TEN CENTS

STUDENTS FROM MANY SECTIONS HAVE BIG MEET

Give Yells, Elect Officers, Join Friends And Lay Summer Plans

Whether a student came from Illinois, Indiana, or from below the Mason and Dixon line, he was given an opportunity Thursday night to become acquainted with other students from his state or section. Much enthusiasm was shown at the various state and sectional meetings, and plans for further gatherings were made.

"The reason for these organizations," said Dean S. H. Goodnight, director of the summer session, "is that a student may not be disappointed when he finds that he has been in school six weeks with someone else from a nearby town and that neither has known of the other. There is no obligation, however, and no one urges the students to attend, but if they do want such meetings it will be a fine thing.

Have Basket Picnic
"They are free to do as they like with the suggested organization. For instance, if Pennsylvania finds that it has 20 in its group, it might separate from the larger section and form a club of its own. There is no fixed plan.

"The state clubs have not been very active in recent years, but before the war they were a very great thing. At the close of the session, all of the state clubs usually get together for a basket picnic.

"In previous years Illinois has always had by far the largest representation among the state clubs. Last year the enrollment from Illinois for the summer was 568, from Missouri and Indiana, each 210, from Ohio 191, from Michigan 150, and from Iowa, 131."

Illinois Visits Groups
State yells and songs might have been heard all over the campus last night from the different groups. Every group seemed intent upon its own members. Each person was interested in finding out where the other members were from and in hearing once more familiar names of places and people. In a few groups officers were elected, yell leaders chosen, and plans made for boat excursions, dances, picnics, or other meetings in the near future. In other groups organization and plans were indefinite.

The Illinois club, after its organization was finished went about to the other sections and gave yells for the section visited, for Illinois, and for Wisconsin. A few Wisconsin people, since there was no separate club for them, were scattered among some of the other organizations. As not many people from Missouri appeared, Missouri divided and went with Illinois and Dixie.

Efforts will be made through the papers and the bulletin boards to let the members of the clubs know of the various events which are being planned.

HELEN PARKHURST TO ARRIVE ON THURSDAY

Miss Helen Parkhurst, noted educator of New York city, will not be able to reach the university before Thursday, according to word received from her today. Miss Parkhurst was scheduled to present a series of educational pictures at 3:30 o'clock every afternoon during the coming week.

She-Male Is More Deadly Than Male In Getting Grades

Which is the smarter sex? The she-males, according to the evidence furnished by Dean S. H. Goodnight, for the tables recently prepared, women students obtained a higher scholastic standing than men students during the first semester of this year.

Sorority women led the non-sorority group, while non-fraternity men ranked higher than the Greek members. Among the fraternities and sororities, professional houses led social groups. Among the colleges, the College of Agriculture led, with Letters and Science second, the College of Engineering and Law School, fourth.

Second Dance of Union Board Series Is Given Tonight

The second of a series of Union board dances given for the benefit of the summer school students will be held tonight from 9 o'clock to 12 in Lathrop parlors. The Dixie's Pirate Band of Milwaukee, the same orchestra which played for the Union board dance Thursday, will furnish the music.

The Thursday night dance went off successfully, according to Sam Thompson, '24, who is in charge of the affairs. It is hoped by the committee that the students will give their support to these first dances if they wish them to be continued. The admission is $1.25 a couple.

The Union board is planning to hold a concert sometime during the course of the session, but as yet has been unable to secure an artist.

The registration for the 1924 summer session has hit a record mark in the history of the university, according to Dean S. H. Goodnight's office which announces that the figures Thursday night were 4,715.

This means that five more students have registered than last year, and that 81 persons enrolled Thursday.

A few students registered today, a dozen or so, which swells the total still more. The final figures will be announced Monday after registration for the summer school closes.

1925 YEAR BOOKS ON SALE MONDAY

Limited Number of "Superlative" Badgers To Be Sold Next Week

A limited number of 1925 Badgers will be placed on sale Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock in the Badger office of the Union building, according to Ben Anderson '26, business manager of next year's annual and business assistant of last year's.

The sale will be conducted every afternoon from 1 o'clock until 3 in the Badger office so that students may be given a final opportunity of securing the year book. The price of the book is $5.

