TRUCE EXPIRES ON UNION BUILDING, STRIKE SERIOUS

Mediator, Sent by National Government, Unable to Solve Problem

By leaving the building site before the usual quitting time last evening, the non-union carpenters on the Memorial Union building forestalled any potential skirmish with the union pickets. Union leaders, as well as J. Pfeffer, are desirous of avoiding all riots.

The truce, which for three days has prevented any further brush between the strikers and the non-union workers, expired yesterday despite the efforts of local officials and a representative from the department of labor at Washington, D. C., to bring the unions and contractors to terms.

No Compromise Effected
F. A. Canefield, sent here as mediator by the national government, and Mayor A. G. Schmedeman held terse conferences with J. Pfeffer and the sub-contractors and with John P. Butler of the Madison Federation of Labor. No compromise could be effected since both sides reiterated their demands.

After the conference Mr. Canefield admitted that merely as a mediator, he was unable to do anything to solve the question, while both sides held fast to their original opinions.

Strike Serious—Canefield
"The strike has drifted into something serious," Mr. Canefield remarked. He left Madison at 5 o'clock last evening with the understanding that he could be summoned should conditions change.

Mr. Butler refused any comment on behalf of the unions yesterday. As to the next move of the unions he would remark only vaguely.

"We're not going to stand by and see this thing go by default," was his statement.

When interviewed yesterday after the meeting at the mayor's office, Mr. Pfeffer mentioned that he had had some further conferences

MANY ASSEMBLE FOR MOVIE TESTS

Nine Men Finally Selected; Photographs to be Sent to Hollywood

Wisconsin men with ambitions to become movie stars assembled yesterday afternoon at Bascom hall to take the screen test of the First National Moving Picture company. The group of over 300 included nearly every type of collegian found on the campus.

The nine men finally selected to be photographed were subjected to elaborate make-up operations before facing the camera. Certain physical qualifications besides mere good looks are necessary, Ned Holmes, director of the tests here explained to the applicants.

The First National company is especially desirous of obtaining college men of the tall, athletic type. Dark eyes are essential for good photography, and several men who were otherwise acceptable were eliminated because they possessed blue eyes.

The men selected were carefully photographed, and the films of their tests will be sent to Hollywood where the final selection of ten men from all of the universities will be made.

The nine men selected for the camera tests here were William Blanchard '28, Lawrence Meyering '28, David Freeborn '29, Donald Harter '29, Maurice Hill '30, Hartley E. La Chappelle '28, Edwin Lar-kin '28, Charles E. McGinnis '27, Harold E. Stupecky '29. The men will be photographed with Governor Fred Zimmerman today.

The screen tests were held under the local management of the Wisconsin Players in an effort to find all of the dramatic talent in the university.

Day By Day With The News

By C. O. S.

HENRY STIMSON, President Coolidge's personal representative in Nicaragua, will meet Juan B. Sacasa, leader of the Liberals, in conference soon. Rear Admiral Latimer has reported this meeting and in view of the fact that he holds the censorship reins in that country, it must be an authentic report.

CELESTINO MADEIROS, who confessed that a gang of which he was a member was guilty of the murder at South Braintree, Mass., has been given a stay of execution until July 10. His confession of the crime for which Sacco and Vanzetti also await death on July 10 was disregarded in the trial. Delay in Madeiros' trial may bring a new hearing for Sacco and Vanzetti.

The Mississippi Flood Situation

Secretary of Commerce Hoover, who is in full charge of relief work in the flood district, has estimated that the death total reaches 300 and that over 200,000 persons have been forced to leave their homes.

In New Orleans

Residents of two parishes outside of New Orleans are making a sacrifice in order that the city might be saved from the flood. Dynamiting of the levees giving the water a clear sweep has been declared necessary and thus thousands of residents must evacuate their homes.

Prevention?

Elsewhere in this paper you will read what Prof. "Danny" Mead of the engineering school thinks of plans to hold the old Mississippi in check. He says that they are impracticable. Perhaps the waters must take their course and the hand of man cannot stay them, but with the modern wealth of engineering skill such a conclusion seems unwarranted.

Time and time again the Mississippi has warned the nation of its terrible strength. Time and time again pork barrel appropriations for Mississippi river work have been passed by Congress. States have done as little or as much they pleased about building levees.

Could not a nation that boasts of its protection of American lives and property in Mexico, China, and Nicaragua at enormous cost, with the aid of the best experts, and with uniform national aid rather than haphazard state aid, work out a solution?

Debunking At Gray-Snyder Trial.

A murder trial is now going on at Long Island City, that has brought new methods in crime reporting. At the onset, the newspapers set out to debunk the story and sent experts in other kinds of writing. Will Durant, author of the "Story of Philosophy" sits in the press box along with Damon Runyan, sports writer deluxe, and Dr. Roach Stratton.

These writers have told about all that is to be told about the story. At first, it appeared as if they would make it as interesting as a Shakespeare drama and would give the trial in its full social significance. They studiously avoid "sister" stuff and tell the story as realistically as possible omitting none of the blood-curdling details.

Certainly, sympathy for the characters has not been developed. The results, however, have not been up to expectations. Perhaps a sport writer and a preacher should not cover a murder trial.

Making Up Coolidge's Mind.

President Coolidge, knows certain senators who delight in making up his mind. Senator Moses of New Hampshire started the ball rolling when he announced that Coolidge would be a candidate for another term. Senator Fess of Ohio emphatically declared that Coolidge would run again. Now, Senator Taggart of Indiana also tells the people that Coolidge awaits a third term.

But nary a word from Silent Cal. Perhaps like Henry Clay, he awaits the call of the people who, according to Prof. Paxson, never called. Meanwhile, the senators do the talking.

DISCUSS ATTITUDE OF STUDENTS ON LABOR TROUBLES

Forum Meeting Led by Haber of Economics Department; Explains Problem

A discussion conducted by the Student Forum at the university Y. M. C. A. last evening concerning the present labor troubles among workers on the Memorial Union building indicated a general attitude among students of sympathy with the union men.

William Haber, assistant in the department of economics, led the meeting with a talk on the general aspects of the present conflict.

Haber States Issue

Haber further said that the one and only issue of the Memorial Union conflict was that of the open and closed shop, and that only by organization and collective bargaining, could the laborers hold and maintain their wage levels which would otherwise be undermined by the presence of non-union men.

