VARIED PROGRAM IS PLANNED FOR SUMMER SESSION

Lecturer, "The Three Musketeers," Club Meetings Offered This Week.

As the summer session gets under way and classes commence on the 1st, the university offers students a variety of many interesting events in the way of lectures, conferences, meetings, get-togethers and a Douglas Fairbanks picture showing this week.

The first informal musical evening will be conducted at 7 o'clock tonight in the auditorium of Music Hall under the personal direction of P. W. Dykema of the School of Music. There will be community singing and special musical numbers which the general public and especially the summer session students are invited. This is the first series of such musicals.

Miller to Lecture
This week will be crowded with lectures. The first was given this afternoon by Prof. W. G. Bleyer, director of the course in journalism. The second will take place at 3:30 o'clock Wednesday in the lecture hall of the Law building. "The Problem of Part-time Education" is the subject and George P. Hamlin, of the Wisconsin state board of education is the speaker.

Illustrated lecture on "Cyclones and tornadoes" will be given at 3:30 o'clock Thursday by Meteorologist R. Miller of the university in room 11 of Bascom hall. Mr. Miller, who has been connected with university weather station for many years, is considered an authority on his subject. It is expected the lecture will be crowded with students from Kansas.

Free Movie Offered
Perhaps the main feature of the summer events is the motion picture which the university has secured for showing before the students of the session. It is "The Three Musketeers" featuring Douglas Fairbanks. It will be shown in the auditorium of Music hall at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday night.

Order that all the summer students who wish may attend this showing, it has been deemed necessary to exclude those who are not enrolled in the university. (Continued on page 12)

Theodore Kronshage, of Milwaukee, was elected president of the board of Regents at the last meeting of the organization during the commencement week-end this June to succeed Walter J. Kohler, member from the second district. Ben F. East, of Eau Claire, was re-elected president. The only other business transacted was of a purely routine character.

From Monday, Wednesday and Friday between 6:30 and 7 o'clock your copy will be delivered at your door. Joan Bergstresser Is Made President of Cardinal Board

John L. Bergstresser '25, was elected president of The Cardinal Board of Control at the last meeting of the 1923-24 board meeting which was held in conjunction with the incoming board. The officers were chosen by the entire group.

Edmund T. Hamlin '26 was elected vice-president; Roberta M. Odell '26 was elected secretary, and James R. Hemmingway '25 was elected treasurer. Sidney Thorsen '24 is the remaining member of the board.

Bergstresser became treasurer of the outgoing board after Thorsen was removed by ineligibility in February. Thorsen was reelected to the board at the spring elections. Hemmingway served on the outgoing board for half of the last school year.

BLEYER ADVISES STUDY OF NEWS

Journalism Professor Claims It Is Duty of Citizen to Read Papers.

It is the duty of every patriotic citizen to spend at least an hour a day in reading a good newspaper, according to Prof. Willard G. Bleyer, director of the course in journalism in the first of this series of lectures on "Newspapers and Public Opinion," this afternoon in Bascom hall.

"Intelligent voting demands that both men and women citizens read the significant political and economic news published in newspapers from day to day. It is not sufficient for them to glance at the headlines, look over the comics, read the society and sporting pages. Interesting though these latter features are, they do not furnish the food for public opinion.

Newspaper reading should be taught in the public schools in order that pupils may be shown how to get the most out of the limited time that they as adults can devote to daily newspaper reading, he said.

Since the success of democratic government depends upon sound public opinion, it should be an important function of the public schools to train pupils to form opinions on the basis of what they read in the daily and weekly press. It should be a part of their training for intelligent citizenship, Professor Bleyer added.

INTERNATIONAL CLUB TO CONDUCT BUREAU

This summer the International club has an information bureau to assist all foreign students. Members of other Cosmopolitan clubs are asked to register at 901 University avenue.

Rooming lists can be secured, and for the benefit of those who wish part time work, the organization has established an employment bureau.

Membership to the club is opened to students, faculty members, and all who are interested. Its primary aim is to foster better understanding among students of all races.

Deans, In Welcome, Hope To Justify Students' Confidence

To the Summer Session students of 1924 the university extends a very cordial welcome. In selecting Wisconsin for your summer work, you have expressed in us a confidence which we shall do our utmost to justify.

Goodnight

It shall be our endeavor to provide you with abundant opportunity for intellectual progress and for cultural recreation. In addition to your class work, we hope you will find stimulation in the lectures, plays and recitals in social intercourse with other students and a broadened outlook from association with those who are engaged in lines of endeavor radically different from your own and whose environment is equally dissimilar.

We hope, too, that a salubrious location and climate, facilities for wholesome recreation and expert medical service may prove beneficial to your physical condition so that you may finish the work of the session refreshed and invigorated in body as well as in mind.

We believe that the university offers these opportunities and it is our hope that the Summer Session students of 1924 will take advantage of them in rich measure.

Very cordially yours,
S. H. GOODNIGHT,

The University of Wisconsin welcomes once more the women who have chosen it as a place for summer study and recreation. Our greeting wish is that all who may prove judicious in effecting a combination of study and recreation which will be well-proportioned. We do not consider that the lakes and the professors are rivals for student time and energy. The joy of working with scholars, and the joy of walking, swimming, boating, or loafing and inviting one's soul on the hill-tops above changeable Mendota, — these are not rival but supplementary joys.

Occasionally youthful pilgrims in some other years, have found the lakes more spectacular than

3 GROUPS TO GIVE WATER CARNIVAL

Cardinal, Union Board, Athletic Department to Hold Event July 9.

The summer session water carnival which will be conducted this year by The Cardinal, the Union board and the athletic department will be held July 19 under the direction of Gene Tuhtar '25, member of the Union board.

