The Wisconsin Alumni Magazine

I, a wandering student, seeking knowledge, came knocking at the gates of the great University of Wisconsin, and it took me in, filled me with inspiration, and when I left its doors the kindly people of the state stretched out welcoming hands and gave me a man's work to do.—An Alumnus.

A Happy New Year! And Many of Them!

START the year by enthusiastically urging other graduates to join our organization. We can do many good things for ourselves, for our University, for our State, for our Country, and for all mankind by co-operating in making the University of Wisconsin Alumni Association a powerful organization for supporting those high ideals of democracy as formulated in the finest type of a State University.

Wisconsin alumni are loyal! We need organized unity of purpose and action. Joining the Alumni Association is the first step. Those of us who read the magazine have taken this fundamental step. Let's take the next step today by bringing some other graduate into the organization.

Happy New Year! The success of the Alumni Association this new year depends upon co-operation. Co-operation means increased membership. Larger membership means increased power for good works among men.

Will each loyal member of the Wisconsin Alumni Association see to it personally that at least one new member joins the organization this month!

Increased Membership Don't trust this obligation to the "other fellow;" do this job yourself. It is easy. This is one way to place the Wisconsin Alumni Association in the strong position it deserves to hold. Our organization has no paid solicitors of membership. Surely each member can secure at least one new membership in January. Kindly volunteer your services to this good cause.

Inasmuch as the first Board of Regents of our University decided "to advertise the school to commence on the first Monday of February, 1850," several alumni feel that each year, on or about the first Monday of February, fitting celebration should be made for the birthday of our famous University.

First Monday In February If local alumni clubs can arrange to celebrate this event annually on the Friday or the Saturday prior to the first Monday of February, members of the University faculty would find it much easier to accept invitations to be present to participate in a program on Friday or on Saturday than on Monday.

Alumni clubs that decide to hold banquets or other celebrations on the Friday or Saturday prior to the first Monday of February, 1916, are invited to correspond with the Alumni Headquarters, 821 State Street, Madison, should speakers from the University be desired.

The following statement from J. J. Pettijohn, '11, now director of the extension division of the University of Indiana, gives an accurate idea of the possibilities of a regular annual celebration of the foundation of the State University.

"The University of Indiana Foundation Day idea is to have on our anniversary meetings in as many counties in the state as we can organize alumni centers. It is to set aside a definite time for the alumni all over the state to get together for the purpose of reviewing some of the past work of the University and of placing before them the immediate program for future development. There are, of course, some sentimental features in these meetings, but primarily we desire to keep the alumni in constant touch with the work we are doing and with our future plans and thereby to receive their intelligent support and co-operation. We believe that having a definite day is the most effective way to do this thing. It becomes a regular calendar date for the alumni just as we have a regular date for our national holidays. Furthermore, it has enabled us to perfect a splendid organization in the state. Last year we held meetings in sixty-four out of ninety-two counties. This year we shall probably have seventy-five meetings. Of course we are hoping to have meetings in all of our counties.

"We do not limit our meetings to Indiana. We had two meetings in California last year, one in New York City, one in Cincinnati, one in Chicago and one in New Orleans.

"The method of conducting these meetings is to have a secretary of the county organization arrange definitely for the county meeting. To this meeting we send a member of the faculty. The members of the faculty meet a few days before Foundation Day and go over a lot of material which is handed in by the various colleges, schools and departments which is a summary of the work of the past year and also plans for future development. At this faculty meeting we also have the President present the larger program for the whole University. We discuss and agree upon the matter to be presented to the alumni at the centers.

"From my own personal experience, I find that these meetings are a great stimulus not only to the alumni of the state but to other people who are interested in the University. We have had a number of requests through the Extension Division asking for suggestions for the Foundation Day program weeks in advance of the meeting. The Alumni Secretary has visited a great many of the county committees and made suggestions with reference to their annual program. A great many friends of the University who are not graduates, have been invited into these Foundation Day meetings. In two instances the senior class of the high school came in. I doubt the advisability of expanding the purpose of these meetings so as to induce very many people to attend them, other than the former students."

Clarence D. Laylin, president of the Ohio State University Association, issued the following proclamation which may be of interest to the many Wisconsin alumni who feel that we also should have an annual Ohio State Day celebration day.

"To All Alumni, ex-Students and Friends of the Ohio State University. GREETING:
 "WHEREAS, the ties that bind us to old Ohio State, whatever be their nature, are strengthened and renewed through anniversaries and other celebrations dedicated to her; and the memories and ideals which cluster round her name are perpetuated and enriched by the observance of the customs which have grown up among those who delight to do her honor:

"NOW, THEREFORE, By virtue of the authority vested in me by the Board of Directors of the Ohio State University Association and in compliance with their direction, I do hereby designate and appoint Friday, the twenty-sixth day of November, 1915, as "Ohio State Day." On that day let us gather at the appointed places and together sing the old songs, renew the old friendships, tell the old stories of college life and learn of the wonderful progress of the University during the past year. Let us on that occasion cultivate every means of keeping permanently in touch with the University and with each other, such as, more particularly, membership in the Ohio State University Association and in local associations of alumni and former students, all to the end that we may, in some small measure, discharge the obligation of love and gratitude which we owe to the institution of which we are so proud."

The Alumni Association of Pennsylvania State College issued a call for help to all alumni this year. We quote a few lines:

"For the first time in the history of Penn State it is found necessary to issue a call to all alumni of the college for a special conference upon a matter of vital importance to our Alma Mater.

Penn State Day

"The body of former students of the college being the most potent agency through which a remedy can be effected has interested itself in the matter and pursuant to action taken by the General Alumni Association at its annual meeting last June the special committee to which the matter was referred has set Friday, November 5—Pennsylvania Day—for a general conference at the college.

"A handful of alumni can accomplish little. Big results depend upon you."

The following is one of the excellent editorials from the Daily Cardinal of December 4th:

"The present agitation over the athletic situation has presented several disagreeable angles. There has been much unfair dogmatic criticism by persons absolutely unqualified to be critics. On the other hand, there have been accusations made by some that Wisconsin is lacking in school spirit, a charge that is utterly unwarranted. And more to be lamented than these has been the tendency shown by a few to rush into print with ill-digested expressions of opinion on the subject. A man who contemplates putting an idea in black and white in a daily paper should hesitate and consider whether he has anything worth printing. If he decides affirmatively, he should consider the phraseology which he uses. The freedom of the press has been woefully abused during the past week by the writers of out of town papers.—H. S. G."

The board of regents will have opportunity to act on the following dignified communication at the January meeting:

"MADISON, Wis., Dec. 1, 1915.

"Regent E. M. McMahon, Chairman Committee of Board of Regents to investigate Department of Physical Education.

"Dear Sir:

"I have just been informed that at a meeting of the Board of University Regents held today you were appointed chairman of a committee of three to make a thorough investigation of the department of Physical Education of the University. I am informed by you that the Board of Regents defined the general functions of your committee to be as follows:

"First. To determine the efficiency of the men who have been directing and administering the several branches of that department during the past five or six years.

"Second. To determine the extent to which there has been the proper co-operation between the different units of the Athletic Department, Department of Physical Education, and the several departments of academic education.