Haber also asserted that there really is no true open shop anywhere because of the fact that if so called open shop conditions did prevail employers would discriminate against the union men and the result would be a closed shop against them.

Discuss Student Attitude

A general discussion followed the talk dealing with the probable stand students might take in the event of a general strike which some seem to regard as imminent. Possibilities of a general sympathetic strike by all the union at work on the building, and the subsequent attitude of the student body toward such a strike were discussed.

Several students believed that a general mass meeting of the student body for the main purpose of forming a policy in regards to the Memorial Union labor troubles would be desirable.

John Butler, business representative of the American Federation of Labor, who was scheduled to speak at the meeting was unable to be present.

HALF OF EXPENSE PAID BY STATE

Frank Shows University Income Totals $1,947,790 Towards Support

That the university is paying 45.8 cents on every dollar of its expenses was the point proved to the legislature by President Glenn Frank at a meeting of the joint committee on finance of the legislature Wednesday.

This was the case brought up by the President when he was presenting the university's budget for the coming biennium, clearing the fallacy that the university does little to support itself.

The reason for this idea, with which all taxpayers are familiar, is that the books are kept in such a way as to lump together into a common pot in the state treasurer's office the total income, and when the legislature appropriates money for the university it is paid out of this common sum.

All of the receipts from the fees paid by students, from its agricultural and miscellaneous sales, from the sale of athletic tickets, and from dormitory room and board rents were put into the state treasury and came out looking like state money from the tax payers. These receipts totaled $1,947,790, or almost half of the total expenditures of the university.

MEAD DISCUSSES FLOOD PROBLEMS

Present Plans for Prevention Impracticable, Says Engineering Professor

"Plans offered for the prevention of the floods of the Mississippi River are about as numerous as they are inapplicable," Daniel W. Mead professor of hydraulic and sanitary engineering told his class in hydrology yesterday morning. Prof. Mead ranks among the foremost authorities on hydrological problems in this country, and has intimate knowledge of the conditions causing the floods as well as the existing preventatives.

The suggestion of Arthur Brisbane in his "Today" column that reservoirs be built to store the flood waters until conditions become normal was discussed by Prof. Mead. He pointed out that the most strategic place for such a reservoir would be at Cairo, Ill., where the Ohio River joins the Mississippi.

To be effective, such a reservoir would have to be 15 feet deep and as large as the state of New Jersey. The amount of earth removed to excavate it would be sufficient to build 7000 miles of levees 150 feet high. If smaller reservoirs would be constructed at points closer to the head of the river, it would be necessary that the more remote ones be put into action about two weeks before the flood period because it takes that length of time for the water to travel from these places to the mouth of the river. It being impossible to predict a flood so far in advance, the plan is obviously impracticable, Prof. Mead asserted.

Another plan that was shown to be impracticable is the one offered to change the course of the Wisconsin River so that it flows into Lake Michigan, deriving water power "comparable to that of the Niagara falls, and replenishing Lake Michigan with water to balance that taken by the Chicago Drainage Canal."

In the first place, the flow of the Wisconsin river is a small fraction to that of the Niagara, Prof. Mead concluded; so the power derived would not be as great as anticipated, and in the second place, most of the water thus diverted would find its way to the Mississippi through the drainage canal anyhow, and the flood prevention obtained would be negligible.

Reforestation of our denuded lands, as suggested by the Daily Cardinal, is refuted by the fact that floods which occurred in 1884 and 1786 were higher than the present flood, according to Prof. Mead. Furthermore, it is established that cultivated land absorbs much more moisture than forest land, so if the denuded land is cultivated, as in most cases it is, the denudation is an advantage rather than a disadvantage with respect to flood control.

Prof. Mead only pointed out the fallacies of the plans offered through the medium of the press and did not suggest a plan which would be effective in reducing the flood danger.

Students to Vote for Candidates for Union Board, Senate, Athletic Board

At 9 o'clock this morning polls in six halls on the campus will open to receive voters in the annual spring election. The balloting will be on candidates for Union board, Student senate, and non-W men running for the Athletic board. The polling places follow:

Agric vote at Agricultural hall. Engineers at Engineering building. Medics at Science hall. Commerce at Sterling hall. L. and S. A to L at Biology building. M to Z at 101 Bascom hall. Booklets List Candidates

Voter's guides, published by the senate, may be obtained at the polling places, according to Charles Trayser '28, student elections chairman. These booklets contain candidates elected by default, and list other candidates, with their publicity.

In accordance with Student senate regulations, no campaigning will be allowed at the polls, and the defacing of campaign booklets, printing of hand-bills, cards, or placards, use of automobiles, or use of money in any form shall bar a candidate from holding office.

Election Committee
The committee appointed by the Student senate to supervise the spring elections, as well as next fall's elections, is comprised of Charles Trayser '28, chairman, Jean Strachan '28, Theodore Thelander '28, Wesley Peterson '28, and Jerome Sperling '30.

CHURCH SPEAKS IN CONTEST AT IOWA

Wisconsin Man to Talk on "Why Men Fight" at Oratorical Meet

"Why Men Fight" will be the subject of the address to be given today by Richard C. Church '27, representing Wisconsin in the National Oratorical league contest at Iowa City.

Church was winner in the oratorical tryout held here April 1, when he spoke on "A Plea for Sympathetic Thinking."

The National Oratorical league, which includes Wisconsin, Michigan, Minnesota, Illinois, Northwestern, and Iowa universities, holds inter-collegiate contests annually. Last year's contest was held here, at which time Earl Morse '27, Wisconsin's representative, placed third. First place last year went to E. Wight Bokke, of Northwestern.

In 1901 Frank O. Lowden ex-governor of Illinois, endowed the league with first and second prize awards of $100 and $50 respectively, in recognition of its work, and to encourage oratory in the middle western universities.

Wisconsin ranks third in the number of first and second prizes won. In the first 10 years of competition Michigan won 8 firsts, because it was the first to have a well organized speech course. In the last ten years Northwestern has won five first places.

Pres. Glenn Frank won the contest in 1912, and sent a telegram to his wife, Miss Mary Smith at the time, informing her of his conquest.

Prof. J. M. O'Neill, of the department of rhetoric and oratory, accompanied Church on the Iowa trip.

