Comments

WE REGRET that because of the large amount of alumni news and reunion notices we are unable to publish some of our regular features. Knowing, however, that our magazine is read backwards—starting with alumni news and then turning to other features—we feel confident that we have done the right thing in publishing all of the news we have received to date and omitting other and less important items.

This is the last issue until October. It is the hope of the officers of the Association that you thoroughly enjoy your vacations and that you make every effort to return to the campus next fall for the attractive football games.

Research Foundation Fills Gap in Research

Allotment of Funds for Research Program Saves Valuable Projects and Scholars for the University

DIRECTOR H. L. RUSSELL, '88
Guiding the Foundation to greater heights

THE WISCONSIN ALUMNI RESEARCH FOUNDATION has made grants-in-aid to the University for next year in a sum sufficient to prevent the suspension of the University's important research program which has been threatened by the reduced appropriations of the emergency period, Pres. Glenn Frank announced at the Senior-Alumni dinner on June 17.

The grants were approved by the Board of Regents at its annual session on June 17. The exact amount these grants will total cannot be determined until the revised salary schedules for 1933-34 have been fixed and other details of the research program completed.

The Research Foundation, a non-profit corporation organized by Wisconsin Alumni interested in the development of research, derives its income from patents based on discoveries made by Wisconsin scientists and alumni who have voluntarily assigned their rights to the Foundation in order to protect the public from unscrupulous exploitation and to build up a permanent fund for support of research at the University.

Ordinarily each year the Foundation has used all of its interest income from its invested capital in supporting University research, H. L. Russell, director of the Foundation, pointed out. In the emergency which now obtains the trustees of the Foundation have decided they could render no more useful public service than to add to the customary support they give the University a material sum from the anticipated income of the coming year to help meet the critical financial condition confronting the University's research program.

In announcing these grants, Pres. Frank said:

"Next year the University of Wisconsin will assign 36 of its productive scholars, for periods ranging from a few months to a full year, to the direction of between 60 and 70 important researches, some of them freshly authorized by the Research committee of the University, but many of them projects already under way that would have to be abandoned but for the fact that the Alumni Research Foundation has stepped into the breach and saved the day for productive scholarship.

"The terms under which the University will commission these scholars to carry on these researches involve a new and more economical system of graduate study, under which the traditional system of formal lectures and regularly scheduled seminars will be supplanted by an informal master-apprentice relationship between the 36 scientists and scholars directing these researches and their graduate students.

"The greater the confusion of a time, the greater the need for sustained research in the natural and social sciences. But the current economic stringency is making it difficult for universities to keep even their normal research programs going. Many universities are now being forced backward just when they should, for the sake of the national future, be going forward.

"The Alumni Research Foundation enables the University, despite the difficulties of the time, to carry on its research service to state and nation. Thanks to the statesmanlike action of the Trustees of the Foundation, Wisconsin, through this policy of research—leaves correlated with a master-apprentice system of graduate training, again pioneers in the enrichment of University policy and University service to the state.

"Associated with the 36 senior members of the staff, assigned to the direction of these researches, will be 50 or 60 research assistants, many of whose appointments might otherwise end this year because of lack of funds. The funds also will permit many young Wisconsin men and women who are completing their University training this year to continue their work in the scientific fields in which they have been specializing for from four to six years."

Legislature Okays Compulsory Drill

Both houses of the state legislature have passed the Fox-Perry bill providing for two years of compulsory military training for all students in the University starting this fall. The bill is now in the hands of the governor for signature. We have no indication at the present time whether he will sign it or not.

The Balzer bill, providing for the limitation of salaries of state employees to not more than that of the governor, $7,500, was defeated in the state senate.

LED BY THE venerable Burr W. Jones of the class of 1870 and Albert S. Ritchie of the class of 1876, more than 700 alumni returned to the campus for a four day celebration of class reunions on June 16, 17, 18, and 19. Much to the pleasant surprise of all concerned, the recent depression kept very few away, and picnics, luncheons and dinners were all overcrowded whenever the classes met.

One feature of this year's reunions that is particularly interesting is the fact that more members came from greater distances than ever before. California, Washington, Maine, New York, Florida and other distant states were all represented. Most of those who journeyed far to be on hand for the reunions planned to stay over in Chicago and take in A Century of Progress so they could tell "the folks back home about the Fair."

Details of the various class functions will be found on other pages so we will dwell upon the more general aspects of the week-end. Earl Vits, '14, Manitowoc, received the unanimous vote of the directors for president of the Alumni Association for the coming year. Myron T. Harshaw, '12, Chicago, was re-elected vice-president and Basil I. Peterson, '12, and Herman M. Egstad, '17, both of Madison, were re-elected treasurer and secretary, respectively.

New directors elected at the Saturday morning meeting were Walter Alexander, '97, Milwaukee; Dr. James Dean, '11, Madison; Prof. F. H. Elwell, '08, Madison; Howard T. Greene, '15, Genesee Depot; and Myron T. Harshaw, '12, Chicago. While the ballots were being counted for the directors some good natured bantering between some of the older alumni kept the members amused, Charles E. Buell, '78, disclosed the fact that he has attended 61 commencement and reunion ceremonies while Justice Burr W. Jones, '70, wasn't sure just how many he had attended but was certain that it was 60 or more. Albert S. Ritchie, '76, and Prof. Julius Olson, '84, kept the crowd amused with anecdotes of the older days when John Bascom was president.

Norris Wentworth, '24, presented a brief report of the progress made on the building of the chimes tower, donated by the classes from 1917 through 1926. Herman M. Egstad, general secretary of the Association, delivered his annual report which is printed in full on another page of this issue. At the Board of Directors meeting which followed the general meeting the new officers were elected. Walter Alexander and Myron T. Harshaw were nominated as alumni representatives on the Athletic Board. Their election is subject to the approval of President Glenn Frank. Mrs. Carl Johnson, '94, was re-elected alumni representative on the Board of Visitors for the term ending 1936.

During the afternoon members of the Carl Russell Fish Memorial committee met to discuss plans for the proposed memorial. Myron T. Harshaw, chairman of the group, issued the following statement at the close of the meeting:

"At the regular Board meeting of the Alumni Association held last November, a committee was appointed to make recommendations back to the Alumni Board with reference to a memorial to the late Professor Carl Russell Fish. The committee consisted of the following members:

"Myron T. Harshaw, Chairman,

"Richard Lloyd Jones,

"B. B. Burling,

"George W. Mead,

"Today was the first available time at which a meeting of the full committee could be held due to the scattered residences of the various members. In addition, Professor Knaplund, head of the Department of History, who is cooperating with the committee, was present and addressed the committee on the subject.

"As a result of this committee meeting, it has been decided to recommend to a meeting of the Board to be held early this fall that definite steps be taken to create a Carl Russell Fish memorial lecture program. Said lecture to be given at the University each year by some outstanding authority on American History and kindred subjects. Definite plans covering the details of the memorial will be presented at the fall meeting."

Most of the classes spent Saturday afternoon on picnics or at luncheons reminiscing about old cronies and escapades. A large group gathered on the Union terrace to listen to a splendid band concert by the University Concert Band under direction of Maj. Morphy.

Four hundred and twenty alumni gathered in the Great Hall of the Union on Saturday night to take part in the seventy-first annual Senior-Alumni supper. Regent Fred H. Clausen, '97, was toastmaster and introduced the new faculty members present, Major Gonser, commandant of the R. O. T. C., and Dean Lloyd Garrison of the Law School. Judge Evan A. Evans, '97, one of the three alumni to receive honorary degress at this year's commencement was also introduced.

President Glenn Frank delivered the principal address of the evening. The first half of his speech was the initial announcement of the fact that the Wisconsin Alumni Research Foundation had stepped into the breach and saved research at the University by their agreement to sponsor between 60 and 70 important research projects during the coming year. The second part of his speech dealt with developments during the past year and a discussion of an educational philosophy of today.

President Earl Vits of the Alumni Association spoke for the alumni. His speech, in full, follows:

"It is always a happy crowd of alumni that comes back to attend reunions, to renew old friendships, and to better acquaint themselves with the developments on the campus, and it is gratifying to have such a representative number here tonight.

"The Alumni Association endeavors through the medium of our publication and through these alumni gatherings to stimulate your interest in the affairs of our university. As alumni it is our duty to do what we can to promote its welfare and to create for it greater good-will on the part of the people of the state. To further this purpose the Association at its meeting this morning authorized me to appoint a Special Committee on State-University Relations. I trust that when you are called upon to assist in carrying out the program which will be formulated by this committee that you will respond, because only thru concerted action can the best results be achieved.

"The present legislature has had a very difficult problem in attempting to balance the state budget. We as citizens agree that if it is possible to do so, the budget should be balanced. We also agree that the University must assume its just share in this undertaking but only its just share. This Special Committee, to which I have referred, should make a study of the questions involved and if in its opinion the University is carrying more than its fair share of such burden, steps should be taken through the Association whereby such inequality shall be removed.

"This committee, with your cooperation, can also help us in the performance of another duty that we owe to the University; namely, to recommend and urge the appointment to the Board of Regents of citizens who understand university problems and who will devote themselves whole-heartedly to the upbuilding of the University. It seems to me, our alumni should be as able as any group to interpret the wishes of our citizens and taxpayers.

"The Association has from time to time recommended changes in the conduct of some campus activities. Such recommendations have been the result of widespread complaint on the part of alumni that such activities were creating ill will toward the University. In most cases the causes for such criticisms have been corrected. It shall be our policy to continue to bring to the attention of the University authorities such reactions on the part of alumni to the end that misundersanding and undue criticism of the university may be minimized. Up to this time such criticisms have not been set forth in the magazine, and consequently the Association has at times been criticized for apparent lack of action. In the future we shall, when deemed necessary, also utilize the magazine in order that alumni may have full information and a better understanding of any similar situations that may arise.

MRS. CARL JOHNSON, '94

"In conclusion, let me say that the principal aim of the Association always has been and will continue to be to promote the best interests of the University and its student body, to bring to the people of the state and to alumni generally a fuller realization of the worth and service of the University and their obligation to it. In this endeavor we ask the cooperation of the University itself, its student body and all alumni."

The beautiful traditional candle lighting ceremony concluded the dinner program. Mrs. Josephine Sarles Simpson, as president, represented the class of 1883 and Hugh S. Oldenburg, president of the graduating class, represented the class of 1933. President Frank responded for the University.

The president's reception in the Union and the Pipe of Peace ceremony, staged on the terrace of the Union, occupied the reuners until the Great Hall was made ready for the dance which followed. When Bill Ferguson's, '24, band played the closing strains of "On Wisconsin," everyone agreed that they had had a very good time and were mighty glad they had returned for this brief visit.

