FORUM PLANS TO BRING PROMINENT LECTURERS HERE

Nearing to Speak Dec. 16; Members to Conduct Discussions

Unusual interest in the Wisconsin Student Forum has brought the membership of that organization for the second year of its existence to approximately 100, according to Richard Ludwig '28, its president.

The Forum, which was organized on the campus last year, will hold regular meetings during the year at the University Y. M. C. A., discussing questions of national importance and sponsoring the appearance of prominent writers and lecturers.

Nearing to Speak

A feature of the program for the coming year will be the appearance of Scott Nearing, nationally known lecturer, who will speak Dec. 16. Nearing was barred from Minnesota last year. At other meetings of the group, such subjects as "Birth Control," "Student Dishonesty," and "What is Going on in Soviet Russia," will be taken up.

An effort will be made each time to have a member of the faculty lead the discussion on a particular subject, after which general student discussion will be held.

Invite Freshmen

While the Forum originally was limited to upper classmen, the officers have decided that interested freshmen should be included in the group. Accordingly, circular letters have been mailed to those students whom the officers thought might be interested in the work. Since the list was very incomplete, an open invitation has been extended to all interested students to attend the meetings and take part in the discussions.

The officers of the group for the coming year are R. J. Ludwig '28, president; Adamson Hoebe '28, vice president; John Fairbank '29, secretary; and Mervel Keller '27, treasurer.

NO DIRECTORIES GIVEN OUT DURING ELECTIONS

No student directories will be given out today because of student elections. Saturday morning students may call for them again, and the Sunday edition of The Daily Cardinal will carry the hours at which directories will be distributed next week.

LIT CLUBS HAVE VARIED PROGRAMS

Athenae, Hesperia, Philomathia Plan Talks, Discussions for Meetings Tonight

Variety will feature the programs given by the men's literary societies tonight. All three organizations are planning to hold open meetings and students with their fathers are invited to attend. Herbert Stuessy '29, will head Athenae's program with a biographical sketch, "The Beginning of a Swiss Lawyer." Harry Cohen '21, will talk on intramural athletics and M. Layman '28, will explain "Why Prohibition is a Success." Robert Schenger '27, will discuss "Philosophy and Religion."

Hesperia's program meeting will be opened by William Anderson '28, who will read a humorous selection. F. Lenhuan '28, will give a talk which will be followed by open discussion. Impromptu speeches will be given by various members and opportunities to give tryout talks will be given to new men.

William Harding '28, will open Philomathia's meeting with a discussion of Roumania as an Oligarchy. Leroy Nohling '30, will speak on the New Philosophy, and Jacob Gasche will give an impromptu talk. An open discussion will follow the talks. The meetings are scheduled to start at 7:15 o'clock.

JACK AND JILL SEEK NAMES AS STUDENT DIRECTORIES APPEAR

Jack and Jill went up the hill To get a nice directory, Jack saw his name was spelled all right And Jill sought hers with all her might.

No sooner is a directory in the hands of a student than he or she stops, deposits whatever books may be in hand, and begins a frantic search for his or her own name. For the time being all thought of the boy next to her in class flees from the girl's mind. Is her telephone number all right, was her name spelled correctly, and what about her address? All thoughts of finding out the fluffy headed one's number for future use leaves the boy's mind as he sheepishly but energetically searches for his own name. Whew! Spelled all right, and he remembered to use the house number, too. Both pick up their books and go happily down the hill. Another year, another directory, and the number in it is right.

LATHROP IS SCENE OF PI NIGHT FETE

Journalists and Friends to Frolic in Press Club Party Tonight

No pie, but lots of cider and doughnuts, a few stunts in the appropriate journalistic key, and jazz by Flindt's Strand orchestra will feature Pi Night at 8:30 o'clock tonight in Lathrop concert room. Each student or faculty member who is in any way connected with journalism may attend.

A parody on the city desk, reporters, editors, and assignments of a typical daily paper, a stunt in which all the guests will have part, will be given during the first part of the evening. Prof. K. E. Olson of the journalism department, will talk on the reorganization of Press club, after which a committee to nominate the club's officers will be appointed.

Flindt's orchestra will play for dancing from 9:30 o'clock to midnight. During intermission, Fannie Bauer, a sophomore in the journalism course, will present a ukelele, song and dance act.

Faculty members who will be special guests are Miss Helen Patterson, Miss Mabel Bauer, Prof. and Mrs. W. G. Bleyer, Prof. G. M. Hyde, Prof. D. W. Miller, Chilton R. Bush and Prof. M. H. Salisbury.

CHOLERA SERUM ON TAP AT VETERINARY

F. B. Hadley, university veterinarian announced yesterday that sufficient serum has been obtained to meet the immediate demands in fighting the hog cholera epidemic which is prevalent in scattered sections of the state. The treatment is to be sold at actual cost to the university, he said.

COOKIE SUPPLY RUNS LOW; CAN'T GET NIGGER TO EXIT

The business staff of Wisconsin Players is stumped by the problem of radically revising the club budget. The innocent cause of all the financial difficulty is Nigger, the canine star of "The Goose Hangs High" which is to be presented tonight at Central High School.

Nor are dollar marks all that Nigger has unwittingly brought into the nightmares of Players. Members see cookies, myriads of them, chocolate, vanilla, and coconut, sandwiched between the silver dollars in their dreams. Nigger dreams of cookies, too.

Here's why. Nigger makes his stage entrance gorgeously, in fact, he has nothing to say about it, for the big, strapping collegiate son carries him bodily in. But then the script says Nigger must be set

CHAMPION GIVES TALK ON LIFE OF ANATOLE FRANCE

Intimate Chapters in Careers of French Novelist Revealed Here

M. Edouard Champion, distinguished French publisher, lectured before an enthusiastic audience yesterday afternoon in Bascom hall on the subject of "Les souvenirs d'Anatole France."

M. Champion was in a position to speak authoritatively on the subject he chose because of his personal relations with Anatole France. The father of M. Champion succeeded Noel France Thibault in his bookshop at No. 9 Quai Voltaire in Paris, and enjoyed the friendship of his son, Jacques Anatole France, the famous author.

Liked Large Ties

The speaker gave a charming review of the life of Anatole France. Because of his friendship with the author he was able to give intimate glimpses into his personal life. Such interesting bits as France's little peculiarities in dress, his use of large ties, the social ambitions of his wife, and other character revealing items were noted.

Pictures of other modern French authors were also presented which bore inscriptions to M. Champion. He's "Half American"

The French lecturer is in America on a tour under the auspices of the Institute of International Education. He boasts that he is "half-American" as his wife is an American. He refuses, however, to speak English except from the platform. Prof. C. D. Zdanowicz of the French department, introduced the speaker.

English Lecturer Talks Here Today About Liberalism

Francis Hirst, noted English lecturer and editor, will speak at 4:30 o'clock today in 165 Bascom hall on "Liberalism and the Liberal Party in England."

Hirst was born in Huddersfield, England and educated at Clinton, Scholar Wadham, and Oxford universities. He was editor of the Economist from 1907 to 1916. In 1921 he lectured in California on political economy, and in 1923 he lectured in South Africa on the same subject. He is the author of a number of works on economics.

Hirst represents the best tradition of the Old English party of Gladstone, Morley and John Bright. He is now working on the biography of Lord Morley. He has travelled and lectured all over the world.

BUSINESS STAFF

There will be a meeting of all members of the Daily Cardinal business staff at 12:45 o'clock today in the business office. All members must be present.

STUDENTS GO TO POLLS TODAY; RULES LISTED

SHOW BOTTLE MAKING IN PICTURES TODAY

"The Story of a Glass Bottle," a motion picture will be shown at 3:30 o'clock today in chemistry lecture room under the auspices of the pharmacy department. The movie will cover past and present methods of bottle manufacturing from the sand pit to the packing room. The film is furnished by the Atlas Educational Film company upon request of the Illinois Glass company, and, during the months of October, November, and December, will be presented in twenty-nine schools of pharmacy and fifteen schools of engineering.

FATHERS TO SEE PLAYERS TONIGHT

"The Goose Hangs High" to be Presented at Central H. S. Auditorium

The final dress rehearsal having been held in Central high school auditorium Wednesday night, the Wisconsin Payers Fathers' weekend production, "The Goose Hangs High," is ready to go on the boards at 8 o'clock tonight in the Central high auditorium.

Tickets are still on sale at booths in Bascom hall and the Co-op as well as by canvassers according to Charles Crownhart '27, who is in charge of ticket sales. Crownhart also announced that a limited number of blocks of tickets will be available until late this afternoon.

Individual sets of tickets for students and fathers will be sold at the door tonight, Crownhart explained, but no large blocks will be held that long.

No rehearsal was held last night as no auditorium was open, but W. C. Troutman, coach of the play, expressed himself as satisfied with the work of the characters, including Nigger, canine star of the play.