A number of annuals which were ordered during the course of the year have not been called for yet, Anderson declares, and these are being saved until the other limited supply gives out.

Letters of praise for the Badger are being received every day from students and alumni and others who have seen the book. Wisconsin has long had a reputation for putting out first class annuals.

Last year's was judged the fourth best in the country by a committee of artists who are now in the process of judging this year's books from the universities and colleges of the United States.

Of the 1925 class production Porter Butts '24, former managing editor of The Cardinal wrote: "It is true that the Badger is good. It is true that it is excellent. It is true that it is any other superlative that you may wish to make it."

HIBBARD NAMED WOLF SUCCESSOR AS Y. M. HEAD

New Leader Graduated Here In 1900; Has Been Prominent Long

Carlisle V. Hibbard, of the class of 1900, will return to the university in the fall to take charge of student Y. M. C. A. work, filling the vacancy made by F. E. "Dad" Wolf, who resigned this year. During his college career, Mr. Hibbard was active in athletics and, for two consecutive years, held the presidency of the Y. M. C. A. He is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa and Alpha Delta Phi fraternities and of the Philomathean Literary society.

Although an excellent chemistry student as an undergraduate, he did not choose a scientific career, but decided to enter Association work. Since his graduation, he has had wide experience in the student work of the Young Men's Christian association in all parts of the world and, since 1917, has been head of the Overseas Division at the headquarters of the International Committee of Y. M. C. A.'s in New York.

"Y" Work Increases.

"Mr. Hibbard's acceptance of the position indicates the growing importance of the student work of the Y. M. C. A.," said Dr. John R. Mott, general secretary of the International committee. "He is the third man, well known and well grounded in general Association activities, to be recruited for direct service in a student Y. M. C. A."

"It was said of Cyrus P. Barnum, formerly with the A. M. F. Y. M. C. A. that he was qualified for a 'big job,' so he became student secretary at the University of Minnesota. Henry Wilson holds the same position at the University of Illinois. And now Carlisle Hibbard, with his world-wide knowledge of student affairs, will head the student work at another great university."

Went To Japan.

After two years at Northwestern University, as student secretary, Mr. Hibbard went to Japan to organize student activities there. He led the Association service with the Japanese army during the Russo-Japanese war, was later identified with Y work in Tokyo City, and finally became national secretary for Korea and Manchuria. In 1914 he was put in charge of American Y. M. C. A. work for the allied armies and prisoners of war in Europe.

When America entered the conflict in 1917, he went to New York to direct from there all the Overseas activities which have been steadily contracted since 1919 but which at the present time are spread over 60 countries and manned by 79 secretaries. Careful provision is being made for safeguarding this work. The policy of integrating it with the Foreign Division will be followed along the lines indicated by the Atlantic City convention.

In 1902 Mr. Hibbard married Sue Eugenia Lowell of Janesville, Wisconsin. A daughter has just graduated. (Continued on page 8)

Mining Engineers Visiting Plants of Northwest States

Twelve mining engineering students of the university under the direction of Prof. E. R. Shorey of the department, are visiting plants throughout the Northwest, having left on June 15 for a six weeks' study trip.

This annual trip is required of all junior students in the course of mining engineering. Other optional trips are made during the year to steel plants in Chicago. The only other required trip is the one taken during the freshman year to the iron ore mines in Mayville.

The itinerary includes an examination of lead and silver mines, mills, gold dredges, smelters and coal mines. As a result of the visits, many of the group will probably obtain employment in the plants visited.

Women Learn to Teach Deaf Children to Speak and Hear

If you could help deaf children to speak and hear wouldn't you consider it a miracle?

But that is what 15 women coming from all over Wisconsin and the adjoining states are studying in our university this summer. These women, mostly college graduates, have already had training and experience in this line, but are studying advanced speech technique under the direction of Miss Pauline Cana. This is the only course of its kind given in any university.

It is hard to understand that a child born deaf has no conception of what English means and has to be taught to make sounds of which it can form no idea.

And what is more they don't know how to use their own voices. The first thing is to teach them to say a word like "skip" and then have them to do it, so that they learn the action is the same as the manner in which they twist their lips.

These children, not learning the conventional method of thought and expression, in their innocence often coin the most amusing and often pathetic expressions for ideas.