Last summer was the first in six years that the water carnival has not been held, and it was with the hope of providing some local campus diversion for the summer school students that the three organizations decided to renew the event.

Cardinal Gives Cup

The carnival will be run off in the afternoon and will consist in swimming, diving, canoe and boating events. Some of the Madison merchants have already signified their willingness to donate prizes from their stocks.

The carnival will be conducted on the same plan as a track meet in that points will be given for the various places in all events; five for first place, three for second and one for third. This system will be used in order that the winner of the trophy which The Cardinal is offering may be determined. The entrant with the highest number of points to his credit will be given The Cardinal silver loving cup.

Work Has Started

The events will include a marathon swimming race from Picnic point to the university boat house, the swimmers being accompanied by boats, a sail boat race, a crew race, fancy diving stunts and all the various swimming and canoe events which come on the program of such an affair.

Work has already commenced on the carnival and it is expected that the committeemen will be announced in The Cardinal before the first of next week, according to Tuhtar. The complete list of events will be published with the times at which each event will take place as soon as it is prepared.

All those who are willing to help call Tuhtar at B. 197 or The Cardinal office, B. 250. Entries should be made in the same way.

HOPKINS INVESTIGATES AG CONDITIONS ABROAD

Prof. A. W. Hopkins, of the agriculture department, has gone to Europe to investigate agricultural conditions there.

While touring the major part of the continent he will write up the results of his investigation for some of America's leading newspapers. Professor Hopkins will be gone for a year.

REGISTRATION FOR SUMMER SESSION MAY PASS 4,700

Enrollment Equals Last Year; Expect Final Count to Show Increase.

The latest report from the registrar's office shows a registration for today of 825, which swells the total for the 1924 summer session to 4,425, only 275 short of last year's complete registration. This final report for today indicates that the registration has passed the point at which it was last summer at this time.

Registration of summer school students for this year is on a par with that of last year, according to figures given out today by Dean S. H. Goodnight, director of the summer session.

The number registered up to Saturday night was 3,600, a slight increase over the number registered at the same time last year.

Total Not Available.
The total enrollment figures will not be available for some time as students desiring to take full credit work at the university have the privilege of withholding their registration until the end of this week. After that time students may not register to take full summer school credit.

No indication can be given as to the number of students who will enroll for the summer session, Dean Goodnight said today. If the enrollment figures during the week are equal to those of late registrants last year, the number will pass the 4,700 mark of last year.

Provisions have been made for Tent Colony Filled graduate students preparing for examinations or seniors of the class of '24, who have not yet completed their theses, to register at the expiration of the first three weeks of school, to enroll and complete their work at a cost of $11 fees.

The university tent colony located beyond the second point, is filled by students and their families. Eighty tents for the convenience of the men and their families have been erected on the grounds, and all are occupied.

Chadbourne hall and Barnard hall, women's dormitories are housing their full complement of women students. Many fraternities and sorority houses report full houses while others are accommodating only a few.

TURK WRITER'S SONS ATTEND SCHOOL HERE

Ali and Hassan Zekey, sons of the former Governor General of Constantinople, are taking summer work here. Both Ali and Hassan are students of the University of Illinois. Their mother, Halide Hanoum, is widely known in Europe and in this country as a writer and a leader in the Turkish Empire.

Directories For Summer Session To Be Ready Soon

The summer session directories will be published in two weeks, according to university officials. Regular directories of students' homes and Madison addresses are printed during the summer school as they are during the regular academic year.

SUMMER STAFF

Positions are open in all branches of both the editorial and business staffs of the Summer Session Cardinal. All graduate and undergraduate students interested in working in either department may apply for positions at the Union building in person or by telephone. Business office, B. 6606 at 3:30 o'clock; editorial office, B. 250 between 1 and 2 o'clock any day this week. Present editorial staff members should report at the office between those hours tomorrow afternoon.

THE SUMMER SESSION CARDINAL

Once more The Daily Cardinal of the University of Wisconsin makes its appearance on the campus, this summer for the first time under the formal tutelage of the Board of Control. The editors hope that it will serve the students of the summer school as the regular publication serves those of the winter school.

In its pages you will be able to find news of the campus, of the university world in general, reviews of books and local theatrics, attractions. Sports, society and interesting bits about the work on the hill will be covered by the reporter staff of The Cardinal. In short, it is the aim of those who are working on the paper to provide interest for every type of student who is spending the next six weeks on the campus.

But in order that the workers may be able to do this, the students must recognize the significance of the first two lines at the top of the mast head on the editorial page. They run like this: "The University of Wisconsin official daily newspaper, owned and controlled by the student body." So it is that each student has a potential part to play in the publishing of The Cardinal. They will be welcomed to the staff, either on the business or the editorial side. It naturally follows that the more workers we have the better paper we will be able to get out. We sincerely hope that any students who are desirous of taking active part in getting out The Cardinal will drop in at the office and sign up on either staff.

If you are not interested in the actual work connected with the paper, we hope that at least you will read The Cardinal.

A department known as "The Reader's Say-So" is conducted in connection with the editorial page in order that readers of this paper may be able to express their opinions on any subject through its columns. We hope, too, that our readers will take advantage of this opportunity.

"BUY A TAG?" "WHERE'S CHAD?" LINES, TEARS GREET REPORTER

She sat on a bench in Lathrop hall under a bulletin of the Woman's League of Collegiate Voters—very bitter.

"You see, I came up here specially to take sub English and they say I haven't got the necessary prerequisites," a big tear rolled down her cheek in unhappy remembrance of the hard registration committee. The reporter sighed and moved on to happier surroundings. He found these at the end of the stairway where they were taking subscriptions to The Cardinal.

