STUART GIVES COMMENT ON HUGHES PLAN

In Laying Her Cards On the Table America Used
Business Diplomacy

One of the interesting comments on Secretary of State Hughes' message to the disarmament conference comes from Dr. G. H. Stuart of the Political Science department of the university.

The message to the conference in which the plan of the United States was presented called forth much praise and criticism from the political experts of the nation. Dr. Stuart, who has followed developments in this field closely, gave out his views of Hughes' diplomacy in an interview yesterday afternoon.

"Diplomacy, according to the rules of the game," said Dr. Stuart, "means that your country's representatives shall gain the maximum of advantages at the minimum of cost, with the least possible indication of the true reasons back of the negotiations."

"The ordinary American business or professional man who enters the diplomatic service, both by training and equipment, is unfitted to compete under these rules. If he attempts it, he is beaten before he starts. Mr. Hughes recognized this situation and decided to make his own rules. The advantage would lie clearly with us if we could force the other nations to deal with us diplomatically in exactly the same way that we bargain with them commercially."

"A fixed price and value given has been the basis of our business success; why not use the same methods in diplomacy? Secretary Hughes apparently saw no objections and the astounded European diplomats have seen their intricate and devious smoke screen of diplomacy completely swept away, and the plan of campaign exposed to the eyes of the world."

"The advantages of the situation for the United States are manifest. In the first place, the sheer audacity of the move has put the other powers on the defensive. Secondly, the people of the world have been given a concrete basis of expectation, and the representatives will hardly dare to entirely defeat their hopes. In the third place, a precedent has been set for open diplomacy in the conference which will make it difficult to return to the methods of the Versailles conference. Finally, and most important—"

Carlson Appoints New Traditions Committee

The following men have been appointed by George A. Carlson, sophomore president to take the place of those now on the temporary committee: Robert Hesse, chairman, Carroll Callen, Curtis Moss, Ambrose Penefather, Earl Cannon, William Flugsted, John Packard, Clarence Wieland, Donald McComb, Delbert Paige, John Emery, Carl Vonnegut.

Varied Program Offered by Red Domino Players

Red Domino will open its season with the presentation of three one act plays in the concert room of Lathrop hall tonight at 8 o'clock.

The first of the series, Boccaccio's "Untold Tale," was in the repertoire of the Washington Square players in 1917.

The Untold Tale, a romantic tragedy of the Italian Renaissance, takes place in Florence during a terrible plague.

Olivia, who is the heroine of the story, escapes from the plague with her exquisite beauty unmarred. Florio, her lover, is led to believe that her illness has cost her all the beauty she possessed. Florio, unable to bring himself to look upon this new Olivia, blinds himself, and immediately afterward learns that he has been deceived.

The cast of the Untold Tale is: Olivia, Pauline Ambrose; Florio, John Bessel; Violante, Elizabeth Sehon; Lizza, Miriam Doan; Dioneo, Horace Wetmore.

The production will be costumed in the Italian Renaissance period.

"Phipps," an English farce by Stanley Houghton, centers around the plans of My Lord and Lady to secure a divorce, by forcing the butler to serve as a witness when My Lord strikes My Lady.

The butler, forgetting the fact that he is merely a servant, becomes a man and rushes to the rescue of My Lady, and in a conversation which entirely ignores My Lord, he proclaims his love for My Lady.

The play closes with My Lord and Lady both recognizing the chivalry of the butler.

The part of Phipps will be played by William Purnell; My Lord, Wells Carberry, and My Lady, Roberta Lowden.

The last of the plays, "The Shepherd in the Distance," by Hamlin Garland, is a humorous pantomime written after one style of the Chinese drama, in which the action takes place through sounds.

The cast of the play is: the Shepherd, Olivia Fentress; the Princess, Margaret Emmerling; Wazir, Arline Klug; Vizier, Agatha McCaffrey; Nubia, Ruth Koppke; Ghurri-Wurri, Alma Fenn; the Goat, Mildred Downee; the attendant, Frances Hughes.

The main thread of the story, in which the princess foils her father and escapes with a shepherd contains an unusual amount of action. The quaint picturesqueness throughout the play is most charming.

Mrs. Clara Filtzer Hertzler has devoted much time to the coaching of the plays.

Tickets will be on sale in Bascom hall today. The price is 50 cents.

All Octopus Copies Sold Out Yesterday

The Octopus yesterday repeated last month's performance of completely selling out its issue on the first day.

By 2:30 every copy placed on sale in the buildings on the hill had been taken. No copies of the autumn number can be secured at the Octopus office today, but it is possible that drug stores and news stands may still have a few for sale.

More books will be printed for the December issue, according to Philip Lawson '22, Octopus business manager, in order that no one will be disappointed next month.

DRIVE TOTAL IS WITHIN $8,000 OF GOAL DESIRED

Clean-up Ends Today as Workers Finish Last of Campus Canvass

Ninety-two thousand dollars is registered on the indicator on the upper campus for the Memorial Union drive this morning, to start the last day of the ten day campaign. An effort has been made by the canvassers to reach every student in the university at his room. Today the solicitors are endeavoring to clean up the whole proposition and put Wisconsin over the top with a cheer.

"If you have not been reached, call at the Memorial Union headquarters at the Alumni building, and we will be only too glad to take care of you," announced "Hap" Baker, general chairman of the drive. "The receipts at present point toward the attainment of our goal, and 24 hours more will tell the tale."

"We are proud of the response shown from every student," said Prof. Edward H. Gardner, eagerly. "One last lap remains before the milestone has been passed, and once more Wisconsin can feel herself a leader among the Western universities. We have never failed to put across a proposition yet, and we know no such word as failure this time."

Many congratulations from alumni centers have come in the last few days. The work of the personnel and the spirit displayed by the student body has spread throughout the whole country, wherever Wisconsin grads are backing their Alma Mater. The support of the alumni body has helped to put the campaign across, just as the university response has proved to these faithful lovers of Wisconsin that the Memorial Union must become a reality.

No Charges Presented At Election Hearing

Due to the feeling that the election committee was not the proper body to sit in judgment of an election handled by them, the hearing of charges against the election was turned over to the Student Senate, at the open meeting which was called yesterday noon to bring out the direct statements made against the action of the committee. Sterling Tracy '22 presided.

