CARDINAL BALLOT QUESTION OF U. S. NICARAGUA POLICY

Pacifism Versus Militarism, Not Opinion Wanted in Polling, Says Nelson

That the ballot taken by the Daily Cardinal on the recent state department move in Central America has not achieved the results intended is the attitude taken by James M. Nelson '27, managing editor, in an editorial which is printed this morning on the editorial page.

Want Policy Opinions

"Students have misinterpreted the original intent of this paper in conducting the poll," Nelson said yesterday, "as evidenced by the ballots received in the past few days stressing the war element. The Daily Cardinal is desirous of getting student opinion on the activities in Central America and is not conducting a poll of pacifism versus militarism," he concluded.

Continue Balloting

The ballots recorded yesterday put the figure at 282 voting "yes" and 53 voting "no." So many of the ballots indicated that the voter was disapproving or approving war that the editors decided that the poll was not in accord with the original intent of the Daily Cardinal.

Ballots will be received today which are expected to be in answer to the question of state department activities rather than of belligerency.

INSTRUCT WOMEN IN SKATING AT RANDALL

The Madison Skating club has arranged to have one of its members at the women's ring at Camp Randall every afternoon at 5 o'clock during the two week exam period and anyone wishing instruction in plain or figure skating may receive expert coaching.

SUMMER SESSION OPENS JUNE 27

Plan to Start Special Nine-week
Graduate School
Session

This year's summer session of the University of Wisconsin will open on June 27, 1927. The general session will last six weeks, closing Aug. 5, while the special nine-week course in the Graduate school closes Aug. 29. The Law school summer course is scheduled to last ten weeks, beginning June 20, and ending Aug. 26.

Lectures and recitations will begin on the first day of the session, that is, on June 27. This means that summer school students will have to register on Saturday, June 25. The faculty during the session will include about 250 members of the university faculty and approximately 30 staff members from other institutions.

According to the preliminary bulletin, recently issued and being placed in the mails this week, virtually all courses offered are of academic grade and carry credit toward all degrees regularly offered by the university. They are planned to meet the needs of all classes of under-graduates and graduate students.

An innovation this year will be the nine-week session in the graduate school. This is being done this year in order to enable students to make more rapid progress toward their degrees. In this manner, a graduate student will be able to earn one half semester of resident credit a summer, and to complete a year of work in four summers. Courses will be offered in botany, chemistry, economics, English, history, mathematics, philosophy, and psychology, political science, romance languages, speech, and education.

Wanted: Your Blood; $25 a Pint

Wisconsin General Hospital
Needs Transfusion
Specimens

Wanted: Donors for blood transfusions. Liberal fee. Apply Laboratory, 3rd. floor, Wisconsin General hospital.

This advertisement in Friday's Cardinal has already brought 53 responses, but more are needed. Tests taken at this time are to classify the donor's blood under one of four groupings for future need.

"Most of the donors are students," Miss Netherwood of the hospital explained. "Last year we grouped 233 different students. The number of transfusions were over 100. Only men are accepted as donors, mostly due to the smaller veins of women. The fee is $25 a pint.

"Blood structure is classified under four groups. The grouping of the donor and the patient must correspond. In certain cases of serious illness a careful test of those under the patients grouping is necessary. We mix together a specimen of blood from each. If they fail to mingle satisfactorily, we call up another donor. Once we had to make 20 tests before finding a satisfactory specimen of blood to correspond to the patient's."

OUTLINES SENIOR DUES COLLECTION

To Pay Dues in Conjunction With Matriculation Fee,
Says Treasurer

The method by which senior class dues are to be paid was outlined yesterday by Gordon Ruscha, treasurer, for the benefit of those seniors who were unable to attend the meeting of the class Wednesday.

"University officials have consented to aid the senior class in collecting the dues. Everything has been done to facilitate the work of collection and to make the task easy for the senior," Ruscha said.

Cards and prepared self-addressed checks will be handed out to seniors on registration. Engineer and lawyer registration is on now and will continue to Jan. 27. Letters and Science registration will continue through Jan. 27, 28, 29 and 31.

The dues will be paid with the regular matriculation fee. A sign at the business office will instruct seniors where dues are to be paid. A separate window will care for seniors alone.

"Seniors are urged to pay dues as soon as possible," Ruscha said. "Prompt payment will facilitate class bookkeeping and will help university authorities who are aiding in the work."

Prof. Ogg Goes to New York for Executive Convo

Prof. F. A. Ogg of the political science department is leaving Madison Tuesday for New York. He will return the following week.

In New York he will attend a meeting of the American Council of Learned Societies and also a meeting of the executive committee of that body. He will submit a report on the survey of research in humanistic and social sciences, of which he has been director since last February. The report will summarize a book to be published next summer, embodying the report in full.

While in New York Prof. Ogg will also attend a conference relating to a proposed survey of the advancement of political science and future development of governmental studies in this country. This conference is the outcome of a plan which Prof. Ogg submitted to the Political Science association at the New York meeting in December, 1926.

BOXES FOR PROM MAY BE ORDERED, FIX CAB SERVICE

Check for Boxes Must be Enclosed for All Reservations Made

With the assurance that the 1928 Junior Prom will be held in the capitol, committees in charge of boxes, transportation, and ticket sales have begun to make arrangements to care for those that will dance at Prom Feb. 4.

