Brothers.

To the Cherokee Deputation at Washington.
City
December 1st 1805.

The Cherokee Nation have selected you with much care & have sent you to the seat of the Great Council of the Nation to transact their national concerns with the Executive. Confidence is placed in you by your whole nation. Whatever you do will be considered as the act of your nation. The most important & interesting thing you have to do is to bring to a Just decision the conflicting claims subsisting between your Nation & the Chickasaws relating to certain Lands, part of which they the Chickasaws have sold to the United States, a part of which you have also sold. At an early period after the War between the United States & the English. The United States sent Commissioners to ascertain the boundaries of the respective tribes, the Chiefs were assembled at different times & when they had obtained the most satisfactory information that could then be had, they proceeded to make the allotments to the tribes for hunting grounds. and if at that early period some small errors took place it cannot be thought strange. Errors unintentionally made are always allowed to be corrected. This may probably apply to the case between the Cherokees & Chickasaws. The United States make it point in every instance to do Justice to all their Red Brethren & to compose their national differences that all may live in peace & quietly pursue their business of improvement in the ^{plan} of civilization. In order to compose the difference between your nation and the Chickasaws. the United States will act magnanimously if they will give each of your Nations a valuable compensation for the disputed tract of land: because a very minute & critical investigation of your original & ancient claims must from the length of time & want of records be attended with great, & probably insurmountable difficulty: because it may involved in it remotely, or perhaps immediately, claims from the Creeks and Choctaws ~~with~~ in such case it would still more involve & perplex the question of right. Whereas if the Cherokee & Chickasaws relinquish their respective rights to the United States. they will have ample justice done to them & the disagreeable dispute between these two nations will be put to an end for ever & good neighbourhood & friendship will subsist.

It was suggested to you at Tellico in October last that it would be right & just for the Cherokee nation to follow the example of the ~~Creeks~~ Choctaws & Chickasaws in taking some measures to pay the debts of their poor people to the fair traders in their nation. I mean the Cherokee traders your own flesh & blood. The poor people of every country have a natural claim on the benevolence of the country where they live. and the fair traders who have helped the families of these poor people to cloathing & the necessaries of life, have a claim founded on the relations of the individuals in society to the whole. — I am informed that some of these traders have been obliged to leave the nation & to stay away because they cannot pay their debts at home, while at the same time they have a great deal due to them among the poor people who they have helped to cloathing &c. — It is now in the power of the nation to relieve all these people by appropriating a part of the pay they may receive from the United States for the lands on the north side of Tennessee. they will besides have it in their power to have mills erected & cotton machines & a large annuity continued to the nation and the dispute with the Chickasaws put to sleep forever.

These things are now in your power and are very desirable for you & for the United States, who will always feel interested in your ~~prosperity~~ improvement & prosperity. — This is submitted to your consideration as men of information who wish well to your own people & to the United States with whom you are every day becoming more & more connected in friendship & interest. —

A Convention between the United States and the Cherokee Nation of Indians concluded at the City of Washington on the Seventh day of January in the Year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and six.

Articles of a Convention made between Henry Dearborn Secretary of War, being specially authorized thereby by the President of the United States and the undesignated Chiefs and Head Men of the Cherokee Nation of Indians fully authorized and empowered by said Nation.

The undersigned Chiefs and Head Men of the Cherokee Nation of Indians for themselves and in behalf of their Nation to relinquish to the United States, all right title interest and claim, which they or their Nation have or may have had to all that tract of land lying within the limits of the State of Tennessee and lying between the mouth of the River Tennessee and the mouth of the River Clinch, at the upper point of an Island called Chickasaw Island, on said River to the most easterly headwaters of that branch of said Tennessee River called Duck River. Excepting the two following described tracts, viz. One tract bounded south only on the said Tennessee River at a place called the Muscleshoots, westerly by a creek called, Chikatawach, or Cypress Creek and easterly by Chikwahee or Elk River or Creek, and Northernly by a line to be drawn from a point on said Elk River ten miles on a direct line from its mouth or junction with Tennessee River to a point on the said Cypress Creek ten miles on a direct line from its junction with the said Tennessee River: The other tract is to be two miles in width on the North side of Tennessee River and to extend North only from that River three miles, and bounded as follows: viz. Beginning at the mouth of Spring Creek and running up said Creek three miles on a straight line, thence easterly two miles at right angles with the general course of said Creek, thence Southernly on a line parallel with the general course of said Creek to the River Tennessee and thence up said River by its waters to the beginning, which part reserved land is to be considered the Common property of the Cherokee who now live on the same, and the said D. Chisholm, Autowas and Chehechuk, on which said Melton now lives is to be considered the property of said Melton and of Charles Hicks in equal shares, and the said Chiefs and Head Men also agree to relinquish to the United States, all right or claim, which they or their Nations have to what is called the Long Islands in Holston River.

