GILKEY OPENS RELIGION MEET WITH 3 TALKS

Pastor Says Better Spirit of Brotherhood is Needed

FIFTY ATTEND BANQUET

The all-university religious conference opened yesterday afternoon with a speech by the Rev. Charles W. Gilkey, pastor of the Hyde Park Baptist church of Chicago, at Lathrop gymnasium. A banquet at 6 o'clock and Gilkey's second speech last night closed the day's events.

"Religion is part of the normal, wholesome college course just as much as are literature and art," said Dr. Gilkey, in his opening speech on "What Is There in Religion?"

Value of a Guide

"There are three vital things in religion," he continued, "reality, power, and adventure. Just as one is conscious of the mountain above the valley whether it is obscured by clouds or whether it is clear, one feels the reality of religion. Its reality may be proved by checking present obscurities by past valid experiences. Living with religion convinces one of its reality. Adventuring in it and experiencing it makes its presence certain."

"The greatest thing in religion is the adventure. There is a constant call to go on. Like mountain climbing in this respect also it is best not to adventure alone. For this reason we have discussion groups, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., and the guide, one who has gone before and who knows the heights. For this reason we should follow Christ."

Today's Need

In his talk last night on "Christianity as a Social Program," Dr. Gilkey declared that Jesus is the social engineer of society; that there are social and moral epidemics in human life, and that there are two great social germs which start these epidemics. The first of these germs is described by a passage of Kipling, "He may take who has the power, and he may keep who can." The second is the fundamental social attitude of irresponsibility which accentuates the act of the first.

"Is your education something given in trust for a definite end or is it for the promotion of selfish intentions? What we need most (Continued on Page 8)

LARGEST VOTE IN HISTORY POLLED AT JOINT ELECTIONS

Cleo Parsley '23 was elected president of S. G. A., Helen Kasbeer '23 president of Y. W. C. A. and Marjorie Severance '23 president of W. A. A., at the joint election of the three women's organizations held yesterday at Lathrop hall, when the largest vote in the history of women's organizations was polled.

The other officers elected include:

S. G. A.—Mary Baldwin '23, vice-president; Ellen Harris '24, secretary; Eleanor Head '23, treasurer; Pauline Dickinson '24, census chairman; and Anita Haven '24, district chairman.

Y. W. C. A.—Isabel Capps '23, vice-president; Marian Metcalf '24, secretary; and Margaret Callsen '24, treasurer.

W. A. A.—Florence Hupprich '23, vice-president; Maurine Hall '24, secretary, and Phyllis Tatman, treasurer.

Approximately 650 votes were cast for S. G. A. officers, 441 votes for Y. W. C. A., and 185 for W. A. A. The joint election system, tried out at this time, was accepted permanently as a system of both economy and unusual interest.

DETAILS SENT BY WIRELESS LEAD TO TWO ARRESTS

Sauk City Police Nab Pair Suspected of Bank Robbery

By broadcasting by radiophone the details connected with the robbery of the Randall State bank, which occurred yesterday morning, Malcolm P. Hanson, chief operator of the university radio station, furnished Sauk City police with clues which led to the arrest of two men suspected of the robbery.

Shortly after the robbery occurred the Holmes News service gave all the identifying details to Mr. Hanson, who broadcasted them after the weather report yesterday noon. All stations were asked to turn over the notice to the local police.

Operators of the large receiving set at Sauk City copied the report and rushed it to Marshal "Joe" Brillitt. As the message was delivered the marshal had just determined to release two suspects he had arrested on the basis of a regular wire from Madison police. This wireless message stated that the robbers were supposed to have escaped by means of a Ford car, and it was because of this message that the suspects were held for identification by the bank officials and Madison police, according to the Holmes News service.

"This is the first time that the radiophone has been used in Wisconsin to apprehend criminals," said Mr. Hanson. "With the rapid growth in number of radio receiving sets in the near future such a service will be of far greater value."

RUSSELL WILL HEAD INTERNATIONAL CLUB

Cecil R. Russell '22, of New Zealand, was elected president of the International students club for this semester at the regular meeting last night in Lathrop hall. Other officers elected are Ishmael Malarri '23, Philippine Islands, vice-president; Lois K. Stewart '23, United States, secretary; Anna C. Stoffregen '24, Latvia, treasurer.

Hesperia and Athenae Hold Important Debates

Ralph E. Axley '23 was selected as the representative for Hesperia literary society, for the "Junior Ex" contest to be held March 22, at the meeting last night. Both Hesperia and Athenae held debates at their respective meetings, and Philomathia selected debaters for its sophomore semi-public debate in the near future.

