5 CENTS

TWELVE TEAMS TO COMPETE IN PROGRAM SALE

Prizes on Display for Win- ners in Campaign for 54 Page Book

Homecoming program sale starts this morning with ten sororities and Chadbourne and Barnard halls entered in the contest for one of the three prizes offered for the first, second, and third highest number of sales.

The twelve organizations entered and their captains are as follows:

Kappa Alpha Theta, Katherine Keene; Delta Gamma, Sally Gallagher; Alpha Phi, Mary Reagan; Pi Phi, Katherine Grimes; Chi Omega, Mary Walker; Phi Mu, Erna Klosterman; Sigma Kappa, Janet Taylor; Delta Delta Delta, Louise Rickeman; Alpha Gamma Delta, Dorothy Levi; Alpha Delta Pi, Mary Gormley; Chadbourne, Frances Campbell; Barnard, Jessie McClycott.

A floor lamp is the first prize for which the twelve teams are striving. The second prize is a table lamp, and the third the 25-pound turkey gobbler which is on parade in Morgan's window and which was donated by the Madison Packing company. The floor lamp and the table lamp are on display in the window of the Haswell Furniture company, 117 State street, and the winner of either of the lamps may exchange it for any piece of furniture of the same price if she so wishes.

The rules governing the contest are as follows:

1. There shall be no promises for programs given before the sale begins at 7:30 a. m., Thursday, November 11.

2. There shall be no substituting of sales.

3. Books will be given out at the rate of 300 at a time, beginning at 7:30 Thursday morning, November 11.

4. The contest closes at 6 p. m., Saturday, November 13. Reports not in at that time will not be considered in the contest.

5. Only the chairman of each group, or her authorized representative may get programs. The authorization must be written.

6. There are no restrictions on the places of sales.

HOMECOMING ISSUE OF "LIT" OFFERED THE PUBLIC TODAY

The Homecoming number of the Wisconsin Literary magazine is out today. It will be on sale in Bascom hall, A 3 hall, the Biology building, as well as on all of the news-stands in the city, according to Augustus J. Fehrenbach, business manager.

The mail subscriptions were sent out last night and will reach subscribers today, unless the postal service delays the delivery as it did last month. The distribution of the "Lit" is in charge of Horace Powell, circulation manager. The Hill sale will continue all day today, Friday and Saturday.

ONLY HALF OF BUTTONS SOLD ON WEDNESDAY

Team Six, Under Rosemary Lyons, Ahead—Sale Continues Today

The second day of the Homecoming button sale closed with 2,898, or less than one-half of the buttons reported sold. Today's sale registered $309.90, or practically half of the total of $723.90, which so far has been turned in to Winifred Titus, chairman of the sale.

Team No. 6, under Rosemary Lyons, still leads with a record of 585 sales, but Margaret Henry's team, No. 5, with 485, and Florence Hupprich's team, No. 7, with 407 buttons sold, are rapidly catching up, and are prepared to make a final campaign upon the campus today.

A few buttons have been returned for redistribution and may be obtained in Lathrop hall from 12 to 1:30 and 4:30 to 5:30 today, when captains are asked to check up as usual.

"W. A. A. intends to dispose of every one of the 6,000 buttons before the sale closes Saturday at 5 o'clock," stated Winifred Titus. "It is probable that many of the sales have not been reported, and, with the arrival of the grads the demand for buttons will probably be greater than the supply. It is important for the teams to keep at work so that sales will not be lost."

THETA SIGMA PHI TO SELL CARDINAL HOMECOMING ISSUE

Edition of 32 Pages is Planned
—Will Sell for Ten
Cents

The sale of the Homecoming edition of the Cardinal on Saturday is to be undertaken exclusively by members of Theta Sigma Phi, women's honorary journalistic fraternity.

No Cardinals will be delivered except mail editions unless special arrangements are made, and an extra price paid. The Cardinal staff is canvassing fraternities and sororities and Theta Sigma Phi has charge of all rooming house canvassing and open sale. The paper will be on sale all over the Hill, and also at the field before the game.

The Homecoming edition will contain full programs of the game and all Homecoming activities. It will consist of thirty-two pages. An extra large edition of 25,000 will be printed for the benefit of alumni and others not usually receiving copies. It will be sold for 10 cents.

The Homecoming Cardinal has always been sold as an extra edition in this way, but this is the first time one organization has contracted to have entire charge of the sale. Members of Theta Sigma Phi who will participate in the sale are: Ethel Vinje, Esther Van Wagoner, Frieda Rummell, Mildred Gerlach, Marion Strassburger, Marion Goodwin, Isabel Bugbee, Beth Stewart, Rachel Commons, Marie Bodden, Alice Munro, and Marian Roth. Pledges are Katherine Rockwell, Helen Pouder, Katherine Beebe, Mildred Nusbaum, and Dorothy Shaner.

Hobo King and Close Associate Aim to Take Parade Honors, Says Rumor

Rumor that J. Rufus Dawes, recently elected king of hoboes, and J. Ragland Patchmore, immortalized by J. T. McClutcheon, have heard the call and will arrive in Madison this week-end to compete for honors in the hobo parade, is proving a source of worry to student aspirants for the prizes offered to the most professional looking hobo who takes part in the grand Homecoming spectacle Saturday morning.

Spurred on by this unlooked for competition, those planning to take part are exerting every effort to cultivate "trampy" looks and razors are enjoying an unusually long respite so that the home-grown beards may attain prize-winning lengths.

Group and individual entries continue to come in, but Everett Grubb, chairman of the parade committee, believing that the lineup cannot be too long is willing to accept additional ones at 620 N. Lake street, B. 192. Those desiring information regarding the parade should call Dave Bowlby, B. 195.

MINSTRELS TO SAVE $300 ON TICKET TAXES

Increased Profit Goes to Memorial Fund—Some Seats
Still Available

Because the profits from the Engineers' minstrels are to go to the Memorial Union fund, a tax exemption certificate was issued to the show yesterday by Burt Williams, internal revenue collector for the state of Wisconsin.

About $300 will be added to the gross profits of the production, through exemption, as the price of the tickets, $1.50, included war tax.

The rapidity with which the tickets are selling insures a large donation to the Memorial fund. Over 75 per cent of the seats for both performances have been sold, to date. All the remaining seats, except the special section which is being reserved for alumni, will be sold by tomorrow night, according to Henry Warmuth, business manager of the production.

FROSH WILL BUILD HOMECOMING FIRE

First year men, attired in working clothes, will turn out en masse at 1:30 tomorrow afternoon to build the Homecoming bonfire. Each is asked by the committee to bring at least one box.

The biggest bonfire ever burned on the lower campus is promised by those in charge. Boxes have been collected by the truck-load from Madison stores, and several shanties and other material which was left from Cap night last spring will be used in the fire.

LAST DRILL IS GIVEN SQUAD BEFORE GAME

Long and Stiff Scrimmage
in Preparation for Tilt
With Illinois

The Badger football squad was put through one of the longest and stiffest practices of the year yesterday afternoon, the last scrimmage before the big Homecoming game with Illinois next Saturday.

The Illini will be the hardest team which the Badger eleven will face this season and since Wisconsin has everything to gain by defeating Zuppke's powerful machine, Coach Richards is determined to put his strongest combination upon the field. A victory over the Suckers will give the Badgers second place in the conference if Ohio State can also trounce the Illini.

Weston Will Start

The assurance that Captain "Red" Weston will lead the fighting Badgers against the Illini next Saturday has caused a great spread of joy over the Badger campus. Weston's absence from the Minnesota game weakened Richards' machine both offensively and defensively, and with the great end back at his old position Zuppke will have to use his best tricks to gain against the Badged defense.

Either Harry Barnes or "Gus" Tebell will be on the other end, while the remainder of the line-up will be the same as that which started against the Gophers. Nobody sustained serious injuries last Saturday and according to Trainer Berg, the Badgers will enter the

MASS MEETING FRIDAY MOVES DINNER AHEAD

Request Made to Allow Meeting in Gymnasium to Start at 6:45

All fraternity, sorority and student boarding houses have been requested by the Homecoming mass-meeting committee to serve dinner at 5:45 tomorrow evening in order that everyone may be able to be at the gymnasium on time for the meeting at 6:45.

The meeting is being held early because the gymnasium is to be used for the Engineers' Minstrels later in the evening; but as hundreds have always been turned away from Homecoming mass-meetings, the committee expects the hall to be crowded before the appointed time.

