COUNTRY MAG ASSAYS NOVEL PICTURE IDEA

For the first time in the history of university magazines, the Country Magazine for March, issued today, has a "photo art" cover of campus interest. Pictures of Alice Cochrell '24, Olivia Orth '23, and Mary Kriz '24, co-ed riders, are shown on the cover design.

Stories for the magazines, the student publication of the College of Agriculture, include "The Horse that Laughs" by Arthur Platten '23, "Ways to Earn Money" by Charlotte Wyard '25 and "International Sidelights" by "Scoop" Taylor.

The photograph cover, an innovation in campus magazines, was made at considerable cost and with the approval of the college, according to Maynard Brown '23, managing editor.

TO CHEER AT CHICAGO

INDICATIONS late last night were that at least 50 students and as many more alumni will journey to Chicago to witness the Chicago-Wisconsin basketball game tomorrow night. Announcement has been made by Ezra Crane '24, cheer leader, that all rooters at Chicago should stand when the Badger team enters on the floor. Crane will be in waiting and will lead the delegation in a skyrocket.

The numbers at Chicago will be few and scattered but Crane hopes that the spirit of those present will be of sufficient calibre to produce a sufficient volume of noise.

"Every man at Chicago must stand, no matter where he is and yell for ah he is worth," Crane declared last night.

ST. PAT ARISES FOR ENGINEERS

Dismiss Classes Today For Massmeeting on Parade

The sacred tradition of St. Pat, Erin-go-bragh shamrocks and engineers bobs up for its initial attention in 1923 today.

Engineers classes will be dismissed for the all-engineers mass meeting to be held in the Engineering auditorium promptly at 11:40 o'clock in order that St. Pat's proteges may contrive their first plots for the coming Engineer's parade, March 17.

Candidates for St. Patrick's office in the parade will orate in short campaign speeches. The building will vibrate with engineer's songs.

Immediately following the meeting, St. Pat votes, selling at one mil each, will be cast and the engineer polling the highest number by the end of next week will lead the parade.

Because this year's parade falls on St. Patrick's day, everything will be done to make it an improvement on all past efforts, according to all engineers. Mayor Kittleson has given his permission for the staging of anything not opposed by the chief of police.

Prizes will be given for the best society, group and individual stunts. There also will be prizes for the longest home-grown beard and for the best frosh individual entry.

Junior Civil Engineers to Inspect Chicago Mills

The Junior Civil Engineers will leave Madison, April 2, for Chicago where they will spend three days in inspection of railway terminals and steel mills. This trip is designed to show the practical side of courses that are being taken up at the present time.

The engineers will visit the following plants in Chicago: The Northwestern Terminal, The Soo Freight Terminal, The Universal Cement plant, and the Daly Steel works.

The following students will take the trip. W. Collins, J. Desmond, N. Lyons, B. Kent, H. Nethercut, A. Mathy, D. Sogard, G. McCormick, H. McCullough, F. Shore, M. White, C. Otto, G. Otis, and L. Mohs. H. O. Withy is chairman of the inspection trip.

Methodists Plan Meet With Repentance Idea

A repentance party will be held at the University Methodist church at 8 o'clock this evening for all Methodist students who did not meet all other Methodist students at the Rally supper a week ago.

AD CLUB ELECTS

Advertising club announces the election to membership of Earle F. Gill '23; Vernon F. Houghton '25; Albert G. Fennell '26; Harold H. Laskey '24; Clark J. Hazelwood '24; Alice Moehlenpach '26; and Mary Jane Lucas '23.

University Pastors Favor Evolution Theory of Man

With almost complete unanimity the university pastors favored the evolution theory of the ascent of man yesterday when questioned as to their opinion on the sermons of Dr. Grant who has been speaking to congregations which taxed the accommodations of the Church of Ascension of New York city.

"I would rather be on the upgrade with the descendants of the Japanese ape than on the downgrade with Adam as representing the degenerate son of God. The story of Adam, the apple and poor Eve is only another way of accounting for sin and is a fable," Dr. Grant has claimed.

Dr. Grant ranged himself definitely as a supporter of the theory of evolution as against the version of the creation of man given in the Book of Genesis.

University pastors generally agree that Dr. Grant is an extreme radical and is rehearsing discussions in a dramatic way that were settled 25 years ago. These men when interviewed expressed their opinions very decidedly. Their statements follow:

Rev. J. E. Sarles, University pastor of the First Congregational church—The discussion is much beside the issue as the emphasis is now placed. When the Bible was written, it had to express the truth in the language of that day. The essential truth is that God is the center of all life. The present day expression is the fear of the idea of the imminence of God. Very few evolutionists of today accept the theory as Darwin taught it.

Rev. Joseph B. Gleason, University pastor of the First Baptist church—The modern evolution theory is correct and the Bible is our guide through life. The Old Testament is a book of traditions and history of the Hebrew people—a people who were struggling to find their way to a higher ideal of God. This ideal was expressed by the outstanding prophets and finally consummated in the personality of Jesus Christ. The fact that God made man by this slow process from the lower forms of animal life gives me much consolation. We have not obtained our spiritual civilization yet, and I am a thorough believer in Christ. I am thoroughly progressive in my viewpoint. I may agree with Dr. Grant's viewpoint, but I would take a positive attitude in teaching instead of his negative radical attitude. There are plenty of things to prove and affirm of our food for thought instead of denying them.

AUTHOR DIRECTS "BLUE" BANDITS IN REHEARSALS

With the completed cast of "Blue Bandits" making daily rehearsals, the 1924 Gun and Blade comic opera which will be given March 15 and 16 at the Madison high school auditorium, is rapidly being whipped into shape under the direction of John T. McDonough, author-composer.

The comedy has an intriguing plot and music that ranges from staid grand opera to the jazziest syncopation. The songs include "Wines of France," "Primrose Time in Tuscany," "The Carillons," and "Take Me Home With You."

