LONG AND SHORT OF IT

PYGMIES AND GIANTS IN RELAY RACE TOMORROW NIGHT.

Other Interesting Events in Final Indoor Meet—W's to be Given to Winners.

Entries for the Saturday meet are all in and the various events are unusually well-filled. Several of the old men have been indisposed of late and will be kept from competing. This fact has brought out several new candidates who will make their first trials in public. The absence of the old and more experienced will insure closer finishes and more interesting sport.

The event of the evening which is arousing more interest than any other, is the relay race between the long and short men. The members of both teams have been working conscientiously and each team is confident of winning. The short's affirm that the lengthies will be unable to hold the turns while the long men are solicitous lest the little fellows will be lost in the cracks of the track. From the present outlook however, it is decidedly doubtful as to which team is the favorite and the race, although ludicrous for the spectators, will be run for blood through each relay.

The literary society relay race will be exciting. Each society has elected its captains and the try-outs of the various candidates have been going on during the entire week. Castalia has offered an appropriate banner as a trophy and each society is desirous of securing it. There has always existed an intense rivalry between the hill organizations and each one will try to maintain their boasted superiority on the track as well as in debate.

The half-mile novice race is sure to be a drawing card. There are many good runners in the University who have been backward in entering the open races fearing a bad defeat. This race offers an opportunity for such men to show their mettle and many have seized the opportunity. Beside the "Varsity" entries there are several High School boys who will start and who promise to make it hot for some of the University starters.

Besides them there will be the regular program of events besides which Coach Kilpatrick, the world's half mile champion, will run an exhibition race.

During the evening the official W's which were awarded recently by the athletic council, will be given to the following:

Football—James L. Doar, '04, Cumberland; Allen C. Abbott, '04, Oshkosh; Albert L. Marshall, '04, Rensselaer, Ind.; W. E. Schreiber, '04, Madison; Emil Scow, law '02, Arcadia.

Base-ball—Milo Muckleston, law '03, Waukesha; Leslie S. Leighton, '02, Omro.

The bill introduced into the senate by Senator Miller asking for an appropriation for the building of a cottage to be used by the ladies of the University as a dormitory was reported upon unfavorably by the Committee on Claims yesterday and was laid over indefinitely.

The complete list of entries is as follows:

35 yard dash—H. J. Saunders, '03; J. Hayden, '04; W. B. Saunders, '04; J. Pugh, '03; G. C. Poage, '03; G. Alexander, '03; G. Senn, '01; E. Birge, '03; F. J. Schule, '01; Jardin, '04.

ART ASSOCIATION

CONTEMPORARY CLUB WILL START AN ORGANIZATION.

Self-Government Association Exhibit Stimulated Action Taken—General Interest Manifested.

There are probably in the United States few cities of the size of Madison so large a proportion of whose citizens have tastes both cultured and artistic. The seat of the university and the historical library and of the state government, Madison is also the home of many families which, while not wealthy, have yet the means for gratifying their love of the beautiful by travel to the great monuments of architecture and the museums and galleries of art in Europe. The need

R. G. Thwaites, B. J. Stevens, Mrs. Anna R. Sheldon, Prof. Wm. H. Hobbs, Prof. C. W. Gregory, Mrs. Delia E. Carson, F. G. Brown and Prof. Jastrow were the persons chosen, and articles of incorporation were on March 18 signed in the office of Mr. Thwaites at the historical library.

Prof. Jastrow, Mr. Brown, Walter Smith, Mr. Hanks and Prof. Hobbs were made a committee to publish the plans of the association and invite membership in it. One thousand circulars have recently been mailed to citizens of Madison setting forth the aims of the association and inviting them to enroll themselves as charter members by signing an enclosed postal card and returning it before April 10. Not only those specially addressed but all persons having an interest in art are cordially invited to join the association on the same terms and blanks to be signed will be left at several convenient points in the city to be shortly announced in the papers.

It is hoped that as many as possible will enroll themselves before the first meeting which will be held on the evening of April 1 in the lecture hall of the new library building. Mr. Burr W. Jones will preside at this meeting and two or three brief addresses will be made by persons identified with the art interests of the city.

STEARNS ON HIGH SCHOOLS.

The Professor's Address at Today's Convocation.

Professor J. W. Stearns spoke at Convocation to-day on "Relations of the High Schools to the University."

A trio consisting of Miss Bowman, Mr. Brown and Mr. Washburn presented a musical selection.