HIGH SCHOOL STOCK CONTEST BEGINS TODAY

With the closing of the Junior Live Stock exposition comes the opening of the State High School Agricultural contest this morning at the stock pavilion. These contests will take up most of today. This evening at the Park hotel, a banquet is to be held for all of the guests at the contest. Dean H. L. Russel will speak. C. L. Burlingham of the Breeder's Gazette, will also talk to the group. Saturday's feature will be the attendance at the football game between Wisconsin and Minnesota.

PYTHIA TO INITIATE TWO WOMEN TONIGHT

Pythia Literary society will meet from 7 to 8 o'clock tonight in the lecture room on the fifth floor of Lathrop hall. The members will initiate Lois Hovenden '28 and Wilma Horrell '28.

Levis Again Gives Ticket Rules for Coming Grid Games

In order to avoid all further confusion concerning ticket sales George S. Levis yesterday issued the following information. The open sale for each game starts the Wednesday before the game. That is Nov. 10 for Iowa. There will be no open sale for the Michigan contest, however, as all seats are sold.

Applications for the Chicago game will be received after Nov. 1, all those received before the fifth being assigned tickets by lot, those coming in after the fifth, in order of reception.

A fee card must be enclosed for every ticket, and four may be included in one envelope. There is a charge of 20 cents for mailing. Levis emphasized the fact that if the tickets are to be mailed together, only one charge is made.

Campaigning Near Voting Places, Auto Rides to Voters Barred

"The use of automobiles to bring voters to the polls is forbidden, and no solicitation except of a personal nature and no loitering around the voting places will be tolerated," declared Daniel Kerth '27, chairman of the election committee, yesterday afternoon while explaining the final laws governing the election which opens at 9 o'clock this morning in six university buildings.

After the opening of the ballot boxes this morning the voting will continue through the day until 4:30 o'clock with the exception of an hour at noon, from 12 to 1 o'clock, when all the polls will be closed.

Voters Divided

The election committee has again split the voters into academic groups and assigned them special balloting places. According to the election regulations, chemistry and chemistry-commerce students vote at Sterling hall; medical students, at Science hall; engineers, at the Engineering building and agricultural and home economic students, at Agricultural hall. Students who are enrolled in the College of Letters and Science or in the Law school and whose names begin with letters between A and L vote in Biology building. All other voters in these two groups vote in 101 Bascom hall.

Under the classification system used by the election board, first year law and medical students vote as juniors while advance students in these two courses vote as seniors.

Hire Officials

In addition to innovating the custom of closing the polls for an hour at noon, the election committee this year is hiring disinterested students to take charge of the voting at each building. These paid officials will be assisted by volunteer workers.

"By paying disinterested men to take complete charge of the voting the election committee clears itself of any implications of bias because of political affiliation of its individual members," said Harold Konnak '27, member of the committee, in explaining the purpose of the move.

R. O. T. C. DEBATES BALL CHAIRMAN

Advanced Course Men Indicate Choice Lies Between Four Candidates

Appointment of the Military Ball chairman was considered yesterday by Lt. Col. Joseph Barnes, head of the military department, when he met with the members of the advanced course of R. O. T. C. in the Scabbard and Blade room.

Several names were mentioned as possible candidates for the honor of leading the ball. Col. Barnes is not limited in his choice for chairman to the names submitted at the meeting as he has a wide list to select from, but the opinion in the meeting was that the choice would be made from four names nominated from the floor.

Glenn O. Stevens '27, Ray D. Jordan '27, Calvin A. Koehring '27, and John Germann '28 are the men that will probably be considered. The choice will be announced by Barnes at a later date.

The purpose of the meeting was to get the members of the advanced course together to discuss plans for the Ball which will be held next spring. Formerly the Cadet Colonel was automatically made chairman of the Ball, but last year, since the duties imposed upon the Cadet Colonel are heavy, it was thought better to have the members of the corps offer nominations for chairman from which the head of the department could make the final selection.

RIGID FOOD LAWS PROTECT GROCERS

Commissioner Lauds Means of Preventing Unfair Com- petition

Efficient food law enforcement protects wholesale grocers against the unfair and dishonest competition of adulterated or misbranded articles of food shipped into Wisconsin, Harry Klueter, Madison, state dairy and food commissioner told wholesale grocers from Wisconsin and upper Michigan in Milwaukee today.

His address was a feature of the first annual meeting of the Wisconsin and Upper Michigan Wholesale Grocers association. Tracing the history of adulterated food and the attempts to drive it from the market by legislation, Mr. Klueter declared the "dairy, food and drug laws of your state are to your business what the banking laws are to the financial institutions of Wisconsin."

"Your interest," he told the grocers, "should be in securing enforcement of the pure food laws, for in that way you will secure the confidence of the public in the business of handling and dealing in foods."

"In my early experience in the department it was no uncommon thing to receive samples of the city milk for analysis that had been preserved by dairymen with formaldehyde or boric acid, the two favorite chemical preservatives for milk and cream, and I can well remember the time when numerous samples of ketchup, jams, jellies, and preserves were received, preserved not only with benzoate of soda, but with salicylic acid, preserved and sweetened with saccharin and how upon microscopical examination ketchup was found to be composed of other than tomato pulp, numerous samples were found to contain unmistakable evidence of mold and decay, and inferiority was concealed by the use of coal tar dyes."

KERTH GIVES RULES FOR ELECTION TODAY

contested in the present election; junior prom charimanship, senior class presidency, the presidency, vice - presidency, secretaryship, treasuryship, and sergeant-at-arms post of the three under classes, sophomore Union board membership, sophomore Badger board and student senate membership, and two faculty representatives on the faculty disciplinary committee.

Seniors In By Default
The positions of vice-president, secretary, treasurer, and sergeant-at-arms in the senior class went by default as did the senior and junior membership in the Student senate. The offices of treasurer and sergeant-at-arms among the freshmen also were uncontested.

The only referendum on the ballot is one to make the senior president an ex-officio member of Union board and revised board to consist of seven seniors and five juniors, beside shifting all Union board elections to the spring.

In a joint statement the two candidates for the senior class presidency commended the referendum as one which would bring Union board into closer touch with the activities of the senior class and Lowell Frautschi, president of the Union board said, "I am heartily in favor of the referendum as a measure which will prepare Union board for its increased task of managing the Memorial Union."

The members of the committee in charge of elections are Daniel Kerth '27, chairman, Elizabeth George '27, Harold Konnak '27, Jo McCartney '27, Donald Barr '27 and Lawrence Moe '26.

HOUDINI'S CONDITION SLIGHTLY IMPROVED

Harry Houdini, famous stage magician, who has been seriously ill since last Sunday at Detroit, is reported as being "slightly better," although not much change has been noted in his condition. His temperature has dropped below 100 and his pulse and respiration have both improved somewhat.

NAME ADAMS AND TRIPP HALLS AFTER DONORS OF FUNDS TO U. W.

How the two resident sections of the new dormitories were named was explained for the benefit of new students by the office of M. E. McCaffrey, of the board of regents, yesterday.

The late J. Stephens Tripp, for many years a town official and banker in Sauk City and Prairie du Sac, bequeathed $500,000 to the university upon his death in July 23, 1915. He specified that the money was to be used as the board of regents saw fit. Feeling that the building of the dormitories was a worthy project the regents appropriated $300,000 from this estate with which to defray part of the expense of the construction.

Tripp's interest in the University of Wisconsin was that of a philanthropist, not an alumnus, for he received his education in Schoharie academy, Schoharie, N. Y. Believing that a large university had opportunity to benefit more persons than a small college, he left the bulk of his fortune to the University of Wisconsin. He did not, however, forget the other institutions, and willed $5,000 each to Beloit college and Carroll college of Waukesha, Wis.

In addition to living a greater part of his life in Sauk City and Prairie du Sac, Mr. Tripp also practiced law in Baraboo and Reedsburg.

Adams hall was named in memory of Charles Kendall Adams, late president of the university, who left his entire estate to the university upon his death several years ago.

Child Life During Old English Times Sketched by Dean

Dean Louise Nardin talked to the Home Economics 19 class yesterday afternoon at the Home Economics building, on "A Child in Old England."

"A Child in a well-to-do English family about three or four centuries ago lived a life of usefulness in an environment of beauty," said Dean Nardin. Her home was handsomely furnished with carved oak, tapestries, gold and silver ornaments. Her father and mother were elaborately dressed in silks, laces, and jewels. There were the charming walled gardens and the park, the scene of picturesque hunts. On the highroad she often saw a royal progress, which was full of drama and color. There was music, too, to develop her artistic nature.

As most of the work was done in the homes at that time, the girl had her share of cooking, gardening, dairying, brewing, curing meats, drying and preserving of fruits. There were few doctors and consequently she helped her mother in caring for the sick.

