MODERN BARN HOUSES MOVIE EXPO EXHIBIT

Agricultural Engineers to Display Work in 20-Minute Film

A big barn, modern and model in every detail, will house the exhibits of the agricultural engineering department at the all-university Exposition in the gym annex April 21, 22, and 23.

The agricultural engineers will have a unique exhibit consisting of continuous moving pictures showing the four big features of the department, drainage, land clearing, farm buildings, and the use of power machinery on the farm. Portions of several reels of film will be shown. The entire program will not exceed 20 minutes time.

Land Clearing Shown

Land clearing will be depicted in all its glory of blasting stumps and getting the cut-over land ready for the plow. Over 150,000 acres of Wisconsin land are being cleared this year. For more than four years the college of agriculture has been actively engaged in a war on stumps, largely in the northern part of the state. Land-clearing specials, trains that go about demonstrating the power of dynamite in reclaiming stump lands, have been sent out each year by the college. These specials are generally manned by a crew of agricultural engineers from the university. The 1921 land clearing special will leave Madison about the first of May. Films shown at the Exposition will show many of the college men at work.

"Mid 40 days of rain, Noah made but one remark, 'My kingdom for a drain,'" says an old adage. But it is given the modern angle by the engineers who were "shot" by the movie man while laying tile to drain the big marsh near Picnic point.

Model Farm Exhibit

Modern farm buildings will be shown in another part of the 20-minute movie. The movie house itself, built after the pattern of a model barn, will contain many features of interest. The barn is to be ventilated by the Rutherford ventilation system, so that fresh air at all times is assured visitors. Tractors and power machinery will form a fourth feature of the film. Many of these implements have been photographed at work on the university farm and will be of especial interest because of the local background.

Plank benches will form the seating arrangement and it is estimated that some 50 people can be accommodated at a single performance. The movie machine will be set up on rafters so that people going in and out will not interfere with the showing of the pictures. Music for the show will be furnished by the animal husbandry department, featuring the famous "college cow orchestra."

CARDINAL REPORTERS
Compulsory meeting of all reporters, special writers, and people who are trying out for editorial staff positions on The Daily Cardinal today at 12:00 in the Cardinal office.

Why an Exposition?
Scott Answers

PROF. W. A. SCOTT

"Why an Exposition" will be the subject of Prof. W. A. Scott's talk at the all-university convocation on Thursday, April 7, at 4:30 p. m., which is to be held for the purpose of getting up enthusiasm for the Exposition.

Professor Scott is a well-known authority on banking and finance. He has been at the head of the Commerce school since its inception in 1900, and is known as the "Father of the Commerce School."

The reason for the University Exposition, and an outline of its general features, with regard to the students and the people of Wisconsin will be discussed by Professor Scott, who is considered one of the most interesting speakers on the faculty.

MAYOR OPENS GAME WITH FIRST BALL

Milo Kittleson in Box for Wisconsin When Game Starts

Whether it will be a "spitball" or a "knuckleball" or any of the other fancy twists of the professional twirler it is not safe to assert, but the first ball tossed in the opening game of the baseball season this afternoon at Camp Randall will be pitched by Madison's mayor, I. Milo Kittleson. When the umpire calls the game the mayor will step to the box and the game will begin.

Gov. John J. Blaine has been secured to open the first conference game. He will toss the first ball in the game against Purdue here on May 7.

NEW S. G. A. OFFICERS INSTALLED TONIGHT

Installation of new S. G. A. officers will be held Thursday night in the S. G. A. room, Lathrop, at 7 o'clock. The new officers who will be installed are: Ellen Correll '21, president; Frances Beecher '22, vice-president; Dorothy Ware '22, secretary; Katherine Ely '23, treasurer; Isabelle Capps '23, census chairman.

BADGER NINE OPENS SEASON IN PRELIMINARY CONTEST TODAY

HARESFOOT HAS ORCHESTRA OF FIFTEEN PIECES

Buzzing Tunes of "Miss Quitta" Led by Jean Juster

A 15-piece orchestra composed of students will accompany the Haresfoot club on its annual spring tour, leaving Madison on April 15, and returning for three engagements at the Fuller theater on Friday and Saturday, April 22 and 23.

