SKATING FACILITIES ON LAKE MENDOTA WILL BE IMPROVED

Athletic Department Will Keep
Two Rinks in Good Condition

The skating facilities on Lake Mendota will be improved as they were done last year, according to an announcement made yesterday by T. E. Jones, athletic director, regarding the numerous inquiries made by students concerning the condition of the ice off the university boat house.

Improvement is Delayed

Despite the fact that the university is without adequate facilities in order to provide winter sports for students, the toboggan slide was opened for use Friday night by George Martin, director of winter sports. The slide was popular throughout the night and day.

The university service department has felt that the ice has not been thick enough to hold a team of horses and has refused to allow any on the lake. For this reason work on the improvement of skating facilities has been delayed, Jones stated last night.

Purchase New Pump

This year a new pump has been purchased, and the rinks will be sprayed in order to keep them in better shape.

The athletic department maintains the rink on the lower campus and wishes to extend its appreciation to certain students who have voluntarily given an hour or so a day to keeping that rink in shape. Last year there were two rinks and a straight-away on the lake. These were kept cleared all winter by the service department of the university under the direction of the athletic department.

Student Speakers To Discuss Social Problems Tuesday

The subject of social and intellectual unrest among the students of all nations will be discussed by several student speakers at a fellowship meeting at 7:30 o'clock next Tuesday evening in the Y. M. C. A. parlors.

Various phases of the topic to be presented are efforts to solve the race question in this country and the growing sentiment that war is wrong and should be abolished. Industrial problems will also be mentioned from the standpoint of their relation to university students.

"We became convinced at Indianapolis that there is a real spirit of unrest in the colleges of America and among students of foreign lands, which will more and more demand that statesmen and men of affairs apply the principles of Christianity to world problems," Arno Haack, '25, who will preside at the meeting Tuesday evening, said.

ROSTOVTEFF WILL SPEAK AT VESPERS

Conditions of Russian Students in Europe is Subject of Lecturer

Dr. M. I. Rostovteff, who recently refused an attractive eastern position because he said Madison had become his home and Wisconsin his school, will speak at Vespers services at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon in Lathrop hall. He has chosen as his topic, "Conditions of Russian Students in Europe."

Dr. Rostovteff is one of the most illustrious professors and lecturers in the country. Last year he toured Europe on a leave of absence.

Besides the speaking there will be special music. Margaret Callisen will preside, and tea will be served as usual after the services. Everyone is invited.

Lit Should Have Wider Range of Student Interest—Bleyer

Anton Lang May
Visit University
In Near Future

The prospects of bringing Anton Lang, Christus of the Oberammergau passion play to Madison are quite hopeful, the Rev. E. J. Meyer, rector of the Holy Redeemer church, said last night.

Yesterday he wrote to Lester Thompson of New York, who has charge of the schedule of the players, and he expects a favorable reply sometime next week.

In 1910, Father Meyer spent some time at Oberammergau, where he had the pleasure of staying with Anton Lang.

"The play is far superior to any of Shakespeare's works, and the acting surpasses even that of the once famous Berlin Troupe who used to play in front of the ex-Kaiser before the world war," he said.

DR. HODGES RETURNS FOR GRADUATE WORK

Dr. Paul C. Hodges '15 has returned to the university to do graduate work in the department of physiology. Dr. Hodges is spending a year's leave of absence from the Peking university medical school, Peking, China, in studying for the degree of doctor of philosophy. His former home was in Ashland.

A CORRECTION

Wider Range of Student Interest—Bleyer

Professor Reviews Life of Campus Publication Immersed in Debt

By cooperating with the department in advanced English, by using illustrations, and by publishing articles with a wider range of interest to the students, the Literary magazine could be made profitable is the belief expressed by Prof. Willard G. Bleyer, chairman of the department of journalism, when he commented on the history of the magazine yesterday.

The editors of the magazine are responsible for all debts incurred during their regime. The faculty committee on student life objects to the further publication of the magazine if the indebtedness of approximately $400 is increased, but if the January issue meets expenses it is probable that the Lit will continue.

