WEIMER ELECTED EDITOR OF LIT TO REPLACE FEARING

Former Magazine Head Makes Strong Rebuttal to Faculty Criticism

John F. Weimer '25 was elected editor in chief of the Wisconsin Literary magazine at a meeting of the editorial staff yesterday afternoon. Kenneth Fearing '24, retiring editor, declared last night that he had found it impossible to print a literary magazine adequate for a mature university field under the present restriction of censorship.

With the advancement of Weimer to the head of the magazine staff from his former position as managing editor, the two offices have been merged into one.

Fearing's statement in defense of the former editorial policy of the Lit is a stout rebuttal to the criticism of the faculty committee which called for his resignation.

Reasons For Resigning

"I was asked to resign by Professor Gardner, Dean Goodnight and Dean Glicksman because they objected to material printed in the Lit which they termed lewd, lascivious and immoral," he declared, "and because, as Professor Gardner stated, they could not see that I loved and respected my fellow men."

"The latter point is largely true. As for the censorship, I couldn't possibly put out a magazine adult enough to represent the university, presumably of a liberal and mature audience, under the present restrictions.

At any rate, with a misanthropic editor out of the way, the university will be safe for democracy and morals."

Elect Faculty Advisors

A faculty advisory committee was elected at the meeting yesterday. Those who will serve in this capacity are Prof. Louis A. Cooper, Prof. R. E. Dodge, Prof. E. H. Gardner, Helen C. White was elected to aid the faculty board which is made up of Prof. W. G. Bleyer, Prof. C. E. Allen and Prof. J. F. A. Pyre.

"My policy shall be to maintain as far as possible the former high standards of literary writings of the magazine," Weimer said, following his election.

SEND QUESTIONNAIRE TO C. I. P. A. MEMBERS

The course in journalism has sent out a questionnaire to all members of the Central Interscholastic Press association in an effort to promote a closer interest between the members. The department hopes to obtain information regarding the activities, equipment, organization and needs of all publications belonging to the organization. This will be helpful in finding out which schools are using superior methods.

Dean Will Address Campus Conditions at Luncheon Today

Dean Harry Glicksman will address the discussion group chairman of the Y. M. C. A. at luncheon today on the subject of "Are Campus Conditions Satisfactory?"

Dean Glicksman will treat of the causes and attitude toward dishonesty, and will point to its origins. Fraternities, debating and athletics will be evaluated, the first in regard to its effects, and the last two to the extent which they are indulged in.

The talk is one of a series which are being given to discussion chairmen, who, in turn, use these talks as bases for whatever is discussed in the groups. The whole activity is under the supervision of Frederick E. Wolfe, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., and under the personal supervision of Arno Haack '26, and his committee.

An address on "Religion," by Rev. H. H. Lumpkin will be given March 23 and one on "Our Life Work," by Prof. W. H. Kieckhefer April 4.

Agricultural Trip Shows Field For Rural Leadership

That students trained as leaders at the university are cutting an important figure in community leadership, and that there are still great needs for such trained people was the observation made by Prof. G. C. Humphrey in his talk on "A Recent Trip Through Rock County" at the Saddle and Sirloin club meeting last night in Agricultural hall.

A fat stock judging contest was announced for 1:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the stock pavilion. All students in the College of Agriculture not on previous judging teams are eligible to compete for the silver cup which is being offered for first prize.

The purpose of the contest is to provide practice for students who are anxious to tryout for the stock judging team next fall. The next contest will be held Saturday March 29 when dairy cattle will be judged.

STATE STUDENTS DISCUSS MISSIONS

Open Conferences on Foreign Religious Work Tonight in Wesley Hall

Delegates from 12 colleges and normal schools throughout the state will be present at the Sixth Annual Student conference on foreign missions, the opening session of which convenes at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the Wesley Foundation. Sessions will also be held tomorrow and Sunday.

The conference is fostered by the Student Volunteer union of Wisconsin of which Arthur Wald '24, is chairman and which is composed of representatives from practically all the colleges and normal schools in the state.

Purpose Explained

"The purpose of the conference is to bring together all students who are interested in foreign missions into conference with capable leaders who have worked on foreign fields, and other christian leaders, so that they may consider the needs of the world, their personal responsibility and their relation to a world-wide advancement of the Kingdom of God," declared Wald.

The delegates will be registered in the lobby of the Wesley Chapel this afternoon and between 5 and 6 o'clock will be entertained at an informal reception. President Birge will open the conference with an address of welcome. This will be followed by a violin solo by Otto Toenhart '25.

Aberly Gives Address

The address of the evening will be given by Dr. John Aberly, who was for 30 years a missionary in India, and who is now professor of missions at the Chicago Lutheran Theological seminary. He will speak on "The Present World Situation," "Campus Problems" will be the topic of discussion at the session which opens at 10:15 o'clock tomorrow morning.

ENGLISH ACTRESS DEPLORES POWER OF MONEY OVER DRAMA

"America is just now having a nascent drama. Until the last few years drama has been the Cinderella of the arts, because it does not flourish kindly in Puritan soil, and because the genius of the American nation was directed toward material things," Mrs. Beatrice Forbes-Robinson Hale declared in her talk on "The Modern Stage and the Rising Generation," last night in Music hall.

"Two generations ago, it is true, we had geniuses in the drama, such as Edwin Booth, but they were possible only under the stock system."

Musical comedies, in Mrs. Hale's opinion, are utterly bad. "They are not possible on a sound economic basis," she said. "They are so costly that the producers have to save on salaries, and chorus girls receive pay which is below the minimum of decent living. The poor pay encourages the girls to hand out the 'glad eye' to the young men in the audience, for it means increased box office receipts, and the wild lobster dinners we read about are the result of low salaries," she said.

