SENATE MOVES DRILL BILL TO THIRD READING

Final Passage of Bill is Imminent

Compulsory military training came a step nearer abolition Thursday when the senate voted 18 to 7 to advance to third reading the Sachjen bill making membership in the university cadet corps optional. This measure which has passed the assembly has the endorsement of Governor Blaine who is expected to sign it.

The present system of military training which requires all freshmen and sophomore students to take drill three times a week under the Morrill land grant act of 1862, was defended by President E. A. Birge. He pointed out the obligation the state assumed when it agreed with the federal government to offer military instruction in return for public lands and public funds.

Ekern Takes Issue

Atty. Gen. Herman L. Ekern took sharp issue with President Birge on the proposition that the state is morally bound under the Morrill act to make military drill compulsory at the university. Mr. Ekern contended that the state fulfills its obligations under the Morrill act by offering courses at the university in agriculture, mechanical arts and military training. He pointed out that by making drill optional that the state is still offering military training to those students who want it.

People Not For Drill

"But why," said Mr. Ekern, "should university policy be prescribed for us by the war machine at Washington. The people of Wisconsin appropriate millions annually for the university. What right have the university authorities to say to the people of Wisconsin that their sons cannot enter this university unless they take military training as prescribed from Washington."

"I want to tell you that if this question was submitted to a vote of the people of Wisconsin that there would be an overwhelming repudiation of the compulsory military plan at the university."

Kitchen For Washings

Senator Timothy Burke made a plea against optional drill declaring that if there were any young men unwilling to "assume the duties of citizenship by training for their highest obligation to the government," their mothers should "put them in the kitchen with an apron, peeling potatoes and washing dishes."

Senator Theodore Benfey told of the training he received at the university and described how it instilled in him a spirit of Americanism that caused him to respond to the call for troops during the Spanish American war. He urged that the young men needed this training.

Major John S. Wood, head of the military department, in commenting yesterday on the action of the senate said that he believed the measure would go through to final passage. He added:

Instill Hatred For War

"I think, however, that the spirit that we have been building up for the last few years will be sufficient to keep the department filled. I do not think that there will be as many take drill but the department will not be extinguished."

"Throughout, we have taught nothing but good citizenship. In thinking that perhaps preparedness might some day be useful, we have put forth our best efforts to train the boys, but throughout we have

WHAT OFFICERS SAY—

FROM THE FRESHMAN PRESIDENT

"Because of the conflict of Venetian night and Cap night, it has been deemed advisable to change the Cap Night to the preceding Friday. On Friday night the Varsity sing is to be held and at the same time graduating 'W' men will be awarded the recognition of their athletic ability. The plan is to connect these functions into a big Varsity night which will become a tradition of our university. For the freshmen it is planned to make the night celebrate the completion of our first year as undergraduates. Let us as members of the freshmen class make a fitting conclusion of the event by a ceremony that will go down in history as one that every future class will strive to equal."

JAMES R. FLICKINGER

FROM THE SOPHOMORE PRESIDENT

"Because of the consequences which have arisen from the hazing at Northwestern, I think it is the duty of all sophomores to refrain from all hazing during the rest of this year. More particularly, in order to make 'W' day, Cap night, and the new Varsity night successful from the viewpoint of Interscholastic, sophomores should not indulge in any of the old customs. If we want to impress our high school visitors in a favorable way it is necessary that Cap night should go off in an orderly fashion. We helped welcome the frosh and their new caps last fall; let us now allow them to build their bonfire and celebrate the closing of their initial year in a peaceful manner, thereby instituting a tradition of welcome rather than combat."

EUGENE TUHTAR

FROM THE TRADITION CHAIRMAN

"Now that the student court has given us a definite stand on the wearing of the green lid by the frosh, let us abide by their decision. In order to keep our university out of harmful publicity, stop chances of Memorial union pledges being broken, and make an honorable showing before the state officials and the several hundred high school athletes who will be with us that evening, let us set a new tradition and make the wearing of the green cap an honor. The button, cap, and the 'W' show loyalty to the college, class, and the school respectively. In an attempt to make this new plan a real success and a precedent for coming years, I, the chairman of the tradition's committee, ask all members of the sophomore class to allow frosh to carry on the traditional fire without any attempt being made to molest them."