Students' Interest Turns

For the past several years student interest has been turning from the type of articles which the magazine has been using, the professor said.

In 1901 the Lit was started with Michael Olbrich '02, as editor and Stanley K. Latshaw, formerly in the New York office of the Curtis Publishing company, as business manager. The articles of incorporation provided for a board of directors. Prof. J. F. A. Pyre '92, Prof. C. E. Allen, of the botany department, and Prof. W. G. Bleyer, were the original members of the board, and have served since 1901.

Lit Succeeds Eagis

The Lit succeeded the Eagis which passed away in 1899. This magazine was the predecessor of The Cardinal, a weekly publication which changed into a monthly magazine when The Daily Cardinal started in 1893. In 1916 the Lit changed its name to the Wisconsin magazine and used illustrations and popular material, but in several years the name was changed back to the original one.

At one time the hero of the campus was the debater and not the football captain, and the same transition has taken place in the literary field. The Lit is attempting to follow the modern trend in the field of literature, and the present trend does not appeal to the students, Bleyer said yesterday. Among the factors which kept the old Lit going years back was the organization of literary people called the Stranglers which was backed by Prof. O. G. Campbell and Prof. E. H. Gardner.

SCRIBES TO EDIT COUNTRY PAPERS

Journalism Students Will Handle Six Newspapers During Spring Recess

Six small town newspapers in Wisconsin will be edited for one week by students taking the course in country journalism on the annual spring editing trip, Prof. E. M. Johnson, in charge of the course, announced today.

"The trip is undertaken primarily to give the students some actual experience and practice under fire," Professor Johnson said.

"During this period, one man acts as the managing editor, one as advertising manager, another as agricultural editor and one as general reporter. These men gather all the news, write all the editorials, solicit all the advertising, and even change the make-up to suit themselves.

"Wisconsin is the only school whose students get such thorough training and experience in the one week. Other schools of journalism carry out the same idea, but not nearly to so great extent. Most of them send out from eight to 20 students under the direct supervision of an instructor. We send out only four who are entirely on their own initiative.

Teamer, Campus Dog King, Seeks Rule of Canine Heaven

"Prince" Jeaner, dog king of the campus, will not again be seen surveying his domain from Lincoln terrace rotunda. He of the ponderous head has left his kingdom to the next in strength that he may seek other worlds to conquer.

Jeaner has left an alarming police record. For injuring the postman who delivered mail to the A. T. O. house and for breaking the foreleg of a rival he was twice imprisoned, each time a fine being imposed on his guardians.

At the Madison Kennel show held in April 1921, Jeaner took first prize as the best fraternity dog. He carried the silver cup home attached to his tail. He was also awarded a five pound box of candy as the best English bulldog in the show.

Three days ago this 11 year old campus gentleman was sent to a veterinary to receive treatment for a goitre. Before any operation was made the veterinary reported that "Prince" Jeaner had died of old age.

DAY MEMORIAL IS DISPLAYED AT 'Y'

Five Qualifications Necessary to Receive Honor on Kenneth Day Memorial

The Kenneth Sterling Day Memorial on display today in the Y. M. C. A. lobby calls for five qualifications to be fulfilled by men seeking the honor of having their names on the statue.

Individual character, Christian worth, helpfulness in student activities, scholastic attainment and physical well being are the five necessary requirements.

The memorial is the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Sterling P. Day of Cleveland, Ohio. It was designed by E. E. Cadmon of Providence, R. I., and was approved by a committee of the Y. M. C. A. cabinet of last year under the direction of Allan Haline '23.

Kenneth Day was a member of the class of 1919, being born on July 26, 1897. During the war he aided in the work of the Liberty Loan drives, the organization of the universities student council of defense, and the Y. M. C. A. war work drive.

After the armistice he returned to the university expecting to graduate in June, but died of influenza after a short illness. He was a member of the Y. M. C. A., the Varsity crew and Alpha Delta Phi, and an officer in the R. O. T. C.

BADGERS SWAMP PURPLE IN FAST GAME BY 25 TO 10

Gibson and Varney Break Up
Evanstonian Defense
With Ease

EVANSTON, Ill., Jan. 12—Wisconsin easily defeated the Purple five in a fast game here tonight by the score of 25 to 10.

