NAME HEADS OF VARSITY EXPO ON WEDNESDAY

Over 300 Students Will Compose Committees
on Wednesday

BY UNIVERSITY NEWS' SERVICE

With the announcement by Exposition Chairman William B. Florea that committee chairmen will be published Wednesday, the preliminary work on the largest student undertaking in five years is under way.

More than 300 students will be needed on the many committees to make the Exposition a success and 15,000 people will see the results of their work when the doors are opened April 21.

Pick Two Assistants

Two assistant chairmen will be appointed and all the committees with the exception of the news service and advertising will be divided for the immediate supervision of these assistant chairmen. Every branch of work is incorporated in these committees from giving the information about the Exposition to erecting the radio telephone sets and nailing together the 67 booths that will house the exhibits.

The actual setting up and arranging the exhibits will be done during the three days of spring vacation

PARTS FOR MANY ARE OFFERED IN HARESFOOT SHOW

Cast of Eighteen and Chorus of Sixteen Are Needed

With a total of eighteen speaking parts, four women and fourteen men, "Miss Quita," the twenty-third annual Haresfoot production, presents unusual opportunities for histrionic ability for men trying out for positions and parts in the show.

Each part is quite long and requires a definite quantity of talent. Chiquita, the ingenue lead, demands acting ability, as well as singing and dancing talent. Isabella, her companion, a fussy old Spanish grandame, is one of the comedy roles of the play. General Carramba, the leader of the insurgents, is another character part which takes a great share of the performance. Larry, the hero, is a typical juvenile lead, and demands good looks, a pleasing stage presence, a voice, and the ability to make love.

Irish Comedy Lead

Perhaps the most promising part in the entire play is that of Ralph Waldo Emerson Smith, the Irish attache of the hero, who falls in love with Mexico, its ladies, its tunes, and its liquor. As is indicated by his name, Waldo is a philo-

ASSEMBLY BILL NO. 63A

A BILL to repeal that section of the statute which provides for the admission to the bar of graduates of the state university law school was advanced to third reading by the assembly last Friday. Bills with the same purpose were presented at the legislative sessions of 1913, 1915, 1917, and 1919, and after extensive hearings by the judiciary committee, were reported unfavorably. This bill should share the same fate when it comes up for final passage.

It is not presented by the bar of the state or any other disinterested body seeking to advance the standards of admission to the bar. It is not seriously contended that the present law results in the admission of unfit men to the bar. The sole substantial reason for the bill is that the continuance of such a statute operates to the disadvantage of private schools; that through its operation special privileges are given the state university.

On this basis of argument it would be just as logical to present a bill seeking to abolish the university entirely because as a public institution it operates on public funds, which is something of an advantage over the privately endowed school. What the statute merely does is to keep on the highest plane possible the attainments of the men and women coming to the bar of this state.

CHESTERTON TO TALK MARCH 9

Will Study University—
"Lit" Brings Him to Madison

An unusual opportunity for Madison will be the visit of Gilbert K. Chesterton, famous English humorist and writer, who speaks in the Madison high school auditorium on March 9, on "The Ignorance of the Educated."

Mr. Chesterton is making a lecture tour of America, and plans to write a book on his impressions when he returns to England. He is visiting Madison partly for the purpose of observing Wisconsin as a typical middle western university. He comes as the guest of the Wisconsin Literary magazine, and will be entertained by Paul Gangelin, editor-in-chief of the magazine.

His newest book, "The New Jerusalem," is one of the best sellers in Chicago at the present time.

The mail order sale for the lecture will begin on Monday, Feb. 21, and will continue until Wednesday, March 2. Since the number of tickets is limited to 1,200, it is not expected that there will be many left for the open sale which begins on March 2.

All the seats are reserved, and are selling at $1.00 and $1.50. Checks accompanying mail orders should be made payable to The Wisconsin Literary magazine, and directed to the Union building. Reservations can be made on presentation of the tickets at Hook brothers from 2 to 4 p. m. daily, and at the Union building from 4:30 to 6 p. m. daily.

Wisconsin Women Visit Cornell and Get Glimpse of War on Co-eds

Two co-Ediths from Wisconsin went to Cornell Prom.

"And how," asked the reporter, "did you find the attitude toward co-eds?"

Co-Edith 1—Well, they didn't treat us the way they do their own co-eds—hardly. It is really the limit the attitude the men there take. None of the big fraternities allow co-eds inside their houses or allow their men to take them out.

"What is the reason?" inquired the reporter from Wisconsin, who was also a co-ed.

Co-Edith 2—I think it is all tradition, though they base their argument on the supposition that girls spoil school spirit. That, they claim, is the trouble with Wisconsin. By making things very unpleasant for the co-ed at Cornell, they keep away all but those who come purely for purposes of study, thought old grads, coming back, say that the men are losing their grip and more attractive co-eds are beginning to infest the place.

"What about this petition that the men have been circulating demanding that women students be segregated in their own colleges with separate instructors?"

"Oh," remarked the two co-eds from Wisconsin, "that's only a last desperate stand."

OCTOPUS TO HIT CAMPUS THURSDAY

"All the snap and pep of the winter is perpetuated in the Winter Sports number of the Octopus, which comes out next Thursday," said "Pat" Denis '21, editor of the Octopus.

BADGERS LOSE HARD BATTLE BY 17-9 SCORE

Inability to Shoot Basket
Again Brings Defeat to Meanwell's Men

(Special to Daily Cardinal)

The Wisconsin basketball five lost to Illinois last night by a score of 17 to 9 in the hardest fought contest the Badgers have had this season. Coach Meanwell's men had a decided shade over the Suckers during the first half in floor work and defensive play, but the inability of the Cardinal players to shoot baskets was disastrous to their offense.

The Illini led at the end of the period 5 to 3, both teams having scored one field goal. The Suckers staged a great come-back in the second period and virtually defeated Wisconsin at its own game, that of the short pass. The Badger defense prevented them from working the ball through, however, and all of the Illini scoring was made on long shots.

Walquist played a great game for Illinois, his fast dribbling and accurate basket shooting contributing largely to their strength. Captain Vail and Reitsch were also

KENNEDYS WILL READ PLAYS ON THURSDAY NIGHT

English Actress and Playwright Husband to Give Varied Program

Edith Wynn Matthison, famous English actress, will read with her husband, Charles Rann Kennedy, well known playwright, a varied program of plays next Thursday night in Music hall. Selections Shakespeare, from "The School for Scandal," "The Servant of the House," and "The Rising of the Moon," will be given. The Kennedys are coming to Madison under the auspices of the three dramatic clubs, Edwin Booth, Red Domino, and Twelfth Night.

Edith Wynn Matthison, who was born in England, married Charles Rann Kennedy in 1898. She began her stage career in musical comedy, but since then she has played many different roles in Greek plays, Shakespearean and other Elizabethan plays, old English comedies, and modern plays. She played Portia and Rosamond with Sir Henry Irving. There is practically no type of acting which she has not undertaken. In motion pictures, she starred in "The Governor's Lady" and played Queen Katherine in "Henry the Eighth" with Sir Herbert Tree.

She is best known for the roles which she played in Maeterlinck's "Blue Bird" and "Bethrothal," in "The Servant of the House," by her husband, "The Piper" by Josephine Preston Peabody, and "Everyman," an old English mortality play.

AFTER the strenuous exercise of a week ago, last Friday and Saturday nights were tame and mild in comparison. However, the Gamma Phi front porch showed signs of quite usual activity, despite the slump enjoyed at other sorority lodges.

PROM brought about the usual wholesale exchange of society emblems, sometimes known as frat pins. We anticipate, nevertheless, a vice versa exchange, brought about by the passing of the dress suit and the coming of spring.

AH! SO IS DEAN SELLERY
"Mrs. Rosenberry, formerly dean of women, is well known in university circles for her messages to Wisconsin women."—the deet.