WISCONSIN CITIES BACK PLAYGROUNDS

Business Men, Kiwanis, and Rotary Clubs Sponsor Supervised Recreation

Municipal playgrounds and supervised recreation in Wisconsin cities are developing largely without design, but with the support of various sponsors, it is indicated by reports from 40 Wisconsin cities and towns to Aubrey Williams, secretary of the Wisconsin Conference of Social Work.

Business men, Kiwanis and Rotary clubs, women's clubs, the city council, the park board, the Red Cross, municipal leagues, the board of education, and church societies are credited with starting and maintaining playgrounds, beaches, and supervised recreation in parks. In West Bend, the business men started the movement which provides two supervised playgrounds during 5 weeks in the summer, and they donate the $375 required each year to maintain the facilities.

The local chapters of the Red Cross started the playgrounds in Neenah and, with the co-operation of villagers, the supervised beach at Williams Bay. Women's organizations began the supervised recreation program in Oconomowoc and Richland Center; a donation of land for the purpose gave Neillsville its playground.

Fifteen of the 40 cities which replied to the questionnaire have playgrounds, and in 10 of these cities, the plans are in charge of regular paid supervisors. Sparta, Williams Bay, and Waupaca maintain public beaches, each in care of a paid director. Municipal parks in Edgerton, Marinette, and Chippewa Falls are listed as playgrounds, but no play leaders are employed.

City council appropriations pay for the playgrounds in most of the cities, but special tax, subscriptions and donations defray the expenses in others.

Placing the school playground under the direction of a paid play leader is becoming a common practice, the report indicates. The attendance of children varies from a daily average of 35 on the two playgrounds in West Bend to 1,400 on the 5 plats in Janesville.

Meeting With Mayor Fails to Settle Trouble

(Continued from Page One) with his sub-contractors and that he was still willing to employ as much local labor as would fit into his organization and that he has been assured that his sub-contractors would do likewise.

No Wage Issue

He said further that there was no issue raised by the union representatives as to either wages or working conditions and that the local union representatives were insisting on one point only, and that is that union men and none others be employed in the trades represented in the Madison Federation of Labor.

He added that each of the contractors on the job had their organizations developed after years of business experiences and that the Memorial Union job in many respects requires considerable specialized work, it would be very unfortunate and highly impracticable to perform such work through strangers to the respective contractors without at least a few men in each organization to steer the job.

Mr. Pfeiffer further reiterated the statement that he at no time before or since the awarding of the contract on this building made any other promise than that he would employ Madison labor as far as possible in the successful operation of the job and he said he had done this; that at the time of the walkout there were only four men (carpenters) who did not belong to the Madison union, whereas there were fifteen union carpenters from Madison who were then employed.

The length of the playground season is by no means uniform. West Bend playgrounds are open for 5 weeks in the summer, while those in Manitowoc are used all year.

Thomas Sends Out Dance Invitations as is Old Custom

Many co-eds were surprised yesterday to receive a terse command to attend the annual Tumas party. The invitations, as per custom, had none of the formality of the usual party invitations—they were more in the nature of warnings not to dare to refuse to accept.

According to a custom as old as the Tumas society, those fortunate enough to receive invitations have been commanded to be ready at a certain time. They will hear the galloping of horses hoofs, the clear blast of a trumpet, and suddenly they will be whisked away to the party where they will eventually learn by whom they were invited.

The dance will be in honor of the new men who have been elected to Tumas, honorary sophomore society. The unique method of inviting, and the unusual conductance of the dance itself, make the Tumas party each year an event of great interest to those who are lucky enough to be invited.

WOMEN'S SCHOLARSHIPS OPEN; APPLY AT ONCE

Cash scholarships are being offered for the academic year 1927-28 ranging in value from $50 to $250, and are to be granted on the basis of scholastic standing, worthiness and financial need. Application blanks for these scholarships may be obtained from Professor Olson in 109 Bascom hall. Besides these cash scholarships, about 150 legislative scholarships are being offered. These scholarships exempt students from paying the non-resident tuition. Application of these scholarships must be made before May 1 in the office of the Registrar.

M'GINNIS, KREUZ STAY AS BADGERS LEAVE FOR DRAKE

McGinnis Sprains Ankle in Practice Wednesday; Kreuz Has Lame Arm

A series of hurried treatments yesterday failed to help Capt. "Chuck" McGinnis, and the track team was forced to depart for the Drake relays at Des Moines, Ia., without him. McGinnis had sprained his ankle in practice Wednesday night. Bob Kreuz, Wisconsin's premier javelin tosser was likewise left behind because his throwing arm had become quite lame.

The Badger group including a one mile, four mile and medley relay team, together with three individual performers, and Coach T. E. Jones, left on the Chicago, Milwaukee, and St. Paul at 5:10 p. m. on Thursday for Des Moines.

McGinnis Was Important Entrant

McGinnis was entered in the high jump and the pole vault, and was generally regarded as a probable victor in both events. It was commonly agreed that his relatively poor showing at Kansas last week in the high jump, when he was only able to tie for first place at 6 feet 2 inches, was the result of fatigue from the grinding 120 yard high hurdle race, in which he was disqualified for upsetting three hurdles.

The loss of McGinnis will seriously effect the showing of the Badger team at the Drake relays. Kreuz, another important man on the Wisconsin team, had an ailing arm all week, and was unable to limber it up.

Coach Jones deemed it wiser to keep McGinnis and Kreuz out of the competition and thus save them for the coming conference meets, which are of greater importance.

Despite the loss of these men, the squad left Madison with the hopes of making a good showing. Although Iowa beat the Badger one mile relay team last Saturday, the fact remains that the Iowans had to almost tie the world's record to keep the Badgers out.

In Gil Smith, Jack Kanalz, Harwood Stowe, and Trever Dougan, the Cardinal one mile team has a capable set of quarter milers. It will not be at all surprising if this team gives the fast Iowa group a good race.

The four mile relay team is the same group of men that won the mile team race at Ohio, and thereby repeated the win of last year to retain the Thomas E. French trophy. J. Zola heads the list of milers in this team. This Badger trackman and harrier has had a wonderful year, and readily excels in his distance. Schwenger who won a place on this team last week by defeating Payne, and Moe, has been steadily improving since the indoor season. Little need be said about Petaja, the "flying Finn" of Wisconsin, Bullamore is the fourth man on the team. This group is one of the favorite entrants in the four mile relay.