The problem of finding a suitable body to conduct the hearing was made difficult by the objection to the new senate made by Melbourne Bergerman, namely, that granting authority to men who received their positions in the contested election would be recognizing the validity of the election.

Game Returns to Be Given at Gym

Returns of the Chicago-Wisconsin game will be given at the university armory at 2 o'clock, Saturday afternoon, Nov. 19, under the management of the Athletic board. The admission will be 10 cents, payable at the west entrance of the gym, which will be the only entrance. A cheerleader and a band will be there to support the spirit.

Coach Jones Secures Additional Tickets For Chicago Game

In response to the prevalent feeling among the student body that they had not been fairly considered by the athletic department regarding the distribution of tickets for the Chicago game, Coach Tom Jones of the athletic department made a flying trip to Chicago Wednesday evening.

In a telegram sent to the Cardinal, Jones says, "I have been able to secure enough seats to accommodate each person who filled out an application Wednesday morning; only one ticket will be sold to each applicant, however. Persons who have filled applications at the office may call for their tickets not sooner than 4:30 Thursday or later than 1:30 Friday."

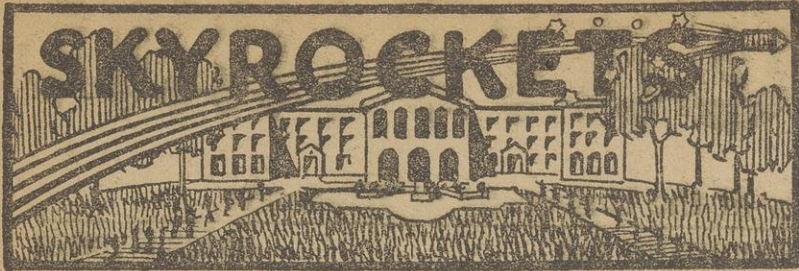

"Most of the tickets in this group will cost $3.00, he continued, "although there are some which will sell for as low as $1.75."

FORCE OF HABIT

DID you ever notice that Jimmy Brader, Guy Sundt, and other great politicians never use the door marked "PUSH," but always enter the one with the "PULL" sign on it?

WE learned the other day in Zoology that the lack of the use of any organ would cause the loss of the use and function of that part of the body. For example, the mole has eyes but cannot see. To get back to where we started, if women stopped talking about clothes and men, and the men stopped talking about money and women, the human race would soon lose the power of speech.

SPEAKING of research work in the study of Anatomy, did you know that Doctor Middleton has recently discovered the sex of the phonograph? He says that it is feminine because it will repeat whatever is taken into it.

"Father," the little boy called frantically, "There's a big spider on your head."

"Never mind," the absent-minded father replied, who was deeply engrossed in a musty book, "Just put your foot on it and don't bother me."

FILOSOFY

RAILROAD JACK is conducting a class in philosophy at his class room on the corner of Wisconsin avenue and Mifflin street. He gave several interesting bits of advice to his "teahound" understudies. We repeat them verbatim.

"When a girl blushes like a cherry, she's a peach."
(Ah, there's food for thought)

"A wall flower is usually faded but never pressed."

SENATE HOLDS ELECTION OF NEW OFFICERS

Gabbard and Stewart Head
Governing Body; Birge
Gives Opening
Speech

The election of L. P. Gabbard, grad, as president of the Senate, the appointment of a committee to investigate the ticket sale for the Chicago game, and the drawing up of a resolution scoring The Daily Cardinal for devoting insufficient space to forensic activities were among the first actions to be taken by the new Student Senate which met in President Birge's office last night.

Robert B. Stewart '22 was made secretary of the Senate and the various committees to serve during the academic year were elected. Immediately after the elections, Sterling Tracy '22, former president of the Senate and George Stolley, acting secretary, retired in favor of the new officers.

Birge Praises Senate
Praise for the work accomplished by the Senate during the past two years was given by President Birge, who addressed the body before the business of the evening was taken up. "If you succeed in controlling groups, you will succeed in controlling individuals," he said. He urged the members to hesitate before assuming more power in self-government.

Referring to hazing, President Birge stated that no American who had thought the matter over, would have any other American lowered to a position of inferiority in front of the Lincoln statue. He also told the Senate that he was ready to

"Beauty is only skin deep, but many fall for this skin game."
(Do you get the meat of the thought?)

HAVE you heard about the latest Wisconsin style? We have seen girls who "rolled their own" in cigarettes and stockings, but Joy Bacon "rolls her own" galoshes. Is it fashion or necessity, Joy?

A miserly old farmer lost several hundred dollars in Middleton last week, but recovered it through the Lost and Found columns of a local newspaper. He was being congratulated on his luck.

"I understand that you got your $600 back?" called one of his neighbors.

"Nope, only got $599.77 back. Those fools at the newspaper office robbed me of 23 cents for my ad."

THE VAMP

He threw me down,
He done me dirt;

He was a flirt.

Dairbanks: "If I should kiss you, would you slap me?"

Michford: "Yes, but honest, I won't hurt you."

AFTER seeing Red Domino make up the stage, their faces, and their times, and after carrying rugs, cigarettes, candlesticks, and pianos all over Lathrop hall for them, we have reached the conclusion that it is easier for some people to make up their faces than their minds. Everybody has a face.

Want Forensic Publicity

After a long discussion on the lack of publicity given to forensic activities by the Cardinal, a resolution was adopted calling the attention of the Cardinal Board of Control and the members of the staff to this fact. Senator Stewart pointed out the popularity of forensics among the students and told of the need for the support of the student body in sending debating teams to contest with other schools.

The new elections committee composed of Edison Boerke, chairman, L. O. Hughes '22, George Stolley '22, Albert Knollin '22, and Horace Powell '23, was instructed to take steps toward arranging for better election booklets and polling place than were provided at the last election.

The members elected to the committee to investigate the ticket sale for the Chicago game are Edison Boerke, chairman, Ivan H. Peterman '22, and Ralph Axley '23.

The members of the other committees are as follows:

Executive—Wayne L. Morse '23, chairman, Maynard Brown '23.

Judiciary—Ralph Axley, chairman, Robert A. Aspinwall '22, and Walter Frautschi '24.

Joint Government—Walter Frautschi, chairman, Cyrus H. Peterman, and James Powell '24.