The play has been produced in various Wisconsin cities and has been highly endorsed by citizens of Beloit, Oshkosh and Green Bay.

"It is the first amateur show here for which the people of Green Bay said they got their money's worth," said James H. McGillan, commander of the American Legion there.

Tickets may be secured at Dettloff's pharmacy, Badger pharmacy, Rider's Pen shop, and Hook Bros. Music company. Reservations may be made at Hook's on and after Saturday, March 10.

Ruhr Situation to Be Explained By Professors

Prof. P. J. Potter of the Political Science department will speak on the "Political Significance of the Ruhr Invasion" and Prof. W. J. Fuller of the history department will take up the subject from a diplomatic viewpoint, at the meeting of the International club at 8 o'clock tonight in the Lathrop S. G. A. room.

The general foreign policy of the United States and its situation in relation to the Ruhr invasion will be discussed by Professors Potter and Fuller in their addresses, after which there will be a general discussion in which everyone will participate.

The meeting will be open to all who desire to attend.

State St. and University to Have New Stop Signs

Student motorists in the city no longer will have an excuse for forgetting to stop before driving on to State street or University avenue. New "Stop" signs, painted in red on a white background have been ordered by the city, and according to Thomas Shaughnessy, chief of police, will replace the yellow and black signs now in use. The signs also carry the wording "Warning," "Arterial." "It takes less time and money to stop at these signs than it does to pay a fine," said the chief yesterday in his warning to the students to be careful.

GLEE MEN WILL SING TONIGHT IN HOME CONCERT

Receives Praise For Eastern Work

The initial and only concerts of the University Glee club in Madison will be given tonight and tomorrow night at 8:15 o'clock in Music hall concert room, when a program of wide diversity is to be presented.

"That university students should attend the concerts and show us that they are as ready to support us as they are the athletic teams," Prof. S. Earl Swinney, director of the club, said last night. "The club, said last night. "The this activity and have given many hours to practice in order to attain a high degree of musical perfection."

The program has been arranged to please everybody, according to Professor Swinney. It is somewhat lighter than the one given last year but consists of good songs of widely varied type. The club will sing some clever Negro travesties along with its other songs.

"Although we did not receive a place in the contest held in New York city last week-end, we surely were accorded a great reception by our alumni and members of eastern universities," Harry Carswell '23, a member of the club, declared yesterday. "We sang with but 17 members while the eastern clubs had their full quotas of 30 men at Carnegie hall."

That the praise of the Wisconsin men is not limited to the alumni is shown by a letter which Professor Swinney received yesterday from a Columbia university professor. The letter which accompanied a check for the glee club said in part:

"It was a great pleasure to hear your boys 'carry on' in Carnegie hall Saturday night. If 17 men give our eastern clubs with their full quota a nip-and-tuck trial, cold logic prophesies what you will do next time. Not a few of us would have placed your team among the leading three—handicapped, but not outclassed."

Miss Jean Dudley, violinist and pupil of Cecil Burleigh, will play a group of solos accompanied by Miss Constance Maclean '24, as a part of the program.

The members who will take part in the concerts are Chris Hendra '23, Robert Hill '24, A. C. Johnson '25, Harry Carswell '23, Thomas Dartnell '23, Whitford Huff '23, Edward Otis '24, Charles Kellum '23, Oscar Christianson, Law 2, Theodore Soller, grad, William Flugstad '24, Kenneth Damon '23, John Murphy '24, Frances Whitehead '24, Carroll Robb '24, Robert Nethercut '24, accompanist, William Oatway '24, Herman Hoffman '23, Bert Hilberts '25, R. W. Sharp '23, and E. W. Guild '25.

HIGH SCHOOL CAST TO PRESENT COMEDY

"Cranford" a comedy adapted from the novel of the same name by Mrs. Gaskell, will be presented by students of the Central High school Saturday in the school auditorium. The play was originally scheduled for February 17, but was postponed due to the recent epidemic of gripe.

Central High school is well known for the excellence of its dramatic productions. Many university stars received dramatic training at the local school. Last year the Edwin Booth dramatic club sponsored a special performance of "The Servant in the House," on the high school's plays.

Two performances of "Cranford" will be given on Saturday at 3 o'clock and at 8 o'clock in the evening. Reserved seats are now on sale at the school for 50 cents and all tickets remaining will be sold at the door.

PLAN 4 PLAYS FOR U. W. CLUB

Faculty Group Preparing For Evening Presentation

Practice for the four plays to be presented by Curtin club March 27 is progressing, according to Prof. J. F. A. Pyre, general chairman of the production.

This year, instead of presenting one long play, four shorter sketches will be given by Curtin club. Assisting Mr. Pyre on the production staff are B. Q. Morgan and Alan L. Strout as business manager and assistant business manager.

The coaches for the four plays are E. H. Byrne, of the history department, F. A. Ernst, of the Romance language department, Robert West, of the speech department, and C. L. Fernberg, of the English department.

Curtin club is an organization of faculty members, wives of faculty members, alumni and other interested persons. Its purpose is to present such plays here in Madison as would otherwise not be put on by student or city organizations. The organization has shown what splendid productions it can give by presenting Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest" in 1920, and William Ellery Leonard's "Red Bird" in 1922.

"We have attempted something new this year in presenting four plays instead of one, but from present indications, the production will certainly be successful. Rehearsals are coming along fine, and the prospects for a highly successful presentation are bright. We have selected a variety of types of plays which will prove entertaining and interesting to everyone," Mr. Pyre declared.

A. C. F. Board Hears Report on Open House

A business meeting of the A. C. F. board was held in Agriculture hall at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, at which a report on the open house held by the board during the Little International was presented. The financial report of the mixer held March 4 was accepted.