Edwin Crofoot, chairman of the committee on boxes, announced yesterday that each fraternity or independent group planning to attend the annual function should get in its applications for boxes immediately, as boxes will be granted in order of reception of applications. The best departmental offices will go to those who are first to notify the committee of their desires.

Send Applications Immediately

All applications should be sent to Crofoot at 124 Langdon street, and should list the fraternities attending with the party and the size of the group. Fifteen dollars should be enclosed.

Other members of the committee in charge of boxes are Donald Cameron, assistant, Paul Campbell, Edward Powers, Elizabeth Davidson, Katherine Kuehne, Elizabeth Davidson, and A. J. Anderson.

Make Cab Plans

In accordance with arrangements made between the transportation committee and the Checker and Yellow Cab companies, Walter Wilke, chairman, announced yesterday that both concerns will handle Prom traffic. Since both companies will have more cabs in service this year than ever before, speedy service is assured, according to Wilke.

The Yellow Cabs will be placed in charge of the capitol's Washington ave. entrance. Tickets covering all Prom functions may be purchased at the following rates:

Special Rates

Seven trips on three nights, $4; five trips on two nights, $3; three trips on Prom night, $2; and two trips on Prom night, $1.50.

The Checker company, which will be at the Monona avenue entrance, will operate by the meter system, except on Prom night, when $1 per couple will be charged for each ride.

Solicitors will sell tickets at fraternity houses. They may also be (Continued on page eight)

ACTION PROMISED AT INTERNATIONAL

Eighth Annual Pavilion Show
Feb. 2 Has Vaudeville
Contests, Music

That the evening performance of the eighth annual Wisconsin Little International, to be held in the stock pavilion February 2, would be remembered for the unusual variety and action in the various numbers, was predicted yesterday by Nander M. Nelson, night show chairman.

Vaudeville acts and stunts will be alternated with the main numbers on the program, Nelson said.

The "Parade of the Ages," one of the features on the program, will depict the changing modes of transportation from the time that conveyances were first used. The knight on horseback, the stagecoach, and the more recent days of the horse and carriage will be included in this parade.

Other features on the program are the inter-sorority riding contest, the exhibition of the $100,000 six-horse team, the $50,000 livestock parade, and the Madison Hunt club drill team. Music will be furnished by the Madison Central high school band.

According to Frank Brant '27, chairman of finance, tickets will go on sale at the Park hotel today. They are selling at 50 cents and 75 cents.

Manitoba Crushes Badgers On Ice, 7-0; Meanwell Five Plays Northwestern Tonight

Badgers Aim at Fourth Successive Victory in Big Ten Race

TONIGHT'S LINEUP

Wisconsin	Northwestern
Behr	Gleichman
Andrews	Rusch
Kowalczyk	Fisher
Merkel	Levison
Barnum	Johnson

Northwestern, yet to win a conference basketball game this season, will be on hand tonight to meet the Badgers in their fifth Big Ten tilt this season. If the Badgers can annex another victory to their record, they will be assured of a second place in the conference standing as the loser of the Michigan-Indiana game will drop from a tied first to third.

Won Last Week

The 10-point margin collected by the Badgers in their game with the Wildcats at Evanston a week ago makes them the decided favorites to annex the game tonight. Wisconsin swept the Purple from their feet in the opening minutes of play when they met the first time, but it is doubtful if such tactics will be adopted tonight as it is pretty hard to pull the same trick twice.

Local fans are anxious to see the giant center, Kowalczyk, pitted against the star Purple pivot man, Fisher. Kowalczyk has just hit his stride and in the earlier game far excelled his rival in all departments of the game. It will be interesting to see if the Badger center will duplicate that feat tonight.

Star Regulars

Northwestern will probably start with the regular Purple lineup including such stars as Rusch and Johnson who have worked against the Badgers in this gymnasium several times before. Gleichman is a new man on the squad and was a former teammate of Andrews and Behr when the trio were members of the Rockford high school five.

Pre-Prom Play Rehearsals Held Daily; Cast Picked

With but a short time in which to round the pre-prom play into shape for presentation at the Garrick theatre Feb. 3, W. C. Troutman, coach of the production, is conducting daily rehearsals.

An interesting sidelight on the play this year is that the feminine lead in "Captain Applejack" is taken by the Prom Queen, Helen Hughes.

A band of pirates that appears in one of the acts makes the cast of this year's comedy larger than that of the play presented at the Parkway last year.

Sets for the production are under construction by the professional scenery man who handles similar work for the Garrick troupe.

Application blanks for tickets to the play have been issued to all groups on the campus and should be sent to the box office to reserve seats for either the matinee or evening performance.

STRING QUARTET GIVES CONCERT HERE FEB. 10

The London String Quartet which appeared in Madison last year under the auspices of the School of Music, comes to Music hall again Feb. 10.

The Quartet, which is making its fourth tour of the United States and Canada, is a relatively old organization, having appeared on the concert stages since 1908.

The quartet has given more than 150 concerts in Sweden and has toured Norway, Sweden, and other leading European countries. The organization, having appeared on Australia. In 1918-1919 the quartet took a jaunt through South America.

More Than 2,500 Spectators See
Northern Hockey Six
Crush Wisconsin

By STAN KALISH
(Sports Editor)

Nine flying Canadians swooped down from Winnipeg, Canada, and gave the Wisconsin hockey team a snappy lesson in the great Dominion game to the tune of 7 to 0 last night on the university rink.

