Prom goers who have not yet made ticket and supper reservations can do so all this week by calling Oscar Sander at the Tau Kappa Epsilon house, F. 2822.

"I will be ready to make reservations throughout the week, but I cannot make any cancellations after Friday," Sander said yesterday. "We will have to know by Friday just how many will be going to prom so that orders for programs and supper accommodations can be made."

Open Spectator's Sale

Money for all tickets reserved must reach Sander by January 30 or the tickets will not be held. Members of the ticket committee will be at the Tau Kappa Epsilon from 2 to 10 o'clock on January 30 to receive money and release tickets. No reservations uncalled for by 10 o'clock will be held. Parties purchasing tickets with supper accommodations after this week cannot have a definite supper hour assigned, Sander said. Checks for all prom tickets should be made out to the 1924 Junior prom.

Tickets without supper checks and spectators tickets will go on sale tomorrow noon. The University Pharmacy, Morgan's and Meng's drug store, at University avenue and Park street, will sell tickets without supper checks to students only for $5. Spectators tickets will be sold at the above places and at the Park Hotel pharmacy and Fisher Brothers cigar store. Only 200 spectators tickets at a price of $1 will be placed on sale.

A call for rooms to accommodate persons coming from out-of-town was issued yesterday by Arlene Page, rooming arrangements chairman. All parties having rooms available are asked to call Miss Page at B. 6263.

Non-fraternity men continued to call prom officials throughout the week to get information on parties being organized for them. Charles Gary is organizer of non-fraternity parties.

WEATHER: FAIR

Fair weather is predicted for today and probably tomorrow. Not much change in temperature. The maximum temperature for yesterday was 12 degrees at midnight, and the minimum was 23 at 3 p. m.

Jan. Issue of Wisconsin Engineer on Sale Tuesday

"A Reclassification of the Engineering Courses", by A. F. Rufsvold '23, appears in the January issue of the Wisconsin Engineer which will be distributed at the Engineering building on Tuesday morning.

This issue carries an article on "The Engineer as a Salesman," by W. T. Ennor, which points out the qualifications of a plumber for other purposes than working a slide rule. N. E. French '23, has described the "Eastern Trip" in an interesting manner.

Other articles in this issue are "Opportunities in the Electric Railway Field" by Prof. J. T. Hood and "Proposed Legislation for Financing Highways" by M. W. Torkelson of the Highway Commission.

EAST TO COME FOR '24 PROM

Eccentric Singers, Quartet to Furnish Special Entertainment

Special entertainment at the Junior prom will be furnished by the Varsity quartet and "Heavy" Ed East and partner, eccentric singers from Indianapolis.

The specialities have been arranged by the committee headed by Porter F. Butts to provide the maximum in unique and diverse entertainment for prom-goers. Student and outside talent have been combined in the prom program for the first time.

The quartet, consisting of Noel Stearn grad, Whitford Huff '24, Christopher Hendra '23, Thomas L. Dartnell '23, and Robert Nethercut '24, pianist, will appear under spotlight on the rotunda platform at 12:30 to fill the capitol with the strains of three brilliant numbers specially arranged by the quartet to accord with the pomp and splendor of prom.

To Sing In Boxes

The quartet will close its program by featuring their special arrangement of the prom fox trot "Why", with the composer, Dave Chudnow, at the piano. It will be the first time for prom goers to hear the prize melody.

"Heavy" Ed East and partner present a Van and Schenck type of performance. They take the place of Al Jolson, who is unable to appear at prom because of contract engagements in the East.

The duet will surprise prom parties by dropping around to prom boxes between 1 and 3 o'clock and singing informally their original and eccentric harmony pieces. The plan is a new wrinkle in prom entertainment.

PUCKSTERS WIN FROM MICHIGAN BY 1 TO 0 SCORE

Combacker's Shot Captures First Victory For Badgers

By winning from Michigan, 1 to 0, yesterday afternoon, Wisconsin captured its first hockey victory since that game has been made a Varsity sport. It was the most hotly contested of the four-game series, all of which were won by one point margins.

Capt. Howard Combacker made the goal in the last part of the first period. Johnson took a long shot at the goal from the side and the puck bounded back in front of the goal. Combacker reached the puck first and lost no time in ringing up a goal.

The first period was fast and rough, and Wisconsin had an easy margin throughout. The Badgers got at least five close shots during this period to every one the Michigan players managed to get. Johnson again showed great form in sending the puck for the net, but the strong defensive work of the Michigan goal, Comb, stopped all his close shots.

Tredwell Spoils Shots

Tom Tredwell spoiled some nice Michigan shots in the record period by fast work in front of the goal. The last third showed the Cardinals on the defense almost entirely. One Michigan attempt after another failed to take the puck within striking distance of the goal.