WEATHER: UNSETTLED

Unsettled weather Friday with probable light rain. Warmer Saturday, partly cloudy and colder. The maximum temperature for the last 24 hours was 35.8 degrees at 3 p. m., while the minimum was 18.9 degrees at 7 a. m.

FALSE EXAMS CAUSE DEBATE

Princeton Plan Brings Comment; Wisconsin Has Tried It

The practice of putting misstatements as to historical persons and incidents into examination questions, to deliberately test the student's knowledge of the course, has been the cause of much discussion and debate among students. The system is being used to a certain extent in some of the eastern universities, such as Princeton and Columbia.

Under the plans, the student is given a paper which is full of mistakes, some obvious, but many so well concealed that only a clear mind would detect them, and is asked to correct the misstatements which he finds.

In a final examination at Princeton university in the modern European history course, the first question required a correction of a dissertation on the Congress of Vienna. In the paper Metternich was "torn to pieces by the mob and his bleeding body greeted with execrations, in the streets of Vienna," when, as a matter of fact, the Austrian Minister was thrown out of office without the slightest physical injury resulting from his fall.

Students at Wisconsin are not unfamiliar with this form of examination, according to Prof. V. A. C. Henmon, director of the school of education. Students here have been given these "true-false" examinations in several courses, although final examinations are seldom of this nature, Professor Henmon declared.

"This manner of quizzing is not new, as it has been in use in many universities for years; many students have never heard of it before because it is not used in many courses," said Professor Henmon. "The purpose of the 'true-false' examination is not to trap students but to give them a thorough test on their knowledge of the course."

University Activities Will Appear in National Magazine

The University of Wisconsin will be represented in the various departments of the American Student, a national monthly which will make its first appearance locally on March 10. The magazine will contain a digest of accomplishments of students and educational officers, according to an announcement made by Elizabeth Guilfoile '24, local correspondent. It will have, besides news features, departments devoted to athletics, editorials and humor.

ALPHA XI LODGE MAY BECOME GIRLS' DORMITORIES SOON

The consideration of the purchase of the Alpha Xi Delta sorority lodge for use as a cooperative house and community center was suggested by the board of visitors to the university board of regents at a joint luncheon in Lathrop hall Wednesday noon.

The purchase was urged so as to give more girls the advantages of dormitory life. At present but one-third of the 2,700 women enrolled in the university are accommodated in dormitories. Of these 275 are housed by Barnard and Chadbourne halls, 700 by sororities, and the rest in three cooperative homes maintained by the university, according to a report made at the meeting. The purchase of the lodge would be a large appropriation will be made to finance the purchase.

American Men Rank High -- in Beaux Arts Exams

Out of the 17 Americans competing in the elimination examinations for entrance to the Beaux Arts School of Architecture in Paris, three American boys, one of them a Chicagoan, succeeded in securing first, second and third places.

There were 470 applicants but only 62 vacancies. Forty-five of these vacancies were awarded to French students and 17 to foreign students. Competition was keen this year, and 68 foreigners, including the 17 American, competed.

George Connor, the Chicago man was a graduate of Armour institute of Technology. The other two men were Lance Gowen of the American field service from the University of California and Gordon from Princeton.

Professor Aust Forms Bill to Protect American Lotus

A bill protecting the American lotus, now a rare flower in the United States, was recently proposed by Franz A. Aust, professor of landscape design, and presented to the committee on state affairs by Assemblyman D. A. Whelan of Mondovi, yesterday.

The American lotus is found in the locality of Edgerton, Wis. A fine of not more than $100 or not more than six months imprisonment will be placed upon any person picking these flowers or the seed pods.

Professor Aust is secretary of the Friends of our Native Land society which is greatly interested in the protection of the wild flowers in America.

Senate Kills Titus Bill Because of Added Cost

The senate by a 16 to 12 vote defeated the Titus bill on Wednesday night, which aimed to increase the membership of the normal and university board of regents to include farm and labor representation, on the ground that the increase was unnecessary and would entail additional expense.

NEWS OF CONFERENCE SPORTS

SOPHS TROUNCE FRESHMAN FIVE IN ANNUAL TILT

Fouling Retards Soph Lead

The sophomores added one more win to their string of victories over the frosh yesterday afternoon in the armory when they took the yearlings into scamp by a 21 to 13 score in the annual basketball game.

The second year men have been victorious in all events with the frosh save the football game and the win yesterday helped to settle old scores brought about by the tie game which the two classes played on the gridiron last fall.

The strong and heavy sophomore team, made up of men who are playing on the varsity squad easily outclasses their lighter opponents and had they fouled less, they could have won by a much larger score.

Soph Men Strong

"The sophomore defense, made up of Harris, Diebold and Radke, all Varsity men, was a stone wall to the frosh who could not find their way behind it for short shots.

Leberman and Mainland, second year forwards, carried the brunt of the offense and counted frequently. Leberman with 10 points made on three field goals and four successful tries from the free-throw line, was the highest individual scorer of the game. Mainland connected with the net for two field goals.

The frosh were fast but they were lost when the ball was anywhere near the sophomore guards. Captain McCarthy worked well at his forward position but could get away only for one field goal. Merkle at the other forward did the greater part of the scoring for the yearlings with a field goal and seven free-throws.

Sophs Break Rules

The frosh guards all showed promise of something better, but they could not follow the ball when the sophomores had it and they were slow in getting the play started from the back-court.

Skogland showed up well throughout the game and may prove a valuable man to the Varsity team in future years. The best defensive work of the afternoon for the yearlings was done by Christoph who went into the game in the second half.

The sophomores broke the rules frequently and Harris was put out of the game early in the second half after his fourth offense.

Will Go To Chicago

Gordon B. Wanzer '24, manager of the team said last night that the frosh string squad will be sent to Chicago tomorrow with the Varsity. "While the results of the seat sale were not quite what we expected the money taken in together with what we will be able to raise from other sources will be sufficient to defray expenses of the men making the trip."