MAX A. BRACKETT
Chairman Sophomore Tradition's Committee.

THREE WOMEN'S ORGANIZATIONS ELECT OFFICERS

Results from the women's elections for Red Gauntlet, Yellow Tasser, and Blue Dragon which were held yesterday in Lathrop hall showed close competition and an unusually small vote.

WHITE SPADES INITIATES LAWLER AND THORSON

Joseph F. Lawler '24, and Sidney R. Thorson '24 were formally initiated into White Spades, junior honorary activities society, at a dinner in the parlors of the Y. M. C. A. last night.

WEATHER: SHOWERS

Showers are predicted for Saturday; possibly continuing unsettled on Sunday with not much change in temperature.

BADGERS WILL BE OUT FRIDAY

Publishers Guarantee Distribution From Music Hall
May 25

Friday, May 25, is the day on which the 1924 Badgers will be distributed, it was announced yesterday by Gamber Tegtmeyer, editor-in-chief, and Howard Lyman, business manager.

"The books are now being bound in Chicago," Tegtmeyer said. "The firm has guaranteed that they will be shipped to Madison in time for distribution on Friday morning and has further said that in case of a rail tie-up, the books will be transferred here by motor truck."

Printed in Madison

For the first time in four years, the Badger yearbook has been printed in Madison. The publication produced by the class of 1919 was also printed in Madison. The Cantwell Printing company has completed the work of printing the yearbook.

More than ever before, the publication will be a picture book, according to the editor-in-chief. The written material has been cut down to a minimum, he said, and there are more pictures than in previous years. Useless backgrounds have been dispensed with, and pictures are clearer than previous Badgers. The photographs themselves have been emphasized instead of complicated backgrounds which prevailed in other books.

Retain Page Size

The Badger page size adopted by the Badger staff last year has been retained for the 1924 book. The width of the border, has been decreased and as much space as possible utilized on each page.

Badgers will be distributed from Music hall. The circulation department is busy with organization work and will have a competent staff prepared to distribute the books to subscribers.

New Varsity Tradition of Welcome Set

The placing of Cap night upon a decidedly new basis—one of welcome and ceremony rather than of combat—was the action of the leaders of the freshman and sophomore classes which yesterday followed upon the heels of the Student Court decision that the green cap is optional in its use. Cooperation has been secured by the two classes with Interscholastic day chairmen to establish a grand new tradition at Wisconsin to be known as Varsity night, when the removal of the caps will be celebrated and freshmen will be welcomed into Wisconsin fellowship.

The action of the student leaders and the Interscholastic committee has resulted in plans to hold the bonfire ceremony of the traditional Cap night immediately after the Varsity sing and awarding of athletic 'W's and Conference athletic trophy May 25, the evening before Venetian night.

Further plans have been made to place the ceremony in an analogous light to the fall frosh welcome, by establishing a tradition to make the fire a symbolic blaze of having completed the first year of undergraduate experience, rather than representative of an idea to get rid of the caps after a period of unwilling compulsion.

In accordance with the idea of Gordon Wanzer '24, chairman of Interscholastic events, the freshmen will be officially welcomed by Gus Tebell '23 as a representative senior, who was appointed yesterday by Rollie Williams '23, president of the senior class.

That the combining of Varsity sing and Cap night and the unusual coincidence of 'W' day will make the establishment of these events an annual spring tradition which will grow and be known as Varsity night when all classes will get together for class and athletic ceremonies, is the hope of the class presidents in the founding of the new tradition.

The three-fold significance of the green cap will be explained and made the essential part of the new Varsity night tradition and will be used as the motive for the establishment of a tradition of voluntary wearing of the cap out of loyalty and devotion, rather than out of coercion.

University First, Is Idea

The button of the cap in vogue today represents the college and exhorts to departmental support, the cap itself marks the class spirit and loyalty, and the red 'W' in Mounts from the military department and several riding academies will be used by contestants. A number of members of the Madison Saddle club also will enter their mounts in the show.

Cups for Events

Prizes for each event will be given by the committee. There are cups for the principal events and ribbons for the others. More entries are listed for the inter-sorority class than any other.

The steeplechase and jumping events are expected to furnish the thrills for the crowd. Junior R. O. T. C. men who have been practicing in these exercises are favorites to win prizes. For the heavier horses, an event for draft animals has been arranged. Some of the horses that won prizes in the Little International have been entered in today's show.

