OFFICIAL NOTICE

The Alumni Council will meet on Saturday morning, November 15, promptly at 10:00 o'clock, in the Colonial Room, mezzanine floor, HOTEL LORAINÉ, 123 W. Washington avenue, Madison.

The Alumni Council elects the president, vice president, recording secretary, and two members of the Alumni Board at this meeting. It is vital necessary that a quorum, a majority of the council, be present. See to it that your club or your class is represented by the secretary or by an authorized substitute for the secretary.

R. N. McMYNN, President.

A SMALL increase in the enrollment at the University is seen from the early tabulations of figures on registration. Up to October 1 the enrollment totalled 31 students more than on the same day last year. The final total for the fall semester will be about 7,700. Some shift in the

About 7,700 liberal academic branches, is seen in these early figures.

The College of Letters and Science has gained more than any other and now exceeds 5,100. The Colleges of Agriculture and Engineering have a smaller enrollment. The Law school and the Course in Home Economics, however, are somewhat larger. Among the classes, the sophomores and juniors are more numerous, but the freshman and senior classes are slightly smaller.

A committee to recommend revisions to the constitution was chosen at the last annual business meeting. The members of this committee are:

The Constitution H. C. Marks, '13, S. S. Hickox, '14, and L. C. Horner, '17. The present constitution is printed on page ten of this issue. Members are urged to read the constitution and to keep this copy of their MAGAZINE for reference. This document was prepared by a committee on re-organization about eight years ago. The members of that committee were F. D. Silber, '94, Lucretia Hinkley McMillan, '99, Alfred Haake, '14, Mary Smith Swenson, '93, Milton Blair, '10, and Charles Rogers, '93.

Only six hundred tickets for the Michigan game were reserved for Wisconsin students by our department of athletics. These few tickets were sold out in forty minutes early on the morning of October 6.

The 600 The department offers as excuse the fact that difficulty was found in disposing of 400 tickets to this same contest a couple of years ago. Inasmuch as the students and faculty should receive major consideration in these matters, it occurs to us that students might be permitted to place early mail orders so as to assure themselves of tickets. Surely some plan should be devised that all students who desire tickets for personal use may secure them.

Carlisle Hibbard, '00, has assumed his duties as new secretary of the student Y. M. C. A.,
New "Y" Secretary succeeding F. E. Wolf, who resigned last spring. Mr. Hibbard has had wide experience in the work of the Young Men's Christian Association all over the world, and since 1917 has been head of the Overseas division at the headquarters of the International Committee of the Y. M. C. A. in New York.

"Mr. Hibbard's acceptance of the position indicates the growing importance of the student work of the Y. M. C. A.," said Dr. John R. Mott, general secretary of the International Committee, when advised of Mr. Hibbard's acceptance. He is the third man, well-known and well-grounded in general Association activities, to be recruited for direct service in a student Y. M. C. A. It was said of Cyrus P. Barnum, formerly with the A. E. F. Y. M. C. A., that he was qualified for a "big job," so he became secretary at the University of Minnesota. Henry Wilson holds the same position at the University of Illinois. And now Carlisle Hibbard, with his world-wide knowledge of student affairs, will head the student work at another great university."

During his college career Hibbard was treasurer and president of the Y. M. C. A. and took an active part in athletics. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Alpha Delta Phi fraternities and of the Philomathean Literary Society. Although a strong chemistry student as an undergraduate he did not choose a scientific career, but decided to enter Association work. After two years at Northwestern university as student secretary he went to Japan to organize student activities there. He led the Association service with the Japanese army during the Russo-Japanese War, and later identified himself with "Y" work in Tokyo City, and finally became national secretary for Korea and Manchuria. In 1914 he was put in charge of American Y. M. C. A. work for the allied armies and prisoners of war in Europe. When America entered the conflict in 1917, he went to New York to direct from there all the Overseas activities. These, though they have been steadily contracted since 1919, at the present time are spread over 16 countries and are manned by 79 secretaries.

The University Y. M. C. A. is fortunate in securing a man of Mr. Hibbard's ability, experience, and devotion to direct its work.

THE DEVELOPMENT OF OUR MEDICAL SCHOOL

DR. C. R. BARDEEN, Dean

IN THE organization of the University, teaching and research in the sciences dealing with the human body in health and disease, and the application of these sciences to the prevention, alleviation, and cure of disease and the promotion of health, fall within the jurisdiction of the medical school.

The Medical School as an administrative unit was established in 1907. Previous to that time work in the medical sciences fell within the jurisdiction of the College of Letters and Science. Since the establishment of the Medical School a close correlation with the College of Letters and Science has continued.

When established, the jurisdiction of the medical school comprised the department of anatomy, housed on the fourth and fifth floors of Science Hall, and the department of physiology and physiological chemistry, housed on the third floor and attic of the Chemical Engineering Building. In the following year a department of pathology and bacteriology was established and housed on the fourth floor of South Hall, and a department of pharmacology was established and housed in the attic of the Chemical Engineering Building. These departments of work are now all housed in Science Hall, in which additional space became available in 1913 when the departments of zoology and botany were transferred from Science Hall to the Biology Building, and in 1917 when the department of physics was transferred from Science Hall to the Physics Building. Science Hall is now shared by the departments of the basal medical sciences and geology. Teaching in the basal medical sciences includes instruction not only of

This department was first housed in the small building now occupied as the ALUMNI HEADQUARTERS. In 1912 it was transferred to the Olin House on Langdon Street to which an addition was attached. It has now been transferred to the first floor of the new hospital building. For hospital care of students, temporary use was made of the Raymer House, and, during the influenza epidemic of 1917, also of the University Club. In 1918 the present Student Infirmary was occupied. This meets present needs very well, but with further growth of the University will have to be expanded. Hitherto the student health service has constituted the major portion of the work of the department of clinical medicine. With the establishment of the new hospital and the extension of clinical work at the University, the Student Health Service should be constituted as a special division students matriculated in the medical school, but also of students matriculated in other colleges taking work in these sciences. Work of this character now constitutes at least a quarter of the instructional work and is increasing in magnitude. Science Hall is inadequate to meet the demands at present made upon it. The departments of the basal medical sciences on the one hand and the department of geology on the other hand are hampered by lack of space.

The jurisdiction of the Medical School was extended in 1910 by the establishment of the department of clinical medicine for the purpose of supervision of the health of the students, teaching, and research.

of the work falling within the jurisdiction of the Medical School. The responsibilities of the Student Health Service increase more rapidly than the general university population, since the difficulties of health supervision are increased by density of population.

