A FINISHED ORATOR

LAW SENIORS FORTUNATE IN SECURING BOURKE COCKRAN.

Speaks Monday of Commencement Week—A Brilliant Speaker—Prof. Gregory Interviewed.

Bourke Cockran of New York has accepted the invitation of the Senior Law class to speak before them on Monday of Commencement week. The custom of having distinguished men speak before the senior law has been established for a number of years, men from Wisconsin or the neighboring states being invited to deliver the address. Last year a departure was made from this custom in inviting Associate Justice Brewer to deliver the address, and the plan was so successful that it was decided to have a more distinguished man this year also and Bourke Cockran of New York was selected to be the orator.

Mr. Cockran is undoubtedly the most distinguished orator in the United States, being for many years a prominent speaker in the lower house.

Professor Gregory says of him, "Bourke Cockran is the most finished orator I have ever heard. He speaks without notes, but expresses himself in the most polished language. He takes a high and generous view of things and though a forceful speaker, he is never abusive. He is the only man I know who never disappoints his hearers. He speaks in the most beautiful, and classical language, but with a fervor that carries his audience by storm. I have heard him speak in competition with Chauncey Depew, Lord John Russell and others and when he finished we had forgotten that the others had spoken. The University is very fortunate in securing so distinguished a speaker. The proposition made in this morning's 'Democrat' to give Mr. Cockran a banquet seems to me entirely out of keeping with his visit here. Mr. Cockran comes not as a Democrat but as a speaker and I hope that in the event of his being tendered any such honor he will refuse to accept it."

"The Special Operation of War."

A very valuable course of lectures are being given this semester by Captain Curtis on "The Special Operation of War." This course is intended primarily for the commissioned and non-commissioned officers of the University regiment but anyone who is interested in military movements can attend. Captain Curtis in each lecture draws illustrations from history to fully explain the subject. The special noted manuevers of the Civil War and of the European wars are explained, thus giving the student an acquaintance with the notable exploits of history. This course comprises the following lectures: "The forcing and defence of defiles," "The forcing and defence of rivers and the passage of rivers in retreat," "The attack and defence of rivers and the passage of rivers in retreat," "The attack and defence of towns and villages," "the conduct of detachments for special purposes," and "Notes on tactical operations in sieges."

All students in the German Department should attend the performance of Minna von Barnhelm Thursday night.

A GREAT LITERARY EVENT.

Arrangements Complete for the Production of "Minna von Barnhelm."

The German comedy which will be given in "The Fuller" Thursday evening bids fair to equal any literary events of the college year. Arrangements for the play are now complete. Mr. Wachner, the stage director of the company, was at North Hall Thursday making the final arrangements.

JUNIORS WILL SPEAK

ANNUAL EXHIBITION IN LIBRARY HALL FRIDAY EVENING.

Prospects for a Close Contest—All Participants Well Prepared—Order of Speaking.

Everything is ready for the annual Junior-Ex. to take place in Library Hall, Friday evening at 8 o'clock. No admission will be charged. All of the debating societies will attend in a body to support their respective contestants and interest is running high as to which society will carry off the honors. The oratorical banner presented by Professor Frankenburger was won last year by Athenae but in order to keep the banner Athenae will have to win three consecutive contests.

The contestants will appear in the following order: Miss Loeb of Castalia on "Triumph of Altruism;" Harry Sauthoff of Philomathia on "National Politics;" Mr. Bucklin of Hesperia on "Civic Patriotism;" J. C. Miller of Athenae on "The Martyr Spy of the Revolution;" J. C. McKesson of Columbia on "The Problem of the American Union;" F. P. Abel of Forum on "Robert G. Ingersoll."

The judges on thought and style are Judge Winslow of the State Supreme Court, Rev. Bigler, and Rev. Stalker. The judges on delivery have not been selected as yet.

The committee on arrangements for Friday night is Mr. Powers, Chairman; Miss Wilcox, R. T. Scholz, W. Campbell, H. M. Fellenz and L. A. Brunckhorst. The reception committee is S. P. Starks, chairman; G. H. Gohlike, Miss Clark, L. G. Lohr, R. N. Nelson, and E. J. Cockerill. The committees have all matters well arranged. As all of the contestants have worked especially hard on their orations this year, the contest Friday night bids fair to be the most successful Junior Ex. for years.

Lectures in Engineering.

The next lecture in this course will be given on Friday, March 15, at 3 p. m. in the Auditorium of the Engineering building, by Professor B. V. Swenson, on Zenobie Theophile Gramme and the History of the Industrial Dynamo.

Although magnetism has been known for several centuries, and the primary battery is a hundred years old, telegraphy was practically the only industrial application of electricity during the first seventy years of the nineteenth century. The great field of Electrical Engineering, as it is today, is directly dependent upon the dynamo as the primary source of electrical power. Although discovered in principle by Faraday as early as 1831, it was not until the great work of Gramme thirty years ago that the dynamo became a factor in the industrial world. Electric lighting, electric railways, the electrical transmission of power, and their allied industries have all come into practical existence since 1870, and to the famous Belgian inventor is due the honor of having made possible these great benefits to humanity.