The medley relay race, which consists of two quarter miles, a half mile, and a mile, will have Erickson, Payne, Moe, and Chamberlain, as capable contenders for honors. Ray Erickson, star Wisconsin half miler, will run that distance on the medley team. Chamberlain, who had a regular berth on the indoor mile relay team, will run one of the two quarters. Payne and Moe are both milers, and it is probable that Jones will use one of his regular quarter milers from the relay team as the second 440 yard man in the medley relay. This event occurs on Friday, and the quarter miler selected would have ample time to rest up before the mile relay race on Saturday.

Pahlmeyer will be the sole Wisconsin entrant in the high hurdles at Des Moines. He placed a third in this event at Ohio, and will probably be among the foremost that race at Drake. Mayer has been selected to replace Kreuz in the javelin event at the Drake relays. He has been tossing his javelin over 170 feet here recently.

Stan Zola, a sophomore harrier and two miler, will race in the two

INTRAMURALS

HOW MANY PLAY?

BAD NEWS

Jack—Where ya goin' with the baseball mitt, Ralph. You a baseball player?

Ralph—Not much, but we're playing the Deltas tonight out at Intramural field. Gotta stick with the team.

Jack—Whadda you mean Intramural field? Where's that?

Ralph—when did you get in the university. Didn't you know they just opened up a new field out the other side of the Dorms. Two baseball diamonds and a bunch of diamond ball fields. Guess they'll have some tennis courts too, soon.

Jack—Golly, snews to me. Been pretty busy lately takin' the girl to Haresfoot and the like. What kick do you get out of playing baseball anyway?

Ralph—I don't know. It's kind of sport to get out and run around once in a while. Haven't you boys got a baseball team?

Jack—Sure, they wanted me to play, but I couldn't see the joke. They are nearly always late for dinner.

Ralph—What's a cold dinner among friends. Say, boy, you'd feel a hundred per cent better if you just went out and threw the ball around a while. It's a chance to do something without putting on a necktie. I wouldn't miss it, even if the Sigs did beat us 14-0 the other night.

Jack—Well, it may be fun for you go ahead. I'll take my exercise paddling a canoe.

Ralph—Well, so long, Jack, I must hurry along,

Jack—So long.

The addition of Intramural field to the university athletic plant has meant a great increase in the number of intramural sports that can be accommodated. Of an estimated total of 4,000 men students, 775 were in action in some line of intramural or varsity sport yesterday. They were distributed as follows, varsity and freshmen track; 100 varsity and freshman baseball, 100; spring football, 75; interfraternity swimming meet, 50; interfraternity baseball games, 180; diamond ball games, 100; varsity and freshman crew, 50; unorganized tennis, 120. Of this number, 450 men were engaged in intramural athletics. While the varsity squads continue unchanged from day to day, this 450 fluctuates over the entire university, including a total of perhaps 1,000 men in all.

From these figures, it is apparent that the real intramural problem now lies in proper organization of the nonfraternity men on the campus that they can participate in team games. Once this group, for which little provision is now made, has been taken care, Wisconsin will have one of the finest intramural athletic systems in the country.

Raw weather again greeted the Wisconsin track and baseball teams, training for important contests, yesterday. The baseballers leave today for Urbana, official site of the University of Illinois, there to exchange basehitting compliments with the Illini. If the Badgers drop this game, they will be more or less definitely out of the Big Ten race until the leaders lose a few games on their own hook.

Bad news yesterday was the report that "Chuck" McGinnis, captain of the Wisconsin track team, will not compete in the Drake relays because of a sprained ankle. McGinnis would have had a great lot of competition in the pole vault and the high jump, his favorite field events.

KAPPA SIG TEAM WINS SWIM MEET WITH HUGE SCORE

Theta Chi Take Second; Sigma Alpha Epsilon Win Third

Taking five first out of the seven events held, Kappa Sigma ran true to form last night and captured the interfraternity swimming championship in somewhat easy fashion. Theta Chi and Sigma Alpha Epsilon took second and third in the order named.

The meet started out with the two favorites, Kappa Sig and Theta Chi running closely together in points scored, but by winning the last three events, the former was able to draw away and secure a comfortable margin of victory.

With varsity men excluded from the meet, the members of the frosh squad were expected to be the deciding factor in the meet, and they took practically every event on the program.

Kappa Sigs, with the aid of three frosh men, Davis, Lang and Fox, were able to score in all seven events on the program. For Theta Chi, Florene did nice work in winning the breast stroke against some fast competition.

Outside of the two fraternities mentioned above, only one other secured a first place. This was the Pi K A's in the diving event. Their entrant was Weisner, classy little Junior diver who last week won first place in the inter-class meet.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon, although failing to win a single first place, was able, by virtue of placing in nearly every event, to score enough points to capture third place.

The fraternities in the meet that scored points were, the Kappa Sigs, 42 points, Theta Chi, 21 points, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 13 points, Pi K. A., 12 points, Sigma Chi, 6 points, and Alpha Delta Phi, 3 points.

Perhaps the surprise event of the meet was the medley relay which the Kappa Sigs won. The event had been practically conceded to the Theta Chi team, but sprints in the finishing of the event gave the Kappa Sigs the relay and their fifth first of the evening.

The meet was held under the supervision of Mac Simpkins, freshman coach, assisted by Hattleberg, varsity diver. Points of the fraternities that placed will be counted in on the competition for the Badger Bowl.

The summary of the meet:

160 yard relay—Kappa Sig, first. Breast stroke—Theta Chi, first. 40 yard dash—Kappa Sig, first. 100 yard dash—Kappa Sig, first. Back Stroke—Kappa Sig, first. Diving—Pi K. A., first. Medley relay—Kappa Sig, first.

FROSH AND SENIOR PISTOL TEAMS TO SHOOT IN TELEGRAPHIC MEETS

The Wisconsin pistol team has been practicing during the past month on the pitsol range at the foot of Muir Knoll, preparatory to the first matches which will be fired this week.

The senior marksmen are engaging in a four cornered telegraphic meet with small arms experts from the University of Oklahoma, Oklahoma Technical college, and Texas Agricultural and Mechanical college. At the same time, the freshman team will fire against frosh from Alabama Polytechnical institute and Oregon Agricultural college, also telegraphically.

Coached by Capt. Paul H. Weiland, 14th L. A. (D. O. L.), the pistol team strives for accuracy and speed in shooting, firing from a distance of 25 yards at a five-inch bull's eye.