Both university bands and an all-university saxophone sextette will be on hand to entertain the crowd before the meeting begins. The program of speeches, cheers, and songs will last until 8 o'clock. "Fair Wisconsin We'll Cheer," the special Homecoming song by Wurth E. Shoultz, will be featured at the meeting.

Military Department Provides Equipment—To Pose for Movie

The Signal unit of the Cadet corps has just finished erecting a permanent radio station at the Shops building. This station is equipped with both transmitting and receiving equipment, and is arranged so that several different sets may be used.

The apparatus is provided by the Military department for the use of the members of the Signal unit here. Men taking the under-class courses at 10 a. m. Friday and 9 a. m. Saturday will be permitted to use this equipment at any time, by getting the key to the signal room from J. E. Wise or L. E. Kelso of the Electrical Engineering department.

The Signal unit is to break into the movies in the near future, and the men of the corps are training for this exhibit at present, under the direct supervision of Captain Herrick of the unit. This movie will be taken by the university, and will be exhibited at the down-town theaters.

DR. TITTLE IS Y. W. SPEAKER

Names of Freshman Com- mission to be Announced at Banquet

Only a few tickets are left for the Y. W. C. A. banquet which is to take place at the Presbyterian church at 6 o'clock tonight. These can be bought at the Y. W. office today.

Dr. Ernest F. Tittle, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, Evanston, Ill., will be the speaker of the evening. Those who heard him at the banquet last year know what is in store for those who attend tonight. Special music has also been arranged.

The most important event of the evening will be the announcement of the members of freshman commission. They are 25 women chosen from the freshman class by Helen Heetham, vice-president of the association; a committee of upper-class women; and sophomore commission. In years past the basis of selection has been for the purpose of representing as many different groups as possible. This has been somewhat changed this year in an effort to elect the outstanding girls in the freshman class who are interested in Y. W. C. A. work.

Sophomore commission entertained freshman commission last night at supper at the Camp Randa field house. This was to explain to the freshmen the idea and purposes of the commission, that they may begin work at once. The class is divided into sections, with one freshman commission girl at the head of each division. They are to promote a spirit of fellowship, and see that the members of their sections become acquainted. The commission is a tangible organization which can be called upon to handle any Y. W. or university work. I

Embarrassed "Lit" Reviewer Sincere in His Praises of High Quality

BY PROF. O. J. CAMPBELL

I am embarrassed. I have been told that all reviews of the "Lit" in The Daily Cardinal are so laudatory that they have come to be regarded not as criticism but as fawns of obvious publicity. Now, the current number of the "Lit" is so good that I really want to be believed when I say so; hence this preliminary gesture of sincerity.

The editors in this number have in a large measure realized their recently expressed ideal of making the paper vital to the interests of the undergraduate while actually deepening its literary quality. This truth is particularly evident in Paul Gangelin's satiric sketch "That's the Trouble." In the form of vivacious conversation between real students he has written a criticism of co-education which is at once searching, good-humored, and comprehensive in its attack. It is better than the famous "My Dear" of last year, because it is truer and more urbane.

Horace Gregory's one-act play, "Chicken a la King" is another contribution of unusual vitality. It is a satire of red Russia which is at once wild burlesque and savage truth. Its unusual dramatic qualities have already been recognized by its production by the Wisconsin players. Earl Hanson's sketch of "The Harbor" is a vivid presentation of life around New York harbor during a strike of seamen. It is reality of an authentic sort, permeated by a deep harmony of spirit and tone. Paul Pedigo's wistful sketch of the decoyed Bohemian as he drags out the latter days of his existence in Milwaukee is scarcely less adroit and effective.

"In the Shadows," by Frank W. Gray, is the only story in the issue. It is a tale of a poor household drudge who rebels and goes to Chicago to have a good time. She has it, even though her author has to force probability in her interest.

from this organization that the officers for the cabinet are chosen later.

The woman herself, however, remains a very sympathetically conceived figure.

Of the verse, the two lyrics by Mavis McIntosh are the best. They are songs of real lyric quality and much delicacy of feeling and sentiment. Dudley Brooks' genial conversational editorial and Rachel Commons' continuation of her Indian legends complete this excellent number of the "Lit."