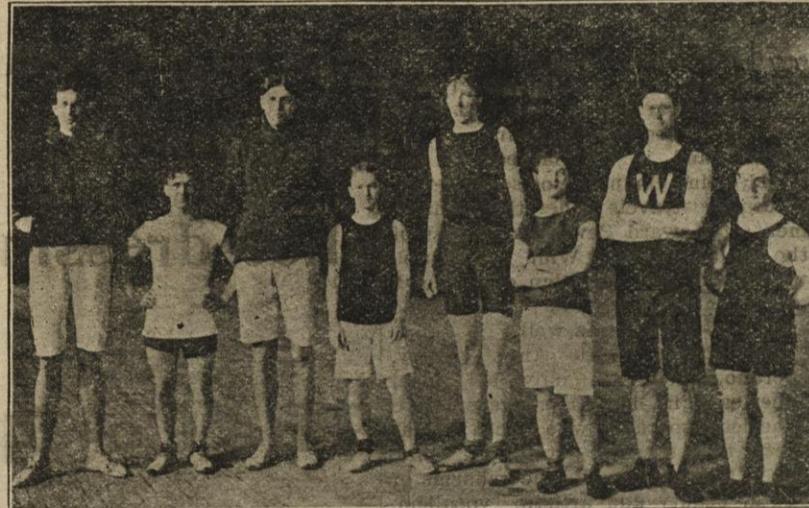

Professor Stearns at the beginning of his remarks stated that there were two hundred and fifteen accredited schools of which sixty-nine are outside of the state. Of these accredited schools within the state one hundred and thirty-two are high schools. Thus we see that the high school takes up by far the greater per cent. in numbers of the elementary schools in the state.

During the present year many have been put on the accredited list. In 1878 there was only one on this list and the present great number shows clearly the great rapid strides which have been taken along the line of elementary education. The accrediting of high schools has resulted in a great increase of better educational facilities. The advice and instructions given by representatives of the University when visiting the high schools has been of great advantage in aiding the principals and wards of education in building up the high schools.

The high school is comparatively modern. The first established was in Boston in 1821 when it was established mainly to educate the youth who had no intentions of entering a higher school of learning. The system of high schools from that time on grew rapidly and the object still maintained, that is, in giving preparation of those whose education stopped on leaving the school.

Professor Stearns in closing cited the dangers now lurking in the present high school system and read a few extracts on this subject edited by President Hadley of Yale.

Wm. W. Riley who attended the University last year as a Freshman in the English Course, died at Minneapolis of typhoid-pneumonia last Sunday night. This year he was taking work in the Medical Dep't. of Hamline University.

Is no longer a luxury, but a necessity which you cannot afford to be without.

Student Response Needed.
The movement towards the formation of an Art Association in Madison ought to meet with especially hearty sympathy and material aid from the University. No other portion of the people of Madison will be benefitted as directly as the students of the University and they ought accordingly to meet more than half way any request that may be made of them tending towards the realization of the objects of the association. The cry has been raised for so many years that we sadly lack in everything that conduces to aesthetic education that now when the opportunity arises and the initiative has been taken every one ought to fall into line and help the project along. A hearty response from the student-body cannot fail to assist materially in the consummation of the objects of the association.

Visitors Welcome.
During the Easter vacation, which has already begun in many of the secondary schools of the state, it is sometimes the custom for the pupils to visit the University in a body. Particularly is this true this year, the legislature being in session and affording practical lessons in civics. This fact explains the presence of the bevy of maidens and youths that have within the last few days roamed about the campus. These visitors should be shown every courtesy for it is of the utmost importance that the younger generation should understand and sympathize with University life. These visits, thus form an opportunity not to be missed of welcoming the younger people and of imbuing them with right ideas of student life. It is a commendable spirit that prompts these tours of inspection and the result is found to be a closer unity between the University and the people in the future—an end ever to be desired.

Senior Swing-Out.
The date for the Senior Swing-Out has been set at April 18th. The exercises will be held in Library Hall, and cap and gown will be the only proper attire for that occasion. The early part of the program will be an address by the president of the class, and a speech by some member of the faculty. Efforts will also be made to secure the University quartette for a musical number. The latter part of the evening will be given up to dancing. The committee wishes to urge upon seniors the necessity of getting in their orders for caps and gowns if they wish to get them on time.

Jackman for Alderman.
Ralph Jackman, '97, has been put on the Democratic ticket in the first ward as a candidate for alderman in place of Henry Parkinson who resigned. Mr. Jackman after graduating from the University, took three years at Harvard, graduating from the Harvard Law School in 1900. He stumped the state for Bryan in 1896 and 1900.

—Professor A. A. Bruce left to-day on a business trip to Milwaukee and Chicago.

Professor McLaughlin, head of the American History department at Michigan, may go to Leland Stanford, at a salary of $4,000 a year. He has been at Michigan as student and professor for over 23 years.

Professor Parkinson's Grand-daughter Dead.

Little Theodora Schroeder, a granddaughter of Professor and Mrs. Parkinson died at their home last night at one o'clock after an illness of two weeks. The little girl was eight years old last November, and has lived with her grand-parents since the death of her mother five years ago.