Firing in the meets consists of firing 30 shots in the following manner, 2 scores of 5 rounds each in 30 seconds per score, 2 scores of

Greek Teams Play Seven Baseball Games Yesterday

Interfraternity baseball progressed another step yesterday when the Phi Psi, Phi Kappa, Phi Delta Phi, Theta Delta, Delta Tau Delta, Delta Kappa Epsilon, Beta Theta Pi, and the Farm House all garnered victories.

Geib pitched the Phi Psi's into a victory when he successfully shut out Delta Sigma Pi by a score of 1-0. Phi Kappa trounced the Phi Mu Delta team, 6-1. By the top-heavy score of 12-2, Phi Delta Phi team beat the Delta Chi's.

Another one sided game was that between the Theta Delta's and Delta Sigma Phi. The score in this contest was 11-1, favor the Theta Deltas.

The second shutout in the day's play was that of the Delta Tau Delta over the Phi Sigma Kappa team. The former team got its victory by amassing eight runs.

The closest struggle of the day was the Sigma Pi-Delta Kappa Epsilon game. The Delta Kappa Epsilon team won by the score of 4-3.

Farm House piled up three runs to win from Delta Pi Epsilon. The latter team succeeded in making only a single run.

Beta Theta Pi succeeded in defeating the Phi Kappa Sigma group 2-1. This was an extremely interesting game.

Theta Chi was the only team to win on a forfeit Thursday. They won when the Alpha Chi Sigma team failed to make an appearance.

TRACK CLASSES HOLD BROWN JUG MEET TODAY

Rivalry in the second Brown Jug meet today between the 11 and 3:30 track classes will be especially outstanding because many of the men competing in the meet are making a last effort to win a place in the Freshman track squad.

The Brown Jug meets are regular track meets between the two classes for possession of the trophy, which is merely a brown jug.

The first Brown Jug meet was won by the 3:30 class. The two classes are evenly matched and results are uncertain.

This meet will start promptly at 4 p. m. at Camp Randall, and will include the regular list of events.

REWARD OFFERED FOR RETURN OF LOST BASES

Mr. Berg deplored the fact that the work of the department should be set back by vandals who steal the equipment provided for intramural athletics.

FIELD RECORDS TO BE MARKED IN MIDWEST RELAYS

Use Flags to Designate World and Meet Records; Entries Now 425

In order to make the Midwest relays, in which more than 400 high school athletes will compete at Camp Randall tomorrow, more interesting to the spectators, Manager Thomas Lieb has planned a novel marking system for the field events.

As competition progresses in the shot put, the discus throw, the broad jump and the javelin throw, the world's record in the event, the relay record and the best performance will be marked by flags stuck in the ground so that watchers can compare them.

Thus in the shot put, the interscholastic world record, 56 feet 3 inches, held by "Bud" Houser of Oxnard, Calif., will be marked by a white flag. The meet record of 46 feet 1 inch, held by Lyon, Senn high, Chicago, will be marked by a cardinal flag, and the best put up to the moment in the meet will be marked by an orange flag.

Marking of the events in this manner is expected to add greatly to the crowd's knowledge of what is going on, said Mr. Lieb yesterday.

Word was received Thursday of the entry of another Rockford High school star, Boyle, in the relays. He is reported to have cleared 6 feet 1 inch in the high jump, and to have broad-jumped 22 feet in competition at the Northwestern interscholastic meet. Boyle also runs the 100 yard dash in 10.1 seconds. He will run 220 yards on the Rockford medley sprint relay team.

Entry of Decardova, Lakeview high school, Chicago, in the 120 yard high hurdles yesterday brought the number of competing athletes to 425.

The list of world's and meet records which will be marked off in the meet tomorrow include:

Discus throw—world's record, Houser, Oxnard, 145 feet 6 inches; meet record, DeLong, Milton Union, Wis., 111 feet 3 1/4 inches.

Javelin throw—world's record, Liversedge, Stanford, Calif., 184 feet 9 1/2 inches; meet record, Lyon, Senn high, Chicago, 22 feet 5 1/2 inches.

Broad jump—world's record, Phil Stiles, Culver, Ind., 23 feet 7 1/5 inches; meet record, Portmess, Senn High, Chicago, 22 feet 5 1/2 inches.

Shot put—world's record, Houser, Oxnard, 56 feet 3 inches; meet record, Lyon, Senn high, Chicago, 46 feet 1 inch.

HARESFOOT WILL GIVE FINAL PRESENTATIONS

The final trio of showings of "Meet The Prince" will start tonight when the Haresfoot club again presents its 29th annual performance at the Parkway theater. Besides the performance this evening, the musical comedy will be presented tomorrow matinee and evening for the last of the show's 26 performances.

If the Rush Must Stay, Let's Remodel It

This paper has made statements during the year to draw forth comment from the student body anent the annual Frosh-soph bag rush, which is held each fall shortly after the opening of classes. One reader responded with a letter. The Student Senate intended to take the matter under consideration, but, because of other subjects which demanded its attention, nothing has been done by that body. The Daily Cardinal herewith publishes its views concerning the venerable class battle.

The annual bag rush, designed for a student body of earlier generations, has matured to the stage where it needs either a thorough remodelling or absolute retirement in favor of some other sort of similar activity.

There are several faults to be found with the present organization and execution of the affair:

1. Fails of its purpose. Immediately after the collision of the contending classes the bags are merely tipped to one side or the other of the center line and seldom move in either direction during the fifteen minute battle. The nature of the struggle is such that class organization or class strength has but little value and the side which gets the first push at a bag, numbering only ten or fifteen men, are able to win the bag for their class against the efforts of fifty opponents. Setting up the hypothesis that the class rush has a purpose of satisfying and settling class disputes among the underclassmen, such fighting fails of its purpose in the present rush. It is not a case where organization or strength establish class supremacy but one in which a fast runner along with two or three willing mates—willing to be trampled on for a quarter of an hour—carry off honors on any one bag. If we may use a very homely comparison, the present rush is a lot like taking a bath with one's overcoat on—there may be plenty of work and effort expended but the results are negligible.

2. Unnecessary injury to contestants. Minor injuries of one sort or another are to be expected in any contest in which so many individuals compete. It seems to this paper, however, that the bag rush unnecessarily subjects its competitors to such injury. One of the prime motivating purposes of the rush seems to consist in seeing just how many nearly stripped men can be produced at the end of the contest. To a certain extent such ripping and tearing is funny. Beyond a certain point, however, the fun ceases and the contestants are liable to serious injury from exposure.