A course for training health officers was established at the University in 1912 under the general jurisdiction of the Medical School. Several students were graduated in this course, but the subsequent establishment of several heavily-endowed schools elsewhere, and the present limited demands for this training, have made it seem unwise to push this work at Wisconsin. The University should, however, do more toward giving short practical courses for health officers. For this, facilities not now available are requisite.

The State Laboratory of Hygiene was first established in connection with the department of bacteriology of the College of Letters and Science. In 1914 an administrative board for this laboratory was established, consisting of the president and secretary of the State Board of Health, the president of the University and the dean of the Medical School. This laboratory now occupies the fourth floor of South Hall. This meets present needs fairly well, but the very rapid growth in the demands upon the laboratory will soon make the present quarters inadequate and require ample provision for increase of personnel. Thus in 1919-20, 23,099 specimens were received for examination at this laboratory; in 1920-21, 28,883; in 1922-23, 33,962; in 1923-24, 51,168 specimens. In 1913-14 less than 10,000 specimens were received. The amount of work has increased over 500 per cent in ten years.

Medical extension work was formally organized in 1915 and is carried out through the University Extension Division under the supervision of a committee composed of representatives of the Extension Division and of the Medical School. This field of work comprises the holding of lectures and clinics in various parts of the state and the loaning of reprints, models, and other aids to physicians interested in medical advance. The further development of clinical work at the University will make possible a great extension of this work. The new hospital will also furnish opportunity at Madison for developing various short courses of postgraduate instruction of physicians in new fields of work. A beginning was made last year in the course in insulin treatment which proved quite successful.

Hospital facilities at the University were extended in 1918, not only by the erection of the Student Infirmary, but also by the erection of the Bradley Memorial Hospital. The Student Infirmary was built partly from state funds, partly from gifts from the late Mr. T. E. Brittingham and Carl Johnson, '91. The Bradley Memorial Hospital was a gift from Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Crane and Dr. and Mrs. H. C. Bradley and was designed for clinical research. Pending the erection of the new hospital it has been largely devoted to the care of crippled children. When the new hospital and the dormitory for nurses are completed, it is now intended to devote the Bradley Hospital largely to pediatrics, the medical care of children.

At the special session of 1920, provision was made for the purchase of land and the erection and equipment of a state general hospital and a dormitory for nurses. This hospital will soon be completed and occupied. Together with the Student Infirmary and the Bradley Memorial Hospital it is placed by statute within the general jurisdiction of the Medical School.

LOCATION

The Board of Regents selected for the site of the new hospital and the further development of the Medical School the area that lies midway between the collegiate campus and the grounds of the College of Agriculture.

The departments of physics, chemistry, biology, and economics of the collegiate department, and those of chemistry and home economics of the College of Agriculture, the University Extension building, and the university power plant and shops are in close proximity to this site. We are thus assured of the most advantageous physical relationships between other university departments and the Medical School and hospitals.

At present there are located on this site a student infirmary, with a capacity of 80 beds, the Bradley Memorial Hospital, designed for clinical research and to be used for pediatrics, with a capacity of 60 beds, and the State General Hospital, with a capacity of over 300 beds. A nurses' home is to be erected in the immediate future, and plans have been drawn for a medical school building to be connected with the hospital.

THE NEW HOSPITAL BUILDING

The State of Wisconsin General Hospital has six stories, a basement, and a roof garden.

The general design of the building is in the form of a T, the horizontal wings of which face the south and the vertical wing of which points toward the north. The former are designed primarily for the immediate care of patients, while the latter is essentially a service wing with kitchen and dining rooms in the lower stories, laboratories and internes' quarters intermediate, and an operating room on the top floor. The central portion where the wings meet contains waiting rooms, administrative offices, and some laboratory and treatment rooms. In this portion of the building, facing the south, there is a large open loggia which may be seen in the photograph and which is designed, in addition to the facilities on the roof, for open air and sunlight treatment of patients.

The basement contains in addition to storage facilities, a hydro-therapeutic department and an electro-cardiographic laboratory from which wires lead to the various floors of the hospitals.

The first floor contains the out-patient department. In the central portion there is the main lobby of the hospital with information, record desks, and offices. In each wing are examining rooms with various special facilities for diagnosis and treatment. There is a special group of rooms for receiving ambulance cases and for emergency surgical treatment.

The main wings of the second floor are designed for the care of neuro-psychopathic patients. It is believed that at present there is a great lack of proper facilities in the state for the care of patients of this type of limited means and that much good may be done patients not sufficiently advanced to require commitment to a public institution for the care of the insane, but requiring expert care to prevent the development of an advanced neurosis.

On the third floor, one of the main wings is designed for the care of obstetrical cases and contains a delivery room and other accessory facilities. The other wing contains rooms for patients who can afford to pay for professional medical services and for whom a very limited provision has been made in this hospital.

The main wings on the fourth floor are designed for patients requiring general medical care. In each wing there are two twelve-bed wards and eight two-bed wards.

The main wings of the fifth floor are designed primarily for special surgical cases, eye, ear, nose, and throat in one wing and orthopedics in the other. In the central portion there are diagnostic and treatment rooms.

The main wings of the sixth floor are designed primarily for general surgery with an arrangement of wards, as is also the case on the fifth floor, similar to that on the fourth floor. In the central portion there are facilities for electro- and mechano-therapy conference rooms and laboratories.

The roof is furnished with a diet kitchen, duty rooms, toilets, and other facilities for the care of patients taking open air treatment. There is an enclosed space for care of patients during cold or very stormy weather.

The building is of fireproof construction. As outlined above it is designed essentially in a unit plan, there being a unit in each main wing on each floor above the first. Each unit is designed to care for from thirty to forty patients under the supervision of a graduate nurse whose station is centrally located. Each unit is provided with a diet kitchen, a duty room, and with two toilets, thus making it possible to care for patients of both sexes. Each unit is especially equipped to care for patients suffering from conditions for the treatment of which the unit is designed. There are extensive chemical, bacteriological, clinical, and surgical pathological laboratories designed both for routine diagnosis and for teaching and clinical research. Elaborate provision is made for various forms of special therapy such as hydro-therapy, electro-therapy, mechano-therapy, and helio-therapy. The resources of the state for the care of the sick and the advancement of medical knowledge have received a most important addition through the erection and equipment of this building.

USES OF THE HOSPITAL

The primary objects of the new hospital are to furnish facilities for the care of patients who now lack adequate provision, and to furnish facilities for teaching and the advancement of medical knowledge.

A School of Nursing has recently been established in connection with the Medical School and hospitals. The work of this school will be conducted mainly in the new dormitory for nurses and in the hospital buildings. Instruction is to be given by special instructors and members of the faculty of the Medical School. Combined courses are offered in co-operation with the College of Letters and Science and of Agriculture.