"Oh, yes, I've heard about The Cardinal. It's been voted the best best collegiate paper in the middle west, hasn't it?"

"Yes, it has." The reporter beamed, loaned her his fountain pen, and remarked cheerily while she signed on the dotted line, "I hope you're going to like Madison."

"Won't you pound a nail?" a very much Physical Ed person dangled tags under the noses of the summer session.

"I beg your pardon—"

"You know, it's for the cottage W. A. A. is building for all university women. We want every woman on the Hill to help us by wearing a tag today." So the summer session found itself pounding a nail at a cost of twenty-five cents.

The reporter stood a minute stretching on the steps of Lathrop and immediately found himself being questioned. "Could you please tell me where State street is? I've been sent so many directions." And another one. "Would you please direct me to the woman's dormitory."

After obliging, the reporter wandered up the Hill for he too was of the summer session. Outside the office door of the instructor of his choice waited a long line.

"Yes, I'm taking poetry. I don't know if I'll like it or not. Probably not. But I think you ought to be able to talk about it a little. Everybody does."

And the girl behind him queried to her companion, "Are there many men in summer school?"

"Not in English courses."

"Oh, well this is my only English course, I'm political science, you know."

"Next!" the instructor called out. And the reporter, counting, found that he had moved up to twenty-fourth.

LIBE OPEN ALL WEEK EXCEPT ON SUNDAY

brary, is open from 7:45 o'clock in the morning to 10 o'clock at night except on Saturdays, when it closes at 9 o'clock, and Sundays when it is not open at all.

and Curator C. E. Brown will give information and assistance.

tion of the Washington Elm and the Lafayette grandfather clock.

The city library on Carroll street at Dayton can also be used by students.

COACHING SCHOOL HERE IN SUMMER PIONEER IN FIELD

Founded In 1911 To Meet the Needs of Playground, Gymnasium Directors.

The school of coaching which is being conducted this summer by the athletic department was the first one of its kind formed in the country. In 1911 the course was established and since that time it has increased in popularity until now over 400 men and women are registered in it.

Since 1911 similar schools have been founded at many of the universities of the Big Ten conference. Illinois was the first to follow suit and after it Michigan, Iowa, Minnesota and Ohio State established coaching courses for the summer session.

Course Meets Needs

It was with the purpose of meeting the needs of instructors and directors of playgrounds and gymnasiums, of school teachers and of administrative officers of schools, clubs and social welfare institutions that the coaching school was established here.

Now such courses as the history and principles of physical education, principles of coaching and training, physical education in elementary and secondary schools, community recreation, principles of teaching and adaptation, kinesiology, and the organization and administration of physical education are given by the athletic department.

Classes For Women

In the professional courses classes are being held in the technique of all the various sports, George W. Lewis, one of Wisconsin's great forwards, teaching basketball; Prof. Guy Lowman handling baseball and football; director of athletics T. E. Jones teaching track, J. C. Steinfuer in swimming and F. E. Schlatter in gymnastics.

In more direct line for women courses are given in the technique of games, gymnastics for girls and women, folk and interpretative dancing, hockey, basketball and swimming.

Students to Show Skill in Horseshoe and Tennis Tilts

A series of tennis and horse-shoe matches will be held throughout the course of the summer session under the auspices of the athletic department.

An entry fee of 25 cents will be charged in each series in order that prizes may be secured in order that prizes. Medals will be given to those taking first, second or third prize.

All those who wish to enter either or both series are requested to sign up at the office of the men's gymnasium with George Hagan. Entries should be made as early as possible this week in order that drawings may be made so that the matches can get under way the first of next week. The drawings will be posted on the bulletin board in the hall of the men's gymnasium.

The Stars of the Badger Shell

The members of the crew which took second place at the classic race on the Hudson June 17 are shown above. They are, from left to right, Johnson, Teckemeyer, Captain Schuetz, Jax, Bentson, Sly Jones and Plettner.

Four of the men Teckemeyer, Jax, Sly and Jones, were juniors last year so that if they return to Wisconsin in the fall to complete their courses, they will form a nucleus for next year's crew. Coulter, the coxie, also has one more year at the university.

The Badger shell got away to a fast start on the first gun, but Pennsylvania called the other five crews back. In the first 30 seconds after the gun, if one crew wants a new start because of a broken oar or the like, it has the privilege of calling the others back for a new start. On this second start, according to spectators, the Badger crew did not do so well.

Whereas the cardinal wearers were last just before they came to the bridge short of the two-mile point, they immediately passed Syracuse and then Columbia and took fourth. They had not gone far before they passed Pennsylvania and Cornell and were following a length and a half behind Washington at the finish.

The eastern alumni followed the race on one of the 32 observation

"I feel that the fine race at Poughkeepsie put rowing on its feet at Wisconsin," Coach T. E. Jones, head of the athletic department, said yesterday in an unofficial statement, "and I think we'll be entering the races in the future. My personal fling is that the freshman crew should also be sent in order that the coach may be able to get good material for the varsities. The result of the race certainly gave the alumni and friends of Wisconsin a keen pleasure."

PIER CONSTRUCTION STARTS NEXT WEEK

New Pier Near Boat House
Will Be Most Elaborate
On the Lake.

Not to be outdone by the many fraternity piers which have been built during the past few months, and to promote more general interest in water sports, the Board of Regents and the Athletic department have sanctioned the building of a pier which will overshadow any seen on my inland Wisconsin lake.

Construction will begin within the next week according to plans of the Athletic department and the university Business department.

140 Feet Long

The pier will extend out into the lake about 140 feet off the university boat house and gymnasium, and will have a 16x32 foot platform on the outer end. The running pier will be eight feet wide, and will be mounted on solid rock.