Progress ives Discuss Plan For Campaign

The first open meeting of the campaign conference conducted Wednesday and Thursday by the Wisconsin Womens' Progressive association was held this afternoon in the auditorium of the city library.

The meeting was called by Dr. Jean Cooke, of Darlington, Wis., to discuss campaign plans for the 1922 elections. Miss Gene Thompson, executive secretary of the association, whose headquarters are in Madison, was the first speaker. She described the organization. Miss Irma Holstein, of the state free library commission also spoke. Miss Glenn R. Turner will address the conference this evening.

NEWS OF CONFERENCE SPORTS

NEW FIGHTING SPIRIT SHOWN BY MAROONS

Mid-season Slump Disappears
In Hope to Even Score
With Badgers Saturday

(Special to the Daily Cardinal)
CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—After a heart to heart talk by "Old Man" Stagg, in which he placed special stress on the faults shown in the Illini game, the Maroon Varsity pranced upon the field last night with a fighting determination, the like of which was shown after the Princeton game. Stagg realizes the great power of the Badger machine, and will leave nothing undone in the way of preparation for Saturday's clash.

Before the Illini game, the spirit of the Maroons was decidedly broken, for the men went about their duties in a listless and sullen manner. The spirit tonight, however, was greatly changed. The players realized that, although there is a slight chance for a championship, they may make a good showing for the season by defeating the Cardinals.

Thomas Back

Thomas, fullback, whose stellar line plunging was the principal reason for defeating the Indians, was limping slightly tonight but Trainer Johnson states that the star performer will be in fine fettle for Saturday's clash.

The team as a whole emerged from the Illinois struggle in good condition. Pyott, speedy halfback, is a bit puffed about the eyes, but is not hampered in his playing. "Red" Bryan, halfback, who has been in the hospital for a week, returned to the squad, apparently none the worse for his enforced stay in the infirmary. He will, no doubt, play in Saturday's game.

Scrimmage Frosh

The varsity met the freshmen in a peppy scrimmage session last night. The "frosh" used Wisconsin plays exclusively, but made little progress against the giants. After the scrimmage the varsity held a long practice session in an effort to perfect the trick plays that are to be used in the Badger game.

From the athletic office comes the news that the two teams will play to capacity crowds, as all tickets for Saturday's clash have already been sold. It appears as if the general public will have little chance to view the pastime, as all ducats have been grabbed by alumni and students.

BIG THREE TEAMS NEAR FINISH OF EASTERN SEASON

Yale Holds First Position as Victor Over Tigers; Penn State Beats Navy

The curtain began to fall on the football season in the East last Saturday, when Princeton lost to Yale in the second Big Three game of the year.

Captain Aldrich led the attack, and his heavy teammates efficiently aided him in atoning for the poor showing made a year ago. The Tigers allowed a touchdown to be pushed over during the first quarter, but staged an alarming rally in the second period. Five out of six forward passes were completed and then the great line plunger, Garrity, carried the ball over. Princeton played an entirely defensive game in the second half, but Aldrich managed to get close enough to the goal so that he was able to send two drop-kicks between the bars.

The Tiger season cannot be said to have been entirely unsuccessful. While defeats were suffered at the hands of Chicago and Yale, the victory over Harvard a week ago is of no small consequence, and demonstrates that the team was by no means weak.

Yale Gets Title

There now remains but little doubt that Yale will have a clear claim to the championship. While Harvard is still to be met, the Crimson have not as yet shown stuff that will enable them to bring home a victory. All three teams were strong, and the close scores which have resulted have characterized the season as being one of the most successful that has ever been carried out.

A second eastern game which was no less a titular clash was that staged between Penn State and the Navy at Philadelphia Saturday. Neither eleven had previously suffered defeat, and the exhibitions put up by both teams was one of the best seen in some years. Especially was this true when the Midshipmen, in the final period, displayed wonderful line-plunging and ball carrying ability. The final 13 to 7 score was against them, however, and State college still goes undefeated.

It is unfortunate that the eastern conference does not embrace more schools, as does the Big Ten. The winner of the Big Three and Penn State could stage a great game, but, as in past years, the virtual champion will never be decided upon.

Harvard Stages Comeback

As has been the case in several games this season, Harvard staged a last minute rally and registered a 9 to 7 win over Brown. Late in the fourth quarter the score was 7 to 3 against the Crimson. They received the ball on their own 20 yard line and marched the entire length of the field for the touchdown that gave them victory.

The Army completed its home schedule by overwhelming Villanova 49 to 0. In the second quarter the collegians got the ball as far as the Army's 7 yard line, but they were unable to push it over.

In a game made difficult by the falling snow and mud, Syracuse defeated Colgate 14 to 0 last Saturday. The play was confined almost entirely to the line, as it was useless to attempt end runs and aerial plays.

The balance of the eastern elevens played about as had been expected. Columbia encountered little difficulty in disposing of Ohio university, 21 to 0. Cornell won from Springfield 14 to 0, Lafayette from Delaware 44 to 0, and Swarthmore from Johns Hopkins, 7 to 0.

Scouts to Hold Second Get-Together Banquet

The second annual get-together banquet of the Madison Boy Scouts will be held next Tuesday at the First Methodist-Episcopal church. Three hundred boys and scout officers are expected to attend.

"Dick" Landon, Yale, was given an honor position on the All-American track and field team. He is a high jumper.

SURE WE WIN IF YOU JUST FIGURE RIGHT

By CHUCK

Hail to Wisconsin, the new Big Ten champs! Nine silent 'rahs for the team.

How do we figure it? Comparative scores is the answer blown into your face. It's like this: Wisconsin is 20 points better than Illinois. Chicago is only 8 points better than the Suckers, and Ohio State is 7 points better than the Maroons. There, fore, as the golfer says when he tees off, Wisconsin is 5 points superior to Ohio. That eliminates Ohio from title consideration.

Now, let's get rid of Iowa. The Hawks beat Illinois, 14 to 2. Wisconsin turned the trick, 20 to 0. The Badgers are 8 points supreme over Iowa. But, butts the butter, how are you going to figure this? Iowa is 34 buttons better than Minnesota and Wisconsin is 35 hooks omnipotent. That makes the Badgers only one eye to the good.