Hesperia held a debate on the following subject: "Resolved that the United States should conclude a treaty with Canada to provide for the completion of the Great Lakes to Tidewater waterway."

The affirmative, upheld by Calvert Dedrick '24, Bernhardt Tostenson '25, and Albert W. Weeks '23, won by a unanimous vote. The negative was represented by Harold Ashcroft '25, Carl Dansheuse '25, and Ralph E. Axley '23. Axley was selected as the representative for Hesperia for the "Junior Ex" contest.

At the meeting of Philomathia out of 14 sophomores who tried out, the following six were selected as the society's representatives for the semi-public debates: Harold Seering, Henry Klos, Albert Walters, Harold Laskay, Milton Erickson and Ernest Green. Frederick Nimmer and Harry Alberts were chosen as the alternates. The freshmen who are to represent the society are George Mitchell and Milton Stangel.

Athena held a debate on the economic question, "Resolved, That labor have an equal voice with ownership of industry in control of industry." Anthony Nerad '23 and Smead '23 upheld the affirmative. The negative was won by Clark Hazelwood '24 and Lewis Mikcika '25. Samuel Sygman '23 finished the meeting by giving a speech on conditions in the Volga valley in Russia.

BADGER TRACK SQUAD MEETS IOWA TONIGHT

Hawkeye Cinder Team Clashes Here For First Time in History

EVENT BEGINS AT 7:30

For the first time in the history of the two institutions, the Wisconsin and Iowa track teams will clash in an indoor meet in the gymnasium annex at 7:30 tonight. The Iowa team is coached by George Bresnahan, former track star and mentor at Wisconsin.

Since his advent at the Hawkeye institution, Bresnahan has put track to the fore as a major sport. His teams have made excellent showings at Conference indoor and outdoor track meets which were held at Evanston and Chicago last year. In the outdoor event, Iowa scored 16 points, more than it had ever rolled up before.

Dope Favors Iowa

Although not in the best of condition because of recent illness experienced by several of the men, the Wisconsin squad is expected to best the Iowans tonight. The heavy blow felt by the track team when George Finkle was injured has been augmented by the sickness of Mark Wall, another star distance man. Because he has been ill for the past two weeks, Wall will be unable to start against the Hawkeyes. New material has been entered in the distance events. Rossmeissl, Ramsey, Wille, and Schneider are a quartet of long-winded pacers who can fill holes left by the absence of Finkle and Wall.

Other Badgers have suffered from colds and are not in tip-top condition.

Hawkeyes Are Strong

"Iowa will give us closer competition than we at first expected," said Coach Thomas E. Jones yesterday. "George Bresnahan has developed a team that ranks with the best, and it will be no surprise if they hold us all of the way."

In Brookings and Wilson, Iowa has two of the fastest sprinters in the West. Brookings was the winner of the 75-yard dash at the Illinois relays held last week. He beat a formidable field to capture first place in the event. Wilson, the other Hawkeye speedster, won the 220-yard event at the National Intercollegiate meet held in Chicago last spring. He has done the 100-yard dash in 10 seconds flat, a feat (Continued on Page 7)

PLUMBERS PLAN BIG ST. PATRICK'S PARADE

The annual St. Patrick's day parade will be held by the Engineers Saturday afternoon, March 18, it was decided at a recent meeting of various groups at the Engineering building. This date was chosen because March 17 falls on Friday.

"Reserve your lamp-posts early," said "Hap" Phillips '22, manager of the parade, yesterday. Our parade may not be quite as elaborate as the one the Britishers had on Princess Mary's wedding day, but standing room is going to be scarce along State street on March 17, and we don't want anybody to start profiteering on good view points."

ABEL BERGE WRITES STATE JOURNAL AD

Abel J. Berge '22, of the Course in Commerce, wrote the full page advertisement which appeared in Thursday's State Journal with the head "Take Off the Brake That Holds Back Prosperity." The advertisement was the best one in the class in advertising given by Prof. E. A. Gardner. The problem was given to prepare an advertisement that would show the value to retailers of the newspaper in their own town.

"The object of the work in advertising is to aid the student in being of more practical service to the merchants in Wisconsin towns, and to promote thereby the prosperity in their own state," declared Professor Gardner.

The State Journal expressed an interest in the problem and offered to run the best advertisement prepared, according to Professor Gardner.

THE INDOOR TRACK MEET

THAT Wisconsin and Iowa will clash tonight in an indoor track meet for the first time in the history of the two schools is of historical interest, purely aside from the usual interest in such an event. This the first year that Wisconsin and Iowa have been in active athletic competition. Badger fans have seen the Hawkeye basketball team and will see the baseball team here this spring.

