DRAMATIC CRITICS PRAISE PRE-PORM PLAY PHILOSOPHY

Hazel Kaiser Presents Leading Part in "The Torch Bearers"

"There will be actresses when husbands are a thing of the past." So philosophizes Mrs. J. Duro Pampinelli, the coach and one of the chief characters in "The Torch Bearers," the pre-prom play being produced by the Wisconsin Players.

Mrs. Pampinelli, whose part is taken by Hazel Kaiser '25, is one of those amateur coaches who could step onto Broadway and whip a play into presentable form in a week and carry off all the laurels. At least that is what she and most of the actors under her direction think she is.

Hazel Kaiser '25

Author Describes Part
George Kelly the author has his own description of her. "She is an imposing woman," he says, "in her late fifties, with a wealth of false hair, perfectly done, and a martial bearing. She is one of those matrons who frequently is referred to in the suburban weeklies as a 'leading spirit'; and this particular description always has so flattered Mrs. Pampinelli's particular vanity, that she overlooks no opportunity of justifying it an effort that has resulted in a certain grandeur of voice and manner; which, rather fortunately, becomes the distinction of her person."

She is the lady who puts the whole amateur play across, and her pompous, kindly manner is something which every amateur player sees in his director, and if he has a sense of humor, laughs at. She is burlesque from start to finish and, as the critics of "The Torch Bearers" have said, one of the best bits of burlesque that has been seen on an American stage.

Hysteria Results
What Robert Benchley, the theater critic of Life, thinks of "The Torch Bearers" can be found from his review of it which follows: "When, in the midst of all this vegetable array, one comes unprepared on a delight like 'The Torch Bearers,' hysteria is quite likely to result. Let this be borne in mind, then, when we say that it is, for two acts at least, one of the best comedies we ever have seen."

GIRLS' GLEE CLUB ENSEMBLE SINGS

Katherine Reid, Erma Duncan and Jane Dudley Complete Program

An ensemble of 40 well blended voices of the Women's Glee club presented a program with a wide range of musical interests, last night in Music hall auditorium, under the direction of Dr. Charles H. Mills. Vocal solos by Miss Erma Duncan and Miss Katherine Reid and violin solos by Miss Jane Dudley were included in the program.

The program opened with a spirited Indian melody, "The Sun Worshippers," sung by the ensemble. Three others numbers were included in the first group. "Orpheus and His Lute," by Edward German, "O Heart of Mine," by Clough Leighton sung without accompaniment, and "To Anthea" by Halton.

Miss Katherine Reid '26, soprano, sang Tschalkowski's somber "Adieu Forests" with dramatic intensity. "Rain" by Curran was sung as an encore. Miss Erma Duncan '24, mezzo-soprano, sang "That Night in May" by Brahms, "The Answer" by Terry.

Freshman Class Has Chance to Order Pins at Meeting

The freshman class will have a pin this year. First year students will have an opportunity to put in an order for one for 25 cents at the freshman meeting to be held at 7 o'clock tomorrow in Lathrop gymnasium. Although as yet the pin has not been chosen definitely by the officers in charge, Trevor Dougan '27, expressed the final choice to be in favor of that offered by the Bastin Brothers of New York who have completed orders for the Universities of Illinois and Michigan.

During registration, those who fail to bring their money and receive receipts tomorrow, may do so at tables placed in the various buildings. Engineers may put in their orders January 26; Ags, January 30; Commerce, January 31, and L. and S., February 1. Plans will be discussed for the freshman dance and mixer. Class dues also will be brought up.

PLAN EVENTS FOR FARMERS' WEEK

Prof. K. L. Hatch Outlines
Program; Week of Feb.
4-9 Time Set

"Driving through to a Profitable Market," will be the fundamental object of discussions at the annual Farmers' and Homemakers' week, February 4 to 9, at the College of Agriculture according to Prof. K. L. Hatch, assistant director of agricultural extension.

A general survey of the main problems confronting the Wisconsin farmer will be discussed by experts during this course which is open to all Wisconsin farmers, and demonstrations on all aspects of the home making will be given for women.

Methods of maintaining the good reputation of the state as a dependable source of dairy cattle, and improving the various agencies now engaged in supplying the demand, will be the subject of a dairy cattle marketing conference to which an entire day will be devoted, Professor Hatch announced.

The various state organizations for the promotion of all classes of livestock will hold their annual meetings during the week's course. Arrangements for these meetings are being made by the executive officers of the Wisconsin Livestock Breeders' association. The Wisconsin Farm Bureau will hold its annual meeting at this time also.

A special program for women has been arranged for each afternoon during the week, Professor Hatch said. Lectures and demonstrations on the value and preparation of health foods, the selection of fabrics and the making of clothes for various members of the family and furnishing the home will be given daily.

A poultry course, judging contests for men and women, an alfalfa school, a course for buttermakers and ice cream manufacturers, a convention of the Wisconsin Brotherhood of Threshermen and a discussion of tobacco and potato problems are on the program for the week.

ELEVEN O'CLOCK RULE HOLDS FOR WEEK-ENDS

Contrary to general opinion, the 11 o'clock ruling prevails for week end nights this week and next, according to an announcement which has been given out by the S. G. A. office. Girls need not be in their houses until 11 o'clock instead of 10:30 in compliance with this rule.

BOYD LADD APPOINTED STATE FIRE MARSHALL

Boyd C. Ladd, a former student of the university recently has been appointed deputy state fire marshal, according to an announcement made by W. Stanley Smith, state fire insurance commissioner. Ladd is a graduate of the Madison college and was a student at the university for three years. He was a member of Company A, 128th infantry during the world war.

Many New Courses Offered in Summer Session—Goodnight

"The customary courses are being given in all departments and new courses will be offered that have not been given in recent years."