Michigan's pass work was far superior to Wisconsin's in both games, but the stellar work of each Badger kept Wisconsin in the running at all times. Combacker played a good, hard, consistent game yesterday, for he carried the puck through the Wolverines by a display of coolheadedness that none of the other players seemed to possess. George Fiske also showed up well.

For Michigan, Kahn and Beresford were the outstanding players. They were in on nearly every play and were probably the speediest men on the rink. MacDuff and Lindstrom did some good playing.

The next games for Wisconsin will be at Minnesota on February 9 and 10. These games will be difficult, but with the increasing form being shown by the Badger pucksters, and with a week to practice after the examination period, Coach A. K. Viner's team should be in condition to show the Gophers some hard playing.

Torchlight Races And Costume Parade Planned For Carnival

Torchlight auto races, a costume parade, fireworks, bonfire, fancy skating, music and the crowning of the queen are on the program for the coming ice carnival on Lake Mendota, February 10.

Christmas trees used to decorate State street during the holiday season will be placed around the rink in front of the gymnasium to serve as a windbreak. Colored lights will be placed in the trees.

Students to Parade

Several Madison merchants have arranged to outfit a number of women students for the costume parade in the evening. Judges chosen from the faculty and possibly from the city will pick the winners. Prizes are to be given for this event as well as for the others.

The state championship novice race is scheduled to take place on Lake Monona Friday afternoon, February 9.

Tobogganing On Skates

What promises to be one of the headliners on the Saturday program will take place when Helen Cushman '25 and Doris Cushman '25 go down the toboggan slide on skates. The slide will be iced for this purpose.

Hold Ice Boat Races

The International Ski tournament will start the winter sport events on February 3. Other events of this day will be a cross country ski race and the student iceboat race, each craft carrying a representative of the sporting section of a Wisconsin newspaper.

The championship iceboat race will be held on Saturday, February 10. The event this year is attracting outside entrees from several places. A number of iceboats which are entering the annual Lake Geneva Regatta later on will compete for the cup here first. Several ice craft from Milwaukee Lake near Milwaukee will also enter.

Contract For Blue Dragon Rings Has Been Signed

The contract for the Blue Dragon rings, the symbol of women graduate students, has been signed and the sale will be announced early in February.

"After college it is the one bond of recognition between Wisconsin's women alumni," said Marjorie Ruff '24, in urging that all senior and graduate women order their rings early. "We hope that every member of the class will have a ring."

Any member of the class or graduate student who has not yet secured a ring may order now by giving the size and the class number. Orders may be placed with Elizabeth Kirk '23, president of Blue Dragon.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. Jan. 20.—The Wisconsin basketball team defeated the Minnesota five by a 24 to 12 score this evening.

Close guarding by Captain Tebell and Rollie Williams of the Wisconsin quintet prevented the Gophers from scoring more than two baskets during the entire game and kept the winners out of danger at all times. The Minnesota five fought hard at all times but was pitted against a more experienced and better team.

Williams, Tebell, and Gibson brought the crowd to their feet several times during the game by perfect shots from the middle of the floor. The Badgers scored nine field goals. Gibson threw four baskets, Tebell and Williams two each, and Elsom and Barwig one each. Gage scored four times via the free throw route.

Minnesota is Stronger

Coach Cook's men showed up much stronger than against Michigan but could not get with the hoop. Eklund, Minnesota's left forward, and Pesek, center, were the only members of the northern aggregation who succeeded in laying the basket.

Gibson scored two points for the Badgers early in the first half by sending the ball into the basket from the jump after it had gone out of bounds at the end of the court. The game became rough at times.

All N. O. L. Manuscripts Must Be in By Feb. 12

Manuscripts for the Northern Oratorical league contest must be submitted by noon on February 12.

The eliminating contests will be conducted in a manner different from past years. Candidates will be obliged to submit manuscripts to the speech department. These manuscripts will be judged on organization and thought.

The contestants submitting the six or eight manuscripts ranking highest will enter the final elimination contest, for which they will be given special training by members of the speech department. The object is to secure speeches of better quality.

This is the system in use at Northwestern university, and its practical results may be seen in the fact that Northwestern has won the contest four times in the last ten years. The Forensic board has offered a prize of $25 to the person winning the elimination contest at Wisconsin.

LAST CARDINAL

With this issue The Cardinal will suspend publication until after the examination period. The Sigma Delta Chi Prom Cardinal which will be issued at midnight, February 2, will not be delivered to regular subscribers. Regular delivery will be resumed Tuesday morning, February 6.