More than 2,500 Wisconsin hockey fans braved the chill winds which swept the rink to see the first international hockey game ever held in Madison, and from comments were well pleased with the showing of the Wisconsin team.

Score at Outset

From the outset it was apparent as to who would win, the game being only a minute old when Blair, the giant Manitoba center, put one in the goal net. Four more goals were added the first period, midst a Cardinal panic of stage fright.

However, the 5 to 0 score starting them in the face, and a sound lecture by "Rube" Brandow, Wisconsin coach, seemed to be more invigorating than a hot chocolate which the writer gulped down at the between period time and brought the Wisconsin six out of their lethargy.

27 WOMEN SELECTED FOR SECOND GLEE CLUB

Twenty-seven women were chosen for the women's second glee club at the first tryout today. The names will not be published until the complete list has been decided. The next tryout will be given at 3 o'clock Wednesday, Feb. 9, in Music hall.

REPORT DEPLORES TAX INEQUALITY

Farmer Suffers Unjust Tax
Apportionment, Says Prof.
MacGregor and Allin

Prof. Fort H. MacGregor and B. W. Allin, agricultural economists, have prepared a report to be printed in the official bulletin of the College of Agriculture. To determine the comparative tax burden of farmers and others an extensive study was made of tax and income returns of every person in Dane county, which was taken as a representative and leading agricultural county of the state.

The report states that Dane county farmers pay three times as much in taxes, in proportion to what they earn, as do city men and villagers. The report was the result of the controversy over the taxation "catchment" of Prof. MacGregor, who declared that the farmers' burden is increasing and that his income is decreasing. Prof. MacGregor says "the general property tax system reacts unfairly against the farmer. This system fails to follow the principle, 'ability to pay,' as a basis for taxation."

The comprehensive records covered in the study include two pre-war years, two years of the war, and 1923-1924, a period representative of conditions today. The statement, averaging incomes of bankers, lawyers, physicians, farmers and others, was issued, but is withheld from the press. The study includes real estate taxes, personal property taxes, and federal income taxes.

The statement closes, "Heavy burden of farmer is blamed on failure of farm income to increase in proportion to taxes, and on the general property system of taxation, which, it is declared, is unfair to the farmer because it sets property values without any reference to the income received from such property."

ST. OLAF SINGERS PRESENT CONCERT

Choir Sings to Large Audience; Uses Only Sacred Music

The history of the St. Olaf Lutheran Choir, which will be heard in concert tonight at Christ Church, disposed, once and for all, the often-repeated idea that a certain amount of so-called popular appeal must be made in order to attract audiences.

Certainly this organization, hailing from a Minnesota denominational college, has not wanted for audiences. Large auditoriums the country over have been packed again and again by a public eager to hear what these young choristers, under the leadership of Dr. F. Melius Christiansen, can do.

But not one program ever has contained a number which might be called a compromise with popular taste. Not one of its items is permitted the slightest descent from their standard of dignity.

Only sacred music is sung, and the great composers of church music through five centuries have been called upon for subject matter, each one being interpreted with deep reverence as well as high technical skill.

The young men and women from St. Olaf College sing the most difficult works written for choral performance; sing them without accompaniment, without scores, and without an aid to the assumption and maintenance of pitch. And

PROM INDEPENDENTS RAISE NUMBER TO 50

Since its meeting last Tuesday night, several more men have made arrangements to attend the Prom with the second annual independent group, according to Arno Lenz, chairman of the committee in charge. As these independents bring the total to almost the 50 mark, the group will be a very decided success, according to the committee. Anyone wishing to sign up with Lenz who has not yet made arrangements may call him at F. 2300.

Fuller Defends Chicago In Lake Levels Case

WASHINGTON—(F)—In spite of chlorination, filtration and other precautionary measures, the practice of permitting raw sewage to flow into Lake Michigan would scatter pollution, George W. Fuller, consulting engineer of New York, testified at the lake water diversion hearings being conducted for the supreme court by Charles E. Hughes.

Mr. Fuller, who was chairman of an engineering board of review of the Chicago sanitary district, testified for the defense in the case which involved withdrawals of water from the lake at Chicago and the sewage disposal problem. A number of states are opposing Chicago's program. The hearings will be adjourned Saturday until Feb. 23.

Daily Reports of Badger Teams

CARDINAL SPORTS Athletics in the Collegiate World

TRAINING TABLE TIPS

Northwestern Tonight.

The Wrestlers Wrestle.

Boo Michigan.

Well, now that that's over.

On the basis of the showing Northwestern made one week ago, nobody is expecting the Wildcat team which invades the armory tonight to do more than curl up and collapse. Northwestern has already piled up a superb record of four conference defeats and appears to be laying a due course toward the fifth.

The basketball attitude in the Purple lair, however, has shifted considerably during the past week and there is considerable reason to believe that Northwestern will be a fighting, going team tonight. The boys appear to have grown weary of doormatting for everybody and they were beginning to show signs of irritability against Indiana last Monday. True, the Hoosiers won the contest without much to-do, but they had a scrapping good time all the way. Beckner and Krueger both went to the bench for too much personal contact.

Northwestern's great center, Fisher, hasn't been doing the things he ought to this season. Last year, he was rated one of the best in the Big Ten and played spectacular basketball in every game. Of course, guards have been watching Fisher pretty closely and he rarely enjoys much peace when he gets his hands on the ball.