The clinical facilities offered by the new hospital should make possible the organization of the clinical part of the medical course beginning the third year of the course in the fall of 1925 and the fourth year in the fall of 1926. As provided by statute, the hospital was designed and the staff is being selected from the standpoint of medical teaching and research as well as from that of clinical skill, in order to provide the best possible care for the patients for whom it is established. Position on a teaching faculty makes it possible to attract men of a high calibre who would not be interested in mere routine institutional work. From the standpoint of providing the best possible care for the patients, the establishment of the clinical part of the medical course is essential. An important part of the clinical teaching, it is planned, will be given by members of an adjacent teaching staff in hospitals affiliated with the University for this purpose.

There is a fundamental need for a building connected with the new hospital in which all the work of the Medical School can be properly housed and co-ordinated. Work in the medical sciences has thus far been conducted at the University in quarters designed for other purposes. The Medical School, as the youngest of the main divisions of University activity, has thus far been obliged to wear cut-down clothing of its older brothers, especially Letters and Science, sometimes when this clothing could ill be spared. Now that the Medical School is about to enter into matrimony with the new State Hospital, it should be provided with a suit of its own. The quarters now occupied by the medical school in Science Hall and by the State Laboratory of Hygiene in South Hall could be used to good advantage by the College of Letters and Science, and the medical work now done in those buildings could be far more efficiently done in a building especially designed for the purpose adjacent to the hospital. Furthermore, it is essential for clinical teaching that more laboratory, class, and lecture-room space be provided than is available in the present hospital building. For these reasons it is believed that every effort should be made to obtain at the earliest possible date, from private or public sources or both, funds necessary for the erection of such a building. If funds for a complete building cannot be made available in the near future, at least a wing should be erected to provide for pathology, bacteriology, the State Laboratory of Hygiene, and clinical teaching.

Such trustees shall have charge of the Fund and shall invest the same in safe security, paying over to the treasurer only the net income of such fund. They shall handle special endowment funds, if any, in accordance with the plans of the giver.

Section 2—There is also established a Living Endowment Fund, to consist of yearly contributions from alumni—aside from dues—for the present use of the Association. ATHLETICS

KENNETH BUTLER, '25

WITH three preliminary football games out of the way in which Coach Jack Ryan's Badgers put up only a mediocre attack, attention is being turned to the harder and more important Big Ten games to come, those with Minnesota, Michigan, and Notre Dame.

Ryan is working his squad hard in nightly practices to iron out the defects which were uncovered in the contests with North Dakota, Ames, and Coe college. Just before the Minnesota game on October 18 not a man was on the injured list. Plenty of capable material, both line and backfield, gives promise of a successful season.

Things started out in a promising way in the North Dakota game played September

Extra! Score October 18—Minnesota 7, Wisconsin 7.

27. In spite of a wet field and slippery ball, the Badgers romped over North Dakota and won, 25 to 0. Doyle Harmon and Captain Jack Harris were the stars of the game, piercing the Flickertail line for four touchdowns. The Badgers did not open up with many plays, and only a few passes were attempted. Coach Ryan inserted a large number of second-string men to test their worth when in action.

Ames, a new eleven on the Badger preliminary schedule, came to Madison with a much-heralded passing attack, and for three quarters completely baffled the Wisconsin defense until Pat McAndrews finally got going and caught five passes, many times for big gains. Roberts was the whole Ames offense. He threw 34 passes during the game, all of them well-aimed and accurate. Of these, 16 were positions on the first team are Polaski, Teckemeyer, Bieberstein, Doyle Harmon, Harris, and McAndrews. Ryan has used Burrus, Blackman, Long, and Solbraa at ends. Bonini has proved a worthy second-string center. In the line such men as Straubel, Schwarze, Sauger, Miller, and Nelson seem to be the most used. Leo Harmon is the most consistent punter, although Milton Stangel gets off some long ones. Ed. Williams is the best passer, although Lloyd Larson, Harmon's understudy at quarter, is a good passer as well as a good pilot. Leo Harmon has shown up well on defense. Barnum, Kreuz, and McGivern are other likely backfield men.

Despite the loss of Hugo Czerwonky, captain of last year's swimming team, and a sure winner in the breast and back completed for long gains. But Ames seemed to be able to do little except pass. The Badgers, on the other hand, took a spurt in the last half of the game and pushed over two touchdowns for a 14 to 0 victory.

Coe college came to Madison October 11 and put up an attack that had Ryan's men baffled for three quarters. The Kohawks passed, ran the ends, and plunged the line for consistent gains. Coach Ryan started his second team in the fray, but removed most of the men shortly after the first quarter and put in regulars to stem the Coe onslaught. In the last quarter the Badgers succeeded in putting over the tying touchdown, after the Coe team had led for three quarters. Twice the Coe team held the Wisconsin eleven for downs on Coe's five yard line.

After these three preliminary games, in which the Badgers seemed less effective each time, Coach Ryan started on a more intensive drill. Frequent scrimmage with the freshman squad and the all-Americans was held in an effort to build up the offense and defense play.

Ryan has practically two sets of linemen, two sets of backfields, and two sets of ends. Those who seem to be sure of their strokes, Coach Joe Steinauer is optimistic over this year's outlook. He has Herschberger, speed-flash from last year's freshman squad, John Gilbreath, star of a few years ago, Radcliffe, and the Hotchkiss brothers. The prospects for the plunge event are the brightest they have been in several years. Bell and Powell will hold up the breast stroke event. Captain Simpkins and McGinnis are two good divers who are certain to make points in every meet.

Wisconsin's cross country harriers won their first test of the season Saturday, October 11, when they won from the experienced Marquette hill and dale team, 20 to 35. Although Shimek of Marquette finished first, the next seven runners to finish were Badgers. Among Coach Burke's best runners are Kubly, Petaja, Captain George Piper, Perry, Bergstresser, Cohen, Schwenger, Link, and Shafer. After the meet with Minnesota the day of the Gopher game, the runners are scheduled to meet the Wolverine harriers at Ann Arbor.

Dr. Walter Meanwell has a squad of 30 basketball candidates meeting three times a week. The men are being drilled on passing, pivoting, and basket-shooting. At present the ability of the squad is an unknown quantity. Spooner, Barwig, Captain Diebold, Wackman, and Varney are back from last year's regulars, while Tangen, a 1923-24 sub, is showing up well in practice. Several men will join the squad at the close of the football season.