The game was characterized by tight guarding on the part of both teams, but the flashy work of Captain Gibson, who was the individual star with a total of 11 points, broke down Northwestern's defense for his five tallies.

Graham amassed six of the Purple's 10 counters, playing hard and consistently throughout the game.

Break Purple Defense
The Evanstonians showed class in their guarding tonight for the first time this season, but Gibson and Varney crashed through the guards almost at will.

The Badgers had their team work down to a fine point, and continually bewildered the Purple guards. Northwestern's offense, who were able to work the ball down under the basket for a good shot but twice in the game, depended mainly on long tries for counters.

Spooner Wrenches Knee
Spooner was taken out of the fray early in the first half because of a wrenched knee. Varney was sent in to replace him, counting twice during the remainder of the battle.

Most of the scoring was done in the first half, the Badgers making only three baskets and the purple only two free throws in the second period.

McElwain, captain of the Evanstonian grid squad last year, made his first appearance on the basketball floor for a few minutes in the last period.

Whirlwind Attack Nets Marquette Four Goals While Gadgers Tally One

By DOC FAVILLE

Displaying a versatile attack coupled with consistent defense, speed, and team play, the Marquette hockey team won from the varsity six yesterday afternoon, 4 to 1.

The first count came toward the end of the first period when Van Hollen dribbled a slow shot past McLean into the net. Within two minutes Harris, speedy Badger center sank a shot and evened the score.

Collopy, the red headed Marquette flash, scored twice in quick succession at the beginning of the second period. Both shots were lucky in the extreme, for they struck a Wisconsin man and bounded into the net. Coach Blodgett's men tried desperately to even the score but could not get by Carle, throughout.

Carle is Star

Carle brought the puck down the rink practically alone toward the end of the third period and made a perfect shot, making the score Marquette 4, Wisconsin 1. The last part of the game saw the best playing of the day, but the Hilltoppers were keyed up to top pitch and the luckless Badgers were unable to score.

Capt. Johnson and Moran played a stellar game for Wisconsin. Johnson was in the thick of the fight when his goal was threatened and broke up play after play. Moran proved the most adept of the Badgers at bringing the puck down the rink, and Harris was a close second.

Collopy is Bearcat

Collopy and Carl shone for Marquette and were easily the best men on the ice. The former has payed with the M. A. C. for several years and is a bearcat on offense.

The lineup follows:

Wisconsin	Marquette
McLean	Goal Garry (Capt.)
Gross	Right Wing Thomas
Ritchie	Center Collopy
Harris	Right Center Montague
Goals: Collopy, 2; Harris, 1; Van Hollen, 1; Carle, 1; Referee, Carlson, M. A. C.

Before we turn our attention to the multitude of events that came off yesterday, let's take the morning paper and see how Indiana-Minnesota, Iowa-Purdue, and Illinois-Ohio came out. The results of those games have a direct bearing on our position and chances for another flag in the conference.

Yesterday was a day chock full of events around school. Let's see—first of all, the relay races on the ice. It was a nice meet—it went off O. K. The Medics won their first inter-college contest in this century.

As for the hockey game with Marquette—we'll look for better luck next time.

The interclass track meet next—the old feud is renewed again. As it stands now, the Frosh lead the Sophs by one point in the meets held so far.

Now for the Frosh-Varsity wrestling meet—all afternoon it seemed as though the frosh were slipping one over on the varsity. They sure

With the conference basketball race getting hotter and hotter, fans view with interest every score reported. Indiana, with the wearing of their beards longer and longer hanging in the balance, hopped on the Gophers last night defeating them by a 28 to 23 score. The Hoosiers had sworn not to shave until they won a conference game, and their win makes it possible for them to quit the "House of David" stuff.

Iowa, after a short slump, came back last night with a smash and took Purdue into camp by a 36 to 26 count. Wisconsin's decisive win over Northwestern makes Badger hopes for the title gleam brightly.