Aubrey J. Wagner, '33 won the 1933 Theodore Herfurth Efficiency award it was recently announced. The $100 award, established by Theodore Herfurth in 1928, is given each year to the best all-around senior man at the state University.

Owen D. Nee, Spring Green, and Paul S. Kuelthau, West Bend, were named editor and business manager respectively of the 1934 Badger at a meeting of the Badger board of control.

Four Alumni Given Honorary Degree

Evans, Ford, Aston and Taylor Receive Honors

HONORED BY the presence of seven nationally famous individuals, more than thirteen hundred undergraduates and graduate students received their degrees at the 80th annual commencement exercises in the Field House on June 19.

Bishop B. F. Ivins, M.A. '18, bishop of the Milwaukee diocese of the Episcopal church, read the invocation. Gov. Albert Schmedeman and President Frank spoke briefly for the state and the University, respectively. Following this, the eleven hundred seniors who received their bachelor degrees filed across the flower covered stage to receive their cherished sheepskin from the president. About two hundred of these students wore the red and white honor fourragères which the University and the Alumni Association contributed to the winners of senior honors and senior high honors.

Three alumni who received their undergraduate degrees at the University and one who received his doctor's degree in the Graduate school were among the seven honored with honorary degrees. Judge Evan A. Evans, '97, past president of the Alumni Association, president of the Board of Visitors, chairman of the Alumni Association Student Loan Fund drive, and judge of the Federal Court of Appeals in Chicago; Dean Guy Stanton Ford, '95, eminent historian and educator and dean of the Graduate school of the University of Minnesota; James Aston, '98, noted metallurgist and inventor of a machine used in foundries which has revolutionized the manufacture of wrought iron; and Henry Charles Taylor, Ph.D., '02, nationally recognized agriculture economist, former member of the University faculty from 1901 to 1919 and member of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, were the alumni who were honored. Judge Evans and Dr. Taylor received doctor of laws degrees; Mr. Aston, a doctor of science degree; and Dean Ford, a doctor of letters degree.

Miss Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor in President Roosevelt's cabinet and outstanding leader in national labor problems, received an honorary doctor of laws degree. Rufus G. Dawes, executive director of the Century of Progress exposition at Chicago, received a doctor of laws degree. Edna St. Vincent Millay, internationally known poet, received a doctor of letters degree.

After receiving her degree, Miss Perkins made a brief speech in which she praised the University for its splendid work and stated that she could not pass up the degree from Wisconsin altho she had refused to accept one from other universities. She also stated that she had been commissioned by Pres. Roosevelt to bring his greetings and best wishes to the University, the students and the state on this occasion. Miss Millay and Mr. Dawes also spoke briefly.

Frank's Baccalaureate Accorded High Praise

ON JUNE 18, President Frank delivered his baccalaureate sermon to the seniors in the Field House. It was a splendid sermon, and was so considered by the state newspapers which commented upon it. For his text the president used quotations from Shakespeare and the Scriptures: "I'll have my bond," and St. Paul's "The letter killeth, but the spirit giveth life."

"I am convinced," he said, "that profound historic change impends in the life and enterprise of our time. I am not sure of the direction this change will take. We may be in for a long retrogression or we may be on the threshold of renaissance. The blackening of the skies that began in 1929 may have heralded a permanent eclipse of our national genius or these may be but the grey hours before a social sunrise that will warm and illumine our lives where transient disaster has chilled and darkened them. In either case, the world in which your mature powers must test themselves will be radically different from the world of yesterday's text book or of today's newspaper. And what that world will be like will depend upon whether the forces of inflexible tradition or the forces of flexible intelligence direct our affairs in the days immediately ahead."

At any rate, he went on, "men have been shaken out of the sterile serenity that marked their mood in the days of our jerry-built prosperity." We had phantom prosperity, were well-fed and wanted to be let alone. There was, he held, a bush growth of bootleg religions.

Today the mass mind is hospitable to the bearer of new policies. There is danger and opportunity. The mass mind may follow responsible statesmanship or irresponsible demagoguery, for guided responsibility or unguided revolt (not revolution).

President Frank doesn't want "a continuous St. Vitus dance of change"—and the race is lucky if experience ratifies as true one out of every thousand new theories it evolves.

Discussing the charge as to atheism spreading in Wisconsin, he asked the legislators to advise themselves as to whether they are making for a social order in Wisconsin which, by its justice and rightness, will incline men to believe that the universe is under the governance of a God of justice and right.

He concluded by saying that Fascism and Communism have decided what they will do with their universities—the laboratory to take orders from the legislature. If Democracy also blows out the light, then we can fight it out in the dark.

The women's glee club presented a concert during the services. Madison pastors also assisted.

Important Actions of the Board of Regents

*Establish Official Student Newspaper;
Grant R. O. T. C. Credit; Approve
Course Changes*

ON MOTION of Regent Arthur Sholts, the Board of Regents at its meeting on June 17, suspended the rules and elected Fred H. Clausen, '97, president and Harold M. Wilkie, '13, vice-president for the term ending June, 1934.

Vote New Student Newspaper

Voting unanimous approval of a motion introduced by Regent Herman W. Ullsperger, the Board of Regents at its June 17 meeting voted to prepare plans for the creation of an official University newspaper designed to support the purpose of general University welfare and with opportunity given for free expression of student opinion. The complete resolution is as follows:

"Whereas, the University of Wisconsin has no official daily newspaper published to support its policies and general welfare,

"Whereas, the Daily Cardinal is purely a student publication operated by students without obligation to or direction by the Regents or Faculty which fact causes the University often to be misinterpreted as to plans and policies,

"BE IT RESOLVED, That the Executive Committee of the Regents be authorized and directed to prepare plans for the erection of an official University newspaper designed to support the purpose of general University welfare and with opportunity given for free expression of student opinion.

"RESOLVED, that such paper be published for circulation among students, alumni, high schools and friends of the University."

The resolution was adopted as a substitute for the recommendation of the executive committee, which would have placed two official representatives of the University on the Board of Control of the present Daily Cardinal in an attempt to gain more adequate control over its policies respecting the University. Another substitute resolution proposed by Regent Meta Berger provided for an advisory committee of three University representatives to work with the present Cardinal, but was excluded from a vote by the adoption of the Ullsperger resolution.

Adoption of the resolution brought to a settlement a problem which has bothered the regents for some time, particularly during the past three months. Various proposals were considered by the board, including one which provided for a coaching system.

Grant Military Training Credit

Six recommendations of the faculty including one giving credit for both the basic and advanced courses in military training, were given the approval of the board at this same meeting.

Other recommendations approved provided for certain academic changes in both the men's and women's physical education courses; for the establishment of a course in classical humanities which is designed to provide the University with a method of pulling liberal education together; for changes in the course in home economics; and for the waiving of entrance requirements in certain cases in order to permit the University to take part in an educational experiment involving relationship between high school and college curricula.

Approval of the granting of academic credit for both basic and advanced military courses settled a problem which has faced both regents and faculty ever since the former reduced the physical education requirement of the University from two to one year some months ago.

The regents suggested that credit be granted for military courses taken by students during the first two years in the University as a means of attracting students to the courses. It was expected that removal of the second year physical education requirement would reduce the enrollment in the military courses, since students would no longer need to elect them as an alternative to physical education.

The academic changes made in the physical education and home economics courses were designed to improve these divisions of the University, and make their graduates more fit for their teaching work after graduation.

Designated by Pres. Frank as "one further step to bring into use some of the educational values learned in the Experimental College and to further round out an educational program based on the Fish recommendations of two years ago," the new course in humanities will be established at the University next fall.

The Association's Work in the Past Year

Alumni Secretary's Report Shows That Your Association Has Been a Help to University During Crisis; Association in Good Standing

THIS YEAR, practically all organizations which are dependent upon voluntary dues of members are experiencing a decline in income from those sources. This was to be expected, and while our Alumni Association is no exception to this rule, it has perhaps fared better than many.

Anticipating this situation the Board of Directors, when it framed the budget last fall, stipulated that such revisions as seemed necessary should be made throughout the year, thus keeping expenditures within income. This has been done. Cuts have been made, but they have been made in those items which would least affect service to our members. Material reductions have been made in such items as printing costs, postage, mailing charges, and office expense, while salary charges will be approximately 20% less than a year ago and more than 33% less than in 1929.

On the other hand, the Magazine has absorbed no reductions except those resulting from lower prices for printing. This is somewhat in contrast to the policy adopted by a number of associations which have apparently either been forced to curtail their publications or have elected to do so. Some have temporarily discontinued them entirely.

Our advertising revenue has held up very well. In spite of the fact that advertisers' budgets have been generally lower, our income from advertising will equal that of a year ago. It might have been higher except for the fact that we have declined to accept certain advertising which we believed might have proved objectionable to some, although it was carried by several high grade publications.

At the time the Alumni Association Student Loan Fund was established, it was voted to contribute to it from Association funds $2,000. Of this amount, $1,000 came from earnings of the Investment Fund and $1,000 was borrowed so as to avoid selling any of our bonds at current market prices. The bank loan has been repaid and although it was not so stipulated at the time the Association contribution was authorized, it is planned to restore to the Investment Fund the entire amount of its contribution. This will be done as current revenues permit.

Substantial savings have also been effected in the administration of the Alumni Records Office, the supervision of which was assigned to the Association by the Board of Regents on December 1, 1930. The expenditures of that office for the year 1929-30 was $10,769, while the budget for the present year is $6,034, or a reduction of approximately 44%.

Inasmuch as the Association's fiscal year ends August 31st, at which time the annual certified audit is made, the complete financial report of the present year's operations will be made at the Homecoming meeting in the fall.

The Association Loan Fund has now been in effective operation about a year. To date, 354 contributors have given $8,830.09, which is $1,170 short of the goal set at the time the campaign was launched. Scattering contributions are still being received, and it is hoped the entire amount will be realized before fall.

Up to June 1st, loans aggregating $9,225.28 have been made. Of those receiving aid, 167 were men and 27 were women. 135 were Wisconsin students and 59 were from without the state. The average loan to state students was $50 while the average to non-residents was also approximately $50.

The fund has been administered by the faculty committee on Loans and Scholarships and in precisely the same manner that other loan funds are administered. Students apply in the same way on standard uniform blanks and must secure the same recommendations that are required in all cases. The terms on which the loans are granted are perhaps somewhat more liberal than those governing a majority of the funds, and in no case has the Association declined to approve a loan that has been recommended by the faculty committee. This explanation is given to correct certain misleading statements which have appeared concerning the fund and its administration.