Coach Harry Vail will have to make his 1925 crew of nearly all new material, as only two members of the famous eight of 1924 are back in the University this year. Besides Captain Oscar Teckemeyer, there is Keith Sly from last year. Harold Coulter, who piloted the crew in their notable race at Poughkeepsie last spring, is back at coxswain. From the freshman eights of last season there are more than a dozen prospective candidates, and there is also material available from the junior crews of last season. Thirty freshmen are working out on the machines under Coach Vail and will be ready for work on the lake in the spring. The weather has favored fall practice and three shells have been on the lake.

Coach Vail declares that the shell used at Poughkeepsie is entirely satisfactory and gave the eight good service.

U. W. CLUBS

"Sit together, listen together, sing together, eat together, and you'll work together"

TO STRENGTHEN A LOCAL U. W. CLUB

"Make the first requirement of membership in a local U. W. Club membership in the General Alumni Association.

"The alumni, through their local organizations, can and should do things. The central association can not infuse life into local branches by some hypodermic method or other. Rather, it is the central organization which thrives only when alumni everywhere are alert for their opportunity for service.

"But whatever is done, emphasize that fact that the Wisconsin Alumni Association comes first, the local organization second. Why not put such provisions into the constitution?"

AMES

ALVIN LAMB, '13

NATURALLY we are pleased at the good showing made by our Ames team lately, and of course we are especially hoping this year for a Big Ten championship for Wisconsin.—10-9-24.

APPLETON

MIRIAM ORTON RAY, ex '22

The Appleton Association is still on the map, but has been very quiet during the summer. A great many people have been out of town, and so any kind of a gathering was very difficult. However, we are going to start off with a bang this fall, and we hope to have lots of fun all winter. D. C. Dickinson, '15, our president, has moved to Chicago, so Dewitt Pinkerton, '21, our vice president from Neenah, is acting in "Don's" place.

People are beginning to talk football, and a big delegation from here will be down for every game held in Madison. We are very interested in the development of Bob Bonini who comes from here, and who promises to mean a lot to the Wisconsin team. Basil McKenzie, ex '23, who has been connected with the Citizens' National Bank here has been made manager of a new loan association in Appleton. Mr. Gordon Phillip, '21, a graduate from bacteriology, has married and is living here in Appleton. He is connected with the Oldsmobile Company. "Bud" Graham has gone to New York for the paper company with whom he is employed. He has been out there since spring. And that's all—9-4-24.

CHICAGO ALUMNAE

MARIE BODDEN, '21

Never did the allurements of the campus bid stronger for the interest and appreciation of Wisconsin women than when sketched by Dean F. Louise Nardin at the opening meeting of the Wisconsin Alumnae Club of Chicago, held at Mandel's tea room, Saturday, October 4. About sixty alumnae were present for this first meeting which is to be followed by a full year of Wisconsin work, set for the first Saturday of each month and to be held at the same place.

Memberships, old and new, definite goals to be worked for this year by the Wisconsin alumnae of Chicago both for the local spirit and for the University, new Alumni Association presidential nominees and many other subjects of close interest to the University were discussed and will be continued at the November meeting. Miss Bertha M. Weeks, '15, newly-elected president, presided at the first meeting.

Following is the constitution of the U. W. Alumnae Club of Chicago, as adopted at our March meeting, 1924:

CHICAGO

LOUIS HORNER, '17

The University of Wisconsin Club of Chicago is very busy these days with many matters of interest which have arisen at the University. The rumors of the retirement of President Birge have caused a considerable stir of excitement among our members. Discussions have caused the weekly luncheons to increase to a considerable size. These luncheons are held every Friday at 12:15 at Mandel Brothers in a special room just off the men's grill at the Madison and Wabash Avenue corner of the 9th floor. Here we are served a very fine luncheon at a moderate price. All Wisconsin alumni are welcome at these luncheons.

Of course at this time of the year athletics, represented by football, is the one outstanding topic and takes precedence, it seems, over all others. Interest is keen and all the alumni are clamoring for news of prospects for our team. This spirit will culminate in our annual football banquet which will be held in Chicago on the Friday evening preceding the Chicago-Wisconsin game. To be more exact this banquet will be held at the LaSalle Hotel in the ball room on Friday evening, November 21, 1924. On this date all Wisconsin men are welcome.

The officers of the Club are making extensive plans for the banquet. It is one of the big events put over by the Wisconsin Club of Chicago, and the officers and the committees of the Club are making every effort to have this banquet bigger and better than ever. We are planning and endeavoring to have a speaker of national fame—a Wisconsin man. The coaches will be there to advise us as to the past work of our Badgers and to paint the future for us as we want it. J. F. A. Pyre, '92, will be there to give us the happy news that the faculty are all for us. Effort is being made to have our band present to inject such pep as can only be injected by it. We all know the quality of our band and we are proud of it.

This banquet will be and should be an opportunity for all good Badgers to get together. Come out and make acquaintances. See your old friends from other parts of the country. Chicago, being centrally located and easily accessible by train, with plenty of hotel accommodations, is a wonderful place to meet and get together, and the football banquet affords the one centralized meeting place for us all.

We of the Chicago Club expect all of our own members to be present and we do hope that all alumni from various parts of the country, who come in for this game to see their favorite team, will also favor us with their presence at this banquet.

In conclusion just one word more. Let us all pull together. Boost for Wisconsin. Boost for our University, not only in athletics but in all other lines of endeavor and make "ON WISCONSIN" a reality.

DETROIT ALUMNAE

KATHLEEN CALKINS, '14

The Wisconsin Alumnae Association held its first luncheon of the year at the College Club on Saturday, October 4. Sixteen members were present and decided to meet again Saturday, November 8, at the College Club, 72 Peterboro Street. Every Wisconsin alumna in Detroit or vicinity is welcome. Excellent luncheon, 85 cents.

Interest in the first meeting centered in the Wisconsin-Michigan game on October 25, and the possibility of securing tickets for it. Hope was frequently expressed that the Athletic Department would be generous to us on this occasion.

Plans by the Wisconsin Men's Club for a dinner and rally the night before the game were enthusiastically reported.—10-6-24.

KNOXVILLE

NINA MYHRE WOOLRICH, '14

Greetings from the Wisconsin club of Knoxville! Our first meeting of the year is to be in the nature of a Halloween party some time the latter part of the month. We have several new members to join our club this year, and all are looking forward to some pleasant social times.—10-9-24.

MINNEAPOLIS ALUMNAE

IRMA ALEXANDER BULLIS, '15

The Minneapolis Alumnae Association of the University of Wisconsin began another year of activity on October 11 with a luncheon and bridge party at the Hotel Leamington. Ariel McNaughton Dingwall, of the Minneapolis School of Music, Oratory, and Dramatic Art spoke on "The Old Drama and the New."