To Seat 2,000

Approximately 2000 seats will be erected on the campus this morning for the convenience of spectators. Parking space for automobiles will be provided also. The ring and arena will be roped off and cadets from the R. O. T. C. units will act as police.

Officials of the Madison Saddle club are backing the students in their undertaking. No prizes or subscription will be solicited from Madison merchants or business men, the expenses being met by the gate receipts. Profits from the show will go to the Memorial Union fund.

The show will be under the supervision of Major Orlando Ward and Paul K. Robertson '24, general chairmen. Roy H. Stith '24 will be clerk of the course.

O'SHEA COMMENTS ON STATEMENTS OF T. E. EDISON

"That the movie screen will supplant the blackboard and the motion picture film will take the place of text books in the school is true to a certain extent," declared Prof. M. V. O'Shea in giving his opinion of the prediction made by Thomas A. Edison to the federal trade commission last Tuesday.

"Motion pictures have been shown successful in teaching children," continued Professor O'Shea, "But motion pictures cannot entirely take the place of the text book. The importance of text books in the school will decrease it is true. It is not a matter of whether motion pictures are effective, for this has been proven, but it is a case of how extensively they can be used."

"Some subjects can be advantageously taught by the means of motion pictures. History, for instance, when dramatized will be far more comprehensible than it is when taken from the text book. Geography, wild life, farming and industry such as mining and manufacturing are well adapted to the screen and can be effectively taught in this manner. On the other hand, such subjects as arithmetic, geometry and higher mathematics which involve reasoning to a greater extent can hardly be successfully taught through motion pictures.

"There is no doubt that motion pictures are rapidly gaining in importance in teaching, but they never will replace text books entirely."

Mr. Edison appeared before the federal trade commission at the investigation of charges that the Famous Players-Lasky corporation and six allied organizations constitute a motion picture trust.

The Betas and Kappa Sigs will play off their tie game tomorrow afternoon on the varsity diamond. The two teams battled to a 6 to 6 tie Thursday. The game will be called at 3:30.

The finals in the league and also the consolation series will be played off next week.

The Betas, Kappa Sigs, Tekes and Sig Phi Eps are yet to be defeated and they will battle for first place in the finals.

GOLFERS BEAT PURPLE 14-5

Team Gets First Win of Season After Loss to Illinois

The Badger golf team defeated

the Purple club swingers yesterday to the tune of 14-5. The meet on the Maple Bluff links was a come-feat by Illinois last week-end.

Recover From Illinois

The Wisconsin men went the morning round of eighteen holes in good fashion, losing only one point to the Evanston men. In the afternoon the score was even up with four all. This is the second meet of the year for the Badgers, and they have shown some real ability on the links even though they lost to the strong Illinois team last week. The Indians are considered one of the strongest teams in the conference.

Purple Win Four

In the morning round Captain Frost tacked up three markers for his team by defeating Alsterlund; Bock, in the number two position for Wisconsin copped two, and gave Hayes the one point that Northwestern got in the first round. Hopkins also got three points and Schils garnered two. In the afternoon round Frost and Bock, playing together, swamped Hayes and Alsterlund 4-0, while Hopkins and Porter, who substituted for Schils, dropped four to Matson and McDougal, evening up the score for the afternoon.

The scores:

Morning round.

1. Captain Frost 3; Alsterlund 0.
2. Bock 2; Hayes 1.
3. Hopkins 3; Matson 0.
4. Schils 2; McDougal 0.

Afternoon round.

Frost and Bock 4; Hayes and Alsterlund 0.
Hopkins and Porter 0; Matson and McDougal 4.

Michigan Club Planned By Students From That State

The organization of a Michigan club at the University of Wisconsin is being considered by students from Michigan, according to sentiments expressed by leaders from that state. Initial steps were taken at a meeting of the students at the home of Prof. and Mrs. G. C. Humphrey, Thursday night. It was found that more than 150 students from Michigan are attending the university. A picnic will be held by the group May 24, at which time definite steps toward organization will be taken.

BADGERS MEET ILLINOIS TODAY ON FINAL TRIP

Play Northwestern on Monday

Coach Guy Lowman's Badger baseball men left yesterday afternoon for their final trip of the 1923 season, games with Illinois and Northwestern being scheduled for today and Monday.