3. Police are mis-instructed. It would appear that the purpose of police at such an affair was to demand fair scrapping and to expell students seen using other than these methods. Instead, they pay little or no attention to the conduct of the scrap, but busy themselves, for their own amusement, with clubbing and sending back into the pile those students who have exhausted themselves and come out into the open for some air. The police believe they have performed a good day's work when they have prevented anybody from getting out of the pile for a short respite.

4. Indecency. The presence of women students at the scene is highly objectionable. It is hard to understand just why the dean of women permits co-eds to attend the rush after taking onerous and painstaking precautions to specify just what amusement places her charges may go to, and after ruling and demanding that for the sake of propriety they be home at such and such an hour in the evening. It seems to the Daily Cardinal that the rush is a lot more objectionable for women spectators than any of the roadhouses around Madison.

This paper has four suggestions to make to improve the rush. It is not intended to publish them as an exhaustive study of the situation but merely as some few possibilities.

1. Make it more open. By having two or three times as many bags in the rush the fighting could be made more open and satisfying to the contestants. There would be fewer men on each bag and there would be more opportunity for a real class struggle.

2. Proper instruction of police. They should busy themselves with demanding clean scrapping and fair play. If necessary, the classes could stop during the rush to take stock of their members and organize for victory. When a contestant is exhausted he is a much better judge of that fact than the police on his bag.

3. Bar women from attending. This would be a decided step for the better. It would do nothing, of course, to remedy mechanical ailments of the rush but would remove one of the present objections to it.

4. Stop clothes tearing. It will be impossible to eradicate all tearing and stripping in such a contest because much of it is unintentional and only incidental to removing contestants by their opponents. It will, however, remove much of the liability to accident and injury.

Members of the Student Senate and of the Athletic Council are to be elected today. When they come into office soon it is our request that they make the bag rush one of the first items on their respective agendas.

They Have Nothing on Us

We were pleased a few days ago when we read a news dispatch from merry old England which intimated that the English universities and the parents of students are not without their worries concerning the lives of their charges while at the institutions of higher learning.

It seems that the paters and maters and papers of John Bull's country are much perturbed about the penchant which Oxford students have developed for the intricacies of gambling—poker and bridge in particular. Gambling and the consequent evils of semi-professionalism in the ranks of Oxford students has aroused the press of London, especially the Daily Express, into a campaign of exposure.

The paper claims that representatives of some of the most aristocratic houses of England have become so expert at card gambling that they are able to earn their expenses through the university. Bridge seems to be the particular delight of the students. Games start out right after dinner, it is said, with the stakes as low as four cents for ten points. Before the evening is closed they mount to fifty cents a point and some of the players retired with the satisfaction of having added fifty or a hundred dollars to their personal exchequers.

One enterprising entrepreneur-student set up a roulette wheel and is known to have made $2,000 during a certain period in which his expenses ran less than his winnings.

There are, of course, a corresponding number of students who lose these amounts and it is here that we suspect most of the parental complaints are registered. These debts of fifty or a hundred dollars a night ultimately find their way home to the parental estate and the pater has to make distribution for them.

The Oxford students haven't got much on us when it comes to gambling. They have effectively defended their constitutional right as the students of British universities to their "whiskey and soda", something which we have not been able to do, but when they set themselves up as the student gamblers non plus ultra, we rise to dispute their claim.

MEN AND COMPACT

Editor, The Daily Cardinal:

Ridiculous as it may seem, and daring as we may be to suggest it, we venture the prediction that next fall the men on the hill will carry compacts. We base our prophecy on concrete evidence. A few years ago men would have been the first to laugh at the suggestion that the Eds would sit in class and comb their locks or pause before every shop window mirror to adjust their moustaches. 1927 sees them doing it. 1928 will see them powdering their noses out of nifty compact cases inscribed with varsity or fraternity seals. Who can tell but that in 1929 it will be pigtail and pink shoelaces?

TWO INSTRUCTORS

DEFENDS SACCO AND VANZETTI

Editor, The Daily Cardinal:

In replay to R. R. W. of the Sunday Cardinal, I will try to explain why respected and intelligent people are trying to secure a new trial for Sacco and Vanzetti. Prominent lawyers like Prof. Frankfurter, of the Harvard law faculty, University presidents like our own Pres. Frank, economists like Prof. Perlman, eminent authors like Romaine Rolland, and brilliant scientists like Einstein are joining the million-throated protests from all over the world. They have studied the case carefully, and have based their conclusions upon facts; you, Mr. R. R. W., by your incorrect analysis and garbling of facts, have evidently not followed their worthy example.

In the post war periods, Attorney-General Palmer, whose name is no longer mentionable in honorable circles, was having his spies arrest anyone they could get who had a "red" tinge. Our prisons are still confining men like Mooney, who is already 11 years in a California prison! Sacco and Vanzetti were active in the labor movement of their town. When arrested they were found each carrying a revolver and radical literature announcing a protest meeting against the detention without warrant and subsequent deaths of their comrade Sacco whose smashed body had been found under the windows of the Department of Justice in New York.

The original testimony and subsequent affidavit of Captain Proctor, the arms expert, shows that the pay-roll official was not killed by the guns of Sacco and Vanzetti. Fear of a possible attack from the numerous hired thugs of the employers made it necessary for Sacco and Vanzetti to protect themselves. Evidence has been accumulating all these years to show that Sacco and Vanzetti have been victims of a frame-up from the very beginning. The charge has been made that local agents co-operated with the agents of Palmer and nothing has come forth to disprove it.

Who were your "respected citizens" who acted as witnesses against Sacco and Vanzetti. Do you call disreputable women and murderers your respected citizens? But even murderers sometimes confess the truth when they have nothing to lose any way. Celestino Madeiros, professional gunman on trial for murder, has confessed that the Morelli gang was connected with the murder and that Sacco and Vanzetti had nothing to do with the case.

You ask how a fair trial can be given now—seven years later. I ask you Mr. R. R. W. how is it that evidence proving the innocence of Sacco and Vanzetti was deliberately excluded from the trial? Prof. Hocking of Harvard states, "The excluded evidence is such, I believe, as would convince four out of five if they hear it with unbiased minds, that Sacco and Vanzetti had nothing to do with the murder."