NORTHERN CITY GIVES $10,000

Memorial Union Canvassers
at Wausau Nearly Reach
Quota in 4 Days

Four days of canvassing in Wausau last week produced $10,110 for the Memorial Union. It is expected that the quota of $15,000 will be raised within a short time.

A dinner of alumni, the first in more than thirty years, was held last Thursday night in the Hotel Bellis with more than 50 in attendance. Ex-Senator Claire Bird, '89, spoke strongly of the importance of forming a Wisconsin club among the 65 alumni of the city. The films of campus life and the Memorial Union were shown and an address was given by Professor E. H. Gardner. A committee on permanent organization was appointed, consisting of J. N. Manson, ex '20, Donald Caldwell, '18, George Ruder '16, Wells Turner '20, and Marshall Graff '14.

Become Friendly

"The real significance of the undertaking in Wausau," said Professor Gardner on his return last night "is not only the strong financial response, but the genuine interest in the university that was aroused among the business men as well as alumni. Much favorable publicity reaches cities throughout the state and there is general ignorance of the constructive work which the thousand members of the faculty are performing."

"As a result of this immediate antagonism is shown when the university is mentioned, but this changes to friendship when the real situation is made known. At a meeting of a small group of leading business men summoned informally, the campaign was endorsed in the city, and Colonel C. C. Yawkey, of the Yawkey-Crowley Lumber company, headed the list.

Leaders in the local campaign were Tom Ryan, '01, chairman, and

J. N. Manson, ex '20. There were 49 subscriptions from alumni yielding $4910, with an average of all subscriptions is $177.

L. S. Baker is still in the Twin Cities, where the conclusion of the campaign is expected during the next week. Indianapolis alumni are confident of reaching their quota of $4,000. Other campaigns that are actively proceeding are Akron,

New York and Boston. In Pittsburgh and Cincinnati plans are in preparation and other important centers are getting ready for announcements.

Of the nine schools in the Missouri Valley conference, the University of Kansas has a big lead over all the others in the race for the basketball championship. Kansas has won seven and lost none. Missouri is second with four won and one lost, and Washington is next with two won and one lost.

Coach Paul Prehn's Illinois wrestlers defeated Purdue's mat men, 19 to 8 Friday. A feature was the debut of Laase of Illinois, who quickly pinned Rasmussen of Purdue.

While no records were made in the meet, several men showed great promise for the coming outdoor season. The meet was one of the varsity tryout meets which will help coaches in deciding what men will compose the 1923 outdoor squad.

Polly is Bride One Night; Queen Next

Bride one night and Prom Queen the next.

This will be the unique experience of Polly Ambrose who will play the part of Madge Carr, the bride of "Stop Thief."

Polly's third act wedding with Gordie in the front row of spectators has already become famous. Thomas McLean, who plays James Cluney, will be the most envied man in Madison when he leads his dainty bride to the altar in the climax of the play.

"It's so exciting", said Polly, "to be preparing for my wedding and the prom at the same time. I'm having the darlings wedding gown made."

The play will be no more exciting for Polly than for the audience. The audience is bewildered by the clever work of Jack Doogan, master crook whose character will be interpreted by Roy French '23.

"Stop Thief" is the best play any university organization has produced in years" said Ralph Schiempflug '23, director of the play. Herbert Boning '23, is business manager, Harold Benton '24, production manager, and John Harrington '25, director of publicity.

A mail order sale is being conducted at the Parkway this week and all seats remaining will be sold at the Parkway box office.

Need Women For Senior, Fresh Baseball Teams

Seniors and freshmen are still needed for the women's class indoor baseball teams, as the number out will scarcely make a full team. Any one who is interested in this sport may sign up for it the second semester in place of their other sport if they have consent of Miss Alice Gall, baseball instructor. This will also be in accordance with W. A. A. Up to date only 2 seniors have signed up on the regular list, 16 juniors, 21 sophomores and 12 freshmen.

Dr. Paul S. Reinsch, former American minister to China, has suffered another serious mental breakdown and is not expected to live more than a week, according to a report received from Shanghai yesterday.

Mr. Reinsch was appointed financial adviser to China last year and passed through Madison early in the summer on his way to the Orient. In the fall he was reported to be suffering with neurasthenia.

He was born in Milwaukee and graduated from the university with the class of 1892. Dr. Reinsch was professor in the political science department from 1899 to 1913. He was minister to China 1913-1919. He is the author of many books and has been a constant contributor to reviews and historical and economic journals. His books have been translated into Japanese, Chinese, Spanish and German.