Four hundred twenty five courses will be given during the summer session.

One of the features of the summer session will be a course or series of conferences for deans and advisors of girls in high schools. Dean F. Louise Nardin will give the course.

Field Courses Offered

bethan England, and England since 1868 through the war.

A course in newspapers and student publications of interest especially to high school students will be an innovation in the Course in Journalism.

Pragmatism and idealism are new courses to be offered in the department of philosophy. Vocational psychology and the philosophy of William James will be given under the same department.

The department of education is offering the most extensive number of courses which will include educational psychology of exceptional children, history of education, courses offered in the high schools, and especially the course offered in the Wisconsin high school. Thirty courses are listed in all.

The catalogue of courses for the summer session will arrive from the press in a month, and will be sent out to persons interested, according to Dean Goodnight. Thirty thousand preliminary announcements also will be sent out.

SATIRE LIT TELLS MAGAZINE'S FATE

Editors Confident That Tomorrow's Issue Will See
Big Campus Sales

Successfully weathering the tempest of criticism which has threatened to cause the discontinuance of the magazine, the "comeback" Lit will appear on the campus tomorrow morning. Whether the magazine will continue to be published depends much on the enthusiasm that greets this number, according to John F. Weimer '25, managing editor.

Since the shakeup in the business staff last week there has been an unusual amount of activity in preparation for the publication of the magazine. Carl R. Hansen '25, business manager, has set the entire business staff at work soliciting advertisement for the current issue.

"I am confident that the comeback Lit will go over big Weimer said last night. "I believe the students of the university like good, clean literature and would rather have that than silly stuff in the Lit. With the publicity given I feel sure the future publication of the magazine is made certain."

Vernon Beardsley '24, sales manager, has several selling features planned that should aid materially in creating an appeal during the selling.

HOUDINI WILL LECTURE ON "ART OF DECEPTION"

Harry Houdini, who is headlining the bill at the Orpheum this week, will give a talk on "The Art of Deception," at 8:30 o'clock this afternoon in Music hall. Houdini is speaking at the request of Prof. Joseph Jastrow, of the psychology department, and his lecture will be of special interest to psychology students.

All students are invited, but due to the limited space of the hall, the lecture will not be open to the general public.

Houdini has given similar talks at the University of Illinois and at Marquette.

CO-EDS RUIN OUR PROM CAB SERVICE

Women Failing to Be Ready Cause the Biggest Difficulty

The greatest trouble with prom transportation in the past has been that the women have not been ready when the cab called according to Valentine Gunther '25, chairman of the transportation committee.

"We have had all kinds of difficulty" Gunther stated because the women have not been ready when the men came, thus tying up the whole transportation scheme. There is no excuse for a woman keeping a cab waiting from half to three quarters of an hour. This year we want everybody to be ready when the cab calls."

"No one cab company has been awarded a transportation contract" Gunther continued, "but all the companies in town will assist in taking prom-goers to and from the capitol."

Those desiring cabs should place their order with Norman Clark '24, student representative of the Yellow cab company, Russell Irish '24 of the Checker cab company or with Gunther.

"Final plans for this year's prom transportation will be completed by the end of this week," Gunther concluded.

FRATERNITIES GET PART REFUND ON BADGER SECTIONS

Substantial Reductions Made
By Staff to Keep Student
Cost Low

All honorary fraternities and sororities have been mailed checks by the 1925 Badger, which reduced the cost of their Badger pages from $40 to $25.

"This refund is in line with the policy of the Badger to make the cost to the students just as reasonable as possible, under present production cost without reducing its quality.

Printing Costs Reduced

"We contemplate further adjustments during the year; but feel that honorary organizations are entitled to the first reduction," Ellis Fulton '25, editor-in-chief, said yesterday.

"This reduction is made possible by the co-operation of Prof. E. H. Gardner and of university classes in advertising. They enabled us to offer larger advertising service and thus increase our revenue. Editorial economies have reduced the cost of the book without affecting its quality.

"One of these economies is the sale of eight four-color advertisements, and arrangements with the printer which enable us to print the eight four-color section headings with the color advertisements, without additional cost," Fulton continued.

Further Reduction Possible

"The Badger must make its contracts for engraving and printing six months before any revenue is received. When these contracts, aggregating $24,000.00 were made last May, all indications pointed to a decrease in advertising revenue." Willis G. Sullivan '25, business manager said.

"The cost of organization pages last year was actually $33 and we therefore considered an increase to $40 a legitimate way to offset the anticipated reduction in advertising.

"Revenue has come in from new advertising sources, and if subscriptions continue to come in during the next month, still further reduction may be possible," Sullivan continued.

AUDIENCE ENJOYS DUNCAN SISTERS

Classical Works Well Interpreted By All-Star Concert Dancers

The three Duncans, Anna, Lisa, and Margo, accompanied by Max Rabinowitsch, pianist, were greeted with enthusiastic appreciation by a large audience at Central High school last evening. The dancers appeared under the auspices of the All-Star Concert Series management.

Interpretations of several Chopin works were given by the dancers individually and ensemble, and a suite of dances, "Les Petis Riens," by Mozart, were given by the group. A suite of waltzes and the Marche Militaire, by Schubert, were given by the three dancers ensemble.

Mr. Rabinowitsch played accompaniments for all of the dances, and presented piano solos from the works of Chopin, Mendelssohn, Schubert, Borodine, Rachmaninoff, and Glinka-Balakireff. A group by Mr. Rabinowitsch, including Chopin's "Ballade No. 3" and "At the Concert," by Borodine, opened the program.