SPEAKING of Dean Sellery, we saw that dignitary standing in front of Brown's Book shop the other day, with his arms loaded down with bunches of 10 cent volumes of—well, we couldn't tell what they were. But what we want to know: Was the dean making a few post-Prom sales, perhaps to pay the rent on the dress suit, or was he making use of the cash and carry act?

DEAN GOODNIGHT tells about his fall from grace in a fashion that undoubtedly puts him on the black list. One of the local ministers called the dean regarding a certain man in the university. The dean was not quite sure that he was acquainted with the man under discussion.

"Oh," the l. m. hastened to state reassuringly, "it's quite possible that you don't know him; he's one of our very nicest young men."

CONTRARY to popular rumor, the leading lady in "Miss 'Quita" does not come from New Jersey.

The room is quite cold,
And the radiator's dead;
But thank Heaven, it's Sunday,
We can all stay in bed.

WE wonder if the Law students have yet discovered that side door into law practise that the Marquette dean accuses them of using. If they had, it's safe to say we'd be using it now; we're finding our English major a little strenuous.

AT CORNELL
At Cornell they've got the notion
That a woman is a fool,
And they'd send 'cross the ocean,
Or some other place to school.
Well, well,
Cornell.

And Cornell's in quite a flutter
And they're raising quite a rumpus,
'Cause the women seem to clutter
And muss up their man-made campus.
Well, well,
Cornell.

And they're getting out petitions,
And they're raising quite a stink,
Getting out anti co-ed editions,
Wasting lots of printer's ink.
Crawl in your shell,
Cornell.

Don't you know that woman's folly,
And the way that women act,
Are the things that make men jolly,
And teach them all their tact?
So they tell,
Cornell.

If you'd lose your pose of learning,
And your sage mysogonism,
You'd find yourself soon turning,
From your hopeless antagonism,
Oh hell,
Cornell.

And if you'd take the woman to your arms,
And ask if she'd forgive;
She'd look at you, and sigh, and smile,—
Then you'd begin to live!
We fell,
Cornell!

THIS morning ye ed. will go to church.

O'Brien is Run Over by Own Automobile

Run over by his own automobile, Allen O'Brien, who lives about a mile south of Madison, sustained a broken shoulder and bad cuts and bruises last night. He is resting fairly comfortably at the general hospital. Mr. O'Brien was cranking his car and had left the engine in gear. The machine started at full speed and running over him, dragged him about 30 feet.

Mrs. Belle Mills, 7 South Webster St., fractured her hip last night while getting off a street car. It is believed that the car started up before she had both feet on the ground. She was taken to the general hospital, where she is recovering.

ophic fellow, and his utterances are sage and wise.

"Miss 'Quita" deals with the entanglements of an American engineer in a Mexican revolution, and was written by Horace Carver '21, Paul Gangelin '23, Kurby Ramsdell '23, Horace Gregory '23, and A. C. Hamilton '23. The entire musical score, containing several choruses, orchestra selections, and seventeen songs, was written by Earl Carpenter '21.

Chorus of Sixteen or More

In addition to the large cast, a chorus of eight men and eight women, or more, will enliven the whole play. Candidates for positions in the chorus will be tested for grace, looks, voice, and dancing ability. A twenty-piece orchestra, as well as a large stage crew and executive staff, will accompany the production on its entire tour of eight cities in Illinois and Wisconsin.

Places in all divisions of the production are open, and all men who desire to try out will be present at the first tryout Wednesday evening at 7 at the Wisconsin high school. No preparation is necessary for the first tryout, and no requirements need to be fulfilled save that all men must have sophomore rating or over to take part in the play.

LUTHERANS PLAN HOLIDAY OUTING

The students of Luther Memorial have made plans for a mid-winter, mid-day hike and wiener roast to be held on Washington's birthday, February 22. Over 150 people are expected to join the hikers who will meet at 10:30 a. m. promptly at Luther Memorial church, dressed in rough-and-ready clothes.

In case of cold weather, the people are requested to dress warmly. At 12 o'clock, the hikers will call a halt for lunch, after which the weather permitting, various stunts will be effected.

immediately preceding the opening day. Governor John J. Blaine and President E. A. Birge will officially open the Exposition Thursday evening when the doors are opened for the first time.

Daily features are being planned and a continuous performance will be run from 2 to 12 o'clock each of three days of the big show.

Only Show of Kind

Wisconsin is the only university that has ever put on an Exposition, of which this will be the third. The first Exposition was given May 3, 1912, and the last one was held in 1915. Willard Sporleder, chairman of the last Exposition, spent six hours a day on the preliminary work for the four months preceding the opening day.

Due to the fact that it was only three weeks before examinations, the faculty finally allowed the requests and petitions of the Council of Forty, White Spades, and individual students to hold the Exposition this year, five months' work must be condensed into two. Every student, no matter what may be his interests, who has any time to spend on outside activities is urged to report to the general chairman at Badger 8, that the show may be the largest and best that has ever been produced.

Pathe Film corporation will have special photographers assigned to cover the Exposition for their news service and the university will again have the opportunity to say, "the first produced by any university or college in the country."

'SEGREGATE CO-EDS' SAY CORNELL MEN

Cornell men students have protested against co-educational education. Nine men, representing Senior Council and honorary societies, have presented demands to the Cornell faculty that women students in the institution be segregated in their own colleges with instruction in separate buildings, and that enrollment of co-eds be strictly limited.

BAZAAR NETS $125 FOR FAMINE FUND

A sum of $125 was taken in by Chinese students at the Oriental bazaar held in Lathrop hall Saturday afternoon, for the Chinese famine relief fund.

Prof. Louis Kahlenburg donated $5 to the fund, and Miss Margaret Scallon, instructor of English, $1, while seven anonymous contributions amounted to $6.25.

By far the liveliest spot of the bazaar was the refreshment room, where over 50 university tea lovers imbibed steaming cupfuls of fragrant Ceylon.

Commenting on the result, M. H. Chou, chairman of the committee, said "Chinese students appreciate the aid given to their countrymen by our American friends. We thank them."

SPIRIT OF MARDI GRAS MARKS FEATURE AT ORPHEUM MONDAY

The producers of "The Spirit of Mardi Gras," which will be the headline attraction on the Vaudeville bill for the first three days of the week, opening Monday night, have kept in mind the true meaning of the spirit of Mardi Gras. Mardi Gras is carnival at its best and carnival is all that goes to make color, rejoicing, laughter, music and gorgeousness. This is the idea in the revue extraordinary called "The Spirit of Mardi Gras." With this as a guide, a beautiful stage spectacle replete with elaborate stage pictures, gorgeous costumes, pretty girls who sing and dance splendidly and a coterie of young men who are thorough musicians have been brought into existence.

"The Spirit of Mardi Gras" is presented by an exceptionally clever company of carefully picked entertainers headed by Amelda Victoria. Miss Victoria is the particular bright light of the company of shining lights. Her radium is undisputable. "The Spirit of Mardi Gras" is in two scenes "The Land of Make Believe" and "Where Song, Dance and Music Live."

Second on this exceptional bill, will be found George Damerl, assisted by Myrtle Vail and Opal Elliott in Jack Laits' musical satire, "The Sixth Reel". Mr. Damerl, a Madison favorite, has in his new act the role of a highly strung romantic character of his surest sort, and Miss Vail, appears as an atmospheric dancer of South Sea Island type, as a new kind of vampire and as a slave girl. The balance of the bill will include such well known acts as Billy McDermott; Rae Eleanor Ball and Brother, Combe and Nevins; Kennedy and Nelson and Kinogram and Topics of the Day pictures. The above program will be on view Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights, with matinees on Tuesday, (Washington's Birthday) and Wednesday.