Speaking of Dr. Reinsch, Prof. A. B. Hall of the political science department said yesterday:

ELEVENTH HOUR

WITH this issue The Cardinal scribes relinquish the typewriters and turn to the text books. Probably the readers of the sheet already have turned to things scholastic and scarcely will glance at this paper.

Largely for this reason and largely because we are in the same boat with the readers, we refrain from launching into an article of inspirational enthusiasm on the value of eleventh hour labor.

We cannot refrain from observing, however, for the encouragement of fellow students and particularly for the benefit of instructors, that the laborers who began work at eleventh hour got their pennies just as promptly and certainly as those who worked all day.

How many instructors will follow the precedent of the parable we do not know; we merely mention it in hope that some are orthodox.

Best of luck!

FOUNDER'S DAY

FOUNDER'S day is February 5. On that date will be celebrated the seventy-fourth anniversary of instruction in the university.

It was back in 1849 that John W. Sterling, a graduate of Princeton, began instruction of the 20 students enrolled the first year in the new state institution.

For 70 years the significance of the date, February 5, went unobserved and uncelebrated by the students.

Then, in 1919, a joint student-faculty committee arranged a monster all-university convocation and reception and planned to make it an annual event.

February 5, 1920, came during the examination period and it was necessary to postpone the celebration until February 20, when it was arranged by the faculty committee on public functions, the student life and interests committee, and the all-university traditions committee.

Then came a lapse of two years. In 1921 the date again fell within the final examination period and last year was the Sunday following the Junior prom. No celebration was held either year.

This year, February 5, is the day on which the second semester begins. All students and faculty members will be back at the universiand would welcome such a convocation.

It is never too late to lay plans. The Cardinal would welcome a third Founder's day celebration, held either the day the university opens or some time later in that week.

“EUROPE, WHITHER BOUND”

WE were particularly pleased to observe that a large audience turned out on Thursday evening to hear Dr. John Haines Holmes, pastor of the New York Community church, speak on “Europe, Whither Bound.” But what pleased us most was the critical attitude the audience took toward the speaker.

The questions of the audience were intelligent and several times forced Dr. Holmes to modify startling generalizations he had made. And remarks made after the lecture indicated that at least some students have cast aside credulity and learned something of critical analysis.

The speaker, who spent last summer in Europe, spoke with an air of authority which might have been justified by a more exhaustive survey. But somehow it is hard to swallow sweeping generalizations on a whole continent from one who has jumped from capital to capital in the slight span of a few months. Especially from a New York pastor who shows his economic background by saying that “the agricultural situation is of no importance.”

We do not deny that there was much of truth in Dr. Holmes' address; but the startling superficiality of the evidence he presented and the sweeping cocksureness of his generalizations could not but make us doubt the validity of his conclusions.

The tribulations of this war-torn world, we cannot but believe, are considerably increased by the superficialities of those who pursue economy as an avocation.

Valid information is scarce these days and we certainly do not feel capable of discussing the subject matter of Dr. Holmes' speech. But we were especially pleased yesterday to receive the following communication from an economics student who spent considerable time last summer studying one of the countries which Dr. Holmes touched.

Editor The Cardinal:

It was my privilege to be in Central Europe a good part of last summer and to observe and study the economic and social conditions of some of the countries there. In the light of my observations there, particularly in Czechoslovakia, where I spent several weeks, the lecture delivered by Dr. John Haines Holmes under the auspices of the Social Science club, was particularly interesting.

In referring to Czechoslovakia and the other new nations of Central Europe as “the vile spawn of the Treaty of Versailles”, it would seem to me that Dr. Holmes not only made a glaringly inaccurate generalization but that he took an undue liberty in making such a statement after so brief and necessarily sketchy a survey as he made in that part of the world. No sane person traveling through Central Europe can fail to take cognizance of the serious condition of affairs that exists in many places there, but to indiscriminately call all the nations in that region, “brigand nations,” is stretching things a bit too far.

Austria is indeed in a pitiable state, but some of the other nations, especially Czechoslovakia, are far from being on the verge of ruin. This energetic young republic, despite Dr. Holmes' rather slurring remarks to the contrary, is under the administration of a group of men who are statesmen in the broadest sense of the word. President Masaryk and Foreign Minister Benesch have the full support and cooperation of all classes of society and bid fair to build up on the ruins of the old Austrian Empire, a new and vigorous state founded on the finest principles of free and democratic government.

To take issue with the eminent gentleman on another point, I can not agree that the intellectual life of that country is in process of decay, or that the expressions of it visible to the traveller are but its last hectic efforts to maintain itself. The universities of the country are in full swing and have made great strides forward in the last three years. The artistic and musical life of the people of Prague also seems to be continuing unabated.