Essentially natural in their art, the dancers artistically conveyed to their audience the spirit of the Schubert "Marche Militaire" and a suite of waltzes by the same composer. The Chopin "Marche Funerbre" and "Berceuse" were given with striking lighting effects.

MODERN STUDENT DEFIES EDUCATION

—WHITE

Author Writes Articles For Forum on "Culture For Unwilling Students"

"If an American college educates its students today, it is in absolute defiance of the students themselves. Students go to college for everything but what the college exists to give them—an education."

This is the statement made by Arthur Corning White in his article, "Culture For Unwilling Students," appearing in the January issue of The Forum.

But Dean S. H. Goodnight says no.

"College and university today merely spell opportunity. If a student is willing to work, he can accomplish anything he wants. In fact, there is all the room imaginable for self-development.

"I think the majority of students come to the university with serious intent. Of course, some are spoiled, after they get here, by the social life that surrounds them; but this group hardly can be called a majority or even a large minority," Dean Goodnight said.

In answer to Mr. White's statement that colleges and universities do not put their purposes before the public from which their students come, but instead play up athletics and social life, Dean Goodnight agreed only halfway. He admits that undue emphasis is put on the publication of athletic and social life in the university daily publications; but he points to the Press Bulletin of the University of Wisconsin as an example of the effort to get before the public, the thing of real importance in the university.

British Director Delivers Lecture On 1500 B. C. Greece

That we know more about the Greece of 1500 B. C. than the Athenians of the fifth century B. C. is a statement made by Director Allen John Bayard Wace of the British School of Archaeology at Athens in his lecture "Prehistoric Greece: A study in Archaeological Reconstruction" in Bascom hall yesterday afternoon.

Director Wace showed many slides of the mounds in Thessaly which are being excavated. In cutting through these mounds, pottery is found which tells the history of the time.

Figures of men and women at-tempts of the early peoples to represent themselves and members of their tribes, also were shown. Pottery, vases, wine cups and jars, representing the different artistic achievements of the various ages were shown.

Director Wace will lecture at 4:30 o'clock today on "Mycenae, the Wonder City", in 165 Bascom hall. He is in this country for a short time, giving lectures under the auspices of archaeological societies.

First Wisconsin Girl Recalls History of Coeducation Here

Difficulties experienced by the first women to enter the university were related yesterday by Mrs. Lathrop Smith, 140 East Gorham street, who herself was one of the first.

"The boys certainly were humiliated to have the girls come to the university that fall of 1863," laughingly remarked Mrs. Smith, in recalling her college days when Main hall was the only college building and North and South halls were dormitories.

"It was just luck the girls ever were admitted to the university," she declared. Mrs. Smith was a member of the first class of girls which ever attended the university. In the fall of 1863, the faculty were faced with the problem of all the boys going away to war and there remaining on the campus only an empty building with no pupils to teach. The only solution was to allow the girls to enter.

The faculty added a normal course to the curriculum as they did not believe the girls had the same mental capacity. Mrs. Smith told how she and Miss Curtiss were the first girls to be admitted to a boys' section. "We wanted to take higher algebra so we asked Professor Sterling if we could not enter the boys' class. With his permission, we attended it all year, worked all the problems and demonstrated to the faculty nothing was too hard for us."

When the time arrived for the first class of girls to be graduated in 1865, the faculty decided to dispose of the girls at a simple ceremony Tuesday afternoon, and graduate the boys on Wednesday morning when orations would be given, the band would play and a more elaborate ceremony would take place. This custom continued until 1870 when there was only one girl, Ellen Chynoweth. The president of the university allowed her to graduate with the boys but she was not allowed to go onto the platform with them to receive her diploma.

For the next three years, the girls graduated on Tuesday as before but they had been admitted to all the university classes with the boys. The war was over and agitation was keen about prohibiting the girls from the university because they were lowering the standards of the school.

"It was at the graduation in June 1874 that coeducation was settled for Wisconsin," Mrs. Smith said. "That year Jennie Field received the highest grades in every class which she attended, so the girls did not have to go because they were lowering the standard." The girls were given permission to graduate with the boys that year but they were told to read their essays while the boys gave orations. With all the enthusiasm of happy recollections Mrs. Smith clapped her hands, and said, "When Henrietta Crane stepped on the platform, she laid her paper on the desk and delivered an oration as the boys had done. From that day to this, coeducation never has been questioned at Wisconsin."

"Today I really think the girls have more than the boys," Mrs. Smith commented. "The boys have nothing to compare with Chadbourne, Barnard and Lathrop."

Mrs. Smith was the first secretary of Castalia when it was founded in 1864 under the direction of Anna Moody, the assistant in the normal course. Castalia was responsible for breaking the boys' prejudices against girls attending their school, according to Mrs. Smith.

Since 1867, Mrs. Smith has kept a big scrap book in which she has pasted all interesting clippings about the university and its graduates. Many of her schoolmates she has kept in touch with for the past 50 years and has items of interest about them taken from papers all over the country stored away too in this huge volume.

Incurable Disease Causes Suffering Among State Herds

Wisconsin's herds suffer from an incurable disease called John's disease according to E. G. Hastings of the agricultural bacteriology department. This disease is similar to tuberculosis, but is more slow in action. An animal may have been infected for several years before any outward evidences appear.

Several years ago a serum called Johnin was developed. It is injected into the blood and if the suspected animal is infected it's temperature will rise several degrees within 10 hours. The serum was developed by Mr. Hastings and B. A. Beach of the veterinary science department.

At present there is no cure, but the animals may be tested and the infected ones removed.

PLENTY OF ROOMS FOR SECOND TERM

Deans of Men's and Women's Offices Report No Shortage

Plenty of rooms are available for students for the second semester according to reports received from the offices of the dean of men and the dean of women. No shortage of rooms has been experienced for a number of years, and people of Madison have opened their homes to the students in an unselfish manner whenever such shortage caused some to extract exorbitant prices from the non-residents. This condition has been practically eliminated.