Mrs. Hale showed how the phenomenal ground values of New York, the huge cost of building theatres, brought to drama the business man as a producer. The expense was such that they had to put on the sort of thing that attracted an audience. Within a lifetime the very phraseology of the stage changed, and the "dramatic profession" became the "show business."

The star, not the play, is now the thing. The company is the star's background.

"America has two native shows, the circus and the melodrama, which has been translated into the movies," Mrs. Hale stated.

"The movies supply a deep-seated need. They bring adventure and romance into thousands of drab lives. It is the cheapest and most mobile of shows and it is here to stay."

Wentworth Reading Ticket Sale Opens on Hill Tomorrow

Tickets for the reading by Mrs. Marion Craig Wentworth of her play "The Singing Globe," which will be given Thursday under the auspices of the Wisconsin Players, go on sale tomorrow, according to Kenneth Gardner '25, business manager of the club.

Tickets can be bought from Herman Wirka '26 at the Chi Phi house and from Dorothea Wilgus '24, at the Chi Omega house any time after today. They will go on open sale on the hill Wednesday and Thursday.

Mrs. Wentworth is a well known playwright and actress. "War Brides" in which Nazimova appeared, was one of her most successful works. "The Singing Globe" is her latest play and has been greeted with much favor throughout the country, according to Gardner.

GERMAN PUBLICIST AIDS RELIEF DRIVE

Sororities Donate Liberally to Fund; Workers to Solicit Fraternities Today

Professor Rohrbach, German publicist, who will be in Madison today on a visit to Prof. A. R. Hohlfeld of the German department, will aid in the work of the committee for student friendship fund for relief of European university students by telling something of the need of relief in his country.

"Students in America do not fully realize the plight of the European students and the disadvantages under which they must work," Miss Margaret Quayle, eastern area director of the fund, said yesterday at a meeting of committee chairmen and other students. "What we want is individual contributions so that every student may feel that he has a share in the campaign."

"One dollar and a half will feed a student in Germany for a month; the price of a meal here will keep a student for more than a week. A very little sacrifice on the part of our students will mean a whole lot to all of the university population in Europe," she added.

Reports from a number of sororities yesterday showed that one chapter had given more than $100, the lowest contribution being $2. In one chapter the average given was almost $4.

Men's organizations will be addressed by Miss Quayle at noon today. She will speak at several meetings arranged during the day by the committee and tomorrow and Sunday she will address other groups.

Headquarters of the committee are in the Union board offices in the Union building. Members of the finance committee will be at the office every day this week to receive contributions to the fund.

Proceeds from the Union board dances tonight and tomorrow will be placed at the disposal of the committee for the student friendship fund for relief of European university students, managers of the dance announced yesterday. Several other activities also will donate profits to the fund. Twenty per cent of the three-day showing of "The Stranger" at the Parkway will be turned over to the committee.

Foreign Flashes

WASHINGTON. — The Senate committee investigating the Department of Justice has subpoenaed former Postmaster-General Will Hays in connection with rumors that the G. O. P. campaign fund deficit was paid off to Hays by Sinclair in return for the Teapot Dome oil leases.

PARIS. — Political enemies of Premier Poincare are assailing the premier for pledging French acceptance of the special committee's report on reparations in return for the $100,000,000 loan from J. P. Morgan and his associates.

INTERCOLLEGIATE DEBATE SEASON STARTS TONIGHT

Wisconsin, Illinois, Michigan Open in Triangle Debate; Olbrich Presides Here

M. B. Olbrich prominent Madison attorney will preside at the Michigan-Wisconsin debate which will be held at 8 o'clock tonight in Music hall, Harold A. Seering, president of the forensic board announced last night.

During his undergraduate days at Wisconsin, Mr. Olbrich took an active interest in forensics. He was a member of the Wisconsin debating team which defeated Michigan in 1904 and participated in the Northern Oratorical League contest in 1902.

The problem of securing a adequate water supply for the city of Chicago is a vital one to the Middle-west. Much interest in the debate is evidenced by the fact that the Chicago Sanitary district will have two reporters at the debate who will take down the speeches verbatim.

Agent Lauds Analysis

Mr. Hillaway, publicity agent of the Sanitary district, declared after hearing the Wisconsin speakers rehearse last night that he had never heard a better analysis of the question.

The proposition to be debated is "Resolved, that the drainage project of the Chicago Sanitary district in so far as it involves the divergence from Lake Michigan of sufficient water to provide adequate sanitation for the city of Chicago should be permanently guaranteed."

Emanuel W. Goodman '26, Harold J. Sporer '25 and Henry W. Blake '24, closer, will support the affirmative for Wisconsin while Walter Pear '24, Burton Sibley '25 and Donald Cook '25 will uphold the negative for Michigan.

Rarig is Judge

A negative trio consisting of Glen Bell '25, Herbert E. Cheever '26 and Carleton Meyer '24 will meet the Illinois affirmative at Urbana.

The one judge system which was instituted three years ago by the Mid-west debating league will be continued in the debate tonight. Prof. Frank M. Rarig of the speech department of the University of Minnesota will give the decision and explain the methods used in deciding the contest.

RECORD SALE IS SEEN FOR HARESFOOT OCTY

The hill sale for the Haresfoot number of the Octopus, which appeared last Wednesday, was well over 1,100. Drug store sales are going fast, and with the copies that the Haresfoot club has contracted to sell on its trip this issue will mark the high point for circulation in the history of the Octopus.

"Deutches House" is Revived After Seven Year Sleep

The "Deutches House" has again revived after a peaceful slumber of seven years. It will be located next fall at 508 North Francis street on property which has recently been purchased.

The German house was the first of its kind in America when it established in 1914. It was discontinued in 1917 as a result of the sentiment in the country against speaking German. Parallel to its disestablishment, the enrollment in the German department decreased at that time.

A similar house has been conducted this year by Miss A. B. Ernst, a member of the instructional staff. She leased one of the university cooperative houses on Morris street and took in a number of girls interested in German.