It is, of course, unlikely that any large portion of the loans made from this fund or any loan fund will be repaid by fall. The scarcity of summer work will greatly affect such repayment, and unless there is a decided improvement in business conditions, there will be an even greater demand next fall with little in the way of available funds to meet it. A similar situation, of course, confronts practically all educational institutions. As a result there has already been a marked decrease in enrollment, thousands of students having been forced to abandon their college work and large number of high school graduates unable to enter our universities. The situation may become more acute next year, and if so, bring about further reductions in teaching personnel, add to unemployment and lower purchasing power.

What can be done to meet this situation?

The American Alumni Council is of the opinion that further financial appeals to alumni at this time could hardly be expected to adequately meet this need, and that other means must be found. The proposal which at present seems most feasible and which will be considered at a meeting of the Council this month is one involving application to the R. F. C. to provide such loan funds to universities and colleges as a self-liquidating project. The amount estimated as necessary is $10,000,000 and it is felt that with the support of alumni organizations throughout the country, the proposal has a good chance of receiving favorable consideration.

In connection with our own loan fund problem, I wish to mention the suggestions which have been made urging that the fund created by the classes of 1917 to 1926 for the erection of a carillon be temporarily diverted to loan fund purposes. While the Association has no control whatsoever over this fund, it is desirable that alumni understand the position taken by the representatives of those classes. They feel that diversion is not feasible because:

1. These monies were pledged for a specific purpose and could not properly be diverted to other purposes without the consent of the donors.

2. Prevailing rate of exchange, low prices and low construction costs make possible the completion of the entire project at this time with the funds available, whereas several years hence with an almost certain rise in price levels, this could not be done.

It is therefore the opinion not only of the representatives of the classes involved but also of the University authorities that the project should be carried to completion without further delay.

Another question which affects materially student enrollment and university revenues is that of tuition charges and fees. The Board of Visitors, to which the Alumni Association appoints four representatives, has made a study of this question and a report has been made upon it by Judge Evans, appointee of the Association and President of the Board. It is a report that merits the careful consideration of all alumni. It shows that the average non-resident tuition charged by a representative group of mid-western state universities in courses other than Law and Medicine is $120, while at Wisconsin it is $224. Wisconsin is $103 above the average. On the other hand, the average resident fee in these state universities is $83 while at Wisconsin it is only $24. Wisconsin is $59 below the average. In law the average non-resident tuition is $165 while at Wisconsin it is $224 or $59 higher. The average resident fee charged in these state institutions is $111 while at Wisconsin it is only $24 or $87 less. In Medicine, Wisconsin is far out of line. The average non-resident tuition in Medicine is $341 while at Wisconsin it is $224. Wisconsin is $117 lower. The average resident fee in Medicine is $197 while at Wisconsin it is $24. Wisconsin is $173 lower. To sum up: Wisconsin charges a higher tuition to out of state students in courses other than Medicine, while the resident fees in these same courses are from three to four times lower. In Medicine, Wisconsin's tuition is about one-third below the average and its resident fees are about one-eighth of the average charged by the other institutions. The report recommends that adjustments be made which will bring our tuition and fees more into line with these averages. The Board of Visitors has made no study of the effects of such readjustment on university revenues and of course any estimates made may not prove out in practice due to a number of factors. Taking the enrollments for 1931-32, however, and assuming that they would remain the same under an adjustment to the averages quoted above, it is probable that such adjustments would produce an increase in income from this source of not less than $250,000. However, if after consideration the regents feel that changes in the non-resident tuition would be desirable, it will be necessary to secure legislative authority before action can be taken.

Another phase of the enrollment problem which should receive the attention of the alumni is presented in a statement prepared by Mr. Holt, in which he states:

1. Wisconsin faces a serious situation due to the vigorous campaign of institutions of high learning (both in-state and out-of-state) for students. The seriousness is in the fact that the campaigns of other institutions have two obvious effects, first many of the strongest high school seniors are induced, by competitive examinations, scholarships, and various types of awards, to matriculate elsewhere, and second sometimes by design and at other times without design reports are circulated about the University which rebound to its discredit.

2. Other colleges are investing surprising amounts in programs through which high school students are reached and amazing energy is being exercised as a result of a condition of very keen competition.

3. The alumni of smaller institutions, particularly, seem willing to act as agents of their alma mater and are actively effective in influencing capable Wisconsin seniors to consider their respective colleges.

4. During each of the past four years we have had information direct from between 3000-4000 seniors each year, that they were interested in coming to Wisconsin. We have approached them by letter and we have invited them to come to the campus during the spring and summer months. But we have lost scores of the best of them because they have yielded to the inducements offered by other institutions. It must be remembered that the University has no fund from which scholarships may be offered to prospective students and that we offer no awards which are effective in inclining students to enter here.

There is still another phase of this problem, which was touched upon by Mr. Holt and which demands consideration. It is this: Misunderstanding and false impressions concerning the University exist in many sections of the state. Part of this at least is the result of wilful misrepresentation and part is due to the publicized activities of small and unrepresentative groups on the campus. These activities have led to controversy and press comment to an extent far out of proportion to their significance or importance. They have, however, because of such widespread publicity influenced to quite an extent public opinion regarding the University.

THE RECORD FILES
All alumni are listed here

Needless to say, these are all situations which concern the immediate and future welfare of the University, and they are situations in which the Alumni Association should be and is vitally interested. They are in no way questions involving partisan politics, liberalism, conservatism or religion. To meet them, at least two major problems must be considered:

1. The creation of the necessary machinery whereby authentic information and pertinent facts concerning the service rendered by the University to all groups of our citizens may be effectively disseminated throughout the state.

2. The safeguarding of the University itself against those who would use it selfishly for purposes of exploitation. The President referred to this recently when he said, "The University must guard against those who would use it simply as an intellectual market place retailing their pet set of political, social, religious, and economic opinion."

With regard to the first of these problems, the Association with the cooperation of Alumni generally can do much to dissipate the false notions now held, not only by many of our citizens but by many prospective students who because of misinformation or lack of information are turning away from the University. The second is one which must be solved by the University itself.

To carry out the Alumni Association's part of this apparently necessary program of education, it is suggested that the President of the Association be authorized to appoint a Special Committee whose function shall be to devise ways and means of accomplishing the desired end. This committee would undoubtedly call upon alumni in all parts of the state to cooperate in forming a state-wide organization whose efforts should not only prove effective in dealing with this particular problem but should be of value to the University in other ways as well. It might very well, for example, perform the functions of a legislative committee when conditions warranted such activity. Such a committee would also be available to meet and cooperate with any similar committee which might be authorized by the President and faculty of the University.

As one step in this general undertaking, arrangements have already been made through two state-wide organizations whereby meetings dealing with the University will be held throughout Wisconsin. Beginning in the early fall, the Secretary will devote considerable time to such meetings and the establishment of needed contacts. Part of the material to be presented is now being compiled with the cooperation of the Deans of the various colleges.

Reference should be made in this report to another University activity in which the alumni officially participate. The Association appoints two members to the Athletic Board, and these positions have been most ably filled during the past year by Mr. Alexander and Mr. Riordan. The problems of the board this year have been largely financial. Reduced receipts have made necessary drastic but temporary readjustments as to expenditures and activities. Such decreased receipts are not a result of decreasing interest but simply a by-product of economic conditions. This fact is also pointed out in a survey of college athletics contained in the report of Mr. Hoover's Committee on Social Trends.

On the whole the future looks promising. The phenomenal success which Dr. Spears achieved during his first year together with the unprecedented enthusiasm which is evident throughout the state justify the prediction that we are on the threshold of a new era, not only in football but in other sports as well. Furthermore the much disputed question as to Wisconsin's eligibility standards has cleared with the announcement by Dean Sellery that Wisconsin is at the top in this regard among Big Ten institutions. A readjustment of these requirements to conform more nearly with those of other institutions will do much to prevent

WALTER ALEXANDER, '97
Athletic Board Member

Wisconsin boys interested in athletic participation from enrolling at other universities and colleges. Such readjustment will not only help our enrollment but will appeal to the great majority of our citizens as "fair play" and will react to the benefit of the University. It is difficult to find a valid reason why standards for athletic competition at Wisconsin should be higher than at other institutions of high rank, such as Michigan, Illinois, and Minnesota. Action in this matter, however, could not be expected on the basis of rumor and hearsay. It was necessary that comparative data bearing on the question be first secured. Now that this has been done, proper action may be expected. In discussing various phases of intercollegiate athletics, it is important that alumni should bear in mind that this is not a state supported activity but that expenditures come from earnings.

During the past year, the Board of Directors (for obvious reasons) has initiated no projects involving the solicitation of funds. It has, however, continued to give a limited amount of financial aid to various student enterprises, among them the Badger, the Homecoming Committee, and various committees of the Union. It has again cooperated in furnishing suitable awards to honor students. It also authorized the appointment of a committee to make recommendations with regard to a suitable memorial to Professor Carl Russell Fish. It is eminently proper that the Association should take the lead in this movement. Not only was Professor Fish known and loved by perhaps a larger number of alumni than any other member of the faculty but, although not an alumnus, he was a member of the Association and served it in many ways. ## Sellery Report Discloses Fact That Wisconsin's Standards for Players Are Among The Most Difficult

DEAN SELLERY

REPORTING THE results of a two-month survey of the schools in the Western conference, Dean Sellery of the College of Letters and Science recently announced that no institution in the Big Ten has stiffer requirements for athletes than has Wisconsin. The survey was made following press statements that Wisconsin's requirements were far higher than those of other mid-western institutions.

Dean Sellery's report and a compilation of the standards of the other Conference schools bear out this contention. Following is the complete statement:

"The members of the Big Ten are governed by their general regulations (the so-called Western Intercollegiate Conference Athletic association rules), which lay down broad specifications controlling eligibility, relating to residence, good standing, etc. Secondly, a few of the member-institutions have their own additional specifications for eligibility, such as Wisconsin's much discussed point eight. These supplementary regulations reflect the local institution's ideas on what constitutes the necessary minimum of scholastic achievement for an athlete. A third form of regulation is found in the peculiar rules and practices of each institution with regard to grades, removal of conditions, probations, and the warning and dropping of students. It is safe to say that this third type of regulation is by far the most important.

"In actual practice, students are sometimes dropped for deficiency of scholarship in each institution belonging to the Big Ten, although if they were allowed to remain they could meet the Big Ten requirements and the additional requirements of the second sort specified above. In other words, what a student needs to do in order to stay in college varies from institution to institution, in accordance with local history, experience, habit, or whatever one likes to call it. And this divergence, awkward as it is for anyone who desires to make sure comparisons among the different institutions, is rooted in that freedom of experiment and to develop which no institution would be willing to forego, and which it ought not to be willing to surrender. It would be an evil day that saw standardized universities and colleges. Each one has—or ought to have—its own individual genius.