The office of the dean of men has more than 120 rooms on file for the inspection of prospective students. More are being listed every day, and the inquiries do not exceed the number listed. Many classified advertisements appear every day in This level is centered around $3 to and locations of rooms at normal prices. The prices for all of the rooms remain at the same level. This level is centered around $3. to $3.50 per man for a double room, and around $4 to 5 for a single room.

Rooms for women students are listed with the dean of women, and are slightly higher in price than those listed for the men students. This is because of the extra responsibility placed upon the landlady of the women students, and because of the rules regarding the regulation of the night hours of the co-eds. Room for women students average $5 apiece for a double room, and $7 to $10 for a single room. Information concerning the listing of rooms or inquiry regarding the rental of rooms for the second semester may be had by calling the office of the deans of men and women.

GOPHERS PREPARE FOR BADGER MEET AFTER FOUR WINS

Minnesota Hockey Team Made Strong By Return of Five Veterans

(Special to the Daily Cardinal)
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Jan. 24—Preparing for its first conference struggle with Wisconsin, the Gopher hockey sextet has spent a week of the most intensive training of the year. A squad of ten men will leave here Thursday night for a two game series with the Badgers, which will give the Minnesota fans the first line on the Maroon and Gold puckmen in conference circles. Under the handicap of the newness of Minnesota and the unfamiliarity with his material, Coach Emil Iverson has seemingly developed one of the greatest hockey aggregations turned out during the three years of conference competition. An abundance of material together with the careful grooming by the Gopher mentor insures the Minnesota squad against one sided victories in favor of their opponents, and makes the possibilities of a conference championship loom as bright as ever before.

Five Vets on Squad

Five veterans responded to coach Iverson's call for hockey men following the holidays, which furnished an excellent start toward the molding of a team. Captain Frank Pond, Fritz Schade, Pret Higgins, Vic Mann of last year with Burgquist of two years ago are the old timers who have been big factors in the success of Minnesota thus far in the schedule. Youngbauer, Thompson, Gustafson, Olson and Flaaton are outgrowths of last years freshman group, and have proved themselves worthy teammates for the rest of the squad.

Captain Pond, at left wing; Youngbauer, at center; and Thompson at right wing, make up the forward line, while Mann, Gustafson, and Schade handle the defensive end. The alternates so nearly equal the regulars that substitutions can be made without fear of weakening the power of the team. Higgins, center; Flaaton, wing; Olson, defense; and Burgquist, goal; complete the ten man squad.

Gophers Win Four

Minnesota has annexed four victories and no defeats to their record thus far in the game, but as yet no conference teams have been encountered. Eveleth and Hibbing junior colleges fell before the Gopher stickhandlers two weeks ago; the former by a score of 7 to 0, and the latter 4 to 2. The following week the squad journeyed to Milwaukee for a two-game series with Marquette, emerging with two more wins, each by a score of 1 to 0.

In keeping with the aim of the "W" club to act as real hosts to high school athletes who come up here, let's hop right on those Tilden high boys who are coming up here this week to play Wisconsin high.

Not only is the Tilden basketball team coming up, but also the football team which was runner-up in the Chicago football league. The football team gets to come up because they have not had a trip this year and Coach Berger, Wisconsin athlete and alumnus, is taking this opportunity to show them his alma mater.

"Everybody get hot" and show these boys the time of their lives. Make them feel "Wisconsin spirit" as it exists and they will undoubtedly select our school as their college in a year or so.

It looks like "Doc" Spooner will not get much of a chance to play in the Chicago game.

Several Badgers May Try Out for Berths on Olympic Team

A half dozen or more men may be entered in the try-outs for the Olympic teams this summer and the committee still has hopes that Arlie Mucks will decide to try for a comeback. While visiting in Madison last fall, Mucks who is running a farm near Mitchell, S. D., got into a track suit for the first time in four years and threw the discus 145 feet. It is believed if he will train he will be able to hurl the discus 160 feet or better which would guarantee him a place on the American Olympic team.

Herbert Schwarze, Milwaukee freshman, who is almost as large as Mucks was when in college, standing six feet three inches and weighing 240 pounds, is a possibility in the shot put. Schwarze holds the state indoor record with the 12 pound shot and gives promise of making a name for himself with the 16 pound shot.

Lloyd Valleley and Bert Hilberts, crack Wisconsin half milers, are being groomed now for the conference and national collegiate meets and if they win these will try out for the Olympic team in June. Valleley, who won the conference race last spring in 1:55 1-5, is stronger this year and may be able to better that record, while Hilberts invariably runs him a close race and may also come through with a record.

In Schneider, Bergstresser, Cassidy, Sherman, and Read, the Badgers have five good milers, at least one of whom will try out for the Olympic team. Capt. William Hamann, Jones and Krieger are all clearing the bar at better than 12 feet in the pole vault, while McAndrews will try out in the dashes.

Capt. Hugo Czerwonky will be the only swimmer to try for a place on the Olympic team. Czerwonky won the 200 yard breast stroke in the National Intercollegiate meet last spring in 2:47 in a 25 yard tank. This winter he is making the distance in 2:39 2-5 and will probably equal the conference record of 2:38 4-5 before spring.

PYRE ONLY TO AID JONES IN SPORTS

Athletic Department Connects Statements Made in Many State Newspapers

An erroneous opinion appears to prevail throughout the state relative to the action of the board of regents in approving the recommendation of the athletic council that Prof. J. F. A. Pyre, chairman of the council, be paid $750 per year for the time spent in that connection. The statement has been published that Professor Pyre succeeds T. E. Jones, director of the department of physical education, as athletic head of the university.