Rusch and Gleichman, Wildcat forwards, are both dangerous but erratic tossers. The latter especially has distinguished himself in the point column several times, and since he is only a sophomore, Northwestern is banking largely on him as a coming star. Even for present purposes, he is sufficiently good.

For the sake of Capt. Ralph Merkle, who is bowing himself out of the athletic picture this evening, the Badgers will probably attempt to make a horrible example of Northwestern. And here's hoping they succeed.

Incidentally, a numerical surplus at the end of the game will mean considerable improvement on the Wisconsin standing and will enhance her even more securely in third place.

Badger wrestlers are engaging in their first home match of the season against Illinois in the Armory this afternoon. Outside of the fact that just about all the veterans have succeeded in crashing the gate at the infirmary, Wisconsin has a promising young wrestling squad. Illinois won the conference championship last year and several years before that, and therefore rules favorite in today's meet. 'Twill not be without a struggle, however.

And neither will it be without a struggle that Indiana and Michigan establish which of them has the better basketball team when they meet at Bloomington tonight. If it were not for the lucky fairy which seems to dog the Wolverines through all their athletic thickets and thins, one might say that Indiana is the favorite. But as it is, one had better keep quiet.

In Wisconsin intramural circles, the recent feat of Phi Beta Delta in defeating both Triangle and Phi Sigma Phi has aroused some comment. Phi Beta Delta was supposed just to furnish the extra game on the schedule, for these teams, one of which won the Greek championship last year and the other of which was runner-up.

BADGER MATMEN WRESTLE ILLINI IN ARMORY TODAY

Coles, Splees Injured, May Not Compete; Invaders Bring Shively and Soga

Illinois, conference wrestling champions, and Wisconsin meet in the first wrestling encounter of the home season this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the armory. The Illini are coming here bent on avenging the surprise defeat handed them last year by the Badgers in the Illini stronghold. On the other hand, Coach Hitchcock and his men are eager to show the Prehnmen that their victory last year was rightly earned by repeating it today.

Whether or not the Cardinals will be able to keep Illinois from a sixth consecutive conference championship depends largely upon the condition of Capt. Bill Splees and Wally Cole. These two men are out with injured arms, and should either one or both of them not wrestle tomorrow, the chances are that Illinois will go unchallenged toward the coveted conference title. At a late hour last night, Coach Hitchcock stated that Capt. Splees might be able to wrestle in the meet tomorrow, while he was uncertain about Cole.

Old Rivals

In the event that Capt. Splees does wrestle, he will be able to settle an argument started at Urbana last year when he wrestled Geis, the Illinois strongman, to a draw after a whirlwind match which went into two overtime periods. This time Splees will be host to the Illinois man, and there is no telling what will happen should they meet again tomorrow.

Another match that will be watched very closely by mat fans and conference coaches is the battle between Tom Fortney, the Cardinal heavyweight and Capt. Bernie Shively of the Illinois team. Shively, who was chosen as guard on nearly every All-American football team this year, is considered one of the best grapplers in the conference. Standing six and a half feet in height and weighing over two hundred pounds, the Illinois captain was a tower of strength on the gridiron, and is a much feared opponent on the mat, as he is well versed in the "gentle" art of wrestling.

Fortney vs. Shively

Although Shively comes here heralded as one of the best, nevertheless, he will have to step some in order to beat Fortney, the Cardinal Behemoth, who last week spilled the dope bucket by defeating Yegge, the Iowa giant, in one of the most thrilling encounters ever seen at Iowa City. Should Fortney wrestle like he wrestled against the Iowa man, Shively will be in for a lively afternoon, as Fortney was unbeatable against Yegge last week.

In the other bouts, the Prehnmen have a decided advantage as letter men will hold down five of the remaining six positions. Vondenbosh, wrestling in the lightweight division is the only non-letter man on the visiting team. Nevertheless, this man is a senior and has been kept off the Illinois team, because of the presence of the much famed Kennedy, who held down that position for the past three years. With two years experience behind him, Vondenbosh will be meeting a newcomer in the personage of A. Smith who won his spurs in the Iowa meet when he defeated his Hawk-eye opponent rather handily.

Soga, Great Wrestler

In the 115 and 125 pound class the Illinois is exceptionally strong. Thacker, runner up in the conference, and Soga, speedy Japanese battler, will hold down the respective berths on the team. Soga, who defeated the present conference champion last year at Illinois, did not compete in the conference tournament at Purdue last March, therefore denying himself the conference championship in his weight. At the present time, however, Soga is considered by all coaches as the best man in Big Ten competition.

Admission to the wrestling meet will be by coupon book. The meet

The Old - and the New

With tonight's basketball game, Ralph Merkle passes the captaincy of Wisconsin's basketball team on to Rollie Barnum, who will hold it for the rest of the semester. Merkle will be ineligible to play with the Wisconsin five after the close of the first semester, and tonight marks his last game in a Cardinal uniform.

BROADCAST

Joseph Steinauer wishes to announce for the benefit of Roundy and other English students that the basketball game between Wisconsin and Northwestern tonight, will be broadcast through the local station, WHA. Between halves, the athletic department will give out a bulletin of all important athletic activities for the coming semester. The games to be played away from home with the date, place, and wave-length of the home broadcasting station will also be given out.

