two scholarships won in essay competitions sponsored by the American Chemical society.

"The results of the contest were extremely gratifying to us," said C. E. Greenwood, vice-chairman of the executive committee of the council, "because they show conclusively that the nation is awakening to the importance of keeping food properly both from the standpoint of health and as a question of household economics."

"With so many thousands entering the contest, it is surely true that many more thousands took an active interest, either in aiding the contestants, or in writing essays on the subject which they failed to turn in. Such an interest should result in marked improvement in the public attitude toward food preservation, and this would be of great benefit to the country from the standpoint of prevention of disease and conservation of health."

"This interest has been much needed. Although America stands at the very head of all nations in its methods of caring for food, it is nevertheless true that even in this country more than one-fifth of the homes are without any refrigeration equipment, and less than 25 per cent of those which have refrigerators of any kind have really efficient refrigeration part of the year. Yet, with weather bureau reports showing that on a country wide average only 19 days out of the year have outdoors temperatures which are safe for foods, constant refrigeration is necessary to keep foodstuffs at their best."

Harley's success was not the only one of the university-trained. Of the first 35 prizes, 18 were awarded to college graduates, and two on the list of winners are college professors.

Edward Francis Mohler, professor of political science at St. John's college, Toledo, O., and Miss Ethel M. Arnold, assistant professor of art, Kansas State Agricultural college, won $100.00 each on their essays.

Woodrow Wilson was elected president in 1912, because Roosevelt split the ranks of the Republican party trying to be elected for a third term.

"Complete Campus Coverage"

It came in the mail and it was not meant in jest, since it was printed from an addressing plate. We refer to a circular letter received at the Memunion recently with the following address on the envelope:

WISCONSIN UNION,
ROBERT CALKINS, PROP.,
U. OF W. MADISON,
WISCONSIN

Many are the arguments for and against fraternities; but what better one could there be than this incident. Few collegians actually own hats, let alone hats that go with formal clothes. That is precisely the case at the Sigma Phi Epsilon domain. Hal Severson '30 is the fortunate owner of both an appropriate hat and an equally appropriate topcoat. He used them to fetch his lady fair on the night of the house's Christmas formal. On his return, Brother Clarke Silcott ex '30 took possession of the two items and made for the dwelling of his guest. When he returned accompanied by another l.f., Reggie Ritter '30, who does own a topcoat but no hat, took leave with Silcott's top-piece and shortly after came back with his l.f. (Incidentally, said l.f. was Mercedes Jelsma '30, who has been heard uttering complaints about the non-appearance of her nomenclature within these column rules.) When time to take Mercedes home came, Reggie was unable to locate the derby, since Owner Severson had gone off with it and his l.f. Shouted Reggie, "Who swiped my derby?"

A few reminders—take along the toothpaste, brush, and comb. Close the windows. Be sure you have your ticket. And all the other things that we have undoubtedly forgotten to remember.

Harriet P. Treat '32 of Gamma Phi Beta knows two boys in Phi Pi Phi, neither of whom invited her to the party last Satnite. Harriet, however, enlisted the services of a boy friend from Chicago who was visiting. Together they crashed the party, neither in formal clothes. Oh, well!

Observer J. M. Surquist '33 reports the following shocking occurrence: "Saturday afternoon a young lady was seen running around on the porch roof of Chadbourn hall in a pair of very becoming green pajamas. Is this a regular habit of this young lady or is the poor dear merely a somnambulist?"

The red and green traffic lights at University avenue and Park street give that corner the proper Yuletide atmosphere thinks Fritz Bolender '33.

A genuine Christmas (not Xmas) card at the top of these spaces tomorrow.

Prof. Leslie Van Hagan told one on Franklin Matthias '30 at the Tau Beta Pi initiation banquet. When the two attended the engineering convention at Purdue recently, Frank, it seems, had a date with a rather attractive damsel. He whirled her offstage during the midst of one of the settos and registered his request for a kiss. All he got, however, were "ix-nays." Changing his tactics he made a bet of one dollar with the young lady, the provision being that he could kiss her without touching her in the process. The agreement was made and Frank kissed her. The damsel looked at him and said, "You touched me!"

"That's right," said Frank, "here's your dollar."

And an aftermath. At his fraternity party here last week Frank was dancing with the lady friend of Bob McGregor '31. Brother Rezin S. Plotz '30 spotted this and whispered into Bob's ear, "You had better watch him. He's got a whole pocketful of dollars."

Flynn-Scheib Wedding Date Set for Dec. 31

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Lenora Flynn '29, daughter of George C. Flynn, Madison, to John Watson Scheib, son of Mrs. Louise Scheib, Chicago. The wedding date has been set for Dec. 31. Mr. Scheib attended the University of Illinois.