All are invited.

J. B. Johnson,
Dean College of Engineering.

Junior Open.

The Junior Open has been set for March 20th, one week from tomorrow, and will be held at the old Library building at 2 p. m. This contest is open to all juniors, as opposed to the Junior Ex. for which the contestants are named by the several societies. Besides the speaker named below, several will undoubtedly enter from the ranks of the Junior Ex. orators.

The following juniors have entered the open: William H. Parker, George L. Gust, Fred O. Leiser, Michael B. Olbrich, William Campbell, James C. McKesson.

The Pabst Theatre Stock Co., in Minna von Barnhelm next Thursday night. Every student should attend.

Back Up the Crew.

The very trenchant communication from the naval department published on another page will reveal to the students just what is "up to them." It is a question of responding to the call or denying ourselves the pleasure of reading next spring about what our crew has done and of being distinguished as the only western university to support a crew at all.

It is very natural that outside friends of the University should hesitate to contribute extensively until they can be assured that the students themselves are going to manifest their loyalty and enthusiasm. No college of note that makes any pretensions at all to support athletics asks so little from the individual student in the way of financial support as does the University of Wisconsin. This is a fact to be proud of and it should make us all the more willing when the crisis arises to do our duty in supporting the athletic teams that bring us credit. The present situation in the finances of the boating department ought to awake us to a realization of our duty. The department ought to feel assured that as soon as its straits are fully appreciated a ready response will be manifested.

The maintenance of rowing at Wisconsin is a thing that ought to be striven for with all our energies and its lapse as a consequence of non-support would be a calamity in athletic interests whose effects would last a long time and be recovered from only with extreme difficulty. It is certainly time that something was done and the sooner the better.

New Courses Commenced.

Professor Ely, Director of the School of Political Science and History, has recently been in receipt of many letters in regard to the new course in Statistics, Public Service,

Practical Sociology, and Preparation for Journalism. These letters indicate a large demand for men in those lines. Among others was the following communication from Pres. W. H. Baldwin, Jr. of the Long Island R. R. Co.:

Long Island R. R. Co.,
128 Broadway, N. Y.,
March 6th, 1901.

Professor Richard T. Ely,
University of Wisconsin,
Madison, Wis.

My dear Sir;

I have looked over the proposed plan for your School of Economics and Political Science. I believe that you are right in aiming to train men for corporation and Government work. I cannot offer any suggestions to your plan. The examination that I am able to make of it suggests that you will get very little unfavorable criticism.

Yours very truly,
(signed) W. H. Baldwin, Jr.

P. S. The most important course is to teach the college man that he can only succeed by beginning at the bottom.

Professor Ely calls especial attention to the postscript and gives it as his opinion that there is a large opportunity for statisticians in the railway service. Probably these men will have to begin with small salaries, but if they have fair capacity and have done well in their work they may anticipate advancement. Dr. Ely would like to see at his office any students interested in these courses.

GEORGE MEREDITH.

Mrs. Slaughter Discusses Him Before Literary Club.George Meredith was the subject under discussion at the meeting of the Literary club with Mr. and Mrs. R. G.
Thwaites last evening, the paper being by Mrs. M. S. Slaughter. In an interesting and discriminating manner
she gave a comprehensive analysis of Meredith's genius. She treated him as a novelist combining in himself the philosopher and the poet. She pronounced his character drawing to be the great excellence of his novels, and aptly reviewed a number of the most typical characters, closing by saying:"Admitting grave faults and serious blemishes, there is in Meredith and all the varied world of his creation the fascination of a powerful mind, enlivened by keen wit, and beautified by poetic sensibility, combining, although not always in perfect balance, a sense of beauty with the love of truth."The paper was discussed by Mr. M.
G. Cunniff, Mr. R. E. N. Dodge and Prof. F. G. Hubbard. Remarks were made by Prof. Joseph Jastrow, Prof.

have also been shipped.Instructor Meisner of the German department selected a novel method of advertising "Minna von Barnhelm." In the souvenir pamphlet issued by the Germanistische Gesellschaft is an excellent German epitome of the play. This was assigned as to-day's lesson and was this morning translated by various classes.Interest in the firing squad under Dr. Buckley is daily increasing. At the meeting last night the squad was divided into two sections, meeting on Monday and Wednesday at 4 and 7 o'clock respectively. The squad has now a membership of thirty-five who are engaged in reloading and range practice.Some of the men have made excel-states that such is not the case. It seems that the Professor wrote some six articles about three years ago for Mr. J. B. Walker's newspaper syndicate which were not published at the time. These articles are now being published in the Cosmopolitan; three having been published thus far and another will appear in this month's

CHANGE OF LOCATION.

We are now situated at 215 State Street with everything new and up-to-date. The quality of our work is our best argument for permanent trade.