Since the organization of the Western Intercollegiate conference, professor Pyre has been the Wisconsin faculty representative and as such is required to attend the meetings of the conference, attend to considerable correspondence and approve the eligibility lists. He also heads the athletic council which is the governing body in athletics. The council is composed of the business manager, director of physical education, Dean of men, three faculty representatives, one elected by the students and one by the alumni.

For years professor Pyre has given of his time to the work of the athletic council without remuneration. The council, at its meeting early this month recommended to the Regents that it be permitted to pay Professor Pyre $750 per year from the athletic funds for this extra work which he has been doing and the Regents merely approved the recommendation.

This action does not change the status of Director Jones nor of Professor Pyre.

DAD WOLF RESIGNATION MAY BE CONSIDERED

The resignation of Frederick E. "Dad" Wolf, as secretary of the Y. M. C. A. which is predicted by student officials of the organization, undoubtedly will be considered by the board of directors at the annual state convention to be held here tomorrow and Saturday. The report of a commission named several months ago to review conditions of the Y. M. C. A. will be one of the important matters to be discussed.

Meanwell is probably saving him for stiffer games later on.

With Spooner out, however, Chicago will prove a formidable foe at every stage of the game.

The semi-finals in both championship and consolation flights in interfraternity basketball league are to be run off tomorrow night in the gym. Some good basketball will be played as competition is pretty keen at present.

SPOONER HAS SLIM CHANCE OF PLAYING

"Doc" Spooner, Meanwell's crippled basketball star, has a chance—just a slim one—of playing against the Chicago Maroons at Chicago next Saturday night, according to Dr. W. E. Meanwell.

"I may use Spooner in the Chicago game if I have to," Meanwell said yesterday. "He is coming along fairly well but it would be better perhaps to hold him out of this game if possible."

The squad has been taught some new basketball during the week and Meanwell reports that the team is improving. "With Spooner gone, we have worked to get an attack which didn't require him, and if I use him Saturday he may be out of place in there trying to get along with the rest without any practice for more than a week," Meanwell says.

Chicago will give the Badgers one of the hardest tilts of the season, the coach said, declaring that he feared the big, fast Maroons and their scoring trio, Aleya, Barnes, and Dickson.

TEN MEN REPORT TO LOWMAN FOR BATTERY WORKOUT

Practice Trip to South Starts April 5; Practice Now in Annex

Approximately 10 men have answered Coach Lowman's call for batteries and are working out thirty minutes daily in the gym annex. Those who are trying out for other positions will not report until the second semester, but pitchers and catchers will continue working through the examination period.

No attempt is being made to put any "stuff" on the ball, control being the only thing which is desired at this time. Of the pitchers Johnson, last year's varsity man, Clausen, Porter, Radke, and Luther seem to be the best bets. Johnson is almost certain to make the team this year, and Clausen, a portside flinger, looks like a comer.

Have Good Catchers

The receivers are particularly strong. Captain Aschenbrenner no doubt will do most of the stoppieg, but coach Lowman has Schmidt, Wall, Lamboley, and Troflat in reserve. Some of these men may be given a try at other positions after the season opens.

The entire squad will take its annual trip South starting April 5, so that very little time can be given to practice. The second week of February will see most of the men out, but they will be forced to practice in the annex.

Set Little Practice

"Because of the short season that a college baseball team has to play it is almost impossible to produce a well organized team right on the jump-off," Coach Lowman said. "Last year we went South without a single day of outside practice and we'll probably have to do the same thing again this year. The trip is about the only real practice we get until the Big Ten games start," he said.

TILDEN HIGH TO PLAY BADGER PREPS IN GYM

The Tilden high school basketball team, Chicago coached by Louis Berger, Wisconsin graduate, will meet the Wisconsin high school quintet in the university gym at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

It was originally planned to have the game played in the high school gym, but because there are so many students from Chicago attending the university here, and also because the Badger preps have a large following, it was decided to play the game in the armory.

Besides winning the city championship at Chicago last year the Tilden team won the inter-sectional title at Washington, D. C. where many of the leading teams in the country were entered.

MRS. SHARP IS FIRST WOMAN PUT ON BOARD

Mrs. F. C. Sharp, wife of Professor Sharp, was appointed by Mayor I. M. Kittleson as a member of the county board. This is the first time a woman has been a member of the Dane county board. Her first meeting with the board will be January 28.

Mrs. Sharp was recommended to Mayor Kittleson by the Dane county League of Women Voters.

She has taken a great interest in civic matters, and is willing to run for reelection in the spring. Mrs. Sharp was the first president of the Parent-Teachers' council.

The sporting world enters upon an era of peace and quiet Saturday night, after the basketball team meets Chicago and Coach Blodgett's six take on Minnesota's hockey team. During the next two weeks nothing of importance will occur save the ski meet February 9 and a possible hockey game. With the start of the second semester every branch of sporting activity will be involved in a whirlwind of preparation competition, and recuperation. February is the busiest month in the calendar for athletes, and the standing of most varsity teams is decided in its few weeks.

PICK FROSH TRACK MEN AFTER MEET

First Year Team Expected to Make Good Showing Against Varsity

Freshmen cinder path team will be selected following the intercollegiate track meet which will be held in the annex Saturday afternoon.

The members picked on the first year squad will take their workouts with the varsity at 4:30 o'clock each day.

In the meet Saturday, the first year men are expected to make a good showing and will rank as sure point winners. In spite of the fact that Schwarze, shot putter, will be out of the meet because he has entered in the Illinois Athletic club handicap at Chicago Friday night, the freshmen are likely to win several first places in other events.

All track managers and new candidates for manager of track squads will meet in Mead Burke's office, men's gymnasium at 1 p. m., Friday.

