Hilberts Chosen 1924 Homecoming General Chairman

Bert E. Hilberts '25 was appointed general chairman of the 1924 Homecoming at a meeting of the athletic board yesterday noon in the Y. M. C. A. parlors.

Hilberts is a member of the athletic board, a "W" man in track and president of the junior class. He was a member of the program committee of the 1923 Homecoming. Hilberts is one of the men recommended by the board from last year's Homecoming committee.

Homecoming next fall will be on the 15th of November, the game against Iowa. Assistant general chairman and committee chairmen will be appointed within a few weeks, according to Hilberts.

NOMINEES NAMED FOR "Y" ELECTION

Precedent Set Up as Committee Picks One Candidate For Each Office

The Y. M. C. A. nominating committee, composed of Prof. A. B. Hall, Mr. Frederick E. Wolf, Gamber F. Tegtmeyer '24 and Paul K. Robertson '24, has established a new precedent in nominations for the four executive offices for the elections to be held April 17. They have chosen one candidate for each office. It is believed that a better spirit of fellowship will be promoted among the men if this is done.

The nominations are a result of careful consideration by the committee, which is very intimately associated with the inner workings of the organization. This does not preclude, however, other nominations which may be from the floor on the night of the elections' banquet.

The Sterling Day memorial committee is receiving from time to time nominations for this award, which names will not be disclosed until the night of the banquet. The election of the winner will be made on the basis of scholarship, religious work, efficiency in Christian character, activities for the good of the campus as a whole and interest in physical exercise.

The nominations for the four executive positions, with their qualifications are:

President—Clifford C. Franseen; President Junior Council, Chairman of Fraternities of the Religious Conference, Sophomore Honors, Chairman of Budget Committee for the 1925 Prom, Alpha Kappa Lambda.

Vice President—Arno J. Haack; Junior Council, Chairman of Discussions of the Religious Conference (Sherwood Eddy conference), Baptist Student Cabinet, Y. M. C. A. Cabinet (Discussions and Public Meetings.)

Secretary—Harold J. Wichern; Junior Council, Chairman of Publicity of the Sherwood Eddy Conference, Y. M. C. A. Cabinet, Commerce Club, Sigma Pi.

Treasurer—Ellis J. Fulton; Junior Council, Editor-in-Chief of the 1925 Badger, Assistant Chairman of the 1925 Prom.

SOUTHERNERS ELECT OFFICERS TONIGHT

Officers for the Southern club will be elected at a business meeting of all members of the club to be held tonight in the auditorium of the Law building at 7:15 o'clock. Besides the business discussions club members will talk over possible plans of entertainment for all southern students staying in Madison during the spring vacation.

"All members of the club are urged to come" said Bobye Nichols '25, president of the organization. "It is one of our most important meetings of the year and it is hoped that every one will attend."

SENIOR CLASS TO MEET THIS NOON FOR FIRST TIME

McCaffery and McMynn to Talk Before Gathering in 165 Bascom Hall

Several standing committees of the senior class will make reports of the work they have done so far this year at the first meeting of the class of 1924 which will be held in 165 Bascom hall at 12:45 o'clock today.

M. E. McCaffery, secretary of the board of regents and Robert McMynn, president of the alumni association, will be present at the meeting. Mr. McMynn is coming from Milwaukee in order to give a short talk on the relations of the seniors and the alumni. The entire meeting will not last longer than half an hour.

Cooperation Needed

The senior class memorial is to be voted on at this time and suggestions of the Memorial Union promotion committee will be taken under consideration.

"The class of 1924 has been one of the most active classes ever in the university and we want to make plans for a commencement in keeping with the spirit of the class," Walter A. Frautschi '24, president of the class, said yesterday. "In order to do so every member of the class must cooperate from now until the end of June," he added.

Applications For Scholarships Are Due Before May 1

Applications for legislative scholarships for the year 1924-25 may now be sent in is the announcement made by Prof. Julius Olson, chairman of the committee on scholarships.

The legislative scholarships are founded by the state and are for the purpose of paying the tuition of non-resident students. The scholarships are open only to non-resident students and are awarded on the basis of need and scholastic records to students in any college or department.

Applicants must fill out blanks before May 1. The applications may be obtained at the registrar's office by all except graduate students. Graduates should apply at the office of the Dean of the Graduate school.