Three high dives 20 feet high, and four spring boards will be mounted on the outer platform for the use of swimming fans. In addition, a huge water slide will adorn the end of the pier.

Heretofore, the "Isabell's" under the direction of "Cop" Isabel, has had to pull into the university boat house when not in use, but now the speed boat can tie up on the pier and be ready for a quick getaway.

Versus

This column, which appears regularly during the school year, will be continued throughout the summer session, giving choice bits of sport gossip about college athletics in general and Wisconsin athletics in particular.

To start the summer session out right, the writer nominates to the Wisconsin athletic hall of fame the members of Wisconsin's 1924 crew, who came from behind at Poughkeepsie and copped a fighting second.

These men are Ralph J. Schuetz, H. E. Johnson, Orville L. Jones, Keith C. Sly, Harold J. Bentson, O. W. Teckemeyer, Clarence G. Jax, Earl M. Plettner, and Harold L. Coulter.

Coach "Dad" Vail also comes in for a great share of the glory due the men who propelled the Cardinal shell.

WHEN EAST MEETS WEST

From the orange groves of California and the coal districts of Pennsylvania, from the cotton fields of Dixie and the backwoods of the north, from every continent of the world and almost every country of those continents comes students to the University of Wisconsin to get a bit of education during the regular academic year. The campus contains a group that is as cosmopolitan as any corner of the globe, is as much of a melting pot as any city in the United States.

And if the student body during the regular academic year is cosmopolitan, it is just as much so, if not more, during the summer session. While Wisconsin still calls its students from all parts, it calls them during the summer from many walks of life, calls them of many ages. For it is during the summer that these people are able to take the opportunity to gather in a little more knowledge. Many of them know what it is to be "on their own" and they therefore value what education they can get here during the six weeks all the more.

During the summer months the campus is trod by those who have been walking about other campuses. From Dartmouth and Stanford, from Tulane and Toronto students come to get a taste of life at another university and to make up some credits on the side. We have transfers with us, to be sure, during the regular academic year, but not so many by half as we have in the summer.

And so it is that we are all strangers. We have only a short while to get acquainted, for after the brief space of six weeks we must turn back to our former localities. Some will not bother with getting acquainted for such a short time. They are the foolish ones. For the wise ones will realize that they can gain a great deal by mingling with persons from the other side of the country or half way around the world.

There will not be much opportunity to get acquainted, it is true, but what there is will make a difference. There is, first of all, The Daily Cardinal. In it, we hope, summer students will find a medium for their interests. We hope it will serve them to learn about what is taking place so that they will be able the better to mix with other students. Then there is the water carnival, which may serve to provide interest for many. Other contests will be held too, tennis, baseball, barn yard golf—or, if you please, horse shoes.

However we may be situated, it does not seem that six weeks can be spent satisfactorily only in study.

For we will enjoy ourselves a lot more by mixing in.

A GROWING CONCERN

In the brief history of summer schools one sees the growth of a concern, an institution, which is hardly paralleled in any other branch of society, in business, or in government. With the increased tendency to democratize education, the summer schools were called into existence. Education was in such great demand that it was impossible to provide it during the brief space of the regular academic year. Practically the entire year had to be utilized.

Twenty-five years ago, just as the university passed its half century mark, the summer session was inaugurated here. As can be imagined, it did not draw the number of students who now attend, nor even such a large number in comparison with the regular attendance. It was purely an experiment. Summer schools had prospered well at other institutions, especially in the east at such universities as Columbia. And the experiment proved so successful that the state planned to carry on summer schools indefinitely.

Now it is that the enrollment for the six weeks amounts to very nearly the same thing as for the regular academic year. Last summer the registration passed the 4,500 mark and this summer it is expected to better 5,000.

Democracy and excellence may be two irreconcilable things, in regard to education, in the loose sense of the term, but surely we have democracy.

THE LEGEND AGAIN

It is an old story, this matter of going out on Mendota in a canoe built for two and carrying four, without life-preservers, far from shore. It is an old story, and its conclusion is usually tragic. Propagandists weary of telling the public that the lake is not safe unless treated with a certain amount of respect; readers weary even more of paying attention to the warnings. But they must pay attention to them.

The Indians, so legend has it, when they were driven from the shores of Mendota by the intruder, left a curse on the lake, and that curse was that seven white persons be drowned in it each year. An ominous curse indeed, and one cannot be surprised if superstitious persons, of whom there are still many, fear to so much as look at their reflections in the surface of Mendota. Yes, the curse is an ominous one, and the amazing part of it is that in part it has been carried out. Not a year has passed when some one, usually a student, has not drowned in one of Madison's lakes.

It might be believed that the curse is actually responsible for the drownings. True it is that a curse is responsible for them, and that is the curse of carelessness. The very Indians themselves, for instance, would never think of crossing an open body of water like Mendota no matter how much longer it took them to skirt the shores in order to reach the opposite side, and they would doubtless be shocked to see couples start off to Picnic point across University bay.

It is that sort of carelessness that counts. Those students who are here this summer for the first time should be especially cautious, for the lake is more treacherous than it appears and storms are apt to arise without a moment's notice.

In another column of this page are printed the rules and warnings of the lake. Before you go canoeing read them.

GREETINGS

"Hello, Bill, what the devil you doing here?"

"Why, if that isn't New England! Swear, I've forgotten your name, though; met so many people when I was up in your neck of the woods."

"Smith, old man, Smith. Oh, that's all right. Hard to remember. How's your old school prospering?"

"Don't know and don't give a damn. Got kicked out. Dean never did take a shine to me nor I to him, either. He don't get along with us over to the house at all."

"Too bad. I got bounced myself. But what you doin' in this dump way out here in the woolly wilds?"