Midwest Students Plan Discussions of Mechanical Age

Students from a score of mid-Western universities and colleges will take part in a two-day conference in Chicago, Dec. 27 and 28, at which economists, students and political leaders will discuss "The Machine and Social Change," it is announced by the Chicago chapter of the League for Industrial Democracy, which is sponsoring the conference.

Representatives of League chapters in the various universities, as well as several hundred visiting students, are expected to take part in the conference which will be held at the Reynolds club, 57th and University avenue, Chicago.

The University of Wisconsin has no chapter of the league and the Liberal club, which has assumed functions of the former chapter, will not send delegates.

The conference will be opened at 10 a. m., Friday, Dec. 27, with the registration of delegates, followed by reports on local activities. At 11 a. m. Jack Evans, of the Columbia Conserve company, will lead a discussion on "The Effect of the Machine on the Worker."

The sessions will be concluded with a luncheon-discussion at the Hotel Del Prado. Mayor Daniel W. Hoan of Milwaukee, Clarence Senior, national executive secretary of the Socialist party, and Paul Porter, field secretary of the league, will speak.

Biology Exhibit Presents History of Water Mussel

The new weekly exhibit at the Biology building is contained in a small fish bowl. It represents the life history of the fresh water mussel.

This species is the most common of the freshwater animals found in the lakes and streams near Madison. Thousands of the shells of these animals are used each year in the manufacturing of buttons. The mussels are eaten in "clam chowder" and are also prepared in the same manner as oysters, but are not so tender as the latter.

In a case near the exhibit is a collection of animals including Burr Rabbit, Goosy Gander, Mr. Lobster, Old Man Pelican, and a half a dozen other members of Noah's Ark with a card reading: "The Zoo Wishes Everybody a Merry Christmas."

Frandenburg-Kalish Wedding Announced

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Betty Lee Frandenburg '29, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Frandenburg, Omaha, Neb., to Stanley Edward Kalish '27, son of Mrs. Mattie Kalish of Indianapolis. Miss Frandenburg is a member of Alpha Phi sorority. Mr. Kalish is with the Associated Press in Madison. The wedding will take place on Dec. 28 in Omaha. Miss Frandenburg is now a guest of Miss Helen Cox in Madison.

DRAKE-THOMA

The engagement of Margaret Drake '28, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frank I. Drake, Madison, to Harry Charles Thoma '28, son of Mrs. Lucy Thoma, Milwaukee, has been announced.

Miss Drake is a member of Sigma Kappa sorority.

Mr. Thoma is managing editor of the Wisconsin Alumni magazine. He was prominent in many activities, being editor of the 1928 Badger and president of his class in his senior year. He is a member of Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity, and was elected to Scabbard and Blade, Skull and Crescent, White Spades, and Iron Cross, honorary men's societies at the university.

The wedding is planned to take place in the spring.

JOINT CHRISTMAS PARTIES

Red Friars and the Wisconsin Collegiate Association of Milwaukee have planned to have their annual informal Christmas parties together. A forthcoming party will be held on Dec. 20 and a farewell party on Jan. 3 at the Athenaeum. Dancing will be from 9 to 1 o'clock.

The committee in charge is as follows: Norton Klug '32, Thomas Hayes, James Bannon, William Sawyer, Richard Danielson, James P. Porter '31, and Francis Norvak '32.

DELTA DELTA DELTA

Members of Delta Delta Delta sorority entertained their house mother, Mrs. William Rogers, at a tea on Wednesday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock. Mrs. Clarke, daughter of Mrs. Rogers, assisted. House mothers from all sororities were invited.

SENIOR-ALUMNI DANCE

Oak Park and River Forest high school will hold their annual senior-alumni dance on Dec. 21. All alumni, who are attending the university, are invited.

Eta Kappa Nu Has Initiation for Eight New Members

Initiation of James D. Cobine '31, Gordon L. Fredenhall '31, Sylvester K. Guth '30, Carl E. Iwert '30, Stewart L. Johnston '30, William H. Teare '31, John C. Weber '30, and Andrew G. Woodford '31 into Eta Kappa Nu, honorary electrical engineering fraternity, was held in the Memorial Union, Tuesday night. The address of the evening was given by Prof. Louis Kahlenberg of the chemistry department.

Dramatic Guild to Give Awards

Organization Will Present Seven Prizes to Winners in Play Contest

Seven special awards will be made to authors of winning plays in the Wisconsin Dramatic guild's 1930 contest now open, it was announced today by Ethel Theodora Rockwell, guild secretary.