Regular meetings of the Association will be held on the second Saturday of each month. A "live wire" entertainment committee under the chairmanship of Florence Bashford Spensley, ex '97, is planning a series of delightfully interesting meetings.

Not only are all alumnae in the Twin Cities and in nearby points urged to attend the meetings, but all visiting alumnae are requested to make their presence known to some one of our officers in order that they may be informed of the meetings that may be held during their stay in our vicinity.

Several from our group of alumnae and alumni attended the Minnesota-Wisconsin game at Madison October 18.—10-9-24.

MINNEAPOLIS ALUMNI

W. R. MALECKAR, '20

The alumni of Minneapolis held their first meeting of the year on Friday, September 12, at the Minneapolis Athletic Club, where approximately thirty members attended and heard an interesting talk by Al Buser, '12, athletic director of Hamline University.

Everyone present was very much interested in the improvement in the athletic situation, and the alumni of Minneapolis were very much in favor of having Wisconsin obtain the athletic crown of the Western Conference. They were all unanimously in favor of having a freshman crew go to Poughkeepsie.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: Robert Purchase, '14, president, Henry Kedney, '14, vice president, and H. O. Frohbach, '21, secretary.—9-15-24.

ST. LOUIS

PAUL EBBS, ex '19

Our U. of W. Club has two or three parties in mind for this fall. We now have about two hundred names on the list, and we can always turn out seventy-five or eighty people for any kind of a party. Our first affair will probably be a dinner dance such as we had last spring. We have a lot of good heads in our association, and I know that we are going to have some rather unusual affairs this winter.

If you know of anyone of the faculty who is coming to St. Louis this winter, please let me know two or three weeks in advance, and we shall arrange a meeting. Last winter at least two of the faculty were here and we did not know about their visits until they had gone.

I am going to send a letter regularly for publication in the ALUMNI MAGAZINE.—10-6-24.

SIOUX CITY

HELEN STILWILL, '23

On Tuesday evening, Sept. 9, the Sioux City U. W. Alumni Association held their annual picnic at the Kiwanis Cabin at Stone Park. We had originally planned it for the Saturday preceding, but a threatening storm necessitated a hurried change in plans. The members of the club met at the Elks Club and drove in cars to Stone Park, where a program of stunts, arranged by the committee in charge, took place before the dinner hour.

And such fun and hilarity as we had doing all of the stunts arranged for! "Mother" Taylor, '85, proved swiftest and surest in carrying peas on a knife, and Mrs. Eldridge's experience as a housewife proved in good stead and she easily carried off honors in the clothes pin race. Matching numbers served to get everyone thoroughly "mixed" up. Richard Zwemer won the potato salad eating contest, and Mary Bailey, '23, the newspaper race. For all of these contests appropriate prizes were given.

After the stunts were over dinner was served, all the members being seated at one long table. Of course "Varsity" preceded the meal, and during its progress we had "On Wisconsin" and a variety of others to the accompaniment of a toy horn Mr. Bonesteel, '23, had won in a contest to determine "our perfect athlete."

After dinner was over we played other games until a sudden shower forced us to make a hurried return to town. It was a picnic full of good fellowship and Wisconsin spirit, and everyone present had a most enjoyable time.—9-30-24.

[SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

MABEL BRADLEY BREWER, '04

The U. W. Alumnae Association of Southern California met on October 11 at the home of Genevieve Church-Smith, ex '98, 1900 N. Hill Ave., Altadena. A letter from Jessie Shepherd, '95, was read regarding the election of officers for the General Alumni Association, action upon which was deferred. After a social hour refreshments were served. The next meeting will be held on December 13 at the home of Elinor Merrill Byrne, ex '03.

Those present were: Helen Steensland Neilson, '89, Bertha Fisher Buchanan, '08, Jessie Goddard McKinlay, '89, Faye Rogers Carey, '05, Elinor Merrill Byrne, ex '03, Sarah McKay, '06, Genevieve Church-Smith, ex '98, Mildred Forsythe, '86, Caroline Burgess, '94, Dorothy Ely, '13, Ida Isabelle Jones, '05, Susan Litch Dow, ex '74, Clara Dietrich Bradley, ex '80, Abbie Brayton Ruediger, ex '01, Ila Dow, ex '05, Mrs. G. BOOK NOTES

Things and Ideals (Henry Holt & Co.), by M. C. OTTO, '06. The author has brought together in this volume twelve essays dealing with topics discussed in his course in philosophy called Man and Nature. They are topics of such vital interest as the nature of the self, the soul, the concept right, the so-called religious instinct, etc. His general theory is that questions of this sort are not to be decided by an analysis of the ultimate structure of reality, but by reference to concrete human experience. For while they do have their roots in what may be termed nature, they are quite as much formed by the conditions of life. The reader will therefore discover that the soul is not regarded as an entity or thing, but as a certain kind of attitude or loyalty to music, art, social progress, and the like, while the self in the same way is not looked upon as a separable psychic core, resident somewhere within us, but as a group of memories, interests, and capacities centered in a particular body. In both cases the environmental conditions have much to do with creating the loyalties which are referred to by these names.

Aside from the consideration of such ideas, the book deals with contemporary spiritual conflicts. One of these is the conflict between the theory that might makes right and the theory that right should be the name for the action which is calculated to achieve the greatest well-being of the human beings concerned; another is the much agitated conflict between science and religion. To the latter subject three chapters are devoted. And in each case the treatment remains close to the positions actually taken by the participants in the controversy, so that the language is less professional or technical than is usual.

The book is frankly devoted to the cause of social idealism, and although undogmatic in spirit is outspoken and direct. People who are satisfied that they have discovered the one trail out of the spiritual confusion of these times will hardly find Things and Ideals to their liking. It is too obviously detached from anything resembling conventional loyalties. On the other hand, those who are in search of an introduction to some of the more prominent contemporary suggestions on the subject of social idealism will find in it a straightforward defense of an outlook on life at once idealistic and realistic.

The book is supplied with an appendix of notes and comments intended for those who wish to pursue the study further.

The Government of Cincinnati and Hamilton County (City Survey Committee, Cincinnati) is a comprehensive survey directed and edited by L. D. UPSON, '08. Three fifths of this volume of over five hundred pages deals with about three dozen major matters concerned with the city government, a few pages cover budgets for the public school, business procedure of the board of education, and school building construction, while about a hundred pages deal with the county.

Dr. Upson is director of the Detroit bureau of governmental research. Among his eighteen assistants on this Ohio survey is another member of the Wisconsin alumni organization, C. E. RIGHTOR, '09, chief accountant of the Detroit bureau, who prepared the reports on City Budget Procedure, and the county budget.