"Oh, the old man said I got to get a dip, so I figured might as well gather some credits here. Take a few pipes, you know and heard it was a swell place to loaf and have a good time. Winter resort in the winter, you know, and summer resort in the summer. That sort of stuff. Why work, anyhow, when you can get out of it? That's my motto."

"Same here. Heard they had tend, plenty good liquor round the town so thought I might as well while away a few weeks here. Might be a few good lookin' dames t take out now and then. That's all I'm gonna do. Satisfy the folks, anyhow."

"Right. Well, I gotta date with a fellow to go out to Mt. Horeb. Got some real stuff there. Bonded. See you latter. And say, we'll get together on a party sometime, what say?"

"Right. S'long."

Just another glimpse of registering days.

RULES OF THE LAKES

Students must accept a personal responsibility in co-operating with the university life saving station by complying in every way with the rules and the city ordinance. Every student should familiarize himself with those rules, with the provisions of the ordinance and with the warning signals and should see that they are rigidly observed. Only when this is done will the beautiful lake continue to be the great asset to the University of Wisconsin that it is capable of being.

For the benefit of all, the provisions of the city ordinance and the warning signals are published below:

Section 1. That all canoes, row boats, sail boats, and motor boats shall carry one government inspected life preserver for each passenger when on the waters of Lake Mendota.

Section 2. That canoes sixteen feet or under in length shall not carry more than two passengers; that canoes over sixteen and under eighteen feet in length shall not carry over three passengers.

Section 3. That the Life Guard shall have authority to determine the passenger capacity of all canoes over eighteen feet in length, all row boats, and all motor boats not already under city inspection, and shall determine the fitness of persons to handle such craft.

Section 4. That all swimmers along the City and University shores shall remain within the buoy life established by the Life Guard, except when accompanied by a canoe or boat which carries an extra life preserver for each such swimmer so accompanied.

Section 5. That no swimming shall be permitted from sail boats when said sail boats are under sail.

Section 6. That any person violating any of the provisions of this ordinance, or refusing to obey the orders of the Life Guard when said person is on or in the waters of Lake Mendota, shall be punished by a fine of not less than five nor more than fifty dollars.

WARNING STORM SIGNALS

(Explanation—When storm is approaching that threatens danger on the lake the university life saving service will warn canoeists and others by sounding the university fog horn, as follows:)

1. General warning—approaching storm—Three short blasts, 15 seconds duration each, with 15 seconds intervals. All canoeists should leave the open water and keep near the shore.

2. Special—storm coming rapidly—Continuous repetition of general warning. Leave water quickly.

3. Cardinal call—long blast—One or two minutes as may be necessary. Will be used only to call the Cardinal or Isabella when it is away from the boat house.

BULLETIN BOARD

INTERNATIONAL CLUB

The International club will meet Thursday at 7:30 o'clock, Lathrop parlors. The public is invited.

FOREIGN STUDENTS

All foreign students will meet Thursday at 7:30 o'clock at Lathrop parlors.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY

Christian Science society will hold a meeting at 7:30 o'clock every Thursday night during the summer session in 35 Music hall, west entrance. Faculty and students are cordially invited to at-

HO-HUM, now we have to knock out this ole column again.

WRITING a column during the summer is easier than writing one during the regular term because there are so many more interesting things to write about.

A CO-ED'S appetite during summer is not as ravenous as it is in winter, so there, at least, is something for the men to be thankful for.

HEARD AT BRADFORDS

He—"What would you say if I should kiss you?"

She—"I can't do two things at once."

FOR THE BENEFIT of those who were not here during the past semester we suggest the following:

Don't go out on the drive before eight o'clock, as the mosquitoes are not through dining.

Don't pay any attention to the motorcycle cop if he should pass you on the drive, as he is probably trying to find a place to park himself.

Don't go by the Phi house if you can help it, as you are liable to be commanded to put out a fire.

Don't sit on the grass in front of Bascom hall and stop its growth, as there are better places.

Don't think that just because Lincoln sits in his chair and never goes to classes, that you can do the same and get by with it.

A SUMMER SCHOOL hangover is a person who didn't do so good last semester.

PLACES TO BOARD

The Lambda Chi Alpha house, because of its cellar.

The Square and Campus, because of its limburger cheese.

The Farm House, because of its cabbages.

The Beta House, because of its cafeteria style.

ONE REASON why a co-ed crosses the street is because she knows everybody will use the emergency brakes.

OPEN HYMN

We used to teach the boys and girls
Who sought a bit of knowledge,
But now we've bought some paint and curls,
And are coming back to college.

ITS ALRIGHT to spend your vacation in summer school, but its—ell to spend one while your going to school in the regular term like we did.

AS USUAL

The sun shines bright as ever,
The lake sings the same old tunes,
And we will have here as usual,
The same old Dartmouth

PHI MU SUGGESTED

"This would make a wonderful sorority house," remarked a summer student as he entered Barnard hall Sunday.

IT RAINS so often when we sit down to write this column, that before long we'll feel like the original silver lining.

JUNE has produced its poets. Here's a contribution dealing with an old subject. The title is "The Cat on the Back Yard Fence," and is the product of the versatile pen of a Louisiana co-ed. (Now here)

The cat was mewing on the backyard fence;

The song it sang was high, and clear, and shrill.

A window rose, a shoe was flung without;

The song died down and all the world was still.

ON THE LAKE

Him—"What's that you got?"

She—"A pair of water wings."

Him—"Oh."

IF YOU run wild in a small town everybody knows it. If you run wild in a big town like Madison only the dean knows it, but he can do more to you in five minutes than a small town can in a week.

AT THAT all he can do to you is to send you back home, but if you happen to live in Watertown, that's enough.