ALPHA OMICRON PI
LEADS IN BOWLING

Lucille Larson, Alpha Chi Omega, Highest Individual Scorer

Alpha Omicron Pi still has first place in the intersorority bowling contest, held every Friday afternoon. Lucile Larson '24, Alpha Chi Omega, made 207, the highest individual score made this year.

Alpha Chi Omega made second place, losing three games, Alpha Delta Pi, third place, losing six games, and Kappa Delta fourth place losing seven games.

Alpha Chi Omega played Phi Mu, Friday winning all three games; Kappa Delta played Phi Omega Pi, and won two games, Pi Beta Phi forfeited to Alpha Xi Delta and Delta Zeta won all three games from Alpha Gamma Delta.

Since Nov. 1, these matches have been held every Friday afternoon, eight having been played this year. Three more games will determine the winner, who will receive as a prize a cup, which in order to keep must be won for three consecutive years. Last year Alpha Chi Omega won it from Alpha Xi Delta.

When Holmes Throws

When the varsity grapplers trounced the frosh by a decisive 17 to 10 score in the gym yesterday afternoon they ushered in the season in an interesting fashion. The meet was fast and was featured by the winning of two falls by freshmen over varsity men.

The frosh took their ten points by two falls which Sanders and Tappert scored. The varsity also took two falls, one by Munkwitz and the other by Benbow, captain of the varsity. Chapman, of the varsity, scored a decision giving the varsity two points.

Le May Out of Meet

Because of an accident, Le May, freshman 135 pound man, was unable to wrestle and the frosh forfeited five points. In substitution Scherburne and Holmes, varsity men were matched. After nearly eight minutes of sparring in which neither gained the advantage, Holmes threw Scherburne while both were off the mat, snapping Scherburne's collar bone. The throw was legal as the referee had not yet called the men back to the mat.

VIEW LAKE RACES

MEDICS WIN INTER-COLLEGE RELAY, WITH AGS CLOSE SECOND

Despite the fact that several other "big time" attractions on Saturday's sport program served to draw them away, more than 200 winter sport fans turned out on Lake Mendota to see the inter-college relay ice race.

The four men representing the medical school won the event with the Ags a close second. The Engineers were third; the Lawyers fourth; Commercemen fifth, and the L. and S. quartet brought up the rear.

Jim Vallee in charge of the races, had planned an inter class races open to co-eds only, but the fair ones got cold feet, both figuratively and literally, and backed out in the last minute. Vallee arranged a 220 yard race open to women only, however, and he rounded up enough of them to enter. Helen Cushman, '26, was the winner of this race. Elizabeth Wells '25, was second, and Mabel Buthey '24, came in third.

The races marked the beginning of the winter sport activities and were very successful.

Following is a list of the men who skated in the relay race:

Medics, Tressler, Kriz, Saucke, Eschweiler.

Agrics, Klevay, Benedict, Knickel, Brache.

Engineers, Purvis, Lewis, Roscke, Floorey.

Lawyers, Wood, Walczik, Greeley, Chruski.

Commerce, Mackin, O'Malley, Joyce, Wheeler.

L. & S. Peters, Kanouse, Werncke, Phillips.

WHERE WOMEN WIN

Every Friday night from seven to eight o'clock, the women of the university, under the guidance of S. G. A. meet in the parlors of Lathrop hall for a social time of dancing, bridge playing or mah jong.

Sometimes the attendance at these parties has been small but generally there have been two hundred or more there. It is an encouraging thing, in the face of the avalanche of criticism which comes so frequently regarding men and women's relationships and their supposed utter indispensability of each other, that here is proof that those of one sex can get together once a week for a short time and enjoy themselves without the other sex's company.

But there is something finer and more important than even this behind the S. G. A. work. In a school of more than 8,000 it is inevitable that there will be a great many individuals who have never had any opportunity to meet other students outside the class room or to enjoy the benefits of social contact with large groups. With this type of woman the Self Government association is doing a most valuable piece of work and one which will act to the best interests of not only those who attend the parties but to the entire school. For those women who attend these parties and learn the rudiments of dancing, learn how to play bridge, and other games or just make a few additional friends, will get just that much more out of their college experience, and also the institution will benefit by having earned the enthusiastic support of another student. For it stands to reason, that student who enjoys his social experience and makes many friends here will be a friend and enthusiastic booster of the school.