Lowman sent his men through a short workout during the early part of the afternoon before entraining for Urbana at 4 o'clock. The Badgers for the past week and they will go into the games with a solid week of practice behind them.

Of the two games, Lowman is pointing his men particularly toward the battle with the Illini in hopes of getting revenge for the ninth inning drubbing which they handed the Badgers at Camp Randall two weeks ago.

Illinois Lost Two

Illinois has weakened under the pace which they set at the start of the season and have lost to Ohio and Michigan in their last two games.

Bill Johnson, who held the Indians for eight innings in the game here, will get the call to the mound today and may be able to turn the tables on them. He has been pitching good ball for the past few days and can be depended on to pitch well.

Wally Roettger, who performed in the center garden at Camp Randall in the first game with the Badgers, will be on the mound today for Illinois. Roettger proved his hurling ability when he let Ohio down with three hits in six innings a week ago.

Purple Game Was Cancelled

Jackson and O'Connor, Illinois pitching artists, are being held in reserve for the Notre Dame contest next week. The Badgers were in action against Jackson in the game at Camp Randall, but they have yet to work against O'Connor, Illinois southpaw.

The Northwestern game which will be played Monday at Evanston, is likely to be hard as it will be the second contest the men will play after a long hard trip.

The Northwestern game which was scheduled here for last week, was not played because of a wet field, and the Purple is an unknown quantity to the Badger men.

NET MEN MEET PURPLE TODAY

Squad in First Contest on Foreign Soil at Evanston

The Wisconsin tennis squad will make its first invasion of foreign soil when it clashes with Northwestern at Evanston today and swings into Michigan for a meet with the Wolverines on Monday.

Coach George E. Linden selected his regular quartet to make the trip. Capt. Thomas Tredwell, no. 1, Nick Aagesen, no. 2, Arthur Moulding, no. 3, and George Bennett, no. 4, will try to wallopp the Purple net men today.

Wisconsin has beaten Minnesota, tied with Iowa, and lost to Chicago in three meets played thus far. The showing of the team in dual meets indicates that it will be a strong contender in the Conference championship matches to be held at Chicago next week.

THE TIMELY BIRTH OF A CONSTRUCTIVE TRADITION

The sophomore and the freshman classes are today on the threshold of giving to Wisconsin a constructive tradition which in its importance to university and individual welfare and as an act completely typical of the ideal Wisconsin spirit is not surpassed in university history.

With the decision of the Student court unequivocally holding the wearing of green caps optional, with the resolve of the two lower classes to institute a completely symbolic cap ceremony without any trace of the former antagonism present, and with definite arrangements made for the execution of that ceremony the old order changes, the old Cap night as such disappears for all time, and a wonderful new tradition for Wisconsin enters—Varsity night.

The new status of the Cap night completes the conception of the green cap as it was presented to the university in the Varsity welcome last fall when the new style cap was donned by all freshmen as expression, first, of their loyalty to university symbolized by the red "W", second, of their loyalty to class, symbolized by the green color, and third, of loyalty to their college symbolized by distinctive button.

The action of the Student court Thursday night definitely places an end to the confusion prevalent as to whether the wearing of the cap is compulsory or voluntary, confusion which might have been the direct cause for serious mishap at the cap burning. The Student senate unfortunately has been hampered and bound by technicalities of its rulings and constitution which prevented it from changing the green cap's status.

The court's action is at once timely, welcome, and wise.

The presidents of the freshman and sophomore classes in their prompt action to establish the cap burning on a completely changed basis have done a splendid thing for the university as a whole and for their classes.

The university, the state, the entire nation will be infinitely pleased and relieved to know that there will be nothing attached to the character of the coming cap burning that might precipitate a tragedy such as we have sadly known at Wisconsin in the killing of Carl Jandorf, student, three years ago and in the throwing of injury-dealing phosphorus two years ago or a tragedy such as that which shadows Northwestern university today.

Unsatisfactory tradition inevitably must change. We shed no tears over the passing of tradition that kills and maims and antagonizes.

But overjoyed we are with the substitute which Wisconsin is to have next Friday and in years to come.