Ohio State Seeks 19th Home Victory From Gopher Five

COLUMBUS, O.—Victor in 18 consecutive Western conference basketball games on its own floor, Ohio State will seek to run its string to 19 here tonight with Minnesota as the intended victim. But in spite of having rounded out the equivalent of three seasons' play here without losing to a Big Ten team, the Buckeyes have several reasons to know that their work is cut out for them.

First, they barely escaped defeat last Saturday at the hands of a driving Illinois quintet that was finally turned back, 29 to 28, in one of the most thrilling games this city has ever seen. Next, the Gophers, who come here tonight, almost defeated Purdue last Saturday on the Indianan's floor, and have shown increasing strength with each game. Finally, they know by experience, it isn't safe to take any Big Ten basketball team lightly.

In the three full campaigns beginning with 1924, and including the 1927 season to date, Ohio State has won 33 and lost but three games at home. It lost the opening Big Ten game here in 1924 to Illinois, one a year later to Princeton and another a year ago to Cornell. In winning 18 consecutive Big Ten games here, the Ohioans have rolled up 570 points to 402 for their opponents. And for all games, non-conference included, they have amassed in that time 1177 points to 792 for the combined opposition.

LIEB NAMED FOR HONOR N. D. ELEVEN

Gains Place on Second All-Star All-Time Team at Irish School

Tom Lieb, varsity football line coach and assistant track coach, who came here from Notre Dame this fall to help Coach Little with the football team, has been singularly honored by being placed on the second all-star all-time Notre Dame football team selected by a group of sport writers from the New York Sun. The announcement was carried by the Chicago Herald and Examiner last Sunday.

When one considers that Lieb never really enjoyed one full season of varsity football, under the Irish colors, being forced from the game early in his senior year because of a broken leg, his selection is really the outstanding one made. Only two tackles in all Notre Dame's gridiron history were given a better rating than the Badger coach, while such outstanding men as "Rip" Miller, Bach, O. Jones, Cotton, Lathrop, and Oberst, who have all enjoyed from 2 to 3 years of competition, were forced to step aside for this versatile and natural tackle.

Incidentally, not one of the Four Horsemen of the famous 1924 team were placed on the first all-time backfield, though all of them did find places on the other three teams. Gipp, Dorais, H. Miller and Salmon was the backfield selected.

WOMEN PRACTICE FOR CLASS BOWLING TEAMS

University women are starting practice for class bowling teams. The hours for practice will be on Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 5 o'clock or Wednesday at 7 o'clock. To obtain W. A. A. credit and to make class teams, those trying out have to attend one practice a week besides regular class periods. Regular practice will begin the first week of next semester. At present there are so many trying out for teams that it is expected that there will be two teams for each class.

Wisconsin Has Best Cage Record Over Period of 21 Years

Harvey T. Woodruff of the Chicago Tribune, recently wrote the following reply to an inquiry asking which Big Ten basketball team had established the best record to date: "We have not a complete record of games won and lost by each team, but, based on percentages, generally recognized as determining the title, or ties for the lead in the percentage standing, Wisconsin has a slightly higher rating than Chicago in the period from the season of 1905-06 to the present.

"Wisconsin has topped the heap four times. So has Chicago, but the Badgers have been in ties in five other of the twenty-one seasons enumerated, while the Maroons have shared in the honors only twice in addition to their titles. Minnesota has won or been in ties five times and so has Purdue. Counting one point for first place, and a half point if two are tied, the standing for twenty-one seasons follows:

"Wisconsin, 6; Chicago, 4 2-3; Minnesota, 3 1-3; Purdue, 2 7-12; Illinois, 1 5-6; Ohio, 3-4; Michigan, 7-12; Indiana, 1-4."

Canadians Make Five Goals in First Period, Watson, Blair Star

and battled the University of Manitoba six on even terms in the second period with a stout defense, while in the final period the Canadians only managed to slip two past Mitchell after the period was more than half over.

It was Mitchell, the plucky Wisconsin goalie, who stood out head and shoulders above any man on the rink, including the best of the brilliant Canadians. That the Manitoba six had the puck most of the game and continually shot at the goal, made his task almost a superhuman one. In the first period he received a bad gash over the left eye, and though he was handicapped by a severe swelling he stopped many a Northern charge. His work was outstanding.

Capt. Lidicker Stars

Captain "Bill" Lidicker, playing the greatest game of his collegiate career, seemed to be the only Badger who showed any ability to penetrate the Manitoba defense. However, he was often forced to the side of the rink to make his shots, which consequently went wild.

"Mike" Murphy, though he didn't get into the game until the second period, performed well. He showed an ability to break up the passing of the Manitoba forward wall, but the fast-skating Canucks were a bit too agile and slipped by the wariest of the Cardinals.

Badgers Hold Canucks

After the first period stage-fright, the Cardinals settled down to a defensive game, and played with six men well in the goal territory and succeeded in breaking up the well-drilled offense.

No man stood out for Manitoba in a bright light. The Canadians were all versed in handling the puck, checking, and shooting, and their smooth combination teamwork made them seem immaculate at that end of the game.

Blair, the center, Turkey, a speedy wing, and Paine, a defense, seemed to be slightly better than their teammates. The latter was rather painfully injured early in the third period when he had his lip cut and several teeth knocked loose in colliding with Mason who was bringing the puck down the rink.

The game was remarkably clean, neither team being penalized.