The house will have the furniture of the old "Deutches House" which friends in Milwaukee donated at its establishment. The house has room for about twenty girls for living conveniences. Both men and women will be taken in for meals. About fifty can be accommodated. German will be spoken exclusively at meals and very largely at other times.

50 WILL USHER AT MILITARY BALL

Chairman Ross Will Have
Spectators Kept Off Dance Floor

Arrangements are well under way to make the floor facilities of the twelfth annual Military ball, which will be held April 4, at the state capitol, the best of any preceding event, according to a statement made last night by Cornelius Ross '24, chairman of the floor committee.

Special attention will be paid to keeping the spectators off the dance floor this year. A corps of 50 ushers in uniform will assist in handling the arrangements. A group of 10 student police officers will aid the regular capitol police force.

The ushers will be organized into four groups, each group having a captain. The captains will all be under the supervision of a head usher. Appointments of ushers and captains will be made by Ross soon.

Members of the cadet corps will be given an opportunity to make up absences from drill classes by ushering at the ball, Major O. L. Brunzell announced recently.

A special meeting of all cadets wishing to usher will be held at 1:30 o'clock Saturday in the Green room of the Y. M. C. A.

Local Harvard Club Sends Greetings to Charles Eliot

The Harvard club of Madison took part in the celebration in honor of the ninetieth birthday of President Emeritus Charles William Eliot which was held yesterday in Sanders theater, Cambridge. Messages were sent to President Eliot by Harvard clubs all over the world. A memorial from the local club, drafted by Professors Robert E. Dodge, George C. Fiske and Dean Harry S. Richards was as follows:

"The Harvard club of Madison, Wisconsin, extend their heartiest congratulations to Charles William Eliot upon his ninetieth birthday. The occasion is one for thankful retrospect.

"That the position of Harvard is among the great universities of the world is felt to be peculiarly his work. A review of his specific achievements, however summary, would be alien to the purpose of our belief and affectionate greeting, but no group of loyal Harvard men can fail to insist on some of the more notable. It is a commonplace that he found Harvard a college and left it a university; the ideals that he successfully established are less often proclaimed.

"In the field of pure learning, he abolished favoritism: some studies, he recognized, are more humanly important than others, but the health of all depends upon the health of each, and he gave all room to develop freely. He recognized, too, that the health of any branch of learning depends upon the quality of the men who profess it; he was a fisher of men, and the Harvard of his creation was a corps of leading spirits such as America had not till then seen.

"In the field of the liberal professions he was really far-sighted.

His recognition that law and medicine are not species of handicraft, but great sciences, to be taught as such, made Harvard a leader in professional education and transformed the character of professional schools throughout the land.

"On this, his ninetieth birthday, the Harvard club of Madison rejoice that he has survived to see the full fruition of hopes and plans that in their inception were regarded as revolutionary."

Besides this memorial from the Harvard club, the University of Wisconsin is represented in person by Professor Frederic L. Paxson of the history department.

Spring Does Not Always Come With Robins, Says Prof

If you see a robin don't be too sure that spring has come. He may be one of the few hardy creatures that annually brave the discomforts of Wisconsin winters to remain here when his feathered friends go south, according to Prof. George Wagner of the zoology department.

Even an occasional red-headed wood-pecker, a much later bird, remains here, roosting in an oak tree. The northward migration, usually brings the robins back to this section about March 12, he said.

"The meadow-lark, the blue-bird, the song-sparrow, the red-winged black bird, and the kill-deer, are other spring birds, that appear simultaneously with the robin," Professor Wagner said.

ALICE BEEBE TALKS ON SOCIAL WELFARE

That social welfare work must concern itself as much with preventive measures as with corrective work was pointed out by Miss Alice Beebe, speaking last night before the Intercollegiate league of women voters in Lathrop hall. Miss Beebe was at one time police matron in Madison and has done social work in mining camps in the Cumberland mountains.

"Social workers can raise the standards and ideals of the people that they are trying to help by presenting to them and attempting to make real to them inspiration, in which beauty is the greatest factor," Miss Beebe said.

An appeal for aid for the students of Czecho-Slovakia was made by Miss Quayle, who has recently returned from eastern Europe where she has been doing welfare work.

Hiawatha Trilogy Being Rehearsed By Choral Union

A type of musical scoring common in Europe but seldom found in this country is being used by Choral Union in its preparation of the third part of the "Hiawatha" trilogy, "Hiawatha's Departure," for its spring concert.

The music for this part of the trilogy is written in separate chorus parts, similar in form to the music for bands and orchestras. One book contains only the soprano parts of the chorus, another the alto, another the tenor, and still another the bass.

Choral Union will present the entire "Hiawatha" trilogy in a public concert later in the spring, as the last of a series of three yearly concerts. The first, a Christmas concert, consisted of selections from Handel's "Messiah," and a patriotic concert, given in February, included patriotic songs of many nations.

The difficult "Hiawatha" trilogy by S. Coleridge-Taylor is made up of three parts, the first, "Hiawatha's Wedding Feast," the second, "The Death of Minnehaha," and the third, "Hiawatha's Departure." All of the composition will be sung by Choral Union.

ATHLETICS IN THE
COLLEGIATE WORLDGERBER CASE MAY NOT BE SETTLED
UNTIL THIS JUNECase in Hands of Big Ten Commissioner and Athletic Department

The case of the ineligibility of Irv Gerber, Badger football and swimming star, still hangs in the balance and from all indications will not be settled until June. The matter is at present in the hands of Major John L. Griffith, Big Ten commissioner, and the athletic department here.

Gerber has been an unlucky man in athletics; for the most part he has had to wait while the others played.