The day will be "W" day; a new contact for Wisconsin men will take place with the Varsity sing early in the evening; "W" letters and the Conference athletic trophy will be awarded; Gus Tebell for the university will welcome officially the freshmen into complete Wisconsin fellowship and the caps will be burned, a fitting and impressive culmination of the ceremony.

Five hundred high school athletes, with hopes high for their future Wisconsin, will watch.

If ever a new era for a progressive Wisconsin is to come, it must begin with the holding of our first Varsity night.

CALLING "WOLF"

Springtime calls forth to us with many alluring forms of entertainment and diversion; the drive, the lakes, the car. When these become wearisome, we turn to something new, or rather something different, for there are few things indeed which are new.

A group of entertainment seekers several weeks ago became bored with the usual forms of fun and turned to playing pranks. Spring is the season for pranks; the very feeling in the air urges youth on to playing a practical joke on some one. So it was that an old boat, a match and a fire department, efficient or inefficient as you will, provided excellent material for a prank.

No one would have been greatly surprised if the firemen after finding that the university whistle summoned them to a bon fire,—that it had been a false alarm—had turned their hose on the pranksters. The firemen, however, are good sports enough to do such a thing, so they went back to the station, some of them chuckling at the practical jokesters, some of them a bit warm under the collar.

The other night the same thing happened, a false alarm turned in at the box near the gymnasium. Again the fire department appeared, only to find that again some one had been calling "wolf".

Probably every youngster before he reaches the high school learns what happens to those who call wolf. They call and the shepherds come to find no wolf and leave; again they call, again the shepherds come and still no wolf; and finally, after they have called and after each time fewer shepherds have come to help the joker, the wolf actually puts in an appearance and then the shepherd lad may call in vain, for no longer do the shepherds trust him.

Now it may be wrong to think that this is an applicable simile, for no matter how many times pranksters turn in false alarms, the firemen will answer. It is their duty to answer. Nevertheless, the habit of calling wolf is an evil one to acquire.

There is another aspect to this practice, an aspect which does not appear on the surface. It was suggested to us by one of the firemen who answered the last summons. The number of lives which are endangered by the fire engine plunging down narrow State street is inestimable. State street is not the only narrow street on the way from the various stations to the campus and every time the engines turn out it is a question of whether or not they will all return to the station without having some casualty or another.

Play pranks by all means, but do not make them endanger human life.

Editors Say—

THE OLD ORDER (Harvard Crimson)

"Class spirit," complains a Cornell paper, "seems to be sadly on the wane.... It seems a pity that such should be the case". The annual mud rush lacks the vigor it formerly had. At Dartmouth it is found that this year's freshman-sophomore picture war "lends color to the impression that the fight is a nuisance anyway, and had best be abolished." Such a condition is criticized by a college graduate who recalls in a letter to a Philadelphia paper the "good old days" when "Yea, Rowbottom" at Pennsylvania and "Reinhardt" at Harvard were live traditions.

But college traditions have a way of changing, developing along with the student body. Even those undergraduates who knew the story of Reinhardt, the friendless student who is supposed to have called his own name outside his lighted window, had never heard of an earlier McKean, the senior who leaped from the roof of Harvard hall to that of Hollis, after a futile attempt to freeze up the bell. Already freshman caps and freshman rules of conduct were held in contempt; yet there are still those who recalled the abolition of "Bloody Monday" as a loss to be mourned.

Today the undergraduate of the university has forgotten McKean, "Bloody Monday," and Reinhardt. He does not even know "Schneider's Band," a song endeared to the graduates. Even the battered hat is passing, though no one has yet thought to shed a tear over it. These superficials of college life are mere signs of the times, out-grown like other fashions.

THE CRUCIBLE ELECTIONS

Editor, The Cardinal:

To accuse Crucible officers and members of party politics is a bit harsh. Better to recommend that a gross of spectacles be invested in and donned.

Crucible was formerly composed of two representative juniors from each sorority and four girls at large. Membership was changed a while ago, because it was too restrictive. The new system to insure representative elections was to choose from the class as a whole.

Crucible has ceased emphatically to be rated as an honorary organization based on activity at large. The recent elections are proof sufficient. Inferring entirely from the women elected, Crucible now has become one of three things: first, a reward for service on the sophomore commission; second, a merit conferred on class participants in athletics; third, an informal club for a Barnard bunch and their friends.