"We have tried roughly to determine, since an exact rating is absolutely out of the question, how hard or how soft it is for an athlete in each of the Big Ten institutions. We have done this on the basis of their requirements—those of the three types specified above. We have also had the advantage of the views of our athletic coaches on the matter. Nevertheless, we have given up the problem as insoluble; for while one institution is stiff on this, it is loose on that, and so on. But we are prepared—John Bergstresser and I—to state, as a definite and firm impression, that no institution in the Big Ten has stiffer or shall we say less soft requirements for athletes than has Wisconsin.

"The summary for the institutions in the Big Ten which we have made is based on correspondence with them. There remain, in a number of cases, certain points which we could not clear up. For example, each college in some universities has its own rules (of the third type). So we cannot guarantee detailed accuracy; and if any institution should say, 'You got us wrong,' we should answer, 'very likely.'

"Mr. Bergstresser, a member of the Letters and Science administration, and personally experienced in athletic activities at Wisconsin, has done the job of compilation."
G. C. SELLERY

Following is a very much abbreviated summary of the compilation of the summary of athletic requirements in Big Ten universities referred to by Dean George C. Sellery. Minute administrative regulations and variations in the interpretations of the Big Ten regulations have been omitted entirely.

CHICAGO—Under the new plan of education at the University of Chicago, athletic eligibility is determined on the basis of comprehensive examinations. To be eligible for intercollegiate competition, a student must have passed at least three comprehensive examinations in his preceding year. This is a special rule applying to athletes and is not a general student requirement.

Chicago has not formulated any general rule applying to probation and dismissal. Each student is dealt with on an individual basis.

ILLINOIS—In addition to the conference regulations, Illinois has a rule that students who are on probation are not eligible to compete in intercollegiate athletics. Probation may be incurred when there have been no failures in a student's record.

The graduation requirement at the University of Illinois is that a student must have grades of C or better in at least three-fourths of his credits. Presumably, a student would have to approach this qualitative standard, especially in his junior and senior years, in order to escape probation, and consequently to avoid ineligibility.

INDIANA—Special eligibility requirements are in effect only in the college of arts and sciences. In this division of the university, a student must be free from probation in order to compete in intercollegiate athletics. Students in this college must earn a minimum of 10 credits and 10 credit points (estimated on the

And a Good Time Was Had by All

Recent Depression Fails to Dim the Enthusiasm of the Class and Departmental Reunion Groups

DID THE various classes have a good time at their reunions? I'll say they did. At least they said they did. And just to prove it we are printing below the stories written by members of the reuning groups and you can guess for yourself whether or not "a good time was had by all."

Class of 1876

The class of 1876 was entertained at luncheon on Alumni Day, June 17th, at the Memorial Union Building, by Mr. A. S. Ritchie of Omaha. There were present of those graduated in 1876, besides Mr. Ritchie, Mrs. Nellie Williams Brown and Mrs. Mary Oertel Atwood. Associate members present were Mrs. Jessie Turville Thwaites and Mrs. Mary Clark Hoyt.

Mr. Ritchie also had as guests Mrs. O. D. Brandenburg, '85, Judge Burr W. Jones, '70, Mr. Howard L. Smith, '81, and Mr. George McConnell.

The class graduated 42 members of the 84 who entered as freshmen. Seven of these are still living. There have been three deaths during the year,—Mrs. Clara Lyon Hayes, Mrs. Elsena Wiswall Clough, and Mr. William Holm Williams.

The class of '76 has had an annual reunion since 1921,—its forty-fifth anniversary.

JESSIE T. THWAITES,
Secretary

Class of 1881

The class of '81 was represented at the reunion and commencement ceremonies by the long and the short of it—Howard L. Smith and Emil Baensch. The former was elected president, the latter, secretary. The president ordered all absentees to file written excuses with the secretary. Take notice and be governed accordingly.

The Class of '83

The Writing Room at the Memorial Building was set aside for our use during the Commencement season, and on Saturday morning ten of the twenty-seven living members of the class registered there and were busily engaged in talking until it was time to go to the Beef-eaters Room reserved for our luncheon.

Eighteen were seated at the table. The ten members were Messrs. Wallrich, Quincy, Dopp, Steele and Haight; Mesdames Elizabeth Hoyt Reynolds and Josephine Sarles Simpson; and the Misses Hobart, Rood and Beecroft. Mr. Steele was accompanied by Mrs. Steele; Mr. Wallrich by his wife and daughter; Mrs. Reynolds by her daughter, a teacher of mathematics; and Miss Hobart by her niece, Dr. Lewis of Milwaukee. We were happy to welcome Melvin Hoyt's wife, brother and sister-in-law, who came from Milwaukee to be with us at this time.

After the eats, the president called the meeting to order for the transaction of business. The election of officers resulted in the re-election of the same officials, president, Mrs. Simpson; secretary, Miss Beecroft; and Mr. Steele as vice-president, a new office. Miss Hobart received a vote of thanks for her strenuous work on the class history and was voted class historian.

A telegram was read from Susan Mylrea Holden and letters from Mr. Pennock, Mr. Kennedy, Mr. McGilton and Lorain Hulbert.

The Alumni Dinner followed at the end of which, according to a custom established by the University some years ago, the class president lighted the candle for '83, reciting the words which go with the lighting, to the prestige of herself and the class of '83, whom she represented.

Class of 1887

The Reunion of the class of '87 was held this year. Mrs. Chas. Carpenter entertained the class with a beautiful luncheon at her lovely home in Lakewood, on June 19th, at one o'clock. About 15 members of the class were present. Those attending the luncheon were Miss Katherine Allen, of Madison, Wis.; Mr. Ralph Blount of Chicago; Mr. Chas. Carpenter and Scofield Carpenter of Madison; Mrs. May Johnson Evans of Evansville, Wis.; Mrs. Ida Johnson Fisk of Madison; Mr. and Mrs. John Gabriel of Denver, Col.; Mr. Oscar Hallam, St. Paul, Minn.; Mr. Charles L. Hoover of Longmount, Col., and sister, Mrs. Charles Harding, of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Keller of Denver, Col.;

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Morris of Milwaukee; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Parmeley of Upper Montclair, N. J.; Mrs. Tessie Rodgers Price and Mr. Lester Price of Evanston, Ill.; and Mrs. Juliet Thorp Whitehead of Janesville, Wis.

After the luncheon photographs were taken in the garden and a business meeting was held at which Mr. Charles Morris was elected president and

THE CLASS OF 1893

Miss Allen, secretary and treasurer. Letters from absent members who regretted their inability to be present were read. A number of members gave interesting details of their experiences during the past five years after which the meeting adjourned. The class attended the Alumni dinner in the evening.

On Sunday morning, June the 20th, the members were invited for a motor trip, meeting at the home of Miss Katharine Allen. Miss Allen is noted for the beautiful trips on which she takes her friends, so guided the automobiles on this trip. Sunday evening the class united with members of the classes of '83, '84, '85, '86, and '88 for a supper at the College Club. The members were very enthusiastic and are looking forward to the next reunion in 1937.

MRS. GEORGE W. FISK.

Class of 1888

The attendance was small, but very enthusiastic. Headquarters were assigned to the class on the main floor of the Union and the attending members registered and visited among themselves and with other reunioners until one o'clock. At that time we lunched in the room assigned to us in the Union. The accommodations now available are quite sufficient and strongly invite these reunions. The following persons were present at the luncheon: E. E. Brossard, Earl P. Cobb, Cordelia Haner (Mrs. Earl

P. Cobb), Jessie M. Cole, Ferdinand A. Geiger, Clifford L. Hilton and wife, Alice E. Holt (Mrs. Vincent Guagliata), Edward C. Kremers and wife, Sophie M. Lewis (Mrs. S. M. Briggs), Emma Purdy (Mrs. Andrew Kentzler) and daughter Ruth Purdy Kentzler, Harry L. Russell and wife, Josephine Holt Steenis, May Stewart (Mrs. Charles F. Lamb), and John R. Wise and wife.

The program was entirely impromptu. Each classmate present was requested to tell where he had been and what he had done since graduation. This request was responded to by everyone with brevity and becoming modesty.

Cards and letters ranging from mere greetings and best wishes to longer reports were received. These writings were very interesting and some of them even informing. These communications were read, enjoyed and placed on file. They were from the following named classmates: Joseph Colt Bloodgood, George Bollinger, Julia Dalberg Bowers, Mary Sarles Clark and DeWitt (Peter) Clark, Seymour S. Cook, Kirke L. Cowdery, F. H. Denison, Mrs. James Goldsworthy, Wm. H. Hallam, Conde Hamlin, J. A. James, J. C. Jamieson, Emory R. Johnson, J. L. Millard, Alexander H. Reid, and W. A. Rogers.

The invitation sent to James Goldsworthy was responded to by his widow from Beaver, Oregon, in a most cordial and interesting letter. In it she informed us that she was expressing for our Sunday luncheon a loaf of their famous "Tillamook" cheese.

Necrology: The list of the dead lengthens. The following, so far as we are informed, have passed away: John S. Bach, James S. Bacon, John G. Bachuber, William E. Black, Walter M. Carr, Mary B. Conklin (Mrs. F. J. Colignon), Kenneth P. Chumasero, Cecil A. Copeland, William N. Crane, Alfred E. Diment, Frank E. Doty, William E. Durr, Fannie P. Farnsworth, Frank R. Farr, Clinton Fulton, Charles L. Fifield, Ralph C. Gill, Lewis G. Gjertsen, Ingebregt Grettum, Thomas W. Hogan, Evan O. Jackson, Edward T. Johnson, Dennis T. Keeley, John T. Kelly, George H. Kesten, George Legge, Abram M. Leland, John F. Lamont, Francis E. Madigan, George H. McCloud, Patrick H. McGovern, Lawrence B. Murphy, W. E. Morrissey, Louise M. McMynn (Mrs. Howard Greene), Thomas A. Polleys, John F. Riordan, Harriet T. Remington (Mrs. A. G. Laird), Henry S. Sloan, Lucius M. Squire, Israel Shrimski, Geo. E. Tarbox, John H. Williamson, Ambrose B. Winegar.

Business: We found that our class organization was totally disrupted. The president had died, the secretary de jure balked, we never had a treasurer (but that mattered not for we never had any money or class scrip). So the meeting decided upon a "new deal" for the "absent man". The meeting elected the class members now residing in Madison and their successors in residence an executive committee for the term of five years and longer (should the committee so determine) with dictatorial powers of the most sweeping character.

While this meeting was most enjoyable, still it was only the prelude to the Great Reunion that is to be our Golden Jubilee in 1938. It was here highly resolved that any member who can, but who does not attend the Great Reunion will be subjected to condign punishment. What the penalty will be was not decreed, but the executive committee is to devise and execute some torture befitting the offense. It may be that the offender will be cast into exterior darkness, if he is not already there. "So beware! So beware!" Point your compass to the campus for 1938.