The currency of the new republic is fast reaching a position of stability which will put it on a par with the best moneys of the world, and the administration of the nation's finances is in the hands of capable business executives.

Czechoslovakia is not preeminently an agricultural country, despite the learned gentleman's assertions to that effect. It comprises all of the richest industrial areas of the old Austrian Empire and has large and important industries in iron, coal, salt, etc. as well as being Europe's leading beet-sugar producer.

If we might venture a suggestion to the Social Science club, which brought Dr. Holmes here, and which has brought many excellent lecturers to the campus, it would be that future speakers be better acquainted with their subjects than was the case when Dr. Holmes addressed a university audience.

Critic Praises “The Dice Of The Gods”

By H. H. P.

“Paddy”—frail fragment of a woman that she was, husk of human soul left by the dry rot of the drug habit, without will, morally gone, yet with a childish whimsy that made poor Florentines love her, a woman of wasted wealth who failed to pay her bills in order that she might give more away—“Paddy,” Mrs. Fiske's latest characterization, brought to Parkway audiences yesterday some appreciation of a tremendous homelessness.

It is a strange play with a theme almost morbid. “The Dice of the Gods.” “Paddy,” old woman, wasted and diseased by morphine, brilliantly cynical, mercenary, seeks to keep in the world of luxury by the marriage of her daughter; the daughter refuses to marry but gives up her love and devotes her life to the care of her mother.

It goes on, the mother growing more and more befrayed, until at last she realizes the happiness she is denying her daughter, takes a heavy dose of drug, and the play sleeps away with her, leaving the impression that suicide is sometimes heroic.

It sounds bare and sorbid, yet by the work of Mrs. Fiske it becomes almost a poem of pessimism, for somehow in these words, almost the last—“God, compassion and understanding”—is a touch that takes away the sting.

THE BROWNS SISTERS
have new act at Orpheum Sunday

From the dreamy clime and sunny shore of California, where many of the stage's notables hail from, come tomorrow to the Orpheum theater the delectable Browne Sisters, Mildred and Dorothy, who were last seen here as features in Bothwell Browne's "Bathing Beauties" production. To have been engaged in a "bathing beauties" act is probably where girls of such infinite charms and physical beauty might belong, but the Browne Sisters have talents with those assets, and such talents should not be idle during the absence from the stage of a novelty act of that kind.

"Why does California produce so much talent for the stage?" the girls were asked recently.

"How could it help it?" they chorused. "There is that something about California that is an incentive to bring out the most dormant of latent talent in anyone. As soon as children are able to walk, they begin to dance in California."

INTERVIEWSFarmer's Week
Is High Point In
Ag. ExtensionAss't Secretary of Agriculture to Give Recognition
Address

By THOMAS R. DANIELS

Perhaps no practice has done more to popularize the work of the university than the annual Farmers' short course held at the College of Agriculture every winter. Farmers' week this year will take place January 29 to February 3.

Coming in mid-winter when the farmer can best afford the time from his other pressing duties, the courses gives the man of the soil opportunity to learn what has been accomplished to improve rural conditions.

Farmers' week this year promises to have a record breaking attendance. Delegates from all over the state have notified Prof. K. L. Hatcher, assistant director of agricultural Extension, that they are entering a greater number of members than ever before.

Pugsley Will Give Address

Hon. C. W. Pugsley, assistant secretary of Agriculture, will give the principal address at the recognition ceremony.

"Merchandising the Farmer's Way Out," has been chosen as the central theme of the Farmer's conference this year. Examples of farmer merchandising enterprises that have succeeded, the choosing of a trade name, and the manufacture of quality products are emphasized at the program.

Although economic problems have been given precedence, the social side of farm life has not been neglected. Entertainments by the students, rural sociology, the farm home, and other social problems will be given attention at the conference.

"Student night" which is held, Monday, January 29, will be devoted to an informal entertainment of the farmer guests of the university by the students. "Early Ohioans and Rhode Island Reds," is the title of the short drama that will be presented to the public during the occasion. Music by the Short Course Orchestra, and special stunts by agricultural students are included in the program.

O'Hara Will Speak

Clergymen from many denominations will gather in Agricultural hall, Tuesday night, January 30, to hear the Reverend Edwin O'Hara's address on the subject, "What the Church Can Do to Help The Business of Farming." Located in a sparsely settled county in the state

Must Be Given to Dean

All women who have changed their rooms between semesters must give their new address to the office of the dean of women according to word given out yesterday.

"Due to the many things coming up during the year which necessitate knowing the correct addresses of every woman enrolled here it will be compulsory that these changes of address be registered in this office," said Dean Nardin.