ASSEMBLY BILL NO. 63A

The diplomas of the law school are based upon a four years' high school course, two years of collegiate work in the university, three years of resident study in the law school, and six months clerkship in a law office. The examinations in law extending over a period of about 10 days, comes six times in the law course. Each student will average 360 questions, and from 15 to 18 days in preparation.

Compared with the bar examiners' certificate under the law based upon a four years' high school course or examination, three years' study of law, none of which need necessarily be in a law school, and an examination extending over three days, upon 60 to 70 questions, the higher standards of the former method becomes readily apparent.

Moreover, aside from these considerations of high attainments, under the present statute, the new law is entirely unnecessary. While all candidates for admission to the bar should pass an examination held by and under the authority of the state, there is no necessity that they should pass two such examinations. The examinations conducted by the law school are as fully and properly state examinations as those conducted by the bar examiners. They cover much more ground, both in time and range of subjects than the bar examiners can possibly cover in the limited time at their disposal, and are conducted by men presumably especially qualified to examine.

It has been urged that the present law is unfair to the graduates of other law schools. The argument is fallacious, since it assumes that the university law school is a private institution. The university school is a state school, maintained at a large expense to the state for the purpose of securing an efficient and well-trained bench and bar. The members of its faculty constitute a specially appointed and well equipped state board to train and examine applicants for admission to the bar.

Their position is as independent as the state board of bar examiners. They are under no temptation to relax standards for the sake of students, as students who have been through the ordeal of the course will readily attest. The school and its work are under the supervision of the Board of Regents, state officials, and the law committee, which is composed of lawyers. A committee of the board of visitors comprised of lawyers annually inspects the school.

The practice of admitting graduates of the state university to the bar without examination is not peculiar to this state, but prevails in 15 states. Of the states requiring a bar examination, 14 have no state university law school, notably the states of Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, and Pennsylvania.

The passage of bill 63A would tend to discourage attendance at the law school. But unless such attendance should be encouraged rather than discouraged, the state has no business to maintain a law school.

Bill 63A should fail of final passage.

ATTENTION ATHLETES!

ELEVEN of Wisconsin's best swimmers were ineligible to compete in the Illinois meet yesterday because of athletic misfortunes. Although it was noted with some gratification that the basketball team survived the examination and the moral nevertheless persists that an athlete's first duty is to be eligible.

The man who can make a touchdown or kick a point is not going to be of much service if he fails to come through in one of his subjects this year, and a 10 second man is of no use to the track team if he cannot compete. It is primarily up to the football men, the basketball players, the cinder path experts, the swimmers, and the divers, to make certain that when the final examinations do come, they will not be hanging over them like the sword of Damocles.

The new semester has barely begun; the work of this point has been largely preliminary. But the real work will not be long in starting. It would be nothing short of a highly pleasing surprise to have every mainstay and every prospective member of every Badger athletic squad emerge from this semester's work with unquestioned eligibility. A little application now, not four months from now, is a good plan for all of us to follow.

CITY MAY VOTE ON WATER PLANT

Special Committee Last Night Discusses Softening Project

Whether Madison voters are to be permitted to express their opinion in a referendum at the spring election on the proposal to soften city water probably will be decided by the council in a special meeting of the committee of the whole Monday evening after the aldermen have heard arguments presented by representatives of civic organizations.

The special water softening committee, consisting of representatives from the chief civic organizations, formulated plans at the conference held Friday evening at the Association of Commerce rooms for presenting the facts regarding a softening plant.

The supply of water from artesian wells will be adequate for the city until it reaches a population of 90,000, Leon A. Smith, superintendent of the waterworks told the committee. After that part of the supply will have to be taken from the lake, he said. At present the average daily consumption is about 4,000,000 gallons and the supply is double the consumption, he declared.

The special committee voted to give publicity to arguments for and against the water softening proposal to enable the people to vote intelligently. Dr. E. J. Tully of the Technical club will explain chemical changes that have to be made in the water, and Mr. Smith will explain the economic aspects of the project. Don E. Mowry, secretary of the Association of Commerce, was elected chairman of the committee.

Mrs. H. J. Clark declared that the proposal would be accepted by an overwhelming majority if the women of the city were permitted to decide. Mrs. Frederick W. Roe said that the water is distasteful and difficult to use for household purposes. Mrs. A. M. Frish, Catholic Woman's club, said she had found it necessary to install a water softener in her home.

Press representatives on the committee agreed to give arguments on both sides publicity. William T. Evjue expressed doubt as to whether it is the proper time to decide the question. It would be strange if aldermen, who are good politicians, should oppose something wanted by their constituents, he said.

Dr. Tully explained that chemicals are introduced in the softening process to remove objectionable matter, and that all chemicals used in the process would be removed before the water is sent into the mains.

It would cost $200,000 to install the plant, said Mr. Smith, and the change would result in an annual increase in water rent to the average water taken of $3, or 25 percent. The softening process would not affect the taste, temperature or quality of the water, he said. Saving in soap alone would more than offset the increase, he declared.

"If the city voted Mr. Smith the $200,000 needed, and then gave him all the savings in coal, soap, and the like, and the additional 25 percent increase in water revenues, it would enable him to more than pay for the construction and maintenance of the plant in one year," said John C. White, engineer in charge of the capitol heating plant.

Members of the committee who attended the organization Friday were: William T. Evjue, Association of Commerce; I. U. Sears, Rotary club; Dr. E. J. Tully, Technical club; John C. White, Kiwanis club; Mrs. I. J. Clark, Civics club; Mrs. Frederick W. Roe, Woman's club; Mrs. A. M. Frish, Catholic Woman's club; Don E. Mowry and L. A. Smith.

"DAD" WOLF WILL SPEAK AND SHOW SLIDES TONIGHT

An illustrated talk by Secretary Frederick E. Wolf on "Pre-war Germany" will be given at the Badger club in the university "Y" parlors tonight.