One little girl, who was being taught to speak, had several times been taken by her parents to see the boys leaving for camp. One day seeing a train-load of soldiers pass through her town, she called them "a train of many, many good-byes."

The teachers of these children tell many stories of how they have taught deaf boys and girls to become speaking persons and how they have taught them to hear with their lips.

It is the belief of students of the technique of speech for the deaf that it is the business of the country to restore the handicapped to their place in society.

Mrs. Calvin Coolidge before her marriage was a teacher of the deaf. At the present time Calvin Coolidge is the chairman of the endowment committee of the Clarke school at Northampton, Massachusetts, which is one of the most important schools in the country for teaching the technique of speech for the deaf.

One of the most interesting things about these deaf children is that as soon as they have learned a few words they begin to make a picture language of their own. One little six-year-old boy invented such a language in which "the great big dark" meant the night; "the hush man" was the minister; "tree hurry" was the wind, a shut eye picture was a dream.

Another fundamental belief of men and women, who make the teaching of the deaf to speak their life work, is that it is not the business of society to make certain the survival of the fittest, but rather to make certain that all are fitted worthily to survive.

Early are the beautiful fairy like figures that he has in his pictures. Some of them are so unusual that they appear almost grotesque.

EXHIBIT RARE ART IN STATE MUSEUM

Aubrey Beardsley's Drawings Now Being Shown Brought From London

Original drawings of Aubrey Beardsley is the theme of an art exhibition which opened Wednesday, June 18 in the State Historical Museum. The exhibition is under the auspices of the Madison Art association and will be open during the summer session.

"I have lately seen few drawings which seem to me to be very remarkable. The very limited number which this artist is said to have produced makes their perfection of execution all the more remarkable," says Joseph Pennell in an article of Aubrey Beardsley in "The Studio" No. 1, April 1893.

Beardsley's work is now seldom seen in the original as his drawings have all been collected and are privately owned. The present exhibition has been assembled by the Brooklyn Art museum and is supplied largely from the collection belonging to John Lane of London.

The drawings are very rare and have been encased in glass for protection. Aubrey Beardsley's art has been said to typify his original imagination. It is of unusual interest and importance. Particularly are the beautiful fairy like figures that he has in his pictures. Some of them are so unusual that they appear almost grotesque.

Spooner, Former Madison Man, Suffers Stroke

Willett M. Spooner, Milwaukee attorney and former Madison resident, was stricken with a stroke of apoplexy Thursday. He was removed to Emergency hospital where it is said he will recover.

Mr. Spooner is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin which he attended while the family lived on Langdon st. His father, the late Sen. John C. Spooner, was a prominent figure in the state politics a generation ago. Two brothers, Charles P. and Philip live in New York. John S. Main and Mrs. W. D. Roach of this city are cousins.

Prof. Julius E. Olson and the Rev. Ove J. H. Preus, DeForest, will be the speakers. The Drove choir, Madison, will sing and Mrs. A. Quisling, Madison, violinist, will play several solos. The picnic will be a basket affair with coffee, cream and sugar available at the grounds.

Custom Reverance Urged by Ela In July 4 Address.

Sketching the background of events that led up to the signing of the U. S. constitution 148 years ago, Emerson Ela, former president of the Madison Association of Commerce, in his address at the Independence day program at Olin park Friday afternoon, asked that the achievements of the country in gaining freedom for its inhabitants be revered.

Athletic events, water sports, races and dancing were included in the Madison July 4th program, the activities opening with bicycle races around the capitol square Friday morning.

Several thousand Madisonians and out-of-town residents attended the celebration at Olin park in the afternoon and witnessed the morning contests.

Under the direction of S. E. Capron, several hundred Madison children who formed in line before the supply tent at the park.

While the program prepared by the Sane Fourth committee drew large numbers, many Madisonians taking advantage of the opportunity offered by July 4 falling on a Friday, declared a three-day vacation for themselves and left town for summer resorts and other cities.

Picnics, races, fishing, baseball games and programs in other cities within automobile driving distance of Madison, attracted a considerable number of townspeople.

At night, no program having been arranged by the committee because of a shortage of funds, Madisonians provided their own fireworks displays or spent the time at celebrations near the city.