Makes Good on Gridiron

Last fall Gerber went out for the football team and was at once selected for regular position on the line. His stamina and driving power won for him the name of the "iron man of football." After starring in a couple of games his ineligibility was questioned and he was not allowed to compete until his status was cleared up. This kept him out of the balance of the football season.

When the coaches of the conference met at the close of the season to arrange the schedule for this year his case was taken up and he was cleared of the professionalism charges which had been made against him.

Is Star Swimmer

With this clean slate he entered competition in the swimming events. A good man in the swims and in the dives, he looked like the big point getter for Steinauer's tankmen. A fast man in the 100 and 200 yard swims, he was also an important link in the relay team. As a diver he had promise of being the conference champion until his eligibility was questioned again on the eve of the Indiana meet.

WEISS TO CAPTAIN

1925 MAROON FIVE
CHICAGO, March 20.—Bill Weiss was yesterday elected captain of the next year's University of Chicago basketball team. Weiss is a junior and will be graduated a year from June. He is a former Wendell Phillips high school student, having been graduated from that school in 1918. During the season just ended and the previous year, he played guard position on the Maroon quintet. Harrison Barnes, forward, was another candidate for the captaincy. Weiss is being mentioned on many all-conference teams.

SIGMA CHI FIRST

Theta Xi's Third, and Beta's Fourth

Sigma Chi landed first in the interfraternity waterbasketball tournament by winning their last contest in the semi-finals. Lambda Chi Alpha placed second, Theta Xi third, and Beta Theta Pi, by virtue of their 6 to 0 win over the Dekes Monday, took fourth.

Teams competing in the semi-finals were Sigma Chi, Theta Xi, Beta Theta Pi, Lambda Chi Alpha, Delta Sigma Phi, and Delta Kappa Epsilon.

At the beginning of the tourney the teams were divided into three divisions. The first was composed of Sigma Chi, Theta Xi, Alpha Gamma Rho, and Zeta Psi. The second division comprised Beta Theta Pi, Alpha Delta Phi, Delta Sigma Phi, and Phi Gamma Delta. Lambda Chi, Delta Kappa Epsilon, Tau Kappa Epsilon, and Zeta Beta Tau comprised the third division.

Paul Eschweiler, captain of the waterbasketball team and manager of the tournament, is looking forward to a tremendous season next year. The first games will begin right after the football season, he announces.

FIRST CALL MADE FOR FRESHMAN BASEBALL

The first call for freshmen baseball men has been set for 4:30 o'clock Monday afternoon, when yearling men will meet Coaches Lowman and Combacker in Dr. Elsom's office.

Bouts Would Make Dempsey and Firpo Tremble For Their Laurels

Freshmen gym men had their first taste of the boxing ring this week when they stepped forth to do battle with opponents of their own weight for two rounds of one and one-half minutes.

Some of the slugging would have made Jack Dempsey and Louis Firpo tremble for their laurels as the youngsters mixed hooks and uppercuts. Many of the matches started out like a windstorm and ended up with both men hardly brushing the dust off from each others nose, as their wind gave out. Others danced around the ring with a defense that was like a stone wall and an offense that simply wasn't.

Although the matches were not supposed to be knockout affairs, enough blood was shed to make the mat look like a battleground. One match did end in a knockout.

The men were marked on their ability to defend, to keep from being toppled over, and to apply the blows that have been taught them this semester in the gym classes.

3 GAMES TONIGHT

Westons against the Daveys at 7 o'clock, Elliotts against the Carpenters at 7:45 o'clock and Smiths versus the Tebells at 8:30 is the schedule for tonight's play in the Wisconsin Intramural basketball league.

The Elliot five, not having lost a game, now tops the percentage column. They will clash with the Carpenters this evening but nothing can be prophesied as to the outcome as the Carpenters make their first appearance tonight.

Many upsets are expected to occur before the league closes, as a number of the teams are very equally matched.

Score in Men's Close Victory

By losing to the sophomore R. O. T. C. rifle team by a score of 953 to 977, the university co-ed team lost a second dual meet last week.

The University of Nebraska co-ed team piled up a score of 978 points against the Wisconsin team. Although the two meets were distinctly separate, the same score made against Nebraska was counted in the meet against the men's team.

The sophomore team was picked from the infantry classes of the military department when the members were practicing firing several weeks ago. The team was picked and coached by Lieut. Harry L. Rogers. A team of freshmen was also picked but the men have not finished firing because Capt. Joseph H. Comstock, who has been coaching them, has been away.

One perfect individual score of 100 was made by Jalman A. Skogstrom of the sophomore team. The other scores were as follows:

Russel B. Ramsay, 99; Leslie P. Drake, 98; Harry C. Hull, 98; Ray Jackson, 98; Carl Fritzsche, 97; Richard C. Bubolz, 97; Arthur B. Solon, 97; Harold O. Reade, 97; Harland C. Hogan, 96.

These cores of the co-ed team follow:

HUMAN BODY COOLED
AS COMBUSTION ENGINE

Dr. T. H. Read, of the department of the interior, and F. C. Houghton, of the American Society of Ventilating Engineers, according to Popular Science Monthly, stated as a result of a test that if it were possible to inclose a man so that while he could breathe, no heat could escape from his body, he would die quickly. The body is only an internal combustion engine and, like all other engines of this type, must be cooled to function properly. Evaporation of sweat is the body's usual method of cooling itself.

THRILLS OF THE SPORT

Inter-collegiate debating may not have the thrills of a foot-ball game nor the excitement attendant upon a bag rush, but it does have those thrills peculiar to a contest between the quick wits and the clear-thinking minds of educated men. Debating has always been the truest of intercollegiate sports, for it represents the atmosphere and the element of collegiate life and training. It appeals to the finer senses and arouses the same desire for mental excellence that athletic contests arouse for physical excellence. It calls forth mental alertness and keenness and gives to the individual, whether debator or hearer, a better appreciation of his mental life and possibilities.