Article 2nd

The said Henry Dearborn on the part of the United States hereby stipulates and agrees that, in consideration of the relinquishment of title by the Cherokees as stated in the preceding Article the United States will pay the Cherokee Nation Five thousand dollars in money as soon as this Convention shall be duly ratified by the Government of the United States and Five thousand dollars in each of the four succeeding years amounting in the whole to ten thousand dollars. And that a Fort shall within one year from the date hereof be built in the Cherokee Country for the use of the Nation, at such place as may be considered most convenient; that the said Cherokees shall be furnished with a machine for cleaning cotton; and also that the Old Cherokee Chief called the Black Deer shall be paid annually one hundred dollars by the United States during his life.

Article 3rd

It is also agreed on the part of the United States, that the Government in expending money in carrying out the provisions of this Convention as to prevail on the Cherokee Nation of Indians to agree to the following Boundary between that Nation and the Cherokees to the Southward of the Tennessee River, viz. Beginning at the mouth of Dancy Creek near the lower part of the Muscle Shoals and to run up said Creek to its head and in a direct line from thence to the first stone or rock the Old Corner boundary. But it is understood by the contracting parties that the United States do not engage to have the proposed line or boundary established, but only to endeavor to prevail on the Cherokee Nation to consent to such a line as the boundary between the two Nations.

Article 4th

It is further agreed on the part of the United States that the claims which the Chickasaws may have to the two tracts reserved by the first Article of this Convention on the North side of the Tennessee River shall be settled by the United States in such manner as will be equitable and with regard to them be as other their title to the same.

Convention of Jan. 4th

A Convention between the United States and the Cherokee Nation of Indians concluded at the City of Washington on the Seventh day of January in the Year One thousand eight hundred and six.

Articles of a Convention made between Henry Dearborn Secretary of War, being specially authorised thereto by the President of the United States and the undersigned Chief and Head Men of the Cherokee Nation of Indians duly authorised and empowered by said Nation.

Article 1st

The undersigned Chief and Head men of the Cherokee Nation of Indians for themselves and in behalf of their Nation relinquish to the United States, all right title, interest and claim, which they or their nation have or ever had to all that Tract of Country which lies to the Northward of the River Tennessee and Westward of a Line to be run from the upper part of the Chickasaw Old Fields ^{at an upper point of an Island, near the Chickasaw Old Fields on} said River to the most Easterly head waters of that Branch of said Tennessee River called Duck River:

Excepting the two following described Tracts: Ver. One Tract bounded southerly on the said Tennessee River, at a place called the Muscle Shoals, westerly by a Creek called ^{Te, kie, fa, no, eh, or} Cypress Creek and easterly by ^{Chie, wa, lee, or} Elk river or Creek, and Northerly by a line to be drawn from a point on said Elk river Ten miles on a direct line from its mouth or junction with Tennessee River to a point on the said Cypress Creek ten miles on a direct line from its junction with the said Tennessee River: The other Tract is to be Two miles in width on the North side of Tennessee River and to extend northerly from that River three miles, and bounded as follows: Ver. Beginning at the mouth of Spring Creek and running up said Creek three miles on a straight line, thence westerly two miles at right angles with the general course of said Creek; thence Southerly on a line parallel with the general course of said Creek to the River Tennessee and thence up said river by its waters to the Beginning; - which First reserved Tract is to be con-considered the common property of the Cherokees who now live on the same, including John D. Chisholm, (a tow we, and Chih Chuk) and the other reserved Tract, in which Moses Melton now lives, is to be considered the property of said ~~Melton~~ and of ~~Cherokee~~ ~~Cherokee~~ in equal shares. And the said Chief and Head Men also agree to relinquish to the United States, all right or claim which they or their Nation have to what is called the Long Island in Holston River.