"And finally that the Board of Regents has requested the Alumni Association, student committees, and the Athletic Council to transmit for the consideration of your committee all such information as shall enable your committee to make such recommendations to the January meeting of the Board of Regents as shall make it possible for Wisconsin to make greater progress during the coming five years than has been made during the past five years in athletics.

"With all of this I am in perfect accord. My only regret is that the friends of athletics at Wisconsin did not do this three years ago. As you know I am a Wisconsin man in spirit as well as in name. The athletic success means more to me than the position or honor of being a football coach. During the agitation which has followed the close of the football season I have been credited with statements in the daily press I have not made and to which I do not now subscribe. Then, too, I have been misquoted by men in positions of responsibility in connection with the university, and especially the Department of Physical Education, but as I have already stated I have stood pat.

"Now that the Board of Regents has appointed and defined the functions of your committee, I believe that I have accomplished something for athletics at Wisconsin.

For the same reason I believe that I can better serve my Alma Mater by stating to you now:

"First, that I want your committee and the Board of Regents to know that under no circumstances do I want to be considered for re-election as head football and baseball coach; and, second, that I want to feel free, and want your committee to feel free, to allow me to furnish such information as shall make for a more intelligent solution of the Wisconsin athletic problem.

"In all of this I have as my purpose only the best interests of Wisconsin, for which I have fought both as a football player and football coach.

Respectfully submitted,

WILLIAM J. JUNEAU."

A conference of the Board of Regents, State Board of Education, Board of Visitors, Executive Committee of the Alumni Association, and Regents Faculty Committee was held at the home of President Van Hise on Tuesday evening, November 30th. Questions of University policy and of general University interest were discussed informally. Reverend C. F. Niles, '85, at whose suggestion the conference was called, made a strong plea for a larger conference meeting next year. Some suggestions were also made for a general annual university birthday celebration. The State Central Board of Education and a general scheme for uniform accountancy for educational institutions were discussed.

Governor Emanuel Philipp, C. P. Cary, superintendent of public instruction, Richard Lloyd-Jones, chairman of the Board of Visitors, Charles B. Rogers, president of the Alumni Association, President Charles R. Van Hise, Regent G. D. Jones, Regent Mrs. George Buckstaff, Visitor Mrs. Lynn S. Pease, Theodore Kronshage, of the Central Board, Robert Crawford, secretary of the Alumni Association, and Professor Howard L. Smith were among those to take part in the discussion. While no formal action was taken there was an interesting exchange of ideas. After the conference Mrs. Charles R. Van Hise thoughtfully served light refreshments.

In speaking of alumni loyalty, President Henry Suzzallo, of the University of Washington, recently said:

"Without the loyalty of alumni the University would be an institution of ideas without force. Loyalty gives a university thrust." The true university alumnus is a man of high temper and power, one calm when the crowd is noisy. Emotions of loyalty grow through exercise. Co-operation and loyalty will give the university anything it desires. The failure in the past has not been lack of loyalty but failure to operate as a unit."

A business men's short course will be offered for one week in February. The Regents have appropriated $1,000 to this purpose. The department of political economy has charge of the course.

The report of the committee appointed by the State Engineering Department on the Camp Randall bleacher accident of November 20th has been completed. No personal responsibility for the appalling accident was discovered by this competent and impartial committee.

We announce with much pleasure that Charles Noble Gregory, '71, has, with fine courtesy and sound scholarship, favored the Alumni Association with a biographical tribute to the Honorable Burr W. Jones, '70. This entertaining article will appear in the February issue of the ALUMNI MAGAZINE.

DUES

About three hundred of our members have not yet paid the dues for 1914-1915. Many bills and notices have been mailed. Your credit is good but we must have real money to pay our January accounts; so please mail your 1914-15 and your 1915-16 dues—Four Dollars in all—TODAY!

About 1500 of our members have not yet remitted their 1915-1916 dues. To send out 1500 statements costs money. You can save your association the extra expense by sending your Two Dollars today!

Don't get ill-natured over our financial needs. Here is the good-natured way the Kansas Alumni Association handles the same matter:

CARD OF THANKS

"Old Bill Oversight, who is again acting as fiscal agent for a large number of alumni, wishes to return thanks through the Magazine and assure his patrons that their accounts are being handled with the utmost procrastination.

TESTIMONIALS

"The alumni treasurer can vouch for the truth of the above. In fact 'procrastination' doesn't half express it."

—Graduate Magazine of the University of Kansas."

WHAT IS TRUE AT KANSAS IS TRUE OF OTHER UNIVERSITIES.

Whether we are to move forward, or whether we must mark time waiting for past due dues depends upon those alumni who are in arrears. It is for you to decide and we await your answer. Feeling confident you will respond promptly we urge your prompt remittances and your loyal co-operation.

THE 1915 HOMECOMING

By RAY WILLIAMS, '16
General Chairman

THE 1915 Homecoming, held at the time of the Minnesota game, was marked by several innovations. This year the celebration was directed solely by the students, under the supervision of a general chairman appointed by the "W" Club and the Athletic Board. The women students were represented in the management by a general committee organized under the chairmanship of Ruth Dillman and Margaret Wahl. All the funds collected for financing the celebration were expended for this specific purpose, whereas in the past the surplus was generally turned over to the interclass athletic fund. This permitted the committee to pay the Regimental Band for its services, to provide torches free of charge for the student parade preceding the mass-meeting on Friday night, to supply alumni registration books, to purchase over 1,000 yards of bunting for decorative purposes at Camp Randall, and to stage a humorous stunt between the halves. A luncheon was given for the alumni at noon and a tea was held for them in Lathrop Hall after the game. In the evening the "W" Club gave a dance in the Gymnasium. The Wisconsin Musical Clubs gave a joint concert with the Minnesota Glee Club after the massmeeting on Friday night.

THE SHAKESPEARE COMMEMORATION

BY THOMAS H. DICKINSON

Associate Professor of English

IN the spring of 1915, Professor F. G. Hubbard asked Professor J. F. A. Pyre, Professor O. J. Campbell, Jr., and the writer to constitute a committee to inaugurate plans for the commemoration of the three hundredth anniversary of the death of Shakespeare, which falls on April 23, 1916. This committee held several meetings during the summer and has been in frequent consultation since the opening of the college year. Its plans have been considered by the chairman of the department and the department as a whole, and in certain details have received the official sanction of the President of the University and of the Board of Regents. The time has come at which to lay them before the larger University community with a request for sympathy and co-operation.

Manifestly nothing needs now be said concerning the appropriateness of honoring Shakespeare. It is not even necessary to defend the occasion which elicits the plans. Though commemoration exercises are as a matter of experience more likely to attach themselves to the anniversaries of a man's birth than of his death there is no reason why it should be so. And in this case an all but universal movement for the recognition of the day is itself sanction enough. In laying our plans for the week of April 23, 1916, we are making ourselves a part of a broad program which is covering the United States, and has a strong impetus throughout Europe. The central board of the Drama League has for some time been encouraging its local centers to take part in this commemoration, and the New York Civic Forum, the Ethical Culture Societies of the country, practically all the universities, and many cities, large and small, are preparing to do their share.