This year has been the experimental year for this plan by the S. G. A. There is no doubt but that it has worked and is rapidly growing and taking in more and more women every Friday. The university appreciates the work these women are doing and hopes that they will continue in their efforts.

But in this work of the women is seen an additional cause for gratification. And that is in that it offers an excellent precedent of a workable plan for the Union Board to adopt with the men students. At the present time the Union Board is endeavoring, through a zoning and districting plan, to enroll every male student in the university, in the list of those working and benefitting themselves in some contact with university life.

There are just as many men on the campus who have no outside contact and who are living almost reclusive lives as there are women, and these men should be brought into the swirl of things. There are other things besides books in college. And then especially with the Memorial Building looming as an approaching reality, there is all the more reason why these men should become interested in allying themselves with the student world of affairs.

So let the Union Board take this excellent example set by those far seeing S. G. A. women, and apply the same thing to university men and get them interested in coming out for activities, meeting one another, having intra-mural sports, associating themselves with Wisconsin in a more potent way than merely wearing a "W" watch fob.

SOUTHERN HOSPITALITY

If southern hospitality boasts anything like the Mardi Gras of last Friday night as given by our dark eyed southern students, we want to move south.

More than three hundred students crowded into the Cameo room to find that they could lose their cold dignity for four hours, meet genial new friends, hear southern rag time tunes, drink genuine southern punch—lime juice and ginger ale—since mint julep's out of style—(a fortune for the man who capitalizes the recipe), and have an honest-to-goodness home-like party and a splendid time. The Junior prom had better look to its reputation for popularity.

The chief delight one can get out of an affair like the Mardi Gras, however, is the satisfaction of finding that anything—mark the word—can be done if one person, two persons, three, or a group want hard enough to do that thing and then try hard enough to do it.

This Mardi Gras, an elaborate party with three hundred representative students attending—prominent and otherwise—was for the most part the idea of one girl, a girl who has been at Wisconsin for only four months, who knew no one when she came, and who had no particular instructions that she had to give a party.

Plenty of other things militated against getting the idea in motion. There are rules and regulations; students soaked in stilted week end fussing say "Pooh, pooh—costumes!" others say dryly "Not interested in cut-in dances." There is no precedent or tradition for this sort of thing. But the party was given. It was a splendid success. The whole town's talking. Case hardened conservatives and skeptics, who have been satisfied with our social rut of formality and wary of anything different, can crawl into their shells of defeat and stay there.

The young lady of the Mardi Gras in question we believe is Miss Robye Nichols of Waco, Texas. Wisconsin can well afford to have 7,000 of her kind.

Her admirable spirit of initiative effort for a wholesome purpose, and persistency is identical with the mysterious stuff that makes a person a Phi Beta, a president of something or other, a football captain, an editor, a debater, an interested and interesting professor, a sociable friend, a genuine citizen—or shall we say: somebody worth being?

THE INDIANAPOLIS CONVENTION

Although the majority of undergraduates spent the holiday season in recreation and rest, over six thousand students, principally from American and Canadian universities, traveled to Indianapolis where they spent five days earnestly concentrating on problems of vast import, the solution of which would mean much to the individual in particular and to the world at large. The occasion was the ninth International Quadrennial Convention of the Student Volunteer movement and the recent gathering was one of the largest recorded since the organization meeting held thirty-six years ago. At that time a few enthusiasts—several of them now risen to prominence—put in action a powerful force, which was to make itself felt in many lands. The Movement, although it is nominally a missionary one, has developed with the passing of time into something much more this fact being forcibly demonstrated during the past sessions. The Convention, it is true, did discuss the intricate questions of the mission fields but the delegates spent much of the allotted time, probably a major portion in facing world problems, such as international cooperation, industrialism, the abolition of war and the consequent preservation of peace. One of the features was the powerful defense of the League of Nations, the chief exponent being that well-known Canadian, the Hon. Mr. N. W. Rowell, who, with just appreciation and fearless criticism, pleaded with the student representatives of the great Republic for their support of this remarkable bit of international machinery, which is believed by many to be the hope of the peoples of the globe.

Today the Convention is a thing of the past but already the idea, ideals and beliefs, which were born—or rather re-born—at Indianapolis are beginning to spread throughout the undergraduate world of this vast northern continent. Some people may belittle and ridicule student thought and student action but the sight of six thousand young people, striving to find the modern Holy Grail light in darkness, is an indication which cannot be disregarded.

Yes, today the Convention is a thing of the past, but today the effects are being felt in over eleven hundred universities and colleges of the land. Gatherings like the one which has just been held breed toleration and this, and this alone, is the Sesame, which will open the door leading to the peoples' just treasure of universal peace and world happiness.

"Rain" Leaves Enough Unsaid to Fire Imagination

RAIN, adapted from W. Somerset Maugham's story, "Miss Thompson", by John Colton and Clarence Randolph, with an introduction by Ludwig Lewisohn; Boni and Liveright.

By E. H. S.

We have a peculiar failing for plays. They make excellent reading, most of them, especially the modern ones which seem to have been written as much for the reader as for the spectator. And the beauty of reading them is that one can make them almost perfect from his point of view in his imagination. He can set the stage just as he wishes, he can make the persons act according to his way of thinking in fact, he can make so much of the play that he becomes its author to a certain extent. There is just enough of the guiding hand to provide the essentials of plot and character sketching to keep the reader from wandering away from the right path.

Rain is this sort of play. When we finished it we were ready to buy a ticket for New York and speed east to see what Jeanne Eagels and her company were making of it in their phenomenal run on the Great White Way. That is how much of an impression the piece made upon us. We enjoyed it from the entertaining and illuminating introduction by Lewisohn to the what seemed at first subtle ending of the play. The ending seems amazingly simple shortly after one has read it, though.

It is unique, is Rain. Laid on the island of Pago Pago in the South Seas where during one season it rains without a stop day in and day out, it takes you in and makes you one of the members of the group which is forced to wait over for a boat in trader Joe Horn's hotel-store. You feel the very spirit of Joe, taking his ease at his wife's expense beneath the torrid southern sky.

But most of all you feel the rain. It saturates you; drowns you just as it does Sadie Thompson, the jazzing, breezy, easy girl whose actions before the rain subdues her so shocks the missionaries who are forced to wait over for her. She makes friends easily and it is her familiarity with the men from the naval station and her gayety on the Sabbath that sets Rev. Alfred Davidson on her trail with the converting book. He suspects that she is not nice, and, being an emissary of God, he takes it upon himself to reform her.

The rain pours down in torrents, lets up a bit and drizzles steadily, oppressive, bearing down on the spirits of Sadie. At first she is a bit of a Kiki, care-free, snappy, with something to her that makes Davidson think she comes from the red-light district of Honolulu. But the rain "gets" her; and it must get the audience. It must have the same sort of an effect that the tom-tom in O'Neill's "The Emperor Jones" has. And that is certainly effective.

The satire of the play is fine. It can not help but tickle you, especially if you are a member of the younger generation and not altogether in sympathy with missionaries and their programs. You can't help getting Sadie's spirit, sympathizing with her, although you may think that perhaps you should not according to propriety. You can not help being glad that the play ends as it does. You will feel sure that it is real and true and the fact that it is founded on a coincidence is overlooked. Coincidences aren't foreign to real life anyway; a good deal of life is founded on them.

The play has something of O'Neill in it, yet it has more, at least more than "The Emperor Jones" and "The Hairy Ape". Yes, it has more than "Anna Christie" even.

If you like reading plays, you'll do well to read this one; if you don't like reading plays, read this anyway.

At eastern universities it is no longer fashionable for co-eds to wear corsages at formal dances.

Silks! From the Land of Romance

Silks! Heavy, exquisitely embroidered silks that cling to your fingers like a caress, breathing of the illusive, pungent perfume of the far east.

Silks, which in the days of Genghis Khan carried men into strange adventures in India, that land of romance, beauty and hidden fears; silks for which Marco Polo might have braved death, and novel terrors.