AT CHADBOURNE

Mr.—"You know, I could look at you forever."

Miss—"Here's a snapshot, gaze upon it, and give me a chance to get some sleep."

WE KNOW the college man has received undue publicity in the different periodicals, but when we received the following from a young co-ed who is just beginning her college career, we wondered if it had done them any good:

I've head so much of college men,
In magazines, and books, and papers,
That I have come myself to see,
The way they cut their boyish capers.

I've read they comb their hair in oil
And wear no hats upon their head,
That the only book they read is Hoyle,
And spend their leisure time in bed.

FINALE

Another six weeks are before you, make the best of it, but have a good time while you're doing it, and don't leave school with any regrets.

If you have any contribs, which you would like to see in this column, why just send them to—

KISMET.

PROFS LEARN NEW THINGS IN EXAMS

Students Give Teachers Hitherto Unknown Information In Blue Books.

The recent blue book investigation in animal biology has brought to light a large amount of hitherto unknown information concerning the habits of plants and animals.

Some of the most noteworthy lore disclosed is as follows:

The maple tree is placed among the mammals because it has a lot of sap to nourish young.

Some plants have long thin structures that aid it in locomotion such as the "walking stick."

Burs, green apples and shells are means by which plants protect their young.

The frog is an aquatic animal and therefore possesses appendages for use on land.

A "tendency toward cephalization" of the nervous system is a tendency toward becoming extinct.

A "tendency toward cephalization" is a subphylum under the Chordata.

A "tendency toward cephalization" is the opposite of hibernation. Roses have thistles.

The plant needs sunlight to help digest its food.

Higher plants do not have mates like higher animals so there are not structures in plants like hoofs and horns which are adapted for this.

Animals tend to kill themselves off by survival of the fittest.

Plants get oxygen from sunlight, take carbon from it, combine it with water and manufacture sugar.

The Blue Andalusian fowl was Mendel's chicken.

The business of plants is to provide food, while the business of animals is to preserve the race.

Animals must have various means of getting a mate because of competition, plants do not have this trouble.

Animals are able to preserve the race thru care of young, plants do not have a race and therefore do not preserve it.

There is self-preservation and race-preservation. In this the plants have it some easier than animals.

These answers were turned in to The Cardinal by Prof. M. F. Guyer, of the zoology department. The Cardinal would appreciate having any other professors who received such unusual, and at the same time usual, answers an examination papers, turn them in to the office. A "prize answer" contest might even be held.

Posepny Trial is Planned For Fall Stolen Announces

The trial of ex-patrolman Patrick Powers, who is being held for manslaughter in connection with the shooting and killing of Peter Posepny, 25 Monday, May 12, of this year, will be held sometime in the fall, probably in September or October, according to the county district attorney.

This decision was handed down by O. A. Stolen who upheld the coroner's jury which declared that Posepny met his death in an "unwarranted and unlawful manner."

It is expected that a change of venue will be asked by the defense in order to take the trial out of a county where jurymen are apt to be prejudiced one way or another by newspaper reports which they have read on the shooting.

1,620 GRADUATE FOR NEW RECORD

Steady Increase Is Shown In June Graduating Classes For Three Years.

The university outdid all of its previous records this year in point of numbers by graduating 1,620 students on Monday, June 23, in the agricultural stock pavilion. President Birge delivered the principal address, continuing the theme of his baccalaureate, delivered June 22, on "The Larger Campus."

With those 358 students who were granted degrees during the course of the year, at the end of the first semester, this total is swelled to 1,978. Of the 1,620 diplomas which were given last Monday, 160 were of a higher degree than the regular bachelor of arts or science.

In comparison with the 1,620 degrees of this June, last June 1,520 were granted, two years ago 1,244 and three years ago 969. The 1,978 graduates for this entire year is to be compared with 1,915 for last year, 1,597 for the year before and 1,171 for three years ago.

Of the 1,978 degrees, diplomas, and certificates granted Monday and during the entire year since last commencement, 1,570 were bachelor's or other first degrees, 264 were master's or other second degrees, 70 were doctor's or other advanced degrees, 4 were honorary degrees, and 70 were short course certificates.

Some 740 women were included among the 1,978 graduates, 657 of them receiving their degrees. One hundred seventy women received higher degrees, including 3 doctor's degrees.

During the last 30 commencement week-ends, rain has not interfered with any of the exercises, according to Prof. Julius Olson, of the department of Scandinavian languages, who has had charge of the proceedings.

FRATERNITY RUSH RULES UNCHANGED

30 Organizations Signify Desire for Improvement In Rushing System.

In an attempt to improve fraternity rushing conditions here, a group of a dozen or so men met two days before the examination period to discuss methods for improving and the advisability of changing the existing system.

Because it was so late in the year and because the group could not act in any official power it was decided to do nothing more than send out a questionnaire to all fraternities in an endeavor to discover the general trend of opinion.

Of the 50 letters sent out, 30 were answered. Because the questions were based on at least 80 per cent of the fraternities agreeing, no definite conclusion was reached except that it was discovered that without exception those fraternities which did answer were strongly in favor of an improvement.

The questions were four in number and ran: Do you agree to desist from station rushing from going out into the country to meet a train on which a rushee is coming into Madison, and from hot-boxing, and, if 80 per cent of the fraternities agree to desist from these practices will you consider the gentlemen's agreement closed?

Because it was felt that there was an abnoxious character about rules and that what rules exist now are broken without hesitation, it was deemed advisable to try to put rushing on a system of gentlemen's agreements.

The letters were signed by the president of Union board the editor of The Cardinal and the captain of the football team for next year, the 1923-24 president of the inter-fraternity council and the 1925 Prom chairman.