DUTCH PROFESSOR TO GIVE LECTURES HERE

Prof. Paul Ehrenfest of the University of Leiden, Holland, will give a series of advanced lectures on "Quantum Statistics" at 4:30 o'clock today, 3:30 o'clock tomorrow, and 4:30 o'clock Friday in the physics laboratory, 104 Sterling hall.

These lectures will be of interest primarily to those doing advanced and research work in physics, as they pertain to mathematical physics.

Prof. Ehrenfest will speak before Sigma Xi, honorary scientific fraternity, on "Probability in Physics" on tomorrow evening at the University club.

For the past few months, Prof. Ehrenfest has been in the United States giving lectures. He was recently at the California Institute of Technology at Pasadena, California.

SCHOLARSHIP AWARD WILL BE GIVEN SOON

The fraternity scholarship cup, which was recently offered by a graduate of the university as an annual award to the social fraternity having the highest academic average, will be awarded in a few days, it was announced at the office of the Dean of Men. The scholastic standings of the fraternities are now being computed.

BALL GROUPS MUST REGISTER WITH DEAN

All groups who are attending the Military ball next Friday night must register in the office of the dean of men with the names of the chaperones not later than tomorrow according to an announcement made yesterday by Dean S. H. Goodnight.

Vacation to Start at Close of Last Class on Tuesday

Spring vacation begins at the close of your last class on Tuesday, April 8, and ends at the opening of your first class on Wednesday, April 16. The no cut rule will be in effect.

Students absent without excuse from a recitation immediately preceding or following spring recess will not be permitted to enter the senior examination in that study, but will be required to take an incomplete which may not be written off until the date set for regular examination for the removal of conditions, according to the little Green Book.

The reason that the vacation comes now and not over Easter Sunday is that the vacation indicates the middle of the semester, and is not intended to be an Easter recess.

BURLEIGH MUSIC THRILLS AUDIENCE

Symphony Displays Interesting Contrasts in Recital in Gym

D. M. J.

Broad powers of expression were revealed by the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra in the interesting contrasts of the evening concert program held in the men's gymnasium last night under the auspices of the Madison Orchestral association. The energetic baton of Henri Verbrugghen, conductor, brought out the intricate development of the themes of the Beethoven symphony and the vivid impression contained in the modern music by Burleigh and Schelling, as well.

The first half of the program was devoted to Beethoven, Mr. Verbrugghen's favorite. "The Elenora" overture by Beethoven was substituted for the Overture to "Phaedre" as the opening number by request, since the Beethoven work had not been presented in Madison for three years.

Typically modern music predominated in the second part of the program. "Mountain Pictures", a suite by Cecil Burleigh vividly suggested the large vistas of the western mountain country in the three sketches, "Crags and Cascades", "Distant Haze" and "The Avalanche". Mr. Burleigh, professor in the School of Music, and composer of the suite, was called for by the audience.

"Victory Ball," a fantasy for the orchestra by Ernest Schelling, embodied the after-war sensations described in the poem, "A Victory Ball," by Alfred Noyes. The piece was vivid in its impressionistic portrayal of the victory ball with its spectral guests of dead soldiers, a victory ball. The combination of the whole orchestra to give the effect of the bagpipe was striking. "Hungarian March" from "The Damnation of Faust" by Berlioz, completed the program.

INCREASE IN STUDY SOLVED BY LIBRARIAN

Are students becoming more studious? "A larger student enrollment and an increasing tendency for instructors to assign more collateral reading," is the explanation. Walter M. Smith, librarian, gives for the excessive number of students to try to find places in the library to study. "Taking care of this additional number of students is just a part of the great housing problem which will come before the next legislature," said Mr. Smith.

BOATHOUSE LOCKERS BEING APPLIED FOR

Applications for lockers at the university boathouse have been coming in since January according to G. L. Gilbert who has charge of the assignment of lockers, and more are expected before the end of April when the list will be complete. A deposit of $10 a year for the use of the lockers must be paid to the Bursar upon application. The boathouse will be opened as soon as the lake is clear of ice, and this is thought to be about the middle of April.