James Hunecker, In Book of Criticism, Calls Elman Genius

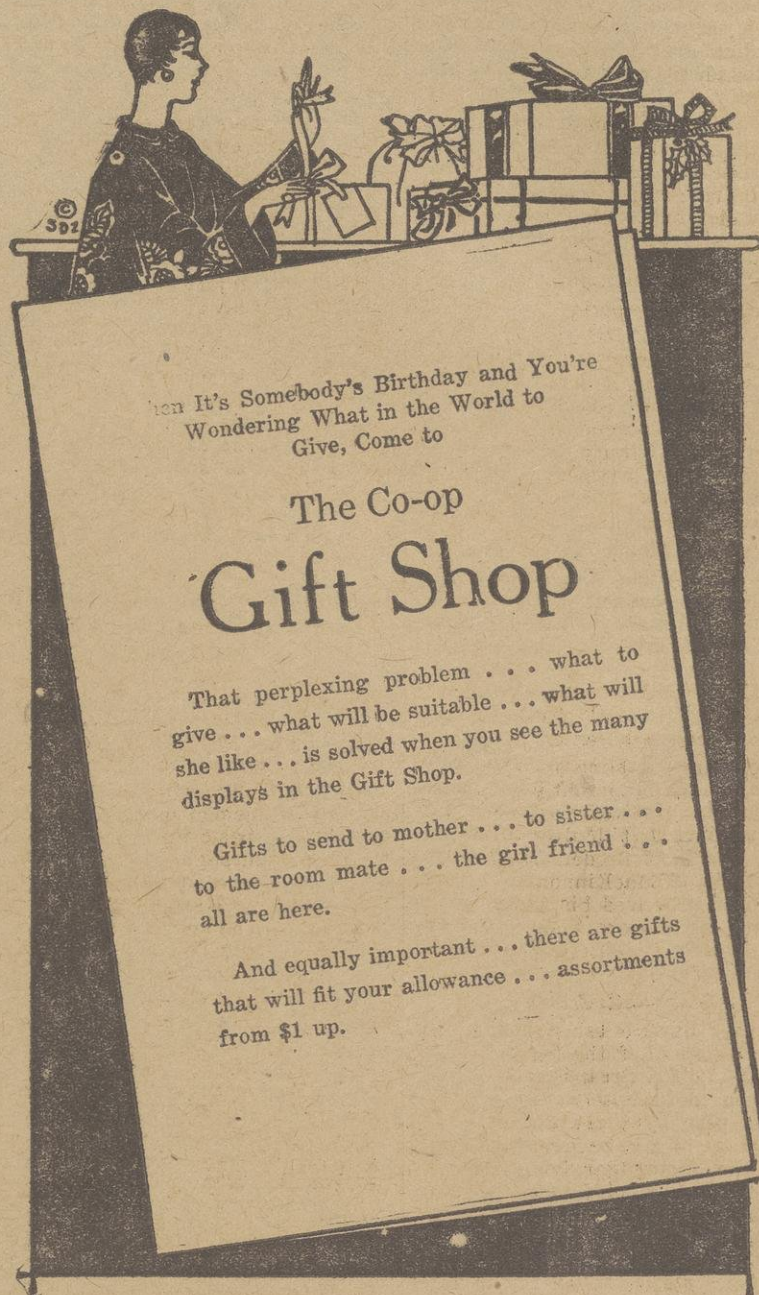

Mischa Elman, the master violinist, who appears next Monday with his string quartette in Christ Presbyterian church, is discussed by the late James Hunecker in his volume of criticism and comment, "Unicorns," with its inimitable raciness of style and glitter of erudition. In it he devotes a chapter to "Violinists, Now and Yesteryear."

Considering the fact that this writer had personally heard such violinistic giants of yesteryear as Vieuxtemps, Wieniawski, Wilhelmj, and Joachim, and that he had listened to a host of virtuosi of this generation, his words concerning Mischa Elman are noteworthy and significant.

Of the young Russian genius he says: "United to an amazing technical precision there is a still more amazing emotional temperament all dominated by a powerful musical and mental intellect that is uncanny. His tone is lava-like in its warmth. He paints with many colors. He displays numberless nuances of feeling. Naturally the pride of hot youth asserts itself, and often, self intoxicated, he intoxicates his audience with his compelling tone. Hebraic, tragic, melancholy, the boisterousness of the Russian, the swift modulation from mad caprices to slavish despair—Elman is the magician of many moods."

BADGERS AND GOPHERS FINISH PRACTICE DRILLS BEFORE GAME

Dr. Spears' Gophers Slated to Arrive Here Today—Stop-Over at Janesville

MINNEAPOLIS. (special)—That Dr. Clarence Spears expects one of the toughest battles of the year Saturday is indicated by the manner in which the Gopher mentor has been drilling his proteges during the past week. Every night has been a scrimmage session between a Cardinal-clad freshman eleven using Badger plays and the Minnesota varsity.

The Wabash contest proved to the fans that Minnesota has a powerful offense if it can get under way. The Indians scored the first touchdown, but that had the effect of rousing the Gophers out of their listlessness and they unloosed an attack which marked up 40 points in the second period.

The workouts thus far this week have been mainly directed toward the perfection of a defense against the highly-touted Badger passing game. The freshmen have been sent against the varsity on the offensive the majority of the time, and their accurate passes have been their best weapons in gaining yardage.

165 Pound Center

On the line, Captain Roger Wheeler and Kenneth Haycraft will undoubtedly start at ends. Mike Gary and "Tiny" Hyde will again hold down the tackle positions, with Harold Hanson and either Len Walsh or "Hoot" Gibson guards, and MacKinnon center.

MacKinnon, Minnesota's 165 pound center, has apparently earned the call at the pivot post over Tony Hulstrand, Art Mulvey, and Wendell "Fat" Bredemph. Although very light, MacKinnon has more than once proved his fighting reputation to be more than a myth. All of the other centers will probably see service.

Star Guard Out

Injuries have taken a heavy toll in the camp of the "Giants of the North." Leif Strand, regular guard has been definitely removed from further play by the aggravation in scrimmage of a knee wrench suffered in the Michigan battle. He will not be able to play again this year.

Laurence "Duke" Johnson, considered one of the best tackles on the squad, is out with a hip injury and will not play. "Doc" Matchan, halfback, is in bad shape with a charleyhorse, while Donald Riddell has a bad shoulder which will probably keep him out of the coming tussle.

3000 Students

One of the largest contingents of fans ever to follow a Maroon and Gold team will journey to Madison to witness the struggle. More than 3000 students are expected to cut their classes to see the game. Interest is unusually high this year due to the fact that the home team is unbeaten in 1926 and that the last three contests between the schools have resulted in ties.

Dr. Spears has not as yet decided on who will start in the backfield. He has Nydahl, Almqvist, Peplaw, Joesting, Riddell, O'Brien, Arendsee, Knoerr and Matchan to choose from. All of these backs are virtually on par. Several men will be withheld because of injuries.

MYSTERIOUS SINKING OF VESSEL REPORTED

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich.—(A)—The lighter, Michigan Central, owned by the L. L. Durocher Co. of Detour and valued at $250,000 sank mysteriously in False Detour passage between Drummond and Cockburn Islands Wednesday night. Ten members of the crew barely escaped on the tug General which came up in response to frantic signals.

This word was brought here today by Walter Durocher, one of the owners.

The fireman heard rushing water shortly after midnight and aroused his sleeping comrades just in time to escape over the side before the ship went down in very deep water.

Coach Little Strengthens Badger Wall to Meet Gopher Line Attack

More rounding off of awkward angles was the main order of the day's football practice at Camp Randall last night.

Working on the theory that every little bit helps, and the bigger the bit the more it helps, the Badgers tapered off only slightly on the hard labor. They ran thru plays, especially the new ones, and took in a final session defensive preparation.

Gophers Arrive Today

The Minnesota team will arrive here today in time to sniff the balmy climate and go through their daily dozen on Randall field. Though playing against strong teams, they have been remarkably free from injuries and will bring a set of stalwart lads to town.

As game time nears, many experts how a tendency to give Minnesota a wee edge. The Gophers have done things on rather an impressive scale this season, and they are generally conceded a better chance to stop Wisconsin than Wisconsin has of stopping them.

Taken man for man, Minnesota presents a really powerful front. Capt. Wheeler, right end, maintains the usual Gopher average for wingmen, which happens to be high. Wheeler is a difficult customer on any run that starts in his direction. Haycroft, left end, is also a capable and heady player.

Tackles Are Strong

Hyde and Gary, Minnesota tackles hold between them the distinction of being something like the toughest linemen in the conference. They take basic interest in opening the holes through which the Gopher backs are supposed to make their gains. Hanson and Walsh, guards, do the shimmy act on every play from guards-back formation. As a consequence, they are usually lined up together on one side of center and their cooperative charging act is worthy of a more than passing notice.

In the nominal center of the line, MacKinnon holds forth. Though he is considerably under the weight average of the Gopher forwards, he is reported to be as scrappy as any of his heavier mates.