Although no definite conclusion was reached those who sent out the questionnaire feel that something has been gained. Several fraternities voluntarily said that they wished to see deferred rushing established at Wisconsin.

School of Religion Offers Courses to Summer Students

In order to link up modern religious problems with those in the educational field, a Summer School of Religion is being offered at the university, conducted under the joint auspices of the University Commission of the Episcopal church and the Wesley Foundation of the Methodist church.

Registration is open to undergraduates, teachers, church leaders, and such persons as may be interested either in a general survey of the religion of the day or in a more specialized emphasis on some problem in particular.

Classes are open to the general public regardless of church affiliation. Registrants are asked to report at the St. Francis House, 1015 University avenue on July 1-2, when an enrollment fee of $2 must be paid.

Thirteen courses dealing with various phases of religion are listed. Seminar and round-table discussions are planned on the chief problems between science and religion. "How does the principle of love apply to the conflicts of life?" "The Meaning of Christianity Today." "The difference between the ideals of education, culture, business, art, science, philosophy, and religion." These and similar subjects will be discussed in forum and survey style, presented in a rather popular and non-technical form.

A capable instructional staff of seven will include the Rev. Frank Gavin, professor of Ecclesiastical History at the General Theological Seminary in New York, Prof. John H. Farley, professor of Philosophy at Lawrence College, the Rev. Howard Hare, associate pastor at Hennepin church, Minneapolis, the Rev. Elzer Tetreau of the Wesley Foundation, Frank W. Hall, practicing Madison attorney, the Rev. S. M. Cleveland of the Episcopal church, and the Rev. E. W. Blackman, university pastor for Methodists.

AT THE THEATERS

Vodvil, Drama
and CinemaWANNA LAUGH?
(SEE DOROTHY IN "NIGHTY NIGHT")

BY H. J. B.

Uproariously funny! Clean-cut comedy in every line! A series of funny situations drummed up to keep the audience in a tittering mood throughout with almost riotous spots here and there, particularly as the curtain falls after both acts 2 and 3. The Pullman prologue stars the play with a human twist that makes it "hit home" to frequently. That's largely why it is so funny. True to life, all right, with the characters interpreted vividly enough to make one feel he is listening in on neighbor's gossip, instead of seeing stage stuff.

"Trixie" is easily the high spot of the play, and Miss LaVerne is at her best. Her supporting staff adapts itself to the nature of circumstances in such fine shape that it makes a hearty contribution to the genuineness of what goes on.

Some of the tension is snapped at the end of act 2. Too bad! Saved for act 3 it might have carried interest more keenly and more consistently straight through to the end.

"Trixie" knows her stuff. She is not as exaggerated as is Sister Ernie, in whom slight earmarks of the assuming are found. Billy Moffat is better than Jimmy, through Jimmy tears his hair vociferously and plays temperamental with a pleasing ease. Billy's wife is the why of many laughs. She loves her Billy even if he isn't a George Washington in veracity.

The play is a tickler. The take-offs are well done. Wanna laugh? See "Nighty Night."

Featuring Pola Negri.

Directed by Dimitri Buchowetzki.

Dimitri Buchowetzki is not as easy name to remember nor to pronounce, but it is the name of the Polish director who alone is responsible for re-establishing Pola Negri in her former high place among the greatest artists of the screen.

Men certainly are a despicable lot

THEATER PAGE

A theater section will be run in The Cardinal next Saturday and at least one day a week for the rest of the summer season. Any one who wishes to do any theatrical writing or reviewing of the local shows is requested to call The Cardinal office or get in touch with Nelson Jansky, the theater editor, at B. 5188.

according to this story. Pola Negri, as Cleo, the dancer, is her self again, using her flashing eyes and teeth and curling lips to tremendous effect, and playing havoc among the whole pawing crowd. Embittered by her previous experience she has become a gold digger par excellence. But in the end she finds a few that are not "as bat as that."

Buchowetzki has told his trite, yet artistically simple story entirely in pantomime, which, if the movies are to be considered within the province of art, is the only legitimate medium of expression. There are scarcely more than five titles in the whole play. The cause, significance and effect, are all of the action that we are allowed to see. All the rest is cast out as extraneous, and consequently what is left is packed full of significance and intense interest.

Striking photographic effects are achieved through the use of three sharply defined tones, white, grey and black. A rough and almost brutal European dramatic technique, suggesting Russian influence, combined with the best of American mechanical assistance in photography and sets to make a vivid and intensely interesting picture.

Week of July 20
With Four Plays

The Shakespeare Playhouse company of New York City will present four plays here the week-end of July 26 at the open air theater behind bascom hall.

Each summer some troupe of players is booked to play on the campus during the summer session. Last summer the Devereux Players came to town and years before that it used to be the Cobourn Players.

With a good reputation, the Shakespeare Playhouse, or the McIntee company, comes to start on July 24 with Galsworthy's "The Pigeon." The next night, Friday, it will do Justin McCarthy's near-classic, "If I Were King," and Saturday it will put on two plays, Ibsen's "Doll House" for a matinee and "Hamlet" in the evening.

It was in "If I Were King" that E. H. Sothern made his hit when he was playing alone without Julia Marlowe in 1914. Stage rumor has it that, instead of going to England next season, Sothern will appear in this same play in America, for his wife has retired from the boards, whether temporarily or not, no one seems to know.

The ticket sale for these four plays will be announced in The Cardinal within the next few weeks.

"BROADWAY OR BUST"

At the Majestic.

A really funny burlesque of western movies. The acting is good, but the best is done by Kink Zany.

"THE SHOOTING OF DAN McGREW."

At the Madison.