Madison Advertising Clubs
Hold Meetings For Benefit of Students

A practical vision of the kind of advertising the graduate of a university is likely to do as soon as he gets into business will be given in the talks by Madison men at 3:30 this afternoon at the first meeting of the direct-by-mail conference being conducted here under the joint auspices of the student and Madison advertising clubs.

"The talks are arranged to show the student of advertising how he can use direct mail advertising to the profit of business," E. H. Gardner, professor of business administration said.

The student will not be able, at once, to write magazine advertisements and to buy space in the Saturday Evening Post," Professor Gardner continued. "He will have the problem of bringing trade in to the retail store from the surrounding country, or of developing the trade area of local wholesale houses, or of getting new business for the small manufacturer," he declared.

All these talks will be given by Madison men who are doing these things in Madison. W. E. Walker, vice-president of the First National bank, is now handling the advertising for the General Paper and Supply company, Madison's largest wholesale house. L. H. Betz, formerly of the Hart, Schaffner and Marx advertising department, has seen how the Hart, Schaffner and Marx merchant has built up his trade by using the direct mail advertising. Clark Gillette, advertising manager of the Burgess Battery company is preparing advertising matter for two of Madison's manufacturers. These three men are graduates of the course in commerce.

William Miller, advertising manager of the French Battery and Carbon company and N. R. Williams, of the Democrat Printing company will also speak.

Students of anyone who is interested in advertising will be welcome. Reservations should be made immediately with Austin Towel, Badger 4090, or with Paul Robertson, Badger 193, to attend the banquet at the Park hotel tomorrow night.

Rooms Needed For State High School Musical Contest

Fraternities and sororities are requested to lodge some of the high school musicians who will take part in the state high school music contest to be held here May 8 and 9, in a letter sent to organization presidents by the School of Music.

Some 450 of the total number of more than 700 students expected to enter the contest will have to be provided for. Madison high school students will take care of many of the visitors during their two night's stay.

Campus musical societies will assist in the organization of housing facilities. Members of the committee for lodging arrangements were selected yesterday and the organizations which they represent are Erma Duncan '24, and Eunice Neckerman '26, Mu Phi Epsilon, Maude Glynn '24, Sigma Alpha Iota, Robert Hill '24, and Edwin A. Uehling '25, Sinfonia.

The plan of lodging the musicians during the contest which will be given for the first time in Wisconsin is an extension of that used during the interscholastic gatherings of athletes and journalists. It is hoped that the competition will arouse deeper interest in music among high schools and that they will continue their study after graduation.

PLAYERS TO PRESENT JAMES BARRIE PLAY

The Wisconsin University Players will give a presentation of James M. Barrie's three act play, "Alice Sit-By-The-Fire," at 7:30 o'clock Saturday night in Lathrop concert room. The play is an invitation affair and invitations have been sent out to 400 students, townspeople and members of the faculty who are interested in dramatics.

Altethea Smith '24 is directing the production and is being assisted in her work by Olivia Orth '24. The entire work is under the charge of these two members of the University.

Students of anyone who is interested in advertising will be welcome. Reservations should be made immediately with Austin Towel, Badger 4090, or with Paul Robertson, Badger 193, to attend the banquet at the Park hotel tomorrow night.

ORGAN RECITAL TO BE HELD TODAY

Mrs. Rosenberry Says Quiet Hours at Lutheran Church Are Successful

The fifth of a series of organ programs which have been planned for students will be held at 5 o'clock this afternoon at the Lutheran Memorial church. These hours of quiet have been planned in order that the students and faculty may have some place to which they may go to think and meditate.

"The experiment has proved most satisfactory," Mrs. R. M. Rosenberry, who is working with Professor Gordon, of the extension department, on the planning of the program, said. "The very large crowds which continue to grow from week to week, are a testimonial to the need for such an institution," she declared.

The idea was first tried at Leland Stanford several years ago and since then has been taken up in several of the colleges and universities of the east.

Madison students are fortunate in having the privilege of listening to an organ such as that which is in the Lutheran Memorial church which has been placed at the disposal of the committee for each Wednesday afternoon from 5 until 5:45 o'clock for student use.

Miss Winifred Ryan who gave the program last week will be at the organ again this afternoon.