We closed our luncheon meeting with a song written by a classmate for the occasion to the tune of "There's a tavern in our town". As might have been expected (and quite properly so) the burden of our song was "'88 is great".

We attended the alumni dinner and, of course, were seated near the throne. As to our joint meeting with '87 at the College Club on Sunday evening, we leave the report to be made by the older class.

THE CLASS OF 1903

1906 AT NAKOMA

Class of 1893

At eleven o'clock A. M. on Saturday, June 17, the Class of 1893 met at the Memorial Union Building. After having a photograph taken of the group on the steps of the Memorial Union, we adjourned to Wirka pier near the East Side St. Paul Depot, where a boat was awaiting us. We had a delightful ride across Lake Monona and down the Yahara River to Edwards Park on Lake Waubesa. Here, in a cool pavilion, an appetizing lunch was served by Mr. and Mrs. Maes and we spent the time visiting and reading letters from absent classmates.

At three o'clock we returned on the boat and during this trip back we got our somewhat disused baritones, tenors, and bassos profundo, and with the help of the sopranos and altos, sang the songs of '93.

That night we met again at the Alumni Banquet and—as those who were present can testify—electrified the assemblage with our classical class yell, even stirring up some of the other classes to imitate us.

Altogether it was a most enjoyable occasion and one which we are going to repeat in the near future. A letter has been sent to each member of the Class giving an account of our meeting.

Hon. George Kroncke of Madison was elected Class President, and Ella Davis Goodyear, also of Madison, was elected Secretary, to plan for the next reunion.

Those present this year were George Kroncke and wife, Joseph E. Messerschmidt and wife, Helen Mayer Hunt, Ella Davis Goodyear, Herbert S. Siggelko and Lillian Heald Kahlenberg of Madison; Harriet Richardson Hotten and husband of Williams Bay; Luella Knapp Fehlandt and husband of Ripon; Wilbur Stiles and wife of Lake Mills; George H. Katz and Fred W. Meissner of Milwaukee; Charles B. Rogers and Franklin Sweet of Fort Atkinson; Wm. L. Erbach and wife of Athens; George Williams and wife of Oshkosh; L. L. Tessier of DePere; Rev. Benjamin Thomas of Lodi; Nicholas Thauer of Watertown; Robert Mitchell of Portage; J. Glen Wray and wife of Glencoe, Illinois; and Hattie Smith of Chicago.

1903 Reunion

And now would you like to hear about it? Sixty-two of us sat down together in the Old Madison room for Saturday's luncheon. About seventy-five were at the Alumni banquet and some thirty of us did not miss a thing from Friday evening to the breakfast at nine Sunday morning.

Who were there? Well, you remember Geerlings?

Just as tall, straight, and good looking as ever. The pity of it was that Allan Pray wasn't there for us to prove him wrong when he said we might substitute a bunch of gray heads for the lithe, young '03ers he knew we were.

The engineering profession was represented by Henry Saunders of Washington, D. C.; Olaf Laurgaard, city engineer of Portland, Oregon; H. L. Stevens, F. C. Weber, Clark Gapen, and Ben Lyons, of Chicago; John Cadby and Henry Geerlings from Milwaukee; Fred Chamberlain, Louis Reuping, F. C. Marvin, Billy Huels, George Keachie, and Martin Torkelson.

Now count up the lawyers: Bill Haight, Seth Richardson, J. A. Malone, still from the town of the big bluffs (he said so himself), and Charles Hammersley. George Keachie would be the one to point out the difference in totals.

The rest of the Who-whosies are: Anna McDonald Grinde, who received the prize for being the mother of seven children along with George A. Perham, father of another seven youngsters; Bob Crawford, whose eldest son was the cut-up of the young folk; May Stiles Brummer, Cherokee, Iowa; Jessie Pelton Smith, H. A. Smythe, without whom no 1903 reunion could function, Constance Haugen Legreid, who saw that we were fed some pretty tasty meals, L. W. Pullen, Kansas City; Edward Power Conway, Phoenix, Arizona; May Humphrey Le Clair, Ben C. Cover, Mrs. Persis Bennett Thomas, Andrew Hopkins, L. S. Van Orden, Eugene Byrne, now of Columbia university; Dr. Arnold Gesell of Yale; J. C. Zimmerman, Theo. Pickford Owen, Josephine Wells Moseley with her tall son, Gertrude Mattison Hull, Grace E. Monroe, Dr. and Mrs. Guin Mihills Mowry, Wm. B. Currie.

Nearly everyone brought his wife and some their children. The young folk did all sorts of things from swimming to dancing. Then there were others who were too busy having a good time to properly register. You know that one forgets to register when he runs upon six at a time he hasn't seen in thirty years.

Class of 1906

One of the fine tests of reunion interest was furnished by the unexpectedly large turnout of '06, coming as it did only two years after the silver anniversary. Altogether, forty-five gathered at the Nakoma Country Club, scene of the memorable reunion in 1931, for their class luncheon and program.

For many of the '06 members of Kappa Kappa Gamma, the June assemblage was a "reunion within a reunion." Inspired by Florence De Lap Steel's persuasive letters, more than a dozen returned from the far corners of the country for a joyous time together. Longest-distance honors went to Jessie Johnson Card, of Tacoma, Wash., and her daughter, Janet, student at the University of Washington. As guests of this group at Nakoma were several Kappas of contemporary classes, including Mrs. Litta Fuller Jones, '05, Boscobel; Grace Munroe, '03, Baraboo; Myra Parkinson, '07, Madison; Maud M. Munroe, '07, Detroit; Mrs. Cosalette Elliott Quarles, '08, Milwaukee; and Mrs. Rhoda Rietow Reiss, '08, Sheboygan.

The luncheon over, a speaking program under the guidance of Prof. O. L. Kowalke, president, gave opportunity for brief talks by Leroy F. Harza, W. E. Wagener, Fred V. Larkin, Walter E. Sprecher, Laura M. Olsen, Albert J. Schoephoester (all the way from Seattle), Jessie Johnson Card, Don E. Mowry (now high in the Sears, Roebuck organization), and others. All present were introduced for identification and greetings.

The presence of many children gave added zest to the reunion. In this connection it was noted that Bill Wagener was about to see his second daughter, Ruth, graduated from the University, following by one year the graduation of another daughter; that Jessie Corse Kachel's son, William, Jr., was a member of the graduating class of the College of Engineering; and that Walter Sprecher's son, Drexel, becomes a University senior. Others have similar claims.

It was a matter of note, also, that the class of 1906 includes three college presidents, three heads of engineering departments of universities, and three congressmen (past and present).

Letters from many who could not come back were read by L. W. Bridgman, secretary. There were messages from E. T. Howson, Chicago; Mrs. E. A. Dockstader (Bess Adams), West Newton, Mass.; Adelaide Miller, Westcliffe, Colo. (permanent home Chippewa Falls, Wis.); Victor Kadish, Milwaukee; Zeb Kinsey, Yakima, Wash.; Marion Ryan, Wauwatosa; Mrs. E. W. Blakeman (Anna Du Pre Smith), Ann Arbor, Mich.; John Earl Baker, Shanghai, and others.

The class roster over the weekend included:

L. F. Harza, Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Burling, Milwaukee; Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Vergeront (Barbara Munson), and two of their daughters, Viroqua; Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Schoephoester and daughters, Seattle; Mr. and Mrs. Ben Roderick (Matilda Blied, '07), Brodhead; Fred V. Larkin and son, Bethlehem, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Sprecher and son, Independence; Anna G. Birge, Mrs. Ruth Lyon Kemmerer, Mrs. Mary Swenson North, Jennie T. Schrage, Alma M. Runge, Laura M. Olsen, Mr. and Mrs. William Conway, M. C. Otto, Don E. Mowry, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. ### The Twenty-fifth Reunion of the Class of 1908

The twenty-fifth reunion of the class of 1908 was unusually well attended and all seemed to enjoy the get-together immensely. The reunion started with a luncheon in the Game Room of the Memorial Union with sixty-five in attendance (incidentally it was the largest group dining in the Union that noon). The members of the class in attendance were:

Mott T. Slade, Rochester, New York; Louise Walker Lorenz, Alva Mellass Gulian, Milwaukee; H. L. Walster, Fargo, No. Dakota; E. W. Krauthofer, Milwaukee; E. P. Abbott,

Boston; G. G. Blatz, Milwaukee; Winifred Merrill Geisse, Wausau; Ernest F. Rice, Milwaukee; W. G. Sexton, Ellen M. Sexton, Marshfield; Zettie Sieb Schaad, Cuba Canan, Oak Park, Ill.; B. C. B. Tighe, Fargo, No. Dakota; Lottie Churchill Benkert, Monroe; Nora Nepurd Grossman, Westby; Wm. F. Kachel, C. W. Van Derzer, Milwaukee; Richard Perwein, St. Paul; B. O. Bishop, Racine; Benj. A. Polzin, Wilmette, Ill.; E. E. Brindley, Richland Center; Fayette H. Elwell, Adeline Schlaefer Messerschmidt, O. P. T. Daenitz, H. N. Le-greid, Gail Libby Jensen, Ethel Caine Van Hagen, Ethel Churchill Watson, Grace B. Bewick, Anne Martin Tarrell, T. R. Hefty, Chas. A. Halbert, Susan Armstrong, Ray M. Stroud, and E. J. Brabant, all of Madison.

After the luncheon President Ernie Rice called on the Secretary to read the letters received from classmates unable to attend the celebration. They were from A. R. Clifton (Superintendent of Schools of Los Angeles County, California), Ethel Sabin Smith (Mills College, California), P. H. Myers (Business Research Corporation, Chicago), Bertha Fisher Buchanan (511 Aldama St., Los Angeles, California), and George B. Hill (139 E. 30th St., New York City).

Each class member then gave a short resume of his history, wanderings and accomplishments during the twenty-five years. This stunt proved to be a very interesting and entertaining one for without it how would we know that Ethel Caine Van Hagen was a grandmother, that Krauthofer looked after athletes' feet, that Ernie Rice was still trying to sell stocks and bonds, that Ben Tighe's family of four were on a balanced budget, and that Sue Armstrong's red bathing suit of 1908 was still remembered. Lottie Churchill Benkert's son, who graduated Monday, was there with his fiancée. Gould Van Derzer claimed, and all agreed, that he was the wealthiest man present—he had his wife and two charming daughters with him.