The paper appears for the first time with a drawing on the cover, which has no relation to the contents of the paper and though in itself very well executed, detracts from the traditional dignified good-taste of the exterior. This feature finds its justification doubtless in that it an expression of work done here at the university in an art often closely allied to literature.

WHY FORGET IT?

TODAY marks the second anniversary of the signing of the armistice. Although November 11, 1918, marked a day when a war stricken world put down its arms to again give attention to the milder pursuits of peace; although it was predicted at the time that the day would be written indelibly into the history of civilization as one to be long remembered and never to be forgotten, the short space of two years has evidently erased those memorable thoughts.

When the document was actually signed pandemonium reigned throughout the world without any official declaration of a holiday. Last year Armistice day was again declared a holiday; but this year it is evidently to be relegated to the past. Such a precedent should never be permitted to stand; the sacrifices of millions of men in the cause of democracy were entirely too monumental not to merit tribute on at least one official day each year.

We celebrate the day we entered the war despite the fact that the more significant time of a noble victory won merits consideration to a far greater extent. Armistice day should be made a legal holiday. The mistake of today ought not to fail of atonement when November 11, 1921, comes to hand.

BETTING AND LOYALTY

AS this editorial goes to press it is safe to assume that thousands of dollars have already been wagered on the outcome of the Homecoming game next Saturday. A large proportion of the amount already placed and yet to be placed doubtless comes from students at Illinois and Wisconsin who believe that it is a mark of loyalty to back the team with money.

It is a highly regrettable fact, after the extent to which the evil of betting has degraded baseball, that this erroneous impression should persist. For it is easy to see how the general attitude of the losers in reality impairs loyalty.

Men of college age are hopelessly engrossed with the optimism of youth. When they yell their heads off in the stands partly because of school spirit and partly because they expect to win money on the victory—can a defeat under such circumstances be anything short of fatal to loyalty?

If loyalty consists in impairing the chances of the team to win, then betting is accomplishing a useful end. Wagers have mounted to such immense sums on all of the more important games that the members of the teams have been made to realize the cash significance of victory.

It will be nothing short of a downright shame if the name of Wisconsin has to be lowered to such an unpleasant plane merely because some loosely constituted individuals see fit to commercialize a clean and healthy sport. It is readily granted that there can be no material harm in a friendly bet for a box of cigars, a few show tickets, or other inconsequential things of that type; but when thousands of dollars are involved the situation assumes something of a serious aspect.

On one game this season many students lost heavily. Although the fact is not generally known it may have resulted in some having been compelled to leave school. Others have in like manner been using improperly sums for which a hard working father has toiled week in and week out. Many others have been rendering void by these practices the faith of parents devoted to giving a child the best education.

Thoroughly unadulterated loyalty is the only kind that can ably aid in winning football games. If it is to be of that type it must be devoid of betting and sponsored by the right attitude toward the leading college sport: namely, cheering only for victory that is desired for no ulterior motive at all.

That there is danger is an admitted fact. Suppression is the first step, but ultimate elimination must be made the goal. The proposition must have its eliminating inception in the student body. Within the next two weeks there are going to be numberless chances to aid in striking a death blow at betting on football games. Every Wisconsin man and woman should make an individual effort not to forego the opportunity once it is presented.

Football as a sport for sport's sake must be saved.

BULLETIN BOARD

Communication

Editor Daily Cardinal:

With the approach of the Wisconsin game at Stagg field, Chicago, November 20, the writer calls to mind what he thinks is the best record of an outsider at any series of football games.

The first Chicago-Wisconsin game that I saw was at Madison when the famous "Eckie" Eckersall of Chicago defeated Wisconsin by a single goal from the field, since which time I have followed the fortunes of the "Cardinal." Recalling with great pleasure the superb work of many of the old stars dear to the heart of all Wisconsin men, including the wonderful Samp, the late "Keckie" Moll, and peerless "Eddie" Gillette, the great tackle, Buck, and last but not least the little fellow "Davey," who ran through the whole Chicago team last year and who I hope will duplicate this feat this year.

Wishing you and the Cardinal team the best of success in your remaining games this year, I am,

Yours for Wisconsin,

Edd R. SCHLAGEL,

Des Plaines, Ill.

P. S.—My great regret is that I am not a Wisconsin alumnus, but merely a lover of Old Wisconsin.

P. P. S.—I will be there rooting for Wisconsin next Saturday.

No senior summaries will be included in the Badger this year without photographs so it is imperative that all seniors who wish their summaries to be in the Badger have sittings made immediately if they have not already done so.