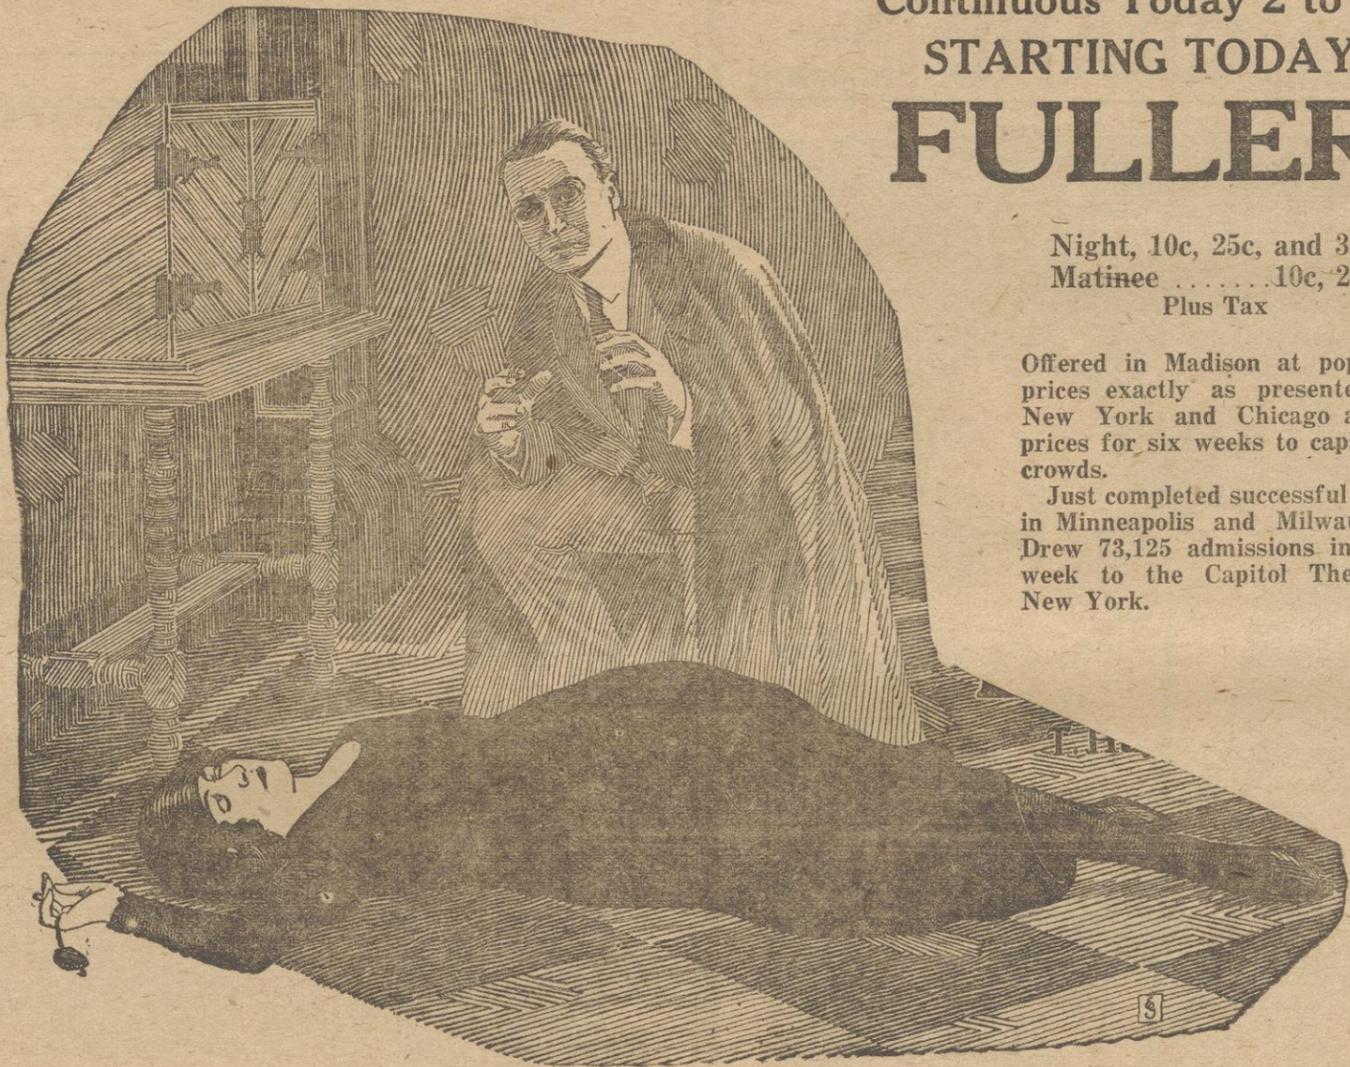

Mr. Wolf spent the spring and summer immediately preceding the World war in making a tour of Northern France, Switzerland, Holland, Germany, England, and Scotland, and was in London at the commencement of hostilities. On his trip through Germany he made a collection of photographs which he took in the big industrial centers, in Berlin, in the Rhine country, and elsewhere. The illustrated slides made from the pictures are among the very few collections dealing with Germany such a short time before the war.

This evening meeting is to mark the re-opening of the club for the second semester. The entertainment starts at 8 o'clock, and includes a musical program and refreshments. The club is open to all men and women students.

Hosts and hostesses for the evening will be Prof. and Mrs. F. Austin Ogg, Miss Newton, Chad chaperon, and Miss Cooper, of the Theta house. There will be a special business meeting of all enrolled members of the club at 7 o'clock in the "Y" parlors.

MARKETING IS BIGGEST ISSUE

State Division Declares Crops Should be Sold Gradually

Marketing problems, the Market Division says, claim the attention of farmers almost to the exclusion of any other problems. The farmer has realized that unless he is able to sell his products at a good price the increase in production will be of no benefit to him. The importance of marketing problems has been emphasized during the Get-Together marketing conference. The lack of warehouse and storage facilities was shown to be a very important cause of unprofitable marketing.

Crops should be marketed gradually. The sudden unloading of crops on the market gives an opportunity for manipulations and hurts the ideal condition which we want, namely, an even marketing based on the actual demand. In years of plenty a surplus may be produced. This surplus ought not to be dissipated or wasted, but should be conserved. If it is unloaded upon the market falling prices result, which affects the following year's production which is detrimental to all. Flooding of the market also often enhances the power of the speculators and especially when they control the storage and distributions of food products with the result that the consumer derives no benefit.

The remedies which were suggested at the conference to remedy the economic situation of the farmer can be summed up in the following five points: (1) The elimination of unnecessary factors in distribution. (2) The organization of co-operative sales agencies. (3) The standardization of farm products into grades and classes. (4) Storing enough farm products to even up the flow according to demand. (5) Devising of a credit machinery that will enable the farmer to market his goods.

Woman's Party to Adopt New Program

WASHINGTON — Miss Alice Paul, former leader of the National Woman's Party, officially surrendered her post in that organization today after more than eight years' service. In announcing her resignation Miss Paul made known her refusal to head the new organization created yesterday under the old name during the closing sessions of the party's last convention. A formal statement said: "The woman's party ends its existence with its purpose accomplished. The new organization under the old name will carry on the policy of the woman's party. Its program will be strictly feminine to increase the power of American women."

Miss Foley yesterday was summoned to appear as a witness at the trial in Wichita of George Cruse, a travelling salesman charged with having killed his third wife by choking her to death. According to Miss Foley's father, John Foley, his daughter and Cruse had been friendly for some time.

SASH TRANSFORMS THIS SIMPLE GOWN

The gown shown here is, of itself, a simple affair made of brown satin or straight lines with a square neck and short sleeves. Pinwheel ribbon trimming forms a border on the skirt. The simplicity of the frock is transformed, however, by the fringed sash of wide flowered ribbon. The fringe is eighteen inches deep and features hand-made knots.

SNAPPY POSTERS ON MILITARY BALL WILL WIN CASH

The Military ball publicial committee will conduct a poster contest, which will be somewhat different from other competitions of this nature that have been held on the university campus in the past.

Prizes of $5, $3, and $2 will be awarded for the three best posters. Judgment will be based upon the power to attract attention and arouse interest, as well as on the actual technique of the painting.

Ten posters are wanted and only ten entrants are to be invited to compete. The posters, which must be finished by March 10, will be judged by W. H. Varnum, professor of manual arts, E. H. Gardner, professor of business administration and English, and E. A. Culler, instructor in psychology.

GOOD TURN OUT AT "LIT" MIXER

New students were given their first opportunity to experience the novelty of a university mixer last night when the men's "lit" societies staged the first all-university mixer of the semester in Lathrop gymnasium and concert room.

Those attending comfortably filled the hall. The mixer-goers danced to Thompson's ten-piece orchestra, and were chaperoned by Prof. and Mrs. F. O. Reed. The committee on arrangements comprised Frederick Stewart '23, chairman, Philomathia; Carl Laun '21, Hesperia; and S. S. Jordan '22, Athenae.

Last night's mixer was the first venture of the men's literary societies in all-university social affairs, but the societies are now considering making the mixer an annual event. The proceeds will be used for the furtherance of forensics.

FRESHMAN PROGRAM AT MENORAH MEET

The annual freshman program of the Menorah society will take place at 7:30 tomorrow night at Lathrop hall concert room. For since its innovation several years ago, the freshman program, managed in every detail by the yearlings in the society, has been one of the big features of the year.

The program will include several musical selections, a reading, a short talk, a dramatic reading, a takeoff on the older members, and several features which the committee in charge did not wish to disclose. The participants have been at work perfecting their selections for a number of weeks, and have indicated that their respective offerings will set something of a real standard for others to follow.

W. Felter, Madison agent for the Harley-Davidson motorcycle, reports unusual activity in motorcycle circles. A motorcycle race to Middleton and return is being arranged for when weather conditions are favorable.