Tonight, at Music Hall the first regular inter-collegiate debate of the season takes place. Representatives of Michigan and Wisconsin will argue the Chicago Lake Drainage question, a subject on which they have been preparing for months. This is a question of vital interest to everyone, and it has already stirred the interest of both the United States and Canada. To attend this debate tonight will mean to share in the opportunity to share all the thrills of an intercollegiate contest and to experience all the pleasure of acquiring a clear conception of an interesting and worthwhile subject.

AS ONE STUDENT TO ANOTHER

Every thinking and reading student knows that there is at least an essence of truth in the statements being made in regard to the living conditions of the European students. There can be no doubt but that Europe's young men are earnestly endeavoring to obtain an education under the most terrible handicaps of severe hunger and lack of clothing, to say nothing of countless other deprivations.

Stories, too authoritative to be doubted, come of half starved students fainting during an examination and then admitting that they had had nothing but a few apples and crusts of bread for months and that they had been sleeping under bridges, on cold hall floors, or huddled up with strangers in some corner to keep warm during the cold damp winter.

No. These stories can not be doubted. Europe is suffering.

But the question is asked, "Why is there this continued poverty and need for relief? The Student Relief organization was originally founded to last just one year. What has made the extension of the work necessary?"

It is quite true that if American students were merely giving charity to the European students and there was no effort on their part to better themselves, no excuse for the relief work could be offered. But facts have been clearly brought out to show that those foreign students have tried to better themselves. They are accepting the most menial of tasks just in order to make a few cents for food so that they might continue with their school work. This, of course, indicates a new era for European students who in pre-war days considered it a disgrace to support themselves.

Thus it is that through America's help, the European students have gained a little encouragement and have through their contact with America's students learned how to help themselves.

But it has proved thus far that every time a student earns a little money which he thinks he can save and use, the mark takes another fall and he is in as bad a condition as before.

It is this unstable condition of the foreign money value, that necessitates the continuance of the Student Friendship news.

Whatever you give will be cabled immediately to the needy students. It is estimated that five cents will feed a student comfortably for one day. Just as one student to another—as if your room mate, for instance, were temporarily out of funds and you helped him out—let a brother foreign student have a part of your week's allowance.

Situation of Woman Changed Under Soviet Government Rule

By RAYMOND BASSETT '25
(Native of Roumania and Student of Russia)

ARTICLE VIII

One of the great problems that the Communists had to solve when they came into power in November, 1917, was the awakening of the consciousness of the Russian women, most of whom shared the ignorance and illiteracy of the men. The psychology of the Russian women, both worker and peasant women, their ignorance, the dependence on their husbands and on their families and other obstacles had to be overcome.

Here in the United States a great continuous struggle for years has brought the emancipation of the women; in Russia with the Revolution the same was accomplished in a day.

Magdeleine Marx, a French writer of fiction and articles, writes to the "Nation" from Russia in 1923. "I live the daily life of the Soviet regime, slowly I come to realize that I was mistaken; that what is superficial and false in other countries is true in this land where new social statutes affecting the lives of all the women, give them access to full liberty, yield them new privileges and new obligations, give a new spirit to all of them."

The working woman, the peasant, the intellectual are three types which have completely changed for the last few years. The new marriage laws of Soviet Russia are the cause of this change; they order and guise the lives of the woman in Soviet Russia. To understand the woman situation one has to know what the law says. Here are some of the facts. Before the revolution, the religious form of marriage was the only legally recognized form; today only the civil marriage is legal. A mere declaration of the intention, a certificate of identification, that is all that is needed. The widest liberty is enjoyed by both:

"If one party changes residence, the other is not obliged to follow."
"The father and mother share their rights over the offspring."

"Divorce can be based as well on the mutual consent of the couples as on the expressed wish of only one of the parties."

The Soviet takes pains to protect the woman in case of motherhood and makes the father equally responsible for the care of the child. "Such new and unique atmosphere leads to the development of a new type of womanhood," writes Mlle. Marx, and a new spirit, as a new mentality, is revealed by the Russian women of today.

The working woman is the most benefitted by the laws of Russia. They work eight hours a day. Girls between the ages of 16 and 18 are obliged to work only six hours, but they are seldom employed; most of them go to school. In the factories special nurseries are established where the little children of the workers are taken care of by trained nurses. Two times a day the women leave their places and visit their babies. They are not permitted to see the children during the noon hour, then they eat, sleep and play.

During confinement, and for three months after childbirth all working women receive free care and are paid by the state. Every month the Union distributes tickets for the opera, drama, and other entertainments. Excursions are arranged in the summer. They also visit in groups museums, lectures, etc.

But above all stand the evening courses where all complete their education. In one of the Moscow factories an old woman said to Mlle. Marx: "We don't like lords and ladies, that you can see, but at least we have the right to hold our hands up. But before! Look, you don't know. We weren't human beings. We were worse than cattle. Look, me. I couldn't read and they taught me. Things about politics, they explain them to us women now we understand. But I am wrong to speak of myself. I don't count. I am too old."

And Mlle. Marx concludes: "I am persuaded, after a thousand proofs, that the Russian working women are devoted with all their souls to the present regime and that the majority of them are even savagely revolutionary."

TODAY

The deet still holds the ad for wild white mice. Hats off to this fellow, whoever he is. Most of us are still in the chase for wild white women.

Handed in to this office but caught by the one copy-reader who has a sense of humor (Fight it out among yourselves), was the story which began—"Members of the faculty, co-eds and students."

The National Safety Commission recommends that the following combinations be avoided as distinctly dangerous:

Your girl's room-mate.
Your room-mate's girl.

LIFE'S LITTLE IRONIES

This is the first day of spring.
O, hush a bye-baby, there's slush on the ground,
I've listened for bird notes and not heard a sound.
We're looking for Springtime, where am it, where am it.
The jade's long in coming, oh fudge and oh pshaw.