JONES NOT FOR PLACING POLO ON BIG SPORT LIST

Says Present Sport Field at Wisconsin is Far From Overcrowded

Polo is more suitable for a military camp than for a college sport," was the opinion of Thomas E. Jones, director of athletics, in commenting on making polo a major sport.

"The main purpose of sports," Professor Jones said, "is to develop courage, co-operation and school and team spirit. Athletics are an education by which one learns to get control over the body and to put it into co-ordination."

Polo Interesting
"Polo is by no means a tame game; it is spectacular, interesting, and gets large crowds to come out to see it. The main objection of having polo made an intercollegiate sport is that it would be too much trouble to take care of the horses and to keep good stables for them. Transport the horses for intercollegiate polo games."

No Congestion
As for making polo an additional sport just for the sake of relieving congestion in the general gymnasium classes, Director Jones said that there was no need to do that, as the other sports such as ice hockey, rowing, skiing, water basketball, and golf were not overcrowded.

"It is unnecessary to introduce a new sport just for a greater selection," Professor Jones said. "Wisconsin was one of the first of the western schools to have rowing, skiing and water basketball. These sports have not yet had time to receive great popularity."

Legality of an assessment upon a municipality of forty percent of the county's share of the cost of a bridge on a state trunk highway system, constructed from funds appropriated for highway work, was sustained in an opinion given by the attorney general's department to the state highway commission. The opinion was given in connection with construction of a bridge at Watertown in Jefferson county.

FRESHMAN SQUAD GOES OUTDOORS FOR SPRING WORK

Three Telegraphic Meets With Big Ten Frosh Promise Heavy Season

Today the regular members of the frosh indoor track squad, after a brief rest, started training for the outdoor season. The frosh cinder artists have an important triangular telegraphic meet with Iowa and Purdue frosh Wed., May 21. Two other dual meets, one with Illinois and one with Minnesota, have been scheduled but the dates of these meets have not been set.

Good Distance Men

While this year's squad has no exceptional performers outside of Herb Schwärze, prospective Olympian shot put, the squad as a whole possesses some very consistent performers. Ralph Schilke, the protege of George Berg, can be counted on to place in the 880 in any competition. Ray Kubly, diminutive two miler, and "Cheuk" Meissner, miler rank among the best frosh distance men in the conference. Captain McGinnis is another boy that can be relied upon to uphold the honor of Wisconsin's freshman track team. The rest of the squad have also proved to be capable of making a good showing in competition.

Basketball Men Out

The regular squad will be increased by the addition of some valuable men from the 1927 basketball team. Senn, a 880 man, Bobbe, sprinter, Stehr, hurdler, Mack, a middle distance man, and Albrecht, pole-vaulter will add to the strength of the yearling cinder path men.

The men who have been taking track for Gym credit this year are to participate in a track meet this Saturday and it is probable that Coach Meade Burke may choose the men that make the best showing in this meet to be added to the regular frosh squad. The best men from these classes are Thompson and Ingold, 440 and jump men, Ecklund, 880 man and Lenicheck another good quarter-miler.

Junior Girls Win Pin Tournament By Safe Margin

The juniors captured the championship title at the last of the women's inter-class bowling games which were held Monday night at the Lathrop alley. The final score gave the juniors first place, second honors going to the sophomores. Two matches were played between the seniors and juniors and two between the sophomores and the freshmen.

The seniors were defeated 556-607 in the first game and 586-629 in the second, while the sophomores triumphed over the freshmen with a score of 555-444 for the first game and 553-466 for the second.

Highest individual scores were made by Katherine Fuller '24, with 152 points, and Grace Baird '25 with 163 points.

The names of the women who made the varsity bowling team were announced Tuesday. They are: K. Fuller '24; G. Baird '25; D. Haskins '25; H. Lowe '25; H. Herold '26.

The committee which was chosen to pick the team gave honorable mention to the following: R. Nolte '24; I. Gray '25; H. Hunt '26; M. Luther '26; and E. Stitgen '26.

WHAT'S UP FRIDAY?

Opposition to the proposed Badger referendum seems to be quite wide spread in spite of the fact that very few arguments are advanced against the proposed plan.

It would seem that to point out the deficiencies of the present system would be sufficient to convince any sceptic that some sort of change is needed. In the first place, the very nature of the present board is inconsistent. The body is so constituted that the fundamental members now are the managing editor and the business manager of the annual. Thus a so-called board of control is in reality itself controlled by the very two persons whom it was organized to control. Those who oppose a change of system in the Badger board on the grounds that it gives the preceding manager too great a power of recommendation fail to realize that under the present system these two editors are virtually supreme in their position.

Little attention has been given to the option tacked on to the end of the referendum, but there lies perhaps the most important part of the entire affair, at least as far as the class of 1926 is concerned. If a new Badger board is to be elected to appoint the next year editors, the board will not have been experienced with the workings of the present Badger staff and will not be qualified to select. The very purpose of changing the status of the board will have been lost then. But if the present Badger staff appoints the editors, the present class of 1926 will have nothing to say whatever in the selection of an editor for their own book.

Undoubtedly, then, the most sane and logical solution to the matter is to urge that the Badger referendum regarding the changing of the board status be passed, but that an election of Badger editor be held under the present system this spring so that the class of 1926 will be fairly treated and so that the newly elected board will have a year of experience before it actually functions as an appointing body.

AT LAST

When one hears the rumor that the Madison Police department is conducting a vice clean-up campaign and then learns that the rumor is actually substantiated by arrests and raids, the individual is inclined to sigh in relief and ejaculate, "At last!" It is, indeed, high time that something were done, and it is fortunate that an election campaign has arrived to stimulate matters. However, regardless of its tardiness, the anti-vice campaign is exceedingly desirable for there is much to be done. Vice in Madison has been flourishing under the laxness and leniency of public attention for a long time. Little Italy, with its illicit liquor sold both secretly and openly and its many unsolved murders and published threats of death to various individuals, and the roadhouses and similar institutions in and about Madison have long been needing the attention of the law. It is hoped that the campaign against the vice conditions will be complete and thorough and that the penalties given will be such as to deter further crime instead of just making it hesitate a moment or two as has often been the case in the past.

EYES HAVE THEY

When fond mama and papa come to visit George or Jean at the great state university one of the things which seems most impressive to them is the lights at night in the houses of the Latin quarter. They stroll up Langdon street together admiring the miniature Great White Way. It is not thus in Baraboo. There, during the evening, a house is lighted only downstairs where father reads the evening paper and mother crochets and interrupts the news with bits of local gossip. If a light should appear in an up-stairs room any observer on the street would know that ten-year-old Robert was going to bed.

Here, at the great university, the case is entirely different. Every room on every floor in every house which harbors students is lighted. The fond parents pause in silent awe. "Studying," murmurs mama. "What a sight, to see all those rooms lighted up, to know that in them the youth of this great nation is preparing itself to set this awful world aright. Ah-h-h," and her words dwindle off in a sigh of admiration and happiness. Fond papa grunts an assent, but he too is impressed, more than his laconic assent would indicate.

"And Dorothy going to the library tonight to work on her topic," Mama sighs. "I can be without her for this brief hour or two for I know how she is working and I can be proud of my daughter."

Yes, it was a great sight, all those lighted, curtained windows. But behind those curtains? Ah!

In that third floor room in the right hand corner, Georgiana and Marie, are frantically talking clothes; in the third floor center room Beatrice and Polly are madly talking "dates"; in the third floor, left corner, six girls are excitedly talking plans for their summer European tour; in the second floor center a dozen girls are out-talking each other about a recent engagement, and smoking innumerable cigarettes. The rest of the rooms are empty; it has been too much bother to turn out the lights in them. So it has been all evening.

In the men's rooming house a little farther up the street the case is not so very different.

And daughter, what of her? Ah, she is seated on a bench in the third floor of the library bemoaning to her affectionate escort that she has "gotta jazz back to the folks pretty quick."

Fond mama and papa move on up the street, speechless with admiration.

SPENDERS

Two thirds as much money is spent for gum, by Americans, as for insurance, according to Dr. John A. Stevenson, vice president of the Equitable Life. This strikes us as about the last word in contrasts. It indicates that the element of fear is being eliminated in our civilization, in the matter of money. We are a race of spenders. Viewpoints vary, regarding this situation.

However, the national income is 70 per cent "insured."

It may be that Europeans are dying of neglect. But we have presidential booms over here in the same fix.

Other Editors Say—

THE PRICE OF EDUCATION

Latest figures coming from the University of Wisconsin indicate that the average student expenditure is about $1,775, presumably for nine months.

The advertising manager of The Badger, junior annual, declares that university students spend $13,500,000 a year. There are now 7,632 students enrolled. Figure it out yourself.

But don't jump at the conclusion that the university authorities are to blame. They aren't. University fees alone are perhaps $30 or $40 yearly.

You know and we know that $1,775 is too much for any student to spend foolishly. It isn't necessary. It doesn't increase any student's knowledge of anything except stud poker, dago red, moonshine and petting.

When one remembers that a thousand or more students are working their way through the university, and spend nowhere near $1,775 a year, it is apparent that some students are evidently tossing away $2,000, $3,000 or more each year, chiefly in having a good time.

This situation makes it harder for real students with little money to get through the university.

In the name of democracy and justice it is time to start clamping the lid on students' extravagance. A university student should be accepted on his personal and character.

Let there be less student extravagance and more study around the Hill at Madison.

EXTRY! EXTRY! EXTRY!
Shysters to Celebrate
Not to Be Out-Done by Plumbers
(Special to Skyrockets)

At a solemn conclave of the entire Law school last night the future attorneys raised their voices in protest of the wide fame and publicity which the "monkey-wrench slingers" have fallen heir to. After burning expressions of opinions by such leaders as Otey Walker and Joshua Fishback in which the shysters were characterized as "effeminate," "weaklings" and "emanciated striplings," it was unanimously decided that something must be done.

After much debating upon the subject it was agreed that the most satisfactory means of bringing glory and honor to themselves without indulging in a vulgar and boisterous parade and which is in keeping with their superior intellect and culture is to hold a BRIDGE TEA. The exact date of the function has not been set, but it will undoubtedly occur in the near future.

SONG OF SPRING

Man wants but little here below
But when it comes to dress,
In the Springtime it will be seen
That woman wants still less.

This is the way the present law students' future children will sing
"I Don't Want to Play in Your Yard."

"I have no desire for amusement within the curtilage of your residence,

I am averse to the personality which erstwhile was a source of gratification to me,

A sentiment of regret will pervade your being upon observing my method of locomotion in descending the covered aperture leading into your domicile,

I shall not permit the ascent of the apple tree which is owned in fee simple by myself and family,

I reiterate; I have no wish to play around the adjacent parts of your premises,

Unless I am accorded the respect which is commensurate with my station in life."

The Reader's Say-So

THE KLAN DEFENDED

Editor, The Cardinal:

The objections to the Ku Klux Klan on the ground of secrecy and espionage are loud, but very often do not ring true. These objections are not always confined to those who are ineligible to membership, but are expressed by some who can find no other reason for condemning it. A greater share of these objections come from men who are themselves members of some organization more or less secret, and more or less accustomed to use espionage. These people are very anxious for laws which will stop the Klan from using these weapons, but thwart any attempt to provide laws which will stop all organizations from using them.

The Klan has been called a fly-by-night organization; Robert R. Hull in an article claimed that it was small in number, but large in talk, but still the Klan does exist and threatens to be an important factor in the coming presidential election.

Patriotic Protestants are flocking to the standard unfurled by the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan and the organization is sweeping the country like wildfire from Main to the Gulf of Mexico, and from the Atlantic to the Pacific. The Klan is the dominating factor in all states of the Union; it is a recognized power in 16 others, and is making rapid strides toward organization of almost all, if not all, of the other states.

It is at present hard to secure any unbiased facts in regard to the Ku Klux Klan. Most of the treatises on the subject are written by men who are avowed enemies of the movement. All the alleged high crimes and misdemeanors of the Klan are set forth at length. Its virtues and victories are disregarded.

The Ku Klux Klan of today is not a new invention, it is an outgrowth of the old "Know-Nothing" party of 1855, and that expired in 1860. The sudden collapse of that Really we had no idea of casting any reflections on the lawyers, in this column, but "Neer Beer—No KIX" sent in this contribution and we don't want to hurt any helper's feelings by not printing his line, so if the Law doesn't want to read this it doesn't have to.

A young lawyer in a small town hung out a shingle bearing the following inscription—"A. Swindler, Lawyer." One of his first clients called his attention to the poor wording and advised him to spell out his first name rather than just using the initial—but the attorney's first name was "Adam"—so he left the sign as it was.

movement was directly due to the mistake of attempting too much. So long as the organization remained secret and stuck to its own issues, it grew fast and wielded a mighty power. With power came confidence, and the "Know-Nothings" came into the open as the American Party. For a year or two their power did increase, but soon internal jealousies had festered over desire for offices and a straddle on the slavery issue, in an attempt to save votes, gave it the death blow.

Dr. Evans, one of the leading men in the Klan movement, states, "If the Klan should ever make the fatal mistake of identifying itself with either party, with any cause except the fundamental issue of Americanism, it would invite division in its ranks, destroy its own power and insure its own dismemberment."

NO INJUNCTION ISSUED AGAINST PROLETARIAN
Despite rumors to the effect that an injunction would stop the Proletarian from being sold today, Stratford Corbett, the editor, said that his publication would be on sale this noon. The injunction was to have prohibited the publication of the magazine on the grounds of slander.

"A certain person who had written a story was incensed over using his name for advertising purposes, withdrew his story, and was trying to get students to take out an injunction. That is what all the trouble is about," Mr. Corbett said yesterday.

POPULAR NOTE TO BE STRUCK BY LIT

Weimer Tells Staff of New Policy; Departments to Be Stressed in Future

A definite shift toward a popular note, especially in the stories and poetry, and stress on the departments were the salient features emphasized by John F. Weimer '25 editor of the Lit in his explanation of the future editorial policy of the magazine at the staff meeting yesterday afternoon.

"We shall strive to tell stories for their own sake, rather than for the vetraneous motive of creating moods and other commitants of the so-called impressionistic school," Weimer said. "The poetry must be intelligible under all circumstances and absolutely observant of metrical exactions. We will strive to keep ourselves innocent of the charge of sentimentalism," he declared.

Departments such as musical, dramatic, and literary reviews are being organized and although still in the formative stage, will be as complete as the exigencies of time and space permit in the future issues, according to the editor. Articles in the fields of history, philosophy, economics, etc., will be included whenever suitable manuscripts can be obtained.

Cornell Campus Aroused By Klan Attack on Editor

A threatening letter sent by certain members of the Ku Klux Klan to the editor of the Sun, the Cornell publication, has caused sudden excitement on the campus at Ithaca with the result that athletes of the eastern college, members of the wrestling team among them, are declaring a war upon Klansmen.

Fiery crosses burned on the surrounding hills at Ithaca and recently two which were set up on the Cornell campus called forth the editorial in the college daily denouncing the Klan. A letter was immediately sent by the Klan saying that Klansmen would have nothing more to do with the paper and hinting that this would be a more serious loss than the editors believed. In a public reply the editor wrote:

"The Sun is pleased to offer for the thoughtful, not too thoughtful consideration of its readers, the ominous bit of blackmail which it received yesterday from what purports to be a genuine Kleagle of Ku Klux Klan, abiding in our very midst."

The activity of the Klan is the chief topic among students and townspeople of Ithaca.

FOREST WEEK IS SET FOR APRIL 21

Forest Lab Works to Create Interest in Forest Fire Protection

An exhibit of posters which will picture graphically the destruction of forests by fire will be placed on the fourth floor of the library as a feature of the plans of the Society of American foresters and certain members of the Forest Products laboratory to promote the fourth annual Forest Protective week which President Coolidge has set for April 21 to 27.

A definite program to interest citizens in the need for forest protection is being arranged by the society for the week designated. The Forest Products laboratory will cooperate through persons who are also members of the local society.

Eleven million acres of land swept by flames and 36,000 fires yearly in the United States has been the reason for the founding of a national forestry week. Government officials declare it to be country-wide in its scope and not a movement to benefit any single section.

Public organizations, state authorities and semi-private societies throughout the country will observe the week with addresses by prominent forestry workers. The Federal Forest Service is planning an active campaign to acquaint the public with the serious damage caused by forest fires. Wisconsin and the other lake states are especially interested because of the havoc wrought upon northern timber lands by preventable fires.

Colonel William B. Greeley, chief of the Forest service, urging the forest protective movement said, "Every citizen is a consumer of timber and the heavy burdens caused by burning up America's fast diminishing supply of timber falls alike on all shoulders."