Most assuredly not even a shadow of an attempt to have Crucible a truly honorary society of all-around class leaders can be maintained.

PREVALENT OPINION.

FOR POUGHKEEPSIE

Editor, The Cardinal:

Certainly the University of Wisconsin, situated as few other universities are, should have better water facilities—a breakwater, a bath house and one more thing—a boat house on Lake Monona for the crew to use when Lake Mendota is rough.

In years to come the Wisconsin crew will be taking its place among the other crews of the country on the Hudson as of yore. We want our eight to be "up among them," berry crates or no berry crates.

The number of days the crew can practice on the lake are all too few. The University of Pennsylvania crew practices on the water at least twice as much as ours does. The Washington crew is likewise aided. It is true that Cornell and Syracuse can work-out on the water little more than ours, but that is no reason why we should not make it possible to increase the number of practice days here.

In the spring, Lake Mendota is too rough to permit practice as many days as it is smooth. The north wind sweeps in and makes it too dangerous and even impossible for the shells to take to the water.

On the most of those days, however, Monona is as smooth as the proverbial mill pond. The hills on its northern shore protect it. If the crew could practice there on days that Mendota is rough, it would be able to double its work.

Many years ago, when the Badger eight used to journey to Poughkeepsie, it did wheel the shells across town to Monona. That could be done now. But such action should not be necessary.

If the university could establish a boat house on the north shore of Monona and furnish it with three or four of the old shells that it already possesses, our chances for a good showing at Poughkeepsie would be doubled.

FROM AN ADVERTISER

Editor, The Cardinal:

I am enclosing a check for $4.80 to cover the advertising which I did in The Cardinal while at the university.

I want to take this opportunity to thank you for your efficient service. The Cardinal certainly brought me results. Even the notice that was put in of my coming to the university by Mr. Wolf was effective, since when I arrived, there were three or four young men waiting to see me, and after I started the day they came in droves.

I am leaving very soon for the University of Michigan and I am hoping there will be a newspaper as prominent and efficient as The Daily Cardinal is at the University of Wisconsin.

This event is worthy of every college man's attention. Our entire line of Collegiate clothing, including the famous "Langrock" suits, has been materially reduced. These suits have been very popular this season and will be just as good next fall. We would rather have them worn and sell them at a substantial discount, than to have them lie idle in our stock until fall. There are about 50 from which to choose—every one stylish, smart, and new.

These suits include the English cuts in both the straight back coats and the Norfolks. The illustrations in this ad show their style very well. The first, the box model with loose back and trousers, will be the prevailing style for next fall and winter. The Norfolks are always good as a general sport suit. These have the low, full belts, and very roomy pleats. All are the Yale, Princeton, Brookhaven, and Langrock models.

Chinese Student Here Arranges Big Convention

Ko Ko Chen

More than 300 Chinese men and women attending colleges in the middle west are expected to attend a convention of Chinese students to be held here Sept. 4 to 11, according to Ko Ko Chen, 919 W. Johnson st., general chairman in charge of arrangements.

A program for the convention is being arranged by a local committee which meets every Friday night at the home of Mr. Chen. The program probably will be completed by the end of this month, Mr. Chen stated today. It includes literary, athletic and social activities.

Arrangements have been made to house the women attending the convention in Barnard hall, while the men will be quartered in the university Y. M. C. A. About 50 women are expected.

The work of 250 students in the art courses of the home economics department is now on display in the museum on the fourth floor of the State Historical library.

The exhibition will continue the remainder of the month, from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. daily. It is under the auspices of the Madison Art association, with Mrs. Warner Taylor, wife of Professor Taylor of the English department, in charge of the arrangement of articles. Students will be there at all times to explain all about their work.

"The prevalence of woven articles, colonial designs, and block prints show the revival of foreign hand-craft," said Miss Ellen Hillstrom, director of art.

"The designs and color combinations are original work. The girls have all been working hard to finish this year's work for this exhibit, and I feel very proud of the results," she added.

What articles were left over from the bazaar held recently at Lathrop are also there, and are for sale. The proceeds will be added to the fund for the establishment of a scholarship in nutrition for the home economics department.

"Now here's your chance to get some lovely and entirely different things at ridiculously low prices," said Miss Grace Langdon, instructor in Ag. journalism.

