UNION THEATER SPONSORS ROSALIND NEWMAN ENSEMBLE IN SUMMER DANCE RESIDENCY

The Union Theater's role as an innovative participant in the development of the art of dance will continue this summer as the Theater hosts one of New York's rising young dance ensembles in a four-week residency.

The company, Rosalind Newman and Dancers, will be in Madison June 16 through July 12, the first four weeks of the eight-week summer session, in a residency presented in cooperation with the UW-Madison Department of Dance. During the residency, company members will teach classes in technique, composition, repertory, criticism and arts management in the dance department. Miss Newman will also choreograph a new dance piece to be premiered in Union Theater performances at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday July 11 and 12.

Theater program director Ralph Sandler notes that the summer residency "will parallel the format and tone of the 1978 residency of the Alwin Nikolais Dance Theatre. That residency extended for five weeks and involved an unprecedented number of students, faculty, staff and community residents in a major artistic effort. Both the formal and informal aspects of the Nikolais residency proved productive and educational for everyone involved. With the success of that experiment, the Theater's nationally-recognized commitment to the support of dance took on a new dimension. We anticipate such residencies will be a regular part of the Theater's program in the future," he concluded.

"Newman's is dance that flows, then surprisingly turns percussively sharp, or fleet, or strong. It is dance that requires concentration, but it is always extraordinarily lovely to watch," wrote one reviewer of a recent work by Miss Newman. The dancer / choreographer began her training at age five with Marjorie Guthrie, wife of Woody Guthrie and a former Martha Graham dancer and teacher. Later studies took her to the Connecticut College School of Dance and to the UW-Madison where work for her B.S. included study with Louise Kloepper and Don Redlich. After graduation, she returned to New York where she studied with Merce Cunningham, Dan Wagoner, Viola Farber, Margaret Black and Melissa Hayden. She was an (continued on P. 2, col. 1)

SPRING BRINGS AWARD ANNOUNCEMENTS

It's the season to honor students who have done outstanding work at the UW-Madison and the Wisconsin Union. The Union's Porter Butts Creative Arts and Henry B. Herman awards were announced at the annual Directorate Recognition Banquet in May.

Robert F. Schroeder, a spring MFA graduate in art metals, was named recipient of the Porter Butts Creative Arts Award. Schroeder has been active in the Union arts program for six years both as a volunteer in the Directorate Art and Craft interest area and as an employee in the Union Duplicating Room where his special touch has been evident in Union printed materials. "I've learned as much from the Union program," says Schroeder, "as from my academic experience." His MFA exhibition, "Flamingoes: This is Heaven" was shown in the Memorial Union's Main Gallery this spring.

Two students, Jodi Jacobson and Isabel Camejo-Chin, were chosen for the Henry B. Herman Award. Ms. Jacobson, a junior in Political Science and Economics, was chairperson of the Directorate's Ideas and Issues interest area and has been active in Residence Halls activities. Ms. Camejo-Chin, a senior in Medical Technology, helped to organize a tutorial service for Medical Technology students and was a volunteer teaching assistant in laboratory procedures.

The Union set up both the Butts and Herman awards to honor former staff members. Porter Butts was the Union Director from 1928 through 1968 when he retired. Henry B. Herman was Director of Program and Associate Director from 1965 until his death in 1971.

Ann Kirking, who served as chairperson of the Community Outreach area of the Union Directorate, took four big honors this year. She was named Outstanding Senior by the Alumni Association, and was given the Steenbock Senior Commencement Award by the College of Agriculture and Life Sciences. She also received the Theodore Herfurth Award and the Agriculture and Life Sciences Alumni Association Activities Award.

Peggy Shukur, former Ideas and Issues chairperson, was given the Wisconsin Alumni Association Outstanding Junior Award.

original member of the Farber Company, later joined the Kathryn Posin Dance Company and in 1974 formed her own company.

Miss Newman and her company have performed in the Dance Umbrella, New York Dance Festival, Dance Uptown, the American Theatre Laboratory and the London Dance Umbrella. This summer, the ensemble will also appear at the Milwaukee Performing Arts Center and the prestigious Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival. Miss Newman has also been guest artist and faculty member at Sarah Lawrence College, Cornell, Princeton, Moming in Chicago, New York University, Ohio State and the University of Wisconsin.

The residency is supported in part by grants from the UW School of Education, the Consortium for the Arts and the UW Anonymous Fund. Tickets for the premiere concerts are available now by mail order; for your convenience, an order blank is included in this issue of the Quarterly.

"A CHORUS LINE" COMES TO MADISON

"A Chorus Line," the award-winning Broadway musical, will come to Madison this fall under the joint sponsorship of the Union Theater and the Madison Civic Center. The 1975 musical, which earned seven Tony Awards, the New York Drama Critics' Circle Award and the Pulitzer Prize for Drama, will be presented at 3 and 8 p.m., Sunday, Nov. 16, and 8 p.m. Monday and Tuesday, Nov. 17 and 18, at the Civic Center's Oscar Mayer Theatre.

Conceived, choreographed and directed by Michael Bennett, With music by Marvin Hamlisch, the show provides a funny-sad portrait of theater's "gypsies," the hardworking kids in the chorus. Much of the show's material was gathered by Bennett in weeks of interviews with dancers and he uses the true experiences to best advantage, offering a bright and entertaining look at what makes a dancer dance.

Mail orders for "A Chorus Line" are now being accepted at both the Union Theater and Civic Center box offices.

A FAIRE TO REMEMBER

The fifth annual Renaissance Market-Faire will take place this summer on Sunday, July 27, from noon to 6 p.m. on the State Street and Library malls. The joyous celebration of medieval and Renaissance music, drama, dance and visual arts will again recreate the English Faires of the 16th and 17th centuries.

Buskers, craftsmen, poets, mimists, jugglers, scholars, acrobats, storytellers . . . will all be on hand to make the day memorable.

OUTING CENTER CONTEST YIELDS NAME

The Memorial Union Outing Center is now called "Pack, Pole & Parka."

In an attempt to gain some customer input in the process, the new name was picked from 173 entries in a contest held during the month of April. A panel of judges used a process of elimination to narrow the possible entries to three, at which time sketches were done to determine which would be the best for visual effect.