It is expected that 13 or 14 freshman members of the squad will go to Chicago to witness the Maroon-Badger game tomorrow night.

A fair crowd of about 400 people attended the game and the receipts will be used to defray the expenses of sending a part of the frosh squad to Chicago to witness the Wisconsin-Chicago game tomorrow night.

Non-Varsity Men to Clash in Annual Meet

Non-Varsity track men will clash at 4 o'clock this afternoon in the annual inter-college track meet. A large number of men have signed up for the competition. Freshmen are eligible to enter. All points earned in the events today will count towards the winning of college insignia. The relay race, which was scheduled for today, has been postponed and will be run off as a feature race in connection with the Notre Dame meet.

MAT TEAM TO TAKE ON AMES

Match Tonight to Be Hard For Badger Grapplers

The Badger wrestling team left yesterday afternoon for Ames, Iowa where they will meet the Ames college mat team tonight in what promises to be the hardest struggle of the year for the Badger outfit.

Ames is another of the schools in Iowa which is benefitted by the promotion of state high school wrestling tournaments. Practically every man on the Ames wrestling team has had previous experience at the game and is just that much ahead of his Wisconsin opponent. This fact largely accounts for the star wrestling teams that Ames is able to turn out year after year.

Wisconsin goes to Ames in a crippled condition. Hembre, a leader in the 148 pound class, is in the infirmary and was unable to make the trip. Coach George Hitchcock is pessimistic regarding the outcome of the dual meet as a result of Hembre's elimination.

Heuer, always a dependable man in the 158 pound class, is also prevented from doing his part in the meet because of a bad shoulder.

The meet with Chicago, which was held last Saturday night at Chicago, was a heartbreaker for the Badger team. The entire team and also Coach Hitchcock was disappointed with the conditions as they existed at Chicago last Saturday night. Coach Hitchcock at the end of the meet indicated that he might protest at least one of the matches on the grounds of ineligibility of one of the Chicago entries.

There was much dissatisfaction with the work of the Referee Kallas, former Illinois matman, who was loudly criticized by the fans witnessing the meet. It was easily seen that Chicago was outclassed and Wisconsin, despite flagrant work of the official, nearly won the meet when Capt. Templin of Wisconsin crashed Kallas of Chicago to the mat in 3:55 for a fall.

Two other men on the Wisconsin team deserved falls in their matches but were not allowed them by the referee.

Injuries received in the Maroon meet added to the general atmosphere of gloom which has been hanging over the Badger camp in the past week. Wisconsin has a mat team, which if it is given an even break, can hold its own with any team in the Conference. The team, despite the bad luck which has been riding them in the last week, started for Ames yesterday afternoon in the best of spirits, hoping that Ames' prowess on the mat has been greatly over-estimated.

The men to make the trip are Suzuki 115, Benbow 125, Holmes 135, Schaeckel 145, Gregory 158, Templin, capt. 175, Bieberstein, heavy.

John Hopkins Students Sell Blood to Pay School Expenses

BALTIMORE Md.—Students at the Johns Hopkins Medical School are paying their expenses with their blood, selling it for transfusion purposes at $50 a transfusion. It is an easy way to make money, according to Dr. John G. Huck, professor of medicine. All the student has to do is to lie down, sacrifice a little blood and then collect the $50. But the fly in the ointment is that not all are eligible to be bled. The subject must be perfectly healthy and his blood must measure up to a certain standard.

TANK SQUAD TO BROIL POOL AT MAROON CLASH

Wisconsin Hopes High For Win

Waters of the Chicago university swimming tank will be threshed into a turbulent state to the nth degree when the Wisconsin Varsity squad pits its ability against that of the Midway swimmers in Chicago this evening.

The Badger team, 21 strong, left Madison at 7 o'clock this morning led by Coach Joe Steinauer. The men are in excellent shape for the dual contest with the Chicagoans.

Tonight's meet should to a great extent determine the chances of the Cardinal swimmers in the Conference meet the week following. The meet will also serve as an excellent test for the Maroons who are bewailing the loss of their star speed merchant, Blinks, who has been forced to give up aquatic work because of a defective heart.

The Wisconsin swimmers before leaving were giving themselves an even chance to come through for a victory this evening. The relay teams of the rival schools are rated about even. Chicago has a pair of plungers and some divers who should give the Badgers in these events the strongest of competition. Wisconsin is to be represented in the plunge by Dummer, and Salstein.

Captain Johnny Bennett is being counted as the source of Wisconsin's most points from any one man, due to the number of events in which he is entered and the previous work he has done for the university in the tank. He will be ably supported in the speed events by Gilbreath and Taylor.

Six water basketball men, Lahman, Hohfeld, Lacey, Eschweiler, Coyne, Fern, and Eisman were carried on the trip along with the other tank men.

Whether victorious this evening or not, there will be little rest for the tankmen next week, with the Conference meet scheduled for next week-end.

Infantry Guard Company is Too Small; Must Be Dissolved

WAUKESHA, Wis.—An announcement was made yesterday that Col. J. G. Salsman, acting adjutant general, has ordered that Co. L 127th infantry, Wisconsin National Guard, be dissolved. This action has been expected for some time here, as it has been a question whether the company could be kept in existence with depleted ranks.

Second Years Win Ag Short Course Track Meet

Second-year students won the annual agricultural short course track classic which was held in the gymnasium annex on Wednesday night.

The second-year men defeated the yearlings by a score of 43 to 34 points. The meet was decided in favor of the older "short horns" when they won the half-mile race. Freshmen aqs returned victorious in an indoor baseball game.

PHI SIGS TAKE BOWLING MEET

Are Champions of Fraternity League After Final Games

The powerful Phi Sigma Kappa bowling team is the interfraternity champion. By virtue of their two wins over the D. U.'s in the finals last night they are enabled to claim the undisputed championship of the fraternity league.

The standing of the teams: first, Phi Sigma Kappa; second, Sigma Phi Epsilon; T. K. E. and Beta tied for third place. Tie to be played off later.

A summary of the final games follows:

The D. U.'s won one. The Sig Phi Eps took three from the P. A. D.'s. T. K. E. ran away twice with the Alpha Chi Sig's who came back with one win. Betas pounced on the Sigma Nu's for three victories.

Check Forger Invades City; King Garage is First Victim

The "bad check" scare is here again. A man of about 30 years old, weighing 160 pounds, entered the King garage on the west side of the city Wednesday and succeeded in passing two worthless checks on the garage attendants. The stranger gave the name of Watkins.

Ruhr Situation Looks Gloomy; Unemployment Increasing

LONDON—Gloomy pictures of the situation in the Ruhr, with warnings of an impending crisis are painted Wednesday by correspondents. Dueseldorf dispatch says unemployment is increasing and the political situation is dangerous. Economic conditions he described as disastrous asserting that 25,000 persons are without work in Dueseldorf alone.

A Cologne correspondent reports that conditions in Essen and Bochum are pitiful and that the death rate among the children had risen 20 per cent in the last month and milk is almost unobtainable.

The phrase "hunger blockade" is on the lips of the whole German population.

BADGERS LEAVE TODAY TO PLAY MAROON CAGERS

Comparative Standing Shown

The Wisconsin basketball team leaves at 4 o'clock this afternoon for Chicago where it clashes with Coach Nels Norgren's Maroons in a crucial meet tomorrow night.

A Big Ten title hangs in the balance when the Badgers "do their stuff" at the Midway. Iowa, with its schedule completed, is still at the top of Conference standings with 11 victories and a solitary defeat.

Wisconsin is in second place with nine wins and one loss. The Badgers must beat Chicago on Saturday and Indiana on Monday if they are to tie for the championship and put Wisconsin where it belongs on the Conference ladder.

Legislature Improving

They will have one of the toughest games of the season when they stack up against the Midway five. Norgren has developed the team from a mediocre outfit into a winner.

Chicago is close to fourth place in standings and will finish in the first division if it bests Wisconsin and one other opponent.

Wisconsin legislators have gone "nuts" over the game of basketball as it is played in the gym here. Only six of the state solons saw the Michigan contest. Interest grew until there are 106 legislators who applied for ducaats to the Northwestern contest last Monday. An even larger number may witness the Indiana game which concludes the Wisconsin season next Monday night.

Three Seniors Play

Student sale of tickets for the Hoosier game begins at 12:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon. "W" men are asked by Paul F. Hunter, ticket sales manager, to get their tickets before Saturday. It is expected that students will line up early in the morning to get the precious pasteboards.

Three members of the Wisconsin team are approaching the close of their college athletic careers. Leslie Gage, star forward, Rollie Williams, and Gus Tebell are the men finishing their careers.

THE LEGISLATURE AND THE BALL

Some opposition against the holding of the ball in the capitol has been rumored and is a fact. It is probable that the one thought which dominates that opposition is that the people of the state will feel that the university is giving undue prominence to purely social affairs. There may be much reason for the view.

However, it would seem that the legislature's act of granting the use of the capitol for the ball would remove any doubts that might have been entertained on this ground.

When a legislature which has gone on record as being at least lukewarm on matters military, and moreover, a legislature that has interested itself very decidedly in university affairs,—when such a body feels that it is right and fitting that the capitol be used for the purpose, it would appear as if the people of the state could be trusted to take the same sane view.

There can be no doubt that the present legislative body is sanely against extravagant and undue display. In truth, the granting of the capitol came as a distinct surprise to many who previously had been convinced that the legislature was irrevocably set against social affairs in general.

But the state law-makers realized the impossibility of holding the military ball in any campus building. They realized that the expenses of the ball would be held to a minimum. They saw no reason for not issuing the invitation and every reason for such action.

When the Student senate at its recent meeting unanimously passed resolutions thanking the legislature for inviting students to use the capitol building for prom and the military ball, this body did no more than was expected of it.

The resolutions passed were but a formal wording of the informal utterances of the student body. And it is clearly the senate's duty to acquaint the legislature, in a formal way, of the appreciation students hold for the fair and open-mindedness the legislators have displayed toward their social activities.

IMAGINATION

Imagination is the noblest attribute man has.

It enriches, elevates and expands his thoughts above the pettiness of everyday life. It releases him from the emperious demands of trivialities of the moment. It enlarges his mental horizon and lets him enjoy for the time being his nobler ideals and aspirations.

A highly developed imagination makes the individual superior to his fellows, for what is genius but a high degree of imagination?

Genius is the power to build within the mind, to forget the troublesome details of the present, and to look forward into the future, up and away from small troubles and petty difficulties.

The finer arts give to life its warmth, its feeling, its pleasure. Yet what would they be without imagination? Cold, unfeeling, fruitless, meaningless! For what is art, literature, rhetoric—all culture, but the finest excretion of human imagination.

HEARING CHAMPIONS

This evening and tomorrow evening the Wisconsin Glee club presents its annual spring concert in Music hall.

Inasmuch as this is the club's only Madison appearance during the year a goodly crowd of music lovers can be expected to appear. There is an added incentive this year, however, since the university music fans will have an opportunity to hear the club that won first place in the Intercollegiate contest held recently in Chicago, and competed with prize eastern clubs in New York.

There is no student body in the Middle West that has the same opportunity to hear on their own campus a university glee club that bears the present distinction of Wisconsin's.

Perhaps the Glee club has broken Wisconsin's first place jinx and we may henceforth expect other championships in Conference and mid-west competition.

POOR PSYCHOLOGY

Repetition is one of the keys to advertising. It may be the key that will open the mind of the purchaser. But even repetition, when carried to an unwonted extreme, defeats its own ends.

We speak of the basketball posters that were liberally tacked, nailed and pasted on nearly every tree, post or other available place yesterday.

Such advertisement tends to cheapen the product. That at least was the reaction of several who confided much disquiet and a little disgust at yesterday's eyesore.

Campus trees may serve other purposes than that of being too liberally sprinkled with posters of various nature. If such practice is continued the worth of judicious advertising will achieve exactly nothing.

THANK YOU

The gym team did graciously and ably what the students hoped they would do.

The entertainment between halves of the year was a distinct pleasure to the rooters. If the gym team could hear some of the pleasant comments on the excellence of their performance and the spirit in which it was given, that team would feel amply repaid for their efforts.

Appreciative of the gym team's effort, they and we say "Thank you."

Editors Say—

FLAPPERS VS. CAVEMEN

(New York Tribune)

There is even more truth than picturesqueness in the statement of one of the associate curators of the American Museum of Natural History that the female of the modern species is more deadly to the animal kingdom than was the male of the caveman period. In the old days—that is a good many thousands of hundreds of thousands of years ago—skins of animals were necessities rather than luxuries. They often furnished the only clothing worn whether by men or women.

To-day hunters and trappers cater to the craze for fur which is created by the fancies of fashion makers. Every flapper must have her fur piece to keep the sun off in summer, and so the hunt for any animal that has hair on its skin goes on with redoubled vigor. No fewer than 50,000,000 animals a year, it is estimated, lay down their lives so that necks may be overheated.

No race of cavemen even in their lustiest days could perform such an annual slaughter. It is possible, as the curator suggests, that fashion will be responsible for the annihilation of most of the fur-bearing mammals on the globe?

WOMEN TO LEAD IN PICTURE EXPOSITION

Women are to take a conspicuous part in the American Historical Revue and Motion Picture Exposition. They are to have recognition never previously accorded to them in any great fair. Beautiful buildings will be assigned to them for their clubs and welfare organizations, and they are to conduct one of the most important sections of the daily programs, the morning congresses at which men and women of international fame are to discuss world problems.

It is announced that the management of the revue and exposition intends to invite all Women's organizations of national and international scope to present programs or to contribute to them. Thus, the morning congresses will have a scope not hitherto attained by any assemblage of women. They will offer unparalleled opportunity for mutual understanding and cooperation.

It is the plan to have the most distinguished authorities speak on subjects on which they are experts. Literary men and women, theatrical stars and producers, composers and interpreters of music, publicists and reformers, statesmen and philanthropists all will have hearings, if the programs now under consideration are carried out.

Costumes for this year's Hares-foot production, "Kikmi," will be made again this year by "Lester," creator of fashions.

INTIMATE GLIMPSES

No. 65479. The L. n' S. Lady (Meaning "Lost 'n' Sleep")
The L. and S. lady tries to live-wurst life while in college. She spends her time romping from one snap course to another. Contrary to Shakespeare, who never repeats (as we have noticed in his autobiography) the lecturer in the course of the same name believes in the dramatic theory of repeating three times to carry his point with his audience. In other words, if one stays awake 20 minutes out of 60, Column Right!

Books and things—cabbages—
Kings—as penciled by Ever Sharp

We want to start out the day by making a profound apology to the proprietors of the Book Corner. In several issues we referred to the Book Corner as the Corner Book store. Names and titles are very often sacred things.

We are sure that we would be sorry to hear anyone speak of this space as Column Left. Sponsors are naturally sensitive about the name of their child. So we apologize.

Of course we do realize that to apologize is an indiscreet action especially when we do it in the pages of a newspaper. But we are glad to do it for three reasons. First, it relieves our conscience; second, it allows us to set an example which other papers should follow (an apology would often give prestige to a paper rather than hurt it); third, anyone finds delight in doing the unusual and being a leader.

Colonel Roosevelt, when he was at Harvard, astonished his schoolmates by jumping rope. At first he was laughed at; before long, however, the students were taking up the pastime which soon became quite a fad.

Draw your own conclusions.

It is too bad that the Book Corner is not better known or more widely used by the students. Its situation is not inconvenient; its atmosphere is decidedly pleasant; its contents are certainly interesting and up-to-date.

To be able to enter the shop, browse among its books, help yourself to one and sit down at the table to taste your mind in order to decide whether to purchase it or not is indeed a privilege that cannot be enjoyed elsewhere in Madison.

Miss Ferber fetched us along with her at a mad pace through nearly 300 pages of the fastest moving prose through which we have ever sprinted. We didn't read every page, for some of the stories we had read before, in the Woman's Home Companion as we remember.

It isn't that there is so much action in these short stories that we rushed along at break-neck speed;

one gets the point. One electing Economics is re-awakened every 15 minutes by the explosive remark "THINK THIS THROUGH WITH ME!" After thinking better of it, the dreamer can drop off again. The prize course is Mythology. Illustrated lectures twice a week. Dark. Grand chance to catch 40 winks. A lot of credit should be given for work done in this course.

LITTLE LIES

No. 1. "The Sad Sad Tale of the Goldfish"

Claribel Pumperknickle, aged 3. Little Ichabod and Guenevere Knickerbocker, the two adorable offspring of Mr. and Mrs. Dillingham Knickerbocker, possessed three dilly goldfish. These natty finners frisked and cavorted the day long, and all was well in the Knickerbocker Aquarium. But one night the butler locked the cellar door by mistake, and very early the next morning, before the sun was up, the furnace man came and rang the doorbell. Mr. Knickerbocker had to jump out of bed, and in doing so he stepped on one of the goldfish. After he had unlocked the door and sworn at the furnace man, he stuffed the goldfish down the drain in the kitchen sink. My hat blew off just then, so I don't know what happened to the furnace. Copyrighted by the Pumperknickle Beef Co.

it is because the style is so rapid, composed of short, almost McCauley-like sentences. We retract; that's a poor analogy. The style is more like Joseph Conrad's.