In making plans for the local undertaking, it seemed desirable that these be made as comprehensive as possible. It appeared desirable to the committee that they should represent the various aspects of the Shakespeare tradition; that they should appeal to the many types of interest in Shakespeare, the man and dramatist, and that they should call into co-operation the maximum number of participants. In fact, the committee has set it as an ideal that the nature of the theme makes imperative a universal concern in its treatment.

There is perhaps no subject upon which the modern world is so well agreed as upon Shakespeare. Certainly no exponent of the arts holds so substantial a place in the affections and regard of men. Notwithstanding this generality of acclaim, Shakespeare represents a great many things and people approach him from diverse positions. No conspectus that ignores or disguises this variety of interest is just to his position among modern peoples. This many-sidedness of Shakespeare may be considered the utilitarian side of his "universality". No writer has been so broadly and so immediately "useful" as has been Shakespeare during the last three centuries. We cannot limit our conception of Shakespeare to one point of view and do justice to the intellectual many-sidedness of our own time, not to speak of his own variety.

A Wisconsin Production of a Shakespearean Play by a Professional Company of High Rank

And so an early requirement was a diversity in plans which would suggest a comprehensiveness in outlook. Naturally, the first approach to Shakespeare is as a dramatist. It is a commentary on our interest and on much recent history that this approach should for some years have been the secondary one. On account of certain features in the history of the stage Shakespeare has been transferred from the theatre to the study. But no change has taken place in the play itself. It remains primarily great drama. No commemoration of Shakespeare would be a just one that failed to stress the dramatic character of his work. This demand pointed toward an adequate performance of one of Shakespeare's plays. For the purpose of commemorative exercises this performance would have to have a pertinent character. If possible, a performance was desired that attached itself rather closely to Wisconsin, at the same time that it offered an absolutely high standard of professional execution. The committee is in a fair way to promise a performance for the commemorative exercises of a newly produced Shakespearean play, presented by the company of an acknowledged producer and given for the first time on any stage in Madison.

A series of Lectures on Shakespeare

When Shakespeare lost his place in the theatre he was adopted into the study. By the scholar, the critic, and the man of letters his memory has been kept with loving care. These have striven to perpetuate him in his true spirit while other forces were tending to disguise, if not to destroy, this spirit. And they have illuminated and interpreted his pages. Aside from those who produce his plays in his genuine spirit, no one so well has the right to stand for Shakespeare as the scholar who has uncovered new materials for his understanding, the critic whose standards stimulate quicker judgments, and the man of letters who works under his light. It is the expectation of the committee to offer to the University, through co-operation with the lecture committee of the University, a series of three public lectures on the life and genius of Shakespeare.

Shakespeare Masque and Stratford Revels

How is the University as a whole to enter into participation in the events of the commemoration? Certainly if this participation were to compass only the attendance upon the performances and the lectures it would be insufficient. It is the hope of the committee to call the community into a more vital spirit of participation. By so doing we will more nearly achieve the spirit of Shakespeare's England. There come down to us from the times, and even from the neighborhood of Shakespeare, instruments of striking appropriateness for such a purpose. I refer to the dramatic activities of the open-air, expressed in the Progress, the pageant, and masque and the revels. From out of the forms of these or from a combination of their forms can come events for the campus on a May day which will be in the spirit of Elizabethan England. Such a masque or festival should be constructed, written, directed, and played by our own people. Its music and dances should be made at home and should be based on the Elizabethan tradition. In this case, as in the cases of the performance and the lectures, the present is not the time for specific announcements. It is sufficient to say that a committee representing many fields of University activity is now at work and promises to have interesting announcements to make.

The Wisconsin Memorial Volume

There is a sense in which the particular contributions of the University of Wisconsin to the commemoration of the tercentenary of Shakespeare's death will consist in a Shakespeare Memorial Volume, written by members of the department and published by authority of the Board of Regents. This volume will be the tribute of men whose calling has been dignified by the contribution of Shakespeare to the store of English literature. It will take the form of a series of statements of the results of investigation and thought in the wide field of Shakespearean scholarship. The table of contents of the book has not as yet been entirely fixed. It will probably contain a dedicatory ode by Professor W. E. Leonard and a list of papers substantially as follows:

Beatty, Arthur: The Sonnet in Shakespeare's Plays

Burd, H. A.: Ritson on Shakespeare (tentative)

Campbell, O. J. Jr.: A New Source for Richard the Third

Campbell, Miss L. B.: The Shakespeare Jubilee of 1769

Dickinson, T. H.: New Shakespeare Staging

Hubbard, F. G.: A Characteristic of Marlowe's Style

Lathrop, H. B.: Shakespeare's Use of Pliny

Moore, J. R.: The Function of the Song in Shakespeare's Plays

Pyre, J. F. A.: The Place of Pathos in Shakespearean Tragedy

Young, K.: Aspects of Elizabethan Dramatic Criticism

Wann, L.: The Collaboration of Beaumont, Fletcher, and Massinger

It should be said in explanation of the attitude of the department of English and of its committee on tercentenary of Shakespeare that for the present, the department is simply taking a leading part in plans which will be, let us hope, greatly extended to include not only many activities of the University, but representation from the State at large. No narrow program will duly commemorate Shakespeare. As the plans approach maturity they will demand more co-operation by many people. It is the promise of this willing sympathy and help that is now sought by those engaged in the preliminary plans.

CARD OF THANKS

The many alumni who kindly returned, in reply to our notice, their copies of the November issue of the magazine are entitled to thanks from the entire association. By the way, the printer omitted the word "extra" from our notice but he has promised to produce a perfect magazine in January.

THE STATE HISTORICAL MUSEUM

By CHARLES E. BROWN, Curator

CITIZENS of the State of Wisconsin have reason to be proud of the fact that the State Historical Museum has for a number of years occupied a leading position among public institutions of its particular character in the United States.

The State Museum had its beginning as far back as the reorganization of the State Historical Society in 1854. The officers and members of that early day saw the wisdom of establishing a cabinet in which materials of an historical nature of possible future educational value might be assembled and safe-guarded against destruction. Their efforts met with a ready response from the public, gifts of specimens and portraits being received from many generous friends. These early acquisitions were of a very miscellaneous character and included specimens of coins, medals, Indian implements and war relics. They were listed in each printed annual report made by the Executive Committee of the Society to the Governor of the State. Their number steadily increased and by the year 1884, when the Society expanded into the new south wing of the capitol, the historical collections were already of such a character as to win state-wide attention. At that time they were designated as the Cabinet and Gallery. After 1886 these designations were dropped and the more descriptive title of Museum adopted for this department of the State Historical Society's labors.

In August, 1900, when the Society removed to the present State Historical Library Building, the entire upper floor was set aside for the use of the Museum. This space was divided into two large and six smaller halls, a janitor's work-room, storage closets, photographer's dark room, and public toilet rooms. Thus, the Historical Museum was at last properly housed. The erection in 1914 of a new wing to the Library Building further added to the public usefulness of the Museum by providing it with a well-appointed office, store-room, and auditorium, the later being also employed for special exhibition purposes.