The President then called for the Financial Report of the Secretary who reported he had $11.00 (saved from the 1923 reunion) on deposit in the First National Bank of Madison and that the expenses of sending out the postal card and letter were $9.33. There was therefor a balance of $1.67 in the treasury and no assessment was necessary. Since George Hill enclosed a $2.00 check with his letter, it was moved that his check should be accepted and duly deposited. Motion carried unanimously, George!

Right here let us say that the ribbon badges, most appropriately printed for the occasion, were contributed by Ben Polzin. Thanks, Ben! The class officers were re-elected at the same salary for the next five years,—President, Ernest F. Rice, 4049 North Lake Drive, Milwaukee; Secretary, Fay Elwell, Sterling Hall, University of Wisconsin, Madison.

There was a general discussion arising from points brought up in George Hill's letter about getting up another class history. It was finally decided that George would be asked to do this provided ten or twelve '08'ers distributed geographically would assist him in getting the data from the class members in their respective areas. It is planned that this history will be ready for distribution in April or May, 1938.

After the luncheon meeting adjournment, the crowd took a launch ride on Lake Mendota and then attended the Alumni dinner and dance in the Memorial Union. Sunday, Gail Libby Jensen was hostess at a picnic lunch given in the beautiful gardens of her home in Nakoma. It was a truly delightful occasion. The class then adjourned to Mel Diemer's cottage on Lake Mendota for a swim and a talk fest.

The Secretary is particularly anxious to make our 1908 news in the Alumni Magazine of interest to the class, and asks that each member send in such news items as would be appropriate for the class letter.

'23's Tenth Anniversary

How times do change! Ten years ago, when we graduated, we were talking about parties and possible jobs. This year we talked about children, the market and, some of us, about possible jobs. But it was a lot of fun. Some of the classmates hadn't been back for ten years, while there were others who live close by but who just hadn't been around the campus for many a moon.

The fun started on Friday afternoon when the first pilgrims arrived to register at the Memorial Union. The other classes in our group had headquarters in the same corner of the Council Room and class lines were soon forgotten in the camaraderie which sprang up.

The dance Friday night just hit the spot. Bill Ferguson's band played some of the old favorites that carried us back to our college days. The night was ideal, the punch excellent and the music just right. Credit is due to Johnny Bergstresser of the class of '25 for the efficient way in which he handled this function.

We all gathered again on Saturday afternoon for a rousing picnic. Hommel's furnished a fine lunch and the hundred or more people who were there furnished the entertainment. Guy Sundt, ably assisted by Irv Uteritz, adopted by Wisconsin, did a very fine job of pouring the foaming beverage.

All in all it was a lot of fun and everyone present made a solemn promise to be on hand for the next reunion in 1938, when all of us will probably be driving back in Packards.

Class of 1924 Reunion

Old man weather joined with the classes of 1922, 1923 and 1925 to give the grand old class of WATCH '24 its second bang up successful reunion this spring. In spite of the more or less unfavorable prophecies for a large attendance because of the War Debt situation and minor matters pertaining to the gold standard, a surprising number of twenty-fourites appeared for the dance and picnic. Some faithful and more flush classmates registered from as far as Maryland and another bold westerner lassoed his wife and rode in from Colorado.

It was a great reunion, with much handshaking, backslapping, I haven't seen you since whens, and forgetting of names. There was plenty of remembering of faces, however, and everybody voted the five year reunion idea decidedly worth while.

The Madison contingent of 1924 have resolved five years from now to stage even a bigger and better affair. With personal invitations from the 100 or more from our class living in the city even a larger group will undoubtedly be persuaded to put Class Reunion, 1938, down on their calendars as "must."

Class of 1925

Good weather, good attendance and a good time featured the 1925 reunion. Friday afternoon we had registration and informal open house in the Union. Friday evening the classes of '22, '23, '24, and '25 danced at the A. T. O. house. We had a great turnout and it was just like old times. When Bill Ferguson's orchestra played "Whispering" and "Japanese Sandman", we closed our eyes, put our cheeks together and imagined ourselves back in 1925. During the intermission, "Port" Butts and "Johnny" Bergstresser crooned some of the old favorites.

Saturday afternoon we had a picnic. By that time everyone was well acquainted. We had an excellent picnic lunch, buffet style. Beer was also served and Guy Sundt, '22, "poured", assisted by Irv Uteritz. After lunch the men staged quite a professional ball game. The wives were very enthusiastic fans, razzing celebrities such as Gus Tebell when they failed to connect for a hit.

We concluded activities with a swimming party Sunday morning at the Willows. It was one great week-end, so be sure and be in on the fun in 1938.

MARY DEVINE SORENSEN.

Physical Education Alumnae

The Women's Physical Education Alumnae Association annual spring luncheon was held in Lathrop Lounge Saturday noon, June 19. Thirty-four members of the Association were present, including classes from 1913 through 1933, and members as far distant as Texas and California.

Miss Grace Stafford, Assistant Director of Physical Education in Gary, Indiana, who is president of the Association, read messages of regret from Alumnae members who were unable to attend the luncheon. After favorite Physical Education Club songs were sung, each member was asked to stand and tell her name, date of graduation from Wisconsin, and present occupation. A short business meeting was then held, and it was decided to reduce membership dues from two to one dollar, if the majority of the Alumnae Association were in favor.

Miss Blanche M. Trilling gave a short address, welcoming the group back to Wisconsin, and relating the changes which have come about during the years. She

Deaths

JOHN H. BRENNAN, '81, general counsel for the Barnsdall Oil corporation at Tulsa, Okla., died at his home in Tulsa on May 11. Mr. Brennan graduated from the law school in 1885 with one of the highest averages ever attained. He practiced law in Kewaunee and Green Bay for twenty-two years. At the 1896 Democratic convention Mr. Brennan was chairman of the credentials committee. He opposed William Jennings Bryan and the silver forces of the Democratic party, later bolting to the "Gold Democrats" and supporting their nominee at a later convention in Indianapolis. He moved to Bartlesville, Okla., in 1907. He was an attorney in Oklahoma from 1907 to 1922 and from 1930 until the time of his death. He lived on the Pacific coast from 1922 to 1930. He became general counsel for the Barnsdall corporation in 1919.

WILLIAM WRIGHT ARMSTRONG, Ll. B. '87, died on October 23, 1932, after several years of illness. Mr. Armstrong was one of the most dynamic leaders in the inter-mountain states, particularly Utah, where he made his home. He never engaged in the active practice of law, preferring to devote his attention to a wide range of business interests. A few years after receiving his law degree Mr. Armstrong moved to Salt Lake City where he obtained work as a collector. In 1894 the banking business attracted him for the second time in his life and he accepted an appointment as cashier of the bank in Nephi, Utah. Following this his interests varied and he held many responsible positions in business and financial houses in the state. His most widely known work in the field of finance was the organization in 1910 of the National Copper Bank of Salt Lake City which developed under his leadership into one of the strongest banks in the mountain country. Mr. Armstrong was a pioneer in a large number of businesses and succeeded in establishing the Columbia Steel co., in Nevada.

He also took a deep interest in public affairs and served as president of the Salt Lake Association of Commerce in 1912-13; a member of the state senate in 1917; a regent of the University of Utah in 1919-20 and on many other state and local boards and commissions. He established the Radium Company which purchased a supply of radium to aid the people in that territory to benefit from the cures which that element produces. Overwork caused a severe nervous breakdown and in 1929 he was forced to retire from active participation in his many enterprises. He was a 32nd degree Mason and an Elk. He is survived by his wife and son, Sherman.

AMUND KELLAND, '96, died at his home in Viroqua, Wis., on June 19. Mr. Kelland had been county treasurer of Vernon county for the past twenty years and had earned a very splendid record as a public official. Mr. Kelland worked in the Secretary of State's office while obtaining his law degree. He returned to his home town, Viroqua in 1903, practiced law until 1908 when he was elected city treasurer, which term he held for five years. In 1913 he was elected county treasurer, the office he held at the time of his death. He is survived by a brother and four sisters.

THEODORE BERG, '98, judge of the Municipal Court in Appleton, Wis., died at his home on June 10 after a brief heart attack. Judge Berg was

Florence PENNOCK Leavitt writes: "I regret that I cannot be with you at Commencement time. Next year will be our sixtieth anniversary. I expect old '74 will do its best, whether we feel 'like sixty' or not. A request for 'something' suggests an incident from 'Ye Olden Tyme,' which may interest at least those who cherish the memory of Professor Stephen H. Carpenter. As a member of the 'experimental class' in coeducation, 1874, I had one recitation the first term with two other co-eds and the men of '73 under Professor Carpenter. Sitting by ourselves, funny as it may seem, the professor completely ignored us. When this had become more of an irritant than a relief, I wrote out what we considered a very proper protest. This was signed by the other girls and passed to him. Working for womanhood, as well as ourselves, there was no thought of retreat. From that time on, however, this grand professor gave us all the attention and testing we might crave,—no professor more inspiring, more helpful and beloved. The affair had long been forgotten, when in our senior year a number of us, co-eds, had assembled earlier than usual in his class room. The professor started a pleasing conversation. He said, 'I feel that I owe the women of this class an apology. In my father's family there were no girls. In my own family no girls. I really knew little of girls or women. It was an honest opinion with me what women wanted of a university training; what they could do with it, if successful. Then I thought they would lower the standard for our young men, prove a distraction, more love-making than study. Well, then to be honest, I really believed they were not capable of taking the work. Now I want to confess I was wrong in every particular. They have proven a stimulus to our young men, set higher standards, and given them something to do to keep up with them.' Is not this just another reminder of the truly noble man Professor Carpenter was?"

Class of 1883

Harvey R. HOLMES writes from Reno, Nevada, "I would enjoy four days of campus chatter and hope to make it. Nevada has a wonderful climate, also abundance of desert and sage. We who have lived here long enjoy it, for "Home means Nevada, Home means the hills, Home means the sage and Pines. Out by the Truckee's silvery rills, Out where the sun always shines. There is the land that I love the best, Fairer than all I can see. Out in the Heart of the Golden West, HOME means Nevada to me!"—Katharine A. ROOD presented a group of her piano pupils in a recital in her studio in Stevens Point recently.

Class of 1884

Clarence J. HICKS was awarded the honorary degree of Master of Arts at the Commencement ceremonies at Princeton University. In presenting Mr. Hicks, Dr. Wilson Farrand, clerk of the Board of Trustees, said: "Clarence John Hicks, a leader in the work of bringing about better feeling and fairer dealing between employer and employee; Director of Industrial Relations, successively, in three great corporations; responsible for installing and conducting the first plan of employee representation in this country; lecturer on Industrial Relations in Harvard, Yale, and Princeton. By his effort the Industrial Relations Section in this University was established and to it he has given constant aid and advice. He retires, after a distinguished career, the acknowledged dean of workers in this important field." Mr. Hicks, who is acknowledged as the leading authority on industrial relations in the U. S., retired on July 1 from the Standard Oil co. of N. J., where he has been executive assistant to the president since 1917. He has been retained in an advisory capacity by Industrial Relations Counselors and will have an office in Rockefeller Center, where the fruits of his long experience in this field will be available.