While this survey is of course of special value in gaining an understanding of conditions in an Ohio city with a population close to half a million, it also offers a systematic plan of organization for municipal and county surveys, presents facts of value to all students of American municipal government, and shows the difficulty of making public demands of a modern American city fit under tax restrictions imposed by a state legislature.

Without criticizing the principles of party government, the report emphasizes the shortcomings of city government, due to "the mistaken, but prevailing, theory of party responsibility."

The belief of Dr. Upson, "that great improvement in the government of Cincinnati will come from the introduction of a strong critical minority in council, the independence of the council from national affiliation, and the destruction of the theory under which the political organization in

DEATHS

NILS MICHELET, '71, died at Minneapolis, Minn., on July 15, 1920.

ALVIN W. WOHLFORD, '80, died in Escondido, Calif., on Aug. 15. Mr. Wohlford was well known throughout southern California where he had been engaged in banking and in citrus fruit culture. He had been actively interested in the water development of the region about Escondido through the Escondido Water company, in which he was the leading spirit for many years.

Just recently he had succeeded in acquiring increased water rights which made possible the further development of the lands tributary to the valley. A widow and one son survive him.

GRANVILLE D. JONES, '82, died at Rochester, Minn., September 12. He had been in failing health for some time, and two months ago went to Rochester for treatment.

Mr. Jones had been a member of the Wausau bar for 38 years, and during that time he was closely and prominently associated with the development and improvement of Marathon county and connected with many of the community's institutions. He was an able and substantial business man, and a truly public spirited citizen. He was especially fond of young men and many a successful business man in Wausau and elsewhere owes his success to him, either for wise counsel or for financial assistance.

His life was one of untiring, unselfish service to his fellow men. Mr. Jones was for many years a member, and for a term president, of the board of regents. He is survived by his widow and four daughters.

Dr. CHARLES H. FENELON, '85, passed away at his old home in Weyauwega on September 4, after an illness of several months. For over thirty years Dr. Fenelon had been one of the leading physicians of the community, a kind and administering friend to all whom he served.
He was mayor of the city several terms and was a member of the board of education for many years, and held other prominent public offices as well. Mrs. Fenelon and daughter, Eunice, survive.

HELEN MARTIN, ex'89, passed away at her home in Elkhorn on July 10 following a brief illness with heart trouble.

Miss Martin was superintendent of schools of Walworth County for the past 15 years and a lifelong resident. As superintendent she carried on a great public work and was recognized by the state board of education as one of the outstanding superintendents of Wisconsin. Under her leadership farm clubs were organized and club houses were built to bring social and educational opportunities closer to the rural communities. She was a member of the Rural Planning commission, the County Health committee, the County Agricultural committee, and was secretary of the State Reading Circle board.
In addition to her numerous other duties, Miss Martin had been superintendent of the Sunday school of the Elkhorn Baptist church for many years, and had been active in building up membership and interest in the school. She was also a member of the History club. Modest and unassuming, she was possessed of strong Christian character and high ideals and exerted an influence that will long be a strong power for good. "Though she did not live to be old, her life was so full, she accomplished so much, and did so much for others, we may call it complete."

ELWYN F. NELSON, ex '94, passed away at his home in Oshkosh, on August 13. Death was due to accidental asphyxiation from gas. Mr. Nelson is survived by his wife, one son and a daughter.

CHAUNCEY L. WILLIAMS JR., ex '94, died at Cleveland, O., on August 8, of a heart affection. Mr. Williams was in the publishing business, which he entered following his college course, until his death, at which time he was proprietor of a large establishment in Cleveland. He was possessed of literary gifts or a high order, and while confinement of business prevented him from making substantial use of them, he had many friends in the field of literature.

FRANK DE WHITE REED, '95, a member of the law firm of Bagley, Spohn, and Reed, Madison, died on September 19 at his home, 29 East Wilson St., after an illness lasting four months. Mr. Reed was known to almost all of the legal profession of Wisconsin through his long connection with the federal district court as reporter and deputy clerk. Mrs. Reed survives.

JAY W. PAGE, ex '97, Walworth county judge and an outstanding figure in the county for more than 25 years, died July 19 at River Pines sanatorium, Stevens Point, where he had been a patient for about two weeks. He had been a victim of tuberculosis for several years, but continued his work in spite of poor health. In April of this year Mr. Page was elected Walworth county judge, receiving 6,911 votes against 2,503 for his opponent, an honor granted solely on his own merits, for Mr. Page was a Democrat in a strong Republican county. Judge Page had held many public offices during his life and was loved and respected by all who knew him.

AUGUST RODEN, '98, died suddenly at Clearwater, Fla., on October 5, as the result of a snake bite. Burial was in Madison.

AMY ELLIS WOOD, ex '99, passed away at Madison August 26. Mrs. Wood had taught for seventeen years in the primary grades of Mazomanie, one year at Lemmon, S. Dak., one year at Waukesha, and seven years in Madison.

GEORGE E. LARSON, '02, Sioux Falls, S. D., passed away on September 28, from injuries received two weeks earlier. Mr. Larson was secretary and treasurer of the Larson Hardware company and was active in the affairs of his community. Mrs. Larson and four children survive.

MYRTLE WOODWARD, ex '05, passed away in Minneapolis in July. She had taught for twenty-four years in the public schools of Minneapolis. Burial was at Livingston.

FREDERICK W. IVES, '09, head of the department of agricultural engineering, Ohio State University, died in Presbyterian Hospital, Chicago, July 5, as a result of injuries sustained in a train wreck at Buda, Ill., June 30. Mr. Ives had been attending a convention of the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education at Boulder, Colo., and was enroute home from this meeting when the wreck occurred. A broken spine and internal injuries caused his death.

Besides his duties as head of the department of agricultural engineering at Ohio State, Mr.

Ives was architect for the Ohio Presbyterian Homes, and a member of the advisory staff of the Architectural Forum and the council of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers. In 1915 he collaborated with Professor Thomas E. French of Ohio State in the publication of a book entitled "Agricultural Design in Farm Structures." He contributed to farm and engineering journals frequently.

Mr. Ives is survived by his wife, one son, one daughter, his father, three brothers and four sisters.

Dr. RUDOLPH J. GIESELER, '15, passed away at the National Soldiers' Home, Milwaukee, on September 19, after a lingering illness. After completing his studies at the University of Wisconsin, Dr. Gieseler attended Rush Medical college, Chicago, and spent his internship at the Cincinnati general hospital. In 1918 he enlisted in the medical corps and served thirteen months, seven of which were in France. He attained the rank of first lieutenant. There survive his parents, one brother, and one sister.