The University of Manitoba scored a clean sweep on their invasion of the United States without even being scored on. They defeated St. Thomas college, 16 to 0, the University of Minnesota, 2 to 0, and 4 to 0, and Wisconsin, 7 to 0.

The summary:

Wisconsin	Manitoba
Drummond	Blair
Lidicker	Turvey
Jansky	Paine
Moorhead	Van Vliet
Mason	Watson
Mitchell	Putte
Murphy	Pidcock
Silverthorne	Benard
	Hill

Score by periods:

Manitoba 5 0 2-7.

Wisconsin 0 0 0-0

Stops by periods:

Wisconsin 16 13 15-44

Manitoba 4 7 1-12

Scoring:

First period—Blair, 1 minute;

Watson, 4 minutes; Pidcock, 9 minutes; Watson, 9 1-2 minutes.

Second period—none.

Third period—Benard, 13 minutes; Turvey, 15 minutes.

Referee—Corbett, Milwaukee.

Cecil Brodt, cornet-virtuoso, member of the Madison Civic symphony orchestra, will be the soloist of next Sunday's service at Luther Memorial church. He will play "The Rosary" by Nevin with organ accompaniment. The choir under Dr. Prager's direction will perform an excerpt from Haydn's oratorio "The Creation," the brilliant number "Awake the harp."

Intervention

The charge has been laid at the door of the Daily Cardinal that this newspaper is inciting the students to thoughts of war, that we have indulged in sensationalism and even that we have turned Bolshevik overnight.

It is unfortunate that the stand of the Daily Cardinal has been so misinterpreted. We feel that the cause we advocate is worthy of the scrutiny and approval of every student.

In the first place there has been a misinterpretation of the ballot which is being conducted by this paper. Hundreds of students have been under the impression that the Daily Cardinal was asking the question as to whether they did or did not want war. That is of course a mistake. We take it for granted that the intelligent student never wants war, that he expects that that course will only be adopted as a last resort to establish the rights of this nation.

The question that was asked of students was:

Do you think that the state department is justified in assuming a policy of armed intervention in Nicaragua which may lead to war with Mexico?

This question was an attempt to sound out student opinion following a series of editorials in the Daily Cardinal on the subject. Some have objected that this was an unfair treatment of the case. We agree that we had to present the question from an editorial point of view and that is to be regretted. We have hoped, for many years, for a press service which would allow us to inform the students of the happenings in the outside world. In the absence of such service it has been necessary to treat the questions from a controversial point of view.

We ran three editorials prior to the ballot and the vote was merely an afterthought to determine student feeling on the intervention case which is occupying the interest of the eastern section of the country centering around New York and Washington. The East is thoroughly aroused over the apparently blundering tactics of Mr. Kellogg in Nicaragua.

In the Middle West there has been very little apprehension over the movements in Central America. The public has had little conception of the "back-yard" politics being played by the State Department in the internal affairs of our southern neighbors.

The vote as recorded has been one of "war or no war." That answer was not expected. Of course it is felt that the dickering in Nicaragua which have the Mexican situation in mind may bring us into conflict with Mexico. That ultimately seems to be the question. But for the present there is only the thought as to whether Kellogg is justified in taking the imperialistic stand he has in Nicaragua.

We should like very much to determine student opinion on this latter question but realize that tomorrow is the last day of publication and that exams are looming ominously near. If you have an opinion on the policies of the State Department send it in. We shall be very glad if our desk two weeks from now is piled high with approvals or disapprovals.

The following editorial is reprinted from the Daily Cardinal of Jan. 8 in which the facts of the situation at that time were stressed.

Nicaragua

(Editor's Note.—The following editorial is taken from a previous edition of the Daily Cardinal. It is reprinted here to give a summary of the early facts of the situation).

Somehow or other there seems to be a bit of difficulty these days in the region of Nicaragua. Yesterday the press reported that the state department had sent six more warships toward that country making a grand total of 15 battleships and 4,670 men in Central American waters. The game is being played in a very peculiar fashion and it is particularly hard to understand the situation between conflicting state department reports, news items, and editorials in various newspapers.

The United States has argued the right that "authority shall only be given at the consent of the governed" and de facto governments were recognized in accordance with that policy. But suddenly it is not to our best interests that the people of Nicaragua should have that sacred right. Immediately we send battleships and Marines into the region to maintain neutral zones, partly to protect American interests, partly because of our paternalistic attitude toward our southern neighbors, but chiefly to permit Mr. Diaz to maintain his authority. Shortly it is discovered that we were making a mistake in establishing neutral zones because that is the one thing Dr. Sacasa desires—limitation of the battle area. Result—our troops are withdrawn, and we are put in a bad light. After a few days of deliberation it is felt that the best way to insure the continued rule of our friend and benefactor Mr. Diaz is to permit the importation to him of ammunitions, and perhaps to establish an embargo on the importation for any other purposes to that country. The movement yesterday in sending the additional battleships to that region, and the landing of Marines in Managua again, looks very much as though we had decided on this policy.

This is by no means the first time the United States has pursued a similar policy. We have but to remember Haiti, Cuba, and the Obregon incident of 1923 when munitions were sent to maintain the establishment of that government. While the State Department insists that our action is not intervention in the strict sense of the word and that we are merely maintaining rights and properties of our citizens, we cannot look upon action in any other light than direct intervention in internal affairs to secure ends planned by our government.

Prince Maciavelli, in a book, might be able to plan great events for the future and insist upon carrying them out no matter what the cost or injustice done. But the United States is living in the family of nations, she is talking co-operation and limitation of armaments, and she must not play a double-faced role. Europe is not particularly interested at the present in our actions in South America, but we wonder how long our paternalism will remain unquestioned. There are those of us who look to the day "when nations shall have the courage to trust each other" but when our own country insists upon playing "back-yard" politics with the less powerful countries to our south and then finds she must send battleships to back up the latest move on the checkerboard, it may be questioned how remote that time really is.

Have you forgotten to subscribe to the Weekly Cardinal? If you want mother and dad to know what's going on at Wisconsin it will be a dollar and a half well spent.

Shucks, this snow puts the crimp in skating. Just when we were learning to skate well, we'll have to start taking skiing lessons.

We wonder if we will be given a chance to actually try out the schedule which we prepared for next semester.

We wonder how long it will be before someone wonders where all these Glens came from, what with Frank and Thistlethwaite getting headlines all over the country.

Don't keep it to yourself. Let's have it in the Readers-Say-So column.

BACKS CARDINAL POLICY

To the Editor: Never before in the history of the world has any country had a greater opportunity to promote peace and good will on a world scale than the United States has today. However, by its short-sighted and imperialistic foreign policy the administration is not only over-looking this great opportunity and challenge but is instead sewing seeds of war—seeds of hatred and distrust which can hardly fail to bear fruit in due season.

I am a member of the officers' reserve corps of the U. S. army, but if the present attitude of the United States toward Nicaragua and Mexico results in war I shall immediately resign. I certainly do not look upon it as the duty of any American citizen to defend out and out imperialism, dictated by our oil and financial interests and carried into effect by grossly incapable pig-my government officials.

I believe that the stand taken by the Cardinal editorially, is admirable. The results of the straw vote among the students is gratifying, only greater interest should

WHY PRINT WAR?

To the Editor:

You don't give the people who favor the Nicaraguan policy a chance. It may be all right to spread propaganda against the measure in the same column with the ballot but why print war all over the ballot. It looks as if we were voting on whether we want war instead of whether we approve of the state department's policy in Nicaragua which has a very small chance of causing war with Mexico. The policy which we have assumed is the only one that it is possible for us to assume which will be consistent with tradition and former policies. I'll bet that the fellow who wrote the editorial on the front page of Wednesday's issue of the Cardinal has a very small store of information on this subject or he would never have taken this attitude; I am sure he couldn't have read the president's statement of policy to congress.

K. C. B. & BROAD-MINDED BILL.

BALLOT UNFAIR

Editor, The Daily Cardinal:

Dear Sir:

I am returning my ballot on the war question unmarked, for I feel that to mark it any of the ways possible would not be a true indication of my view on the subject. If your intention in conducting this ballot, is to sincerely determine public opinion or to furnish food for thought on current matter, (and I assume that it is one of these) this purpose is to be commended, and I would be as willing as others to aid you in the endeavor. But, assuming the good motives, your methods are extremely unfortunate. First, you do not present the question in a fair manner. Who in this country really wants war? Everyone is agreed that no one does with the exception of a few jingoists, and extremely ardent militarists. Perhaps there would be more who would be willing to support our country if war were thrust upon us. Would it not be far more indicative of student opinion if you were to determine, how many would support our present system of expansion in lower America, or how many are in favor of armed resistance or intervention by the U. S., if is necessary to protect American interests in these countries.

Secondly, if a real forum or expression of student opinion is wanted, why not present to us both sides of the question, instead of a biased and partisan view? Can you expect anything but an overwhelming vote on your side, when you write editorials on one side to accompany the announcement of your ballot, and when your news columns contain editorial views on the subject when they purport to carry an accurate statement of the facts?

Prior to coming to Wisconsin I felt, as I believe most people outside our University feel, that The Daily Cardinal at least in some measure expresses the opinion of the student body. Since coming to the University this delusion has been expelled, but in justice to the University, the student body, and the people of the state who still believe that the Cardinal is the spokesman of the campus, I feel that the purpose of the Cardinal could better be served if the editorial policy is a little more representative and saner.

Very truly yours,
KENNETH E. WORTHING '29.

Ruth St. Denis, America's greatest dancer, who will be seen here in company with her husband, Ted Shawn, on Feb. 9 at the Garrick theater returned home in December after an eighteen month's triumphal tour of the Orient with the Denishawn dancers.

Miss St. Denis has danced before great audiences in Europe and America for many years, and has won her unique position in the world of art largely through her interpretation of Oriental themes.

She has seen the East: its art, people, customs and countries, and is bringing back new impressions, new dance material, new customs and settings, but it is the spirit of the East which still claims her attention and artistry, and it is this which she will continue to translate for us.

Committee To Discuss Purchasing Agent Plan

The ordinance creating the position of city purchasing agent and the question of purchasing a finger print outfit for the police department will be considered at a meeting of the council finance committee Monday night.

A fight is expected on the measure providing for the establishment of a city purchasing department on the question of whether the agent should be elected by the common council or appointed by the mayor. Under the ordinance as now drafted the power of selection is vested with the council.

Attorney Will Ask Arrest Of Marshal

Issuance of a warrant for Paul Puttkoner, De Forest Marshall, will be asked of Judge O. A. Stolen, superior court judge, by William J. Anschuetz, Madison attorney, who is acting in behalf of Gerhardt Farness, DeForest meat market owner, it was learned today.