Dean Nardin has office hours every day from 10 to 12 o'clock and every woman is urged to come in and consult her about any difficulty.

of Oregon, Reverend O'Hara was obliged to minister to the needs of families who often lived miles from the church.

"While it is arranged that women may have the opportunity to participate in the general program, a special program has also been prepared for the women. Demonstrations of dishes made with milk and cheese, salads for vitamins, physical exercises, ever-blooming gardens, child health, home decoration, household architecture, and many other home problems will be given during the course.

Honorary recognition of eminent men is one of the most impressive parts of the program during the Farmer's course. The University of Wisconsin was the originator of the custom of giving honorary recognition to men who are considered leading contributors to better rural life.

Since the institution of the custom, many other leading universities have adopted the custom. Hon. C. W. Pugsley, assistant U. S. Secretary of Agriculture will give the principal address at the recognition ceremony.

Plans Of Prom
Committees Are Nearly CompleteJazz Artists Will Introduce
Chudnow's Prom Fox
Trot

By JOSEPH F. LAWLER

With but two weeks left to complete work on "The Prom For Every Badger," committee chairmen are reporting that their ideals are being approached. Or, as Chairman Gordon B. Wanzer puts it, "Things are coming our way."

The class of 1924 will promenade at the state house on Friday night, February 2. The ticket sale to date indicates that it will be the most successful prom in Wisconsin history, in point of numbers.

For the first time in prom history, five assistant general chairmen have assisted the prom chairman. One woman assistant was appointed this year. The assistants are: Wilber Wittenberg, Oscar Christianson, Carl Vonnegut, Lee Hanson and Josephine Coates.

Promptly at 9:15 o'clock, Edgar Benson's Chicago orchestra will play "On Wisconsin" and Chairman Wanzer with Miss Pauline Ambrose will lead the march. The orchestra will be composed of 11 Victor artists. They will play a concert preceding the march.

Canopy Covers Orchestra

Benson, who is known all over the continent as the booker of the Isham Jones and Paul Biese orchestras, will send his pick orchestra here direct from Camden, N. J., where they will go on January 28 to make 1923 records for the Victor company. The men will return to Chicago on February 1 and will come to Madison on Friday afternoon to play their engagement with the prom goers. The same numbers to be reproduced at Camden will be played at prom. A total of 34 instruments will be played by the men. They will play 18 dance numbers, each of which will be named according to the music used. At 11 o'clock, the orchestra will introduce Dave Chudnow's fox trot, "Why?" It will also be sung by the Varsity Quartet.

The orchestra will be placed on a raised platform in the center of the rotunda and will be covered by a Japanese canopy, the top of which will be garnished with 3,000 yards of tinsel. A flowing blanket of smilax will stream from the outer edge of the platform to the rotunda railing, thus hiding the lower floor from sight. Smilax ferns and palms will decorate the rail above. High-powered colored lights will be hid among the flowers to keep the tinsel canopy sparkling and to illuminate the platform. Five 1000-watt lamps will be used for this purpose.

Plan Big Thunder Scene

The interior will be darkened but eight powerful spotlights placed high in top will keep the floors bathed in shimmering light. Each corridor will be lighted with a different color scheme to make the location of boxes easier.

Preceding the introduction of the fox trot a thunder storm to be created by the orchestra and the electricians will take place. Thunder and lightning will crack throughout the darkened building; two thousand streamers will fall from the dome. A thousand balloons will come pouring down and then the orchestra will play the fox trot for dancing. The thunder will then cease and only powerful spots

Sordid Side Of College Life

TOWN AND GOWN, by Lynn Montross and Lois Seyler Montross, George H. Rorar Company; $2.

Long, sleek, shiny, low-slung speedsters—jazz, stripped, writhing, barbaric dancing in darkened corners—highly painted damsel who would go to any lengths for any kind of a date—petting, petting, petting—kisses, bushels of them, scattered as freely between the sexes as passing glances.

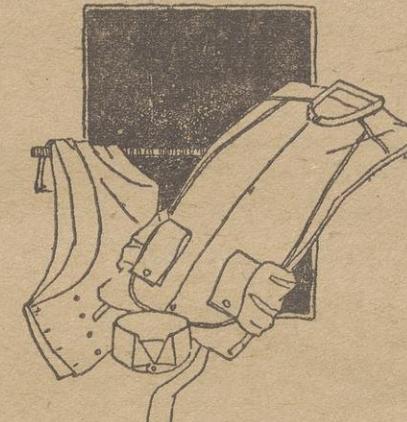

This is called life in a mid-western state university. It is the impression a young man and his wife carried away from the University of Illinois only three years or four years ago when they graduated from that institution. In 13 so-called episodes we lean what we are left to infer the authors believe to be a true picture of university life.