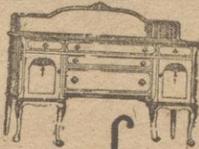

ONLY STUDENTS AT WEEK-END DANCES

No one but students will be admitted to the Candy Shop dances on Friday and Saturday nights, according to Jack Boyd, manager. He has sent out 400 post cards announcing their new rule.

The crowded condition of the hall on these nights is the reason for this change. Only one member of a couple had to be a student, according to the former rule.

GIVEN OVATION CHILD CONCERT

Concert
Grade School
Capacity House Present at

A capacity house heard the second of the musical concerts given by the grade school children Friday evening, in the Madison High school auditorium. The unique feature of the evening was the juvenile orchestra, composed of eleven of the smallest children, who played the "Toy Symphony" with considerable musical ability.

There was a variety of music given by the different grades. The boys' chorus sang "John Peel," a north country song, "Off to Philadelphia," an old Irish melody, and "La Paloma," which was accompanied by various instruments from the junior orchestra. The girls' chorus contributed "A Merry Life," "Believe Me," and "My Sunshine" to the concert with clear voices and harmonious melodies. A mixed chorus of boys and girls of the fourth grade sang three numbers.

An example of what can be done in the way of orchestras was shown by the fact that they ranged from the smallest grades to the high school, and remarkable ability was shown. The junior orchestra played "Moment Musical" by Schubert, and "Gypsy Dance" by Behr and the high school orchestra played the "Blue Danube Waltz." The high school band, under the direction of Charles Tomlinson, which is the first of its kind in the city, was a delightful surprise. The pieces were played with fine expression and harmony, and is a band that Madison may be proud of.

Miss Anno Menaul and Miss Alice Hansen directed the program, and should be credited with bringing out the musical ability of the school children, and fostering musical appreciation.

NYE MEASURE IS POSTPONED

Women Lost Fight for Consideration of Bill

Indefinite postponement was the fate of Senator Nye's bill which proposed to amend the 55 hour law with regard to the hours for working women to include women working in hotels and other occupations which do not come under the present statutes.

This decision was arrived at by the senate state affairs committee, before which a two hour hearing was held yesterday afternoon, after a deliberation of little more than 15 minutes. But one dissenting vote was cast, and that by Sen. Kleist, socialist from Milwaukee, who favored the bill.

George P. Hambrecht of the industrial commission and C. H. Crownhart appeared for the bill, as did a number of women, representing every large woman's organization in the state.

The women were Mrs. M. V. O'Shea, the Madison Consumers' league; Miss Eleanor Henry, W. C. T. U., who is one of the women running the college refectory; Mrs. A. C. Anderson, Federation of Women's clubs; Mrs. William Kittle, state Consumers' league; Mrs. Charles McCarthy, League of Women Voters; Mrs. John Burrowbridge, Women's Trade Union league; Mrs. E. A. Ledwith, Wisconsin Progressive Women's association; Mrs. L. M. Hobbins, Public Welfare association; Miss Theresa Cosgrove, Catholic Woman's club. Among the strongest pleas was that made by Miss Henry.

Appearing against the bill for the state board of control was E. A. Everett.

ILLINOIS TANK MEN WIN, 35-33

Crippled Squad Performs Well—Koch and Bach Lead Scoring

The Wisconsin swimming team lost to Illinois yesterday afternoon by a 25 to 33 score.

The score was close throughout the meet and it was only a shortage of eligible men that prevented the Badgers from piling up a larger number of points. The performance of Steinauer's men far exceeded expectations and the large crowd which witnessed the meet was more than satisfied with the showing made.

Illinois easily won the water basketball game. They scored at will during the first half, making four baskets, while Wisconsin was held pointless.

BADGER BATTLE IS LOST, SCORE 17 TO 9

powerful factors in the Illini playing.

The Wisconsin team fought gamely against the odds of superior weight. Taylor, Williams and McIntosh worked at the forwards, and their passing completely dazzled the Suckers during the first half. Caeser at center played an excellent game. Wisconsin had nearly twice as many shots as Illinois and repeatedly the ball would appear to go into the basket, only to roll out.

Frogner, Williams, and Tebell formed an air tight defense against which Illinois was forced to resort to the long shot. Williams held both Hellstrom and Mee scoreless while Frogner held Reitsch to one goal. More than 5,000 rooters saw the game which was the most exciting held on the Illini court this season.

Schommer and O'Malley officiated in excellent manner and it was a real battle from start to finish. The Badgers left this morning for Columbus, Ohio, where they will meet the Buckeyes Monday night.

MAT MEN TAKE DOOMED MATCH FROM PURPLE

Wisconsin mat men defeated Northwestern in a wrestling match, 30 to 14, at Evanston Friday night. A crippled team for Wisconsin and the prospects of certain defeat gave added zest to the victory.

Templin, Wisconsin, weighing only 154 pounds, furnished the most gruelling battle of the evening when he finally pinned his 175 pound opponent to the mat after three full 7 minute periods.

Prideaux was unable to take part in the match, as Northwestern had no 115 pound man. The 125 pound match was forfeited to Wisconsin because the Purple man was disabled. In the 135 pound class Hess outpointed his opponent, but was a loser on the referee's decision.

Captain Peterman got a draw on the first bout; the second fall was ruled out on a technicality; the third bout was a draw, but the match went to Peterman.

Pier lost in two falls to the star and captain of the Purple outfit. McMurray, heavy class, won with the first and third falls.

Netherton, Indiana, university, was referee.

CULVER, ALPHA PHIS, BELOIT LEAD RELAYS

Betas and Sigs Tie—Company G Wins in R. O. T. C. Field

Winning in the closest finish of the carnival Culver Military academy defeated Shattuck in the inter-military academy event of the fifteenth annual University of Wisconsin relay carnival at the gym annex Saturday night.

Freeman, running for Shattuck took the lead in the first lap, and Gold, who ran second in the relay, increased the distance over the pursuing Culver man. Culver closed up the gap when Williams took the baton, and doughty Williams overtook his man and pulled ahead in the run. Hevia maintained the lead and brought Culver safely over the line, a winner.

Alpha Phi Wins

Alpha Phi captured the sorority relay race, with Delta Gamma second, and the Pi Phi third. The winners were judged by time made, and not by the order of finish. Ellison, Stolley, Peterson, and Brothers ran for the victors, and Blakeman, Leith, Mills, Blodgett represented Delta Gamma.

Betas and Sigs Tie

The inter-fraternity relay, which was also judged by time made, resulted in a tie between the Beta Theta Pi sextet of runners and Sigma Chi. Sigma Nu gathered in a third place in this event, and Kappa Sigma won fourth. The tie between the two fraternities was not run off, but if present plans mature, these frats will meet a later date to settle the inter-fraternity championship of Wisconsin.

Beloit Safe Winner

Upsetting the dope in the inter-college relay, Beloit college defeated its nearest rival, Ripon, by a safe margin. The Beloit quartet was well balanced and had no difficulty in keeping a nice lead over the Cardinal team. Carroll, which finished third, lost out when one of the runner dropped his baton. The result of this race gives Beloit the relay championship of the Wisconsin "Little Five" college conference.

Madison High school vanquished the rival University High relay squad in a close race. Madison took the lead at the gun, and was never headed by the "little Badger" runners. B. Johnson, Doyle, Eisle, and McFadden ran for Coach Otto Endres' team.

Company G of the University R. O. T. C. unit captured the inter-company relay. The winners loafed through the event and were never in danger. Company A won a second in the race, and Company I finished a poor third.

Sundt Wins Again

Throwing the shot for a distance of 39 ft. 11 inches, Guy Sundt '22 for the second time became the holder of the Arlie Mucks' trophy as the best Wisconsin shot putter. Hans Gude '21 closely pressed Sundt, and Joe Liskovec '21 heaved the iron for a third place rating.