Jean Juster '21, a member of Haresfoot and leader of last year's orchestra, will again be in charge of the music. The following men will compose the orchestra: Irving Woodhouse '21, F. C. Davies '22, J. P. Woods '22, Raymond Hawkins '21, Cecil Brodt '22, John Mokreps '23, Philip Nolte '22, W. E. Warner '22, Harwood Gregory '23, Robert Morris '23, P. B. Roman '24, Richard Hadley '23, and Wendell Bonestee.

The many buzzing tunes running through "Miss Quitta" add greatly to the success of the comedy. All the songs have been written by Earl Carpenter '21, with Horace Carver '21 writing the lyrics. The illustrated score containing 18 song hits of the show will be sold at the performances here for $1.50 a copy. This is the first score published by the club since 1915.

The songs in the score include the following: "Hootch Hound's Lament," "Mystic Movement," "My Dark-eyed Dear," "Cupid's Cookbook," "Let's Pretend," "Red, Red Nose," "My Lady Nicotine," and "The Song of the Thrush."

NOTED RUSSIAN SPEAKS TONIGHT AT HIGH SCHOOL

Count Ilya Tolstoy to Present "The Truth About Russia"

Count Ilya Tolstoy will talk on "The Truth About Russia" at the Madison high school auditorium at 8 o'clock tonight.

Count Tolstoy has recently returned from Russia, where he made a careful study of the political and economic conditions of his native country.

During the past eight months articles by Tolstoy on the Russian situation have appeared in twelve leading magazines in this country.

Tolstoy is anti-Bolshevik. This is not because he is a royalist or a capitalist in his political views; nor because all his land and personal possessions were confiscated by the Bolsheviks, as in fact they were; but because he is opposed to all class-rule, whether by capital or by labor.

Tickets are on sale at Smith's music store on State street, the central entrance at Bascom hall, or at the door tonight. Tickets sell for $1.50 and $1.00.

Eight Veterans in Line-up Which Meets Northwestern College

Eight veteran players will be in the Wisconsin line-up when the Badger baseball team meets Northwestern college, Watertown, in the first preliminary game of the season at 3:30 this afternoon on the Camp Randall diamond.

The men who played last year on the Wisconsin nine are Captain Alvah C. Elliott '23, Carl F. Ceaser '22, Carson F. Lyman '21, Edgar G. Farrington '21, William P. Snow '21, Frank M. Williams '22, Allan C. Davey '21, and Allen H. Miller '21.

After a brisk fielding and batting drill yesterday, Coach Guy S. Lowman selected the team that will meet Northwestern in the initial contest of the year. Little is known of the collegians' strength, has they are expected to give the Badgers a hard contest. Wisconsin presents a nine composed of veteran players who may bring the Badgers to the top of the conference baseball ladder. If this team gains an early lead today, Coach Lowman will make numerous shifts in the tentative lineup and practically every man on the squad will get a chance to get in the game.

Pitcher Not Picked

Whether "Bill" Williams or Allen Miller takes up the pitching duties for Wisconsin depends upon the form shown by the two men in warming-up practice before the game. Davey will be behind the bat. "Jack" Williams will start the contest at first base, but it is likely that Harvey B. Piggott '23 will get into the game at first base before the game is over. Lyman will play second base, Captain "Rowdy" Elliott will be stationed at short stop, and Farrington is slated to play third.

Charles W. Skaife '23, Charles Ruediger '23 may substitute in the infield in case Northwestern fails to become dangerous in the early innings.

"Duke" Ceaser in center field, Snow in left, and Robert E. Hardell '21 in right field will guard the Wisconsin outfield positions, but "Gus" Tebelle, "Rollie" Williams, and Herbert O. Christiansen '23 are scheduled to relieve the regulars in the outer garden before the end of the game.

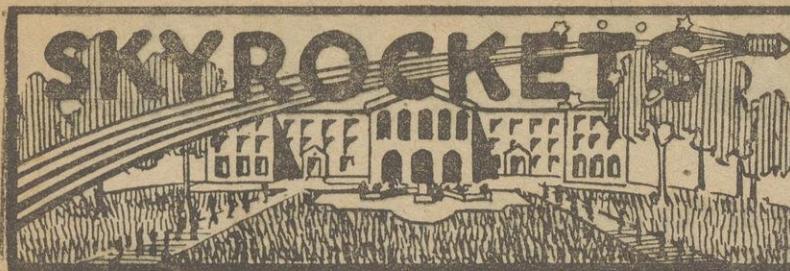

TAX COMMISSIONER TO ADDRESS ARTUS

Nils P. Taugen, chairman of the Wisconsin tax commission and one of the greatest taxation authorities in the country, will address Artus, honorary economics fraternity, at 7:15 tonight in 303 P. E. P. building, on the subject of "Pressing Taxation Problems." The meeting will be open to the public.