The funeral services will be held from the home. The time has not yet been set, as it is not known how soon the father can reach here. Rev. Gilmore will conduct the services.

Mr. A. T. Schroeder, the father of the little girl, is an old University man. He graduated from the Law School with the class of '89, and was a member of the Chi Psi fraternity. He is at present practicing law at Salt Lake City, and was the leading attorney in securing the unseating of Roberts. Students will recall him as the gentleman who spoke on "Mormonism" at Convocation last year.

Marine Band Concert.

Arrangements are well under way for the Marine Band Concert to be given on April 11th.

It has been decided to give two concerts, one in the afternoon and the other in the evening of April 11th in order that all may be given an opportunity to hear this band.

The Marine Band is the official National Band, and is acknowledged to be the greatest band organization in the world. It is only by special permission of the President, the Secretary of the Navy and the Commandant of the Marine corps that the band was permitted to tour, being given a furlough of six weeks, the first since the year of the World's Fair.

The band is the largest in the world, being composed of seventy-four pieces and travels under the management of Howard Pew. The leader of the band is Lieut. Wm. H. Santemann, who is a musician of acknowledged talent and has considerable ability as a leader as well.

The soloist is Miss Amy Whaley, soprano, who is not only a typical American girl, but a representative American soprano, who does great credit to her native state of Ohio. Miss Whaley has all the charms of youth, beauty and artistic vocalism, with a voice that is large, pure sympathetic and very dramatic.

Plans for Naval Ball.

At a meeting of the social committee of the faculty held yesterday it was decided to grant permission to give a Naval Ball and allow the Athletic association to use the gymnasium for it.

The Naval Ball has become an established event in University social circles and is always anticipated as one of the most enjoyable social events of the year. The purpose of the ball, as the name implies to raise funds for the crew, and with so worthy an object in view should have a large attendance.

Last year a number stayed away from the ball on account of a misunderstanding that the Naval Ball was a formal party. Nothing could be further from the plans of the Naval department, whose purpose it is to make it a very informal but very enjoyable affair.

It is planned to make the ball the most successful ever given for the crew benefit. Music for the evening will be furnished by Nitschke's full orchestra. The hall will be decorated appropriately for the occasion and every effort made to make this year's Naval Ball a grand social and financial success.

The date of the Ball has not been definitely decided upon. The dates April 13th and April 20th are both filled. The Ball will probably be given on the first or second Saturday in May.

Wm. F. Schmidt, Philomathia's representative in the final oratorical contest this evening will not be able to appear on account of a severe case of tonsillitis.

The subscription lists that are being circulated to raise money to send the crews East this year will all be called in before Easter. The fraternities have contributed from $50 to $75 apiece, some of the sororities have given $20 and the townspeople have opened their pocket books nobly. The students are expected to give at least one dollar each, but as yet the response has been but fair. However, the canvass has not yet been completed, and it is hoped that every student will do the right thing by the crew when his opportunity comes. The faculty will give $250, and if the student body shows a willingness to do their share it will be an easy matter to raise the balance from the alumni.

The canvass outside of Madison will be conducted by business men and friends of the University. The alumni Association will also be a great help.

The lecture on the Philippine Islands given yesterday by Professor Paul S. Reinsch was the final one in a series on Oriental Politics. Professor Reinsch spoke of the character of the islands, speaking at some length on the Spanish rule previous to the American occupation.

The Philippine Islands have a variety of climate and in area they are twice the size of Wisconsin.

The three great sets of people are the Mohammedans, Christians and Pagans, all having Malay characteristics. In the central islands are found the Pagans who are very rich and have not been molested much. The Mohammedans are in the south and are characterized by their fierce temper and warlike spirit.

The Spaniards left a centralized form of government. The reins were in the hands of a governor who in turn had the governors of the five hundred or more provinces responsible to him. The principle of representative government was introduced to some extent but never became widespread. This system of centralized government was no great success, except in wringing out taxes. In this it succeeded admirably, to such an extent that all the officials sent there from Spain returned rich. Of the $13,000,000 annually obtained from the natives only 5 per cent. was turned back in productive form.

The Spaniards left a poor system of roads and it is now one of the problems for the Americans to build suitable roads to make easy transportation possible.

The great problem now is to successfully replace Spanish rule by American rule.

The mass of the people have had no political training and those that have are crying for independence. These want a bill of rights and a federal union like our own.

In conclusion Professor Reinsch said that to successfully deal with the Filipinos we should inaugurate a system of government similar to that of Russia's. A system of representative government is not now possible as these people have no national feeling. We ought to be slow in establishing a government like our own and we ought not to change radically their habits and customs.