You speak with fear that the freedom of these two men will mark the beginning of "staid New England" becoming a harbinger for (Continued on Page Five)

Readers' Say-So

(Continued from Page Four) gunmen and murderers like Chicago. Should Sacco and Vanzetti be executed, staid New England will become the Chicago of the "Haymarket Affair" of 1886, one of the most disgraceful pages in American history. A number of Chicago anarchists were hung in that year, charged with throwing a bomb. Six years later Gov. Altgeld of Ill. proved the innocence of the hanged men. But you cannot resurrect the dead!

The Sacco-Vanzetti case has become an international disgrace, similar in that respect to the Dreyfus affair in France. Sacco and Vanzetti must be given a new trial with a jury of impartial citizens. All those who believe in the innocence or doubt the guilt of these doomed men and do not make an audible protest, are silent, acquiescent accomplices to their murder.

SAYS MR. SCHLARER WAS ERRORNEOUS

Editor, The Daily Cardinal:

In reading the articles in Tuesday's Daily Cardinal regarding the relations of forest and floods I was amused at the statement that if it weren't for the denudation of our forest lands there would be no terrible Mississippi floods with the resultant loss of lives and property.

I believe the writers would find it interesting to go to the document room of the university library and look up the great floods of the Mississippi river. They would probably be surprised to see that some of the greatest floods occurred many years before lumbering operations were started anywhere in the Mississippi valley.

It is undoubtedly true that forests have a controlling effect on small floods resulting from storms lasting several hours. The great floods occurring nearly every spring, and particularly the one now rampaging in the Mississippi valley are the results of excessive rainfall or snow occurring in the basin, and if the whole valley, including the great plains which have never had forests, were covered with trees the difference in the floods heights would be hard to detect.

When the ground is once saturated, the rainwater must pass off, and even a single day's rainfall will produce its effect on a stream whether it is on a barren plain or in a dense forest.

One reason why recent floods seem higher is that land values in our river valleys are increasing and property owners seek to use the lands formerly flooded each spring by the river for agricultural purposes. Instead of allowing the river to spread out when floods cause the river to rise the water is confined between the banks of the river by levees. Naturally the flood heights will be greater.

Reforestation of denuded and cutover lands unfit for agriculture is an admirable thing and everything possible should be done to encourage the movement. It is important enough from the economic and aesthetic standpoint to stand on its own feet. I have not written this letter in depreciation of the reforestation movement but merely to try to correct the erroneous impression left by Mr. Schlauer that the great floods are due to the lack of forests.

DEAN CLARK DEFENDS MODERN YOUNG PEOPLE

In his article entitled "What Is the Matter with Our Young People?" in the May Rotarian, Thomas Arkle Clark, dean of men at the University of Illinois, gives his own experience with modern youth. He tells you approximately the outward difference between the new generation and the old, and wherein their moral standards differ. He answers recent charges that the present day youth as a rule is reckless, unrefined, and irreligious. For what laxity does exist, he definitely places the blame.

For what laxity does exist, he definitely places the blame.

Finds Rogers' Novel a Work of Wisdom
William Ellery Leonard Reviews Professor's First Effort

Editor's Note—THE SOMBRE FLAME is a new novel, written by Prof. Samuel Rogers of the French department. Prof. William Ellery Leonard here gives his idea of the "first novel."

By William Ellery Leonard (Professor of English)

THE SOMBRE FLAME is what the book trade calls a "first novel" something usually more interesting to the author and his wife and aunts than to the public. But not always. "The Vicar of Wakefield" was a first novel. There is such a thing as coming forth, for the first time, with a work of mature wisdom, beauty, and craftsmanship, especially if the writer be like Mr. Rogers is one who has had the patient intelligence to attack life long before attacking the typewriter.

THE SOMBRE FLAME is also a Professor's novel, a traditional, very specialized literary type, usually either unpublished or unread. But not always. "Herrick's 'Together'" was a Professor's novel. And Professor Rogers indicates the faith in his many minds that, after all, a Professor may sometimes be a creative artist. Our students, too, who will be widely reading the book, will find that in the academic halls, even in the humanistic subjects, one can himself sometimes do the thing, in addition to telling how it has been done or should be done. They will find much to think about concerning some obscure but simple wags of human nature, especially between the sexes, much concerning love and marriage which, in spite of the canniness of "the younger generation," they may not have understood as well as the author of THE SOMBRE FLAME. And they will be taken to deeper places and to higher than in most of the contemporary novels they buy, either at Brown's or Hawthorne's or the Co-op; and up on the cliff of the New England seaboard and into the boulevards, cafes, and domestic (though not always very domestic) interiors of Paris, dazzling in sunlight or electricity. The book is a notable blend of analytic thinking, humane feeling, dramatic characterization, and landscape with many fresh and convincing phrases that, if detached and printed with plenty of margin and bound between broad slabs, might furnish forth several free-verse pacts. And all under the dominance of one narrative rhythm.

But I understand Professor Rogers is already at work on a "second novel." I would look forward to this with more equanimity, had I not heard rumors that it deals with the university scene and its hero is a member of an English department—and with something of an ass. If this be so, I shall myself infallibly set to work on a novel of my own with its hero member of a French department—who shall be a rake and a villain.

BY H. B.
The best thing on the bill at the new Orph, is the picture, "White Gold," directed by William K. Howard and starring Jetta Goudal. The director's name is mentioned first because it deserves what honor goes with that position. With four characters and a desolate background, he has made a film that is far above the average, and worthy of better position than as chaser at a vaudeville house. Its "unhappy ending" was logical and in good taste; but of course it did not meet with the approval of the audience.

Lew Fitzgibbon
A single in one, with some skill on the xylo, some liking for his own piano music, and some apprehensions as to whether the drummer could keep up with him.

Wright and Dietrich
They sing fragments from opera, and other songs in their entirety. After trying to determine which was Wright, we reached the conclusion that neither was entirely.

Guy Voyer and Co.
Three fellows and a gal for each, all of whom sing, dance, and cut up generally. This is the first time that three bedrooms have been on the Orph platform in one act. That information should give an indication of the flavor of the act.

Bevan and Flint and Co.
This number has what is probably the Orehueum circuit's best double of the chief executive of this land of the free et cetera. The likeness is really striking, and the only thing needed to complete the illusion is a microphone in front of that face. The audience liked his fun, and Postum-like, there's a reason.