The talk by Mr. Haugen tonight is the first of a series planned by Artus with a view to bringing the members of the organization into closer touch with current economic problems. Prospective speakers include Gov. John J. Blaine, George Hambrecht, chairman of the industrial commission, and Carl Jackson, chairman of the railroad commission.

ANYONE born on this day is to be envied, as there is but one April sixth every twelfth-month. They are often called the "Chosen Few," since their date of birth entitles them to the free use of the center of all streets, the privilege of bathing as often as desired, and the right of committing suicide at will. Red headed people born on this day will be characterized by their freckles and the particular fact of having five fingers on each hand. Contrary to the general opinion, women born on April sixth will not marry men with the same date of birth. Men celebrating this day as a birthday have nothing to be happy over, for the stars tell us that their chief occupation in life will be paying alimony.

TO THE TRI DELTS is awarded the combination radiator and ice box for spring enthusiasm. After planting their yard full of supposed tulips they discovered (or probably someone else discovered for them) that they were onions instead.

MORE appropriately, however, ye ed is going to present them with a set of assorted Life Preservers and the following is dedicated to them:

Lo, I am strength;
I make small children weep.
And lovely women faint,
And strong men shudder and turn pale.

I am an onion.

CERTAIN exceedingly simple frosh have lately been trying to show off with a vain effort to tip the waiters in the cafeterias. Next they will be sharpening their wits on the Blarney Stone.

THE NOSE NEWSIE

Today's question: "What are you looking forward to most just now?"

RED CROSS GIRLS TO SERVE PUNCH FROM DUGOUTS

Novel Feature Introduced for Refreshments at Military Ball

One hundred twenty-five gallons of fruit punch will be served for refreshments at the 1921 Military ball to be held Friday night in the capitol. Five stands, three situated near the orchestra stand and two in opposite wings, have been arranged to care for the thirsty couples.

Each stand will be built in front on an imitation dug-out, and cheerful doughboys and pretty Red Cross nurses will be present to serve the punch. The idea of the dug-out stands is an original one, and a novel effect is hoped to be secured. Although no refreshments will be served in the boxes, the punch stands will be open during the entire evening.

Four 75 mm. French field pieces have been obtained from the department of military science and tactics and one gun will be placed on the walk at each of the four wings of the capitol. At 8:15 sharp Friday night, Miss Pearl Stewart, ball queen, will press a button which will automatically fire all four of these French pieces and which will be the formal opening of the ninth annual Military ball. Five additional shots will be fired to mark this as the ninth ball.

Experiments are being made daily with the wireless telephone in the capitol, and from all appearances the plan of having one entire dance sent by radio will be carried out. Short talks by prominent men may also be a feature of the function.

CLEF CLUB

Clef club initiation, followed by a program and business meeting, will be held Thursday evening.

Frank Schram: "I am always looking forward to the day when Venus de Milo comes to life."

Katherine Maier: "I just can't wait till the day when I can see, from Picnic point, the sun rise over the capitol dome."

Hobart Price: "Continually I look forward to the time when I will find a mirror that will show to me my beauty, and thereby reveal the secret of my strength with the wimmin."

Helen Schlosser: "I am looking forward to the day when skirts cover the knee cap. I've used up two jars of cold cream in the last month."

Frank Gray: "As far as I'm concerned, French is a dead language already, but I'm waiting for the day when they kill anyone for speaking of it."

DON'T TIP OVER

The Cardinal, Crippled by a Fire, Can't Come to the Rescue

"We're going to write you up, Cap," quavered the scared reporteress as she crawled out from under an upturned canoe where she had secluded herself to avoid the falling splinters and flying doors, when the Cardinal took a notion to keep up the record of university fires by blowing off the front door yesterday afternoon, and setting fire to things in general.

"Well, the durn thing nearly blew us up!" responded Cap warmly. "Why, that explosion fairly jarred my memory! I don't know what happened, but I know it's a pretty good thing it didn't happen out in the middle of the lake. It ain't a good day for swimmin'."