The Bob Wahl trophy offered for the best high jumper, went to Basil Mobley '22. Armstrong and Gibson tied for second and third places in this event. Another tied event was the pole vault, in which Wilder and Merrick hoisted themselves 12 ft.

Culver, Shattuck Tie

Knollin won the 40-yard high hurdles, barely breaking the tape before Stolley came in. Spetz gathered in the 40-yard dash and Stolley won the 45-yard low hurdles. May finished ahead in the running broad jump.

Culver and Shattuck divided the two military academy field events Woodington, Culver, winning the high jump, and Pierard, Shattuck, copping the shot put.

A large crowd witnessed the fifteenth annual relay carnival, which fulfilled predictions that it would be the best carnival ever attempted by the university athletic department. Much of the success of the meet is due to the efforts of Earle

S. Hirsheimer '21 who was chairman and general manager of the event.

Summaries of the carnival follow:

40-yard high hurdles—1st, Knollin; 2nd Stolley; 3rd, Andrews. Time, 5:3.

ROUND TABLES ON VOCATIONS IN CONFERENCE

Women's Guidance Meet
Provides Three Prominent Speakers

The 1921 Vocational conference for women to be held next week, February 24-26, shows a new departure in its program, which provides for Round Table discussions by graduates, members of the faculty, and persons of experience in special lines, besides three big speakers.

The first part of the conference, held at the end of the last semester, for the purpose of informing women as to what courses in the university would help them in their vocations, was especially for freshmen and sophomores and new women. This section, however, is for all women.

Three Women Speakers

The conference will be opened by a talk by Miss Florence M. Marshall, head of the Manhattan Trade School for Girls, in New York city, on "Vocations for Women," at 4:30 p. m. Thursday, Feb. 24, in Lathrop parlors.

The second speaker will be Miss Helen Bennett, who is the director of the Chicago Bureau of Collegiate Occupations. She will speak on "Vocational Opportunities for Women," at 4:30 p. m. Friday, Feb. 25, in Lathrop parlors.

Mrs. Katherine Willard Eddy, a national officer of the Y. W. C. A., will give a short talk on Friday afternoon at 4, on "Y. W. C. A. Secretarialship as a Profession," in the same room.

EDDY TO LEAD APPEALS FOR CHRISTIANITY

First Week-end of March
Set for University Conference

Sherwood Eddy, the prominent lecturer, traveler, author, and student religious worker, has been chosen to lead the annual all-university religious conference to be held Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, March 4, 5, and 6. The conference, which is planned by the campus religious council representing the organized denominations in the student body, is under the chairmanship of Lothrop "Bud" Follett '21. It is being planned to meet the religious needs of the students and is an annual all-university occasion.

Sherwood Eddy is a prominent figure in student religious work and is a traveler of some distinction. His work is as well known in the other countries of the world as in the United States. He will conduct the all-university convocation on Friday afternoon, March 4, and will be the main speaker at the subsequent meetings.

Wolf States Purpose

"The purpose of the conference," said Frederick E. Wolf, secretary of the university Y. M. C. A., "is to place before the students the claims of the religious life, and to emphasize that phase of student activity just as every activity—athletic, literary, and social—receives emphasis. No right thinking man or woman passes up this side of life without giving it at least straightforward consideration. And it is for that purpose that this strictly undenominational all-university conference is going to be held."

Churches Aid Work

In addition to the university activities of the convention, the city churches are conducting individual meetings at which prominent denominational speakers have been secured. All university institutes will be held Saturday under the direction of prominent religious authorities. Saturday evening Sherwood Eddy will address a meeting for men alone and Mrs. Eddy will preside at a women's convocation.

The plans for the conference are extensive and a full program for the entire week-end is being worked out under Follett's direction. Committees for the conference have not

Large Attendance Marks First Social Affair—Plan for Picnic

Robbers two-step and cut-in dances proved very successful in getting the freshmen women acquainted at the Green Button matinee dance Saturday afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock in Lathrop parlors. Punch was served during the afternoon. One of Thompson's four-piece orchestras furnished the music.

"This is the first social affair that Green Button has put on this year," said Lila Ekern '24, president of the organization. "We are very much pleased with the response from the freshmen women."

"Freshmen commission helped us a great deal in getting the crowd out," declared Lucy Jamieson '24, publicity manager.

Chaperons for the afternoon were Dean Nardin, Mrs. H. L. Ekern, Mrs. Mendenhall, Mrs. S. A. Oscar, Miss Clarissa Adams, Miss Lucy Walrich, and Miss Clara Williams.

The social committee, of which Ruth H. Jones '24 is chairman, is making plans for a Green Button picnic in May, and a banquet in June.

yet been completely chosen. The conference is receiving the usual enthusiastic support of the faculty and university authorities.

POULTRY CLUB TO MEET ON THURSDAY

The Badger Poultry club meeting scheduled for Tuesday evening, Feb. 22, will be postponed until Thursday evening, Feb. 24, as Tuesday is a holiday, the president announced last night.

The first meeting of the semester will be held in 206 Agricultura hall, at 7:30 p. m. The chief business of the meeting will be a general arrangement of activities for the current semester.

Howard King '20, now employed on a poultry farm five miles south of Madison, will talk Thursday night. Mr. King is an expert in all the branches of the poultry game, it is said, and will base his talk on practical experience in the business.

Refreshments will be served later in the evening and a social session will follow the speech.

KENNEDY TO READ ONE OF HIS PLAYS

Edith Wynn Mattison, His Wife, Will Appear With Him

Charles Rann Kennedy, well known dramatist, together with his wife, Edith Wynn Mattison, will read selections from one of his own plays, "The Servant in the House," Thursday night, Feb. 24, in Music hall. The Kennedys will also read selections from "The Merchant of Venice," "School for Scandal," and the whole of "The Rising of the Moon."

The three dramatic clubs, Edwin Booth, Red Domino, and Twelfth Night, are responsible for bringing the readers to Madison. Tickets can be bought from members of the clubs or in the buildings on the hall.

Charles Rann Kennedy has been engaged in many other kinds of occupations besides that of writing plays. He was born in England in 1871, and was self-educated. From the age of 13 to 16 he was an office boy and clerk, from then until 26 he was a lecturer and a writer. Until 1905 he was variously occupied as actor, press agent, theatrical business manager, and as a writer of short stories, articles, and poems. Since then he has devoted most of his time to dramatic writing. His best known plays are "The Servant in the House," "The Terrible Meek," and "The Necessary Evil."

There will be no issue of the Cardinal, tomorrow, Wednesday, Feb. 23.

ANNEX RELAY RECORD TIED

Sigma Chi Equal Time of Fourteen Years' Standing

To win the Inter-Fraternity Relay championship of Wisconsin, Sigma Chi fraternity defeated Beta Theta Pi and Sigma Nu in a race which tied the gym annex track record of 1 minute 39.2-5 seconds. The relay was run off in the annex on Monday afternoon as a sequel to the tie which existed between Sigma Chi and Beta Theta Pi in the Inter-Fraternity Relay event of the Fifteenth Annual University of Wisconsin Relay carnival held last Saturday.

The time of the two heats of the fraternity race in the Relay carnival gave both Sigma Chi and Beta Theta a record of 1 minute, 40 3-5 seconds. Sigma Nu finished third.

Yesterday Sigma Chi romped home first, with the Phi Beta Pi sextet of runners in second position, and Sigma Nu trailing. The time of 1 minute, 39 2-5 seconds, which was made by a Delta-Upsilon relay squad and which stood 14 years, was set by Tormey, Christman, Knudson, Picket, and Johnson.

The men who ran in the race which decided the inter-fraternity championship are:

Sigma Chi—Hoard, Bronson, Capen, Stone, Holbrook, Fourness.

Beta Theta Pi—Nash, Post, Field, Woods, Ellison, McKinnon.