Eight photographers are working on Badger pictures this year. They are Bell, DeLonge, Ford, Hone and McKillop, Pierson, Schneider, and Thomas. If one has no vacant appointments, others will have. Seniors do not need to take their photographs to the Badger office. All that is necessary is to return the proofs to the photographer who will send the one desired.

"There are only four days left now," says Margaret Chambers, who is in charge of this section, "and there are still a large number in the delinquent class."

AT THE FULLER

One of the features of the new musical comedy, "Take it from Me," which opens tomorrow night at the Fuller is the originality and beauty of the costumes of the big chorus of beautiful girls. Will B. Johnstone, who wrote the libretto and also designed the costumes, the scenic effects and the modern gowns worn by the principals, is himself an artist of note, as an illustrator, cartoonist and water-colorist. He is a member of the art staff of the New York World, where he has made himself valuable as an illustrator of fashion modes for women, as a caricaturist, as a color-artist, and in every way that lends to the projection of novel and esthetic ideas for an enterprising metropolitan newspaper. Of the music the critics have spoken in high praise. The tunes are novel and beautiful. The lyric and choral, the ensemble and dance melodies written by Will R. Anderson, the young composer of the score, have set and hold a new speedy pace in up-to-date musical successes.

"The Week-End"

"The Week-End" which is having first runs to crowded houses all over the country now, is a story about real people. As you enjoy the character portrayals you find yourself naming people of your own acquaintance who are exactly like those on the screen. Margarita Fisher plays the winsome, free young American girl, Vera Middleton, sparkling with wit and humor—and perhaps a bit spoiled. She enjoys life without restraint, and just can't help bubbling over with enthusiasm and kicking up her heels over such trifles as a tennis game, a new and alluringly becoming bathing suit or the prospect of a weekend party. And she thinks most conventions are quite useless, though warned again and again that her happy, devil-may-care attitude is doubtless causing her forbears to turn in their graves. But the restlessness of their respected bones doesn't worry her young life.

AT THE GRAND

Perhaps, where you think there is only the dull day to day living, Romance is shedding its warm glow and making life worthwhile. And perhaps where you are sure Romance is in full bloom, it has not yet been awakened, but it is there, waiting only to be called into life. In the life of Marguerita Cavalini, the great opera singer, all seemed Romance, for she had come up from obscurity to fame and wealth and homage. But there was no Romance, no real love, no real soul. And then it came—at the height of her career, when it seemed she had all of life's gifts and bounties. And where do you suppose she found Romance? And what do you suppose she did with this greatest of all things-in-life? Only in the exquisite photodrama, "Romance," can you find these things told, for there is no code, there are no rules, by which you can fathom the thoughts of the woman who loves. "Romance" featuring Doris Keane will be shown for the last times tonight at the Grand.

Trim for Homecoming; Big Day, Says Mayor

Mayor I. M. Kittleson urges that all business houses be decorated for Homecoming this week-end. "I trust that every business house as well as every residence on all business streets and avenues will be appropriately decorated for the occasion," said the mayor Wednesday morning. Saturday will be a big day for Madison." The cardinal and white of Wisconsin and the maize and blue of Illinois has already appeared in many show windows.

NOTED READER
APPEARS HERE
NEXT THURSDAY

Miss Katherine Jewell Everts, lecturer, dramatic reader, and author, will appear for the first time in Madison, on Thursday, November 18, in 165 Bascom hall, under the auspices of Twelfth Night and Red Domino.

Miss Everts has been in Chicago giving a series of lectures and recitals for the National Council of Teachers of English, sponsored by twelve leading Chicago women's clubs. Her side trip to Madison is being made partly because of the invitation extended to her by the dramatic clubs and partly because of her keen interest in the work of Miss Margaret H'Doubler's dancing classes, which, in the field of dancing, so closely parallels her own work in dramatics.

The stage has already claimed Miss Everts' interest, but the university has become her chief field of effort. After graduation from the University of Minnesota she spent some time in Boston studying dramatic art under private teachers, among them Leland T. Powers. Then, for one year, she acted with Otis Skinner and Ada Rehan.