TODAY'S CONTRIBS

All the Lit needed was courage. There was too much Fearing.

Little Miss Sally went down the alley,

To buy her a nut parfait.
A sheik there espied her and sat down beside her,
She gave him the bill to pay.

He. (on the edge, as they look into a jeweler's window). I wonder how much diamonds cost.
She. (Pushing) I couldn't tell you off hand.

We thought we had something for a minute, but it went. It was nice and cynical, too, about kweds, and how they are divided into two kinds—but then we remembered Benchley. He says that the world is divided into two kinds of people; those who divide the world into two kinds of people and those who do not.

"PUT YOUR NAME ON A STUB AND BE A BADGER."

—Old Song.
Suppose down at Illinois they sing is this way—
"Put your name on a stub and be a SUCKER."

May we not in this connection, rise to inquire why the Kink and Queen of the Military Bawl were surrounded, in the Choc. shop window, with all-day suckers?
Yes, but who is the sucker?

ENIGMA

Sally is my co-ed friend
I'm a co-ed, too.
Sally's eyes are slow, pale green
My two eyes are blue.

Sally is an ashen blond:
I am tinged with red.
Sally is so tall and straight
She tops me by a head.

Sally's nose is fine and long—
Mine snubs up a bit
Sally looks just like a queen,
And she has great wit.

Yet there is a riddle here
To which I find no key—
Every time we pass HIM by,
He always looks—at me.

The Reader's Say-So

100 PER CENT SAINTS?

Editor, The Cardinal:

The student body should be thankful that it is but seldom that such asinine communications appear in The Cardinal as that entitled "That Flaming Cross" which appeared in last Saturday's issue. C. A. T. blandly assumes that every one opposed to the Klan is afflicted with a case of "sour grapes." He calls all those not American born, white, gentle, protestants, so unfortunate. I suppose he would like to have them wipe out that disgrace of being born of Jewish parents and choose gentle Protestant Klansmen instead. Harken all Catholics, Jews and other not eligible for Klanship. Beat your breasts and dash out your brains against the nearest wall. You are never to become members of the Nighttown Brigade.

I have discussed the Klan with scores of students and have heard many others discuss the matter and not one favored it. They were all white, American born, gentle, Protestant gentlemen. C. A. T., the reason why decent men are against the Klan is this: It is an unlawful organization. Absolutely unlawful? Under the constitution of the United States and the constitution of every state in the union, it is a crime for any one not a public officer and not under oath to enforce the law. If the Klan were composed of 100 per cent saints, and it attempted to enforce the laws, it would be guilty of a crime. Only public officers sworn in as such may enforce the law? When the Klan attempts to take the law in its own hands, it becomes a revolutionary organization.

C. A. T. slanders the name of President Harding when he calls him a Klansman. President Harding has vigorously denied it during his life time. Any public officer who joins the Klan violates his oath of office and is a traitor to our government. Be careful whom you accuse of belonging to the Klan, C. A. T., A Chicago publisher accused a man of belonging to the Klan and the publisher was held guilty of libel. The judge and jury were American born, white, gentiles and Protestants.

M. K.

JOIN THE EMPIRE GENTLEMEN

Editor, The Cardinal:
In reply to C. A. T.'s outburst in Saturday's issue; it was indeed very illuminating to find that G. A. T. has reached the conclusion that our democratic government no longer suffices. Yes, what we need is an "Invisible Empire" consisting of "American-born Protestants" who at the same time are "white men, gentiles, and gentlemen." It is rather peculiar, to say the least, that "gentlemen" have to carry on their business in the dark, cloaked and masked. Up to this time I have been under the impression that only disreputables carried on masked and hooded during the night, shunning broad daylight. But this is a university, an educational institution, and I am proud to say I am too old to learn. I hope there are others like me.

The fact that the late President Harding and numerous senators and governors are to be counted among the members of this organization is no justification for its existence. In the light of the present disclosures at Washington, one must be either extremely ignorant of current affairs or a devout believer in the infallible goodness of human nature to assume that the adherence of government officials makes any organization sacrosanct. Surely, if the officers enumerated are Klan members, it behooves us inferior mortals to follow suit—unless, of course, we are not "American-born Protestants" and "white men, gentiles and gentlemen." No, we have no use for other denominations of native or naturalized citizens. This is a free country, a tolerant people! By the way, if C. A. T. is so proud the Klan, who does he not let us know his full name?

Band Will Prove Classic Music Has Most Real Melody

The statement, "I don't like classic music because it has no melody," is often heard about the campus, but it is based upon a lack of acquaintance with good music, according to Prof. E. W. Morphy, who will conduct the university concert band at its annual spring performance Sunday afternoon.

"Classical music has more melody than the popular pieces," Professor Morphy declares. "One of the most important differences between a great masterpiece and a popular song is that the classic composition has so many melodies that it requires more attention to follow it."

"The great masters do not feed us with one little tune and support it with a perfectly obvious accompaniment. The fact that good music has been poorly rendered often in the past is chiefly responsible for the present popular aversion to classic music."

Professor Morphy has been conductor of the band for four years. He was head of the violin department and director of the symphony orchestra for eight years at the University of Illinois before he came to Wisconsin.

HEYWOOD BROWN
ARE NOT SO GOOD

By MISS ANN THROPE

Mr. Heywood Brown was in town last Thursday and magnanimously dispensed a little eastern culture to a reverent audience. There was a small honorarium attached to Mr. Brown's dispensing but that was entirely incidental to his magnanimity. Any New Yorker who ventures into this mid-western wilderness to dole out a few grains of intellectual manna to the starving natives, is magnanimous.

Mr. Brown is a dramatic critic. He himself says so. We are informed that he has written a few books and a punk play or two, and at present his secretary is conducting a column for him in one of the New York papers and syndicating sundry reviews of the drama, et cetera.