So insufficient had been the funds of the Society that not until February, 1908, was it possible to fully organize this department and to secure the services of an experienced administrative officer. Since that date the growth of the Museum has been rapid, its collections increasing at the rate of several thousand specimens a year. Among the contributors have been many alumni of the University of Wisconsin. In 1911, sixty wall and table cases were required to contain the Museum collections. Three years later seventy-five additional exhibition cases were erected as were also four large storage cases to hold the reserve materials. The Museum contains at the present time over 30,000 selected specimens having an estimated value of $100,000. All are properly accessioned, card catalogued and labelled. Two hundred portraits of men and women formerly prominent in state or national history adorn its walls.

The work of the Museum is acknowledged to be of high educational value and appeals to an ever growing constituency of citizens. The yearly attendance of visitors in its halls is not far short of 90,000 persons, these coming from all parts of Wisconsin and from other states. In 1909 a beginning was made in the direction of inviting the attendance at the Museum for purposes of instruction of classes from the city public schools and of classes of students from the University. During the past year there has been an attendance in classes of about 1,300 pupils from educational institutions in Madison and surrounding towns, an increase of over 700 over the previous year. Of fifty-six classes, seventeen came from local public and parochial schools and twenty-five from twenty-three cities and villages in Dane and surrounding counties. Fourteen attended from the departments of art, history, home economics, English, festival course, philosophy, mechanical engineering, pharmacy and agriculture of the University. For some of these classes special exhibits were arranged and instruction given to them by members of the Museum staff or by their own instructors and professors.

Among other visitors were women's clubs, literary societies, Boy Scout, and Camp Fire organizations and conventions. Hundreds of teachers came seeking particular information and inspiration. All were assisted in every possible way.

Each year a number of special exhibits, some of them quite extensive, are made in the Museum. These serve to draw hundreds of visitors to its halls. Among the twenty-six held during 1915 might be mentioned those illustrating "Easter Customs," "The History of the English Bible," and "Early Wisconsin Surveys and Surveyors." One of the best appreciated exhibits consisted of the Autograph letters of the signers of the Declaration of Independence and of the Constitution. The State Historical Society is fortunate in being one of the few possessors in the country of a complete series of these. The Museum held an exceedingly interesting exhibit during November of this year. This consisted of old-fashioned and aboriginal musical instruments. Other exhibits of an equally interesting character will follow this, announcement of which are always made in the University Daily Calendar.

The Madison Art Association makes from three to five special exhibitions of paintings and other works of art in the Museum auditorium every year. The most recent of these held during October showed an exhibition of copies of a number of Italian Masterpieces by Mrs. Samantha L. Huntley, loaned through the courtesy of Mrs. William F. Vilas, and an exhibition of seventy-five paintings by Wisconsin artists. The latter were assembled by the Milwaukee Art Association and are being exhibited in various cities of the State under the auspices of the State Federation of Women's Clubs.

In addition to its other activities the Museum, in co-operation with the local members of the Wisconsin Archaeological Society, has undertaken to encourage an intelligent appreciation of the educational value of the prehistoric Indian mortuary and symbolic earthworks in the region about Madison. Ten groups and solitary examples of these have now been permanently preserved and marked with descriptive metal and wooden tablets. For several years past, during the University summer sessions, excursions of students have been conducted to sites of archaeological and historical interest about Lakes Mendota and Wingra. Reports and circulars descriptive of these have been circulated among the participants and other interested persons.

The chief aim of the State Historical Museum is the preservation of specimens and collections illustrative of the State's history, and their exhibition in such a manner as to contribute in the greatest possible measure to the advancement of education. Every effort is being made to have these present a permanent record of the progress of its inhabitants in the world of thought and industry. Alumni of the University should lend their aid whenever possible to the development of this splendid work. Gifts of a desirable nature will be much appreciated and gratefully acknowledged. A cordial invitation to visit the Museum and understand the value of the Museum is extended to all graduates and undergraduates of Wisconsin.

WISCONSIN ALUMNI CLUBS

Tri-City Wisconsin Club

Moline, Rockford and Davenport

HERE'S a contribution. S'more due later.

Harkening to a call from nowhere in particular and obeying nothing more definite than the age-old herd instinct that throws men of the same stripe together, Wisconsin grads from classes running back to '92 foregathered at the Rock Island Harper House last March and decided they were a club.

Since then, unhampered by constitution, by-laws or any fixed schedule, and handicapped only by President C. H. Maxson, '92, Vice President Walter A. Jannsen, '07, and Secretary-treasurer Geo. M. Sheets, '08, we have been able to keep the herd not only intact but growing. It is altogether stag for no other reason than the common consent of those there first.

Our purpose has been nothing more definite than to give one Wisconsin graduate the chance to say "Hello" to the others every month or so, and to swap stories of his college days over a well filled platter.

The Arrangements Committee planned a baseball game between Wisconsin and Michigan which resulted in a final score of 13 to 7 in favor of the "W" men.

A Wisconsin-Michigan twin party broke into the horrible monotony of regular monthly meetings like The Whamskizzle into the Wisconsin alumni world.

But that was only the beginning.

In Luchmann's Garden, which is Pete Hammacher's out of doors with whitewash on the trees instead of sawdust on the floor, the real festivities took place. Platters heaped high with fried chicken and foaming steins of beer buried the estrangement that the conference has brought between Michigan and Wisconsin, drowned the rivalry aroused by the baseball game and brought forth an evening of song and story.

This ended things until October when we invited ourselves to a banquet of the Moline, Illinois, After Dinner Club at which Senator "Bob" La Follette orated. Bob didn't know we were there until he got up to speak and was greeted with a rousing skyrocket. "That sounds mighty good," he replied. The varsity locomotive drowned out the handclapping at the close of the address.

In November we walked off the campus again and held a Wisconsin-Purdue mixer, at which we allowed ex-Congressman A. F. Dawson, '94 to make the first formal talk at any of our meetings. He told of the old days at Wisconsin when legislators gave students annual railroad passes and the Latin quarter was locked up regularly every week end. Unscheduled speaking by Purdue did not include an account of the football game between the two schools this fall. Gloatings!

Entertainment at the other meetings has been mostly reminiscent. The chief reminiscencers have been H. H. (Hank) Jebens, '04, leader of the first Wisconsin Night Shirt Parade, now leading culprits to justice as county attorney of Scott County, Iowa; Walt Jannsen, '07, who related his exploits as a rough-neck engineer, now superintendent of the Bettendorf Steel Car Foundry; our president, C. H. Maxson, until recently superintendent of the Moline, Illinois, schools, and "Cap" Harry Lea.

We have $1.40 in the treasury and are willing to go the limit for Wisconsin.

CONTRIBUTED BY W. D. RICHARDSON

Meyers Named Captain

Paul E. Meyers, '18, right end on the varsity football team, was elected captain at the banquet held at the conclusion of the season. Meyers hails from Milwaukee and is the first sophomore ever to be elected captain at the University of Wisconsin. Although this was his first year on the varsity, his playing in all of the big games stamps him as one of the best ends that Wisconsin has ever had and the election has met with popular approval of the students. He was kept out of the game by injuries early in the season but was given the right-end berth just before the Chicago game and he remained there in the big games. After the Minnesota game, Coach Williams of the gophers made the statement that Meyers' playing in that game was the best he had ever seen in the West. Myers entered the University of Wisconsin in the fall of 1914, having previously attended Milwaukee Normal school where he was a star in football and basketball. He is a promising candidate for a place on the basketball five this year. He is entered in the chemical engineering course and is a member of Beta Theta Pi.

Present Cup to Juneau

Coach Juneau was presented with a silver loving cup by the members of the 1915 football squad at the football dinner. It was his final meeting with the men in the capacity of coach, as his resignation was turned in to the investigating committee of the board of regents at the December meeting of that body. All of the seniors who made their farewell speeches commended the work of the coach.

Buck on All-American

Since the football season ended, Captain Buck has been given a place on every All-Western and almost every All-American team chosen. Most of the critics have awarded him the highest praise, saying that he is one of the best tackles that ever played football. He is the second Badger to be given an All-American position, Butler being accorded the honor in 1912. Stavrum, Meyers, Byers and E. Simpson have been given prominence in the selection of All-Conference and All-Western teams.

Badgers Finish Fourth

Wisconsin was awarded fourth place in the ratings given conference football teams at the conclusion of the season. Minnesota and Illinois were tied for first, with the University of Chicago third. By holding Minnesota to a tie, Illinois managed to get an even rating, in spite of the fact that Ohio State tied them, 3—3, in a game in which the Illini were crippled by the absence of Pogue and Clark, their two backfield stars.

Illinois and Minnesota Games

The last issue of the ALUMNI MAGAZINE contained a brief summary of the Chicago-Wisconsin game. Following is a brief resume of the Illinois-Wisconsin game and the Minnesota-Wisconsin game, which closed the season:

Illinois 17; Wisconsin 3.

Illinois had little trouble defeating the Badgers at Urbana on November 14th. For the first few minutes, the two teams battled on even terms but after the Illini had worked the ball far down into Wisconsin territory, Macomber, Illini right halfback, dropped back and booted a perfect goal from the 30-yard line. The Badgers evened the score, however, when Simpson, Wisconsin's quarter-back, duplicated the performance. Clark put the Illini in the lead a short time later, however, when he broke through the Wisconsin line and side-stepped and dodged his way across six chalk lines to the Badger goal. In the second half, Nelson scored another touchdown for the Illini, making the score 17 to 3. The Badgers worked the ball to within striking distance of the Illini goal-line several times but lacked the final punch. The substitutes which Coach Juneau injected into the line-up played better football than the regulars, Taylor who replaced E. Simpson at quarter, putting up a star game and making several spectacular runs through the Illinois line. Meyers at right end played a great game, completing two forward passes that netted the Badgers thirty yards each. Byers, regular left half, was unable to start the game owing to an injury received during the week.

Minnesota 20; Wisconsin 3.

In spite of the fact that they were defeated, the Badgers put up the best game of the season against the powerful Gophers on November 20th. During the first half the play was almost even, Wisconsin's defensive stands being wonderful. E. Simpson, left half, put the team into the lead early in the fray when he lifted a perfect field goal between the uprights. The great Gopher backfield on several occasions rushed the ball to within inches of the goal-line only to lose it on downs. Minnesota's first touchdown came as a result of one of the most peculiar plays seen on a western gridiron in years. The Badgers had held for downs in the shadow of their goal and Simpson was forced to punt from behind his goal line. He was hurried and his kick was high. The ball landed on the Wisconsin 20-yard line and bounded back to the 7-yard line where it was recovered by a Gopher. A penalty gave them five yards and it required four tries to put the ball over the line, Bierman, the Gopher captain, managing to squirm his way across the line. There was no further scoring in the first half. With Bierman leading, the Gophers began their march down the field at the opening of the second half and finally Bierman scored again after a magnificent stand by the Badgers. A fifteen yard penalty aided the visitors in scoring their third and final touchdown. After they had carried the ball down to the 10-yard line, Captain Buck broke through the line and threw Johnson, the Gopher right halfback, for a loss. Here Wisconsin was penalized for alleged rough play and Minnesota given the ball on the 1-yard line. On the third down, Wyman went over center for a score. E. Simpson, who replaced Taylor at quarter for Wisconsin brought the Badger rooters to their feet when, at the close of the game, he caught the ball on his own 10-yard line and ran 80-yards before he was forced out of bounds. The Badgers failed to carry the ball across the line, however, and Minnesota punted out of danger shortly after. Had the Badgers played the same brand of football against Chicago and Illinois that they did against the Gophers, the conference race would undoubtedly have been in a more tangled condition than it was. The defense at times, and especially when the goal-line was threatened, was wonderful but the offense was unable to gain ground consistently.

Nineteen Awarded "W's"

The men awarded "W's" at the end of the season for their football services were Captain Buck, Stavrum, Smith, Kreuz, Meyers, Hancock, Gunderson, Pottinger, Taylor, Gardner, G. Simpson, E. Simpson, Byers, McCrory, Filtzer, Koch, Rau, Rieger, and Cummings. Manager Stang was awarded the manager's emblem. The athletic board also awarded "W's" to the members of the victorious cross country team:—Schardt, Merrill, Golden, Benish, and Felton.

- Mar. 11—Northwestern at Evanston.

Basketball is now in the sporting limelight and it appears as if the Badgers would be represented by a strong team. Dr. Meanwell, who has won three conference championships during his connection with the indoor sport, has four regulars from last year's team back this season—Captain Hass and Levis, forwards; and Olson and Smith, guards. For the center position he has two promising candidates — Carlson and Chandler, last year's freshman stars; while he has available also Meyers, the football captain-elect, who is a star basketball player; Morris and Thomas, guards, and several other excellent players. The Badgers will start in with their conference schedule immediately after the Christmas vacation. While the members of the team are claiming no championships, it is believed that they have an excellent chance for another title, although Minnesota, Illinois and Chicago are rated as having excellent prospects.

Badgers Win Cross Country

For the fifth time in ten years, the Badgers captured the conference cross country championship on the day of the Minnesota game. The Badgers finished with a total of 38 points; Ames was second with 52, Ohio State was third with 108; Minnesota and Illinois were tied with 120 each; Purdue was sixth with 123; Kansas was seventh with 149, and Chicago and Iowa were tied for eighth with 182. Individual honors went to Watson, the Minnesota star who broke his own record for the five miles, completing the distance in 26:14. Mason of Illinois was second while Schardt, Felton and Benish of the Badger team came in third, fourth and fifth. Merrill and Golden, the two other members of the Badger team, finished in seventh and twelfth places. Arlie Schardt, '17, was elected captain of the 1916 team. His home is in Milwaukee and he gained his experience as a member of the South Division high school track team.

Baseball Is Attacked

Wisconsin followers of baseball have been awaiting developments on the baseball situation. At the meeting of the Intercollegiate Conference Athletic Association at Chicago it was voted to abolish baseball as an intercollegiate sport. The matter has been put up to the various faculties but a unanimous vote is needed to sustain the action of the conference representatives. The Badger faculty has postponed action until their January meeting but the University of Illinois faculty voted against the measure. Considerable dissatisfaction has been expressed over the retention of the game on account of the difficulties arising out of the summer baseball rule. It now looks as if, in case baseball is abolished, the University of Illinois will withdraw from the conference.

Probe Athletic Situation

Following the resignation of Coach Juneau, who implied in his letter to Regent McMahon that there were obstacles in the way of the development of a team, the regents have appointed an investigative committee which is now going into the athletic situation with a view of presenting a report to the regents at the January meeting. The committee is taking the testimony of coaches and students with a view of correcting any conditions that may exist here at the present time. The question of eligibility requirements, co-operation in the department, afternoon classes are some of the things that will be taken up by the committee which is composed of Regents McMahon, chairman, Florence Buckstaff, and Ben F. Faast.

DEATHS

The announcement November 15th of the death of CHARLES G. CARPENTER, B. C. A. '82, C. E. '85, for many years superintendent of the Milwaukee parks, is sad news to many old students of the University. Mr. Carpenter's boy home was near Madison. He prepared for the University in the old "Prep" school there. He entered as freshman in the fall of 1878 and graduated as an engineer in June, 1882. He was a good student, a hard worker, and a thoroughly likable young fellow. He was modest, straightforward, somewhat blunt of speech, and every inch a man. He successfully followed the profession of civil engineering for some years, but he early devoted his attention to landscape gardening, in which field he greatly excelled. The development of the beautiful park system in the city of Milwaukee during the last twelve years is an enduring monument to his genius and ability.

To his old friends and classmates Charlie Carpenter, or "Old Carp," needs no eulogy. We all loved and respected him, and we all mourn his untimely death.—G. D. J.

EDWIN T. MUNGER, B. E. E. '92, who died on November 14th at Paterson, New Jersey, was buried at Green Bay, on November 18th. Mr. Munger had a steady and continuous rise in his profession. He was at one time president and general manager of the Havana (Ill.) Telephone Company, then superintendent of motive power and equipment of the Metropolitan West Side Elevated of Chicago; general superintendent of the Hudson and Manhattan Railway Company's tubes under the North River into New York City, and recently general manager of the Cumberland County Power and Light Company of Portland, Maine, which position he was forced to relinquish on account of poor health.

Mr. Munger has for years been a valued member of the American Electric Railway Association. He had a wide acquaintance and enviable reputation as an engineer amongst electric railway operating men which made his presence at social and technical meetings much desired. The electric railway industry has lost one of its most practical engineers and the College of Engineering one of its most prominent alumni.—F. C. S.

HOMER C. CLARK, LL. B. '98, a prominent attorney and banker of Neillsville, was killed in an automobile accident while returning to his home from Marshfield on November 3.

NELLIE M. RHOADES, B. A. '05, who died at Stevens Point on November 5, was born at Wausau on March 14, 1884. After graduating from the University, she taught successively at Mauston, Prescott, Pike Lake, and Oconomowoc. She was entering upon her sixth year at the latter place when she was overtaken by the illness which resulted in her death at the River Pines sanitorium. She was a charter member of the Wisconsin chapter of Alpha Xi Delta.

"Newspaper and political circles of the city received with expressions of deep regret yesterday the news of the death of FREDERICK BAGLEY, '08, a member of The Leader editorial staff for the past eight years and one of the most widely known political writers of northern Ohio. He died at the home of his parents in Norwood, Mass., after an illness of six months.

"Mr Bagley became connected with The Leader in a reportorial capacity in 1907, shortly after he left the University of Wisconsin, where he had been a student. From the beginning of his newspaper career he was interested in politics. He "covered" all the big local political campaigns and events during the past six years for The Leader and was looked upon as an expert in his line of work."

Mr. Bagley was a member of the Cleveland Athletic Club of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity, a director of the City Club of Cleveland, and a former president of the Sphinx Club of that city —Cleveland Leader.

Word has been received of the death of MRS. JAMES R. BLACKABY (Alma Michelson), who was at the University from 1905 to 1907, at her home in Oregon, Wisconsin.

Word has been received of the death of MRS. FRANK C. MEYER (Lois Wakefield) '12, of Lancaster.

The following interesting letter from H. C. Olney, manager of the Lakeside Realty Company of Sandpoint, Idaho, shows that the "Wisconsin Spirit" is not confined to the members of the more recent classes of the University:

"I am in receipt of your printed invitation to join the Alumni Asso., also enclosing me a card for my record as a student of the University.

"I should be proud indeed were I entitled to join the association, but I regret to say I am not. I was only a "prep" when I left the institution to enter the volunteer service, and I did not have the "sand" to return and resume my studies when the war closed—in fact, I was obliged to go to work at once, and glad to get the chance. (I have been in very active life ever since.)

"I note on your card you give as years of attendance 1859-60-61-62. I am very hazy as to dates, but think I entered as a prep in the fall of 1860. I do not recall the date I left, but I was appointed to a position in the volunteer army May 1, 1862. I had enlisted in 1861 but was rejected because of being under age and not having my father's consent. Does the record show if I was in the institution in 1861, if so how long?

"I note that you have my baptismal name correct: 'Ceylon Henry Olney.' Truth to tell I had almost forgotten I ever was so named—for I reversed the names—for reasons of my own—after reaching my majority, and for 50 years have sailed under the name of 'Henry C. Olney' or 'H. C. Olney.' In the last year of the war I attached 'Captain' as a prefix—by virtue of being Captain Co. A. 52nd Wis. Infantry. In 1890 I was a Colonel in the National Guard. So I am flattered here by being saluted as 'Colonel.'

"I was honored by being invited to attend the reunion of Wisconsin U students at Spokane nearly a year ago, and much flattered by being invited to deliver the principal address in response to the toast of 'Wisconsin University.' I was flattered by the applause that greeted my effort and the praises bestowed upon it. I distinctly stated in opening that I was not an alumnus—and gave a brief of my short life at the U. Perhaps my recital of early history of the U and references to the first grads and later brilliant stars aided me in making a 'hit.' (I saw the cornerstone of old North hall laid and as a boy I saw Madison and the U develop—for I was only 7 years of age when I went to Madison in '49). I personally know many of the alumni residing in Spokane. It warmed the cockles of my heart to meet the bright men and women from the grand old U. I am proud to be a member of the association—at least by brevet—and to join them around the banquet board. I hear that the annual meeting will be the 19th inst. If so I shall be obliged to be absent, I fear. I have not had any notice of date from its Secretary."

Upon being assured of his eligibility to membership in the Association, Mr.

Olney replied as follows:

"I was greatly pleased to have the assurance of your letter of 24th that I am eligible to membership in the Alumni Association of Wisconsin University, and I hasten to avail myself of your invitation to join it. * * *

"I have been with the boys at Spokane twice since my former letter—Saturday noon lunches at the University club, where the 'boys' seem to have a place in their hearts as well as at the table for 'the oldest' man in the Spokane & Inland Empire Wisconsin Club. (I was 73 years young on the 5th inst.) * * *

"The date for the annual meeting and banquet at Spokane has not been set, but a committee has been appointed to arrange it. I'll be there, when it transpires, you may be sure. Seattle and Tacoma propose a joint affair at one or the other place, and an effort is being made to have 'Prexy' lecture or address the associations there; if he cannot be had, then some other member of the faculty will be invited. And Spokane will ask the speaker to be present at our annual—which, therefore, may be during or about the holidays.

"Should you or any member of the association come this way I will extend the 'glad hand' and try to show the 'Wisconsin Spirit.'"

Speaking of the recently created reorganization committee of the Alumni Association, Senator La Follette in a signed editorial in his magazine said in part:

"Here is an opportunity for real service to the people of Wisconsin. If this committee succeeds in working out a plan of reorganization that will enable Wisconsin alumni in every community quickly and effectively to register their convictions and influence a notable chapter will have been added to the annals of educational freedom. A working and democratically organized association would be a medium through which the people who support the University, could be kept constantly informed regarding the real services it performs, the real spirit of its teaching and investigation, exactly what it costs the state to maintain it, and the millions of money which it annually pays back to the taxpayers in better methods of farming, bigger crops, higher standards in the mechanic arts—and a graduate body trained for the best service which the enlightened citizen can tender the state. * * *

"The need for this is urgent. The step already taken by the alumni is reassuring. Let every loyal alumnus rally to this call to high service!"

Class Secretary—MILTON J. BLAIR, 964 North Ave., Winnetka, Illinois.

The following communication was submitted to the president of the Alumni Association and the members of the Alumni Conference Committee at a meeting of the latter on November 20 by Milton J. Blair, secretary of the class of 1910:

The purpose of this conference should be to effect a reorganization of The Alumni Association to the end that:

- (1) It will be an organization adequate to the needs of alumni service to the University and:
- (2) A central agency for the perpetuation of that loyalty to alma mater that every alumnus has when he leaves the institution.

(1) One ever-present phase of the alumni service is the work that must be done with the state legislature in order that that body may be properly informed as to the requirements of the University before acting on legislative measures affecting the university. The success of alumni, acting as individuals, in connection with the last legislature is indicative of the measure of success that could come from an effort embracing all alumni under the leadership and direction of the Alumni Association. The effectiveness of such an effort can not be denied if you will examine the records of the Alumni Associations of the University of Illinois, of California, of Minnesota, or any other State University where alumni are well organized and are under vigorous, fearless central leadership. Last spring Illinois alumni prevented the legislature from passing inadequate University appropriations. Last year the University of California alumni secured the passage of a bill appropriating $1,300,000.00 in new buildings. University of Minnesota alumni have secured large salary increases for the entire instructional staff, an appropriation of almost a million dollars to enlarge the campus, and as far back as 1905 secured the release of the University from the unbearable supervision of a political board of control.

There are many other such instances to be shown to the skeptic. There are many other fields of alumni service beside the awakening of the people of a state to the value of their University. We find Michigan alumni bringing to a successful close, a million dollar campaign for the erection and endowment of a Michigan Union building. That there are those among our organization who can scoff at the idea of successfully carrying through a campaign among Wisconsin alumni for one quarter of that amount, is proof of the low ebb of our enthusiasm. President Van Hise has said—"The alumni of State Universities are just as loyal in words as the alumni of endowed universities, but those words seldom pass over into deeds." In view of the deeds of our neighbors we can well take these words to apply to ourselves.

(2) A central agency for the perpetuation of loyalty to alma mater.

When Woodrow Wilson, as president of Princeton University, abolished fraternities he said he favored such an action at Princeton because "the side-shows were running the circus." Our situation as applied to the Alumni Association is analogous. Lacking the inspiration and field offered by a strong alumni association the Wisconsin alumnus must let his enthusiasm find expression through some "side-show," a fraternity, a literary society, a drama club or some other undergraduate organization in whose continued success he is interested. The chief reason why the side-show is the object of alumni interest is because it goes out after it and gets it. The Alumni Association should be the one big central agency for this interest, but it will never get it unless it makes a definite campaign for this interest. The interest is there, and he who goes after it hardest will get it. Let us have a big broad-minded administration of the Association, which will attract to its banner the now segregated interests of the various side-shows.

Let us have a magazine which will be expressive of each special undergraduate activity which binds the alumnus to his alma mater. Let news of the literary societies, the dramatic clubs, the athletic department, the fraternities, the musical clubs, and the undergraduate publications, come to the alumnus through the magazine. Let us have a viewpoint on the part of those at the helm which while not neglectful of those 6500 graduates prior to 1910, is considerate of the interests of those 4500 graduates since 1910. Let us have an intelligent handling of reunion week, to the end that class reunions, and all organization reunions will be fostered and bound into an interesting general program.

I wish to place before you these definite suggestions which I hope will have your serious consideration. A study of vigorous and successful alumni associations shows certain cardinal points which have made for their success. We would do well to build up our new alumni organization along similar lines:

1. Active class organizations, each class a unit of the Alumni Association, and each having one representative on the governing board of the Association, chosen by the class.

2. Active local alumni clubs, each one having representation on the governing board in proportion to its units of membership, these representatives to be chosen by the clubs.

3. Election of the officers of the association, a president, vice-president, recording secretary, treasurer and general secretary, the alumni council as above composed. The officers so chosen to compose The Board of Directors of The Alumni Association.

4. Participation of all members of the Alumni Association in the deciding of the questions before the association by mail vote.

5. A general secretaryship, entirely independent of the university and paying a large enough salary to enable a high speed man to give his entire time to the work.

(1)-(2) The class group is bound by the associations of undergraduate days. The club is bound by the associations of today. Each group is equipped to elect its best man to the Alumni Council. A council composed in this manner is bound to be representative and effective.

(3) Placing the power of electing officers in the hands of such a group would mean the selection of a vigorous, interested directorate, supported by every element in the general alumni body.

(4) A mail vote would awaken that individual interest which a request for advice always begets, and would form a body of evidence not to be overlooked. Think of the past legislative session when an alumni vote could have been made on the bills affecting the University. Governor Philipp could not have made the statement that he had no indication that the alumni were opposed to his Central Board bill or the other administration bills which were pending. A mail vote on the question of an alumni-built dormitory might be the means of carrying through a successful campaign. No endowment fund plan should be selected without such a vote.

The perennial answer to the cry of Increased activity on the part of The Alumni Association is that nothing can be done without more members because more members mean more money. A membership campaign should be initiated as soon as a plan of reorganization has been effected which will show Bill Jones way off alone in Bobb, Montana, that this new association is something he wants, and that he, besides getting a large return on his investment, will have the feeling that he is a part of it and can refer to it as his association.

This campaign should be planned as a piece of salesmanship, and the assistance of the sales and advertising experts among the alumni, of whom there are many, should be called for. It should not be put up to a lawyer or a teacher or an engineer. It is a matter of business and should be planned by business men who are used to analyzing their fields of exploitation and know how to make a hard hitting, return-getting appeal.

Let this conference appoint a committee, small enough to be workable, to shape up the recommendations made today, into a reorganization plan, which will meet the requirements of an association worthy of The University of Wisconsin, not only for the present but for all time.

CAMPUS NOTES

The following able committee of the Board of Regents has been appointed to make a thorough investigation of the athletic situation at the University, Edward M. McMahon, '08, of Madison, chairman, Mrs. Florence G. Buckstaff, '86, of Oshkosh, and Ben F. Faast of Eau Claire. Any reliable information in regard to the situation will be gratefully received. The committee desires to secure the facts.