The Sane Fourth committee, headed by Norton J. Williams, consisted of Dr. B. C. Campbell, vice chairman; Mayor I. M. Kittleson, treasurer; Miss Margaret Smith, secretary; Don E. Mowry, E. F. Bunn, S. E. Capron, Alfred T. Flint, H. L. Garner, Mrs. N. J. Geier, Louis W. Heyl, Prof. F. W. Kehl, S. Colomon Levitan, Mrs. A. V. Millar, Louis D. Nickles, Harold G. Smith, and Ensign R. A. Rose.

A dancing program was presented in the afternoon at Olin park by pupils of Prof. Kehl and Leo Kehl.

The sports committee, headed by "Hy" Smith, was composed of Ensign Rose, Mr. Flint, Mr. Heyl, W. B. Meiller and Allen Riley. The horseshoe pitching contest was won by Horse Shoe Pitching association. O. Neesvig was in charge of exhibition aquaplaning and Ensign Rose directed motor races.

It's never too early to start talking football; so here goes on a few little remarks along that line.

Jack Harris, Badger captain, is getting hard as nails in preparation for the coming season by working in the shipyards at Manitowoc, Wisconsin. If Jack gets much "harder" than he was last season they are going to have to carry two or three men off the field in every game

Coach Ryan has excellent back field material in the two Harmon boys, Leo and Doyle. Those two can produce some mean "harmony" when it comes to passing that pig-skin.

Mark Kessnich who played full back for Knox college last year is attending school at Madison this summer and may enter here next fall for the regular term.

Coach "Tom" Jones took a well earned vacation over the Fourth and motored with his family down into Iowa to visit relatives.

Joe Steinauer is giving a couple of courses in swimming this summer. The writer envies the men who have time to enroll in these courses, for a person can surely learn something from a coach who develops men as good as Max Simpkins, Johnny Bennett, "Hooks" Czerwonky and Irv Gerber.

By the way we will all have a chance to see some real diving when that water carnival comes off July 19.

Simpkins, the Badger fire dive expert, and Richard Corbett, fancy diver of great ability, will be among the performers. JOHNNY BUGS.

Ripon College R. O. T. C. Wins Chicago Cup Prize

CAMP CUSTER, Mich.—The Chicago Tribune cup for the institution whose students at the six corps area R. O. T. C. camp made the best average score with the service rifle goes this year to Ripon college, Ripon, Wis. Nine Ripon men made an aggregate of 1,696 points in record firing, giving an average standing of 188.44 for 111 men firing.

The classification letter on Wisconsin automobile license plates may be placed at the end of the license number and in smaller size on future license plates, it was announced from the secretary of state's office. It is said that in its present form the license plate is difficult to read.

Kansas Theater Founder Will Lecture to Students

Three horse-shoe pitching pits are in shape next to the gymnasium, while the Varsity tennis courts will be reserved for the summer session tennis tournament. Permits to play can be had at the office in the men's gymnasium any time before 3:30 o'clock each day.

REGENTS MAKE OUT BUILDING PLANS

Seven Hundred Dollars Is To Be Spent For Tennis Courts

Additional tennis courts, a varsity baseball diamond, a new cattle barn, a university pier, an enlarged "slip" to accommodate both the "Isabell" and the "Cardinal," and road repair work is only part of the building program mapped out by the Board of Regents.

A total of -700 is to be spent for the new tennis courts which will be situated at Camp Randall next to those already there. Construction of them is expected to start within the month.

Filling in of the south part of Camp Randall is being continued in order to complete plans for a varsity diamond. All the university baseball games next spring will be played there.

A new cattle barn, to be built north of the horse barn, is also on the building program and expected to be built this summer.

The university pier, leading out from the university boat house, is nearing completion. Swimming fans will be able to enjoy it by the latter part of next week.

A few more hauls by the "Isabell" and the "slip" will be ready to house the homeless boats.

G. O. P. Behind Deadlock, Georgia Delegate Says

NEW YORK—Republican interests are behind the deadlock in the Democratic national convention, Hollis Randolph, chairman of the Georgia delegation charged this afternoon. The delegates from eleven northeastern states who are blocking McAdoo's nomination are merely pawns on the Republican checker-board and they are being used," Randolph charged.