The answer in part, follows: Divide the coefficients by the integral fractions, subtract the nebulae by Latin derivatives and then paraphrase—whoa, there, Mabel, I'll take the reins and drive now.

Coach Stagg has figured out Wisconsin's supremacy, and Richards is expecting a telephone call from "Lonnie" at any time. The "Old Man" will spill a few bear stories and then ask if Wisconsin wants to cancel the game next Saturday. If it were left to a vote of disappointed students, the contest would never be played.

Stagg's team is always crippled up when it meets the Baadgers. If those myths ever come true, the groundkeeper will have to play fullback, the stud poker champion halfback, and Alonzo would be humpback. No recording angel could keep a list of his stories. They haven't found a big enough book. Stagg and Ananias would make a good firm.

TEAM LEAVES FOR LAST RACE

Meet at Bloomington Ends
Fall Cross-country
Season in Conference

For their last meet of the 1921 season, the Wisconsin cross country team leaves for the conference race at Bloomington, Indiana, this afternoon at 4:10. Six runners and the Varsity manager will journey with Coach Meade Burke to the Hoosier stronghold where they will arrive on Friday in time to be shown over the course in the afternoon.

The Badger team which will start in the big meet Saturday morning will consist of the following harriers: Captain Mark Wall, George Finkle, Carl Rossmiessel, Thomas Daniels, Arthur Knutson, and Earl Schneider. Of these, all but the captain will be running in their first conference meet, and Schneider, who is one of the season's latest developments, will be starting in his first major race of any kind.

Despite the decided greenness of the men, "They have a chance to win," says Coach Burke. Wall and Finkle are almost sure to place, and with the number of able men entered, the leading points are bound to be pretty well split, so that if the rest of the Wisconsin team does what they have shown themselves capable of, the school stands an even chance of bringing home a victory.

Jack Scholz, University of Missouri, is on the All-American athletic team. He is placed in the 60 yard dash, and is one of the few western men honored by a position on the squad.

Charles W. Paddock has earned the title of champion 100-yard dash man in America. He attends the University of Southern California.

Iowa and Ohio State, both boasting clean records, are virtually sure to go through their Big Ten season undefeated. With this result, the two teams will be tied for first place and the conference championship will again be a subject for dispute.

Iowa plays Northwestern and Ohio runs up against Illinois in their last encounter of the year. Unless there is a decided reversal of form, the leaders will beat the two cellar champions and remain deadlocked.

Ohio's Schedule Hard

The Buckeyes have undergone the hardest schedule. Ohio State has victories over Minnesota, Michigan, Chicago, and Purdue. One defeat remains to blot an otherwise perfect record. It is the loss to Oberlin by a 7 to 6 score. The game was the second played by the Buckeyes and they have an excuse in that the team had not developed its strength. Because of this one-point defeat, Ohio's claim to the title will bear less prestige than that of Iowa.

Capt. Aubrey Devine and his athletes have won from Illinois, Purdue, Minnesota, and Indiana, besides having defeated the strong Notre Dame eleven which cleaned up the east. None of the teams played by Iowa have been strong, except on paper. Illinois held the Hawks, 14 to 2, and went down to defeat before all other conference teams it played. Purdue was nosed out 13 to 6. Only Minnesota and Indiana, two weak elevens, were completely outclassed by the Iowa City aggregation.

Wisconsin's claim to the championship received its death blow when Michigan earned a 7 to 7 tie with the Badgers. Previous to this contest, Northwestern, Illinois, and Minnesota had been badly beaten by the best Cardinal team in years.

Chicago Powerful

Chicago met its Waterloo when the Ohio State eleven sent one touchdown across in the last few minutes of play. The Maroons with their three sets of backfield men, were reputed to be one of the strongest teams in the country, but the tricky Ohio attack wore them down and forced them to bow in defeat. Chicago vanquished Northwestern, Purdue, and Illinois, in addition to scalping Colorado and twisting the tail of the Princeton Tiger, 9 to 0.

With a relatively small number of conference games played, Michigan follows the Big Four. The Wolverines engaged in three preliminary contests before they lost to Ohio, beat Illinois, and tied Wisconsin.

Minnesota and Purdue are the other teams which have won during the present season. The Gophers slammed Northwestern and Indiana, but were badly beaten by Ohio, Wisconsin, and Iowa. Purdue managed to squeeze out three points, enough to beat Northwestern.

Illinois, Northwestern, and Indiana will strive hard in their last games to repudiate the title "Cellar champs," and to climb into the elite class of winning elevens.

World's Three Mile Champion Enrolled Here

Wisconsin can claim a student who is internationally known as the "three-mile champion." This title was won by the defeat of Montague, three-mile champion of Europe, on April 30, 1920, in the Penn Relay carnival at Franklin veld, Philadelphia.

The runner is G. T. Nightingale, graduate student taking his doctor's degree in horticulture, and instructing part time. He will be eligible to enter the next Olympic games. The defeat of Montague aroused such interest in England that Nightingale has been invited to run a second race with Montague next summer.

Nightingale began his career as a runner in New Hampshire State college, where he was for four years the college champion. Some of his later races brought him the Junior cross country championship at Van Courtland park, New York, 1918; the senior championship of the National Athletic association, 1919, and, three successive times, the Williams three-mile trophy cup, in the Boston Athletic association games. One more such victory will give him the cup permanently, and he will probably race for this cup during the Christmas holidays.

Nightingale is a member of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity.

Street Car and Water Department Truck Collide

A Wingra Park street car struck a city water department truck in the 200 block on State st., about 8 o'clock this morning. Three window lights were broken out of the street car by the end of the truck. No one was injured.

According to reports, the truck, going down State st., turned sharply across the street car tracks in front of the Photoart house, the driver, apparently, not noticing the street car approaching. The street car, which had the right of way, did not slow up, until almost upon the truck.

The truck swayed to and fro after collision, and narrowly escaped being turned over. Two of the men jumped from the truck. The driver remained in the cab.

PHOTOGRAPHING CELEBRITIES IS THIS MAN'S JOB

George Harris.

The only man to make a portrait of every delegate to the Versailles peace conference was George Harris, of the firm of Harris & Ewing, Washington, D. C., photographers. He enjoys the undisputed distinction of having photographed more national notables than any other photographer in this country. He is now on the job at the national capital taking photographs for this and other newspapers of delegates to the arms conference as they arrive.

