HUGE PAGEANT ARRANGED FOR COMING WEEK

Festival of Song and Light To Be Presented By Students

On Friday of next week, Prof. E. B. Gordon's classes in Community Music, and Prof. P. W. Dykema's classes in Festivals and Pageantry will combine to present a Festival of Song and Light.

The festival is to be somewhat similar to that presented by the festival classes last summer with complete success. According to Professor Gordon, "The basic idea of the festival is the presentation of the four essentials of human life as given by Dr. Cabot in his 'What Men Are Like.' These are Work, Love, Play, and Worship.

These essentials of life are to be presented by means of tableaux, processional and pantomime. A choice is made up of part of the audience at the Monday evening informal song-fests will furnish the musical background for the pageant.

A novelty of the pageant will be in the form of an interpreter, the part to be taken by the Sioux Indian, Mr. F. P. Frazier, in attendance here. Mr. Frazier, who will appear in full Sioux regalia as the Indian seer or prophet, will interpret the successive tableaux for the audience.

In the lighting, the more interesting effects of last summer's festival will be repeated and several new features will be added. The lighting is quite an important part of the festival, and that this summer promises to outdo anything attempted here before.

"The purpose of presenting the festival and pageant is threefold," says Professor Gordon. "It will provide an hour's entertainment for the summer session students; it will show an example of the co-operative work of the different classes; and lastly, it will give practical experience to the students in Festival and Pageant production."

DANCING CLASSES TO FEATURE FETE

Aesthetic dancing by university girls of Miss Margaret H'Doubler's Interpretive dancing classes will be one of the features of the afternoon program of the Garden Fete at the Brittingham estate, Tuesday.

Besides a varied program of shows, stunts, and airplane flights, ball room dancing at the pavilion will start at two o'clock and continue until eight. The music will be furnished by Thompson's orchestra.

A buffet luncheon will be served on the grounds and entertainment of all varieties will be furnished throughout the afternoon.

The purpose of the fete, which is open to university students as well as to the general public, is to raise funds for a girl's club in the city.

STUDENTS INSTALL ELECTRIC FURNACE

A 60-kilowatt electric brass melting furnace of 200 pounds capacity, designed and operated by students, has recently been installed in the Chemical Engineering laboratories. This probably is the smallest commercial furnace of this type in the country, and Wisconsin is the only university which has one.

Devereux Players Present Usual High Type of Performance in Production, "Richelieu"

Equal in every respect to the high standard of production they have set for themselves was the presentation of "Richelieu" last night, the initial production of the Devereux company in their three day stand at the Open Air theatre.

Every member of the cast took his part with the same display of ability that has characterized the work of the Devereux players here for the past three seasons. The simple stage settings and properties throw upon the actors the need of portraying to the utmost the artistic possibilities of their production. And this they do, their creative abilities being most marked.

Clifford Devereux himself in the role of Richelieu the Cardinal depicted that dynamic figure with a skill that marks him as a truly great artist. The varying moods of the old man grown gray in his service to his country were portrayed with an evident consciousness of feeling. The sudden changes from a witty, almost capricious gentleman to a fiery, statesman, filled with patriotic and yet selfish interests to ever increase his power, and then to a tottering, relenting penitent whose work is done, all were accomplished to the apparent approval of a large and appreciative audience.

Julie de Mortemar, the ward of Richelieu, was played by Zinata Graf, supporting star of the company. Her part was taken with ease and grace that showed her the possessor of many more abilities than the author permitted in the play. She was charming in the more girlish moments, but rises to the more impassioned portrayal required in the depiction of the mature woman who seeks to prevent the death of her husband.

In the supporting cast the work of Edmonde Forde as Adrian de Mauprat was outstanding.

DOUBLES ENTRIES IN TENNIS TOURNEY TO CLOSE SATURDAY

Battles and Wigglesworth Compete for Top Honors in Singles

Entries for the all university doubles in the summer school tennis tournament will close Saturday, July 16. All those planning to enter must sign up at once at the gymnasium. B. A. Hagan, who is in charge of the affair, says the winners of first place will receive silver medals, while the pair capturing second honors will receive bronze medals. As the doubles is an all university event, a large number of mixed teams are expected to sign up, and some keen competition is looked for. Several mixed teams have already signed up for play, but Mr. Hagan plans on having two or three times this number take part.