In the heavy folds of lovely table covers, spreads and doilies of every description seem to lurk the sweet personality of dusky East Indian girls whose swift brown fingers worked rich colors into the mellow material.

Such are the silks which Mohindra Bahadur, graduate student in the college of agriculture, and a native of Hyderabad, India, has on sale in Karl Noble's shop on Gilman street.

They were sent to him from northern India where they are handmade by the native girls and women. The silk itself is brought from England and France to India.

They were sent to him from northern India where they are handmade by the native girls and women. The silk itself is brought from England and France to India. It is a far cry from distant, mysterious India to Madison, Wisconsin and every thread of the beautiful stuffs, to an imaginative soul spells dreamy romances.

FASHION FILOSOFIES

BY FLO

New capes and coats for prom are now sharing the limelight with prom dresses. And, because in some cases they are a bit more beyond the reach, they are all the more sought after.

The lovely fur creations are almost edible this year. At the top of the list as to desirability and, alas, price too, are the ermine evening capes. One beauty was entirely of the ermine, made with flowing lines and a bolster collar. Another was set off by circular bands of monkey fur.

Summer ermine is the name given to a soft, creamy-tan ermine. It is softer than the snow-white variety, and a little less expensive, although slightly less durable, too. It makes a luxurious evening coat however, and many are being shown off this year. By the way, many of the short coats are made of it too.

Speaking of short coats, the ast word is to have them combined with a cloth material. One made by the famous Kahn of New York had half of the sleeves and a band around the bottom made of a brocaded stuff and the rest of summer ermine.

Put, to get back to the subject of evening coats, there are always the colorful velvets. They are specially lovely now because added attention is being paid to the lining. Everything is being used, silks, satins, crepes and even velvets. Some are made reversible with two tones of velvet. Others are lined with satin-backed crepe, which is put on in alternate panels of satin and crepe.

Many girls this year, instead of buying an evening cape, have put this money into buying an extra good looking fur coat which can be worn both for formal and informal occasions. Beaver, squirrel, and moleskin are popular for this type of coat.

Students From Other Lands Pose For U. W. Art Classes

Complete sets of illustrations for "Rip Van Winkle" and "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow" are being made by Arthur N. Colt's art structure classes.

Each student is taking a different instance in the story, the final result to be a complete group of stories. In addition to the illustrations and frontispiece, the amateur artists are also designing the title page, the inside lining and the cover.

Contralto Singer and Pianist in Concert

A contralto and piano recital in which Signe Holst and Louise Lockwood, of the school of music faculty will appear, will take place Thursday evening at 8:15 in the auditorium of Music hall. The recital is given under the auspices of the school of music, the second given by the school this month.

Both of the musicians are new to Madison audiences, having entered the faculty at the beginning of this semester.

Miss Holst studied voice and piano in the Royal Conservatory at Copenhagen, Denmark, for 3 years, and studied voice in New York all of last year with L. A. Torrens. She has instructed in music at Cedar Falls, Iowa, at Central college, Conway, Arkansas, and at Grandview college and Des Moines university, Des Moines, Iowa.

In Denmark Miss Holst gave recitals in Copenhagen, Aarhus and other cities. In this country she has given concerts in New York before the Three Arts and Madrigal clubs, and in the middle western states of Iowa, Nebraska, and South Dakota.

Miss Lockwood returned during the summer of 1923 from three years abroad, where she studied in Paris and Berlin. She studied in Paris for two years at the Schola Cantorum under Vincent d'Indy, and in Berlin for one year. A graduate of Yale university, she was recipient of a Yale scholarship abroad through merits of a concerto which she composed while a student there.

Miss Lockwood appeared many times in public recitals in Paris, and acted as accompanist for Madame Emma Calve, American singer, during one entire winter in the French capital. Her position in Madison is the first she has held in the middle west.

Christmas in America is

Tame, Says Turkish Student

We do not have a good time in America Christmas and New Year's eve, at least not in comparison to the hilarity reigning in Turkey during that season.