Tennis Tournament Delayed by Weather

On account of the snow the tennis tournament has come to a stand-still. Unless the ground dries up sufficiently to enable the matches to be played soon, which is very improbable, the remaining games in the tournament will have to be postponed until next spring.

If the tourney lapses over until spring the games will continue from the place where they left off this fall. Tredwell seems to be the safest bet for the championship in the singles. He has come out of the semi-finals on top, and is ready to play the finals. Bennett is ready for the semi-finals, in which he will play the winner of a match to be played between Barwig and Fanning. This leaves three matches yet to be played in the singles.

In the doubles there are four teams tied at present. Tredwell and Gottfredson are scheduled to play Erdman and Evans. Moulding and Wright are to play Hentzen and Bennett. The winners of these two sets will then meet each other for the championship in the doubles. Although these teams are all pretty good, Tredwell and Gottfredson seem to have the edge on the other three teams. It is not unlikely that Tredwell may carry off the honors in both the singles and the doubles. In any event, the tournament will probably not be completed until next spring.

Urge Luther Convention For Madison

May Bring 1,500 Young People Here for Meet Next Year

Fifteen hundred Lutheran young people, members of the National Young People's Luther league, may be in Madison next summer if the executive board, in session at Minneapolis today and tomorrow, accepts the invitation, extended by Mayor I. Milo Kittleson for the city and by Don E. Mowry in behalf of the Association of Commerce, to hold its triennial conference in this city.

A letter was recently received from Rev. N. M. Ylvesaker, executive secretary of the national organization by Lancelot Gordon, assistant secretary of state, who is prominent in the local league, asking whether Madison would care to have the convention held here and what accommodations can be offered. Mr. Gordon took up the matter with Mr. Mowry and the mayor. The last convention was held in Red Wing, Minn., and on the Sunday of the Conference week, 15,000 people connected with the convention, were in Red Wing.

It is suggested that if the convention should be held in Madison, that it be held either immediately before or immediately after the 32nd division reunion, which is to take place late in August. About 6,000 will attend this reunion, so that it would be difficult for the city to accommodate another 1,500 at that time. The acceptance or rejection of the invitation is expected in a few days.

Long Battle Seen As Newberry Hearing Opens

WASHINGTON — The senate turned its attention today to the Ford-Newberry senatorial contest. Consideration was begun without a date for a vote in sight and with declarations from half a dozen senators that the "whole story must be laid before the country" presaging long debate. Another parliamentary tangle ensued when the resolution declaring Mr. Newberry the duly elected senator was called up by Chairman Spencer of the elections committee. Sen. Spencer asked for an unanimous consent agreement by which the senate would have voted on the third calendar day after Christmas. That opened the exchanges between Democrats and Republicans, two of the latter, Senators La Follette and Norris, refusing to join in with their colleagues on the unanimous consent proposal. Objection to the agreement however, finally was made formally by Sen. Watson, Dem., Ga., and Mr. Spender immediately began a review of the history of the case and a defense of Mr. Newberry as set out in the majority report of his committee.

Probe Gas Rate With View to Reduction

The railroad commission today commenced investigation of gas rates in cities served by the Wisconsin Gas and Electric Co., to determine if reductions are justified at the present time; Racine, Kenosha, Cudahy and South Milwaukee are among the cities affected by the commission's action. Gas rates in Platteville, and Portage are also to be considered by the commission on its own motion in actions started today. These investigations are in line with the policy of the rate body to institute inquiry into rates where it is thought that reductions may be justified.

250 Ton Submarine Limit is British Plan

WASHINGTON — British naval thought in Washington has suggested 250 tons as the limit of size for submarines, it was learned today. That would represent a type of craft not now existing in the first line of the American navy.

Council of Forty meeting today at 12:45 in the Green Room of the Y. M. C. A. All members must be present.

MAKE SHORT WORK OF IT

ONLY $8,000 stands in the way of the complete success of the Memorial Union campaign. The ten day drive closes today. It is shameful that all the money was not raised last week. Thank heaven, politics is adjourned now and some of the energy displayed in this field may be directed toward putting over the campaign.

CLEAN UP

THIS ticket selling business is in another muddle. Talk is widespread that favoritism has been worked to a scandal, that some fortunate students and groups of students have obtained good seats in blocks while the great mass of students had to get up early and stand in line for hours to get one or two undesirable seats.

This is just the talk that is going the rounds.

If true, a wholesale clean-up is due the athletic department.

It is getting beyond all patience to see this problem bob up every year.

The Student Senate promises to look into the matter. The Council of Forty is to meet this noon and consider what can be done.

It ought to be cleaned up once for all.

THE NEW SENATE

LAST night the members of the newly elected Student Senate took office. They come into their duties at a critical time in the life of student government at Wisconsin.

For the past few months many far-reaching developments have taken place in self-government here. The even tenor of our way has been seriously disturbed in at least two instances—the shooting of Carl Jandorf more than a year ago and the class affray last spring. In both these cases student government faced the necessity of strong action. The action of the old senate last spring in abolishing the compulsory wearing of the green cap brought matters to a head and caused hundreds of students to give thought for the first time to their own government.

The result was that the whole question of traditions and student government was referred to a large and representative commission of students. This commission made its report which included the revision of certain traditions, the re-establishment of the student court, and a change in the method of electing members of the senate.

This program was approved by the students with the exception of the elimination of the red button and the visor from the green cap.

In other words, student self-government has entered upon a new and an important phase of its development. It will become the duty of the new senate to carry out the wishes of the students with regard to the changes. The student court must be established without delay.

The new senate is to be congratulated on its rare opportunity of performing a useful and constructive service to Wisconsin.

CONTEMPORARIES

RUTS

In all walks of life, men, to be successful, must try to keep their outlook on life from becoming dry and hard and narrow, and that is the result of a too-continued application to one certain line of work. Granted, of course, that a man should have one big overmastering ambition, he should at the same time have many minor interests that will give him happiness and will keep his interest in life fresh and youthful. Most great men, although perhaps they are great by achievement in some special line of work, have hobbies or side lines of work that not only provide them with necessary recreation, but that also round out their characters or personalities and make them stronger and more vitally interesting.