Besides the guild medallion awarded to clubs, individual trophy cups and medals will be presented in the following classes: to the winning author from high schools above 400 enrollment and below 400 enrollment, award made by the University Players; from colleges in Wisconsin, award by National Collegiate Players, University of Wisconsin; from little theater organizations, by the Milwaukee branch of the Drama League of America; from rural drama clubs, by the university college of agriculture; from churches and from industrial clubs, by the Wisconsin Dramatic guild.

This is the first year that outside groups have offered prizes in the guild contests, Miss Rockwell stated. The Wisconsin Players of Milwaukee also offer to give any worthy play a trial production in their theater, and station WHA will broadcast all winning plays that are effective over the radio, using casts from winning clubs.

Original plays in the contests should be in the hands of Ethel T. Rockwell, secretary Wisconsin Dramatic guild, university extension division, Madison, before Jan. 15. The trophies will be awarded and winning plays enacted the week of March 2 at the guild dramatic festival, Madison.

All member clubs and individuals were urged by Miss Rockwell to take part in the contests.

"There is no community so void of folk and of deeds that it does not contain the germs of the greatest play ever written," she said.

Speech Faculty Plans to Attend Meeting in East

Practically the entire department of speech will be in attendance at the fourteenth annual convention of the national association of teachers of speech which will meet in New York city Dec. 30 to Jan. 1 inclusive, according to H. L. Ewbank, associate professor of speech, who is executive secretary of the organization.

Addresses are to be given by A. T.

Weaver, head of the university department of speech, Mr. Ewbank, Miss Gertrude E. Johnson, associate professor of speech, Robert W. West, professor of speech, and Miss Gladys Borchers, assistant professor of speech.

Besides the members of the speech department, other local men and women who will attend the meeting are Miss Ethel Rockwell, assistant professor of speech in the extension division, and Miss Lavilla Ward, member of the state department on education.

all about prize fighters, etc.

and the sad tale of the man who was caught under an auto is told

by bob godley

MADISON AND OTHER PLACES: The estimable sport of prize fighting, often referred to as The Cauliflower Industry, is down in the dumps, where it has rested since the death of Tex Rickard about a year ago. We note however that the present day epidemic of fouls will probably be checked by the rule of the New York boxing commission which holds up the purse of the fouler and gives him money only for the rounds which were fought. There are a lot of fighters around who can't tell a left hook from a right cross but they can spot the difference between 200 and 2000 a long ways off. It ought to help the game. In a midwest city they abolished fouls by refusing to pay off either party to a foul blow. That ended all the trouble.

And in the matter of the heavyweight title. The boxing trust is still steering clear of Rubber John Risko.

The big Risk rose to the top in a hurry, whipping K. O. Christner, Paolino, Sharkey, and the redoubtable George Godfrey, whom no one else will fight. No man living has ever licked Risko twice. (Johnny always trains the second time.) In the last three months Johnny has decisively beaten three men who previously beat him, Ernie Schaaf, Emmett Rocco and Jim Maloney. He is now in New York training for a scrap with Tuffy Griffiths, to whom he lost on a foul in Detroit last summer. If Risko trains he will beat him badly.

The winner of this mess will meet Sharkey in Miami . . . maybe. If Risko wins, the boxing trust will probably pass him up, because he was beaten by Schmeeling, the Hammy Hun. (Mr. Risko had about 12 pounds of fat on his tummy that night.)

The eastern writers think that Sharkey is a great fighter. Risko hammed Sharkey all over when Sharkey was at his best and Risko has beaten all the guys who have beaten Sharkey. Risko has beaten Stribling several times . . . and last year they threw Stribling and Sharkey in the ring at Miami, for the heavyweight title.

Risko also beat Von Porat, who fouled out to fainting Phil Scott.

The grunt racket is worse. The wrestlers continue to prance around and give the vodvil fans a break. The best vodvil is in the wrestling halls these days . . . everything else has gone talkie.

A giant named Joe Pesak, onetime McFadden prize winner, can lick any wrestler living but no one will fight him. He is white too. George Godfrey, the nemesis of the boxers is shaded a deep ebony.

Then the wife called the police and the neighbor sent for the fire department.

But these institutions were too slow in coming.

So the wife and her friend collected 12 more women and they lifted the car off the previously impounded man just as two flying squads and three fire trucks rolled up.

Dean Goodnight
Informed of Death of Distant Relative

Dean Scott H. Goodnight has been informed of the death Saturday of a distant relative, Col. Charles Goodnight, 74, of the town named in his honor, Goodnight, Texas, whose life history has been described with all of the color of the old west.