True it may be that 13 such episodes occur yearly in a state university. True it may be that fraternities on the campus will pledge a man solely because of his athletic prowess. True it may be that syncopated dance music may make some deans of women "old and hag-gard and helpless, beaten down."

We have a hunch that even dean of women sometimes appreciate the rhythm of syncopation. So far as we know, there are in the possession of the students here not more than half a dozen low-slung automobiles such as the authors infer abound on the campus of every state university.

Few new facts indeed are brought to light in this volume. It was probably written with the intent to create a huge sensation. But the things it describes in exaggerated fashion have been going on for centuries in a mild sort of way, only the oldsters are afraid to admit it.

It seems rather unfortunate that this book is destined to become so popular. And it is so destined. Although the date of publication has not yet arrived, the one volume that is known to be on the campus has been read in the space of a week by no less than a score of students and oldsters. For our part we find more delight in Fitzgerald's "This Side of Paradise" than reading "Town and Gown".

Pennsy Students Call Be at Strand Soon

Thirty-two students attended the first of a series of Pennsylvania dinners which was held Friday evening at the Woman's building.

Howard G. Niesley, grad, acted as chairman of the business session and under his leadership an organization was formed with the name of Pennsylvania Pilgrims. D. R. Pheasant, grad, acted as toastmaster and kept things lively during the evening. Professor Paxson and Miss Wallerstein responded to toasts.

Elizabeth Kirk, grad, Helen Witter, grad, Grant Bossard '23, Howard G. Niesley, grad, and D. R. Pheasant, grad, were appointed a temporary committee to arrange for the next dinner at which time permanent officers will be elected. Some member of the faculty from Pennsylvania will speak at the next meeting which probably will be held after the beginning of next semester. A dance will be given after the dinner, at a later meeting. Sixty students are registered in the university from Pennsylvania.

FEW CHANGES IN ORCHESTRA

Minneapolis Musicians Are Led By Henri Verbrugghen of Australia

The personnel of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra which will give two concerts at the university gymnasium, on February 6, will show but few changes from last year's collection of artists. Henri Verbrugghen, who will serve as guest director of the orchestra for the first nine weeks of the 1922-23 season, is the best known of the new members.

Students can secure tickets for the evening appearance from L. J. Picards, 429 Park street, for $1.50 with their fee card. The regular price is $2.00. The afternoon concert is for children, but if any tickets are left over they will be sold to adults for $1.00.

The orchestra is now back to pre-war size. Many of the members are veterans of the World war, in which several of them served under the colors of the United States.

Henri Verbrugghen, head of the government-owned state conservatory of music at Sidney, New South Wales, is in America on a year's leave of absence granted by his government. In Australia he was the organizer of the State conservatory and leader of several orchestras which toured the island continent.

The imagination and impressionistic picture of Mr. Verbrugghen with his thorough musical education in Europe lend much authority to his interpretation. He is filled with an understanding of the composer's desires and holds absolute control over his musicians.

In Alfred Megerlin, who was for five years concert-master of the New York Philharmonic orchestra, Mr. Verbrugghen has a very competent concertmaster. Mr. Megerlin is a native of Belgium where he studied in the Brussels conservatory.

During the war his Belgian home was destroyed and he came to America to work. Last year he toured the country with the New York Symphony orchestra.

Paul Lemay, an American, born of French parentage, is the principal of the violas. He enlisted at the age of sixteen in the Canadian army and served throughout the war. After the war he was an air pilot in the Paris-London air service for a short time.

Orpheum Promises Bill of Mid-Winter Festival

A gala week of vaudeville is in store for Madison theater-goers who witness the Mid-Winter Vaudeville Festival bills at the Orpheum theater this week. Every possible effort has been made to bring to Madison two of the best six act vaudeville programs that could be selected from this popular form of entertainment.

The theater will resound to the impressive strains of a capably directed band known as the Nine Military Hussars. These talented musicians led by Mr. E. D. Strout, the famous bandsman, promise a program of jazz and syncopation. Recently he was director of the Mexican Federal Band, stationed during the Diaz regime at Mexico City.

Many vaudeville fans of Madison will recall the appearance of the famous Browne Sisters, who appeared at the Orpheum a season ago surrounded by a large revue.

These pretty and clever sisters are now making their own name in vaudeville with their delightful accordion playing, at which they excel every one in the field.

Jack Norton and players are to be seen in a musical skit; a healthy comedy Hugh Herbert calls "Re-cuperation." For the multitudes who are a bit on edge because one or more of the various modern perplexities, Jack Norton's method of recuperation will be found a pleasing way to banish a few of the jolts which play hide and seek throughout a business day.