The center of an excited mob of volunteer fire fighters, Cap displayed admirable coolness and aplomb. While the ambitious, but rather amateur Lake street department, dashed into the "Y" and returned with half a dozen empty Pyrenes with which to fan the increasing blaze, Cap balanced himself precariously on the gunwale, brandishing a pail of sea water and shouting lustily, "Shut her off, boys, before she reaches the gasoline tank, or we'll all be blown to Mars!"

At this moment the scared reporteress covered her head with a canoe pillow and a dense cloud of black smoke obscured the brave mob of volunteers.

When the smoke and the excitement cleared away, and the reporteress peered anxiously out expecting to see the Armory upside down and the entire university submerged by a tidal wave, a triumphant and hilarious crowd of spectators stood around complimenting themselves on the brave way they had put out the fire.

Notable among the crowd present was "Shorty" Barr, who announced in stentorian tones that the department could disperse for the day and that practice for the troop would be held the following morning on the Sig Chi fire-escape.

"Mike" Knapp, Coach Jones, "Dad" Vall, Joe Steinauer, and several other notables were there on the firing line, prepared to tell everybody just why and how it happened, and how soon the Cardinal would be in trim for the crew practice.

"Well," remarked "Cap," with a chuckle, "I bet them two couples I went out after 'cause they didn't have any life savers with 'em are glad this here little episode occurred. Guess we'll have to get out Cardinal the Third," he added, pointing out to the appreciative crowd a battered row boat drawn up on shore.

And then, just to prove that it takes a co-ed to point out the important features in every occasion, the first flapper to whom the thrilled reporteress retailed the adventure, remarked spontaneously, "That means we won't have the Cardinal out after us tonight!" Now I ask you if that isn't the really important thing about it after all?

PROPAGANDA USED AGAINST JAPANESE MOST DANGEROUS
—PROFESSOR FISH

Branding anti-Japanese propaganda as "the most dangerous of all," Prof. Carl Russell Fish in an address before the Anglo-American club last night at the university Y. M. C. A. voiced a warning against possible conflict between Japan and the United States if the present propaganda was continually and rigorously pursued.

"The ties of friendship which would possibly prevent a war between Great Britain and the United States should anti-British propaganda prove a cause of war, are lacking between Japan and the United States. For that reason the present propaganda is very dangerous.

"With regard to the California restriction of Japanese immigration, the problem has now become a national problem. The government should give assistance to a state in the control of foreign citizens. Canada and Australia have laws restricting immigration, but this is done on the basis of other reasons than racial equality."

VIVID PICTURE OF NEGRO GIVEN BY MISS FINCH

A picture of a fine lovable old mammy with a wonderful imagination and a deep religious fervor that made one easily understand her power of making the children under her care "stiff with religion" was given by Miss Lucine Finch last night in Music hall in her charming interpretation of this old negress who once was her mammy. With deep understanding and delightful flickers of humor Miss Finch told two stories, "Moses and the Bulrushes," and "The Creation," which had been told her many times by her mammy.

Plaintive religious songs were interspersed by Miss Finch in her reading, which added greatly to the charm of the entertainment by producing an atmosphere of pathos which made for a better understanding of the truly deep, yet wieldy simple, religious fervor of the old negress.

ALL FOR WISCONSIN

A Convocation will be held tomorrow afternoon. It is to be no ordinary convocation.

The purpose is to rally every student to the standard of his university and to enlist the support of everyone in making the Exposition a success.

The time is getting short.

The actual work of preparing the exhibits is far on the way to completion. As far as technique goes the Exposition is practically an accomplished fact.

Right now the one big thing is to rouse the whole state to the meaning of the Exposition. It is useless to light a candle and put it under a bushel. The same is true of an Exposition that does not "expose."

This spectacle is not intended for the admiring gaze of the students alone. It is intended for the people throughout the state. Obviously, the thing to do is get the people down here.

Everybody can help. Everybody must help.

Everybody will help when the old Wisconsin spirit is called forth again.

The purpose of the convocation tomorrow is to rekindle the spark. This is all that is needed. The results will be felt in every corner of the state when the students go home for the spring recess.

Everybody out tomorrow afternoon!

DON'T SLIP

THE voice of the turtle dove again is heard in the land.

Spring is here. And with this season comes the inevitable urge to let everything serious drop and give oneself up to the joy of living.

It is easy to forget or to ignore responsibilities when all nature smiles.

The moral (if moralizing about spring is permitted) is to appraise the pleasures of the season at their proper value. This value is recreation and recreation is a means, not an end.

There is a tendency for grades to slump in the spring. This is due largely to the fact that students lose grip on themselves during the first few weeks of the season. Many of them never regain their hold. It is not so easy to cram in June as it was in February.

A good habit to develop at this time of the year is the early rising habit. Radiator troubles do not matter now and it is easy to get at least one hour of study before classes begin. One hour at this time is worth two at night.

If this practice were kept up until the end of the semester it would enable students to maintain a good standard of scholarship and would still give them time to get out and enjoy the wonders of nature.

Very few early risers will be in attendance at the condition examinations next fall.

ANDANTE FROM THE FIFTH SYMPHONY, by BEETHOVEN (1770-1827)

Modern medical science seems to be finding an answer to Macbeth's unsatisfactory question "Canst thou not minister to a mind diseased and with some sweet oblivious antidote cleanse that pernicious stuff which weighs upon the heart?" The musical practitioner seeking music which will calm the mind and relieve the heart has already fixed upon this Beethoven Andante as containing one of the most consoling and beautifully strengthening themes in all music.

Who has not read some account of the life of Ludwig van Beethoven, the peer of the world's composers, of his early start in music, his constant advancement, his reaching the utmost heights, his loss of hearing, and the many pathetic incidents due to his misfortune and his high-strung nature? It is a story of complete devotion to the highest ideals of art with rewards fully commensurate with that devotion.

His fifth symphony shares with the ninth, his last, the honor of highest place in his compositions. The second movement, this Andante, with its beautiful opening theme played by the cello, is an example of the simplicity of greatness. Although it is the strictest of classical music it has a beauty which appeals to everyone who gives it careful listening. There is in a distinct feeling of prayer. The first phrase breathes sweet consolation, rest from turbulence and anxiety with promise of peace, and happiness to the anxious heart. Beethoven toiled long on this theme, and after incessant thought and polishing brought forth this sympathetic melody. He tried especially to avoid the rigid regularity so common in ordinary music, and finally produced the delightful irregularities of its rhythmic ebb and flow. The second theme, sung by the clarinets and bassoons, expresses greater resolution and exaltation. In the succeeding variations on these two themes, the master subtly changes the character by subduing the accents as he introduces shorter and shorter tones which twine about the principal themes. Finally the original themes return in their simplicity and the orchestra sings of the blessed peace of which man has always dreamed. This number is an ideal embodiment of the ideal that music should not seek to tell a story but to exalt great moods.

The nineteenth selection in last year's contest was "Oh for the Wings of a Dove" by Mendelssohn.

NOTED EDITORS CONTRIBUTE TO COUNTRY MAG

April Issue Will Be on Sale Today on Agricultural Campus

Prominent editors and leaders of the agricultural world are among the contributors in the April Country magazine, which is on sale on the agricultural campus today.

That thousands of agricultural economists and leaders are needed today to supply the demand of American and world agriculture is the contention of Prof. A. J. Meyer in his article. Professor Meyer, formerly assistant agronomist at the university and associate editor of The Wisconsin Agriculturist, is now director of the Extension division, University of Missouri. Mr. Meyer believes that there is a wide field in opportunities open to the graduate of an agricultural college.

J. L. Tormey '07, Field representative of the American Shorthorn horn. Other interesting features of this issue are "As Essential as a Rolling Pin" by Genevieve Hicks '24; "Just Facts" by Elvira Meiselwitz '24; "Get a Hobby and Buy on it," by Beatrice Bruhnke '21; and "What is Your Dearest Wish?" conducted by the County Magazine staff.

Breeders' association, shows in his feature story what has been done toward bringing purebred stock into Wisconsin farms toward increased sales, and toward the eradication of disease in the herds.

"Bessie Reports the Horse Show" as translated by Charles D. Byrne is a humorous and catchy feature review of the Little International. "Bessie saw the show from an entirely new and novel angle, and admits she likes being fussed with and over.

"Making Sick Orchards Well" by Conrad Kuehner '22 deals with the economic and scenic loss thru inattention to farm orchards, "Wisconsin First" is again proved by I. O. Hughes '22 in his "From Fancy to Fact" which tells of two ways that Wisconsin has led the agricultural world. "Writing for the Farmer" by Walter C. Holzbog tells of the many former Wisconsin students who are leaders in Agricultural journalism throughout the United States.