Frank Seifert and Co.
Another dance act, with seven girls who show up the man who gives his name to the number. One of the girls has a rubber neck. Frank himself was born to be a whirling dervish, apparently, but failure to make the whirlers' union, or some other good reason, sent him into Orph vaudeville.

Ray Comes Back
in Real Thriller
at the Madison

BY L. C. E.
Charles Ray comes back with a vengeance at the Madison the latter half of this week in "The Fire Brigade," a fast moving picture. Speeding fire trucks, burning fire-traps, crooked city hall politicians, crusading policemen and the good old quaint Irish humor furnish thrills and laughs galore.

Ray has had his ups and downs in the movies, but in this picture, produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, under the direction of William Nigh, he shows the old time rubbishiness and simplicity of acting which made him famous originally.

As Terry O'Neill, one of a family of four fire fighters, Ray exposes the city hall grafters who contracted to build fire traps. Besides this, he wins the heart of Helen Corwin (Mae MacAvoy), the political grafters' daughter, jumps to safety from a burning building with a little orphan girl, and teases his mother and grandpap.

Here is a real picture. Here is a glorification of the soldiers of peace, the firemen. Here we see pictured the silent heroism of the mother who has given a husband and two sons to the service of fire-fighting. Here we see homely and simple humor. This picture is intensely human. It plays on the heart strings. It pictures the fireman as he lives his everyday life. It shows him polishing brass, sliding down the pole when the alarm sounds, and climbing ladders in thrilling rescues.

The pipe organist at the Madison pleases me.

"TRELAWNEY OF THE WELLS," AT THE GARRICK MAY 7, HAS 16 STARS

"Trelawney Of the Wells," that 30-year old comedy of Sir Arthur Pinero, comes to the Garrick, Saturday evening May 7, for its only performance in Madison.

The cast which is comprised of 16 all-star members, includes such actors as John Drew, Peggy Wood, Helen Gahagen, Estelle Winwood and Mrs. Whiffen. The play itself is a comedy, giving a fancy portrait of the British stage in mid-Victorian days, when its spectacular obsessions and false romanticism were ready to crumble before the sincere drama.

Although the director, George C. Tyler, purposely designed that

Irish-Jewish Mix In Strand Film

Frisco Sally Levy Patterns After Abie's Irish Rose

G. S.

"Frisco Sally Levi" is, of course, another Irish-Hebrew picture, of which we thought we had seen the last. But it seems that their possibilities have not been exhausted, and we have this one as a result.

Sally is the daughter of an Irish mother and a Jewish father, and a member of a family of six, including the dog. Her young man is a motorcycle policeman, and the villain—well, he is as villainous as Roy D'Arcy can make him. So the fun begins.

The action revolves around the domestic life of Sally's home, which is none too peaceful; and then Sally gives it a wider scope by falling in love with L Sturt Gold, a very fashionable gentleman with a car, who succeeds in getting arrested repeatedly by Sally's original young man.

The end is inevitable. Sally has run away from home, but on Christmas Eve returns to gladden the hearts of her poor old parents. And the last scene is excruciating, especially for the incorrigible of the family, as pa and ma apply the bedroom slippers where they will do the most good.

Sally O'Neil is always piquantly sweet, except when she gets into a temper and spoils her good looks.

The other characters were successful, in their homely sort of way, and the picture, we must admit, was better than we hoped for. Subtleties might have been written by Milt Gross, so Grossian were they.

Now we are convinced that "Abie's Irish Rose" started something new in the theater, which is not altogether bad. There has been some excellent character acting in the few such "foreign" pictures that we have seen.

Engineers Choose Graduate Symbol of Slide Rule, "W"

After considerable delay, during which prominent engineering students, faculty, and alumni were consulted in connection with the selection of an appropriate symbol to designate the engineering graduates, the design of David C. Nowack '28, was awarded the first prize of $5.00 donated by Polygon.

The winning design incorporates a heavy block "W" in cardinal against a solid gold background. Across the body, at a well balanced slant, is placed a slide rule in white, upon which the details are made to stand out in white gold. The general opinion was that the slide rule comprised at the same time the most simple and universal engineering symbol.

On the whole the design is distinctive of engineering and Wisconsin. The contest was in charge of D. W. Thompson '28 and R. C. McCoy '27, and was judged by Prof. Millar, Prof. Jansky and Mr. Baldwin.

Sally O'Neil is always piquantly sweet, except when she gets into a temper and spoils her good looks.

Of Course You Think of Mother More than Once a Year

But Sunday, May 8, is such a nice time to prove that you do; for on that day, Mother's Day, she has the opportunity of knowing that you are more than a phantom correspondent, who writes to her frequently, that she has a real, live son or daughter who loves her more than anyone in the world.

The Chocolate Shop has remembered Mother's Day for you. Our selection of candies and special Mother boxes is more extensive this year than ever before. Mother is bound to like Chocolate Shop candy, the rich, creamy, home-made quality that has led to its fame in Madison. Italian Students Present Comedy at Get-together

BY M. H.

The Sereta Italiana, or in our own parlance, the Italian department get-together, held at Lathrop concert room Wednesday evening, succeeded in giving enjoyment even to the writer who knows no Italian.

A monologue, old Italian songs, sung by David MacPherson '29, and Martha Rowland '29, and character dancing by Harriet Smith '27, were given with a grace and smoothness that mere lack of acquaintance with the language could not spoil.

However, the presentation of "Fiori d'arancio" (Orange Blossoms) was the real event of the evening. This is a one-act comedy by Roberto Bracco, a Neopolitan playwright, and is centered around the unfortunate love of a middle-aged village school teacher for one of his pupils, who already has a sweetheart.

Janet Tietjens '30, who has, according to Mr. Russo, an excellent

Tuscan accent, played the part of the school girl in a lively, witty manner. Nicholas Magaro, grad, developed the character of the disillusioned school-master in a finished manner. But it was Professor J. L. Russo, chairman of the department, in the character of the good natured priest who pours oil on troubled waters, who drew the heartiest laughs of the evening.

"Orange Blossoms" is the third Italian play coached and presented by Prof. Russo during his three years at Wisconsin. The excellence of the performance is quite remarkable, if one considers how recently Italian has taken a place in this university and how limited is the number of Italian students compared to the enrollment in other languages.