As in the world itself, so in our college life the student must try always to keep himself from getting into ruts. Our college course should not teach us to think along certain set lines. If it does it is a failure. It should teach us to think independently, no matter what hard and fast rules our professors lay down in the class rooms; for the man whose brain has one or two independent ideas floating around in it is a better man than the fellow whose brain is cramed to overflowing with ideas he has culled from the lecture room, and which he repeats parrot-like whenever the opportunity presents itself.

There is also a tendency for the college student to become so engrossed in the varied activities of the university that he loses sight of the fact that college is really a very small part of a world that is very big. If the undergraduate is to think independently, and if his life is not to be bounded by the somewhat restricted interests of college life, he should have some interesting hobbies, and should also indulge in the practice of wandering off by himself occasionally and of thinking things over quietly. Quiet, unhurried thought is one way of developing personality and character, and not only that,

Our college work should not bring us under a mass of detail and dull our ambitions and ideas; it should rather give us a greater confidence in ourselves, and should fit us to go forth into the world with ideas and principles that see things as they really are, not as they are supposed to be.—McGill—Montreal.

Alumnus Back After Relief Work in China

John Earl Baker '06 left Madison Tuesday afternoon for his home in Eagle, Wis., where he will spend most of his five months leave of absence from China, where he is foreign advisor to Chinese government railways and the "Hoover of China," as head of the Red Cross famine relief.

Baker worked for the Southern Pacific railway with headquarters in California until he went to China in 1916.

When the famine came, he volunteered to work for Red Cross and made the Shantung district the seat of his operations. Men worked for their wages which were paid in grain, 15,000 tons of which was imported for the purpose.

Roads, culverts, bridges, and wells were made under Baker's supervision by the famine sufferers and 40,000 trees were planted.

"Of the 61,000 men under our employ on the Chinese construction, only five died of disease," he said. American plan of camp hygiene was followed in all cases.

Stanley Hanks Charges Certain Objectors Once Favored Plan

Stanley C. Hanks, local real estate broker, came back at citizens opposing the erection of a new theater on State st., at the public hearing held by the council ordinance committee at the city hall Tuesday night. Mr. Hanks charged that "the same parties who now oppose the theater, a year ago negotiated with me for this property for the self-same purpose."

He referred to stockholders in the Grand theater. One or two of them were at the meeting and upheld Mr. Hanks' statement. After repeated pleas from members of the Holy Redeemer school, located just across Johnson st. from the rear end of the proposed theater, to the effect that the enterprise would prove a detriment to the children attending that school, Mr. Hanks turned on the opposition and declared that "the big objection to this new theater is coming from those who are already operating theaters in this city, and who don't want it."

The meeting, which was attended by about 50 people, was called to give the public a voice on whether or not the ordinance committee should recommend that the council pass Ald. J. L. Starr's proposed ordinance. The ordinance would prohibit the erection of any theater, bowling alley or garage within 300 feet of any school grounds. The committee, after hearing the arguments, adjourned to next Tuesday night. Data concerning similar ordinances in other cities will be obtained by the committee in the meantime.

Object to Exits.

W. H. Spohn, ex-Mayor A. H. Kayser, Mrs. Norman Geier, Miss Lena Hessman, Henry Ludwig, Mr. Bulard, Michael Diedrich, Rev. E. J. Meyer, Will Baer, Ernest N. Warner, W. R. Bagley, G. A. Reynolds and F. L. Gilbert spoke on the proposition.

Mrs. Geier said that a vote for the ordinance was a vote for public interests; a vote against was a vote for private interests. Rev. Meyer said there was no objection against the theater being there. "It is the exits opposite the school we object to," he said. Mrs. Geier said the theater would be harmful physically and morally to children. Mr. Kayser said the school is 60 years old and is entitled to some consideration.

Mr. Spohn spoke of congestion of traffic on Johnson st., which he said would be enhanced by a theater there. T. W. Gosling sent a letter supporting the ordinance. Mr. Ludwig, member of Holy Redeemer parish, said he had not heard one positive argument from his church people that the theater would be a detriment to the school. Miss Hessmann, a teacher in the school, declared the theater would be too great an attraction to the little folks in school.

E. N. Warner said the court records are full of decisions sustaining the validity of just such ordinances as this one. W. R. Bagley spoke in favor of the theater. He said Madison cannot remain a town. It must provide attractions. He said he does not believe the city should adopt such a narrow policy as to say to a business interest, bringing thousands of dollars' worth of capital to Madison, "We don't want you."

Frank Gilbert asked to know why the word garage was inserted in the ordinance.

Hanks Bares History.

"If this ordinance is directed against this theater, let's be frank about it," he said. "The arguments used here tonight against the theater will not hold against a garage, except the one about traffic, and that will hold true of any enterprise which brings automobile traffic."

Mr. Hanks answered Mr. Gilbert. "The word 'garage' was put in that ordinance just to make it a little broader," he declared, "just so it wouldn't look like they were picking on one thing.

"Let me tell you, ladies and gentlemen, there has been an undercurrent in this matter, which even some of the most prominent persons in the Catholic church have not understood. Let me go back about a year. The very interests which now support this ordinance, at that time negotiated with me for this same property for the identical purpose for which it now is to be used."

"They are now opposing it. Why? You talk about supporting private interests! That is just what you are doing when you support this ordinance. Don't be misled. Those who are now operating theaters in this city are the biggest objectors to this new enterprise, and I know it."

Questioned on the floor a few minutes later, Mr. Hanks divulged the whole facts. He told Ald. G. H. Mason that stockholders of the Grand theater had attempted to buy that property for a theater site.

Women Picket Parley For Prisoners' Release

WASHINGTON. — Adding a strange note to the scene of amicable negotiations surrounding the armament conference was a close drawn military guard which formed a cordon about Continental Hall and would not permit spectators to come within the pillared porte cochere of the building without an examination of credentials. Infantrymen were everywhere in the hallways of the building itself. The first picketing of the conference was carried out yesterday before the main entrance just as the delegates were assembling when a half dozen women paraded back and forth with banners demanding the release of political prisoners. The authorities did not

WEATHER

The highest temperature during the last 24 hours was 38 at 4 p. m. and the lowest was 34 at 10:30 p. m. Sun sets at 4:34.