WASHINGTON—A reduction of 3 cents in grain rates east of Chicago was recommended to the railroads by the Interstate Commerce commission.

JOURNALISTS TO MAKE TOUR OF CHICAGO PRESS

Watching the last edition of the Chicago Evening American go to press will complete the inspection students who go to Chicago in Wednesday April 13. The party consisting of all journalist students interested will leave Madison at 6:30 Wednesday morning, and arrive in Chicago about 10:45.

The plant of the Western Newspaper union which makes the ready prints for country weekly newspapers and the stereotyped plate matter used by weekly and small daily newspapers will be the first place visited.

After lunching at some central restaurant, the party will go to the Barnes-Crosby Engraving plant to witness the methods of making half tones, zinc etchings, and color plates.

The Associated Press office and the city press bureau where news is collected for the Chicago papers will be visited. The party will also inspect the new Tribune plant and the Chicago offices of the Medill school of journalism.

The Herald Examiner plant will be the last place on the trip and here the students will have the opportunity of seeing just how a newspaper goes to press. All of the presses will be operating and the tremendous speed with which the edition is issued may be obtained.

COMEDY PLAYERS TO APPEAR HERE IN "THE RIVALS"

Proceeds of Play Saturday to Be Used for Student Loan Fund

A loan fund for needy freshmen, for whom there is now no provision made, will be started from the proceeds of "The Rivals," to be given Saturday, April 9, at 2:30 and 8 o'clock in Music hall.

"The most urgent cases among upperclassmen have always been taken care of by the loan fund," said Dean S. H. Goodnight, who is bringing the Coffer-Miller players here for the performance.

"Sometimes we make an exception in the case of a freshman, if we think he really needs it, and lend him enough to tide him over. But our money is always all loaned out, and we need a fund for the freshmen."

At The Theaters

AT THE STRAND

Mack Sennett's supreme six reel comedy-drama, "A Small Town Idol," with an all star Sennett cast including Ben Turpin, Marie Prevost, Charlie Murry, and Phyllis Haver, will be the attraction at the Strand theater for four days starting today.

Ben Turpin is the "idol" indicated by the title. In the early scenes Turpin is hero of the track and as jockey rides his mount to victory. From there begins the story of the small town idol who, confronted with an invulnerable mass of circumstantial evidence of his generally evil tendencies, deems it necessary to leave his country home. He has some amazing adventures among crooks, and then becomes a "double" in a motion picture organization.

Plunged into the very depths of gloom and despair, Ben attempts to commit suicide, but even in this he is foiled. He believes his opportunity to rid himself of the strife and grief of this world has come when he is told to do a perilous dive. But his plunge is so spectacularly brilliant that the hero for whom he has doubled is "canned" and Ben is given his place.

Here Turpin appears in a photoplay within a photoplay and becomes the hero of "Two-Gun Sam." He returns in triumph to his home town to make a personal appearance.

There will also be shown "The Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes," and Annette Kellerman in "The Art of Diving."

AT THE FULLER

To be recognized as one of the world's great singers within one year after graduation from the Boston Conservatory of Music—this was the record which Bettina Freeman made ten years ago. Of course her voice had excited speculation as to who she was. Her voice had attracted attention from the day she entered the conservatory and she was under contract to the Boston Opera company while she was still a pupil. She sang with Caruso, Farrar, Alda and others of the great stars during her first year. Hammerstein heard of her and the following season she went to London as the leading dramatic soprano for his season at Covent Garden. For the past two years she has been with the San Carlo Grand Opera company, which comes to the Fuller theater on Monday, April 11, to present Donizetti's great opera, "Lucia di Lammermoor."

AT THE ORPHEUM.

Six acts of as pleasing vaudeville as one cares to see headed by the two Orpheum Circuit feature numbers Clarence Oliver and Georgie Olp in the comedy playlet "The Bee Hive" and Sebastian and Myra Sisters, dancers and singers as well as musicians of class, together with Charlie Wilson, the "Nut" comedian; Miss Doris Duncan assisted by Jack Carroll in songs; Meredith and Snoozer and John and Nellie Oans, and Kinogram and Topics of the Day pictures, go to make up the program at the Orpheum for the matinee and two evening performances today. "The Bee Hive" is one of the cleverest acted and staged playlets seen here this season, and the dancing, singing and violin playing in the Sebastian and Myra Sisters act gives the bill all the earmarks of bigtime.

St. Olaf Choir Will Appear Here Thursday