Practically all games of the singles tournament have already been played. Semi-finals start next week. The last games of the singles before the semi-finals will be played off today between Graham Battles of Peoria, Illinois, and James Wigglesworth of Wilmette. Both men have been playing spectacular tennis, and by defeating six of their opponents in the preliminaries have earned the right to play in the last round.

DETROIT DEVOTEES OF DANCING JOIN POPULAR CLASS

The goddess, Terpsichore, has an enthusiastic following in Detroit, if one may judge from the delegation of Detroit physical eds who are enrolled in Miss Margaret H'Doubler's interpretive dancing classes. The number includes the following: Misses Whittemore, Levin, Hiddleston, Meyer, Lampkin, Wilson, Richardson, Ladner, Hamilton, Hoffman, Murray, Brain, Smith, Kunze, Gibson, McDonald, Aid, Wynne, Conway, and Vrohman.

"Miss H'Doubler visited Detroit last spring and conducted classes in interpretive dancing for teachers of physical education, and so popular was the work, that we were attracted to take further work with Miss H'Doubler at Wisconsin," is the explanation made by one of the Detroit girls.

The entire enrollment from the Michigan city totals 40, with 20 of that number "tripping the light fantastic."

Dig Up Your Own Funny Names Say We; New Directory Offers Usual Supply

Although it's a great temptation to apply for admission to the Immortelle Academy and enumerate the queer names found in this summer's student directory, we propose to refrain and let you hunt them out for yourself. There is an added attraction in digging up buried treasure with your own shovel. But be sure that you don't overlook Golden Dagger of Urbana, such a shining point that we had to call your attention to it.

However, there are some queer towns represented, and at the risk of offending some native's village pride, we want to mention them. We are forced to take a friend's word for it that 1600 different municipalities are represented. The other figures are from actual count.

Milwaukee sends us 300 and Chicago 150 students. We have 52 students from other countries, not to mention a score from Oshkosh.

Just to mention some of the towns, there is Bob Burrows of Nacogdoches, Texas, three representatives of Spooner, Wisconsin, a native of Bad Axe, Michigan, on the scene, and Jessie Cobbs of Nowata, Oklahoma. Even a lone figure from Alpha, Illinois, the first and, in this case, the last.

DEVIL'S LAKE IS SCENE OF JAUNT THIS WEEK-END

Geology Department Conducts Excursion Leaving at 8 Tomorrow

On Saturday morning at eight o'clock the members of the geology department, including the classes in glaciation, physiography, and geology, will conduct an excursion to Devil's lake.

About 250 students will take the trip, which is also open to the public. The members of the department will make observations of the rock formations in the Devil's lake region, which provides excellent material for geological field-work.

A special train will leave from the Madison C. & N. W. depot at 8 a. m., and will return at 3 p. m. The round trip fare is $2.54. Those planning to take the trip should come prepared for rough climbing, and should be provided with lunches.

Devil's lake is of glacial formation, and is young geologically speaking, compared to the bluffs. The latter were part of the original Isle of Wisconsin, the first land to appear above the surface of the water aeons ago. Later the plateau and mountain range of which Baraboo hills are the low remains sunk beneath the surface and were again elevated at a later date.

Not until the last glacial period, some 10,000 years ago was the lake formed. A glacier dammed up the Wisconsin river and the water, backing up, sought a new channel through the bed of Devil's lake which had been scooped out at an early period. After the glacier disappeared, the river again sought its old bed, and the lake remains.

O'NEILL TALKS ON SPEECH EDUCATION

The need for trained research workers to test and prove the true usages of the English language and eliminate contradictory opinions supported by an equal weight of authority, was pointed out yesterday by Prof. J. M. O'Neill of the Speech department in a lecture on "The Professional Outlook in Speech Education."

Teachers of speech are no longer exclusively artists proud of the brilliance of prize pupils, declared the speaker, they are becoming scientific seekers after truth for the "greater good of the greater number." As an example of the plight of attention from the few who need it least to the many who need it most, Professor O'Neill cited the recent change in the name of the National Association of Teachers of Public Speaking to the National Association of Teachers of Speech. Public speaking is giving first place to private speech. It is the inevitable victory of the majority over the minority.

If today's prophecy is to be fulfilled, continued the speaker, and the field of speech scientifically investigated and the results of research work conscientiously applied, we must realize the seriousness of this great profession and not treat the study of English grammar and literature in our schools as a sideshow. Schools must be prepared to engage trained workers in this field and refuse to rely on the odd moments of a professional mathematics teacher, as is so disastrously the case in many small schools.

The student of speech cannot be compared to Woodrow Wilson's pure scholar whose mind was not a stage depicting action but a museum filled with a valuable collection, explained Professor O'Neill in conclusion, for speech means communication and cannot be entirely selfish.

MODEL OF POWERFUL GUN IS USED TO
"SHOOT" RIVETS INTO PLATES OF STEEL

Inventor Miller Reece Hutchinson driving rivets with model of the marvel gun.

That the working model of the new marvel gun, invented by Dr. Miller Reece Hutchinson and Hudson Maxim, has considerable of the terrific power of the gun itself is shown by the above demonstration. Dr. Hutchinson is "shooting" three-inch bolts of half inch diameter through steel plating. The gun model resembles the common compressed air riveter in many respects. The gun itself will shoot a five-ton projectile from 200 to 300 miles and travel from one to three miles a second.

Judge.—Bein' a New Student Tries Out a Mixer, Sad Tale of Which He Recounts

Everybody was telling me what a grand time that they had at the first mixer that was held at Lathrop at the end of the first week of summer session and so I made up my mind that I would go to the next one and find out what they were like. There is a senior in my astronomy class who I got to know and he asks me on the morning of Friday last if I was going to the mixer that night and I says that I was if I could find some guy to go with. Then he says that I could go with him if I wanted to and I said I would like to do so. So he says that I should meet him at eight o'clock at his rooming house and I said I would.

At eight o'clock that evening I met him at the appointed place, and after we told each other to get familiar and drop the "Mister," Al and I walks down toward Lathrop. It was about the first time that I had ever been in Lathrop, me being a new student here but Al seemed to know the way pretty well and I put all my trust in him. In the gym the program was well under way and there was some speaker on the stage talking but Al told me not to mind the orator but to follow him. So keeping one eye on Al and another on the crowd in general I made my first appearance in Lathrop Hall. Al sure seemed to know the way and led me straight to the side lines from which point of vantage he proceeded to look them over.

I asked him all the questions that I could think of about the event and he answered them after the fashion of one who seemed absorbed in the supernatural. By this time I had gotten pretty warm and the program had reached a stage of superlative dryness. I could see by Al's face that he wasn't going to stay there much longer and so I asked him what he had up his sleeve. Presently Al confided to me that he saw a girl that he knew and wondered if I'd be sore if he'd leave me there in the midst of all the excitement etc. Of course I had to tell him to go ahead and enjoy himself and that I would take care of myself as best I could. And the last I saw of Al that evening was Al and Co. leaving said hall. Then I began to look out for myself and I began to comb the audience for a familiar face but in vain,

As I pondered weak and weary, out of the gloom came no one other Mr. _____ with whom I had become acquainted the previous week. We stalled and gossiped for a while and after listening to the sad catastrophe which had overtaken me in the loss of friend Al, to my great satisfaction and relief he confided to me that he was also alone and nearly broke. The latter statement caused my worries to cease because break away and fly the coop with a lady because of his financial embarrassment. I found out that the fellows call him "Dutch" and I also divulged my nom de guerre to the gentleman. It was then at that stage in the program where all the customers were supposed to group themselves to the month in which they were born and I could tell that Dutch had seen service because he suggested that we be neutral for a little while and then go to the month that looked the best.

I agreed with him on this point but when it came to a show down there really wasn't much choice so we thought we'd be honest and go to August as both having been born in that month. About five months had inflicted their acts in the poor customers and there seemed to be a sort of a lull in the program. All of a sudden from out a corner comes the strains of some popular Jazz hymn and all the couples in the near vicinity took the only opportunity that had been given to them to enjoy themselves and began to dance to the music of the ragtime troubador. Well, maybe that guy that started that music didn't mean anything bad by it but it sure had its bad effect at least to some extent me.

Up to that time Dutch had seemed interested in the program at least in some measure, but when that piper began to play that old piano Dutch was gone. In an instant he surveyed the surroundings and a second later Dutch was dancing with a lady friend of his. I then for the second time that evening witnessed a sad departure when Dutch and Co. left me in the lurch. By this time any normal person would have decided to remain single and not risk any more such partnerships. But I still believed that all good things come by pairs even twins and so I found a Mr. _____ from Kansas who was a lonely as I

SESSION ENDS; PASS 600 LAWS

Solons Quit Late Thursday; 48 Bills Are Vetoed

The fifty-fifth session of the legislature came to an end at 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon without ceremony. The few members present passed a resolution setting the time for ending their work, and then waited until the hour came.

The final day was marked by activity in the governor's office where seven votes, including the three large park projects, the Peterson school board bill, and the experience rating measure were prepared. Appropriations aggregating $24,000,000 received the governor's signature.

Practically 600 laws were enacted by the past legislature, with 48 vetoed by Gov. Blaine. This represents a smaller amount of legislation than during any previous session for years.

The last days were marked by Gov. Blaine's vetoes, which sent down the junior college bill, the newspaper bill, and other important measures to the scrap heap.

and after we had talked over the monotony we decided to go to a show.

We walked in to the lobby of the Grand and came face to face with a sign reading, "Next show at 2:30 p. m."

"Why is it that late?" we both said at once and he pulled out his watch and found out it was 11:10. As we salied out of the theatre defeated in purpose and sore, "Well, we sure had tough luck tonight," he says. "Well, anyway," I says, "It's a fine night for sleeping and I'm as tired as they make'm."

LET'S TALK IT OVER

IN AN enlightened age such as this it would seem that the time-worn system of proctoring examinations would not be necessary. Still the cry goes up from the faculty "we want more proctors." Faculty and students are divided among themselves as to the relative merits or demerits of the honor system.

Men and women of university age and prep school training should have annexed a sufficient code of ethics to refrain from cribbing during examinations.

But the number of students sentenced by the Student Senate each year for cribbing would prove that the practice does exist at Wisconsin.

Moralists and sociologists can come to practical explanation of this. Perhaps it is the inherent desire of man to get something for nothing. Perhaps it is the students' defiant answer to the rigid proctoring that now prevails during examinations. He may feel that, being so watched and so suspected, he will see if he can "put it over." He sees the challenge and accepts it.

Some instructors at Wisconsin have been daring enough to trust their students during exams with no proctoring system in evidence. Their experience has been that in every such case their faith has been justified. The temptations were removed; the student felt that he was placed upon his honor and he responded as all normal beings would respond.

This would tend to refute the idea that there were students who had the cribbing mania.

The honor system embraces a three-fold plan: 1. No student shall receive aid from previously prepared "ponies" or from another student; 2. No student shall give aid to another; 3. Each student is in honor bound to report any or all cases of dishonesty that he may become cognizant of.

Opponents of the honor system declare that the proctor system is necessary, that in every class, as in every community there are exceptional students to whom cribbing appeals as a necessary safety valve or sport. Opponents of the honor system declare that self-respecting students pay no more attention to the proctor than they would to a cop walking his beat. They see in the proctor only a symbol of law and order in an attempt to provide fair play for everyone.

Advocates of the honor system contend, on the other hand, that fair play to all means that the honor system must be instituted as otherwise fairness to the honest student is impossible.

Many believe that Wisconsin is ready for the honor system. Others are still skeptical and wish to learn first of the success it has had in other schools. During the summer session the university attracts students from all parts of the United States. Students from institutions where the honor system now prevails are among the number. The Cardinal would welcome communications on this question.

Help us determine whether Wisconsin is ready for the honor system, whether it is workable and worth while.

MISS McCARTHY IN READING YESTERDAY

"The finest war story I have read," was Miss Margaret McCarthy's characterization of "England to America," which she read in the Music hall auditorium at 3:30 yesterday. Drinkwater in his introduction to the book form of Margaret Prescott Montague's story states it is a great compliment to English people, said Miss McCarthy.

"The Harbor," by Winifred Letts, "A Gentleman from Stratford Sees the Play," by Lady Morton, and the exquisite "Slumber Songs of the Madonna," by Alfred Noyes, which Miss McCarthy thinks should be set to music, made up the rest of the afternoon's entertainment.

TWINHOFEL WRITES IN SCIENCE PAPER

"Like stairways for giants, they begin at the level of the sea—possibly below the sea-level—and continue into the interior as far as the eye is able to follow," reads a description of the terraces of Antioch island presented in an article by Prof. W. H. Twinhofel, of the geology department of the University of Wisconsin, and W. H. Conine in a recent issue of the American Journal of Science.

Five students from Wisconsin and one from Yale under the direction of Professors Twinhofel and Conine studied this interesting formation in 1919 and the results of their investigation are detailed in the article.

"IT PAYS TO BUY IN MADISON"

DIRECTORY IS PRINTED WITH ALUMNI NAMES

Complete Alumni Directory is Off the Press and Distributed to Alumni

The first alumni directory in eleven years has been published by the university and many thousand copies have been mailed to members of the Alumni association. The book is a very complete piece of work and has met with much satisfaction everywhere.

The new directory is composed of three parts, the first of which is devoted to the Board of Regents. Part two consists of names and addresses of graduates under alphabetical, geographical, and chronological arrangements, while part three contains the names of members of the faculty to June 1919. The eight pages of copy for part one were prepared for the University Editor by the office Secretary of the Regents.

The sixty-eight pages of copy for part three, together with three pages of statistics, were prepared under supervision of the Secretary of the Faculty. The remaining 590 pages were prepared under the direction of the Alumni Recorder. Complete copy for this major portion of the publication was carefully typewritten and painstakingly copy-read by competent assistants of the Alumni Recorder so that an accurate copy as could be prepared was turned over in its entirety to the University Editor on February 1, 1920. Naturally the names from the last class included and the last degrees included are those of 1919.

More than a year elapsed between the date the alumni section copy was submitted and the delivery of any copies for mailing. However, when the Alumni Headquarters learned that the printing was moving so slowly a request was filed and subsequently granted permitting the Alumni Association to check the alphabetical list with address changes of members of the Association up to within six months of publication. The geographical list could not be crosschecked with these corrections, so in case the alphabetical list and the geographical list are at variance, use the address found in the alphabetical list. While many addresses of graduates who are not members of the Association have naturally changed during the lapse of an entire year, still first class mail will probably reach most of the graduates.

Members of the Alumni Association can help the University Department of Alumni Records by reporting not only personal changes of address but by sending to the Alumni Recorder up-to-date addresses of graduates or former students who are not members of the Association and whose addresses are either not in the alumni record files at all whose present addresses are out of date.

Names of all graduates are supposed to be included in this new directory. The names of married women usually occur twice in the alphabetical list, once under the maiden name without address, and once under the married name with address. In cases where the name of a woman has acquired by marriage has no address, and also in the cases of men whose names occur without address, the Alumni Recorder has no address on record or at least first class mail has been returned from the last address filed.

A supplement which will contain the names of former students who are members of the General Alumni association is now under way. Copy for this section was submitted with the rest in February, 1920, but for some reason was omitted from the directory.

A list of names sent to this office for suggestions as to the renaming of the Fuller Opera House include, The Playwright, Mammoth Harding, Madisonian and Old Reliable Theater.

LORENZ MAY DIRECT NEW VET HOSPITAL

Special Commission Definitely Selects Farwell's Point, Madison, As Hospital Site

Farwell's point, near Governor's Island, Madison, was selected by the special commission as the site for the new $250,000 Soldiers' Memorial hospital. As soon as a special sub-committee now working on plans, reports, construction will be started.

The Wisconsin Memorial hospital will be devoted to care of the shell-shocked and other mental cases developed among soldiers of the past war. It will in all likelihood be directed by Maj. W. F. Lorenz, of the Mendota Psychiatric Institute, who headed the 107th medical unit in the 32nd division overseas.

At a meeting July 18, the location of the hospital was tentatively selected as between Waupaca and Farwell's point, in favor of the latter. Following an offer from La Crosse, the commission directed Gov. Blaine to obtain an opinion from the attorney general as to whether the site might be selected on other than state owned property.

The attorney general held Thursday that it is not within the power of the commission to select the location of the hospital in view of the statute which declared that the building had to be constructed on state-owned property. As a result the Madison location was arrived at.

No patient can be used for clinical teaching under a ruling of the commission, the action being taken to prevent any attempt by the medical college of the University of Wisconsin from using the hospital as a clinical laboratory.

Provision is expected to be made for 200 beds in order to care for all cases. There are at present 150 men at Mendota suffering from mental illness who can be transferred, and many more men are living in the state who need immediate care, it is said.

At The Theaters

AT THE STRAND

"The Rider of the King Log," the last feature production of Holman Day, presented by Associated Exhibitors and showing at the Strand Theatre, has found within itself a theme that burns with the inspiration of actual human experience and emotion.

It is the theme of the big outdoors, the great Maine woods, the roaring cataracts. The intertwining of these great emotional, though inanimate, actors with human beings strong in courage, or weak in cowardice, presents a story tense and gripping in its majesty.

The action of the story revolves about the efforts, by fair means or foul, of a powerful corporation to rob old "X K." "The Rider of the King Log" of his river rights. Old "X K." is a mighty, rugged son of the forest with a tender spot in his heart as big as all out-doors for his motherless daughter.

Death overcomes "X. K.", and he faces it as courageously as he faced life, but his dauntless spirit lives on in his daughter, who fights to the finish and wins through love. There will also be shown a one reel "Snub" Pollard Comedy "Where's The Fire?"

VESPER SERVICES IN OPEN THEATER SUNDAY EVENINGS

The vesper services, held under the auspices of the Campus Religious council at 7 p. m. every Sunday evening in the open air theatre for the benefit of university students, is the feature of the religious activities of the summer session.

The Campus Religious council is composed of all the student churches and religious organizations. All Sunday evening services in the student churches have been set aside for this point service.

This Sunday evening the Rev. Hope Lumpkin, rector of the Grace church, will give a sermon on "The Freedom from Fear." There will be special music.

On the Sunday evenings remaining in the summer school period, a series of cost lunches will be served by the churches co-operating in the vesper services. The first of the series will be held next Sunday at 5:30 p. m. near the open air theater under the auspices of the Methodist church. All university students of any denomination are urged to come. The lunch will be served for twenty five cents.

STUDENTS MAKING CHEMICALS HERE

Eight advanced students are enrolled in the course in chemical manufacture which is being given at the summer session. The students are making chemicals for scientists in the university at a cost far below that of the market. Prof. Glenn S. Skinner is in charge.

"Most of the chemicals now available for experimental work are obtained only at excessively high prices and the department is compelled to make the choice between excessively high laboratory fees or curtailment of laboratory instruction. It will be possible with the laboratory facilities available during the summer months to manufacture these chemicals more cheaply than they can be purchased, thus materially cheapening the cost to the student," said Prof. J. H. Mathews, director of the course in Chemistry.

The students work from 9 to 10 hours a day and receive 40 cents an hour for their time. Only the ablest men were selected for the work with the view to giving them intensive training in practical organic chemistry and experience in larger scale operation.

LANGUAGE TEACHERS TO STUDY IN EUROPE

Five members of the Romance languages faculty of the university will go abroad this summer for study in foreign universities.

Prof. Hugh A. Smith, chairman of the department, will be away a year, spending part of the time traveling in Italy and Spain and lecturing during the second semester at the University of Paris.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Greenleaf, instructors in the department, will study at the University of Madrid and at the University of Grenoble. Mr. and Mrs. S. G. A. Rogers will spend a year in France studying at the University of Paris, and B. R. Jordan will spend the summer at the University of Paris.

SAYS COLLEGE GIRLS IN EAST OUTCLASSED BY WESTERN CO-EDS

Western Girl More Vigorous and Self Reliant Says
California College Head

NEW YORK — That western college girls outclass their eastern sisters is the opinion of Mrs. Aurelia H. Reinhardt, L. L. D., president of Mills college of Oakland, Cal., who is now in New York to recruit for her faculty. Mrs. Reinhardt is one of the most eminent educators of apartment of about 500 square feet of floor against the ranch of 5,000 acres.

"The question of dress, considered from the standpoint of virtue or ethical value, is largely a matter of interpretation rather than of dogmatic conclusions. I am in favor of the short skirt. It is neat and healthy. Speaking of extravagance, when I went to college I had one winter and one summer dress, one afternoon dress and one party dress and four hats, all for a year, and I got along beautifully.

"Let me tell you," continued Dr. Reinhardt, "the girls are all right, and if the older people would stop whining about college conditions and the faults of the young people of this generation and, instead, exercise themselves to set up better standards, the young people would have less temptation to resist and higher achievement to seek."

Iowa Boy Scouts in Camp at Monona Park

Iowa Boy Scouts accompanied by Mayor H. H. Ahliff of Grand Mound, Ia., and several officials and prominent men of that city camped at Monona Park Wednesday. The cavalcade, composed of 10 touring cars and two motor trucks continued their journey Thursday. L. D. Rutenbeck, scout master, is in charge of the company, composed of 50 members.

An action was brought recently into the supreme court by Mrs. Helen Ashby to collect back payments on alimony due for 44 years and amounting to nearly $4,000. The court on Wednesday moved that Mrs. Ashby had slept on her rights and that she could not make a full collection. The case is to be returned to the circuit court for further consideration.

young women on the Pacific coast, and eastern educators give credit to her for the national prominence of Mills college.

"Out west we have a broader horizon," said Mrs. Reinhardt in an interview here. Our girl is more vigorous, more self reliant, more individualistic. She hasn't the self-consciousness of the eastern girl, because she isn't so crowded. Our girls come from the ranches and fruit orchards and wheat fields of the northwest and west. It is the difference between the five-room