Article 2^d

The said Henry Dearborn on the part of the United States, hereby stipulates and agrees that, in consideration of the relinquishments of Title by the Cherokees, as stated in the preceding Article, the United States will pay to the Cherokee Nation, Two thousand dollars, in money, as soon as this Convention shall be duly ratified by the Government of the United States; and Two thousand dollars in each of the Four succeeding years, amounting in the whole to Ten thousand dollars: And that a Grist mill shall within one year from the date hereof, be built in the Cherokee Country for the use of the Nation, at such place as may be considered most convenient; that the said Cherokees shall be furnished with a machine for cleaning Cotton; and also that the old Cherokee Chief, called the Black Fox, shall be paid annually One hundred dollars by the United States, during his life.

Article 3^d

It is also agreed on the part of the United States, that the Government thereof will use its influence and best endeavors to prevail on the Chickasaw Nation of Indians to agree to the following Boundary between that Nation and the Cherokees to the Southward of the Tennessee River, viz. Beginning at the mouth of Caney Creek - near the lower part of the Muscle Shoals and to run ^{up said creek to its head} in a direct line from thence to the Flat Stone or Rock, the old corner boundary.

But it is understood by the contracting parties, that the United States do not engage to have the aforesaid line or Boundary established, but only to endeavor to prevail on the Chickasaw Nation to consent to such a line as the Boundary between the two Nations.

Article 4th

It is further agreed on the part of the United States, that the claims which the Chickasaws may have to the two Tracts reserved by the First article of this Convention, on the North side of the Tennessee River, shall be settled by the United States in such manner as will be equitable, and will secure to the Chickasaws the title to the said Reservations.

Incidentation

Whereas by the 1st article of a convention between the United States & the Cherokee Nation entered into at City Washington on the 7th day of January 1806. it was intended on the part of the Cherokee Nation & understood by the Secretary of war the Commissioner on the part of the United States. to cede to the United States, all the right, title & interest which the said Cherokee Nation ever had to a tract of country contained between the Tennessee River & the Tennessee ridge / so called / which tract of country had since the year 1794 been claimed by the Cherokees & the Chickasaws. The eastern boundary ~~whereof~~ is limited by a line so to be run from the upper part of the Chickasaw Old Fields as to include all the waters of Elk River any thing expressed in said Convention to the contrary notwithstanding. It is therefore now declared by James Robertson & Return J. Meigs acting under the authority of the Executive of the United States & by a delegation of Cherokee chiefs of whom Eunohee or Black Fox the King, or head chief of said Cherokee Nation, acting on the part of & in behalf of said Nation is one, that the eastern limits of said ceded tract shall be bounded by a line so to be run from the upper end of the Chickasaw Old Fields a little above the upper part of an Island called Chickasaw Island as will most directly ^{intersect} the first waters of Elk River. Thence carried to the great Cumberland Mountain in which the waters of Elk River have their source; then along the Margin of said mountain untill it shall intersect lands heretofore ceded to the United States at the said Tennessee ridge. - And in consideration of the readiness shown by the Cherokees to explain & to place the limits of the land ceded by the said convention out of all doubt; & in consideration of their expences in attending Council. The Executive of the United States will direct that the Cherokee Nation shall receive the sum of two thousand dollars to be paid to them by their Agent at such time as the said Executive shall direct that the Cherokee hunters as hath been their custom in such cases may hunt on said ceded Tract until by the fullness of Settlers it shall become improper. And it is hereby declared by the parties that this explanation ought to be considered as a full elucidation of the errors made by the first article of said Treaty Convention.

 upper part of the said Chickasaw Old Field