Throughout the performance Mr. Brown rubbed his hands together in a manner strikingly similar to that of Lady MacBeth shortly after her husband had presented King Duncan with a pass to Palm Beach, Eternity. Just what Mr. Brown had on his hands we cannot surmise. The blood of his last victim, or mayhap, just a little ink?

Mr. Brown took occasion, during his ramble, to criticize a New York actress for her artificiality upon the stage. He said in substance that she tossed her lines out to an audience much as a quack player tosses quibbles, and then watched to see how many rings she had made.

We thought Mr. Brown was some little quack slinger himself. We sat pretty close to the front row and more than once we thought we overheard Mr. Brown grumble to himself after he had cast some particularly bright pearl, rubbing his hands the while in his lady MacBethian manner, "Laugh, dam you, laugh! The last bunch of boobs I talked to got that one easy!"

Mr. Brown took a dirty dig at the censors during his (two-hour) excursion. With reference to the theatre and the movies it is his notion, if we understood him aright, that a little rottenness now and then has very salutary, inhibitory, psychological consequences (or words to that effect) upon human nature. While it may be bad for the children, the old folks are entitled to what they want. So don't suppress the rottenness but suppress the children.

We didn't suppose Heywood Brown could be so naive. We'll wag our last year's straw hat that Ruth Hale does all the suppressing in the Brown household. Else Mr. Brown would not have uttered such nonsense. Miss Hale, it should be explained for the sake of the uninformed, bears the same relationship to Heywood Brown that the ordinary wife does to her husband.

But Mr. Brown did say one thing that was worth-while at least it was worth a dollar plus war tax. He said that America is doing nothing to conserve her talent in drama or poetry and that something ought to be done. Just what is to be done was not made apparent, but the point is well taken. By inference we gather that we ought to scout out our promising poets and actors, encourage them, throw pop bottles at them, get excited about them and give them a chance. That's worth thinking about.

Jackie to Campaign
For Foreign Relief

Jackie Coogan will forsake the movies for ten weeks this summer in order to lead a modern "Children's Crusade" throughout the United States in an appeal to the children of America for a million dollar ship load of foodstuffs for the destitute orphan children of the Near East and then will sail in person to deliver the gifts to the Near East orphans in Greece, Palestine and Syria, it became known here today when Charles V. Vickery, General Secretary of the Near East Relief, made public a letter from Mr. John H. (Jack) Coogan, Jackie's father, giving his consent to the trip.

The Boy Scouts of America organization, in addition to cooperating in the raising of the cargo, will greet Jackie in all of those cities through which he passes on his trip, across the continent.

The objective of the campaign is 100 carloads of foodstuffs. Overseas shipment will be made in the late summer from New York.

It is too bad that so seldom there is a combination of good actors and good plot. One thing is usually amiss and here it is the plot that is sadly lacking. It is the old and careworn plot of the bad husband and the good wife, and the wife gets accused of murder, and there is circumstantial evidence against her, and the jury says "Guilty," and just then the murderer, the conscience stricken husband, comes in and confesses it all. Brrr.

Betty Blythe is the star, and she acts the part of the star and nothing else but the star. In Fred Jones we have a husband; well, he doesn't have to do much but repent and then die, while William T. Carleton acts as the housefriend who finally marries the heroine. It is all very very sweet and rosy.

The moral of the play, the truth about the wives, is that "their natural yielding for love demands full measure in return," and, as this picture teaches, if they don't get their full measure, there will be murders and deaths and sad, sad tragedy all around.

Mary Rivals Doug
as Expert Horseman

Mary Pickford has become an expert horsewoman. Honors for horsemanship in the Pickford-Fairbanks family have always gone to the Fairbanks contingent, but now the indomitable Douglas will have to look at his laurels.

Miss Pickford in "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall", her forthcoming film production, steps right up to the barrier and shows that when it comes to riding a dashing steed, making a quick mount and daring escape from her pursuers, she is deserving of special honors. "The Thief of Bagdad," Doug's latest production, has just started in New York and has been greeted with great acclaim.

Mr. Battling Butler
Still in New York

The George Choo-Selwyn musical production, "Mr. Battling Butler" is now in sixth month at the Selwyn Theater in New York. This attraction played only two engagements out of town before it came into New York; one was in Detroit and the other in Chicago. This will be one of several musical attractions that will be running in New York when the Democratic convention is in session in June. The two comedians are Charles Ruggles and William Kent.

According to the method in which Mr. Brown delivered his address here last week, we of the barren provinces know mighty little of what is going on in the Great White Way. Perhaps you felt pretty much like contradicting Mr. Brown's attitude, if you heard his address. But let's see just how much we do know about the drama in the metropolis.

Do we know that "Abie's Irish Rose" which is now playing in Chicago has been on the boards in New York the longest of any piece now playing there? It started way back in May of 1922 which means that it has been running almost two years. "Seventh Heaven", which started in October, and "Rain" in which Jeanne Eagles of the grand old state of Kansas is starring and which commenced in November of that same year 1922 are second and third respectively as far as length of runs are concerned.

"Cyrano de Bergerac" with the Shakespearean actor, Walter Hampden, is doing excellently. The play is pretty well known among the members of Professor Pyre's contemporary drama course. "Hell-Bent for Heaven" is supposed to be one of the best pieces that has struck the boards in some good time. Claiborne Foster, a comparatively new light, won acclaim last week for her performance in a new play called "The Lady Killer" at the Morosco and Helen Hayes has taken New York in no such way as she took Chicago in Israel Zangwill's "We Moderns", a comedy which is quite out of tune with Zangwill's usual production as characterized by "Children of the Ghetto."