From the outset we were held by what this writer from Oshkosh has to say. Each narrative is a unique character study, something like Katherine Mansfield's, something like the portrait poems of Don Marquis. But they have more plot in them than the works of either of the other two.

Miss Ferber is quite adept at handling slang and the talk of the uneducated classes. Now and then, it is true, she does outreach herself and the effect is like that caused by some of Eugene O'Neill's swearing.

All of her characters are commonplace enough. They appear by the hundreds in every city in the land. Her poverty-stricken old widower fits many of his kind in the country; her worthless Gigolo is a type with which few people are unfamiliar; her garage mechanic can be seen any afternoon at Fischer's or Brader's pool hall.

The "Home Girl" who was anything but a home girl is the story of a light-hearted wife who is more interested in wild parties than in being a wife is an acquaintance of everyone's. She has not the slightest responsibility in the world except to herself. And she eventually causes the death of her husband although that death may not come about as Edna Ferber intimates.

All in all, these stories, some better than the others, are delightfully whimsical, life-like, true to modern form.

Tut's Name May Bother Even A Wise Highbrow

Tooten-cahmen. New Chinese dish of chop? No. Come again. It's the right way to pronounce King Tut's hyphenated cognomen. So now that we know how to say Tut-ankh-Amen without having to glide gracefully over it, we can safely discuss his majesty and his mummy.

Philadelphians worried about the pronunciation so much and were so hesitant in discussing the finds in the Valley of the Tombs that officials of the University of Pennsylvania museum came to their aid and decreed the above method.

But, to be strictly correct, Dr. Nathaniel Reich, the Egyptologist of the museum says you should speak of the king as Toot-Onkh-Ahmen. It is absolutely important that you recognize the existence of each and every consonant, especially the "h" in the middle syllable, separating each syllable as indicated by the hyphen. They try and do it.

Kate O'Hare Barred

From U. of Missouri

Claiming that Kate Richards O'Hare is "no fit person to speak before any group of young people," Dr. J. C. Jones, president of the University of Missouri, barred her from speaking in any building of the university.

Mrs. O'Hare was to have spoken on "Crimes and Criminals" under the auspices of the university Liberal club in one of the university buildings.

"The permit allowing her to speak in one of the buildings was originally granted through an oversight," Dr. Jones explained. "The committees on permits did not recognize the name and assumed from the subject of the lecture that it was to be on a sociological subject, harmless to students.

"I consider Kate O'Hare no fit person to speak before any group of young people, and have withdrawn the permit. She will not be allowed under any circumstances to speak in any building of the university."

Editor Tells Engineers of Publishing Methods

Mr. Oberg, editor of "Machinery," a technical journal, discussed the organization of the publishing staff of engineering before the senior mechanical engineers yesterday afternoon. He said that in addition to a staff of capable journalists, a corps of able engineers must be included in the organization. He also stressed accuracy as being one of the largest factors in the success of a paper of a technical nature.

LIT SOCIETIES VARY PROGRAM

Debates, Talks and Social Times Feature Week- end

The principal topics at the regular Friday evening meetings of the literary societies are a talk on the Egyptian Archeological discoveries, a discussion of Premo-Musolini of Italy and a debate on the Income Tax Law of 1911.

Philomathia will vary the usual meeting by holding a social get-together in home of the club president, where Prof. F. C. Sharp will conduct a general discussion of interesting world affairs.

Hesperia's program consists mainly of a debate on the question "Resolved, that the personal property offset as applied in Wisconsin Income Tax Law of 1911 should be repealed." V. Dunn, B. Walczak and F. Risser, closer, will present the affirmative of the subject, while L. K. Arnold, J. Kler, and H. Crane-field, closer, will defend the negative. The debate will be followed by a talk by Francis Karel '23, one of the Intercollegiate debaters.

Athenae's program consists of a talk on the "Excavation of the tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen," presented by W. Jackman, followed by an impromptu debate on the subject "Resolved, that compulsory physical education at the University of Wisconsin be extended to 4 years instead of the present 2 year period." G. H. Bell and M. N. Cizon, for the affirmative, and W. F. Choiniski and A. Scherr, for the negative, will debate the question "Resolved, that the secrecy clause of the Wisconsin state income tax law be repealed." The session will be completed by a speech on "Mussolini, the Napoleon of Italy", given by H. Kriehbaum. One new member will be initiated, and several try out speeches will be given.

Children's Braces and Casts Made By University Shop

That all of the braces worn by children are now made in the shop of the mechanic of the departments of pharmacy and physiology after two years of experiment with the children of the Bradley Memorial Hospital suffering from orthopedic diseases was announced by the Medical school yesterday.

The shop, conducted by J. S.

Hipple, chief mechanic, employs four workmen constantly. New developments in the work of the Medical School call for new utensils and apparatus that cannot be purchased and these are made here under supervision of members of the department.

Plaster casts of the feet of the children are made first, so that the needs of the feet can be carefully studied.

Blinking Owl Sees Poor Bill at Last Half

"Rubeville" has the headline honors on a very poor Orph bill this week-end. Although the same "rubes" and the same setting are with us again we liked them as much as ever. The rest of the acts belong in the mediocre and less than mediocre class.

Three Romano Sisters

If the orchestra had been liver, this act would have been better. The three sisters worked hard. Mediocre.

Gaffrey and Watson

This act substituted for Marcus and Lee. We hope Jack and Dolores could have done better. Less than mediocre.

Rose O'Hara

We would appreciate a variety of more recent songs. Less than poor.

Erwin and Jane Connelly

"The Tale of the Shirt" is nothing more than the Americanized version of "Op O' Me Thumb." We like the English play better and enjoyed the Little Theatre Players when they presented it. Mediocre.

Variety Seen at New Madison

The new Madison theater, at its formal opening last night, gave the people what they wanted—in good measure, heaped up and running over.