According to United Press dispatches, Col. Goodnight spent the greater part of his life on the prairies of the Texas panhandle where he fought Indians and hunted and raised cattle. He was reputed to be one of the wealthiest cattlemen in the southwest. At one time his holdings included 1,300,000 acres of land and more than 100,000 head of cattle.

He attributed his longevity to the fact that "Indians were poor marksmen and to continued use of buffalo meat.

Dean Goodnight, although interested in the romantic life of this distant member of his family, stated that he had never met Col. Goodnight.

SATURDAY—George Bancroft in "THE MIGHTY"

Barnard Defeats
Colonial Lodge,
Chi Omega Wins

(Continued from Page 3) the nine different groups are almost finished. A complete list of winners will be published Friday. The finals will start immediately after the vacation.

The Gamma Phi's and the All-American Cubs eliminated the Phi Mu's and 430 Sterling respectively in the women's intramural basketball tournament. The Villa Maria had to default to the Tri Delt's as one of the girls had a health grade that was too low to permit her to enter any competition as strenuous as basketball.

The Gamma Phi's had little trouble in defeating the Phi Mu's as the final score of 33 to 10 might indicate. However, the game was a fast one throughout. The referees were Mercedes Weiss and Katie Wasson.

Line-ups are as follows: Gamma Phi: Nash, Dvorak, Hart, Cool, Harries, McLellan. Phi Mu: Renshaw, Rollins, Johnson, Strange, Roden, Reilly.

In the second game the All-Americans had more difficulty in winning their game which resulted in a 24-9 victory for them. The game was not as fast as the Phi Mu-Gamma Phi contest, but the playing was good and the teams were more evenly matched. 430 Sterling lost by a good margin but they did some fine playing. Sinova, Hofland and Katie Wasson refereed this game.

Line-ups: All-American Cubs: Schneider, Kepper, Hagen, Kelopher, Zarek, Behrman, Lutz. 430 Sterling: Castor, Minch, Brennen, Kellephey, Lowe, Stern.

Influenza Germ Discoverer Criticized as Publicity Seeker

American Medical Association
Should Have Investigated
First, Says Director

A severe criticism of "publicity seeking" by Dr. I. S. Falk, professor of hygiene and bacteriology at the University of Chicago, who recently announced that they had isolated the influenza germ, was made yesterday by W. D. Stovall, professor of hygiene and director of the state laboratory of hygiene.

Prof. Stovall's comment on Dr. Falk's announcement in the public press of his discovery, before it was submitted to a medical journal, precedes a denunciation of the Chicago professor's action as "unwarranted" in the journal of the American Medical association, which will appear Saturday.

"Many other scientists have made like announcements," says Dr. Stovall, "and investigation has proven that they were premature. His conduct is unbecoming in a man engaged in work of that type."

Should Verify Findings
"If he had published his findings in a scientific journal, and if they had stood up under the questionings of the medical world, he would have then deserved the publicity which such a discovery would surely have merited."

Dr. Falk announced last Friday, through the publicity department of the university, that he and his laboratory assistants had successfully isolated the germ causing influenza and had been led to hope, through further experiments, that a preventative vaccine might be prepared.

Called 'Old Story'
"With little if any apparent warrant," the medical journal will say in criticizing his action, "it is again announced, for at least the tenth time in five years, that the causative organism of influenza has been discovered, and that it is hoped to prepare a vaccine. There is thus far little or no evidence in scientific medical literature, or even in spoken addresses, to indicate that I. S. Falk, Ph.D., and his associates have progressed any further toward the solution of this problem than have workers in other parts of the world now or in the past."

Falk Promises Proof
"All I can say," Dr. Falk said, "is that I made my report before the bacteriology club of the University of Chicago and the evidence will shortly be in print in more detailed form."

dividuals and campus groups, Lun Tsai, impoverished Chinese student suffering from tuberculosis, will be given the medical care he needs. He is now a patient at the Wisconsin General hospital. After the Christmas holidays he will be removed to a warmer climate or will submit to an operation to effect a cure.

Junior Wright '31 read Tolstoi's "What Men Live By." "Brotherhood" by Markham was read in unison, followed by several Christmas carols, sung by the entire group. A prayer of Harry Emerson Fosdick and a benediction concluded the meeting.

Wilson Falls Through Ice; Rescued by Two Companions

Prompt action of Jerry Meyers '33, and Fred Milner grad, in pulling Joe Wilson grad, from a fishing hole in Lake Mendota, averted a possible fatal accident last night.

The three students had skated across the lake and built a fire, when Wilson, who was skating near shore, fell into a large hole cut in the ice by fishermen. He was rescued immediately by his companions, and dried out near the fire.

After skating back across the lake, Wilson seemed to be none the worse for his experience, except for a headache and a stiff neck.