Episcopal students and their friends are invited to come," said Miss Louise Sharp, secretary at the Saint Francis House.

THE GENTLEMAN SCHOLAR—AND THE LADY

That a class lecturer is entitled to a certain basic amount of courteous attention has been suddenly but forcefully implanted in the hearts of several hundred students in Carl Russel Fish's assembly in "Representative Americans."

Two young things sat in the rear of Ag hall. There was an exchange of gore, and some tittering. The lecturer pouted. "The two young ladies will kindly leave the room at once. You know who I mean. The one with the blue and the one with the white hat. And you may drop the course!" A second of impressive silence during the exit. Professor Fish returned to his subject without further comment. And most diligent, most feverish note taking followed.

Because he felt it beneath the dignity of a college professor and insulting to an audience of grade, high school and college instructors, and college undergraduates to preach on good manners, he employed the more effectual method, the concrete illustration. Some professors are less hasty; they give one warning remark. Sometimes it helps; sometimes it serves only as a challenge to the more daring.

The moral is the same. If a course is worth taking, it is worth listening to. It takes all the energy the professor can muster to mount a platform and attempt to put across his stuff in an overcrowded warm hall to a diversified audience. The gentleman student and the lady co-operate by offering courteous attention throughout the hour. It is a sign of good breeding. And we are all after the ear marks of culture!

There is another little matter of decorum. Sometimes a lecturer is forced to continue for a few sentences after the bell has formally closed the hour. When this is the case his words of wisdom are usually accompanied by a noise of rattling of the arms of seats; students prepare to leave the room, pick up and drop their books; in short, make so much noise that it is almost impossible for those who want to hear the closing part of the lecture to catch a word. So often has this happened that many instructors have gotten in the habit of stopping at the first note of the bell. But now and then an instructor does want to finish.

We admire the European system of education, we wonder why intellectually Europeans are so consistently superior to Americans. The reason for their superiority is that they do not rattle the arms of their seats. They do not study on union hours, start or stop when the whistle blows, as Americans do, no matter how first rate the lecture is nor how beloved the lecturer.

MIXIN' 'ROUND

An all-university mixer, the first this summer, will be held next Friday night in Lathrop gymnasium.

Why not have "mixers" of this type more often? Students coming here for the summer session, only, do not have the benefit of time to form acquaintances and friendships. For many the summer session offers an opportunity for renewal of collegiate days, for revival of fond memories. These people, whether they be teachers of long standing, accustomed to frown on would-be impudent youths, or the prospective "U" student, desire to know their fellow-students. Phi Beta grades are all right, but after all the human element is most vital.

Make a point to know the man or woman next you in class. Get acquainted with the people in your house, at your table.

A cheery smile, a greeting, not only brightens the day but "peps" up school loyalty. It makes a fellow feel that he counts.

MORE SUMMER

A reporter of the Cardinal staff the other day called the University club to secure some information on the progress of construction. The reporter was courteous from the beginning, asked the person on the other end of the wire who would be able to give him his information. When told that the man in charge was not in at present, the reporter asked where and when he might be found.

And the reply—
"Say, d' you think I'm gonna talk to yuh here all after noon and like it?!" And bang went the receiver.

The entire conversation lasted perhaps a minute and a half.

Another case of summer dispositions.

Trout Will Mature In Open Tanks During Winter

Trout left in open tanks during the winter will mature, according to the conservation commission. Trout in the past have been raised in closed tanks. The past year the large amount of spawn forced the commission to keep some in open outdoor tanks fed with spring water which kept them from freezing. These trout have now been shipped in good condition.

Conservation Men Will Leave On Northern Tour

An inspection trip of northern Wisconsin will be started Monday morning by the conservation commission. The party will include Elmer S. Hall, conservation commissioner; C. L. Harrington, and B. O. Webster. The party will visit Pattison park enroute to Superior.

Libe Is Busy Spot With Rules, Fines, Wealth of Books

Do you know the rules concerning the use of the university library? There are eight of them, all very specific and all made emphatic by accompanying threats of punishment for their violation.