Sigma Nu—Stolley, Phillips, Dorries, Salentine, McCandless, McCartney.

W. A. A. WILL HOLD MEETING TOMORROW

Margaret Swift '21, president of the Womens' Athletic association, has called a special meeting of that organization for Wednesday night at 7:15.

"It is essential that every member be present at this meeting," declared Miss Swift yesterday, "because nomination of officers will be in order. Another phase of the meeting will be the discussion of plans for the W. A. A. delegation to the national conference at Bloomington, Ind., in March."

The meeting will be held Wednesday night because this week Tuesday will be a holiday.

Varsity Movie Receives Approval of Noted Historian

Professor Carl Russell Fish, A.B., A. M., Ph.D., professor, author, diplomat, and military machine expert, has turned movie actor.

According to the latest advice from the Varsity movie headquarters Professor Fish will play an important part in their production, that of a "grizzled old college professor," who is greatly disturbed at the capricious antics of his beautiful young daughter. The be-whiskered individual cannot comprehend the compelling poetry of the college world, seeing only books and research until finally—but more of that anon.

Professor Fish is a member of the faculty dramatic society, the Curtain club, in which he has scored several decided successes. He heartily approves of the first student photo-drama as a worth-while outlet for any super-abundance of student energies.

Professor Fish is internationally known for his connection with the Carnegie institute, National Board of History, Mississippi Valley association. During the war he served as director of the British American University Union in Europe, War History commission at Washington, and as a military machine expert. He is also widely known as an author. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Delta Chi, Beta Theta Pi, and the Wisconsin Academy of Sciences. He is a graduate of Harvard university and obtained his Ph.D. degree at Wisconsin.

"MUGS" BRABANT IS CHOSEN AS FIRST "LIT" MAG BEAUTY

Holder of 167 May Claim Candy at Chocolate Shop

Clad in white serge trousers and straw hats, the Ozo twins invaded the campus yesterday morning and officially opened the subscription drive of the Wisconsin Literary Magazine.

They will appear on the hill and throughout town again today, and all this week, and will pick the most attractive co-ed encountered each day in their travels. The girls selected will each be given a free subscription to the "Lit" for the balance of the year.

By mutual consent, the twins yesterday awarded the campus honors to Margaret Brabant, and her name has been duly entered to receive the first of the free subscriptions. Miss Brabant was chosen not only because of her exquisite and crowning beauty, but also as a mark of appreciation of the adorable and charming manner in which she greeted the "Lit" representatives. The twins will choose another "beauty" today. But that's not all.

Each day they will give out several hundred numbers, as they did yesterday. Each night, a drawing will be held in the "Lit" office, and the holder of the duplicate number will be given a fine box of bonbons by presenting the winning duplicate at the Chocolate shop. The several boxes of candy are now on display in the store window.

The winning number yesterday was number 167, and the person holding that number may claim the first box of candy at the Chocolate shop today.

Substitutions—McIntosh for J. Williams; Tebell for Taylor.

Wisconsin defeated Ohio State 40 to 21 last night in a game at Columbus in which Coach Meanwell's men did some of their best playing of the season. The game was characterized by brilliant shooting and passing.

The Badgers were not able to locate the basket during the first half of the game, making it possible for the Buckeyes to come within two points of tying the Badgers at the end of the period; but with the beginning of the second half the Badgers began a brilliant game of accurate basket shooting and fast passing that virtually played the Buckeyes off their feet.

Meanwell employed the system of working the ball up to the basket for short shots which met some successful opposition in the Illinois game Saturday night. The Buckeyes were unable to get up to their basket owing to the effective Badger defence which was also a characteristic of the Illinois game. Owing to the Badger defence the Buckeyes were obliged to make nearly all of their throws from the center of the floor and practically all of their scoring resulted from long throws.

McIntosh substituting for J. Williams led the Badger scoring with six field goals.

HARESFOOT TRYOUTS TO BEGIN TOMORROW

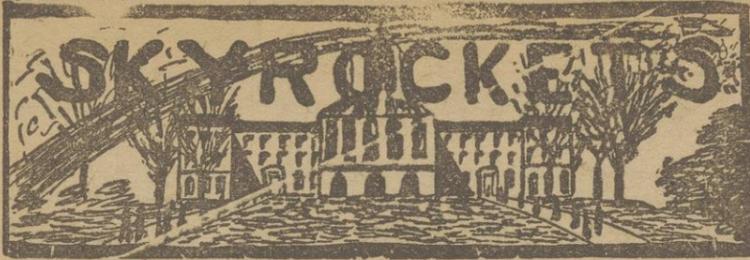

Purnell Declares That All Have an Equal Chance

Tomorrow night, at 7 o'clock, February 23, the Haresfoot club holds its first tryout for the play, "Miss 'Quita," at the Wisconsin high school, and it is expected that a great number will turn out in order to secure parts in the musical comedy, which will be taken on a tour of seven cities in Illinois and Wisconsin.

The fact that there are a great number of parts to be filled this year adds to the attractiveness for those attending. The only requirements set down are that those trying out is that they must be sophomore men or upperclassmen in the university. Every one is wanted to come and try out no matter whether they have had experience or not in the way of acting.

Not only are there roles to be filled in the cast and chorus, but an orchestra has to be selected. Places are open in all branches of the business staff, publicity staff, and stage production staff. The musical comedy itself offers 14 speaking parts and 16 or more chorus parts. Two entire casts will be selected so that the play can be gotten under way to the best of advantage within a few days.

William Purnell, president of the Haresfoot club, desires all to know, that there is absolutely no preparation for the tryouts and that everyone has an equal chance to make any one of the many parts that are open.

The war has been at least partially successful. It is the Socialist party that has been most active in working for the maintenance of Italian neutrality. If there is an effective blockade, we shall have nothing more to say. But if there is not, it is clear from to-day's Washington dispatches that our Government will have a great deal to say.

THE STUDENT'S WORLD.

Among the mass of newspapers and magazines that confront us this morning, one strikes the eye as somehow different from the rest. Perhaps it is the matter of size, for this journal is smaller than the ordinary newspaper. Certainly in appearance its front page is unmistakably that of a wide-awake periodical. Yet the topics dealt with are not quite those of other newspapers. There are no flaming headlines about the war, nothing about Mayor or Council or Congress. Instead, we have announcements like these: "Noted Editor to Speak at Sunday Evening Meeting"; "Harvey Wins for Kappa in Classic Relay Marathon"; "Badgers Expect to Down Gopher Quintet Tonight." A newspaper and yet not a newspaper—it must be a college journal. So it is, as its name, the Daily Cardinal, attests. "Owned and Controlled by the Student Body of the University of Wisconsin," it is one of the foremost of its class, serving as a model for student newspapers in smaller or less advanced institutions. Turning its pages, we discover the editorial policy that governs it. News in every paragraph, but always news about the University of Wisconsin, and always snappily written, this is the evident ideal it has set before it. In only four places does it condescend to recognize the existence of the outside world: in news items about an execution at Sing Sing, a leaking liner off Cape Race, the price of bread in New York, and a railroad wreck in Indiana. But these items were plainly inserted less for their importance than as "fillers."

At first sight, then, this student daily might seem to show the old self-sufficiency and aloofness of the student body. It can get along without other people's newspapers. Its doings require a newspaper of its own. But this would be to judge superficially. In the days when the student was really in a world of his own, he did not imitate the outside world from which he had withdrawn himself by engaging in an activity reflecting one of the most feverish of the activities that he had left. He wrote essays for a literary monthly that lifted its eyes to the great names of the past. He turned out poetry that his friends compared to the classics. He had shaken off the dust from his feet against the world of hustle and bustle (temporarily), and was devoting himself to the life of the spirit. In his heart, he despised, or affected to despise, the ephemeral literary activity that manifested itself in the poetry column of his village weekly. He was aiming at higher marks. Let those write for their contemporaries who could not write for posterity.