Coach Mead Burke plans to have a meeting of the freshman squad shortly after the opening of the second semester. Plans for the coming season will be discussed and a captain will be selected.

Among the first year men entered in the meet on Saturday are—440-yard dash, Voight, Annis and Fisk; high jump, O'Neil, Osterberg, and Guthrie; weights, E. Miller; mile-run, Nast, Meissner, and Shafer; two-mile run, Hardy and Kubly; hurdles, Jirtle, Tobiessen, Kennan, and Schneider.

McGinnis, all-around athlete, will compete in the high and low hurdles, high jump, and pole vault, while Schilke, who defeated Valleley and Hilberts in the half-mile race last Saturday, will run in the 880-yard event.

BRADER SEEKING JOB AT OREGON

Richards Not After Job; Recommended Jimmy For Head Coach Position

Jimmy Brader, former star Badger linesman, and not "Big John" Richards applied for the position as head football coach at the University of Oregon, it has been learned.

A press report sent out some time ago had it that Richards had conferred with Oregon athletic department officials over the position as head coach. It is now known that Richards saw the Oregon officials to recommend Brader for the job.

Just as "Big John" put a word in for Jack Wilce at Ohio so did he want to help Jimmy Brader get started in the coaching profession. Brader it is reported, wants to enter the coaching game on a larger scale than he was offered here.

WEARING THE "W"

We wonder if the psychology department has taken note of the proposal made at the "W" club meeting, that "W" wearers should wear their emblem a certain day each week.

Wisconsin has long been noted for the freedom of costume allowed by custom. Glance at the line toiling up the hill any day in the week, and you will behold an assortment of variegated habiliments which would be not out of place at a costume ball. We refer, of course, to the male of the species, the brisk young students who come to a class every morning dressed as lumbermen, as soldiers, as tramps, and as dandies, and with costumes which are cosmopolitan enough to include the attire of several of these categories. The keynote—if there can be a keynote to so fantastic a phantasmagoria of yellow raincoats, crimson neckwear, and dotted golf sox—would seem to be one of individuality and freedom from convention. It would take but little more to rival the green hair of Baudelaire, and the sunflower boutonniere of Oscar Wilde.

Only one article of attire is missing—the "W" sweater. Seldom is such a thing to be seen on our sacred campus, and when some hardy spirit does venture out in one, he takes care to cover the shameful thing as much as possible. So rare has the "W" sweater become in public, that it is difficult to convince the young in our midst that it is not a mythological creation like the burning shirt of Hercules. And now it is proposed to remedy the situation by having a "W" day each week.

Do not think that we are speaking slightly of the "W" sweater. All college presidents and Phi Beta Kappa orators to the contrary, we still maintain that receiving the "W" award is one of the really worth while achievements of a university career. Nor think that we deprecate the freedom of costume indulged in on the campus. Nothing could be farther from our thoughts. The absence of conventionality and uniformity in dress is one of the pleasantest manifestations of student youthfulness.

What we are interested in is: why "W" sweaters are not worn more freely. Evidently it is not because of a dislike to dress differently from others, because as we have seen, no matter how a student dresses he is sure to be different from almost all his fellows. The only other explanation that occurs to us is that of exaggerated modesty. Athletes do not wear their sweaters for fear that others might think they were endeavoring to show them off.

If this is the true explanation, the proposal to wear them once a week on a certain day will be effective. The wearer's attitude will then be: We are all supposed to wear our sweaters today; its an established convention. Otherwise, I assure you, I wouldn't dream of doing it.

Somehow or other, this seems to us all wrong. It is strange if the choice athletes of the school shrink from wearing what they want when they want to, when the greenest frosh on the campus has no hesitation in garbing himself in sartorial concoctions that cry aloud to the heavens. Must we have a special day when it shall be considered proper to wear sweaters? And another for golf sox? A 'Boots Day,' and a 'Purple-and-Yellow Tie Day'? If the idea is ever thoroughly carried out, it is to be feared that there will not be enough days in the year.

THE INEVITABLE QUESTION

Schedules, for the most part, have been completed for the second semester. During this period of program forming what was the question that was heard here and there and everywhere, what was the inevitable question? "Is it an easy course?" That is the question which was asked by students consulting other students on the merits of a course.

"Is it a good course?" was heard at times, but for the most part the amount of ease with which a course could be passed was the chief concern. You can not help admitting that fact. Perhaps the same was not true of students in professional courses, not so true, at any rate. But there the situation is different.

It is a strange state of affairs when the primary interest is: "Is it an easy course?"

LENINE'S PART

In the hurly-burly of campus life we have little time to pay heed to world affairs. Perhaps the Bok peace plan receives some attention, although it would not seem so by the number of students who have voted on it through The Cardinal, perhaps he Mexican situation is considered now and then. But most of the world news that is absorbed by the majority of students is gotten from academic courses or the headlines.

Although students may know that Nikolai Lenine is dead, few probably know just what this means to Russia. The general opinion may be that nothing can mean much to Russia, that the country is too far gone already to have any event affect it one way or another. It is very doubtful, however, that Russia has come to such a sad state. It may be thought that his death will mean less bloodshed, less hard-ship, less turmoil in Russia.

Such a thought, however, would be erroneous. Lenine was not quite the man that he was thought to be. To him is attributed most of any success Russia may have had in her recent undertakings. For it was said that he was the man who kept the wolves at peace, who kept the organization from breaking down and prevented the dissidence of dissent. What will happen in Russia now that the peace-maker has died is a question.

Whatever Lenine may have been, he was at least a man of superhuman energy and great intellect.

With the new disaster of the air, one might think it would be well to stay very close to earth. The two dirigible accidents which have occurred in Europe have each been followed by similar accidents in America. Again Europe leads the way.

Lincoln For Prom Chairman
(By Recoil)

The figure of Lincoln in front of Bascom is only a vague piece of ornamentation unless seen with imagination. If it is to have any relation to the undergraduate, that relation should have pertinence here and now. Can you picture Lincoln transformed to life, made young again, and a student at Wisconsin. It is an interesting experiment. Do you suppose he would make his home in a fraternity, or a rooming house, or try for a job somewhere tending furnace. Mealtimes, would you look for him at a fraternity, at Lawrence's, or in the kitchen of the Y. M. C. A. among the dishwashers.

Perhaps as an outside activity he'd join one of the debating societies; then again they might be too ashamed of his crudeness to allow him on the platform. Wonder how Abraham would look showing up at a basketball-game, carrying the law student cane, and smoking a dapper pipe. He might fool the laughing spectators, though, by throwing the pipe lakeward and making the squad. Which, it may be presumed, would somewhat arouse the jealousy of the wrestling coach.

Still again, he might prefer to use his spare hours dabbling in campus politics—although it is somewhat doubtful if he could, himself, make much of a run for Prom chairman. Even if he did win, it would probably be difficult to find a leading sorority woman willing to whirl through an evening, with him. Perhaps not.

It is barely possible Abe would turn his back on all this, to become one of the leaders of the Social Science club.

At any rate, his physical strength, mental stability, loyalty, kindly humor, and simplicity would probably find him at least a few close friends—in spite of his appearance. Perhaps these people would be willing to dispense with the superfluities, and acknowledge that, after all—it is the soul of a man that counts.

Ho hum, got to make this snappy, and get back to the old grind.

The time of year is fast approaching when pros begin to think that most students ears were made to hold their hats on.

Paddy: Say you are dumb, don't you ever use your head for anything but a race track for a comb?

Earl: Well, they don't leave the vacant sign up when I get in a cab.

Our idea of something funny is to see a quartet of husky engineers with slip sticks protruding from their pockets sitting around a table playing Mah Jongg.

The pretty lady manager was dictating to her male secretary when suddenly she paused, "I'm not too fast for you am I?" she asked. "Well no," he replied, "but you see I'm married."

From what we hear it seems that the girls are awakening to the fact that it is leap year. Our old friend "Dud, the Sheik" drew the following in the mail the other day, can any of you Sheba Shakers tie it?

My dear, kind, and respected sir; I send you this your heart to stir, 'Tis upon you I've chosen to make a call,

There is no one else I love at all. I'm giving you a foremost chance A home for you I will enhance, I want your hear, this is no jest, I hope you'll grant my fond request

And send me back without delay, Your answer saying, "Yes" or "Nay."

But if your heart does not incline, In wedlock your hand to join mine, Then you must leap year have at bay, And down to me five hundred pay;

Besides, kind sir, a handsome dress, I ask no more, I take no less. Now you may think this letter funny, But I must have a man or money With all sorts of love and kisses, From one who wants to be your Mrs.

Well, Dud, there is just one bit of advice that I can give you and that I can give and that is to steer clear of the lady in question—you know the old saying—Do right and fear no man—don't write and fear no woman.

No matter how foolishly we write we always have one consolation, and that is that we always have lots of company.

Cast thine eyes over the following chart of any desperate student the night before an exam, and be ye warned.

10 o'clock—Student takes nourishment—one cup of black coffee. Begins to study. Temperature normal. Mood cheerful.

11 o'clock—Student dozes. 1 o'clock—Student wide awake—takes nourishment—one cup of black coffee. Symptoms of delirium. Running pulse. Cold towels applied to head. Hot water bottle at feet. Student writes feverishly.

2 o'clock—Student sleeping peacefully. Pulse regular, Temperature normal.

3 o'clock—Student awakes, takes nourishment—2 cups black coffee. Falls in semi-coma.

4 o'clock—Student inert, pulse fast and irregular.

6 o'clock—Student resting quietly.

6:30—Student retires.

8:00—Student flunks exam.

They glided over the ice, hand in hand, and conscious only of each others presence—finally he broke the silence. "This is one form of amusement that they can't lay to the devil," he said.

"Why not?" "Why, how in hell could he skate?"

"COLLEGIATE" MEANS—Knickers Crushed and triangular hats Fur coats Checkered socks Yellow slickers Turned up coat collars Sawed off vests Blah Blah

NOW WE KNOW WHY—First Greekess—Oh, my dear, what ARE you doing?

Second Same—Just setting fire to the house, dearie, you see I was playing with that fire alarm doo-jigger and it went off, so now I have to have a fire or go to jail.

The strict, old parish deacon's son had been out to a dance much against his father's wishes. The following morning he greeted the boy coolly with, "Good morning 'Child of Satan'. Whereupon the boy respectfully replied, "Good morning Father."

PROFS ADVOCATE CHANGE IN LIT

English Department Heads Approve Popular Appeal and Organization

That certain changes in the politics of the Wisconsin Literary magazine would make it possible for the publication to have a greater interest than at the present time was the opinion expressed yesterday by Prof. Edward H. Gardner and Prof. Warren Taylor, both connected with the English department.

"A very large following of students in the university have literary ways," Professor Gardner commented. "But they don't know it. They need a leadership to awaken a larger percentage as readers and writers of literary works. I am sure that the magazine has the best wishes of the faculty, who hope it will succeed."

Professor Taylor said that while he had no clear cut remedy for the situation, he believed a larger editorial staff, more extensive advertising campaigns, and a willingness to meet the students on their own ground even if it called for popular material might help solve the question.