Britain Not Committed To Arms Plan Change

WASHINGTON — The severe criticisms in certain leading British liberal newspapers of what they regard as reservations proposed by the British delegation to the American naval reduction proposals is based upon a misconception of the attitude of the delegation according to British representatives here. The representatives while emphasizing commitment to continuation of a small amount of naval construction during the ten year holiday and while pointing out that Arthur J. Balfour, in his speech yesterday, developed strong objection to the construction of large submarines and generally to the use of submarines at all, in war, state that beyond that they are not positively committed to any substantial amendments to the American program.

Have you seen the new kind of Angora sweaters and scarfs? Last week we were in New York and found a most beautiful selection of brilliant colored sweaters and scarfs that will add snap and style to any dress or sport skirt you care to wear it with.

There are Pollyanna and Tuxedo styles, and prices are from

Many girls have been waiting for our Elastowear and Treo Girdles, and we have just placed a new shipment in stock for this week-end.

Blouses of satin, milauese and sateen can now be had in complete assortment at lower prices.

The wool hose and the kid gloves in every length are offered at November sale prices.

Have you seen the new Crowley neckwear—the Flanders Christmas blouses—the many new kinds of art and needlework that is ready for Christmas work—applied articles—and new types of embroidery are most interesting.

Open House for Wisconsin People After Chicago Game

Dr. and Mrs. Bertram W. Sippy will hold open house at their home, 5615 Woodlawn avenue, Chicago, for all students and former students of the University of Wisconsin. It will be after the football game. Last year a similar affair was given and about 200 Wisconsin people were present.

Both Dr. and Mrs. Sippy were former students here. Mrs. Sippy was Miss Mabel Lamberson.

"ARE THE CHICAGO TICKETS REALLY BEING SOLD?" MORE ON GREEN CAPS

WHY NOT A SCARLET LETTER?

Editor Daily Cardinal:

What ho! Another wave can now be distinguished among the many in that beating surf that threatens to entirely wash away the already battered foundation upon which the once respected traditions of a noble university were wont to stand.

This last wave was started when assistant dean of men Ray S. Owen dropped his contributory pebble into the waters by suggesting a tradition which would force men on probation to wear a green cap.

Aside from the more humorous touch when one thinks of the increased business local clothiers would do there is that sterner view which makes one wonder if we are not reverting to a day when all sorts of absurd penances were done for various crimes. Can it be that someone believes that by putting a cloth shell on the outside of a man's head, since he, in the estimation of authority, has shown himself mentally inferior, he can be made to put on a thicker coating of grey matter on the inside?

It scarcely seems that this is conducive to the sort of democracy Dean Owen desires. A democratic student body does not uphold such ideas though an autocratic faculty might—so then may we well ask, "Is this an institution wherein the students have come voice in governing themselves?"

If there is a unanimity of feeling that the faculty objects to the green cap because it "marks the freshmen objects of ridicule," what do they think of its use for penal purposes?

The investigations of the recent traditions commission brought in a study of the symbolism of the green cap. It showed that its wearing was a preliminary step into the brotherhood of Wisconsin—a pledge of sincerity and faith, and not a mark of inferiority calling for derision and subsequent servility.

If pressure is necessary to make men wear that sort of mark of distinction it is difficult to estimate what ends might be necessary to enforce the wearing of a badge in the meaning of which there could be no doubt. The advantage lies in that cryptic and paradoxical statement of Dean Owen's, "We would accomplish something then."

As to the second suggestion which concerns prohibiting students bringing their cars to Madison—what next? Because it is done in Oxford should we at Wisconsin join hands in the jolly little sport? We need better reasons for Oxford is an English institution, and England's ideas of democracy never did agree with those of Americans as history well records. The humble Ford has vied with the lordly Rolls-Royce for quite a time, and the rubber heeled pedestrian has jumped for both, but democracy isn't in danger of going to the eternal bow-wows just yet.

Let's not make the already too artificial life of the university student any more unreal. We've got to face the situation as it is soon enough.

CHARLES P. MacINNIS '22.

THOSE TICKETS

Editor Daily Cardinal:

After standing in line for two hours this morning in a vain attempt to buy tickets to the Chicago game, I have returned home to join in the chorus, "Down with the athletic department!"

Throughout the present football season the student body has complained at various times of the unfairness and poor management of the ticket selling proposition. This characteristic was never brought out with more clearness than this morning, when 3,000 students who have solidly backed the team through all its preliminary games, were greeted with the phrase "dollar and a half tickets behind the goal posts and few or those."

There can be no excuse for a situation of this sort, although the athletic department will probably advance some "explanations." Wisconsin alumni sprinkled here and there throughout the line of students frankly admitted that they had already bought some tickets by the mail order route and two of them said they knew that some students had had mail orders filled for them. And yet the athletic department announced that there would be no mail order sale. I realize the worth and loyalty of Wisconsin alumni as much as any student but I do not feel that they should be favored over the student body in the matter of tickets for a football game.

The University of Wisconsin football team is a group of student players representing the present student body, although a number of students have repeatedly said that it appears to be a more money making proposition for the athletic department.

I do not know the conditions which have resulted in the allotment of the 4,000 POOREST seats in the Chicago stadium to the Wisconsin students, but the consensus of student opinion is: first, if the University of Chicago refuses to give us better seats to our biggest game, let's leave them off the football schedule after this; secondly, if our own athletic department could have obtained better seats for us and failed to do so—let us have a more efficient athletic department.

Bobbed Hair Retains Popularity in Madison

Bobbed hair is still maintaining its popularity among the co-eds in Madison.

Of the 148 girls at Barnard, 10 per cent have bobbed their hair, and 9 per cent have succumbed to the fad at Chadbourne. From an average of five rooming houses it is found that 12 per cent of the girls have dispensed with long locks and substituted the "bob."

"Although six girls have had their hair bobbed within the last few days, we think the fad is slowly decreasing," said a hairdresser at the Marinello Beauty parlor.

Air Craft Upheld at Arm Meet

Airplanes Excluded From Proposals to Reduce World Armaments

WILL LIMIT USE

Conference May Curb Use of Bombs, But Will Not Curb Air Navigation

(By the Associated Press)
WASHINGTON—The decision of the American delegation to the conference on limitation of armaments to exclude aircraft from proposals for reductions and future limitation of naval forces goes deeper for its reasons than Sec'y Hughes indicated in his statement saying merely that the ready convertibility of commercial aircraft to war purposes made the writing of aircraft limitation impractical.