EDMUND J. PENNEFEATHER, ex '22, died on July 10 at the Willowbrook Sanitarium, Kenosha, after an illness of several months' duration. He was stricken with pneumonia last January and had never fully recovered from that illness. He had been engaged in the real estate and insurance business in Kenosha with his father. His parents, four sisters, and two brothers survive.

FLOYD DORSEY, ex '24, died suddenly on September 6, at Mt. Sinai hospital, Milwaukee, following an operation for appendicitis.

HAROLD BOWLER, ex '26, died July 21 at Sheboygan from injuries sustained in an automobile accident the day previous. His parents and three sisters survive him.

JAMES KENNAN, '27, was instantly killed in an automobile accident, September 8.

Sec'y—F. S. WHITE, Chicago, Ill.
5308 Hyde Park Blvd.

Mr. and Mrs. F. S. WHITE have recently returned from a tour of Europe, and Mr. White sends the following letter to classmates in our care:

"Dear Classmates: Here I am again with my ego always paramount, relating incidents of my own doing! How nice it would be if some of the rest of you would emulate the example set by Goodall and send in some copy occasionally! Try it once. As K. C. B. says, I thank you.

Well, we were gone four months, traveled over twelve thousand miles, saw Italy, France, Switzerland, Belgium, and England very thoroughly. No one gouged us or lectured us. Every one was cordial and grateful. We saw very few cripples and scarcely a beggar in any place. They were even scarcer than before the war. Hotel prices were very reasonable, considering service and high quality of food,—much more reasonable than in America. The highest price paid was $7.00 per day, American plan, at a hotel the equal of the Blackstone in Chicago. Hotels in Italy, France, and England are endeavoring to abolish tipping. They have signs conspicuously displayed, warning against tips. In lieu of tips they inform you that the hotel bill will carry a ten per cent extra charge for service, which is divided pro rata among the employees. It might work well if one remained only one day. One soon finds an occasional tip is necessary if service is to be obtained cheerfully. Signs threaten servants with instant dismissal if seen taking a tip. They were never seen!

Ladies, take notice! The only cheap merchandise in any foreign country was women's dresses and coats. We know, as we bought several. One "made to order" was bargained for and priced. It was delivered a week later at a price $15.00 less than quoted, due to decline in value of the franc pending delivery. The scarcest thing in Europe is small change. Italy has no liras; France no francs; England no pence. Merchants and tourists alike complain, as many a sale is frustrated for want of change. It is expensive for travelers, too, when it comes to tips. Five francs is the minimum French currency, and one hates to give five francs—28 cents—for a glass of ice water or other simple service. In England for change coming to one in a store, one is handed a paper of pins, or part of a paper, according to one's comeback. In Italy the currency is so mutilated and so patched up it is often refused by merchants as not negotiable. All this is vexatious to citizens and tourists alike.

We encountered crowds only in France and England. We attended the first four days of Olympic Games, and saw many of our best men humiliated, much to our surprise and chagrin. Still we saw much to be proud of. London was swamped with tourists; 2,500 lawyers, and 3,500 advertising men, added to their usual crowd, was too much for their hotels to assimilate. Two fat persons in a three-quarter bed was no unusual assignment. In Westminster Abbey four lecturers, sight-seeing guides; each stood at a corner of the sarcophagus of Edward the Third who died in 1377, and bellowed lustily his history, endeavoring to make his following hear. It was thus everywhere. A good year not to have visited England.

Two honor members of '81 gave us each a cheerful letter while abroad. Emma and Howard are their well-known first names. Thanks for some valued friends. I saw but one U. W. man while abroad. I will mention no names. He was investigating hazardous history. He was at Hampton Court, the one-time home of Henry the Eighth where one learns how easy it was to rid oneself of an obnoxious wife. Guess who it was!—a retired lawyer, very tall, stoop-shouldered, and living in Madison, a fine fellow. You all know him well,—about class of '77.

We went over on the biggest boat in the world, the Majestic, and returned on next to the biggest, the Berengaria. A glass, filled to the brim with water, did not spill a drop going or coming; they were so steady. Too much so for an old salt like me, reared as I was on the turbulent waters of Green Bay.

I almost forgot to record our visit to the battlefields of France, a most interesting experience. From Paris two hours, by train, to Reims Cathedral, a sorry-looking relic, very dilapidated, but rapidly being restored by the aid of American benevolence. Thence by auto one hundred miles to Fismes Hill, 108', Bellou Woods, Soissons, etc., through the region of fiercest trench-fighting. Every spot visited was a period where Germans were stopped or turned back. It is astonishing how fast all traces of war are being obliterated. The trenches are all sunken in and the grass is so high one can scarcely trace their lines by the naked eye. The fields reveal war's ravages most distinctly. The huge shells tore vast gaps in the earth wherever they exploded, and they threw up the chalky sub-soil so extensively that every field has large patches of white here and there where no verdure will grow. Miles and miles of rusty barbed wire remains to impede farming. Someone undertook to utilize the wire, but found it too costly to handle. We visited the grave of Kermit Roosevelt, who is buried on a farm near a brook. There is no habitation within a mile. He is buried right where he fell when downed by a German plane. Knowing who he was the enemy buried him at once, and next day they flew over the American lines and dropped circulars telling of the incident and where his grave could be located after the war—a very admirable act, I think. We passed many regular cemeteries containing 2,500 to 5,000 graves each. All were well kept and in perfect order, generally presided over by a regular army officer and his aides. One cemetery was especially interesting to us, as it contained the graves of the only two persons we knew personally who were buried in France. It is singular, too, the two graves were not twenty feet apart. One was the grave of the poet Joyce Kilmer, author of the poem:

"I think that I shall never see A poem lovely as a tree"—

The other was the grave of Paul Cody Bentley, the first American boy killed in France. He enlisted in the French Army before his country entered the war. He was a son of Frederick William Bentley, a Chicago attorney, of the class of 1883, University of Wisconsin. Mrs. Bentley was there the very day we were, being a delegate, with General Pershing, on tour of inspection of American cemeteries in France. We all have reason to be proud of the supervision our government gives them."—9-11-24.

Sally SPENSLEY, who was married in 1921 to Carroll Michener, a Minneapolis editor and writer, went with her husband on a long wedding journey to South America. From notes made during this trip by both of them, Mr. Michener has written a travel book which has just been published by Minton, Balch & Co., New York, with illustrations, under the title, "Heirs of the Incas." The book is largely devoted to the Andean region of South America, once the homeland of the fabulous Incas, who have left traces of their ancient civilization, both racial and architectural, among the inhabitants of Ecuador, Peru, Chile, and Bolivia.