"While the English department has not departmental jurisdiction over the magazine, it is interested in its success. The connection of radical literary writers with the Literary magazine who kept the campus guessing as to what they would do next, accounted for some of the high circulation figures of six or seven years ago.

"The Octopus has taken the place for the satire formerly furnished by the 'Lit.' While the Octopus is as good as any other humor magazine, it has taken away subscribers that formerly bought the 'Lit.' The Cardinal fills the place of journalistic writing. The 'Lit' now has to appeal to the literary cultural interests of the students.

"It would be a distinct lowering of Wisconsin colors if the 'Lit' does not continue to be published. The whole blame can not be placed on the student body; the editorial staff is partly to blame. The rest of the staff are steps in the right direction and enlargement of reaction," he said.

GRAD HAS MINOR PART IN ZONA GALE'S PLAY

Miss Mildred Miller '22 is playing a minor part in Miss Zona Gale's latest Broadway success, "Mister Pitt." Miss Miller's home is in Markesan. She entered Wisconsin from Milwaukee-Downer and graduated here in 1922. While in school she was prominent in dramatic activities, belonging to Twelfth Night and taking part in Union Vodvil. She was also a member of Kappa Alpha Theta.

Choral Union Gives Patriotic Concert During Song Week

A patriotic concert by the Choral Union given the day before Washington's birthday will be included in Madison's program for the National Week of Song. The concert will be given at 8:30 o'clock February 21 in the auditorium of Music hall.

The expression of the spirit of patriotism will be shown in the selection of the numbers which include songs and hymns from England, Norway, Germany, Scotland and America.

Six American patriotic hymns are arranged for the concert, including "To America," by Gilbert, "Soul of the Righteous," by Thomas Noble, "Recessional," with the music composed by the American musician, Huss, and the remaining three composed from poems by Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Paine composed the music of "Freedom, Our Queen," Mathias Keller that of "Angel of Peace," and Farwell that of "Build Thee More Stately Mansions."

The English songs contained in the program are Elgar's hymn, "It Comes From the Misty Ages," and a song by Thomas Tallis, "Hear the Voice and Prayer."

A German arrangement by Max Bruch of "Fair Ellen," which has as its theme "The Campbells Are Coming," and Handel's "See, the Conquering Hero Comes," will be the German numbers.

"Olaf Trygason," by Grieg, the only Norwegian song, completes the program.

The National Week of Song will be held from February 17 to 23, which will endeavor to promote a movement for the development of all kinds of music.

YALE FACULTY WANTS PROHIBITION MODIFIED

Faculty voting on prohibition, based on the three questions prepared by the Yale News, showed a plurality for modification of the eighteenth amendment. The final figures were 641 for enforcement, 1,042 for modification, and 561 for repeal. Every department voted for modification except the graduate school. The News says the mature sections are "more satisfied with existing conditions than the younger, less experienced element."

BLANTON ADDRESSES K. C. LUNCHEON CLUB

"We never forget the things we want to remember," Dr. Smiley Blanton, of the speech department said yesterday in speaking to members of the Knights of Columbus luncheon club at the weekly meeting noon in the club house.

"Forgetting is a real mental process," he stated. The mind protects itself by forgetting the unpleasant things.

"We may say we forget the things we want to remember," he declared, "but subconsciously, we want to forget. Perhaps forgetting something costs us a lot of money. One side of us wants to forget and the other side does not."

Social Event, is Leader's

To dress or not to dress, that is the question. That is, it is a question as to whether men prom-goers should wear full dress or the usual tuxes. There are two conflicting elements; one to make prom as democratic an affair as possible; the other to make it the most distinguished social event of the year.

Cliff Nolte '25, who will lead off the grand march believes that every one who has a full dress suit should wear it on this occasion because this is the largest social function at the university.

"That is not saying, however," he said, "that a student should stay away from prom because he has only a tuxedo, for tuxedos will do exactly as well. Since this is a prom for every Badger, the slight distinction between full dress and tuxedo should make no difference."

His partner, Betty Stolte '25, thinks it would be foolish for any one to go to the extra expense of buying a dress suit just for this one occasion.

"Dress suits are certainly not necessary," she said, "and in these times when every one is making an effort to economize it would be foolish to waste money on a dress suit which would be worn at prom and perhaps never again."

"I think the members of the prom party, the chairman and his assistants, should wear full dress," Gordon Wanzer '24, last year's Junior promenade chairman asserted. "For the rest, I fully believe that it is entirely up to the discretion of the individual."

"It seems to me that it is up to the individual whether he wears a dress suit or a tuxedo to prom," Jack Harris '25, captain of the 1924 football team declared.

"I should like to see as many prom-goers as possible in full dress suit," Gene Tuhtar '25, last year's president of his class asserted. "Dress suits lend a certain dignity to prom and in so far as it is the principal social event of the academic year, I think that those who have dress suits should wear them. Otherwise I think it is entirely up to the individual."

No more shiny nose

—with VELV, the new cream that prevents shine!

"Is my nose shiny?"

At dinner, at the theater, in the middle of a dance—time and again this disturbing little thought creeps in, to mar your enjoyment! A dab of powder and the shine is off—for just a few moments. But how often you have wished for something to keep it off!

Now you have your wish, a new beauty discovery—Velv, the cream that prevents shine!

Applied to the nose with the tips of the fingers, it disappears instantly, leaving the skin soft, smooth, beautiful—and without a trace of shine!

The effect lasts for hours. Many women find it necessary to use the cream only once or twice a day.

Velv acts as a gentle astringent; for shiny nose is caused, you know, by perspiration and excretions of oil from the pores. It is delightfully cool and fragrant, and may be used on the most delicate skin without harm. And it makes a perfect base for powder.

A 35c tube of Velv will last for several weeks. You will find it at all drug stores and in all toilet goods departments.