That picture is still representative of more colleges than might be supposed. But few of them are in the present-day student's "Who's Who." More and more consciously, the student feels his college life, not as a golden age, happily unrelated to the workaday period that must form the rest of his life, but as a definite preparation for that part of his life. So far as he can, he is turning the college into a huge laboratory for experimentation in living. His management of an athletic team is excellent preparation for business, much more practical than any lecture course on Business Administration. So, why not a newspaper? The metropolitan daily he will imitate in its construction and display of headlines, its briskness in telling its story, its make-up. And he does. The third of a column in which the Daily Cardinal announces Hamilton Holt's lecture on peace gives the student reader just what he wants to know, not only about the lecture, but also about Hamilton Holt. No "pink sheet" in Chicago presents athletic results with more vividness and conciseness than characterize the report of the inter-sorority relay race. In one respect, the report is much superior to many of those in the "pink sheet." It is free from the sporting slang that some student newspapers have taken over from metropolitan dailies.

Parallel to this rise of the student newspaper has been a development of the opposite sort. The same dissatisfaction with purely academic life that has found expression in the campus journal has weakened interest in the campus magazine. To be a reporter for the Daily Undergraduate is a worthy ambition; to write a story for the Torch is a waste of energy. Send it to Harper's or the Century, and get good money and reputation for it. Bryant set the precedent when his "Thanatopsis" appeared in the North American Review, but few have followed him. Has this been because most students were a bit undeveloped for writing for their elders? If so, have they suddenly grown up, or are their elders less exacting now than formerly? The net consequence of this two-fold development is that one expression of student intellectual activity stands out more and more conspicuously: one sees a student newspaper, one does not see a student magazine. News, since athletic, fraternity, and similar doings, lend themselves to being reported much better than do more-intellectual doings, the outsider gets the impression of a world much like his own, in which purely intellectual activities are not the main thing. Is this an accurate picture of the college of to-day? If not, is it right for the college newspaper to give its space to non-intellectual events? Perhaps this shows how well the student newspaper-makers have succeeded in their attempt to counterfeit the news-sheets of that outside world which presses so closely upon the once aloof and sacred campus.

A resolution favoring some form of world-state has been introduced into the Massachusetts Legislature. But what would be the credit in being hub-of-such a discordant universe as this?

BOOKS AND READING.

What did Shakespeare look like? Looking on this picture and on that, we are doubtless ready to accept, rather than the gleaming dome of the Droesholt production to anything but the materials for a study of the subject, and we doubt the expediency of importance of printing it at all. A summary statement 300 pages of his own conclusions, fully differentiating what was known from what he has learned, have been valuable. On study could enable a student estimate the amount and its value. F

NIGHT EDITOR—DAVID K. STEENBERG.

GEORGE WASHINGTON

AMERICA pauses today amid the turmoil and confusion of her varied and complex life to honor the memory of George Washington. A hundred eighty-nine years ago today, that illustrious soul first entered the world in which it was destined to play so important a part. A hundred eighty nine years ago today, began that life which, directly and indirectly, has figured so strongly in the destiny of America and the world.

It is both futile and foolish to endeavor to here set forth the incidents and achievements of Washington's fruitful years. Volumes cannot do justice to such a task.

There are, however, certain obvious facts which shine forth spontaneously at the mere mention of the name of Washington—facts so indissolubly linked with the greatest of our first president that they always reappear with his memory.

The name of Washington will forever remain a symbol of patriotism in the highest and noblest sense of the term—idealistic and unselfish service to better the land and life of one's fellow men. To Washington, in no small measure, fell the task of giving independence to our land and of satisfactorily maintaining it when it was established. The framing of the Constitution, its adoption, the creation of national unity, the establishment of America's prestige at home and abroad, the meeting of seemingly impossible problems, both domestic and foreign, the actual formation of a successful government—these are memorials to Washington's service to his country.

Washington is likewise remembered for his mental abilities—abilities which rank high for what they achieved. It is doubtless true that in the history of our nation there are many men whose intellectual brilliancy outshines that of Washington. But for soundness of judgment, for the ability to hit the right mark, for remarkable foresight, George Washington stands unequalled in the annals of our land. He was not brilliant, but he was a thinker of notable judgment, of notable accuracy, and of notable foresight.

Washington always stands before the American eye largely for his purity of character. His character has become the legend of our youth. While most of us do not believe that the story of the cherry tree is unquestioned truth, the story, by its very nature, is emblematic of the attitude with which Americans have looked upon Washington's character. In America's hundred forty-nine years of existence, she has produced no man of stronger, more upright, more moral, or more admirable character than George Washington.

America today honors George Washington for his countless deeds and achievements and honors him especially as a patriot, a practical thinker, and a man. All honor is due "the father of his country."

AN INSPIRATION AND A CHALLENGE

IN another section of this issue appears an editorial reprinted from the New York Evening Post. The high character of this paper is recognized throughout the country and its utterances carry weight beyond the ordinary.

In this editorial the Post pays a remarkable tribute to The Daily Cardinal. The New York editor was impressed with the make-up of the Wisconsin daily. He liked the snappy written stories, the enterprise which described the life and activities of the students, and the application of the arts of the metropolitan paper.

Summing up, The Daily Cardinal is called one of the foremost in its class.

This was back in 1915. Ever since that time this paper has been endeavoring to maintain the high standard which inspired praise from so influential a source as the New York Evening Post. The road has not always been smooth. Difficulties, unknown to those who sit back comfortably and read the campus news every morning, are always being encountered. But all this is in the romance of the game and has supplied the stimulus for greater effort and greater achievement.

The contemplation of the Post editorial serves a double purpose. For the student body as a whole it gives an idea of the prestige which the Daily Cardinal has won even in the supposed provincial east. Familiarity with the paper causes some students to take it for granted.

For those who are not working to keep high the standard of the paper the editorial is a challenge to give the best that is in them and not to relax until the highest possible degree of perfection is reached.

POOR GEORGE!

Cardinal Cubess Reporter Attempts to Write Feature Story

"What do you know about George Washington," asked the Cubess reporter, drifting into the office with that harrassed air that she wears to keep people from asking her to do any extra work.

The desk editor looked around the office to see if there was anyone else there to answer her, but seeing that there wasn't, he yawned openly, and asked,

"Whada you want to know for?"

"Feature story. I never knew George myself," glooped the Cubess sweetly.

"They say the Betas claim him as an original charter member," suggested the ed. helpfully, "but you know how the Betas are. They claim everything that isn't copyrighted. Anyway they have a picture of him, and probably they all think he is a brother."

"I knew an Ag once," mused the reporter, playing aimlessly with the typewriter keys, and he said that once he tried to celebrate Washington's birthday the way George did himself,—you know, the cherry tree chop-chop. So he went out and chopped down a cherry tree at the Ag school. And instead of agreeing with him about how noble he was, they made him plant another tree, and wouldn't let him graduate till it grew as big as the other one had been. At least, he said so. He was in school eight years, I guess, but that cherry tree part doesn't sound like a news story to me."

"I never could see the object in chopping down that tree in the first place," grumbled the editor. "There wouldn't be any cherries on it in February, anyway. It's kinda silly, I think. I'd have waited till the cherries were ripe. But nobody gives me any credit for being particularly spectacular."

"My word, no!" said the Cubess, adding, unkindly, "I am determined to become famous, as Georgy did, by telling the unpleasant truth."

"Go tell it to somebody else, then!" sniffed the ed. "I thought you were writing a feature story."

"So I am!" cried the reportress, sitting down to the typewriter and beginning the story. "Oh, say, have you ever been in Washington?"

"No, I haven't," said the ed., turning his back to her, as a gentle hint.

"They say you can't send mail to Washington anymore," persisted the Cubess.

"No! Why's that?"
"He's dead," said the Cubess, shifting rapidly to another chair and pretending to be someone else.