A warrant for Puttkoner, charging him with using unnecessary force in arresting Farness on Christmas eve, was refused some time ago by Glenn D. Roberts, district attorney, and Mr. Anschuetz is now appealing to the judge. Farness was arrested for drunkenness.

In case the warrant is issued by Judge Stolen, Mr. Anschuetz will ask Gov. Zimmerman to name a special prosecutor for the case, believing that Mr. Roberts should not try the case in view of his refusal to swear out a warrant.

Richards Will Open Lime Lectures Monday

The first of a series of lectures by Griff Richards, associate professor of soils at the University of Wisconsin on the use of lime in growing alfalfa will be given Monday afternoon at Ashton with Rev. Joseph Lederer presiding.

The lecture series is part of a campaign to cut Dane county's $1,000,000 annual feed bill by having farmers grow their own alfalfa. The series was arranged by Milton H. Button, Dane county agricultural agent.

Other lectures will be at Roxbury, Monday evening; Mazomanie, Tuesday afternoon; Mt. Horeb, Wednesday afternoon.

No student is complete without a Remington Portable

THE student who uses a Remington Portable Typewriter will tell you he couldn't get along without it, because it takes the drudgery out of writing up his lectures and preparing his reports and theses. Besides the time it saves, the Portable provides neater work than could possibly be turned out by hand. Profs are human, you know, and they appreciate and reward neat and legible work.

You'll find Remington Portable the handiest, fastest, and simplest to operate of all portables. It is the lightest (8½ pounds, net) and most compact portable (carrying case only 4 inches high) with four-row standard keyboard.

Can be purchased for $10 down and $5 monthly.

OCEAN UNIVERSITY TO BEGIN SEPT. 21

Henry J. Allen Will Head Journalism Course on Floating College

The floating university which is now making its first trip around the world has already completed plans for a second tour beginning Sept. 21, according to a statement issued by Henry J. Allen who is in charge of journalism with this unique university.

"No student body in the history of the world ever had so many odd innovations," declared Mr. Allen in describing the present tour. "When we left New York, the faculty was unacquainted with each other; most of the students had not met. They were in a new and puzzling atmosphere. Yet by the fourth day out they were at work, registration completed, and classes organized."

The college year in this university will last the usual eight months and about 40 per cent of this time will be spent on shore without textbook work or classroom lectures. More than 300 men and 100 women are making the tour.

The trip next fall will take in 27 countries and will return in May, 1928. The plan is to make stops of longer duration in several of the important countries in the Far East, and also in Berlin, Vienna, and Paris.

Drawing Display Features Convo of Engineering Society

A display of architectural drawings and photographs will feature the annual convention of the Engineering Society of Wisconsin, which will be held in Madison Feb. 17, 18, and 19. The drawings and photographs have been selected from the exhibits at the 1925 convention of the American Institute of Architects, and have been the subject of much favorable criticism.

The display is to be set up in the exhibit room of the historical library. The drawings are being loaned to the Madison Art association and the engineering society by the Philadelphia chapter of the American Institute of Architects through the American Federation of Art.

A number of water color perspectives and pencil drawings are also to be included in the display.

Foundation Offers $25,000 in Prizes for Wilson Essay

Two $25,000 prizes will be awarded for the best essays written by men or women from 20 to 35 years of age on "What Woodrow Wilson Means to Me," by the Woodrow Wilson foundation. Articles must not exceed 25,000 words and must be submitted by Oct. 1, 1927.

The article will be judged for the ideas contained rather than for their literary style, but they must be readable and informal so that when the two successful articles are published, they will have a wide, comprehensible appeal.

"To bring Woodrow Wilson's ideals before the young people of America is the sole aim of this contest," declared Francis Bellamy, director of the awards. "Wilson was a unique personality; his ideas were stimulating and arresting. Before he became president, he made a lifetime study of American government. He had the priceless gift of expression. The result is a series of literary and political papers which form part of America's best heritage."

The George Link against whom a lien was filed recently through a local court is not the George Link operating a grocery store at 845 E. Johnson st.

tives and pencil drawings are also to be included in the display.

COLLEGE TRAINING VALUABLE--O'SHEA

Men and Women Can Adjust Themselves on Campus, He Says

"Men and women learn how to adjust themselves better to one another on a university campus than in any other one place," believes Prof. M. V. O'Shea of the education department, who has recently delivered a number of addresses in California and the south.

Although every fault, or what is considered a fault, in young people is ascribed by some persons to the past 25 years, according to the professor, are the principal causes for the changed standards of conduct in youth.

"Ideally boys and girls, men and women, should be trained together, but we must not obliterate distinctions between femininity on the one side and masculinity on the other.

Further Plans for Prom Boxes, Cab Service Announced

obtained from the cab companies themselves.

Cooperating with Wilke on the transportation committee are Walter Fuldner, assistant, Harwood Stowe, Walter Bloxdorf, Edward Oberland, and Roger Anderson.

Although the committee in charge of ticket sales has taken no definite action as yet, according to Henry Dellicker, chairman, it is working out a system and will announce arrangements made in regard to the disposal of the ducats tomorrow.

Above all, we must preserve chivalry and romance while cultivating the free companionship and good-fellowship." Woman naturally, by the strength of her personality, not because of her demand, has won the deference due her, declared Prof. O'Shea.