For instance, a fine of $1.00 is imposed upon anyone who takes a book from the building without having it properly charged at the desk. Permanent reference books, such as encyclopedias, dictionaries, atlases, etc., may not be taken from the library at any time. Unbound periodicals may be drawn from the library by students.

The library hours remain the same during the summer session as during the regular school year. They are 7:45 o'clock in the morning to 10 o'clock at night except on Saturdays, Sundays and legal holidays. Saturdays the reading room is closed at 9 o'clock at night.

There are approximately 280,000 volumes to which students may go for reference or for recreational reading. The current magazines and the larger daily newspapers as well as bulletins and pamphlets of all kinds are available to those who desire to use them.

According to reports received from the library the greater number of summer students ask for books which deal with educational courses. History reference books probably rank second in demand.

Workers at the loan desk report that their busiest hours are from 2 to 4 o'clock in the afternoon and from 8 to 9 o'clock at night. During these hours the general reading room and the periodical room are filled to capacity. Some books, ordinarily kept on the library shelves have been transferred to the engineering library to relieve congestion.

Copies of the library rules may be obtained at the desk.

Socialist Leaders Look For New 3rd Party At Cleveland Meet

CLEVELAND, O.—Congressman Victor L. Berger, and Morris Hillquit, New York, are leading the fight for a third party at the Cleveland Conference for Political Action.

The Socialist leaders have stated that the Socialists will amalgamate with the progressives and support La Follette for president providing La Follette will cut completely away from the republican party and start a new third party. The senator refuses to do this and will run as an independent attached to no party.

The socialists attending the convention were not satisfied with La Follette's declaration against the immediate formation of a complete third party. Berger applauded many points in the La Follette statement but was silent when the senator made his opposition to an immediate party program clear. It is believed the socialist convention meeting Sunday will nominate its own candidate.

Berger is writing the socialist platform as a member of the resolutions committee and Hillquit is fathering the third party idea as a member of the organization committee.

Under the voting system here none can now predict whether the socialists will win or lose against those who stand flatly behind La Follette including the railroad Brotherhoods who represent many times the popular voting strength of the socialists.

Should the socialists carry the convention it appears certain the elements in the convention will withdraw late today and give full endorsement to the La Follette candidacy and the Wisconsin platform as submitted by him.

HOW ABOUT IT BOYS

Oh, I've got something for sale
And my terms are cash down,
And I will sell them to any

I'll be doing something rash,
If I don't get hold of cash,
For I'm broke—or just about
And my Sheba must step out.
She's a real sensation—

Won't you hear my cry,
Won't somebody buy,
Shoes, ties, and clothes.
For I've something to sell,
But my price is cash down.

At the Theaters

Big Movies Will Be Shown Here In Near Future

By N. M. J.

Waiting for "The Covered Wagon" and other real movies of the year is like waiting for the Democratic convention to end, but unlike the political bosses, Madison theater owners have actually decided something. The big pictures will be here—not a few of them—but the whole lot. Moreover, one or two of the big ones, and many of the best of the less pretentious films are coming before the close of the summer session.

To the Strand go the highest honors.

It is possible that both "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" and "The Sea Hawk" will be at the Strand in time to play to a summer school audience. The Strand has also booked Griffith's "America" and Mary Pickford's "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall" for the early fall.

A Wisconsin graduate, Bernard K. Burns, is the author of "The Woman on the Jury" which will be at the Strand beginning July 13.

The Madison will also give us a handout. Wesley Barry has at last graduated from his Horatio Alger story roles into real comedy in "George Washington, Jr." which will be at the Madison July 20. One of the real noteworthy plays of the year "Woman Who Give" from the sea stories of Joseph C. Lincoln will also be shown at the Madison the week of July 27.

In the fall Rudolph Valentino will return to the Madison in "Monsieur Beaucaire." And announcement super-extraordinary—the "Covered Wagon" has had its wheels greased and will roll into the Madison in September.

Hal Meets Thomas Meighan Dodging Rocks in Alberta

BY HAL

Howdy folks. Back on the job again. Hal an interesting experience while I was gone too. Met Thomas Meighan rather informally at Banff, Alberta. He and I bumped into each other dodging rocks that had been lofted into the air by blasting.