The total registration of the University as announced in the Student Directory is 4868, which is 6 less than last year. The enrollment of 2970 in the College of Letters and Science is an increase of 185 over last year; but this is offset by large decreases in the Colleges of Engineering and Agriculture. The former with an enrollment of 663 shows a decrease of 62 while the latter's total of 972 is 119 less than last year. The College of Law has an enrollment of 175 as compared with 168 of last year.

Both the men and women students are now given dancing lessons free of charge. The girls have had regular classes under their gymnasium instructors for some time; but since no such instruction was offered to the men, the Union Board has supplied the means whereby they might have the opportunity afforded to the women. Fifty dollars has been appropriated by the board and over two hundred students are now taking lessons under Miss Helen Ehler.

As a relic of the days when the College of Agriculture was merely one of the departments in the College of Letters and Science whose courses were handled by a single faculty member, there is preserved in the agricultural library in Agricultural Hall, a small table bearing the following inscription, written by the first dean of the college, William H. Henry.

"The first home of the College of Agriculture was in the University farm house in 1880. In 1881, my wife and self occupied three rooms, the others being given over to the farm help. I started the form of an office by purchasing this table for $2.50 and placing it in the front room, second story of the farm house."

Alumni of the more recent classes will rejoice to learn that at last the University has rid itself of the dome of the old State Capitol which has marred the beauty of the campus for several years.

The women's department of physical education under Miss Trilling is now offering the girl students, who are taking their majors and minors in physical education, an opportunity for practical work here in the city. Twenty girls are now teaching classes in gymnastics, dancing, and games in ten different schools and social centers.

President Van Hise has been appointed chairman of the committee selected by the National Academy of Sciences upon the suggestion of President Wilson to investigate the Panama land slides. The committee, which is composed of three geologists, three geophysicists, one semimologist, one physicist, and three engineers, all of whom are authorities in their respective fields, sailed for the Canal Zone on December 11, under instructions to make a report on the possibility of controlling the slides and the best methods to be employed therein.

"The Admirable Crichton," a Barrie comedy, has been selected by the two dramatic societies, the Edwin Booth and the Red Domino, for their second annual joint production at the Fuller on January 14.

The election of Alfred Vivian, '94, as dean of the College of Agriculture of the Ohio State University at Columbus, gives Mineral Point the distinction of having furnished two of America's leading agricultural colleges with executives. Charles S. Knight, '07, is the other Mineral Point man who is at the head of an institution devoted to the development of a state's agriculture. He was elected dean of the College of Agriculture of the University of Nevada at Reno in 1914.

On November 20, twenty-five prominent alumni met in Madison and organized the alumni advisory council of the Y. M. C. A. which will assist the local officers in interesting the alumni in the work of the Association. The meeting was presided over by Chief Justice Winslow, '75. Among those present were Judge Oscar Hallam, '87, C. W. Bunn, '74, Ernst von Briesen, '00, Judge D. H. Flett, '80, and J. G. Wray, '93.

The athletic council has refused permission for the track team to accept the invitation of the University of California for a dual meet during the spring vacation. The invitation of the western school was extended in accordance with its policy of inviting the winner of the Conference Track Meet to come to the Coast as its guests. Last year Illinois accepted the invitation and upon their return the men were loud in their praise of the hospitality of the Californians. But our faculty, through its council, decided that it was unwise for the University to engage in competition so far away from home.

Artus, the honorary economics fraternity, announces the following elections: Arthur J. Mertzke and Kenneth C. King, both of the class of 1916.

The Board of Regents are giving increased attention to fire protection at the University. Naturally, the first building deserving of consideration is the gymnasium. In order to increase the exit facilities the entrance facing the Y. M. C. A. will be increased to four times its present width and the present stairway will be changed so as to eliminate all of its turns and corners. The Chemistry Building will be rendered safer by the installation of a system of 1,155 fire extinguishers of the automatic overhead sprinkling type. An emergency pumping station with electrical driven pumps will be constructed on the lake shore.

Julia Grace Wales, an instructor in the department of English and the author of the "Wisconsin Peace Plan" and John P. Frazee, '16, one of the University's star debaters and the Wisconsin representative at the War and Peace Conference held at Cornell last summer, sailed on the Ford Peace ship on December 4. The plans for the "peace invasion" were directed by Louis P. Lochner, '09, the secretary of the Chicago Peace Society. Professor E. A. Ross declined the invitation of Mr. Ford.

The following have been elected members of Sigma Delta Chi, honorary journalistic fraternity: Randolph L. Wadsworth, Horace D. Simmons, Frederick W. MacKay, Charles F. Johnston, Norman C. Lucas, Irving M. Tuteur.

Students in the course in journalism conducted the publicity campaign which ended in the annual Tag Day of the Associated Charities of Madison.

Thanks to the activity of the "cubs," who supplied a daily story on the work of the Association for the Cardinal and the two city papers, the receipts from the solicitation were nearly double those of last year. The enrollment in the course this year is 120, an increase of 16 over last year.

The first concert of the annual series given in the Gymnasium by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra under the direction of the Madison Orchestral Association, was rendered on November 16. The second one will be given in January and the final one in March.

Two deaths were recorded among the student body during the month of November. John C. Johnson, '18, a son of Carl A. Johnson, '91, president of the Gisholt Machine Company of Madison, died of heart trouble after an illness of several months. James Huguenin of Racine died after a severe attack of typhoid fever.

The Agricultural Gazette of New South Wales for June 2 contains an article by H. W. Potts, principal of the Hawkesbury Agricultural College, entitled "A Visit to Dr. S. M. Babcock at Wisconsin University" in which the author, after reviewing the work of Dr. Babcock in the field of dairying, pays him the following tribute: "He is a true scientist, and has emphatically demonstrated by his life-long devotion to research in the arena of applied science that unselfish spirit which has adorned the lives of great men."

The twenty-fifth session of the winter dairying course began during the first week of November with an enrollment of 158. The University grants certificates to all who, in addition to completing the full course of twelve weeks, can show two seasons of practical experience in a creamery or a cheese factory. Since the institution of the course in 1890 more than 3,000 students have been in attendance.

O. S. Rice, '99, supervisor of school libraries, is the author of "Lessons on the Use of the School Library," an official publication of the state department of public instruction of Wisconsin.

BOOK NOTES

Life Insurance by Solomon S. Huebner, '02, M. L. '03, professor of insurance and commerce in the University of Pennsylvania. Appleton, $2.00.

Undertaken upon the suggestion of the National Association of Life Underwriters this work has received the endorsement of the education and conservation bureau of that organization. The Association felt the necessity of a clear and concise and non-technical presentation of the problem of life insurance in order to meet the demands of the classroom and of the large number of laymen and solicitors who were interested in the subject. The author's work is thoroughly in line with the suggestion of the Association. It brings together in compact form all the facts, principles and practices of the business.

With an unusual and most credible love story between two Westerners as a background, Zona Gale, '95, in her new novel, voices the cry of the women of the world for peace, and for a realization that above government and race all people are Heart's Kindred (Macmillan, $1.35).