"As these articles will not be held over until next year, their original prices have been sharply reduced. And you couldn't find a duplicate of anything if you wanted to," she

Cost German Family $91.20 Pre-War Price To Send Letter Here

How would you like to spend $91.20 for stamps every time you mailed a letter?

A letter received today by Mrs. Peter Lochner, 717 E. Johnson st., from a cousin in Niederzissen, Germany, bore one 300-mark and two 40 mark stamps. Before the war, with marks at 24 cents, this would have represented an expenditure of $91.20, but with marks quoted at .002005 cents today, the stamps are worth but .7619 cents.

In the letter dated May 1, the correspondent states that conditions had been satisfactory in that region of Germany until the occupation of the Ruhr valley, but that industry and trade is now at a standstill as a result of the invasion.

Wonder If This Girl Has Any Fun at School

HOMESTEAD, Pa.—Presenting Eleanor Wall—something new and strikingly original in marathon champions.

While less thoughtfully inclined folks recently have been establishing records for long distance dancing, eating, sleeping, knitting and what not, Miss Eleanor hung up this record:

Twelve years—from the day she popped her curly little head in the door of the primary grade room, until she proudly stepped out in the 1923 graduating class of the high school here—Eleanor pursued her schooling without a single day's absence from classes or a single minute's tardiness.

SET NEW VARSITY TRADITION ON CAPS

attempted to instill a hatred for front is significant of the loyalty for the university itself. The underclassmen have declared themselves as favoring and supporting the optional wearing of the cap because of these symbolic meanings.

The action of the underclass leaders came as a result of the trouble at Northwestern and was instigated out of a desire to ward off any adverse publicity which might arise from a traditional Cap night scrap and to thereby protect the institutions of the university.

Reports indicate that a great decrease in the subscription lists to Northwestern's new skyscraper university has been evidenced since the Mount case arose. Both presidents of undergraduate classes yesterday expressed themselves as being extremely desirous of protecting the Memorial union from any harm because of a petty class fray.

Leaders Publish Appeals

In appointing Tebell as speaker at the Varsity night ceremonies, Rollie Williams declared last night:

"The freshmen and sophomores have shown a far-seeing and commendable spirit in giving birth to this new tradition which will favorably impress our visiting high school athletes, will clear up forever the green cap misunderstandings, and will place the university in a state of relief and protection. That the idea should come from the classes themselves is indicative of a devotion for Wisconsin above any petty feelings."

Appeals to all underclassmen to refrain from any violence or disobedience of rules and to respect the new tradition were made yesterday by the leaders of the classes. Their messages are printed on the first page.

GALLI CURCI TO ARRIVE SUNDAY

A Few Tickets For Concert
Monday Night Still Available

Madame Amlita Galli-Curci will arrive in Madison at 9:20 o'clock tomorrow evening.

With her will be her husband, Homer Samuels, who is also her accompanist, and Manuel Berenguer who assists on the flute in many of the selections. According to the Northwestern railroad she is not traveling in a private car this year.

The concert which is to be given in the Agricultural Pavilion at 8:15 o'clock Monday evening is under the auspices of the University school of Music, working with the Agricultural Students' Federation.

Start Work in Pavilion

The Music school generally handles all of the musical attraction alone which come to the city or works with the Union Board, due to the extensive nature of this concert they are working with the Agricultural school.

Approximately 150 tickets are still available at A. E. Smith's Music store for the $4 section.

About 3,600 tickets were printed, of which nearly 600 were for the $4 section, and 1,000 each for the $3, $2, and $1 seats. The special $1 tickets for students were all sold very quickly in the first few days.

Start Work in The Pavilion

Work on the decorations and seating arrangement at the Agricultural Pavilion will start this morning, according to information from the office of P. M. Franzen at the Paint shop.

"A platform will be built at the east end of the pavilion, the end opposite that used at Commencement exercises, and Madame Galli Curci will sing down the length of the building," W. H. Sumner said in speaking about arrangements for the concert. The platform will measure about 16 feet square, and will stand up 7 or 8 feet from the ground.

No attempt will be made to decorate the entire building, but the platform itself will be in front of huge curtains, and will have palms banked about it.

The pavilion will be opened at about 7 o'clock to admit people Monday night, and thus avoid some of the crowding.

Program Announced

The complete program for the concert, as received by Charles H. Mills, director of the Music school is as follows:
