The Wisconsin ALUMNUS

Up and Down the Hill

Mendota," has been initiated into the national professional journalism fraternity.

Wrote Roundy:

"Well last nite at the 'U' Roundy got the honors they hung the Sigma-Delta-Chi journalist pin on me. Its on me and I can't get the darn thing off. There is certain way to get it on and off. Get look at it boys as it on now for sure I sat up half the nite trying to get it off so I could wear it on my pajamas. Its honors you would of bet 100-1 on 15 years ago that I wouldn't get."

For the first time since before the war, Sigma Delta Chi revived a full-fledged Gridiron Banquet on March 18 in the Memorial Union. Luther Huston, manager of the New York Times' Washington bureau, blue-penciled capital events for a capacity crowd.

Although a Communist Club at the University has been recognized by the Student Board, it can't actively function as a campus organization because it has no faculty sponsor, University officials have ruled. No professor so far has offered to underwrite the group.

The first graduation of Navy V-12 students at the University at which the men were given their commissions on the spot was held in the Union theater on February 27. Capt. J. E. Hurff, USN, administered the oath of office to 71 ensigns, and Prof. William H. Kiekhofer bade them Godspeed as "emissaries of peace."

A 17-year-old Baraboo boy, Landon Risteen, is a junior in the University. He's the youngest upperclassman on the campus in many years.

The words to "Valiants of Wisconsin," the new U. W. loyalty song composed by Fritz Kreisler, run like this:

For you, Wisconsin, and to your valiant heart,
Let Freedom ring your rhapsody!
For you, Wisconsin, we'll do our part,
Your Light shines out for Liberty.
We are your Valiants, your great heart leads us on Until Life's march is through;
With Heaven's blessing
Our hills and lakes all ring
And echo far the pledge we sing:
Dear Wisconsin, we live to honor you,
Heart of the red, white, and true blue!

As fraternity-man Roundy says:

"I see where Wisconsin has got some new songs now after reading them give me the old ones. "On Wisconsin" and "If You Want to Be a Badger" they are good enough for me until somebody comes along with something better. They ain't coming along with anything to beat these two."

A student politics firecracker snapped and popped on the campus for a few days last month and then fizzled out.

Hot words started flying when an editorial in the Daily Cardinal charged that "a small clique on the Student Board is using the board as a device for promoting its own ideas on national and international issues."

The Student Board promptly assembled in special session, demanded a public apology from the Cardinal. Editor John McNelly refused to withdraw his statement, and reiterated his claim that the board was trying to make itself "the official arbiter of what the University of Wisconsin student body thinks about everything," even though it was elected only to administer campus affairs.

Board members fumed, decided all they could do is place the case before the student body in the coming spring elections.

NO PICTURE the Alumnus could select for its cover is more typical of the state and its University than this shot of Malcolm Nelson, ag freshman from Urbandale, Iowa, with his grand champion Holstein cow, winner of the dairy cattle event at Wisconsin's 27th annual "Little International" live stock show, held February 23-24 in the Stock Pavilion. For the first time in history the show was a sell-out according to Prof. J. G. Fuller, fact sponsor.

A "Little TVA" for Wisconsin

A "little TVA" plan for Wisconsin's waterways, with all earnings going to the support of public education at the University, is being advocated by Harold L. Geisse, '05, Wausau, former secretary of the old State Railroad Commission, now the Public Service Commission.

Mr. Geisse proposes that surplus waters of the Wisconsin River be diverted to Lake Michigan through a Portage canal and the Fox River, providing a cross-state navigable waterway from Prairie du Chien to Green Bay. He estimates that public ownership and operation of the enormous hydro-electric facilities resulting from such a plan would increase the state's power production by at least 300 per cent.

The University of Wisconsin would receive all earnings after taxes, if the Geisse proposal ever becomes state law.

"To attain complete freedom from political influence," says Mr. Geisse, "it is necessary that the activity to which the fruits of the undertaking are assigned be one that in itself is remote from political control, safeguarded by a confirmed public sentiment and protected by an enduring pride.

U. W. Merits Support

"The one activity of the state that answers these requirements is our State University. Its services are so universal in character, and its influences on the cultural, social, and economic welfare of the state so all-pervasive, that it merits a direct, independent source of revenue to insure it a steady and continuous life and progress and a permanence and stability consistent with its position as the great central fact of our community existence.

"It is fitting that the activity proposed be dedicated to the support and maintenance of higher education. It is of the very mores of democracy that such education be provided by the state, freed of any of the trammels of private obligations and devoted to the unbiased promulgation of scientific fact and philosophic truth."

Assets to the State

Broad in scope and implications, Mr. Geisse's "little TVA" would, he believes, provide the following assets to the state:

1. A navigable waterway through the heart of Wisconsin, providing a connecting link between the Great Lakes ports and the Gulf of Mexico.

2. Wisconsin could increase its hydro-electric power production by an estimated 300 per cent, as a result of diverting and controlling the flow of the rivers, and making use of now undeveloped power sites.

3. Floods, which now occur nearly every year on the Wisconsin and Fox Rivers, could be eliminated by a system of reservoirs.

4. Soil conservation would be another important result of disciplining the waters of Wisconsin's principal river systems.

5. Wisconsin industry would be encouraged to expand by the cheaper mass transportation which the waterways would provide and by the low-cost power which the hydro-electric projects would afford.

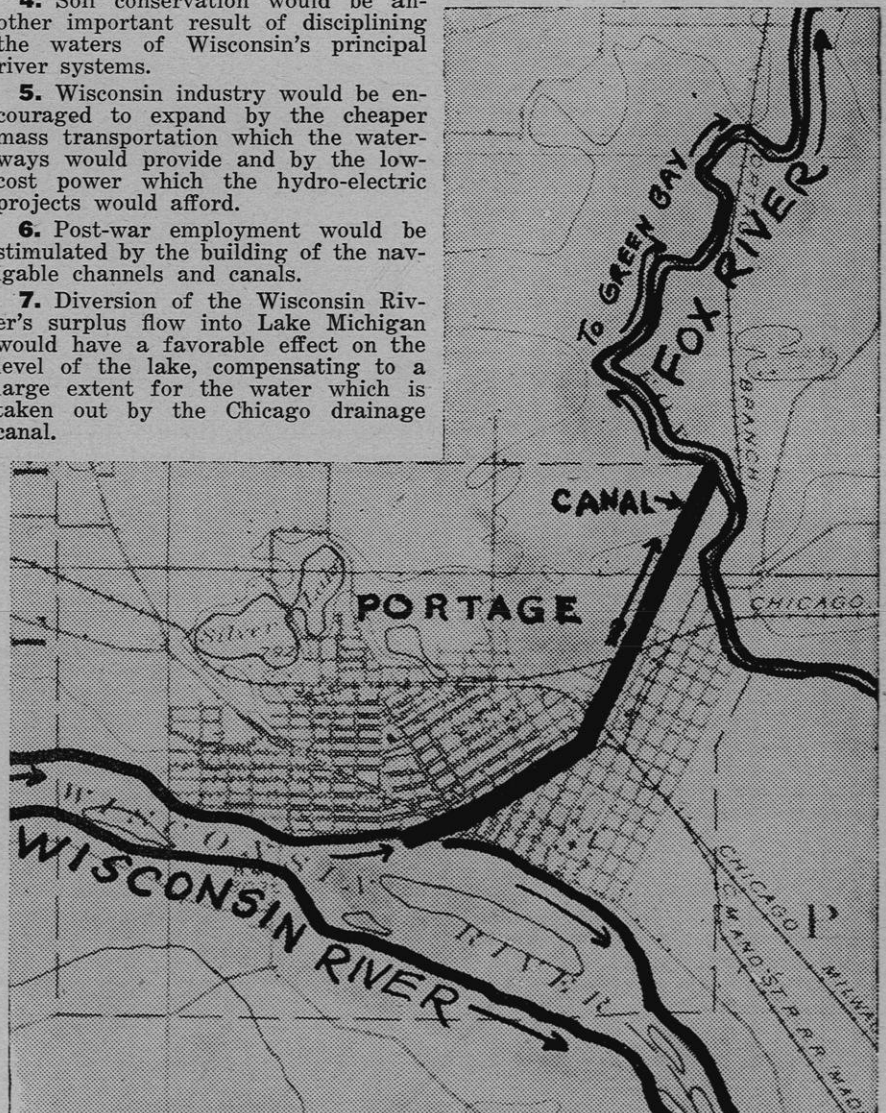

6. Post-war employment would be stimulated by the building of the navigable channels and canals.

7. Diversion of the Wisconsin River's surplus flow into Lake Michigan would have a favorable effect on the level of the lake, compensating to a large extent for the water which is taken out by the Chicago drainage canal.

8. National security and defense would be greatly strengthened by an avenue of water-borne commerce running from the Gulf coast ports into the heart of the country's industrial area.

9. Control of river and lake levels would encourage wildlife and stimulate the development of recreational facilities.

10. The University of Wisconsin would be assured a bountiful and continuing means of support.

THIS MAP ILLUSTRATES the proposal of Harold L. Geisse, '05, Wausau, former secretary of the old State Railroad Commission, to join the Wisconsin and Fox rivers through a canal at Portage. As indicated by the arrows, the Wisconsin flows south to the Mississippi River, while the Fox runs north into Green Bay and Lake Michigan. At Portage, where the two rivers formerly intermingled at flood season, they are only a mile and a half apart.

THE University of Wisconsin's housing cramps haven't been confined to the classroom. They've spread to the Wisconsin Union, the university's recreational center.

"The skyrocket student population is begetting morning to night 'mob scenes' at the Memorial Union, the Wisconsin campus' $2,500,000 living room. At the same time, the Union's growing stature as a town-and-gown cultural and artistic center is shown by sell-out and turn-away stage, recital, and movie events at the Wisconsin Union theater and the Play Circle."

Between 10,000 and 12,000 students, alumni, and faculty are visiting the Union daily. The average number of meals has risen approximately 2,000 per day since the second semester opened, hitting an all-time peak of 8,425 meals a day. About 3,000 students, or about one-fourth of the student body, take their main meals at the Union daily.

The dining rooms, however, are only one aspect of the role the Union is playing in the University's life today. Ex-servicemen living at the University housing project at Truax field, at the Camp Randall trailer colony, at Badger village, and in rooms in suburban homes are making the Union their daytime home. The Memorial Union, built by students and alumni after the last war to honor Badger fighters, finds its facilities a great aid to students freshly back from another war.

To accommodate the crowds, tables and folding chairs have been placed throughout the corridors and lobbies near the Rathskeller. Folding chairs and card tables have been added to the main lounge. The library room, which opened formerly at 3 p.m. opens at 10 a.m., and more chairs have been added there, too. Just to find a place to sit down is a major problem.

All meeting rooms and both theaters are booked solid for group activity and one to three room reservation requests are being turned down almost every day.

With this peak usage, it is expected that this year's attendance record at the Union's organized events will better last year's record. In 1945 a total of 548,596 persons attended the organized events. Of these events, concerts, lectures, and films attracted the greatest number, 263,325, three times as many as the 93,680 using the Union for dances and parties, and twice as many as the 123,550 who used the Union for group meetings and conferences.

Now, the Union is in the midst of plans to extend its services to Truax field and Badger village for the students who can't easily come to the Union for their recreational and social life. Already it is carrying its weekly movie programs, handcraft classes, speakers, symphony records, and books to the veterans.

Highlights of the Memorial Union schedule for April are the Wisconsin Players production, "Of Thee I Sing," in the Union Theater on April 4, 5, and 6; and the 18th annual student art exhibition in the main and theater galleries from April 10 to May 1.

The Union: More Popular Than Ever

There's an International Set on the Campus

DESPITE enrollment restrictions, the University of Wisconsin has 128 students registered who come from outside the continental United States. Turbaned Indians, barefoot coeds from Hawaii, Algerians, royalty from Iran, and a regular delegation from China all lend a cosmopolitan air to the campus.

CHINA HAS the greatest representation with 44, 18 of whom are doing graduate work in agricultural economics. Their training includes one semester of formal classwork followed by a semester of practical work in the field.

So China-conscious is the campus that one entire week last October was set aside by the Memorial Union to promote better understanding of Chinese customs and culture. Centering around Chinese Independence Day, October 10, China Week included an address by Dr. T. Z. Koo, Chinese government adviser to the Chinese delegation at the San Francisco conference, and a Chinese tea hour when students dressed as coolies served refreshments.

One of the 44 Chinese students is Mary Jo "Bottleneck" Soong, trim little relative of China's famous Soong sisters, who earned her nickname as a secretary in the Honolulu naval base through which all Seabee supplies were channeled. She is engaged in cancer research.

A DOZEN STUDENTS from India are now studying at Wisconsin on scholarships. The great majority of them are taking biochemistry, since Wisconsin is regarded as one of the leading institutions in this particular field in the country.

Two bearded, turbaned Sikhs, whose religion forbids smoking, the use of alcohol, and the cutting of hair, are among the group of Indians. They are Kesar Singh and Kartar S. Thind. Both wear long hair, twisted and matted around their heads and tied up in colorful, five-yard-long turbans. Singh permits his ebony-black beard to grow also, braiding and parting it so that it does not fall full-length over his chest.

Razik Shah, a Vaishya, and Saraswathichandra Trivedi, a Brahmin, are defying all the caste laws of their native land by rooming and eating together. Shah frequently wears a dhoti, a garment of light white material. Trivedi is having trouble with American slang.

"You go down the street and meet a friend and you say 'Hi,'" he complains. "In India, when we say the word that sounds like that, it is because we have a pain in our stomach!"

India's national women's badminton champion and top-flight tennis player, 21-year-old Tara Deodhar, is another of the Indians. When she came to the campus from Poona, a city in southwest Bombay province, Miss Deodhar wore the traditional sari, the principal garment of Hindu women, a long piece of cloth worn wrapped around the waist and thrown over the left shoulder.

TWELVE WISCONSIN students come from Hawaii. Very much in the tradition of Camp Randall's legendary Mickey McGuire, '34, is Marney Carter, a freshman from Honolulu. Marney hates shoes and wears them to classes only because professors insist. In her room she's always barefoot.

"In Hawaii young people seldom wear shoes," she says.

SOUTH AMERICA is represented at Madison by Anneke Posthumus, 19-year-old Dutch girl whose home is in Buenos Aires, Argentina. Anneke, a language major, can remember grade-school days in Argentina when she was forced to hold the Nazi salute during long radio speeches broadcast by Hitler.

DAD AND ALI Farm a n f a r m a, brothers who trace their ancestry back to the former imperial Iranian dynasty, are members of Wisconsin's foreign student colony. Born in Teheran, the two came 8000 miles to study at Madison. Dad, the younger, is a student of agricultural engineering, while Ali, former president of the University International Club, is a journalism student.

AMERICAN SATURDAY nights baffle Gilbert El-Kouby from Algiers. "Why does everyone think he must rush out and do something Saturday night?" he demands. "What is this Saturday night?"

Algerians would be shocked if they saw the garb Madison co-eds wear, he says.

"Those flat boots, those Scotch shirts, those pants," he moans. "At the University of Algiers girls dress in pretty dresses and high heels."

THE armed forces are contributing this semester not only to a swelling undergraduate body at the University of Wisconsin but to an expanding faculty as well. Over 40 professors and instructors are back from the war to their desks on the Hill.

ROBERT MOIR, 28-year-old sculptor and artist, is a newcomer to the University art school faculty. Mr. Moir, who received his training at the Chicago Art Institute, was recently mustered out of the army after a service of nearly four years, much of it in the Pacific theater.

Also added to the art school staff is Robert L. Grilley, '42, who for the past three years has been navigating a B-17. He is instructing in drawing.

FIVE OFFICERS who have recently returned from overseas assignments are now members of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps unit on the campus. Two are Wisconsin alumni:

Wisconsin's Faculty

Comes Back From the War

Lt. James C. Larson, '43, and Lt. Derryl D. Malkow, '43. Lt. Larson served in both Europe and China with the Office of Strategic Services. Lt. Malkow has been stationed until recently in Europe with the Corps of Engineers.

The other three officers are Lt. Col. Myrl F. Smith, Capt. Ellis Lea, and Lt. Marvin O. Smith, Jr. A graduate of West Point, Col. Smith served on the staff of Admiral Nimitz in the Pacific. He will act here as executive officer and associate professor of military science and tactics.

Capt. Lea, a graduate of the University of Virginia and a veteran of the 12th Army Group campaigns in Europe, will coach the ROTC rifle teams, including a newly organized co-ed group. Lt. Smith also served in the European theater. He is a graduate of Alabama Polytech.

THE SCHOOL OF JOURNALISM announced the appointment of two assistant professors, Scott M. Cutlip and Burton L. Hotaling, to take effect for the second semester. Both men saw overseas service during the war.

Mr. Cutlip is a former graduate assistant on the staff of the journalism school and has received degrees from Syracuse University and the University of Wisconsin (Ph M. '41). Mr. Hotaling, who received degrees from Rutgers University and the University of Wisconsin (M A '39), held the post of assistant professor of journalism at Tulane University for three years.

TWO UNIVERSITY of Wisconsin professors are back on the campus after what, they agree, have been the most unusual and stimulating experiences of their teaching careers.

They are Prof. William A. Sumner, agricultural journalism, and Prof. William B. Hesseltine, history, who until last month were teaching GIs at the army's Shrinham American University in England.

"It was probably the major educational experiment of the last 25 years," they say. "We have never worked with a student body so eager to learn."

EDUCATORS AND TECHNICAL experts whose knowledge of geography, topography, and cartography was much utilized by American military chiefs of staff in planning operations in two hemispheres are now faculty members of the University's geography department.

Prof. Arthur H. Robinson, 31-year-old former army major in charge of the maps division of the Office of Strategic Services in Washington, is a campus newcomer this semester. His colleagues on the geography faculty include two other former OSS technical experts—Prof. Richard Hartshorne and Prof. Henry S. Sterling—who had wartime leaves of absence from Wisconsin.

DR. EDWARD GORDON has returned to his duties as assistant professor in the department of medicine and research associate in the department of physiological chemistry. He was a lieutenant colonel on the 44th General Hospital Staff on Leyte.

Professors in the News

Prof. Myles DILLON of the comparative literature and Irish literature department has submitted his resignation from the University of Wisconsin faculty, effective June 1. He will join the department of English at the University of Chicago.

Dr. George C. SELLERY, dean of the College of Letters and Science at the University from 1909 to 1942, has been appointed acting director of the Wisconsin State Historical Society, replacing Dr. Edward Alexander, who left last month to become historical director at Colonial Williamsburg, Va. The retired museum curator of the Historical Society, Charles E. Brown, died last month in Madison. He served on the Wisconsin faculty from 1914 to 1944 and received an honorary MA from the University in 1931.

Blanche M. TRILLING, 69, director of the department of physical education for women at the University of Wisconsin, will retire at the end of the academic year. Professor Trilling has been on the faculty for 35 years, was one of the founders of the women's division of the National Amateur Athletic Federation.

Louis B. SLICHTER, internationally known geophysicist, became the first professor of geophysics at the University at the beginning of the current semester. His subject connects the sciences of physics and geology and is expected to play an important post-war role in the exploration of mineral resources.

SLICHTER

Prof. Slichter is the son of Dr. Charles S. Slichter, dean emeritus of the Graduate School. Born in Madison, he received his BA in 1917 from Wisconsin, and his master's and doctor's degrees in 1920 and 1922. He comes now from Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Prof. W. F. TWADELL, chairman of the German department at the University of Wisconsin, plans to resign soon to accept a similar post at Brown University.

A. V. MILLAR, emeritus professor of drawing and descriptive geometry and emeritus assistant dean of the College of Engineering, will teach part-time in the University again this spring because of a shortage of qualified instructors.

Dean F. Ellis JOHNSON has been granted a five-months leave from the University of Wisconsin College of Engineering. During his absence Morton O. Withey, professor of mechanics, is serving as acting dean. The leave, which expires July 1, was granted Dean Johnson with pay by the Board of Regents at a recent meeting on recommendation of President Fred.

Pershing Rifles Again

Pershing Rifles, an organization within the ROTC at the University, will be re-established on the campus this spring following a period of inactivity during the war. Membership in the society will be open to basic cadets and officers in the military science program.

FM for WHA

BROADCASTING activities at the University have returned to as much "normalcy" as can be expected in anything which is developing as rapidly as radio. Staff members on leave with the armed forces have returned, programming is better than ever before, and technical improvements are under way.

Back to WHA from the war are Gerald Bartell, production director, who was with the navy in the Atlantic; Milton Bliss, farm program supervisor who was with the infantry in France and Germany; and Harold Engel, station assistant director, who was with the army education program in Europe. Ray Stanley has returned from duty in the Mediterranean with the Navy to assist with drama production. The return of service-men as students has added many new voices to the student announcing and dramatic staffs.

Classroom Broadcasts

Program features this semester include two University courses broadcast from the classrooms: Prof. Paul Fulcher's course, "The English Novel" (11:00 M-W-F) and "The Freshman Forum" (11:00 T-T). Prof. Robt. Gard, folklore specialist, does "Wisconsin Yarns" each week (2:00 M). Prof. Paul Wiley, is doing "Books of Today" (2:00 Tue). The University physics department staff members are co-operating in producing "The Story of Physics" (2:00 W). "Our Children" is the title of Dr. Robt. West's College of the Air course each Thursday (2:00). Many faculty people are heard on the daily Farm Program (12:30) and the Homemakers Program (10:00).

New Weekly Forum

A weekly radio forum on subjects of current significance is the newest WHA program. Broadcast every Monday at 4:30 from the Union Play Circle, the program features a panel of guest experts as well as participation by the student audience. "Do We Need New Strike Control Legislation?" was the subject of the first forum on March 4.

Students are participating in many radio shows each week. The WHA Players group has brought out much talent which is being developed. These people participate in features such as "Following Congress" (2:00 Thur.) "People and Places" (1:30 M), "Wisconsin Yarns" (2:00 M), "Let's Find Out" (9:30 Tue), "Young Experimenters" (9:30 W), and others.

An all-student broadcast featuring university life is the new "Campus Newsreel" (3:30 Sat) It includes sports activities at Wisconsin, student news by John McNelly, editor of the Daily Cardinal, interviews with prominent student personalities, and music by the University of Wisconsin band. This program is also carried by stations of the Wisconsin network, in addition to WHA.

New FM Network

On the technical side the major activity is in the FM (frequency modulation) field. Plans are under way with a network of FM stations, owned by the state, to blanket Wisconsin. The Federal Communications Commission in February issued construction permits for the first two of these transmitters, one three-kilowatt station to be on the University campus and one ten-kilowatt station to be located in the southeastern part of the state. Radio Hall will be the program center for the network and will provide FM programs with the regular AM programs used by WHA and WLBL. Work on improving the studios acoustically for the more exacting FM requirements and providing transmitter accommodations is now under way. The 1945 Wisconsin Legislature provided funds for beginning the network, which is to be supervised by the Wisconsin State Radio Council.

In the coming summer session the Division of Radio Education will offer a range of courses for teachers, speakers, journalists, writers, and persons interested in the social aspects of broadcasting. A special two-weeks institute will attract leaders in the radio education field to the Wisconsin campus from all over the country.

THE INDIAN-MOTIF lounge of Radio Hall on the University campus is a popular spot for tourists visiting Madison. Visitors may see and hear programs as they go out over the air.

BROADCASTS direct from University classrooms are proving unusually popular with WHA listeners. Here a Wisconsin professor lectures not only to a room of students but to a state-wide audience as well.

COACH ARTHUR "DYN" Mansfield is readying the University of Wisconsin's baseball team for a tight 1946 season that gets under way the first part of next month. Here's the schedule:

- April 5—Illinois Normal at Normal, Ill.
- 6—Bradley at Peoria
- 12, 13—Chicago at Chicago
- 18—Western Michigan at Kalamazoo
- 19, 20—Michigan State at E. Lansing
- 27—Purdue at Lafayette
- May 3, 4—Iowa at Madison
- 10, 11—Minnesota at Minneapolis
- 13—Bradley at Madison
- 17, 18—Ohio State at Madison
- 24, 25—Northwestern at Madison
- 27, 28—Notre Dame at Madison

Designed to Meet the Challenge of the Atomic Age
New Curriculum to Be Set Up

THE University of Wisconsin College of Letters and Science faculty has given its approval to a new type of curriculum designed to help students meet the changes and challenges of life in the "atomic age." The new course, if approved by the whole faculty and the University Regents, will be offered as an alternative to regular BA and BS sequences. The L & S professors approved general outlines of the new curriculum last month, but because it will offer so many changes from present courses it cannot be started until the fall of 1948. Emphasis will be placed on studies in communications, English, and world literature, natural and social sciences,

Badger Boxers in Pre-War Form; Win Their First Three Matches

IT LOOKS like another headline season for the University of Wisconsin's boxing team. As of March 1, the Cardinal fighters had taken their first three matches handily and faced four more opponents in the Field House ring.

The Badgers licked a hitherto undefeated Virginia team, 4½-2½, to open the season on February 9, then beat Penn State and Michigan State by 6-2 each.

Wisconsin's card is topped by little Jack Gibson, Madison, 120-pounder, who was released from service just in time to compete against Penn State and Michigan State. A skillful, tricky fighter, Jackie can be counted on to put the Badgers into the lead every night.

At 127 pounds is Akio Konoshima, a boy from Holland, Mich., with an unusually heavy punch. At 135 pounds, Coaches DeWitt Portal and John Walsh can choose between Les Paul, Madison, Lyle Warzeka, Madison, Len Robuck, and Paul Kotrodimas, Milwaukee.

Floyd Kowal, Janesville, 145-pounder, scored one of the quickest technical knockouts in Camp Randall history against his Michigan State opponent. Don Dickinson, Fond du Lac, and Dave Reiels, Madison, are the two tough fighters who alternate at 155.

At 165 pounds are battling Norm Anderson, Madison, and John Lendensky, and at 175, Stan Kozuszek, Peshigo, who has stopped every opponent so far this season. Wisconsin's heavy-weight is Art Hughlett, Waukesha, the 1946 "fightiest fighter."

personal and social adjustments, and cultures of other nations as well as of the United States.

THE IMPORTANCE of being studious will be impressed upon students at the University as the result of other action taken by the Letters and Science faculty.

The faculty authorized Dean Mark H. Ingraham to appoint a representative committee to find ways to "improve the attitude of students toward the serious side of college life, and in particular, to arouse them to a fuller understanding and appreciation of the values inherent in liberal studies."

Wisconsin's "hard luck boys" bowed to the Golden Gophers of Minnesota, 58-57, on March 4 to wind up the most disastrous basketball season in University history.

The Badgers dropped 11 conference games this year, a lone victory over Michigan saving them from sharing the Big Ten cellar with winless Chicago. Coach Harold E. "Bud" Foster's team fought hard in every match, but lacked the class to stay in the thick of some of the fastest Western Conference competition on record.

Some share of basketball glory did come to the University this season, however, when Ohio State copped the Big Ten title. Coach of the championship five is Harold "Ole" Olsen, a Wisconsin graduate of 1917.

Here's the whole sad basketball story for 1945-46:

Bureau Aids Servicemen

Veterans registering for the second semester at the University of Wisconsin who had trouble because their certificates of eligibility, for benefits under the G. I. Bill, were still pending got quick relief at the office of the Wisconsin Department of Veterans' Affairs on the campus.

The department issued emergency certificates authorizing the University and other agencies to furnish tuition, textbooks, equipment, and supplies.

Alumni Celebrate From Coast to Coast

WISCONSIN alumni all over the country joined together last month in commemorating the 97th birthday of their Alma Mater. At Founders' Day dinners in a score of cities they looked back on the progress which the University has made and ahead to 1949's Centennial.

IVAN H. "CY" Peterman, '22, famed war reporter who has just returned from Germany, was the speaker at Philadelphia on February 9. Cy also walked off with the high man's bridge prize for the night. High woman's score was made by Ruth Basset, daughter of W. B. Bassett, '09. The door prize was won by Arthur Blanchar, '28. It turned out to be a whole pound of Wisconsin butter!

GREEN BAY ALUMNI heard Dr. William Sarles, '26, professor of agricultural bacteriology and assistant to Pres. Edwin B. Fred, discuss recent outstanding scientific research at the University. The banquet was held February 18 with the following directors in charge: Miss Margaret Hill, '26; Miss Patricia Knox, '42; Rudy J. Heins, '22; C. A. Lawton, '28; Philip Desnoyers, '17; John Brogan, '22; George Hollmiller, '24; and Miss Ann Weizenegger, '41.

SOME 20 ALUMNAE living in and around New York City met for a luncheon on 29 January. Plans for a bigger Wisconsin Club were discussed. All Badgers in or near New York are asked to contact Miss Helen R. Ulrich, '20, 393 Seventh Avenue, New York 1 (Lackawanna 4-0780).

AS A PART of its campaign to "de-Minnesotify" northern Wisconsin, the Alumni Club of Superior held a large Founders' Day dinner on January 31. Dr. Frank O. Holt, '07, director of public service at the University, was the principal speaker. Clarence Hartley, '09, also spoke, representing the Duluth alumni who met with the Superior Group. Acting as toastmaster was George Dauplaise, MA '38.

Dean Ekstrom, '26; John Fritschler, '24; and Harvey Sargent, '31, were elected to the Superior board of directors. General chairman of the dinner was Mrs. Thomas Doyle, '36. She was assisted by Miss Jeanne Knudsen, '42; Mrs. James Strong, Mrs. Coad Dow, Mrs. Harvey Sargent, '30; Mrs. Elwood Anderson, '40; Mrs. Brandon Crawford, '38; Dean Ekstrom, and Mrs. William Stewart, '35. Presiding was Laurie Carlson, '37, president of the club.

CALIFORNIANS celebrated the University's birthday on February 9 in Los Angeles. Dr. Conway Snyder, a atomic bomb expert of the California Institute of Technology, and ex-Milwaukeean Dennis Morgan were on the program. In charge was Edward Schildhauer, '97, president of the Southern California A. A. U. W.

GORDON R. CONNOR, '29, Wakefield, was elected president of the Gogebic Range Wisconsin Alumni Club at its Founder's Day banquet in Ironwood, Mich., on February 2. He succeeds Mrs. William G. Cloon, '15, who organized the group in 1944.

Other officers elected include Alvin Haglund, '33, Hurley, as vice president to succeed Gordon Connor; Mrs. Robert P. Bremner, '36, Ironwood, reelected secretary; and Miss Margaret Olson, '38, Ironwood, treasurer, to succeed Miss Rose Castagna, '37, Hurley. Three alumni were named to the board of directors for a three-year term. They were W. A. Knoll, '14, Ironwood; George Sullivan, '38, Hurley; and Miss Olson.

"The record of the University of Wisconsin is such that no one should be ashamed of it, and the school is now facing a most glorious future of achievements," declared University Director of Public Service Holt, speaker of the evening.

THE DETROIT ALUMNI club this year has inaugurated a program of monthly luncheons, held on the second Saturday of each month. For its Founders' Day meeting on February 9, John Berge, '22, executive secretary of the Wisconsin Alumni Association, was the guest speaker. In charge of the luncheon were George Lovequest, '17, club president; C. E. Broders, '14; Marshall Sergeant, '18; Orra Siegman, '24; and D. H. Corey, '25, secretary-treasurer.

MADISON ALUMNI HEARD the speakers above at their Founders' Day dinner in the Memorial Union last month. They are (left to right) Guy Sundt, '22, assistant football coach and vice-president of the Wisconsin Alumni Association; Pres. E. B. Fred of the University; Frank O. Holt, '07, director of the University department of public service; and John Berge, '22, executive secretary of the Alumni Association.

Detroit's board of directors is now made up of Roy S. Johnson, '27; Herbert Mandel, '17; R. T. Johnstone, '24; Wallace M. Jensen, '29; Louis L. Bambas, '32; and Mr. Lovequest.

TWO CELEBRATIONS occurred in Chicago. The Wisconsin Alumnae Club observed Founders' Day on February 5 with a dinner at which Prof. Helen White of the University English department was the speaker. On February 27 the Alumni Club heard Prof. Philo Buck, chairman of the department of literature at Wisconsin, talk on India.

DR. E. L. SEVRINGHAUS, until recently professor of medicine at Wisconsin, appeared as guest of honor at the Alumni Club dinner in Akron, Ohio, on March 6.

DR. W. B. HESSELTINE, professor of history at the University, spoke to Wisconsin alumni February 6 at a dinner meeting in Beloit.

IN KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Wisconsin alumni met on February 8 to hear Dr. Loyal Durand, Jr., '24, department of geology and geography, University of Tennessee. Movies of the 1945 Wisconsin-Minnesota football game were also shown.

WISCONSIN ALUMNI in the Kansas City, Mo., area got together February 7. Dr. H. Roswell Wahl, '10, dean of the University of Kansas medical school, spoke.

“... promoting by organized effort the best interests of the University...”

“What Can I Do to Help?”

KEMPER K. KNAPP, '79, asked that question several years ago on one of his frequent visits to the campus. Last year he answered his own question by bequeathing two and a half million dollars to the University of Wisconsin.

As the University gets ready to celebrate its Centennial, many alumni are asking the same question that Mr. Knapp raised: “What can I do to help?” They want to do their bit in making this hundredth anniversary a red-letter event for the University. So, if you are wondering what you can do to help your Alma Mater, here are six jobs that need alumni action.

1 Cooperate with the Board of Regents in getting the funds necessary to complete the University's building program.

Last year the Board of Regents asked the Legislature for $12,000,000 for replacing obsolete buildings on the campus and for repairs that were long overdue. This request was made only after a very careful analysis of the University's building needs. Recognizing this need, the 1945 Legislature appropriated $8,000,000 for new construction; two-thirds of the amount requested by the Board of Regents. This appropriation will go a long way in replacing some of the obsolete structures now on our campus. It is not enough, however, to do the job that needs to be done if Wisconsin is to retain its leadership as a great University.

2 Help the Wisconsin Alumni Association to expand its program of activities for promoting the best interests of the University.

Association membership is the highest in its history, but it isn't big enough to do the job that needs to be done. New members are needed—now!

Your membership chairman, Joseph A. Cutler, has shown how this job can be done. In the last few weeks he has signed up 24 new members in his home city, Milwaukee. What Mr. Cutler did in Milwaukee can be done in Eau Claire, Green Bay, Kenosha, Chicago, New York and every other city where Badgers are living. Furthermore, it's easier to sign up a new member than you think it is. Ten chances to one you know several Badgers in your community who are not Association members, but who should be. Frequently, a word from you is all that is needed to change this non-member to a full-fledged Association member. Won't you try it?

3 Develop stronger alumni clubs.

Alumni clubs offer splendid opportunities to help your University. If your community is large enough for a club, but does not have one, here is your first job: get a group of your fellow alumni together and organize a club. Association headquarters will supply you with a list of alumni in your area, a model constitution, and complete instructions for organizing your club. If you have a Wisconsin alumni club in your city, are you helping it to do a good job for your University and your fellow Badgers? If your club isn't doing a good job, what's wrong? Are too many alumni in your area letting “George do it”?

4 Develop stronger class organizations.

Many of our classes, unfortunately, left the campus poorly organized. In some cases death has removed capable class leaders and presidents. What is the situation in your class? If you have a strong class organization, see that it stays strong. If your class organization needs to be strengthened, do your bit to see that capable leaders are selected for your various class officers. Also, make sure that your class officers have money enough to work with. It costs money to carry on class activities and maintain class contacts.

5 Support the University of Wisconsin Foundation.

The Foundation is an important feature in the University' Centennial. It offers alumni and friends of the University an opportunity to commemorate this event with suitable bequests and memorials. Sizable bequests will also help the University to start its second century of service with the equipment and facilities necessary to take care of post-war educational needs. These funds will not supplant the regular appropriations made by the legislature. Instead, these gifts and bequests will supplement state funds so that the special projects thus financed will increase the scope and value of the University's service. Just a year old this month, the Foundation has already demonstrated its importance as an agency for promoting the best interests of the University of Wisconsin. It deserves the active support of all loyal Badgers.

6 Continue sending Association publications, free, to the thousands of Wisconsin alumni still in the armed forces.

I'm putting this job last on my list for the purpose of emphasis. I know, from first-hand experience, what mail means to these Fighting Badgers. For the last five years a constant stream of letters of gratitude from these Badgers has come to my desk. One theme runs through all these letters: Thanks for your mail and keep it coming. As Lt. Julius J. Werner put it, “News from home is that shot of 'adrenalin' that we need out here.”

The shooting is over, but thousands of Wisconsin alumni are still in the armed forces—and will be for months to come. Mail is just as important to them now as it was before the shooting ended. It's our job to supply this mail until all of them are home again—for keeps. Let's finish our job as effectively as these Fighting Badgers completed theirs.—JOHN BERGE.

One's Out, One's Still In Ex-Assemblymen Make News Again

Mark Catlin, Jr., '33, Appleton, recently discharged from the armed forces, has been appointed chairman of the special policy committee which will draw up a platform for the Wisconsin Federation of Young Republicans. He is also a member of the veterans' committee of the same organization. Mr. Catlin was assemblyman from Outagamie County before the war. On the campus he was president of Hares-foot.

ALFONSI

Still in the army is another prominent former assemblyman, Lt. Paul R. Alfonsi, x'36. He is now chief of the public relations branch, Sixth Service Command, Camp McCoy, Wis. Lt. Alfonsi, whose home is in Pence, was speaker of the Wisconsin assembly during the 1937 session. Before entering politics he was head of the commercial department at Washburn High School.

Three Badgers Promoted In U. W. Business Office

Three Wisconsin graduates have been promoted on the campus under the reorganization of the University offices of business administration recently announced. They are Neil G. Cafferty, '26, Clarke Smith, '36, and Robert Hammes, '27.

Mr. Cafferty, chief accountant at the University since 1938, becomes controller, and Mr. Smith and Mr. Hammes become assistants to A. W. Peterson, director of business and finance.

The reorganization came on the request of D. L. Halverson, associate director of business and finance, who asked to be relieved of some of his duties because of ill health.

Wisconsin Grads Start Brand New Industries

Two brand new Madison industries are the brain-children of four University graduates.

The Screen Art Company, Madison, only advertising firm in the city to specialize in the screen-art process, was started two months ago by Donald T. McKenna, '33, William B. Cantwell, '38, and Thomas E. Spiece, '44.

The Jendix Corporation, a custom-engineering service for Wisconsin area industries, has been established in Madison by Duane Dixon, '42.

TRAILING the BADGERS

1882 W

Frank D. WINKLEY, Madison, nationally known inventor and a former member and president of the board of directors of the Madison General Hospital association, died February 16 after an illness of six weeks. He had served as an officer of the Madison-Kipp company and while there designed pressure oil pumping equipment. During the past 25 years he had devoted himself to his inventions, one of which has become known as the Alemite system for greasing cars, and another a device now installed in the University's Washburn Observatory.

Wisconsinites Star on Broadway

FREDRIC MARCH

The glittering lights of Broadway are spelling out the name of many a Wisconsinite these days.

A playwright-actor team of Wisconsin alumni may be the highlight of the coming theater season, according to Earl Wilson, New York columnist. If plans now being formulated materialize, Fredric March, '20, will star in a new play, "The Great Campaign," written by Arnold Sundgaard, '35.

March was president of his senior class. Sundgaard is now teaching playwriting at Columbia University. He is author of "The First Crocus," which was presented in 1942.

Names known in years gone by to the Wisconsin campus are David Zellmer, '40, a principal male dancer with the Martha Graham troupe; J. Russell "Rusty" Lane, x'37, former Wisconsin Players director who has been appearing on and directing in Broadway for several years; and Victor Wolfson, '31, author of "Excursion".

Then there are playwright-actor Cy Howard, known in Madison as Seymour Horwitz, x'39; Eric Brotherson, '33, who appeared in "Lady in the Dark;" and the Anderson sisters, Sara, '42, and Gloria, '44, who were active in Wisconsin Players productions and have since appeared in musical comedies as Broadway chorines.

Uta Hagen, x'40, has starred in numerous Broadway hits and travelled throughout the country. Charles Avey, x'44, and Neil Towner, x'43, are now with USO shows; and Inga Jollos, '43, has toured with Helen Hayes.

Now in New York after having recently been mustered out of service is Philip T. Dakin, x'33, onetime summer stock company performer in Madison. Jeanne M. Jackson, '44, has appeared in a number of New York productions under the stage name of Jan Sherwood.

1936 W

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd J. SEVERSON (Geneva RAMSDELL, '37), Duluth, Minn., are the parents of a daughter, Virginia Beatrix, born January 26 . . . Lawrence W. STERNBERG and Lillian Kollock, both of Wausau, were married February 2; at home at 615 W. Ross Avenue, Wausau, where Mr. Sternberg is secretary of the Franklin Building and Loan Association.

1937 W

Robert H. CAIN, Evansville, and Helen Cotton, Jacksonville, Texas, were married January 27 in Jacksonville. At home in Evansville . . . Donald C. EMERSON, formerly of Milwaukee, has been released from service and is back at the University. He and his wife, the former Glenys Truax, '42, live at 102 N. Orchard street, Madison . . . Leo ROETHE, Ft. Atkinson, was awarded the distinguished service key by the Ft. Atkinson Junior Chamber of Commerce for his outstanding civic contributions. He was recommended for the award because of his cooperation with individuals and civic organizations and his evidence of leadership ability . . . Lt. Comdr. Chester F. PINKERTON, Oshkosh, married Marilyn Edwards, San Mateo, Calif., on January 20. Comdr. Pinkerton had been gunnery officer on the cruiser Baltimore . . . Willard STAFFORD, Madison lawyer, was elected vice-chairman of the Madison chapter of the American Veterans' committee . . . Major James E. DRIVER and Alice McFarland, both of Madison, were married February 9. Major Driver is on terminal leave after serving 43 months on the 8th and 9th Air Corps staffs . . . Lt. Comdr. James W. NELLEN, Milwaukee, and Ruth McClung, Lewisburg, W. Va., were married February 23 in the naval chapel at Camp Wallace, Texas. Comdr. Nellen is chief of surgery at Camp Wallace . . . John H. WARREN, Madison, was awarded the medal of freedom for meritorious achievement which aided the United States in the prosecution of the war in Europe as field director with the American Red Cross. He served with the 90th Division. Mr. Warren, husband of the former Elizabeth ELLINGSON, '26, wears the European theater ribbon

He Saw Nagasaki

ONE OF THE FIRST AMERICANS to survey the atomic-wrought death and utter destruction of Nagasaki was Dr. John Brewster Wear, associate professor of urology at the University of Wisconsin. Dr. Wear, who has since returned to the campus, was serving in the navy at the time as a commander and chief urologist aboard the 800-bed USS Sanctuary. Japanese victims of the atom bomb were still dying in the streets when Dr. Wear inspected the city along with a party of atom scientists.

"Destruction of a nature almost indescribable was seen in the area where the full force of the bomb was felt," he says. "Many of us could not believe our eyes."

Combat boots?

"No!" you say, grimly, "that youngster I've just tucked in must never have to fight a war as I did!"

To which we reply, "Double check!"

But your boy will have to fight the ordinary battles of life. Maybe some extraordinary ones, depending on how your luck runs, and you will certainly want to keep your National Service Life Insurance for his future protection.

Are you completely familiar with the conversion privileges and the optional methods of payment to your beneficiaries which your Government insurance offers? If not, you can get a quick, simple explanation of all these provisions from the local New England Mutual Career Underwriter. He's clarifying them for veterans every day—and the fact that he doesn't make a dime on National Service Life doesn't matter. See him — he'll be of real help to you.

ANY OTHER QUESTIONS?

Is there other information you want about the G. I. Bill of Rights, pensions, hospitalization, vocational training? This free booklet gives the facts in brief, understandable language. It has been sent to service men all over the world — and has brought us thousands of letters of thanks. We mail it post-paid to any veteran — just write for your copy to 501 Boylston Street, Boston 17, Mass.

1946 Summer Session

A Summer Semester—May 31 to September 14

Registration for the summer semester will be held May 31 to June 1 and classes will start June 3. This session offers opportunity for a full semester's work in all four years of the undergraduate program and some courses on the graduate level. The course in Engineering (8 weeks) begins July 5.