"The Best People" which is closing in Chicago after an unusual run, will probably appear in New York during the summer along with "The Highwayman" with Joseph Schildkraut, a play which you may have seen on one of your visits to Chicago but which, for your own sake we hope you missed. But the average which New York will get from Chicago on this change is not so bad, since the character of the former well makes up for that of the latter.

Lionel Barrymore is now at the Parkway in a production, which except for the scenes is rather mediocre. The legitimate in which he has been appearing in New York at the Belasco theater called "Laugh, Clown, Laugh" is going on the road at the end of this week and no successor has yet been produced.

The events which have been taking place this week in New York are the opening of "Welded" one of Eugene O'Neill's two new plays in which Doris Keane and Jacob Ben-Ami take the leads, the opening of "Sweet Seventeen" which sounds like a musical comedy and is without the music with a cast including

The rigid justice of the English court is the snool around which the threads of "Name the Man" are woven.

The story is based on Sir Hall Caine's "Master of Men." Conrad Nagel, as Victor, in an impetuous moment wrongs a girl whom later, he is forced by circumstance, to condemn to be hanged. Through the sudden death of his father, the Deemster, at the critical moment when Victor has decided to confess his crime, he is chosen to succeed as Deemster through the influence of his intended father-in-law. To complicate ties, Victor has become engaged to wealthy, young Fenella, a promoter of justice for all women.

Alick, Victor's bosom friend, is madly in love with the wronged woman. As attorney in her defense, he pleads an eloquent case. Frenzied by love for the girl and the cowardice of his best friend, he plans to shoot Victor, but—

The mob scenes and the court room trial are both executed with skill and color. Details are drawn painstakingly, and the characterizations are splendidly real. Genuine pathos is aroused throughout, particularly when Nagel nobly surrenders himself to the hungry mob.

nobody in particular, the appearance of Maurice de Peraudy in a repertoire of French plays and the appearance of Mme. Simone, the celebrated French actress. She will appear at the Gaitey in a series of matinees and with her will be Eva La Gallienne, of all things. It is many years since Mme. Simone has played in New York.

EXCITEMENT IS
NOTE OF SHOWS
FOR NEXT WEEK

By H. E. R.

Good morning, everybody. We suppose that you are interested in finding out the news on shows next week, and we promise that there are some thrilling and entertaining features on the list that will surely entice you to willfully spend your money.

Maurice Tourneur has prepared an attraction called "Torment" which will be shown at the Strand from Sunday to Wednesday. Owen Moore and Bessie Love are the principals in this drama, and we told that scenes of the earthquake in Japan show the quake "quaking." The last half of the week will bring another drama of which much has already been read. "Judgement of the Storm," an epic drama, featuring Lucille Rickson, Lloyd Hughes and Myrtle Steadman, will fill us full of thrills. This is a Palacer photoplay, and has a blizzard photographed that absolutely rivals anything ever seen in the movies.

The Parkway will excite all of the males in the student body by featuring Betty Compson in "Woman to Woman." This is a Selznick production that was produced in England. We couldn't find out much about the theme of the story that is played, but just see the pictures that hanging in the lobby.

Tom Mix is forsaking his cowboy clothing in "Soft-Boiled", which is to be shown the first half of the week at the Majestic. He appears throughout the picture in civilian clothes. Billy Dove will play opposite him in this William Fox production. The last half of the week is to feature Anna Q. Neillson in "Half-a-Dollar Bill", a Metro picture of which we have no advance information.

The Madison at this time has not made arrangements for its next week program.

ENGINEERS CARRY ON NEW RESEARCH

College Graduates Do Important Thesis Work in Milwaukee

An experiment in graduate engineering research conducted by men employed in industrial plants is being carried on this winter under the direction of Prof. R. S. McCaffrey, chairman of the department of mining and metallurgy, College of Engineering. A group of Milwaukee engineers, all graduates of leading engineering colleges, are to conduct the research in the plants in which they are working.

Professor McCaffrey and Prof. Joseph Oesterle, research assistant in the mining and metallurgy department, will go to Milwaukee alternate weeks to oversee the work, and to offer suggestions for the research.

These Milwaukee engineers are working for the degree of master of science in engineering. They all hold responsible positions, and through their positions can carry on research that will be offered as theses.

It is the first time, as far as is known, according to professor McCaffrey, that such a method of non-resident engineering graduate work has ever been tried. The fact that the men have had several years of experience in their field outside of college work, makes them especially well qualified. The oldest graduate in the group finished his undergraduate work in 1911, and the most recent graduate in 1918.

short talks from members of the basketball team and some entertainment which is being arranged by prominent campus musicians.

The menu for the dinner will be chopped fruit cocktail, roast beef, mashed potatoes, salad, vegetable, and ice cream and cake.

"I think the 'stag' is a splendid idea," John C. "Tex" Dawson '24, who is helping Frautschi plan the function, said. "The whole varsity squad will be the guest of the class. It will be a very suitable way of expressing thanks for their good work of the past season and will give the class a greater unity through giving it something to do. "No class has ever attempted such an event before, so 1924 can claim distinction in doing it."

Rare Old Books Are Among 33,500 of Law Library

"Going to the 'shop'?" is a query often heard on the way up the hill. The casual observer believing the questioner to be on his way to a shop filled with oily machinery, is surprised to see him turn into the Law building, unless he happens to know that the "shop" of the law students is the law library on the second floor of the building.

Under the domed ceiling of the library the law student looks up cases and dips into the legal policies of other days. The library contains about 33,500 volumes, all strictly legal. Except for the reservation of a few books, the open shelf system is maintained. A very small number of books are lost under this system, according to Mrs. Sophie M. Briggs, librarian.

The library contains some first editions in legal books. These editions are curios as well as source books for the law students. Many of these volumes are rare old editions, which are now out of print.

The Agricultural Literary society will meet at 7:30 o'clock Friday evening in 314 Agricultural hall. All ag students are urged to attend. Refreshments will be served.
