LARGE CROWD HEARSHOLMES SPEAK IN GYM

New York Preacher Gives Views on Social Problems

"The solution of the present economic problem is the same as the solution of the political problem," said Dr. John Haynes Holmes, speaking before an audience of students and townspeople which crowded the gymnasium last night, on the subject of "From Monarchy to Democracy in Industry."

"The road which we have followed in the political field is the road which we must travel in the economic world. We have rid ourselves of the control of single men and single groups of men in politics and established a political democracy in which all men together own and control the government. That is the last step in political development and it is this same thing, in some measure, which must happen in industry before we have accomplished a true, complete democracy. Either our political democracy is going and a political monarchy will be established, or the economic monarchy itself is coming to exist side by side with the political democracy."

Dr. Holmes traced the course of the development of political government down through the various periods of growth from the idea of the rule of the complete sovereign under the principle of the divine right of kings to the latest political development which was born in the American Revolution when the people decided that they were tired of kings. Side by side with this development has been an analogous development of the idea of industrial democracy, and until the final step in economic democracy has been reached we have "industrially a country divided against

ARGUE ARTISTS MEET GOPHERS HERE MARCH 12

Graduate Students Permitted to Take Part in First Contest Since 1918

Wisconsin will meet Minnesota at Madison on March 12 in the first inter-collegiate debate held here in two years.

For the past two years most of the "Big Ten" schools have suspended inter-collegiate debating activities because of war activities. On this account some of the schools, Wisconsin included, are this year permitting graduate students to take part.

In the debate with Minnesota, the Wisconsin team consisting of Keats S. Chu, '19, I. Arnold Perstein, '21, and Harold M. Groves, '19, will uphold the affirmative of the following question: "Resolved, that in each industrial corporation, the employes, as such, should be permitted to select from among their own ranks at least one-third of the board of directors; all directors to have equal powers and privileges."

While the affirmative is locking horns with the Gophers, a Badger negative trio composed of Frank Kuehl, '20, Baron De H. Meyer, '20, and Leroy Burlingame, '18, will be meeting an affirmative team from Ohio State at Columbus.

The subject of this year's debates has served to elicit considerable interest in all university circles because it has been advanced as a panacea for pressing labor ills.

JUNIORS CHOOSE PLAY AND STAFF

"Cheating Cheaters" New Comedy to Be Given by Class of 1921

Foster Strong was appointed production manager, and Charles Moore business manager of "Cheating Cheaters," the play chosen by the junior play committee yesterday afternoon, for the junior class production.

The cast offers places for a large number, and juniors interested in trying out for the play should sign up Friday at 12 o'clock in 165 Main hall or at a table in Lathrop.

"Cheating Cheaters" is a "comedy of crooks" in three acts. It is one of the latest plays, being written in 1916, and had an enviable New York run. A large royalty is being paid for it and it is one of the most popular recent successes.

APPEAL FOR AID TO RAISE FUNDS

All old clothes will be called for at the various fraternities and sororities on Thursday of this week.

DATE OF N. O. L. TRIALS CHANGED

Tryouts to select the Wisconsin representatives for the Northern Oratorical league contest, to be held here May 7, have been changed from the week of March 1 to March 15, as announced by the public speaking department yesterday. The change was made to give all contestants more time to prepare their orations and the literary societies chance to select their junior orators.

All undergraduates, in good standing, except freshmen, are eligible to compete. Those who expect to try out should not fail to hand their name to Prof. J. M. O'Neill, of the public speaking department, before March 12. All orations must be original compositions on any subject, not exceeding 2,000 words in length. The revised schedule for all the preliminaries follows:

SENATE SETS APRIL 23 AS ELECTION DAY

Fee for Filing Nomination Papers Increased to Meet Expenses

The student senate last night set April 23 as the date for the elections to fill positions for next fall.

To file nomination petitions, candidates must now pay the following amounts: Candidates for class president, $5; vice president, $3; secretary, treasurer, and sergeant-at-arms, $2 each; editor and business manager of the Badger, $10 each; Prom chairman, $5; members of Athletic, Cardinal, Badger, and Forensic boards and student senate, $2.50 each.