While the Minnesota backfield gets most of the credit for moving the ball forward, this powerful line forms an essential part of her offensive.

Badger Line Stronger

Realizing that the real battle will be fought out in the line, Coach Little has bent every effort to the strengthening of the Wisconsin forward wall this week. Guards have been shuffled about until now it is a toss-up whether Wagner, Von Bremer, Cole, Schuette or Carney will start tomorrow. Leil and Straubel appear fairly well settled in their tackle jobs, but Kasiska and Schweers have been groomed to step in if they falter.

For ends, Cameron, Burrus, and Welch stand at the head of the list with Hotchkiss and Stupecky appearing as improbable possibilities. Welch has gained favor in the coaches' eyes by his consistent offensive and defensive operations, and he may be one of the chosen eleven to start.

The Badgers lack not at all for backs, a fact which means considerable rotation in the backfield tomorrow. If he wants smashers, Coach Little can use Capt. Doyle Harmon, Kreuz, Kresky and Barnum, while Crofoot, Rose, and Shaw can fill in on the swift-foot requirements.

PHI PIS TREM ALPHA CHIS IN VOLLEY BALL

In the two sets of games played off this week in the women's intramural volley ball competition Phi Omega Pi was victor over Alpha Chi Omega, and in the consolation tournament Pi Beta Phi won by default from Bradford and Chadbourne hall won from Anderson House by default.

DAD'S DINNER TICKET UNION BLDG. TODAY

Training Table

To be a perfect Minnesota-Wisconsin football day, it should rain copiously tomorrow from one o'clock on. Then the two teams should shove each other about for the required length of time, both scoring one touchdown and one pint after touchdown. We mention these gay facts in the hope that they will follow the line of most of our other predictions and fail to come true. Anyway, don't be disappointed.

The Wisconsin team may not anticipate with any great enthusiasm the coming of Joesting, but nevertheless he will be an important reason for the filling of many seats that might otherwise remain empty. As playmate Eckersall once noted, individual stars bring most of the glamor and excitement to the game of football. Ordinary humans would rather see a man like Joesting plowing through for 10 or 12 yards at a throw, than they would a set of mechanically perfect players progressing by mere coordination.

As a matter of fact, there is more of rhythm and cooperation in the Gopher eleven than many people suspect. When Joesting plunges, as he frequently does, he is following a predestined course toward the making of which every Minnesota man is working. Persons who can take their eyes off the ball long enough to watch what goes on up ahead are often rewarded by interesting tips on what makes a real football team.

Some of the boys are making side bets on whether Wisconsin or Minnesota will be penalized most during the game. The Badgers broke about every rule in the book last Saturday against Indiana, and Minnesota was set back enormously in the Michigan game for offside and other deficiencies. An official in penalizing mood can catch the Gophers about two out of every four plays with two or three men in motion when the ball is snapped. The Badgers get so enthusiastic that they play too rough or too fast and it costs them five yards to find out about it.

The good old fighting Irish blood in Carney, sub Wisconsin guard, may get a chance to boil over if he gets into the game. He played a lot of football when he was set loose in scrimmage the other night and his chances of shoving into the lineup tomorrow are excellent.

LIST OF WOMEN TEAMS ANNOUNCED

Have Adopted W. A. A. Training Rules for Annual Class Meets

Wednesday evening, at a compulsory meeting of the university women who were trying out for class squads, the names of those who had qualified for squads were announced. Those who compose the class squad have adopted W. A. A. training and will continue to train until after the class meets which are to be held November 9, 11 and 16.

Those who made the freshman squad are: Betty Briggs, Margaret Charters, Virginia Dawns, Edith Finn, Jane Gage, Ruth Goldman, Joan Hunn, Evelyn Marsden, Mary Parkhurst, Emily Sheldan, Elsa Stecher, Evelyn Watts, Loane Wade, Amelia Woldenberg, Florence Kincella, Wilma Huebsch, Florence Pease, Susan Lenger and Nancy Sasser.

The following are those who qualified for the sophomore squad: Elynore Bell, Ruth Critschell, Ann Dean, Clemence DeGraw, Elizabeth Hoffman, Helen Jylauer, Marjorie Kaltenbach, Rose Kaplan, Lois Le Brosquet, Bernita Lloyd, Betty Laurie, Marian Ruch, Gladys Simpson, Marian Tifts, Pamela Lawrence, and Florence Ritchie.

Vera Carr, Charlotte Hussa, Irene Kubista, Regina Selinger, Winifred Smith, Elizabeth Evans, Ruth Bublign, Helen Oeber, Florence Kerner, and Margaret Bobbitt will represent the junior class on the swimming squad.

MINNESOTA-WISCONSIN HARRIERS CLASH TOMORROW IN DUAL MEET

Personnel of Cardinal Squad Unsettled; Selection of Eight Men Definitely Assured

As to the exact lineup of the 10 men who will oppose the Minnesota cross country team tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock, Coach T. E. Jones, the Badger harrier mentor, has remained silent.

In fact, it is probable that he will not make definite announcement as to the squad personnel until just prior to the meet. The first eight men are fairly definite, Captain Schutt, Chapman, J. and S. Zola, Petaja, Gumbreck, Bullamore, and Payne, but the other two as yet are not known. Schwenger, Williamson, Butz, Fink, Walter and Egger are those who are fighting for places.

Workout Today

The Gopher team, 10 men strong, accompanied by Coach Emil Iverson and his manager, will arrive this morning at 7:10 o'clock. This afternoon the Northmen will go over the course which will be four miles, and will also take a slight workout. The 10 Gophers who will run tomorrow are:

Captain V. Hubbard, W. Katter, V. Immer, C. H. Soderstrom, Joe Wexman, T. Chalgren, William Elling, Harold Binger, R. Aker, F. M. Rarig.

Four Mile Course

The run tomorrow will leave the front of the gymnasium and will go along the lake drive past the new men's dormitories, by the stock pavilion, and out along the university farm roads and back in along the lake. The course was measured Wednesday night and found to be precisely four miles.

Officials for the meet were announced by Coach Jones last night as:

Fred Luehring, director of athletics at the University of Minnesota, starter.

Prof. Taylor, Dr. Frederick Elsom, and Coach "Dad" Vail, timers. M. P. Rapacz, instructor in political science at the university, who as a member of the Minnesota cross country team in 1912 finished third in the conference run, Capt. Hull, and Prof. Corp as judges of the finish.

The varsity managers of the two teams will serve as scorers for the meet.

ILLINOIS BOASTS OF LIGHTEST GRID CENTER

Bob Reitsch, who will fill the pivot position for Illinois when Pennsylvania comes to Illinois stadium next Saturday, is the lightest center in the Western Conference. The former Rockford prep athlete weighs only 172 pounds and needs about another half inch of height to stand six feet tall. Because of his aggressiveness, his team mates call him "Fighting Bob."

CROP STATISTICIAN ASSIGNED TO ORIENT

WASHINGTON—(A)—Increased consumption of American farm products in the orient was predicted today by officials of the agriculture department. Paul C. Nyhus, Madison, former state crop statistician of Wisconsin and now in charge of the federal bureau there, had been assigned to a two year study of the oriental market in that part of the world and will leave in December. The three principal farm products in which increased exportation was predicted are tobacco, cotton and wheat.

Krishnamurti Pays Visit to Cleveland

CLEVELAND, O.—(A)—Jidu Krishnamurti, heralded by the Theosophists as the voice of the new Messiah and Mrs. Annie Besant, Theosophical leader, came to Cleveland today. Mrs. Besant addressed a public meeting here.

sent the junior class on the swimming squad.

The senior squad is composed of Mary Learnard, Binny Marion, Sylvia Orth, Marcella Steele, Josephine Winter, Miriam Wollaefer, and Blanche Buhlig.

Coach Iverson's Squad Arrives This Morning; Fears Badger Strength

Minnesota's varsity cross-country team 10 strong, with Coach Emil Iverson at its head, left Minneapolis last night for Madison where they will engage the strong Badger aggregation in their first Big Ten dual meet of the season Saturday.

Captain Vin Hubbard, Wexman, Binger, Katter, Rarig, Aker, Chalgren, Elling, Immer and Soderstrom are the runners taking the trip. Coach Iverson is not very optimistic over the outcome as Wisconsin is rated as having one of the best teams in the conference. The Badgers have copped the championship for the last two years and are out to make a strong bid this year.

Arrive This Morning

The Gophers will arrive in Madison Friday morning and will work out on the course in the afternoon. Wexman has been doing good work for Minnesota so far, having taken first in the dual meets with North Dakota and Ames. Captain Hubbard was decidedly off his usual form in the first meet but is improving steadily.

Schut and Chapman for the Badgers are the most dangerous men and are expected to show well. Although the Gophers are not conceded much of a chance they will go into the race with determination to give a good account of themselves.