Her book, "The Speaking Voice," is evidence that, though interested in the interpretation of literature, her interest in the interpretation of life through the medium of the voice is still greater.

BALL PLANS

"Red" Hawkins and Jean Juster to Lead Special Orchestra

Arrangements for the Homecoming ball are nearing completion and when the doors of Lathrop hall are thrown open to alumni and students at 8 o'clock Saturday night, Dave Mahoney and his committee of eight, plan to welcome the ball-goers to the best of the big informal functions that has ever been given in connection with Homecoming.

With "Red" Hawkins and Jean Juster among those present to provide the rhythmic strains and the floors of the gymnasium and concert room in perfect condition after the hard labors of a corps of janitors, dancing conditions promise to be ideal. In the corridors and in the parlors old grads may renew acquaintances and talk over old times, but upstairs there is to be nothing but dancing, says the chairman.

At 8 o'clock the reception committee will prepare to welcome the young and old. By 8:30 it is planned to have the dancing underway. In addition to all this the committee is withholding some important information concerning special features between dancing and during the intermission.

Artistic decorations with palms will be used on the stage where the orchestra will be at work and Wisconsin and Illinois colors will be used in trimming the two rooms.

On their arrival in Madison grads will find tickets on-sale at the Park hotel. The University pharmacy and Dad Morgan are also selling them.

LIFT BANNER OF FORENSICS

—HAAKE

Debating Most Worthwhile College Activity, Says Speaker

"To carry the standard of Wisconsin forensics a little further and lift the banner a little higher should be the aim of every student who is interested in college debating," said Prof. A. P. Haake, speaking at the forensic dinner last night. "The hope for the entire country lies in the ability of universities like ours to send out year after year more men and women who can really think. From the standpoint of intellectual development there is no more worthwhile college activity than debating."

Prof. Haake was the first speaker at the banquet which was held in the Badger room of the Belmont hotel. Short addresses were also given by Prof. James M. O'Neill, head of the department of public speaking; Gladys Borchers, holder of second place in last year's Northern Oratorical league contest, and I. Arnold Perstein, former inter-collegiate debater. Clyde B. Emory, president of forensic board acted as toastmaster. Over 100 were in attendance.

Prof. O'Neill limited his talk to announcements relative to the preliminary trials and the semi-finals, and the discussion of plans for the year.

"Resolved, That the United States should enter the present league of nations," is the subject chosen for the preliminaries which will be held November 23, at 4:30 and 7:30, 165 Bascom hall, and which are open to both men and women who are not veteran debaters. Contestants must sign up in Prof. O'Neill's office on or before November 18.

LAST SCRIMMAGE IS GIVEN TO TEAM

Illini game as near physically perfect as it is possible for them to be. Suckers are Favorites

According to the football dope the Illini have a slight shade over the Badgers, although the latter outplayed Coach Williams' Gophers more decisively than did Illinois. Zuppke has a great backfield and a wonderful forward pass attack, but in the Badger line he will meet opposition of a quality that he has not met this year. It will be a great battle and with favorable weather conditions the victorious team will be the one that is piloted most intelligently.

Last Game at Randall

The Illinois game is the most important on Wisconsin's schedule for several reasons. Primarily of course, a victory over the Suckers would place the Badgers high in the conference percentage column. Thousands of Wisconsin alumni are coming back to watch the Badger players in action against the Illini, and while the Homecoming game is usually against Minnesota or Chicago, the Illinois game has come to be one of the most keenly fought on the Badger schedule. Lastly, the game is important because it is the last time that several of the Badger stars will wear the cardinal uniform on Camp Randall. Captain "Red" Weston, Ralph Scott, "Al" Davey, and George Bunge are playing their last football game on Randall field. The names of these great stars will go down in Badger football history beside the names of such celebrities as O'Dea, Moll, Gillette, Tanberg, Butler, Buck, and Simpson and thousands of Badger followers will support them to the last minute Saturday, that their last home game may be a glorious victory.

Y. W. ROUND TABLE IN SESSION TODAY

Miss Constance Ball, student secretary for the central field, will lead the round table discussion on Thursday at 11 a. m. in the Y. W. office, where information will be given to those desiring to take up Y. W. work as a profession after college. Miss Ball will suggest what subjects should be taken in the university as a preparation for such work, and also will explain what training is necessary after graduation.