Those to be elected on April 23 are: The editor and business manager of the Badger, two sophomores and one freshman to the Badger board, two juniors and one sophomore to the Forensic board, and three members to Cardinal board of control. There are also vacancies to be filled on the Union and Athletic boards.

All nomination petitions must be at the office of the Dean of Men by 5 p. m. April 2. Petitions must bear the signatures of 25 qualified voters and be accompanied by the correct fee and summary of the candidate's activities. Petitions must be enclosed in sealed envelopes.

Reuben C. Chadbourn was last night elected secretary of the student senate. He will fill the position left vacant by the resignation of Whitney N. Seymour.

LEAP YEAR HUNCHES

THE Chi Os, after due deliberation and theoretical thinking, have taken the notion that a hat is after all the thing that captures the man; so they took all their spare pennies and purchased one of those cute little hats that tip clear over on the side. They hung it on the hall tree and the girls take turns wearing the thing. (It depends upon the urgency of the case, and how hard the fellow is to catch.) Lillie wears it often, always on the left side of her blonde head, while Liela puts it on the east side of her capacious dome. The rest of them wear it in between these extremities and get away very cleverly with it. It's an art, this man-catching. It's an art, we say.

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE ADDS 200 NAMES TO Y. W. C. A. ROLL

10 Delegates to Be Sent to National Convention at Cleveland

About 200 new members joined the university Y. W. C. A. yesterday in Lathrop hall in the drive to obtain 1,500 members before Friday noon. The total membership now numbers over 900.

The association wants to send at least 10 delegates to the national conference of the Y. W. C. A. to be held in Cleveland from April 13 to 20, each delegate to represent 100 active members. The membership committee headed by Helen Harper is anxious to have as many university women join as possible, whether they are church members or not. Wisconsin has for some time taken the stand that all women should be eligible for active membership irrespective of church connections, and this is one of the important issues which will be settled at the conference in Cleveland.

According to the present constitution of the national association, a girl may be an associate member without belonging to a church, but may not hold office. At the last conference which was held in Los Angeles five years ago the amendment providing for a personal membership basis was voted upon, but must be ratified at this year's conference before going into effect.

Nearly one-third of the members of the university association are associate members. Thus it is estimated that at least 1,500 members must be obtained before there will be the required quota of 1,000 active members. It will be a strong argument in favor of the personal membership that so many are interested in the Y. W. C. A. who do not belong to churches and are hence barred from taking an active part in activities.

CIVIL ENGINEERS TO MEET AT 7 TONIGHT

The first regular meeting of the Civil Engineering society for the second semester is called for tonight at 7 o'clock. F. E. Volk, Librarian of the Engineering library, will talk on "Our Technical Magazines." Mr. Volk knows the technical magazines as perhaps no one else in the Engineering college. The talk, which is open to everyone, will be followed by the regular business meeting.

REAL SUGAR FOUND GROWING ON TREES; OH, SURE, IT'S WORTH $66 PER POUND

Three of the trees and a closeup of one of the branches showing the sugar deposits.

Sugar valued at $66 a pound has been discovered growing on Douglas fir trees in British Columbia, according to a recent announcement by the American Forestry association. The find has been studied carefully by Prof. John Davidson of British Columbia and verified by the bureau of chemistry in Washington and a similar department in the dominion. The substance is of the greatest scientific value, having its sweetness highly concentrated. It has been known by the Indians for some time, but they concealed it.

Dinner Stories

Johnson had been dining out with some friends. When he left to go home he found himself in a very thick fog. Stumbling along a narrow pathway he found himself descending a flight of steps. This he felt sure was not right, and, hearing footsteps ascending, he paused.

"Pardon me," he said to the dim figure which presently loomed through the fog, "but can you tell me where I am going to?"

"Certainly, sir!" replied the stranger, politely. "If you go straight on, you will walk into the river! I have just come out!"

Aunt Mary had been introduced to all the friends of the family while visiting her brother. Now, woman-like, she was trying to discover if her niece favored any young man especially.

"That young Mr. Smarte who comes here seems a clever sort of man, Maude," she began.

"Yes," replied Maude, "he is clever."

"What is he by profession?"

"A bit of a lawyer and a bit of musician."

"But what is he really?" asked aunty, puzzled.

"Well," exclaimed the girl, "the lawyers say he is a musician, and the musicians say he is a lawyer."

An insurance man tells this

"Not long ago there rushed into one of our offices in the south a very excited woman, so excited in fact that she was out of breath and could speak only with difficulty.

"What's the trouble?" asked one of the clerks.

"I want a policy at once—at once," exclaimed the woman, when she had recovered sufficiently to articulate, "Our home is on fire."

by the managers and owners. "It is an interesting thing," commented Dr. Holmes, "that, whereas we do not recognize such a political government, we find an exactly similar social monarchy."

The second step in political growth, with its corresponding social development, was the period in which the monarchs came to limit the absolute monarchical power. This is the period of the "benevolent despot", and the term has been carried into economy to describe such men as John Patterson of the National Cash Register Co., and Henry Ford, whose rule is still absolute, but who dictate conditions that are to the best advantage of the men working for them. Dr. Holmes pointed out that the essential difference between these two employers is the fact that the former sees his responsibility to his employees only during the time they are actually working for him, while the latter regards as his responsibility the entire existence of the workmen.

"Why should I not testify," asked Dr. Holmes, "that men like Mr. Ford and Mr. Patterson have solved the economic problem. The answer to that question is found in the fact that no matter how attractive these plans sound there are two reasons why we could not, under those conditions, move forward a single step. In the first place, the economic despot, as well as the political despot, has no guarantee that he can transfer to his successor his benevolence; and, secondly, economic despotism has as its successor the corporation, which is an immortal body with no soul at all as contrasted to the benevolent despot which is an organism with a mortal body and an immortal soul."

The last two periods are the periods of limited monarchy, which has for its social analogy the period known as the trade-union period, and the period of political democracy which is characterized by the complete elimination of the rule of the single man. The corresponding social movement is the movement which has been heard in the Russian revolution, in the success of the British labor party, and the labor unrest in this country.

"What is coming," declared Dr. Holmes, "we all should know. How it should come is for us sensible people to decide. All we need is faith in the people, industrially as well as socially."

The meeting, which was arranged under the auspices of the Social Science club, was presided over by Prof. Max Otto, and was followed by a general discussion.

VARIETIES OF SUCCESS

THE head of one of America's finest industrial establishments has a unique method for selecting college men and women for his organization. He demands as a pre-requisite from them proof that they are willing and able to undergo three "unsuccessful" years in the business before they can hope to merit advancement.

This man can readily comprehend that the average American university student does not fully take advantage of his great labyrinth of opportunity. He knows that the man or woman who has delved deepest into curricular and extra-curricular activities will make the biggest success of the "unsuccessful" years.

An obstinate refusal so to adjust oneself in campus life as to permit of getting into the game and participating in all angles of school life is certain to reflect itself in post graduate days. Get the perspective of the busy man in your undergraduate days. Falling into line for a successful career will then be only a matter of making additions rather than having to build an entirely new structure.

For the sake of argument, consider your university career in the light of a business proposition. There are at Wisconsin 130 organizations covering every conceivable phase of student activity. Some of these organizations have as their objective physical stimulation and its consequent beneficial results. There are honor societies for excellence in scholarship and still others where one can get well-grounded first political impressions.

To graduate from this great state university without taking advantage of its many liberal offerings is tantamount to the last degree of self-denial.

IS COLLEGE WORTH WHILE?

A RECENT editorial in The Minneapolis Journal on the subject: "Is College Worth While" had this to say:

"College as a polishing establishment is not worth four years of anyone's time. As an entertainment club it is inferior to the entertainment that can be had at less waste of time and money. As an admission to good society a college diploma is not worth the vellum on which it is engrossed."

A bulletin recently issued shows that less than one per cent of American men are college graduates. It sets forth that 55 per cent of our presidents, 47 per cent of the speakers of the House, 67 per cent of the attorney-generals, and 69 per cent of the justices of supreme court have been college men.

Data gathered by the United States Department of Education from a hundred business houses covering only a few years indicates that only 25 per cent of those who rose to responsible positions and high salaries were non-college men.

The same source shows that among 150,000 men, to every 84 of high school education who find a place in "Who's Who," there are 800 college men who receive that honor.

It has been truthfully said that college will not make a man, but a college will make a good man a better man.

To those who enter college with innate abilities and who attempt to improve themselves by every opportunity the college offers—then college is worth the cost. To others it is a waste of time and money.

What the College Editors Say

OBSTRUCTIONISTS

In Thursday's Daily comment was made on the harm done the university by the element among the student body who damn their alma mater with faint praise. There is another influence that is equally damaging to Washington's best interests. This is the portion of our faculty who are remiss in recognizing that they have a high duty to Washington beyond doing information to their classes.

Chief among this element are those who think, or give the impression of thinking, that every other college in the country, particularly those in the east, is better than Washington. Then there are those who seek to crash out all the color and gaiety from campus life. They would make our life as dull as a December day.

In addition to the above there are two more classifications; those who really have no respect for the personalities or opinions of their students, and those who let their professional jealousies destroy their respect for their fellow faculty members.

Such faculty members are not good for Washington. No matter how valuable their learning they are a detriment to our progress. By building up a clientele, they put a damper on all effort for the university. We need loyalty. In the final analysis the faculty are the permanent element on the campus. If they are not loyal, how can we expect the student body that they train to care anything for their alma mater?

The Daily is not leading an attack on the faculty. It is conducting a campaign to voice the demand of thinking Washingtonians for greater Washington spirit. It is in earnest about uprooting lukewarm loyalty, whether among students or the faculty.—University of Washington Daily.

TEA HOUNDS AND PORCH PUSSIES

There are many critics of student life who claim that a tea dansant is an essential part of a liberal education. They commend the men who dance in the day time. They claim that the social poise gained at such affairs is a valuable asset to the graduate.

There are many who go so far as to say that such recreation is not only non-essential, but altogether harmful. The opponents of matinee dances maintain that red blooded men should not spend their time at such frivolous affairs. They say that athletics at the university have suffered because some men prefer jazz music and the dance hall to the period of training required for inter-collegiate competition.

There are those who agree with Macawber that there is much to be said on both sides; that a student should not shun the company of the opposite sex nor, on the other hand, should he devote a large share of his time to the indoor sport. There may be a middle ground of moderation between the engineer who never fusses and the tea hound who takes an easy course in the Loaf and Smoke school in order to devote more time to the achievement of the desired social equilibrium.

Mr. Jordan lamented the decline of Wisconsin Spirit at the Vocational conference. He claimed that the old vim, vigor and vitality are missing. If this is true, are the women to blame? Are the men who constitute half of the crowd where dancing is an faict responsible? Or is it the tendency of the times when everyone seems to be a devotee of Terpsichore?

Is the university on a par with the "good old days?" If not, why not?

WOMEN STUDENTS MEET TO NOMINATE Y. W. C. A. OFFICERS

Delegates to National Convention at Cleveland Also to Be Selected

A convocation of all women students will be held in concert room of Lathrop hall Friday at 12:30 to vote on nominees for Y. W. C. A. officers for the coming year, and the delegates to the national convention at Cleveland in April. After the reports of the nominating committees, additional nominations from the floor will be called for.

Reports of the membership drive will be made and a debate on the membership basis which comes up for a vote at the national convention will be a part of the meeting. Margaret Wensley will take the affirmative of the question that Y. W. membership should be on a personal basis rather than on evangelical church membership and Mary White the negative. Informal discussion will follow the debate.

The captains of the teams which have been carrying on the active work of the campaign from Feb. 24-28 for faculty subscriptions for the Y. W. budget fund will make returns. They are Orpha Coe, Auta Lyman, Louise Finch, Janet Lindsey, Mary Maxwell, and Virginia Jackson.

AT THE ORPHEUM

Lew Cantor's one act comedy, "Let's Go," with Hazel Vert, Billy Batchelor and Bert Morris, headlines the bill at the Orpheum for the first half of the week. The scene is in a dining car and relies for its humor on the punning of two of the conductors and Miss Vert. Some of their chatter is fresh and amusing. There are two other young women in the cast who sing well, one is a soprano the other a baritone.

Claudia Coleman, "The Smile Girl," who comes from musical comedy gets across strong with her humorous monologues. For a woman to get by with that sort of stuff takes more than ordinary ability, but Miss Coleman succeeds in getting several calls for encores. She imitates the young newlywed who is on her first shopping tour, the girl at the music counter in the ten cent store, etc.

GEORGE WASHINGTON AND JOHN BULL TO BOX AT MOCK PROM

Large Number of Tickets Sold For Green Button Party

Who said girls couldn't enjoy themselves without men? A woman's love for the society of her own kind is being shown by the increasing sale of tickets to "Mock Prom" which is to occur under auspices of Green Button on Saturday afternoon, Feb. 28, in Lathrop hall.

A boxing match between George Washington and John Bull is to be a feature of the program. Likewise, members of Green Button will present a George Washington pantomime which has never before been delivered upon an American stage.

To the entrancing and soul-stirring strains of the Prom fox-trot certain members of Green Button will demonstrate a dummy dance which promises to be unique in the annals of Wisconsin dances.

Election of Prom chairman and the choosing of Prom queen will take place immediately after the dance begins. For this reason it is necessary that everyone be as prompt as possible. If you are not a freshman, come anyway. The children will amuse you.

Parisian gowns and their little French pumps create a lot of approval with their song and dance act.

Swain's cockatoos and unusually intelligent birds that play Home Sweet Home and do any number of unique bird tricks come first on the bill.

And last, but not least, is the Ellis-Nowlan Troupe billed as "The Merry Monarchs of the Sawdust Arena." Theirs is an acrobatic act mixed with some horse play that is funny and successful.

Funny Mag to Go From Coast to Coast

From chilly Superior down to balmy Palm Beach and from Massachusetts to the sunny climes of California, the new Octopus will find its way.

A review of the subscription campaign of the last week reveals the extensive territory that the Octopus will cover. Its subscribers come from all corners of the states, and still all the results of the drive have not been completely tabulated. There are several more solicitors that have not turned in their reports, and the final returns of the campaign can not be given out as yet. However, subscriptions are still being taken at the office in the Union building.

At the same time that the circulation department is making a call for subscriptions, the editorial staff is making an appeal for contributions. With such a broadcast circulation, it is to be expected that Wisconsin will be judged greatly by the character of magazine that it sends out. It is for this reason that the best humor and art that can be mustered is wanted.

That credit may be given, it is necessary that all contributions be signed and in the hands of the editors before March 1.

To stimulate interest among the students, two places have been left open on the board of editors; one is for a junior woman and the other for a junior man. Eligibility to this board is based solely on the amount and merit of the copy that is turned in. This copy may be either writing or drawing. Everything, of course, must be funny for humor is the fundamental of the Octopus.

AGRIC SOCIETY TO GIVE MINIATURE LIVE STOCK SHOW

Saddle and Sirloin, the recently formed organization of livestock enthusiasts of the College of Agriculture, will hold its first big event, in the form of a "Little International" stock show, at the stock pavilion on the afternoon and evening of Saturday, March 13.

Competition will be open to the public, judgments being based upon the excellence of preparation shown by the exhibits rather than the points of the animals themselves. All classes of livestock will be represented, and animals will be furnished from the university barns for the use of students. It is not necessary that the exhibitor be a member of the club in order to compete.

Playmate Is Wanted For Baby Lion

Wanted: A kitten old enough to drink milk out of a saucer and not too rough to be a suitable companion for the baby lion. Such is the desire of the director of the Vilas park zoo.

The little cub wants a playmate with whom he can romp and who will teach him to drink. Last week he was given a puppy companion, two months old, but the puppy proved too much for "Las," as the baby lion is called. Las is now being brought up on the bottle, and if it survives, will be the first lion ever successfully raised in this fashion, according to the keeper.

The little animal, now eight weeks old, is about nine inches long, with a big, ungainly head and a wobbly gait. When it and its twin were born they were named Vi and Las, the combination producing Vilas, but Vi died. Las is still crying for its playmate.

LENROOT NOT A CANDIDATE

Most of the Congressmen
Invited to His Dinner
Sent Regrets

WASHINGTON — To remove any doubt that Theodore Roosevelt's political shoes rightfully belong to Senator Hiram Johnson, candidate for the republican nomination for president, a letter written by Col. Roosevelt in 1916, while Mr. Johnson was governor of California, was made public on Tuesday, in which the former president warmly indorsed Mr. Johnson.

The movement in his behalf for president, Senator Lenroot said, had not received his sanction. He declared he was not and would not be a candidate for nomination. He said he had communicated this decision to Mr. Curtis when the latter invited him to attend the dinner, but that Mr. Curtis went ahead with it.

Senator Lenroot did not attend the dinner planned for his boom last night. Many members of congress were invited, but most of them sent regrets.

BOOST WISCONSIN AT BADGER DINNER HELD IN ST. LOUIS

"We want people to get into the habit of thinking of St. Louis as a strong Badger town and of looking us up when they come through," stated Neil W. Brown, '18, of the St. Louis Badger committee, in a letter to The Daily Cardinal.

A Badger luncheon is to be held Saturday, Feb. 28, at the American Annex hotel by the St. Louis committee, who are anxious to have the attendance of any Wisconsinites who may happen to be in St. Louis on that day. Paul Brown, editor of "America at Work," will speak on "Wisconsin, the State Behind the University."

"We have plans for open meetings to which will be invited youngsters whose decision as to a university is still in a state of flux," continued Mr. Brown. "We shall endeavor to prevent the blasting of their future by such an indiscretion as Ann Arbor, for example. We are proceeding energetically with plans to do our share in financing the Memorial Union building."

Y. W. PLANS NEW IDEA FOR MIXER

Cotillion features will contribute to the enjoyment of the "Pre Prom for All," to be held Friday night in the men's gymnasium from 8 to 12. Y. W. C. A., in making plans for the second mixer of the semester, has endeavored to introduce some new ideas and make the affair one of the best of the year.

The stunt committee, consisting of Dorothy Carcock and Elizabeth Thorkelson, is working up an original stunt which it is reserving for a surprise. Refreshments, another innovation for all-university mixers, are being arranged by a committee, under Mary Babcock.

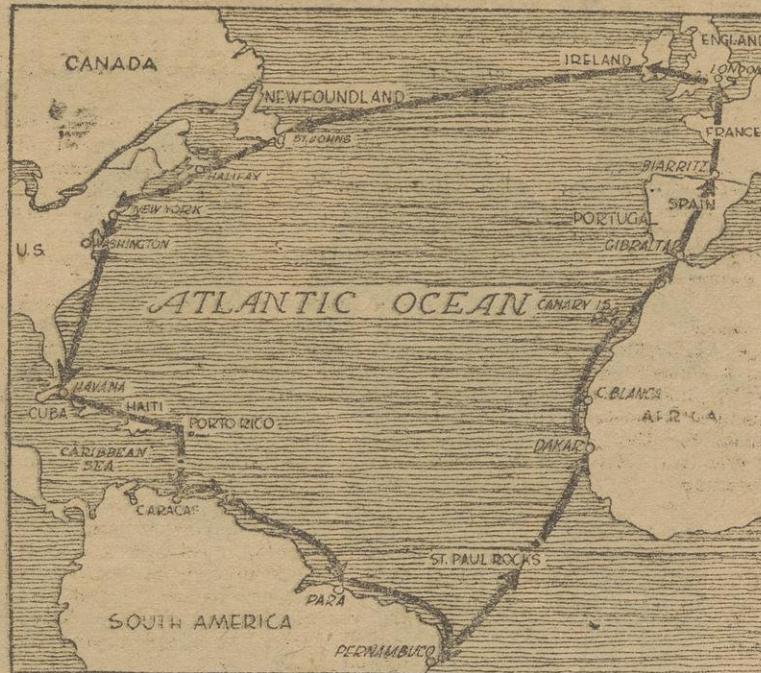

"Everybody should come prepared for a lark," announced Margaret Wensley, chairman of the floor committee, "because we're certainly going to see that the fun never stops for a minute. We're going to make things so interesting that the real Prom will fade into insignificance."