It seems that Thomas and a company of movie actors including Estelle Taylor are there making a new picture that will be known as "The Alaskan." My companion and I arrived on the scene in the nick of time and were given the treat of seeing some real acting.

Speaking of that big, handsome, curly-headed man, he surely is a creator of excitement among the women. If we hadn't been dodging rocks "toggled," I wouldn't have been able to get within ten feet of him. Cameras work overtime when he comes into sight.

The weather ought to be mighty good for the local theater houses. You know, they usually don't try to get extra good shows here during the summer because people would rather be out canoeing or walking on the drive when it's warm. But now it's cool, the theaters are crowded.

And they are getting pretty fair pictures, too. The Strand is lining up some of the recent classics, such as "America," some of those films that have fought shy of Madison for one reason and another too long. We're mighty glad to see that Mr. Desmoreaux is planning to give the summer students some good stuff. It will pay him, all right.

In fact, most people are willing to pay high prices to see a first remember when "Cabira" and "In-rate show, even in Madison. We tolerance" and some of the older pictures came to town only a short while after they were released in the bigger cities and the people paid the prices. They have to for a big picture, it costs the play house owners so much to book these films.

"We're waiting anxiously for the Shakespeare Playhouse people to come to town."

Lots of theater folk are going to vaudeville for the summer. Ethel Barmore likes to appear under the tutelage of Mr. Kieth and this summer her example is being followed by many of her colleagues.

Pauline Lord, of "Anna Christie" fame will appear in a special play written for her by Eugene O'Neill under the Palace direction, William Faversham, Margaret Agglin, Ruth Chatterton will all be on the vaudeville boards in one-actors. And Richard Bennett, of "He-Who-Gets-Slapped" will be seen in "Sauce for the Goose," by Howard Lindsay and Arline Vici.

More than a thousand manuscripts have been turned in for the American collegiate one-act play contest, the prize for which is $50 royalty and $250 bonus. The contest closes August 15, and manuscripts should be sent to Inter-collegiate Prize Playlet committee, care of Hocky & Green, 110 West 47th street, New York.

See you Monday—as Mae would say.

"THE WHITE SIN"

At The Parkway

More of this idle rich depiction, but this time the millionaire's son gets the short end of the string, while the woman in the case finds real love in the devotion of his brother. A searching spotlight, the picture is cast on the playtime of wealthy young set.

"SPIRIT OF THE U. S. A."

At The Strand

The old story of the good son enlisting in the World war and returning just in time to rescue his old father from death and save the farm from being flooded by a dam. The picture has a few stirring battle scenes, but on the whole is pretty poor.

"THE OLD FOOL"

At The Majestic

Excellent acting, especially in the character parts, in a story the setting, incidents, and characters of which seem to have been taken from real life; but a "true story" usually makes unconvincing fiction. In this one, in spite of a few fine spots, the characters are too morbidly mean.

Families Enjoy Tenting While They Attend Summer School

A tenting colony for families out on the lake is making it possible for many people to enjoy camp life on lake Mendota together with work in the summer school.

Any family, one member of which is attending the summer session, has the privilege of renting one of these tents. The platform is furnished free by the university. It is necessary for the occupants to furnish only awnings, cots and furnishings.

The colony is located on a spot two and one half miles from the campus, famous for its beauty. Boating, bathing and fishing are the favorite sports of the colony.

The trip to and from the university is made along the lake shore drive, by launches which touch the pier several times a day, and by canoe.

A screened study hall is one of the features which the university provides. Mr. Gallistel, the superintendent of the university grounds, has charge of the colony and lives there during the summer session.

Poultry Men Will Hold 2 Conventions In City

Two additional conventions to be held in Madison during the month of July are listed in the weekly bulletin of the Association of Commerce. They are the conventions uated from Mt. Holyoke college and a son is attending grammar school.

Mr. Hibbard was the first choice of the national board, after the resignation in January, of Frederick D. Wolf, who is now in the East. The only Japanese lilac bush in the city is now in full bloom. This magnificent bush, reaching to the second story of the house, is in the yard of the old Phillip Fox homestead located at 120 E. Johnson.

The bush was set out years ago but not until recently has it begun to grow to any great height.

The blossoms are white and have a peculiarly sweet fragrance different from the American lilac.