Lew Cody is as slick a villain as ever stacombed his ambrosial locks, and Barbara La Marr is without question the champ vamp of them all. It is a pretty fine picture; it is certainly different—almost original as they go now, and well worth seeing.

Featuring Colleen Moore

Directed by Francis Dillon

BY H. A. C.

Besides the engaging personality of the impish little Colleen Moore, this picture is really good comedy. Whether a virtue or a defect, it is certainly not at all shocking; but the jazz scenes seemed to us to be even slightly burlesqued. The picture does not drag—it moves gaily through the meamorphosis of a good little girl into a "perfect flapper"—but who remains a very good little girl at heart.

EQUAL RIGHTS ON MENDOTA; SWIMMERS ALL LOOK ALIKE

The whang of a spring board, a graceful form rising into the air, arching, descending into the water, a splash.

That is what is happening on any pier along the lake shore these days.

With the warm weather still fighting shy of this locality, it is not a very common scene, but it can be witnessed any afternoon even though the waters of Mendota are still a bit chilly and the air not so warm that a plunge refreshes.

After the plunge the swimmer climbs onto the pier once more, glances up at the high dive, ponders a minute upon the distance from the top of the platform to the water, and then commences, hand over hand, to ascend the ladder.

Standing there 20 feet in the air, the swimmer poises for a swan dive, rises on tip-toe and pushes off, arms out-stretched, back arched, in a dizzy, head-long fall. Another splash of water, and the swimmer again climbs onto the pier and, throws back a head of short hair.

The swimmer wears a close-fitting suit, cut off well above the knees and nothing else, not even a rubber bathing cap which was so popular several years ago. Perhaps the suit is in two parts, blue, with a white belt.

A few more plunges and the swimmer dons a yellow slicker, which has been lying on one of the benches near-by, and walks to shore.

An observer on another pier some distance off watches the slow departure of the swimmer, scratches his head then turns to a companion and remarks:

"Funny; that's about as difficult a question as 'the lady or the tiger?'"

DOLLARD TAKES NEW OFFICE OF RECORDER

The new office of recorder was established at the recent meeting of the Board of Regents during the days of commencement and was turned over to John Dollard '22, who is also in charge of the Memorial Union building campaign.

The office was made in the hope that thereby the alumni association might be better organized, according to Dollard. It is planned to make efforts to increase the size of the association by more complete records of students who have been at Wisconsin and bring the university back to those people who have severed their connection with it.

Dollard left Sunday night for a week's tour of some of the Big Ten institutions in order to learn from records in those places the best methods of reaching and registering students who have been at Wisconsin. He will visit, among other institutions, Minnesota, Michigan, Illinois, Chicago and Indiana.

Porter Butts '24, managing editor of The Cardinal, will act in the capacity of Dollard's assistant.

"SPRING CLEANING" IS STILL GOING STRONG

Frederick Lonsdale's keen commentary on the weakness of human nature in "Spring Cleaning" continues to please large audiences at the Eltinge theater, New York, where Violet Heming, Arthur Byron, Estelle Winwood and A. E. Mathews play the leading roles. "Spring Cleaning" has been an outstanding comedy success of the past theatrical year, having just passed its 250th New York performance, with an added 100 performances to its credit on tour before beginning its New York run.

Fee cards must be shown at the door for examination.

WHA Becomes Active

The university broadcasting station, WHA, has planned an elaborate program for the six weeks of the summer session. The broadcasting station here was one of the first established in the country. In fact, much of the radio telephone experimentation was carried on at Wisconsin during the war.

The station will be open to students for inspection from 11 to 11:30 o'clock Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays and can be found in room 38 of Sterling hall, where an attendant will be on hand to make explanations. Broadcasts will be made on the same days at 7:30 o'clock at night and a limited number of visitors will be admitted at that time.

The summary of the events for the week is as follows:

Tonight

7:00—First informal musical evening under the direction of Prof. P. W. Dykema; community singing; special musical numbers in auditorium of Music hall.

7:30—WHA broadcast.

4:30 Lecture: "The Placement of Teachers," by Professor William A. Cook. 165, Bascom hall.

7:30—To facilitate acquaintance of students from the same state early in the session and to afford opportunity for the formation of state or sectional groups wherever desired, this hour is set aside and the following places are suggested:

Western States: Campus between South hall and Law Building.

Southern States: Campus before Music hall.

Eastern States: Muir Knoll, Illinois, Lincoln Terrace.

Ohio, Campus before Engineering building.

Indiana, Campus before Biology building.

Missouri, Campus west of Lathrop near flower garden.

DEANS GREET SUMMER SCHOOL STUDENT BODY

even the most famous professors, and have mistaken Madison for a summer resort and not a university. We trust the mistake will not occur this summer. An idler in a student household is just as helpful as glass a boulevard. With scores of mere playgrounds available in Wisconsin the state feels that it is no churl in asking idlers not to trespass on the spot that is set apart for happily mingling the joys of thought with the pleasures of lake and woods.

We recommend caution on changeable Lake Mendota. Those who know it best and have seen it leap up in a few minutes at the touch of a freshening wind, identify the canoe that cuts straight across the lake as a craft manned by people whose courage springs from their inexperience. Don't mar the pleasure of the lake for others by venturing without skill and caution.

We want you to get one of the members of the Women's Athletic Association to guide you to the site where we hope you will find the Women's Athletic Association cottage standing next summer ready to be the terminus of "hikes," and a picnic place. We want you to see the Field House where autumn picnics end at a blazing fire. We want you to know Wisconsin as well as you can during your summer in order that you may report us aright.

The office of the Dean of Women offers on any possible aid, and invites you to come in and become acquainted.

Cordially yours,
F. LOUISE NARDIN,
Dean of Women