In the last practice held in Minneapolis, Iverson's men had a fast workout over the new five mile course and showed that they could go the distance in good shape. In their two previous meets the course was over a three mile course in the first meet with North Dakota and over a four mile course in the second race with Ames. They are now in shape to hit the five mile course and will work hard to make a good showing.

HOOSIERS SET FOR WILCAT INVASION

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Oct. 25—"Get ready for the Wildcat invasion," was the battle cry on the campus of Indiana University today. The Northwestern horde of pigskin performers are in for a hectic fray here Saturday afternoon inside Memorial stadium if one can judge from the hustling atmosphere surrounding Pat Page and his Crimson warriors.

It will be Homecoming day for Indiana University and its friends and before their own home crowd the "Serappin' Hoosiers" are at their best. Pat Page characterized the first game at Evanston as a mental hazard which is passed. He has eliminated many of the early weaknesses of the team and has centered much of his preparations during the past week on this one game. It is the battle he wishes to win.

Once within the thirty-yard zone Indiana will have a chance to score, according to critics who have witnessed Louis Biner boot the ball through the goal posts from placement. The veteran guard has received daily attention from Coach Page in the art of kicking and Indiana followers who witness him this weekend will see one of the most accurate kickers in the Western Conference.

Briner possesses a strong right leg and is usually good for a field goal when attempting the trick from the thirty-yard mark. Coach Page plans a few shifts in the forward wall this week in an effort to check the heavy and charging Wildcat forwards, which will be necessary before Briner gets his chance to kick the sphere.

A Franchise to Exercise

Every student in the university today has an opportunity to exercise a privilege which is offered to him but twice during the school year. Positions of honor and trust are to be filled by today's elections of class officers, student senate, publications boards and other organizations. Use your franchise as a student voter and make certain that the men and women elected to represent you in official student life are the ones which you believe the better fitted for their positions. Vote!

By voting for the candidates whom you have decided are capable of positions of trust and honor in your class, you automatically assure the fact that the students so selected are the choice of the majority to represent the whole. The duty, for such it can aptly be called, of voting in student elections is important. After our few years of study in the university we will be eligible, educationally speaking, to assume roles of mature citizens and exercise the privileges and duties of city, state, and national elections. Then the casting of our ballots thoughtfully and regularly will be of more importance to be sure than it is now. But student elections are by no means a practise election. Your study of the candidates for each position, the use of your discretion in deciding which are capable and which ones are not and then voting for your selected ones will give you both training for later years of national elections and an opportunity to elect the best candidates for your offices.

A light poll of votes will indicate that the students do not value and appreciate the privilege which they have of selecting their leaders. The student elections are an indication that the university is a democracy where the choice of the majority rules. By not voting today you will not only make a mockery of student elections but you will turn the student body into an autocratic government in which the few select and name the leaders and rulers of the many.

Vote today! Select the men and women for your offices carefully that they may be a choice of the majority. You have a privilege and a duty! Take advantage of them!

Is it Worth While?

It does not take a professional listener on our campus to hear questions and discussions among the undergraduate students about the subject of a college or university education. "Is it really worth while," they ask. "Is it worth the four years' time and all the money it takes and will I be any the better off for having spent this time here after I am graduated and go into the outside world?"

The questions are difficult to answer in the abstract although that is the field in which the training of a university career is appreciated and works. No measure can be put upon the enjoyment which a man gets out of life when he is fortified with a university training.

It is in concrete figures made from long compilations where we can find one answer to the question. "Is it worth while?" It is our opinion that the greatest good comes from a university education in the form of greater lives, better standards, and enjoyment of life's situations, and we are sorry that most of the proof is in the form of economic figures which show but one advantage of a college education.

An investigation has produced the fact that an ordinary uneducated laborer earns approximately $20,000 during a lifetime. A high school graduate has been recorded as earning on the average of $40,000 during a similar number of years' work. A college trained man, the figures show, will earn in the neighborhood of $72,000 as a money compensation for his endeavors in the economic world of business and industry.

A comparison shows that the college man earns approximately $52,000 more during his active years than does the day laborer, and in addition to this the college man leads a more fruitful and enjoyable life—an item which cannot be computed. A college man will earn about $32,000 more than his high school trained competitor.

By multiplying the number of graduates from the university each year by the amount a college man earns over and above the capacity of his high school rival, a rough estimate can be given of the profit which the university gives to the state each year. With approximately 2,000 graduates annually it can be seen that the university contributes to the state and the nation approximately $64,000,000 in earning power each year as an excuse for its existence.

Thus it can be seen that from an economic point of view both the university student and the state and nation in which he lives profit by the four years and the money which have been invested in getting a university education. Add to this the benefit which comes to the nation and the state from the university trained doctors and surgeons, the journalists, the teachers, the lawyers, the engineers, the business, and industrial leaders. Then add the item of better lives, more enjoyment of life's situations and complexities and the inquirers will have an estimate, rough and meager we admit, of the good a university training does. "Is it worth-while?" We think it is.

Other Editors Say

The aim of President Little and other prominent educators is to "humanize" education; to get away from the old routine of a professor, aloof and dignified, handing out information, which is duly memorized by the student, rehearsed in examinations, and promptly forgotten. The new method is to bring the professor and the student into closer contact—to make them friends, interested in the same subject, working together to the same end. Faculty-student smokers, faculty men dining at fraternity houses, faculty advisers for freshmen—all these developments are aimed at the same goal.

There is one other means of contact open, long neglected except in a few cases. Most members of the faculty, residing out Washtenaw avenue, or other distant points, reach the campus every morning by automobile—in most cases, five passenger cars. Most students living in the same localities make their eight o'clock classes by a little brisk walking. If the faculty men would make a practice of taking a car-load of students to the campus with them on each trip, some contacts might be made which would prove more valuable to both sides than those supplied in the classroom. There are professors who have long since adopted this custom; there are others who might contribute their share to the "humanizing" process.

An automobile has wonderful possibilities as a "humanizer."—Michigan Daily.

A Daily Cardinal story tells us that leaves do not just fall off trees but that they are pushed off. Some fraternity pledges have tried to enlist our support and have the botany department graft on a device which will push them all out into the street and make unnecessary the raking process.

How alike are elections and races. In a track meet the man who gets the pole position is generally the winner of the race. The ones who get the poll today will be the winners of the race.

Sixty seconds make one minute, how much good can I do in it? With hour examinations breaking out all over the campus this old saying has been altered somewhat. Sixty minutes make an hour, why has the faculty all the power?"

Indiana is living up to its reputation of being moral. A nine-year-old school girl wore knickers to school, revealing the fact that she was bifurcated above the knees. Of course the schoolmaster objected, claiming that she was corrupting her companions.

BUT WHERE'S HEAVEN?

Today is election day, and while campaigning is strictly against the principle of this column, remember that Rocketeers have just as good a chance to get into heaven as anyone.

OUR MORNING SERIAL (Stop—no pun intended.)

(Mrs. Rabbit, hearing that the Woofus Bird is in town, faints. We left her unconscious over a week ago. Poor girl.)

Peter ran for the card-index of his library, rummaging through it he pulled out a card, then he made for the book shelves:

"Goodness goodness," he groaned in anxiety, "Goodness goodness!"

At last he found WHAT TO DO UNTIL THE DOCTOR COMES.

"First," he read, "Dash cold water on the patient."

So Peter hastened to fill the bathtub with cold water, then he realized his folly.

"Dear dear," he said sheepishly, "I've made a mistake, I'll never be able to carry that bathtub in all the world."

But Mrs. Rabbit was still in the land of Nod!

"Well," announced Peter, "I must do something—if I can't move the tub I can move Mrs. Rabbit."

Then, with a sly chuckle, he decided to reverse the process, and dash the patient in cold water. Came a knock at the door, Peter looked. It was the Woofus Bird; even Mrs. Rabbit heard it.

"Peter," she decided, "I'm going home to mother!"

We have a new Helper called Gordy. He is NOT the Rocketeer Gordy, he is a nice boy. Anyway, he told us two jokes, here is number one:

2nd Sailor: Oh, that's the dead calm on the ocean.

Mary had a little Ford,

It rattled like a snake.

Every time a wheel went 'round,

Something new would break.

Everyone—MacBeth, Acon and whatnot have been using our Milwaukee joke. Right now we will try to finish it off, yet it hurts us to give it up for it was becoming a real tradition.

"Are you from Milwaukee?"

"NO!"

Helper Eddie was moaning about a cow on the home farm that wouldn't give any milk.

HOT AIR IS TERMED

FACTOR IN POLITICS

Political parties are made up mostly of "hot air and bunk," according to Joseph P. Harris, professor of political science here, who spoke Wednesday night before the student industrial group of the Y. W. C. A. Nine-tenths of any campaign is the personality of the speaker, declared Mr. Harris, and much more can be learned from the speeches than from the printed platforms.