Beyond that obvious fact lies the desire of every nation that no impediment should be placed in the way of development of air navigation for the benefit of all mankind.

Giant strides in the air were made by all powers under war impetus.

But back again to days of peace, aircraft development is moving at a snail's pace all over the world. The place of air navigation in commerce is not established yet on any profitable basis and if governments do not carry on the experimental work in connection with armies and navies, the promising field of transportation probably would lie neglected for years.

This is the view taken by army and navy officials of the U. S. and it is reflected in the American proposal to the conference. It is to be expected, as the conference moves along, that rules to limit the use of aircraft, to curb bombing of defenseless cities and civilian non-combatants, hospitals and the like in war, will be written. There is a definite place for that on the agenda.

Vecsey Pleases Critics by His Mastery of Art

By CECIL BURLEIGH

Ferenc Vecsey stood before us Tuesday night, an artist of highest rank, who is first the musician, then the violinist. In his playing of the entire program, there was the genuinely sincere desire to use his technical equipment as a means toward giving the fullest expression of the music, and not to exploit it in an effort to dazzle his listeners by empty display. This marks the dividing line between the real musician of the Kreisler type and the mere virtuoso.

Mr. Vecsey's tone is pure and rich, vibrant with meaning, and, when occasion demands, is spun to the finest web showing him the complete master of shading and nuance. The middle movement of the concerto was characterized with playing of exquisite beauty, while the last movement was given vivid contrast by the dash and abandon with which Vecsey entered into it. Yet there was always that nice restraint which was notable in his tempo of this movement.

The average artist runs away with this tempo because of a shallow desire to show off at the expense of the music itself, which becomes unintelligible to the average listener thereby. Mr. Vecsey's tempo was sane and convincing, not only in this, but in the other numbers that he played.

Mr. Vecsey's own compositions show spontaneity of invention and the "Pourquoi" was exquisite. They were received with acclaim by an enthusiastic audience.

Stage mannerisms which Misha Elman burdens us with were happily lacking. Vecsey made us personalize the artist, so to speak, which at once made it possible to enter more fully into his art and message.

Mr. Vecsey's impeccable technique combined with genuine musicianship stamps him the artist of rare finish. Many years ago it was the writer's privilege to hear him as a prodigy in Berlin at his debut recital when he astounded multitudes. Now, it might be well to say that he still astounds, but fortunately he has survived the eponymy period and adds to his natural powers the crowning essential—maturity.

The immense audience which greeted this artist was indicative of the fact that violinists are most popular with students and Madison people. Josef Lherinne will present the third of the Union board series of concerts on November 29.

Bonus Checks to Be Mailed Before Chicago Game

In spite of the failure of many bonus students to notify bonus headquarters of changes in schedule or to bring in excuses for absence promptly, it has been found possible to set pay day somewhat earlier than was anticipated when the printed regulations were published. Payment will hereafter be made about the 21st of each month, but this month special arrangements have been made to hand out the drafts before the Chicago game in order to accommodate the many bonus students who want to attend.

The October drafts are being mailed today to individuals and to banks and the remainder will be distributed from 151 Bascom hall from 8:00 to 12:30 and from 1:30 to 5:30, as well as on Monday from 10:00 to 12:00 and from 2:30 to 5:30.

Bonus students who are absent can very materially aid in attaining an earlier pay day if they will present their excuses for absence promptly at the close of each month instead of waiting to be reminded. The October payroll was held up several days because of delinquencies of this sort.

Interesting Items In November Lit

Among the contributions to the November number of the Wisconsin Literary magazine are a sea story by Earl Hanson '22, "The Balade of the Younger Dons," a satire on young instructors, by Oscar Wildest '36, "Thirty Years Old," by Ennell Crosby '22, and "The Fond Obsession," by John Culnan '21. The material varies from satire to more formal fiction. "The Fond Obsession" is a whimsical lay in verse, written by the author of the "Jijiboom Papers" in his best vein.

The Lit will be on sale Tuesday and Wednesday of next week.

High School Editors Meet November 25

E. McClelland, Isadore Coward, and Katherine Perry. Entertainment at this event will be in charge of Elizabeth Katz, assistant chairman, aided by Sam Hill and George Harris.

Publicity for the convention, local and foreign, is being handled by Ivan H. Peterman.

Programs for the whole series of events are being made up and provided by Courtland R. Conlee, chairman, and Carl B. Wright.

Assisting the reception committee in meeting delegates at trains and registration are David K. Steenberg, chairman, Portia B. Lugoff, William Bloecher, Bernice L. Bruns.

150 Delegates Expected
The convention will bring into Madison some 150 high school editors, delegates, and their advisors. While the housing committee has secured a large number of accommodations, there are still a considerable number of delegates to be cared for and any organizations, fraternities, sororities, that may be able to take care of some of the number will greatly relieve the situation by making known to the committee anything they may be able to do.

"Most of the youthful journalists will receive their first impression of the state university during this convention, and anything that will help make their stay a pleasant one will mean future students at Wisconsin," said George W. Greene, convention secretary, last night in announcing the progress of the committees.

Over 360 high schools from states all over the Central West and as far south as Florida, west as Washington, and east as Pennsylvania, are members of the association, and most of them intend to send at least one delegate to the meet here.

Secretary Greene has written over 500 letters to various publications in prep schools, and has received replies favorable to the convention in most instances.

The big annual contest for all papers, magazines, and cartoons is attracting more attention than ever. Appropriate awards will be given to winners in each class. A program of speeches and addresses includes some of the leading Middle-Western men in journalism.

Stuart Comments On Hughes Plans

ant of all, the United States has shown that she does not expect the other powers to make all the sacrifices, but has taken the lead in proposing that we who are most able to bear the strain of armament are willing to make the most substantial reductions.

"We might be permitted to wonder just how much effect the overwhelming expression of popular opinion in the United States that something had to be done, influenced the administration in its bold move, and a comparison of President Harding's negative statements on the subject some time ago, with his forceful appeal at Arlington cemetery, and his ringing challenge to the delegates themselves, would seem to indicate that the popular manifestation has no been wholly in vain."