An Eight-Week Session—June 22 to August 16

Registration will be held on June 21 and 22 and classes will begin on June 24. This session is pointed to the needs of graduates and undergraduates, especially professional educators. A rich offering is available for both elementary and secondary teachers on the graduate level, including workshops, clinics, institutes, and an elementary laboratory school. Special courses in guidance and post-war education are included. An institute on rehabilitation will be continued this summer, and special courses in health education will be offered. Radio education and visual education will receive special consideration.

For complete details, address The Dean of the Summer Session, Education-Engineering Building, Madison, Wis.

Brannon Memorial

TOURISTS VISITING the island in Armour Lake, Vilas County, Wisconsin, will find a sheltered picnic table and a plaque reading, "Please use this place as the guest of Ensign William Paul Brannon."

Ensign Brannon, '39, a member of the third unit of the Flying Badgers, was killed in action in the South Pacific. The memorial retreat has been erected by his father, W. A. Brannon, Madison, in cooperation with the State Conservation Commission. It is on the spot where Bill spent his summer vacations.

MORE THAN 9000 FIGHTING BADGERS ARE STILL IN THE ARMED FORCES

YOU MAY think most Fighting Badgers are back home in civilian clothes. Actually, even though the war's over, 9,621 Wisconsin alumni are still in the armed forces. We can't let 'em down now, because they appreciate mail from home more than ever before. So to each of them, each month, go the publications of the Wisconsin Alumni Association, free of charge. And the Association will keep on sending its magazine, its football letters, its communique, and its special publications free to each alumnus in the armed forces until the last Fighting Badger has traded his uniform for mufti.

JOIN THE Association now. Your membership check will help carry the mail, make possible more "thank-you's" like these:

Something to Write Home About

"Ever since I started receiving your publications I've been saving them. Whenever I felt blue and discouraged I'd dig them out. In no time the discontent would disappear. I'd be back on the Hill, hurrying to class or going to the Union."—EM 3/c Paul BESSEY, x '46, Navy 3205, % PM, San Francisco.

"I am receiving your publications in good order and feel very appreciative. Thanks much. They do not cure but they help very much the 'Want-to-Go-Home Blues' which we all have out here."—Lt. (jg) Clarence P. CHREST, '41, Samar, Philippine Islands.

"I want to extend my sincere appreciation for the splendid work you have done for the servicemen and women. The most precious tie we have had with the States is our memories, and you have done a wonderful job in bringing those memories closer to us."—Pfc. Roland IHDE, x '43, Okinawa.

"I greatly appreciate receiving the Wisconsin Alumnus. It gives me the comforting feeling that I am still tied to the apron strings of my Alma Mater."—Cmdr. Leo I. PORETT, '34, Camp Perry, Va.

"Keep up the good work that's keeping us from going crazy, but making me homesick and very anxious to get back to Madison once again."—Cpl. Raymond HORNUNG, x '43, United States Forces, China Theater.

"May I express my deep appreciation for your continued interest in the alumni in service. The Alumnus was a real morale builder, particularly when the spirits were low. But of greater inspiration to me was the realization that the great work of the Association was going along at full pace."—SP (T) 1/c R. E. GOTHAM, '36, U. S. Naval Training Center, Gulfport, Miss.

Look for this seal to guarantee full Vitamin D content

Wise mothers, concerned for their family's well-being, look for the Wisconsin Alumni Research Foundation seal when buying food and pharmaceutical products with Vitamin D content. Every product bearing the Foundation seal or name is periodically checked in the Foundation laboratories to assure dependable uniform potency. These checkups make certain the products meet the label claims of Vitamin D content. For many years the Foundation has carried on this testing program. That is why its seal has the confidence of the medical profession and the public.

Six New Directors on U. W. Foundation Board

Six new directors were named to the board of the University of Wisconsin Foundation at its annual meeting in Milwaukee last month.

They are:

Julius P. Heil, Milwaukee; Herbert V. Kohler, Kohler; Irwin Maier, '21, Milwaukee; George W. Mead, '94, Wisconsin Rapids; Arthur E. Timm, '25, Milwaukee; and Pierpont J. E. Wood, Janesville.

All officers of the Foundation were reelected.

She Started on WHA

Barbara Anderson, '42, Madison, actress and radio entertainer, will get her big chance on the major networks when the new air show, "Craig's Wife," makes its premiere soon.

Miss Anderson made her first microphone appearance on station WHA as the "Story Lady." Since graduating from the University, she has been heard in such radio serials as "Young Widow Brown."

Alumni Celebrate

"THE UNIVERSITY OF the Future" was the title of the address given by William J. Hagenah, '03, Chicago, before the Wisconsin Alumni Club of Milwaukee on February 12. He displayed a model of his plan for the rebuilding of the lower campus. Also on the program were Frank Holt, director of public service of the University, and John Bradley, Appleton, who was one of the six Marines that raised the celebrated flag on Iwo Jima's Mount Surabachi.

The committee in charge of the Milwaukee celebration included Erwin Zentner, '12, chairman; Einar Gaustad, '23; R. H. Myers, '35, president of the club; Carl E. Dietze, '13; Herbert Schwahn, '30; Miss Helen Polcyn, '41; and Miss Charlotte Griesmer, '41.

HARRY SCHUCK, '26, instructor in commerce at the University recently returned from overseas services as a major in the army, talked at the Founders' Day dinner in West Bend.

OUT IN PORTLAND, Oregon, Wisconsin alumni heard Association Vice-President Joseph A. Cutler, '09, of Milwaukee, Chairman of the meeting was F. C. McGowan, '01, secretary-treasurer of the Oregon chapter.

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA alumni also heard Mr. Cutler at their Founders' Day banquet at Berkeley on February 22. On the program with him were Frank Cornish, '96, toastmaster; Pat O'Dea, '00, and Dean John Hicks, Ph D '16.

WISCONSIN ALUMNAE and alumni of Minneapolis celebrated jointly on February 20. Dr. William Sarles, '26, assistant to Pres. E. B. Fred, was the speaker. Miss Alice Oiseth, '29, and John Sarles, '23, presidents of the alumnae and alumni groups respectively, welcomed the guests.

DR. HOLT, "speakingest" man on the University campus, talked at Founders' Day meetings in Eau Claire on February 13, St. Paul on February 14, and Minneapolis on February 14. The Twin Cities dinners were arranged by Harry Bullis, '17, past president of the Wisconsin Alumni Association.

ON MARCH 28 Kenosha alumni will hear Harry Stuhldreher, Wisconsin athletic director, and Alumni Secretary John Berge.