Readers' Say-So

GEORGE RAPS IOWMAN AGAIN

Editor, the Daily Cardinal:

After reading Guy Lowman's soliloquy on the wonderful opportunities offered by the athletic department to the non-W personnel of the school some of the department's shortcomings were even more noticeable.

Mr. Lowman made the extravagant statement that Wisconsin offered a more comprehensive intramural program than any other conference school. That hardly seems possible when only last year the writer, in an interview with George Berg was told that both Ohio and the University of Illinois carried on an intra-mural program far in advance of this university.

Taking the open letter of Mr. Lowman's from a different angle, the angle which stated that the reason for Wisconsin's inadequacy lies in its restricted facilities, other points may be uncovered. With some of the members of the present instructional staff kept on, Mr. Lowman could have forty acres of fieldhouses and gym floors and whatnot, and it would do no more toward accomplishing the purpose than do the present facilities. The haughty attitude assumed by certain ones of the department absolutely forbids any attempted approach on the part of an undergraduate for any sort of aid or cooperation. Few care to attempt to penetrate the holier-than-thou attitude with which they try to surround themselves. The boys would rather sit home by the fire side and let the physical culture go by the way. Mr. Lowman suggests that the Daily Cardinal's columns be occasionally employed for the purpose of agitating for greater field house and play ground facilities. He says in part, "The columns of the Daily Cardinal can be of greatest help to get before the faculty and the board of regents the realization that the Department of Physical Education needs additional physical equipment, gymnasium and locker room space, intramural fields and a field house in order that we may etc. . . ."

Why does Mr. Loman want your paper to start agitating? Have the regents failed to come through with the necessary support? What is holding up action? Summing the matter up, it looks as though the athletic department has sunk into a haze of lethargy, footballitis, ticketitis, or whatnot. Again, George.

SAYS WE'RE FOOTBALL MAD

Editor the Daily Cardinal:

I have read the recently published rhapsody by Mr. Lowman on the beauties and advantages of the athletic department and of course I disagree with him. His dream about bringing athletics to the masses here at Wisconsin is very beautiful but of course it is a beautiful Utopian ideal which is far from realization. Wisconsin's inadequacy in bringing athletics to the person who has no "W" potentialities is made all the more glaring by the apathetic attitude of the staff members who infest the little old red building on Langdon street.

Wisconsin is suffering from the same maady as any other state university. Probably footballitis would be a good name for it. To the outside world—the world of alumni and supporters — the state university has come to be represented as a stadium with a few buildings for instruction attached. The country is football mad, and everything else is subordinate to football. Alumni think their Alma Mater is backsliding when their team loses a game. They plead for a winning team at any price and they will even pay $2.50 to see 22 men caper around for 60 minutes.

Time and money is not spared to produce a winning team. Coaches get salaries which exceed those of professors who have pent their live in research for the good of humanity. The state is combined for husky young bruisers who know how to run an open field, and special inducements are made to get them to come to the Alma Mater. The road to knowledge is not made so easy for the young man who,

Formal Dinner is Given at Home Economics Cottage

Last evening was Formal Night, a weekly event at the home economics cottage, 444 North Randall avenue. The dinner guests were Prof. and Mrs. W. H. Peterson and Dr. H. Steenbock of the agricultural chemistry department. Ruth Marks '26 was hostess for the event.

This afternoon from 4:30 to 6 o'clock an informal tea will be held at the cottage to which each resident has invited two guests. The hostess will be Alice Wirick '26.

Miss Abby Marlatt, director of home economics, is probably the most feted woman on the campus for she is the honor guest each day for luncheon at the cottage. From her recent European trip she has gleaned many interesting ideas for "foreign cookery" day, which is Wednesday of each week. On this day the favorite dishes of some country are the basis of the three menus. Last Wednesday Honolulu was the country under study, and the countries represented previously have been Spain, France, and England.

Besides this interesting program of entertaining there is an intensive one of housekeeping.

Monday is marketing day when the residents of the cottage take their baskets in arm and go to market to learn the principles of buying and selection, under the direction of some member of the home economics faculty.

The furniture must be rearranged each week in a manner different from the way it was found. The principles of artistic arrangement are taught in this connection.

Other important household duties which must be mastered are the weekly washing, the ironing, the baking of bread, and making pastry and ice cream.

The chaperons for the group each week are Miss Elizabeth Sutherland, a member of the faculty, and Miss Bertha Clom, a research assistant.

The students who are residents at the cottage this week are Elizabeth Dibble, Grace Graf, Alice Wirick, and Ruth Marks, all seniors.

OPEN CENTERS OF RECEPTION HERE

Thompson Establishes Groups In Three Madison Schools

Recreation should not take the form of only athletics, Harry C. Thompson, director of recreation in Madison told The Capital Times on his return from a national convention of recreational directors held at Atlantic City, N. J., which was attended by over 600 leaders in their field.

With that view of recreation, which was one of the central ideas of the convention, Mr. Thompson has organized three recreational centers.

A Thursday night center has been started at East Side High School, at which two groups, one of women and the other of men, will have an opportunity to choose their type of fun whether in dramatics, music, athletics, gymnastic classes or dancing. The men will meet their instructor, Ernest Ziebell and the women with Miss Evelyn Ekdahl.

The Emerson school center will be a young women's group and Miss Eva Seen will be supervisor. The group will meet every Tuesday night.

The Longfellow school center will be open Thursday nights with two groups participating. Miss Beatrice Marks will have charge of the activities of the women's group while Burdette Ace will take charge of the men.

SONG PROGRAMS TO BE CONTINUED AT DORMS

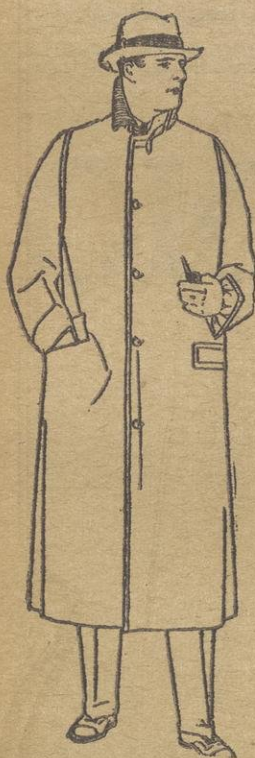

The second of a series of song programs, to be held in the refectory building of the men's dormitories, was conducted last Thursday evening after the dinner hour by Prof. E. B. Gordon of the School Music. Prof. Gordon led the men in the first song program a week ago, and so enthusiastically was the work taken up that it has been made a weekly feature. Wisconsin songs, as well as those of other universities in the Big Ten, will be sung. "Hail to Minnesota," the song of the University of Minnesota, whose football team plays here Saturday, was practiced last week by the men, and will be sung again tonight.

CHURCH TO ENTERTAIN AT HALLOWE'EN PARTY

A Hallowe'en party will be given at the Luther Memorial church at 8:00 o'clock tonight. Famous old ghosts will again walk, and the weird story of "Pokey Huntus" will be dramatized by prominent members of the Luther league.

Chorus Couldn't Sing or Step, Says Fair Association

That the chorus girls of the "Marigold Garden Girly Frolics" were untrained as to singing and awkward and untrained as to movements on the stage, and that the whole company was capable of only a mediocre performance, is charged in the answer of the Dane County Agricultural society to the suit of the Independent Fair Booking Exchange for the sum of $1550.

The suit was brought after the agricultural association refused to allow the Girly Frolics to appear at the Dane county fair in accordance with their contract.

The answer alleges that the contract was obtained by "false, deceitful, and fraudulent" means, maintaining that the act was represented as a high class musical singing, and dancing attraction by the agent of the exchange.

The act was seen by M. M. Parkinson secretary of the association, at the Evansville fair, and immediately after, according to the answer led today, the Independent Fair Booking Exchange was notified that the contract was cancelled.

As a further defense, the Agricultural society declares that the Independent Fair Booking Exchange, an Illinois corporation, is not properly registered with the secretary of state.

MADISON RUMORED AS BUS, PLANE TERMINAL

Madison is to receive the benefits of an air line and a new bus line according to reports concerning the plans of a $10,000,000 Chicago organization.

It is expected that this city will be one of the company terminals and that an airport will be established, since the company plans to use air passenger routes in connection with its motor bus service.

Edwin Ektrom, of the Greyhound lines is to be the president of the new company which will be known as the Motor Transit corporation.

For the benefit of those having low-power radio sets the Irish Free State will establish three new broadcasting stations throughout the country.

Flexible necklaces of diamonds and sapphires have been effectively copied in rhinestones and colored glass, probably, and are effective if not expensive.

Blue Dragon to Stage Hallowe'en Fete at Lathrop

A Hallowe'en party with doughnuts, cider, and all the things that go with Hallowe'en will be given by the senior women to the undergraduates from 7 to 8 o'clock tonight in Lathrop hall.

"This is the annual Blue Dragon party," said Elizabeth George '27, W. S. G. A. social chairman, "and the senior girls wish at this time to become acquainted with the new women students."