At least 2,000 people were taken care of at the two performances, and many were turned away from the doors, in spite of the enlarged seating capacity of the place that was the old Grand.

Following the short news reel, Warr's seven-piece jazz orchestra gave a thrilling interpretation of "Szetchbyski", or words to that effect.

The prologue was perhaps the best part of the program. Kids, all of them, the actors gave a charming resume of the show, closing with a dance by Miss Madison and the chorus of "On Wisconsin."

Mr. Fisher, here in person for the opening, expressed great satisfaction with the first night's presentation and attendance, and incidentally promised some big features in the near future.

ing more than the Americanized version of "Op O' Me Thumb." We like the English play better and enjoyed the Little Theatre Players when they presented it. Mediocre.

Stanley Chapman

In "More to Be Pitied Than Censored" got some responses from an audience which was resigned to a dumb bill. Mediocre.

"Rubeville"

Again they sang "When You and I were Young Maggie" and brought the house down as they do each year. Even the old puns and jokes get away.

Coue Movies Used by U.W. Men in Tests

A series of interesting experiments is being conducted by the psychology department to determine whether the movies can effect mental ailments or whether Coue himself must be present.

The experiment consists in two series of questions given to 200 people who are interested in the Coue movement and are looking for help.

The first series was given on requests for tickets to the Coue movie and is merely a check on the second series.

Question Spectators
The second series, given at the theater to all those persons possessing the first, contains the following questions which they must answer and return.

1. Do you experience any definite bodily improvements during the showing of the movie? Was it of greater or less benefit than you had before?

2. Can you describe your feelings while looking at the picture? How did you feel later?

Expect Success
3. If your body did not feel better, did you, yourself, feel more cheerful, hopeful, or in any way improved?

4. Do you think any improvements you have noticed will be permanent?

Although the results have not yet been returned or checked in, it is thought that the experiment will prove successful.

THIRD DISTRICT PLANS STUNTS

S. G. A. Group to Have "Raggedy Anne" Party

The first S. G. A. district party ever held will be in the form of a "Raggedy Anne" party for District No. 3, tomorrow afternoon from 3:30 until 5:30 o'clock in the dancing room on fifth floor of Lathrop hall, under the direction of Alice Corl '24, chairman of that district.

This is the first year that the S. G. A. district system for the different women's rooming houses and sorority houses has been actually working, although the plans for such an arrangement date back for several years.

"Through this system S. G. A. is easily able to keep in touch with all of the women in the university and it helps greatly in unifying the campus," Anita Haven '24, district chairman, declared.

There are 12 districts in the system, each under a general chairman who is assisted by a board composed of all of the house presidents in that district. These chairmen have been appointed this year.

"The 'Raggedy Anne' party is to be held to get all of the women in this district better acquainted. We are anxious to have all of the women come because this is the first party of its kind to be held and it will determine whether or not more parties will be held," Alice Corl said in speaking of it yesterday.

A prize for the best "Raggedy Anne" costume will be awarded and refreshments will be served. The party will cost 10 cents, and will be open only to women in that district, which includes W. Johnson, Orchard, W. Washington, Mound, N. and S. Mill, and Dayton streets.

Dorothea Wilgus '24, Helen Emerson '25, Dorothy Haskins '25, and Mary O'Malley are assisting in the arrangements.

Michigan and Minnesota Aid in Fight on Drainage Canal

The attorneys general of Michigan and Minnesota will join with the Wisconsin attorney general at the conference called for March 19 at Chicago to discuss united action of these states against the state of Illinois for illegal diversion of Lake Michigan water through the Chicago drainage canal. Only Indiana has failed to reply to the invitation extended by Wisconsin to three states bordering on the lakes, whose interests are affected by the lowering effected through operation of the drainage canal.

The funeral of Mrs. Harry Flicksman was held yesterday afternoon in Milwaukee. A great many of her Madison friends made the trip.

WAUKESHA WILL BE CENTER OF MISSION MEET

Approximately 25 students will leave Madison this afternoon to go as delegates to the Fifth Annual Student Volunteer conference on foreign missions meeting at Carroll college, Waukesha, today, tomorrow and Sunday.

Official council members who will attend from the local organization are Arthur Wald '24, of the national council and Elizabeth Mahorney '25, Beda Mackin '23, and Ruth Mink '24, of the state council.

The conference is a meeting for all students of the state who are interested in foreign mission work. The schools which will be represented at Waukesha are Ripon, Beloit, Lawrence, Carroll and Northland colleges, Superior and Stephens Point Normal schools and the University of Wisconsin.

Speakers at the conference will include four or five returned missionaries from China and India, Dr. William A. Ganfield, president of Carroll college, Miss Florence Pierce, field secretary of the Y. W. C. A. in Wisconsin and the Rev. William T. English, a popular speaker on international questions.

JOURNALISTS TO REVIVE ALL OLD GAMES TONIGHT

A danceless party, an innovation in fraternity social events, will be introduced tonight when Sigma

S. Jayne, during her lifetime. The will was admitted to probate Wednesday and as yet university officials have received no formal notice of the bequest.

Delta Chi, professional journalistic fraternity, will entertain members of Theta Sigma Phi, women's journalistic fraternity.

Entertainment at the party, which is to be given at the Delta Pi Delta house, 501 North Henry street, will consist of a series of games of all sorts. A miniature track meet, consisting of bean shooting contests, relay events and carrying beans on knives will be held. Many other old-fashioned games, for which prizes will be awarded, will be played.

A special paper, prepared by members of Sigma Delta Chi, will be distributed at the party. The paper is a four-page sheet made up in miniature newspaper style. It was printed in the Journalism school type laboratory.

Assemblyman Freehoff, a member of Sigma Delta Chi, Mrs. Freehoff, and many other graduate members of the fraternity will be guests of honor. Prof. and Mrs. E. Marion Johnson will chaperone.