The flight will lead across Spain or Portugal to Biarritz, then along the French coast and across the channel to London. The return flight will be a non-stop trip across the North Atlantic. It is said that fliers from eighteen countries have consented to participate in the flight, which is planned for next summer, and prizes aggregating $100,000 will be given.

EXTENSION DIVISION OFFERS COURSE IN DRYING OF LUMBER

About 100 motion picture films and lantern slides relating to American institutions and ideals have been prepared by the bureau of visual instruction of the Extension division for the use of Badger clubs, schools, parent-teacher and similar organizations.

The film and slides are adapted for meetings devoted to Americanization problems and for lectures to foreigners who desire instruction in America's history and her leading men, institutions, cities, and scenery.

Films on Abraham Lincoln, the death of Nathan Hale, the Glacier National Park, the Grand Canyon, the Keokuk dam, a sane Fourth of July, the Panama Canal, the agricultural and forest resources of the United States, and various cities demonstrate the variety of the films. The lantern slides of the life of George Washington have proved popular among foreign communities, and six sets of 78 slides each have been prepared.

Films and slides on medical subjects, on child welfare, and on the war, including all government films on war subjects, are also available from the bureau, whose resources number two and one-half million feet of films.

DR. M. M. QUAIFE ADDS TO CLASSIC SERIES

"A Woman's Picture of Pioneer Illinois," written by Christiana Holmes Tillson, one of the early settlers in Hillsboro, Ill., has recently been edited by Dr. M. M. Quaife, of the Wisconsin State Historical society, and published in reprint form in the Lakeside Classic series. Less than 10 copies of the original book are in existence, and the book is interesting in that it presents a woman's viewpoint of pioneer life.

For the past four years Dr. Quaife has edited each year some such historical narrative of popular interest for publication in reprint form in the Classic series, which now consists of 16 volumes.

EXTENSION FILMS AID IN AMERICANIZATION

Because wood-using and allied industries are seeking more scientific information about lumber as a raw material, a course in practical kiln drying of lumber, especially planned for dry kiln foremen, wood shop foremen, superintendents, managers, and proprietors, has just been prepared by the Extension division in co-operation with the U. S. Forest Products laboratory.

Improper operation of lumber dry kilns, resulting in badly checked, honey-combed, or unevenly dried lumber, was before the war the source of an annual depreciation of some $20,000,000 in the value of stock, according to estimates prepared recently. If the pre-war methods of drying are to be continued, the losses under present lumber prices would amount to some 50,000,000 annually, it is said.

MONGOLIAN WOMEN SPEND FORTUNES ON SUCH HEADGEAR

A Mongolian wife with all of the orthodox finery which denotes her station in life.

The entire savings of many families in Mongolia, China, are set aside to provide the wives with the necessary finery needed to proclaim to the world her station in life. Such elaborate and cumbersome head dress as this cost even among the poorer classes from $150 to $200, and fabulous sums are spent by the wealthy. Long fingernails are also affected by those who do not have to work. Sometimes the nails attain the length of two inches or more and are enclosed in silver cases. Novel sleeves, usually of different material from the gown and extending far below the hands, are another indication of rank and wealth.

Grandmother might have blushed at donning masculine attire to go skating in. But then, grandmother didn't have the twentieth century ideas of her peppy present-day grand-daughters. And it is a safe wager, too, that she couldn't make as much speed or cut as fancy and as graceful figures on the ice when she was young, as can the modern Wisconsin co-ed who for her winter sports dons a costume that is graceful and appropriate and which does not hinder free movement in active outdoor exercise. And despite grandmother's more conservative ideas, who knows but that if style had decreed tight skirts for her instead of hoopskirts, she, too, would have flouted old-time convention and attired herself to enjoy a regular winter frolic just as the up-to-date Badger co-eds do?