Last year's members of the junior commission are the hostesses, and have extended an invitation to all the fathers who are here for Fathers' weekend. Edith Vaughan '27 and Elizabeth Kuenzli '27, have charge of the party.

DORM SIDEWALKS TO BE READY BY NOV. 13

Construction crews are rushing to completion the work of building sidewalks at the men's dormitories. Concrete already has been poured within the quadrangle in Tripp hall and a great deal of the distance to Adams hall has been covered. While it will be impossible to finish the work before the visit of fathers Saturday, everything will be complete when alumni are invited to inspect the buildings at Homecoming Nov. 13. The new dormitories are to be open to fathers of students all day Saturday.

MARCONI WORKS ON POWER WAVES

New Method Mentioned By Inventor In Speech at London

LONDON—William Marconi thinks it may be possible some day to utilize electric waves for transmitting power over moderate distances. In foreshadowing such a possibility during an address today before the Institute of Civil Engineers, he spoke cautiously and without implying any near attainment of such a development.

He said the achievement of the transmission of power by electric waves would involve the perfecting of devices for projecting the waves in parallel beams in such a manner as to minimize dispersal and diffusion of energy into space. He did not elaborate the suggestion.

Signor Marconi said among other things that less was known regarding the theory of wireless than any other persons imagined and that the whole theory and practice of long distance radio transmission were undergoing a radical change.

He expressed confidence that his system of beam radio transmission would make wireless telephony more effective and aid in the transmission of pictures and facsimiles including television.

Only recently he put in operation his beam radio service between Montreal and London. Messages in dot and dash were exchanged at a rate of 200 mords a minute.

Three Testify on Tax Question at Board of Review

The Madison town board of review, meeting in the courthouse, listened yesterday to the testimony of three witnesses called to the stand by Carl N. Hill, legal advisor of the board. The witnesses were George Gill, who has acted as an appraiser of land on which the assessment has been protested, Ernest Burmeister, and Herman Arnold.

Mr. Arnold was called to testify as to the possibility of profitably using small areas of land in the town of Madison as truck farms. Mr. Burmeister testified to land deals in which he has been engaged. The contention of Miles C. Riley, attorney for a number of farmers who are protesting their assessments, is that Madison and land in the vicinity of Madison, has been over-platted and that much of it has not been sold as lots. About 70 per cent of the platted area has not been sold, he asserted.

PROF. STEBBINS TALKS ON MARS AT ROTARY

A discussion of the planet Mars was the feature of an illustrated lecture by Prof. Joel Stebbins, astronomer of the university, to members of the Rotary club at the Hotel Loraine yesterday. No particular observations are being made here at this time, he declared, as the power of the telescope is not sufficient to aid in settling the question of the inhabitability of the planet.

perhaps, has a hankering toward things academic. Perhaps he has an idea in his head which may revolutionize an existing order but that doesn't make him as desirable as the potential varsity athlete.

Every state university wants increased enrollment and a good football team is one of the best advertisements to get new students. Therefore the athletic departments must concentrate on the varsity teams, to the neglect of the great mass of students who need athletic activity as well as the super-athletes.

Wisconsin appears to be no exception. We are afflicted with the same mania for a winning team as any other school, and this spirit is reflected in the attitude of the personnel of the athletic department and in the columns of the daily press. A local newspaper put a banner headline Wednesday on a story announcing the possibility of a Wisconsin-Ohio game in 1928. The country is football mad, and the candidate for public office who ran on a platform advocating "football tickets for all" would decisively beat the candidate running on a tariff reform platform.

To me, it would appear that the local athletic department is devoting most of its energy in developing winning varsity teams, and that it is neglecting the opportunities given it by the proper authorities for developing more fields and facilities which would make this university more democratic from an athletic point of view.

We are becoming a nation of on-lookers, where the great bulk of our population sits around and watches 22 highly developed and much press-agented super-stars strut their stuff on the gridiron.

THE COLLEGE LOAFER

FRESHMAN PROTESTS CO-ED SMOKING

Editor, the Daily Cardinal:

I think something ought to be done about women in the university smoking. Word has come to my ears that a couple of co-eds were seen smoking in a down-town restaurant the other night. I am just a freshman here, and if my mother knew that I was coming in contact with women who smoked, she would have me withdrawn immediately.

These brazen people who smoke are ruining their own health as well as corrupting the morals of the rest of us who must come in contact with them. By crackey, Mr. Editor, something ought to be done to curb this vicious practice. Why, don't you get together with the Dane County chapter of the W. C. T. U. and start a campaign against women smokers? Create a public sentiment which will shame them. I am sure that the W. C. T. U. would be more than glad to cooperate with you in this much needed reform.

JOHN '30.

DOESN'T LIKE TOO MUCH RESTRAINT

Editor, the Daily Cardinal:

What's the idea of this big reform wave that seems to be sweeping over the university like a gargantuan wave. It seems that we don't do anything any more without having some apostle of reform take us to task. We are severely censured for smoking, drinking, and petting, and even our house manager tells us that we will not be allowed to come down to breakfast in our bath robes. Great scott, Mr. Nelson, is the Bill of Rights to be swept off the boards entirely? Aren't we going to have any personal liberty left? There just ain't no justice any more, it seems. The women's reform organization even wants to restrain this young Swedish Eklund from writing more prohibition editorials for the Daily Cardinal. Ain't it the limit?

Radios Message To Mars; Still Awaiting Reply

LONDON—In return for a payment of 72 cents the British government has done its best to send a message to Mars. At the central radio office Wednesday night Dr. Maneld Robinson handed in.

The message was prefixed with three M's, which Dr. Robinson said was the calling sign for Mars. It was composed of two words "Opes-tinipitia Secomba."

The message was accepted by the clerk for transmission by Great Britain's most powerful radio station, Himorion. The sender was charged the long distance ship rate equivalent to 36 cents a word. No reply has been received. Dr. Robinson, who is versed in psychical research, claims he has previously had psychical communication with the Martians.

Theaters Feature Farces and Reel Drama Next Week

By H. E. R.

Once again we issue the cry that there will be plenty of entertainment for all at Madison theaters next week. We should add "variety" too, although comedies are prevalent.

The Strand is starting the week with "The Temptress," a highly sensational melodrama of passionate love, so they tell us, in which Antonio Moreno and Greta Garbo are the principal characters. A duel with lashes should satisfy those who are hunting for originality. On Wednesday the features change and Lewis Stone will make another appearance at the Strand in his latest production known as "Don Juan's Three Nights." Shirley Mason is one of the important co-stars.

Richard Dix is booked to start the week at the Parkway in "The Quarterback," a highly entertaining picture of college football featuring Esther Ralston and a couple of teams coached by "Hurricane" Yost. The story is about a man who swore that he would stay in school until his team beat another rival, and the poor fellow had to stay until his son developed into a quarterback. At mid-week, the new feature will be "So's Your Old Man," a farce comedy featuring W. C. Fields and Alice Joyce. The Chicago Tribune gave it a nice send-off, so we needn't be afraid of it.

"Foot-loose Widows" is the name of the first picture to be seen at the Madison next week. It is a farce comedy, featuring Louise Fazenda and Jacqueline Logan, with a plot in which the attempts to find a rich husband are the causes for amusing situations. For the last half of the week, "The Family Upstairs," a comedy of family life will be the feature. Virginia Valli and J. Farrell McDonald are the principal characters.

Last but not least, ye Orpheum. Babe Egan's Hollywood Redheads are featured for the first half of next week. All girls and all redheads. My! Then for the last half of the week Hooper and Gatchett present "The Rockie," a war sketch of no inconsiderable fun.

TRAMP, TRAMP, TRAMP TITILLATING TRUCK

By Garibaldi

Tramp, Tramp, Tramp is another of these feature length, slapstick, imbecilic comedies which seem to be so popular and numerous of late. It is really funny, nevertheless—there are some clever gags in it, and a few clever sub-titles.

Moron Harry Langdon is at what, for lack of a better phrase, we call his best. Th plot is trite, depending on all sorts of haphazard circumstances. Harry's father, you see, is to be ejected from his home because of arrears of rent, and Harry determines to go out in the world and get the money. He falls in with Nick Kargas, the World's Champion Walker, who is heading for the starting place of a cross-continent hike, sponsored by Burton, the big shoe manufacturer, who offers $25,000 to the winner. Harry has worshipped the girl. Burton's daughter, on the Burton bill-boards. And when he meets her, he is a perfect imitation of a half-witted school kid of nine. Of course, they fall in love with each other.

After certain adventures in his long hike, including a sojourn with a chain gang and the braving of a cyclone, with appropriate side plays of foolishness, he wins the twenty-five thousand and the girl.