This is what Yussuf Zia, Constantinople, a senior in the College of Engineering here, thinks. "New Year's eve is the greatest event of the year in Turkey and everyone turns out and has a good time," he says.

The Mohammedans join the Christians in the general merrymaking although they do not recognize the birth of Christ. They celebrate the birth of Mohammed which falls sometime during August and which is dated according to the moon.

No hilarity is connected with their celebration; they recognize it with religious worship and Christians do not take part in the celebration of the birth of Mohammed.

"There is also religious worship at Christmas time," Mr. Yussuf stated, "but that is for the old folks. The young people go out to the theatres, to parties and dances, and everyone has a good time."

GAREY TALKS ON SERVICE SYSTEM

Discuss Civil Service Commission Before Women Voters' League

"The chief weaknesses in our present state civil service system lie in the facts that we have no retirement system, and that salaries are left entirely to department heads." This was the statement of A. E. Garey, secretary of the state civil service commission, in his talk on "Civil Service" before the Collegiate League of Women Voters, at 7 o'clock Thursday in Lathrop hall concert room.

"Because of this rivalry for high salaries there has been a gradual increase in salaries that has amounted to as much as $21,319 in one year. And there is no way to stop it," Mr. Garey said.

A candidate for a state service position has to pass many examinations. Mr. Garey told of these tests which included, besides the information and clerical tests, psychological tests similar to the army Alpha tests, and aptitude and personality exams.

PLAN THREE SHIFTS FOR PROM SUPPER

Capitol Cafe and Cameo Room
To Serve Four Hundred
Couples

Convenient reservations for every prom goer is the aim of the prom supper committee, in working out a schedule of hours that will furnish a large enough variety in choice to fit into the plans of every party, according to Helen J. Badauf '25, chairman.

Tentative plans that have been worked out by the committee include arrangements for supper reservations at both the Capitol Cafe and the Cameo room.

Three shifts at the Capitol will probably be scheduled for 11:30, 12:30 and 1:30 o'clock. Two shifts are being arranged at the Cameo room for 12 and 1 o'clock respectively. Approximately 800 suppers will be served at the Cafe. The cover charge will be 80 cents per plate.

Mail orders for prom tickets will be accepted from January 12 to 25 by the ticket committee, 225 Lake Lawn place. Parties should state preference supper hours and places when making application for tickets. Two preferences should be stated.

Members of the prom supper committee are: Helen J. Badauf, ch., John F. Weimer, Margaret Knauf, Frank Crutcher, Ruth Kelso, C. Louise Thomas, Angar Smedal, Jack Burke.

CONGRESS FAVORS WORLD COURT PLAN

Is Opinion of P. B. Potter of Political Science Department

That the 1923 proposals of President Harding and Secretary Hughes recommending American participation in the world court, will probably be acted upon favorably by the requisite two thirds majority, in the present congressional session, is the opinion of Pitman B. Potter of the Political Science department as expressed yesterday afternoon.

"The permanent court of International Justice, to which it is proposed that the United States should adhere, was established through the agency of the League of Nations under a plan devised by a committee of jurists in the summer of 1920," Professor Potter explained.

"The members of the committee acted as private individuals rather than as representatives of national governments," he continued.

W. A. A. plans to revive the alumnae drive immediately after the exam period, for funds to finance the new cottage, which will be situated three miles from Eagle Heights on the Lake Mendota drive.

Sufficient funds to build the $3,500 cottage, which are being raised through the sale of $10 certificates to W. A. A. members and alumni, have not yet been received and construction can not begin until the money is raised.

The use of the land to build the cottage on, was granted by the board of regents, August 15. The plans for the cottage were drawn up by Norma Carl, grad, and Florence Mahoney '24, in conjunction

Detroit Firm to Model Building On Bank Here

The First Central building of Madison is to be transplanted, architecturally speaking, to Detroit. What is almost a reproduction of the Madison bank and office building is to be built in the Michigan city this year by the United States Mortgage Bond Co. H. C. Wade, president, H. Angell, architect, and other officers of the Detroit institution have been spending the past several days in Madison absorbing ideas and the plan of the local structure.