Class of 1885

A bust of the late Dr. H. L. PAMMEL has been placed in Iowa State college at Ames. Dr. Pammel was head of the botany department at Iowa State for many years.

Class of 1889

Theodore SCHROEDER was the subject of an article entitled "A Maverick Psychologist" by Maynard Shipley which was printed in The New Humanist for March-April. The article stated in part: "A hundred and sixty periodicals in six languages have published Theodore Schroeder's psychological, philosophical, religious, medical, sociological and legal essays; yet his name has never appeared in either "Who's Who in America," "American Men of Science," or the "Cyclopaedia of American Biography." In the first fourteen years that The Psychoanalytic Review was published, Schroeder contributed more articles to it than any other person except the editor, yet he is not a member of any psychoanalytic society or of the American Psychologic Association. Technical journals of law, medical psychology, and medicine welcome his work, but he has never had a medical degree. Although he is a member of the New York bar, he does not belong to the Bar association. All this by choice. Theodore Schroeder is a voluntary maverick. The same dislike of conformity, of standardization, that makes him wear pink neckties (his friends buy out the stock whenever they see one displayed in a store window); that has kept him from ever hearing an opera ("it attempts to intensify our feelings and fantasy life — precisely the infantilism which we must outgrow if we are ever to have a sane world"); that causes him to wear his spectacles under his chin, because they are more comfortable that way than over his forehead, has kept him out of organizations and factions."—Jessie E. HUTCHINSON writes: "I hit the trail again for a week's visit to the Muscle Shoals project, a remarkable experience at Florence, Ala., with Col. Willson's family who escorted me over the Panama Canal before the first water went over the Gatun Locks. I was surprised to find a larger lock at Muscle Shoals. Now we plan to see the last word in engineering at Hoover Dam, where our John L. SAVAGE, '03, has been chief designing engineer.

Class of 1923

Frances STEIN Biddick is living at 2624 S. Howell ave., Milwaukee. She has two sons. — Werner P. MEYER is now associated with the Behel & Waldie Advertising agency, Daily News Plaza, Chicago. His wife, Agatha RAISBECK, '24, and their two daughters are located at Odell, Ill. for the summer. — Warren S. HUBBARD has just completed his third year as head of the department of Spanish at Peddie school, Hightstown, N. J. — Egbert B. BUNDY was elected school commissioner from the Third Ward in Eau Claire by nearly a ten to one majority. — Fay ATHERTON Kruth writes: "I'm sorry that my ten months school prevented me from reuniting this year with my classmates. However, last year I made up for lost time when I attended summer school at Wisconsin. It was thrilling to meet so many of my old Varsity friends." She is teaching music at the Michigan Home & Training school, Lapeer, Mich. — John A. LEIRICH will attend Adams State Teachers college and be in charge of a demonstration school for the summer.—Robert S. PALMER is practicing internal medicine in Boston. His address is 264 Beacon st.—James E. OSTROM, editor of the Gateway Chronicle, Wyandotte, Mich., writes: "Since I grasped my diploma in one hand and a picture of the graduating class in the other back in 1923, I have planned on returning to the good old University of Wisconsin in 1933 to look for my initials on one of those logs extending out over "The Drive" along Lake Mendota, and to see what ten years would do to my classmates. Because I was not on Morgan's "preferred list" and because we have had a bank holiday in Michigan (what is a bank holiday?) I am doomed to disappointment. Several times since graduation, brief trips have taken me to the campus where the engineers and lawyers still hurl defiant shouts at one another, but these trips were never at graduation time. How good the old school did look to me! Perhaps in another five years this bank situation and the general economic muddle will all be ironed out and I can come back to the place where I tooted for Wisconsin under the baton of Major Morphy. Believe me, I am still tooting for Wisconsin, even though I am in territory hostile to the athletic claims of the Badger teams,—territory where the headlines "Eckersall 6, Wisconsin 3," are still remembered. My earnest wish is that your reunion is a huge success."—Earl F. GILL, legislative representative of the Citizens Budget commission of New York, spent his vacation in Madison during June.—Mr. and Mrs. Horace GREGORY (Marya ZATURENSKY) of New York and their two children are spending a month in Milwaukee. Hervey is a dairy farmer and an aviator, and any Wisconsin aviators or others in the east are invited to visit him.—Elmer “Ty” DAHLGREN writes: “First, I wish to announce the arrival of our second child, Betty Ann, on May 4, my birthday. She weighed 8 lbs. ½ oz. Our oldest child, George, was two years old in April. Since January 1, 1931 I have been connected with the oil proration activities in this state. As the State Legislature in April enacted a new oil proration law, I was fortunate in securing a lucrative position as one of the five chief deputy proration umpires. The law provides for a state proration umpire, an assistant umpire, five chief deputy umpires, and 25 deputy umpires. My work has been chiefly with the gigantic Oklahoma City Field, which contains about 1030 wells at the present time. While in Tulsa last month attending the mid-year meeting of the American Petroleum institute, I had dinner with Bill STEVEN, '30 who is a reporter for the Tulsa Tribune. I notice by the local papers that Sam and Lee KENNEDY of Tulsa are entered in the State Open Golf tournament here this week. I hope to visit Madison in early fall while on my vacation.”—L. O. TETZLAFF has been appointed principal of the high school at Richland Center.—T. H. BUTTERWORTH writes: “At Plainsboro, N. J., just midway between Philadelphia and New York City, is the Walker-Gordon Laboratory co., but don't let the name scare you. It's really a big certified milk producing farm. From the main line of the Pennsy R. R. you can see some of the buildings and if you come by auto via U. S. No. 1, the super-highway from the west to New York City, you pass within a short mile of the farm. Now whether you are interested in dairying or not, after your trip to the Century of Progress you will doubtless go home via New York, and to make your century complete, you owe it to yourself to see the Walker-Gordon rotolactor, a revolving table holding 50 cows, continuously turning for five hours three times in the twenty-four, and milking over 1,000 cows at each period. All Wisconsinites are cordially invited to visit us any time of the day, holidays, Sundays, or week days. Just ask for Dr. Butterworth, which is me, Wisconsin Ph. D. '31, and that is all you have to do to get a personally conducted tour through the whole plant. Seriously, you Badgers, make yourself known. I'll be delighted to see you, and remember there's only one rotolactor in the world and it's not at Chicago but at N. J. How about it? Will I be seeing you?"—George W. and Mabel ERRICKSON CURRAN, '28, are living at 1618 W. 64th st., Los Angeles. George is in the technical department of radio station KFI-KECA. — Francis F. MRS. HOWARD FELTON (Mary Alene Forney), ex-'23, died on December 23, 1932. She is survived by her husband.

BYRON E. PONTUIS, M.S. '24, died on March 16, 1932.

DR. VICTOR T. DEWAR, '25, and his wife were instantly killed when their plane crashed in Colorado on May 26. Dr. Dewar, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Dewarzegger, of Green Bay, took his M. D. degree at Rush Medical college in Chicago and then went to Colorado to practice. He had been in the west for the past six years.

EDGAR BRAATZ, ex-'25, died at Culver City, California, on June 7, 1932. He had been a resident of that city since 1927.

WARREN C. BROOKS, ex-'25, a city mail carrier in Shawano, Wis., died in that city on January 1, 1933.

HELEN HAACK JOHNS, '27, died on Nov. 13, 1932, as a result of an automobile accident.

NORMAN G. LENTZNER, ex-'31 (S.S.), prominent Wisconsin school teacher, died at his home in Milwaukee on June 4. He was a graduate of Beloit college and had been doing work during the Summer Sessions at the University in an effort to obtain his master's degree. Mr. Lentzner taught in many schools about the state and at the time of his death was principal of Luther Burbank school in Milwaukee.

1933 Football Ticket Information

By George Levis
Ass't Director of Athletics

WISCONSIN is entering the 1933-34 athletic year with a very difficult football schedule calling for four games in Madison and four games away. In line with other schools in the Conference, we have reduced the admission price to our alumni and public, and are offering end seats at a further reduction.

The Marquette, Purdue and Ohio State games played in Madison will cost ticket purchasers $2.20, with $1.10 seats located on the ends of the field. The West Virginia game has been priced at $1.10 for all seats in the stadium, despite the fact that that school will bring a very strong representative eastern team to Madison. Because of the former association of Dr. Spears with that school as its football coach, this game promises to be an unusually interesting non-Conference contest.

Every year we have a certain clientele who purchase season tickets. This year, we are offering the four home games for a net price of $7.00. If you desire to secure such seats, kindly designate your preference as to the east or west stands, enclose twenty cents for mailing charge and we will so fill your order.

Last year, we mailed about 60,000 application blanks to general alumni, alumni association members and to the public. From this group we received approximately 3,000 orders, bringing the cost of each order so received to almost fifty cents. It is obvious that such method of sales is too costly for this Department to undertake at this time. We are, therefore, adopting a policy of mailing application blanks only to alumni association members, "W" men and to a few appearing on our alumni and public lists who have ordered regularly for the past few years. Application blanks will be gladly mailed to anyone upon request. However, this does not mean that we are aiming to reduce mail orders—it is merely an effort on our part to reduce the cost of distribution of our application blanks at this time.

Members of the Football Advisory Ticket Committee who are located in towns throughout the State, newspapers and civic organizations will be supplied with application blanks making them easily available to all. Please bear in mind also that application blanks are not absolutely necessary, except for those who are members of the Alumni Association and "W" winners. A request on regular stationery, with a certified check or money order enclosed, will insure the applicant seats for any contest. Our Football Ticket Committee members will be equipped to give you further information, and this office will be at your service to facilitate your securing well located seats.

Communications should be addressed to Director of Ticket Sales, 711 Langdon Street, Madison. Phones—Badger 4075 and 4075, or through the regular University exchange, University 11 and 12.

60 Life Insurance Policies, Paid Up By Class of '13, Help Students Today

SIXTY LIFE INSURANCE policies which were taken out by members of the Class of 1913 will be the means by which a number of needy and deserving students, many of whom were probably born back in those pre-war days, are going to be able to continue their education during the coming year. Gifts of members of the Class of 1913 to the University's loan funds, the 20-payment life insurance policies are now paid up, and are being cashed by M. E. McCaffrey, secretary of the board of regents, who also has charge of University trust and loan funds.