As two hod carriers, Green and Burnett will stir the risibilities of the audiences. Both are among the best natural black face comedians in existence. They promise a jazz finish in which they produce nearly as much syncopation as a full-sized band.

Room for rent in private family to one or two girls. Address 136 Lathrop St. Phone F. 3333.

LIBE SCHOOL FIELD WORK STARTS SOON

Women in the library school go out on their field work throughout the state at the beginning of the second semester. Their exams here will be given from next Monday to the end of the week.

New courses which will be given after they resume their work here will be library extension, library administration, bibliography, library printing, public documents and library buildings. Courses which will be continued are reference work, book selection, children's work and library economy.

They will continue their field practice for eight weeks, and will not return to work here until after the spring recess. During this time the faculty members travel around the state and supervise the work.

TO ELECT Y. M. C. A. OFFICERS IN APRIL

The annual meeting for the election of officers of the Y. M. C. A. will be held early in April. At this time, the Kenneth Sterling Day honor trophy, which is being established by the Day family of Cleveland, will be awarded.

The Day trophy will be an annual award to the best all-around man in the university.

Immediately after the spring recess, "A Trip Around the World" is being planned, which will give the university students an opportunity to familiarize themselves with foreign countries. This feature will be held under the direction of students on the campus coming from 19 different countries.

The Y. M. C. A. is planning to continue its custom begun last year of having a week-end camp at Lake Kegonsa in May.

At the close of the second semester, the Y. M. C. A. will send delegates to the Lake Geneva conference. This will be attended by students from all colleges of the Middle West.

J. A. Browning, leads the Missouri Valley teams in basketball scoring with 30 field goals and 27 free throws. A. T. Ackerman, Kansas is next with 18 field goals and 32 free throws, and W. G. Bowman, Kansas, is third with 14 field goals and 18 free throws.

Capt. Dye of Purdue obtained a decision over Capt. Trenkle of Illinois. The Illinois man went the limit, despite a painful injury to his arm. Turner gained the only fall for the Hoosiers when he pinned Murray in the bantamweight bout.

University of Illinois baseball players will be represented in the major leagues this spring. Harry McCurdy, captain elect, Paul Stewart, Clifford Jackson, and Don Peden, will report to the St. Louis Nationals, Dick Reichles to Boston Americans, Tom McCann to Detroit Americans, and Otto H. Vogel to Chicago Cubs.

Concerning Certain All-Important Trifles Of An Admired Prom Costume

Gowns Draped to Order

Would you like your Prom gown draped especially for you by designer of genius? Our displayman, Mr. Marx, who draped the gowns now appearing in our windows, is taking orders daily to drape individual gowns to order. Call Mr. Marx, at Manchester's, B. 5000.

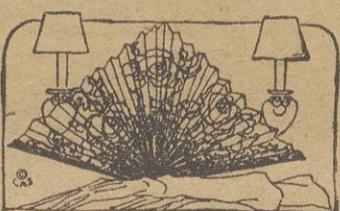

As for Jewelry

Consider your comb and necklace with special thought. You would do well to choose a hand carved comb gracefully flared and set with stones to harmonize with your costume. Or it may be perfectly plain. Life-wear pearls of truly glorious luster and finished with a double safety clasp of white gold. With a limitless time guarantee, 17 inches long, $17.90.

Classic Bandeaux

A wealth of charm is entwined in the glowing meshes of radiant bandeaux of gold or silver. Some take the form of a branch of golden grapes, while others choose flowers glorius in changeable metal and soft colors, $1 to $4.

A Fluttering Fan

Wins admiration for its fair owner because of the grace its soft plumes bestow. Whether you choose to carry a widely sweeping fan, or a single plume or two on an amber stem, you are quite sure of finding what you wish, moderately priced. In evening colors, $5.50 to $20.

Long Gloves

Become a prime necessity to the well-planned costume. In long white kid, 20 button, $8 to $8.50.

Hose—Evening Tints

Whatever the tint or shade of your formal gown, here are hose to match, especially made up for Prom. In flesh, pink, nile green, light blue, silver, orchid, gold, white, brown, or black silk, $3.50.

Lace clocked hose are very dainty for formal wear, in black, white, or cordovan brown, $3.50, $3.75 and $4.

For Grace

On the dancing floor, choose a flexible, topless wrap-around at $3.50 or $5.

If you'd like something new and altogether darling in a step-in teddy, you'll wear a new flesh pink glove and novelty silk, banded with a delicious shade of orchid glove silk, and laced at the side with orchid ribbon, $7.50.