"This," says Mr. Michener in his introduction to the book, "is the cradle of the South American people—a new race, if the term may be used without undue offense to the ethnologist. Here was begun the fusion of Spaniard and Indian, con-sanguinary and sociological, that makes the South American people of today more than figuratively the heirs of the Incas."

Mr. and Mrs. Michener visited the highland regions of Peru, Bolivia, and Chile, traveling overland by way of Lake Titicaca. Later they went across continent from Valparaiso, Chile, to Buenos Aires, Argentina, returning to the United States by way of Brazil, Portugal, Spain, and France. The book is specific in its descriptive matter of the Andean region, but in the author's observations and generalizations concerning Latin American life touches upon South America as a whole.

"Since I left Hawaii in February, Kilanea Volcano has erupted and given everyone there plenty to talk about until the next explosion," writes Stuart HAMILTON, '22. "I have remained quiescent, however, for six months, so I hope you'll let me overflow with a few impressions of Japan—a most amazing nation full of paradoxes."

"The Japanese have almost emerged from feudalism and in the half hundred years since Perry and Harris injected Westernism into an unwilling patient they have become ultra-modern in many ways while clinging to really trivial antiquities. Hugging to music, as an Empress once described our dancing, has been abolished by the police in the Imperial Hotel here and at Kamakura, a beach resort. But American photoplays were listed as 'necessities' by the present Finance Minister, and the Pompeian store on the Ginza (the capital's Fifth Avenue) is doing a boom trade in cosmetics. You can imagine how adaptable Japanese hair is to the sleek greasy style popular when I left America in 1922."

"In December the Imperial Diet is to decide on manhood suffrage, there being only 3,000,000 voters now among the 60,000,000 population. Land rentals and the landlord system are probably the most urgent domestic problems, while the need of saving money has forced the militarists to promise the cabinet that four army divisions shall be abolished and 18 million yen saved. However, 17 million will be spent on modernizing the air service whose crashes are almost humorously frequent."

"The cost of living is probably higher in post-quake Tokyo than in any other spot in the world. We even pay a tax on our 4-cent tram ticket, because the number of land owners in Tokyo is almost as small as those on Lake Mendota near Langdon Street and, naturally, they won't pay big taxes. A policeman gets $25 a month and earns $5. A graduate of the Imperial University I know well is paid the same amount (50 yen), so you will understand that labor is plentiful in Nippon."

"The Japanese are growing tall since they took up Western games and did less squatting on the mats; I am above the average tram car crowd (everybody has to stand) by three inches, but when I am among college boys I am often smaller than they. Notably their legs are developing and in two generations the short Japanese will be found only among the coolies and kindly peasants. Perhaps by that time child labor hauling freight will be replaced by auto trucks, and the legal trafficking in women will be modified, perhaps. Maybe commercial honesty as we understand it will be popular here, too, for it is certainly making encouraging progress. That is a thing that Japan will adopt as soon as she sees that it pays; despite Tagore, the East is not all philosophy. I must admit that I really believe prohibition will come to Japan within five years, for drinking here is disgusting and uneconomic, just as was the American saloon of the low type. The amazing ignorance as to the physical effects of alcohol is being dispelled by the schools, and if one recalls that the counterfeit booze made here and sold under Scotch labels (misspelled) is proportionately equal to the American bootleg industry, one sees what is coming—an imperial edict abolishing booze.

"We constantly hear talk of the 'coming revolution' mostly spouted by foreigners, but the Japanese are too conservative and too loyal to the Prince Regent to do anything foolish in the line of political experiments. Books by Karl Marx are vastly popular and many students affect eight-inch hair, but they won't laugh at His Majesty, the Emperor, even if he is well, a bit vague. That ingrained patriotism continues to burn before the shrine of the Imperial family like the incense on the graves of the Forty Seven Loyal Ronin.

"To turn personal, I expect to leave Japan the middle of October for Peking and Manila where I may spend the winter. Spring will find me in Borneo and late autumn, 1925, in Europe, if not America. Peggy Coe, '20, is here, working valiantly in the largest Methodist school outside America. Al Willett, '23, came over from Foo Chow, China, for a tramp in the Japanese Alps in July, but he refused to pull himself up Mt. Fuji with me in August.

"My compliments again on the MAGAZINE; it is uniformly good."—8-28-24.

power usurps the authority and annuls the independent judgment of elected and administrative officers," has the support of students of city government. Unfortunately the attitude of most municipalities toward such suggestions is not one of cordial acceptance. The sick colored man who said to his physician: "Doctor, I don't owe you for the medical advice I secured from you because I didn't follow it" illustrates how many sick city governments react to really valuable expert advice.

The Science of Basketball (H. D. Gath, Madison), W. E. MEANWELL, '15, is a new book of about 400 pages, containing six score of illustrations, nearly three dozen of which are half tones; these illustrations include 80 diagrams of plays and photographs of well-known players in action.

The comprehensiveness of this new publication is indicated by the following headings of its twenty-seven chapters: history, equipment, training, care of minor injuries, conduct of the season, suggestions to coaches, how to scout a game, strategy, technique, basket shooting, free shot, dribble, pivots, individual defense, defense team play, unbalanced formation, theory of offense, theory of floor plays, long pass floor play, dribble floor play, short pass floor play, short pass from tip-off, special attacking, tip-off plays from balanced formations, from unbalanced formations, out-of-bound plays, plays from foul shot position.

While the introduction states that the book is chiefly for the consideration of coaches and teachers in athletics, the volume is rich in material of value to all interested in this remarkable game, which had its beginning as recently as 1892.

As would be expected, this premier basketball mentor has done a thorough job in preparing this book, which has been attractively printed by a Madison firm.

The preface, which stresses the importance of the perfect balance of physical formation in addition to technique, is contributed by Dr. Joseph Evans, to whom our University owes much for its development as a medical center.

The unqualified commendation the book has received from other basketball experts is a tribute to Dr. Meanwell, and it is also a tribute to the spirit of sportsmanship which has prompted many men, whose teams have been defeated by Wisconsin, to testify without reservation to the remarkable ability of Wisconsin's great basketball coach. Since during twelve conference seasons Meanwell's teams won nine firsts or tie and were never below third, is it any wonder that he is termed "the wonderman" of basketball?

"Three Feet Deeper"

In the old West they used to say that to find "pay dirt" you must dig as deep as you can—and then dig "three feet deeper." That spirit wins in business today—the spirit that refuses to stop short of the pay streak and its complete development.

Business men approaching larger success prefer to deal with a bank which is traveling in the same direction. To find such a bank you need go no further than this one.