Payment of the policies, which were taken out in the state life insurance funds, will add to the University's loan funds for students for the coming year a total of $2,662.01, swelling the total of the Class of 1913 Loan fund to $5,971.39. On July 1, 1932, the fund contained a total of $3,309.38, according to Mr. McCaffrey.

In June 1913, the graduating class turned over to the University the proceeds of the class play and other stray class funds, the entire gift amounting to $396.48. This was the beginning of the fund.

But the members of the class wanted to do more for the University which had given them their education, and after much speculation, they finally decided to take out the 20-payment life insurance policies, keep up the payments for two decades, and then permit the money from the paid up policies to revert to the University's student loan funds. Little did they know how important these funds would be to the many depression-ridden students of 1933.

Originally 120 members of the class took out the insurance policies, but at the present time just half of them are in force. One other policy was paid to the University following the death of the member of the class who took it out.

In the meantime, the original class gift of almost $400 increased each year with the addition of interest and the dividends from the policies. One member of the class, Mrs. Amy Winship, made an additional gift of $100, and up to a year ago this fund had grown to more than $3,300. With the addition of the funds derived from the insurance policies this year, the fund, now swelled to almost $6,000 will be loaned in small lots to needy and deserving students.

What Others Think of Us

AT THE ANNUAL meeting of the American Alumni Council at Evanston last month there was submitted a critical analysis of sixty-four of the leading alumni publications. Here is the comment on your magazine:

"Wisconsin Alumni Magazine. Fortunate Badgers! Are there any who do not subscribe? Mostly about Wisconsin, but occasional articles on education, music, journalism, economics, law and science. Excellent treatment of university life. Fine monthly calendar. Editorials are good commentaries. Alumni Briefs a good feature. Sketches of noted alumni well done. Class items not numerous but newsy. Excellent illustrations, magnificent covers!"

The Association's Work

committee named consists of Mr. Harshaw, Chairman, Professor Graber, Mr. Richard Lloyd Jones, Mr. Burling, and Regent Mead. The committee will meet later today and it is possible a preliminary announcement of their plans may be made at the Senior-Alumni Dinner this evening.

In concluding this report it should be emphasized that the Association exists for the purpose of promoting the welfare of the University and its student body, and to encourage the interest of the alumni in the University and in each other. If it is to be the instrumentality for constructive service it was intended to be, such differences of opinion as are certain to arise on various questions must not be permitted to defeat its larger and common purpose. Only through alumni cooperation and support can worthwhile things be accomplished, and it is particularly desirable that Alumni take an active interest and offer suggestions as to projects they feel the Association should undertake. And to repeat, the future discloses no project of such importance as that involved in establishing a greater popular confidence in the University.

Important Actions of the Regents

During the first year enrollment in the course will be limited. The course will consist of a four-year study of Greek and Roman civilization by means of a study of language and literature, history and institutions, politics, economics, religion, art and philosophy. It will attempt to introduce the student to the most significant creations of the human spirit and the most significant problems of society and human intercourse, by means of a thorough study of one great creative civilization.

Approve Milwaukee Lot Purchase

Approval of negotiations between Milwaukee and the University of Wisconsin, under which the University will trade several lots it now owns in Milwaukee for land to which the city holds title, was also voted by the board.

The Milwaukee City Council approved transfer of the property about a month ago. By their action, the regents authorized University administrative officials to carry on the negotiations looking to a completion of the transaction.

Transfer of the property will give the University valuable land adjacent to the property on which its Milwaukee Extension buildings are now located. Under the terms of the transfer, the University will obtain nearly twice as much land as it gives the city of Milwaukee.

Approval of the negotiations was opposed by Regent Daniel Grady on the grounds that the board was overstepping its power and the transaction was a matter for legislative action. He agreed, however, that the trade would be a good thing for the University.

In answer to remarks by Regent Grady that it looked as though another "university was being established in Milwaukee," Mrs. Berger replied that there is no danger at all of such a thing happening, and that the Milwaukee Extension of the University merely serves the people of that area in their desire for higher education.

Athletic Eligibility

same basis as Wisconsin's grade points) to avoid probation. It is further stipulated that students shall not be allowed to continue competition in any semester if, at the mid-semester period, they are reported as doing unsatisfactory work in five credits.

In the school of medicine, a student must earn 38 credit points on 31 hours to continue in medicine. An athlete enrolled in this school must, therefore, maintain better than a 1 point average to avoid dismissal, or else transfer to some other college in the university which has less rigorous requirements.

IOWA—Although regulations, beyond those of the conference, are implied in some of the material received from the University of Iowa, it is probably safe to say that Iowa uses the conference standards to determine eligibility.

A two point or C average, computed on the basis of one grade point for D, two for C, three for B, and four for A, is the graduation requirement. Probation and dismissal are governed by a "sliding scale" arrangement. A freshman, for example, can avoid probation by earning an average of 1.5. At the end of the junior year, however, the student must have averaged slightly above 1.9 during his three years of residence to avoid probationary status. If a student is placed on probation, he must, during the following semester, bring his average up to the minimum set by the faculty or be dropped.

MICHIGAN—Eligibility at Michigan is determined (subject to conference rules, of course) by a committee of seven faculty members appointed by the president. The registrar always meets with this committee.

One member of the eligibility committee has summarized Michigan's practice in the following statement: "I think it is pretty accurate to say that we have no scholastic eligibility requirements over and beyond those set up by the conference. The only possible exception would be the occasional practice, which is not pursued under any rule, of withholding a young man because he has been delinquent in attendance or in his work during the current semester."

Michigan requires a C average for graduation. In the college of literature, science and the arts, a student who is placed on probation stays on probation (if not meanwhile dropped) until his entire university record averages C. Probationary regulations in the other colleges vary.

MINNESOTA—For determining athletic eligibility, there are no requirements in addition to the conference rules.

No data were available on probation and dismissal regulations.

NORTHWESTERN—At Northwestern, an athlete must carry at least 15 hours per semester during the time of competition, and must have carried 30 hours in the two previous semesters. This general rule is altered only in the last semester of the senior year, when an athlete may carry a minimum of 12 credits.

Freshmen and sophomores are placed on probation if they do not pass at least half of their work with C or better; and juniors and seniors must pass at least three-fourths of their work with C or better to avoid probation for two semesters, and in each of these semesters he must secure the minimum qualitative requirements for his class, as defined above, or be subject to dismissal. An athlete, therefore, with no grades below D in his courses, and hence eligible under the conference regulations, may be dropped from school by falling below the minimum requirements for grades of C or better.

OHIO STATE—The information from Ohio State seems to indicate that any student who is on probation as a result of poor work during a previous quarter, is not permitted to engage in intercollegiate athletics.

Probation is incurred when a student's point ratio for a quarter falls below 1.3. This ratio is obtained by counting one point for D, two for C, three for B, and four for A. A point ratio of 1.8 is required for graduation; and, if at the end of six quarters (the end of the sophomore year) a student's record averages below 1.7, he is dismissed from the university. In effect, therefore, an average of 1.7 (slightly below a C average) is required for athletic competition in the junior and senior years.

PURDUE—At this institution, there are no local requirements for athletic eligibility in addition to those contained in the conference regulations.

The quantitative standard at Purdue makes it necessary for a student to pass at least 12 hours of academic work in a semester or six hours in a nine week summer session to avoid probation. Once on probation, a student continues in this status for two successive sessions. If, in either of these two sessions (whether a semester or a summer session), he fails to pass the required minimum of hours, he is dropped.

WISCONSIN—A grade point average of 0.8 is required in addition to the regulations imposed by the conference. An athlete who is on probation, but has met this minimum grade point average, is eligible for inter-collegiate competition except in the college of engineering, which demands that a student must also be free from probation in order to be eligible.

For graduation, a student must, broadly speaking, have at least as many grade points as credits. In general, a student is placed on probation following any semester in which he fails to earn net grade points equal to the number of credits carried. The placing of a student on final probation is determined by a number of possible considerations, such as, willingness and industry, previous warnings, health, outside work, and the like.

Home Ec Alumni

The Wisconsin home economics course is represented by graduates in leading positions in almost every state in the union as well as Porto Rico and other countries, Miss Abby L. Marlatt, director of the course, declared in a review of outstanding home ecs before alumni at the annual luncheon in the Memorial Union, over which Mrs. John James, president of the association, presided.

Every home ec in the state was urged to attend the national convention being held in Milwaukee and help entertain the many visitors coming from other states by speakers on the program.

Other speakers at the luncheon were Miss Gladys Brannigan, home economics director of Montana State college, Miss Mary Brady, Milwaukee home economics specialist, and representatives of many of the classes present.

Mrs. James was reelected president of the Wisconsin Home Economics Alumni assn., and Miss Geneva Amundson, secretary and treasurer.

Regents Approve Chimes Tower

THE LONG AWAITED chimes tower to be built on the campus became one step nearer being a reality when the Board of Regents at their June meeting approved the plans as submitted by Arthur Peabody, state architect. A committee of representatives of the classes from 1917 through 1926, headed by Norris Wentworth, '24, has held several meetings during the past year in an effort to proceed with the immediate construction of the memorial of the classes represented. Approximately $30,000 has accumulated in the fund, an amount sufficient to buy adequate chimes and build a suitable tower. At the present writing bids are being received by the University officials from various American and European bell foundries. Mr. Peabody has drawn up several sketches which were submitted to the committee and approval has been placed on one of these. The site as yet has not been definitely selected. More complete details of the tower and plans concerning it will be published in the October issue of this magazine.

Credit to William Haight

IN LAST MONTH'S magazine there was a story concerning the Wisconsin broadcast over station WIBO by the Chicago alumni club. The story of the famous berry crate episode at Poughkeepsie was credited as having been prepared by George I. Haight, '99. We have recently received a letter from one of the directors of that program stating that William Haight, '03, compiled the data for this interesting part of the program. We are sorry that this error was made, but at least it was all in the family.

Wanted: Information About Matthew Arnold

Matthew Arnold, the English poet and essayist, lectured in Madison in January 1884. For several years I have been compiling from newspapers, magazines, books of reminiscences, and such sources a record of Arnold's relations with America. I should like to add to this study some of the more personal and first-hand accounts of his visit which possibly some readers of The Wisconsin Alumni Magazine might be able to supply from contemporary letters and diaries, or from memory. Any manuscript materials submitted to me would be copied and returned promptly.

This is the Year . . .

With Chicago and the World's Fair the Mecca of all summer travelers, this is the ideal year to come to Madison and to the Union. It's less than four hours from the "Loop" to the loveliest campus in the West.

THE LAKE TERRACE

THE FAMOUS RATHSKELLER

We'll dine you on the shaded flagstone terrace and house you in a cool and quiet room on the lake. In the morning there'll be golf on a course of your own choosing . . . swimming . . . sailing . . . tennis . . . or what you will.