But the plot is nothing; the whole thing is a one man game for Harry Langdon and his gags. The girl, played by Joan Crawford, is good to look upon. The ending of the picture is quite appropriate, in the way. It shows Harry's off-spring, played by Harry himself, in a cradle.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—(P)—Arthur Lorenz, former editor of a German language newspaper in Chicago, was today definitely freed of the necessity of serving a six months' prison sentence for libeling the American Legion when the state supreme court upheld a ruling of Judge Eller of Chicago.

DRUNKARD AT ORPH MAKES CROWD LAUGH

BY CON

For college adolescents who like mirth, joy, and uproarious laughter, the Orpheum this half of the week offers a titillating bill. If you haven't been feeling well lately, the Orph will bring your spirits up. Even a most chronic dyspeptic would let loose several lusty guffaws at two of the acts. Jack Norton, the drunkard and Verdi the fiddler, are the chief laugh producers.

Two brand new jokes about Scotch come out in this show. One is about a fellow who put an engagement ring on a woman. She became obese and he tried to break the engagement but her fingers were so plump he couldn't get the ring off so he had to marry her. You'll have to go to the Orph yourself to get the other one.

Following is the play by play report:

The Gerald's

They have an instrument like a xylophone rigged up with 34 mandolines and they play the Wabash Blues and other classical selections. It sounds pretty fair.

Fred and Daisy Rial

Daisy, who affects a fetching Dutch accent, displays a beautiful muscular development on the rings. Wouldn't care to meet her on a dark night. She and Fred Furnish good entertainment.

Purdy and Fain

I would Fain meet the feminine half of this act, personally. She is the kind who appeals to susceptible young collieth boys. All she would need to do to make the act a success would be to stand still. She dances a little and sings and strums a ukelele, but it really doesn't make much difference what she does or how she does it. She gets by.

Jack Norton

Jack, playing the part of a drunken sot coming home to wifey, is the best entertainer on the whole bill. Hope the W. C. T. U. doesn't get after this act on the grounds that it is suggestive, for there is a bottle of something on the table which might just as well have represented intoxicating liquor. Jack goes through this act with a flourish and a gusto which makes the house roar. The skit must have been written in pre-Volsteadian days, because Jack was gloriously lit, and folks don't get drunk nowadays, because the law says they can't. Anyhow, where would they get the liquor?

Coscia and Verdi

One plays sweet music on the violin while the other virtuoso throws in the dirt with a cello. The latter plays the cello in a non-Chautauquan style which pleases frivolous college folks. He has long black hair, soulfu eyes and baggy pant. A mighty good act.

Lucille Ballantine

The headliner of the bill dances well. Her supporting cast isn't so hot, but we mut admit that Lucille can dance. She is pretty, skilful with the toes, and has a good personality.

KLAN LIQUOR RAIDER INCENSES CITY'S HEAD

BIRMINGHAM—Incensed by attempted dictation of the city's dry enforcement policy by a delegation of klansmen, Commission President Jimmy Jones today ordered W. J. Worthing, free lance liquor raider and exalted cyclops of the Avondale Klavern, to 'shut up or I'll throw you out,' of the City Hall.

"Her Big Night" Is Entertainment For a Dull Night

By EDWARD C. CROUSE

The Parkway's entertainment this weekend is good entertainment; Laura La Plante knows comedy; the supporting cast does, too; and the story is great.

The plot will not be divulged in this column, for therein lies a good part of the film's interest; enough to say that it is a well-done tale of mistaken—greatly mistaken—identity, and that it is exceptionally well presented. There is a distressing tangle of circumstance—and it continually increases—that seems utterly impossible to unravel; but it is straightened out, suddenly and unexpectedly.

Zasu Pitts, again, does good work; and Mack Swain, a one-time funny-man of the almost forgotten Keystone comedies, is there, too, although his former prominence has disappeared.

Shoer's band is, as was mentioned recently on this page, quite good; they are better than Fran Steele's pale outfit that lasted so miraculously long at the theater, but Shoer is not a director; he belongs back with the other trumpet-man.

And there's no doubt but that silence would be far pleasanter than the struggles of the would-be pianist who accompanies the Parkway films during the installation of their organ.

YOUTHS CONFESS PLOT TO DERAIL EXPRESS

WILKES BARRE, Pa.—(P)—Attempt to wreck and hold up the crack Lehigh Valley express between New York and Buffalo was revealed today by railroad detectives with the arrest of Earl Crumley, 21, and Theodore Cadwalder, 22, both of Ashley. According to a confession, the youths dynamited the tracks, but the train's weight apparently flattened the rails back.

APIS MELIFICA TO BE TAMED BY AGS

Club Plans Wednesday Program About Methods of Bee Culture

"SEE APIS MELIFICA TAMED!" Such are the scare-heads that have been greeting one almost everywhere on the campus. But what kind of animal is this apis thing? Nothing more terrible than a bee!

Next Wednesday evening, a bee show is to be held in the auditorium of Agricultural hall by members of the Apis club. Four reels of motion pictures of bees and methods of handling them are to be shown. In addition to this there is to be a demonstration on the stage with live bees under the direction of Warren Whitcomb, a graduate of New Hampshire university, who is now working towards a Ph. D. in apiculture at the College of Agriculture.

The purpose of this show is to enable the Apis club to make some necessary additions to their C. C. Miller Memorial library, the most complete collection of books on bee culture in the world.

Apis club is a member of the International Apis club of England. There is only one other chapter in the United States and that one is at Cornell university. The local organization has been honored for its efficiency by a bronze medal from the headquarters in England. Edward Rassmussen is president of the club here.

THE FARMER WHO STROLLED DOWN THE LANE — A TALE OF GORE

An ambitious Capital Times reporter found time yesterday to dig through the new student directories and concoct a fanciful tale around the many interesting names found there. The story follows:

A MEEK, Little, Farmer strolled down the Lane and over the Hill to his two Fields one Noon when Frost was on the ground. Passing through three Gates he came to a Pine Forrest and discovered a crowd of people. A Tough from Halstead st. was talking to a Crook and nearby stood a Brewer fixing a still which was surrounded by six Cooks who were frying Ham, Bacon and Egges.

The Farmer thought he was in a Dickens of a fix and Furst tried to Dodge away, but it Fell to his lot to get his Fill. The Tough took out his Gunn, but the Brewer, who was a Goodfellow, said everyone was Freeborn and a Freeman, and persuaded him to give him the Toeie and be Kind to the Mann. He held out his Hand and introduced the Farmer to the crowd which included an Earle, a Judge, a Monk, a Rector, a Shepard, a Tanner, three Popes, three Parsons, four Pages, three Knights, six Masons, eleven Kings, twelve Taylors, a number of Millers, and six Deans. The Farmer thought it was a terrible Muddle, but soon joined the feast which was being served by Butlers and Porters.

Three Hunters drove up in their Fords and with them brought eleven Foxes and two Wolves. But that was insufficient food for the crowd, and there were only six Steins and one Spoon, so the Farmer said he Lovejoy and would Nott be gone long to get a supply. He didn't nave the Price to get it, having only a Nickel and three Silver pieces with him, but he had Witt and was Wise, so he collected a Tax from each person. He was gone Furlong time, and returned with five Cranes, four Fish, one Hawke, three Lambs, two Pecks of Plumbs, three Pikes, and some Rice.

He was no Napper, and to make the party complete he asked a Lasse who was sitting on the Lappe of her Beau to join in the festival. They both said they would take a Peeke at it. Nell picked three Roses by the Roots near a Rock, and her Beau brought his Sax to play them a Walz. He wasn't hungry, and said all he wanted was a Swallow and one Oyster.

The party was in full swing when Min, with a Teare in her eye, appeared on the scene in search of Fuhrmann, shaking her Fist and declaring them Lawless. She said there would be Gore in Town for Weeks.

HILLEL FOUNDATION TIES LUTHERANS, 0-0

The Hillel Foundation and the Luther Memorial touch football teams battled to a 0-0 tie last night on the lower campus. Both teams are tied for leadership in the church league of touch football. Luther Memorial has won five games to date, and Hillel foundation has won four.

First Exams for Civil Service Jobs to be Held Nov. 6

The Wisconsin state schedule of civil service examinations for legislative and departmental service has been announced by A. E. Garey, secretary and chief examiner.

The examination for chief statistician, department of agriculture and psychologist with the psychiatric field service, state board of control, will be held Nov. 6. Examinations for some of the stenographic and clerical positions will also take place on this date. All written examinations for other positions will be held Nov. 20.

Examinations Nov. 6 will be either written and unassembled, or written at selected centers. Those of Nov. 20 are to be written at the various county seats.

Requests for application blanks and detailed information should be made to the state civil service commission, Madison. Candidates for oral examinations should file an application and experience paper.

KING OF ROUMANIA REPORTED VERY ILL

King Ferdinand of Roumania is seriously ill, according to a dispatch from Vienna. His son, the former Crown Prince Carol, has been called to his bedside and his wife, Queen Marie, has been informed of his condition. The king has been ill for more than a month and recently underwent an operation.