The beginning of cinder relations between the two institutions is one that we may well welcome. Iowa has of late been putting out teams of championship calibre, and their athletes play a clean, sporty game.

The indoor meet tonight should be productive of keen competition. But there is an added interest in tonight's meet. The Iowa track team has been coached by George Bresnahan, a former Wisconsin cross country runner and coach. Last season was the first in years that Iowa had an enviable record in indoor track. That record was made under Coach Bresnahan's direction, and judging from his past teams both here and at Iowa, the former Badger coach will give his Alma Mater stiff competition.

Results of the swimming meet with Northwestern and the basketball game at Chicago will be announced at the track meet.

OUR YEAR BOOK

THAT the 1923 Badger is a year book of which Wisconsin can well be proud is evident when one is privileged to steal a glance at some of the advance section copy. Despite increased printing costs, this year's Badger is being produced to sell at less cost than usual and in addition the delivery has been advanced to May 1.

With the object of trying to interpret the spirit of Wisconsin, the Badger heads have developed the alumni section and have shown how close is the alumni to the student body and how they, no less than these actually enrolled at the institution, carry on the spirit of Wisconsin. Such a theme is difficult to express and bring out in printed form so that its true value may be appreciated. But the Badger has unerringly caught the means of its interpretation. The ideals and achievements of the men and women of the university are shown as they exist both while at school and in that larger world outside.

In another way also has the spirit of Wisconsin been carefully portrayed. An elaborate pictorial history of the year has been added, which starts with a picture of students arriving in town, and follows them through registration and throughout the year until the end of summer school. In this way, as in perhaps no other, could the many activities, sports, and scholastic life be so admirably preserved in permanent history.

Our year book deserves the best that we have to give it, for no efforts have been spared to make it the best one of the college year books.

THAT THERE MIGHT BE MORE

PICTURE a storm-wrecked ship wallowing in over-heavy seas and gradually sinking stern first into them. And the commotion above decks and below, as the harassed crew strive to keep their charge afloat. And through all this conflict of elements, of crew, of ship, the wireless operator, sitting at the desk in his little room, tapping out the last words from the floundering ship.

Duty demanded that he send calls out into the ether for assistance. This he did. But with each call there was interspersed a joke, a jest at the plight in which the ship found itself.

The sole description news dispatches give of the wireless operator was "identity unknown."

It would be interesting to know of a man who could face certain death with a smile and a jest. We would like to know what was the birth and burden of a philosophy that would permit facing death in such a manner. Was he deeply religious? Was he a fatalist or was it simple stoicism? His last message, just as the ship was sinking, was "Sorry we can't wait for you, pressing business elsewhere." After that a silence still unbroken. But, again, what was his philosophy that so prepared him to face the dubious future?

Perhaps in that last hour before the dawn of another world he had been vouchsafed an inviting glimpse into the mysteries of that world. Perhaps that vision was so pleasing that he could accept the transition with pleasure and look at death smiling and unafraid. If such a vision came to him he gave no sign nor thought of it in his messages. Neither were they cynical, but, rather, full of witticisms unmixed with grim irony or bitter sarcasm.

Such messages might be sent by one with a deep conviction that the other world contained naught to fear, but much to welcome. Certain it is that we cannot charge him with simple bravado or mock heroics. In the grim hour before the dawn of another world few, indeed, there are but fall back on whatever religion they have in the hopes that it may after all be true. Whatever their creed or belief may have been, when death comes there is always the hope of a newer, better sphere. Even Robert Ingersoll, when preaching the funeral sermon of his brother, said "In the night of death Hope sees a star and listening love can hear the rustling of a wing."

There are few of us who would not welcome just such an attitude toward life and death as this wireless operator on the Grontoft so evidently had. The All-University Religious Conference might be an excellent place to take our doubts and our intelligence. We should certainly strive to learn more about the life that follows death and how best and worthiest to prepare for that death and that life.

Some 300 pages of records of prices of products, land, and labor, made by a Wisconsin farmer, have been reproduced by the U. S. department of agriculture.

"IT PAYS TO BUY IN MADISON"

From New York Comes a Variety of Fresh New Spring Styles

One can easily become enthusiastic over the new garments that Mr. R. T. McGuire has sent from New York to this store this week. There is variety aplenty, and beauty and verve in every model. Choosing this season promises even more than usual delights because styles have taken definitely fascinating new developments.

QUINT CLASHES WITH MAROONS IN FINAL GAME

Meanwell's Squad Is In Best of Shape For Tilt

PROBABLE LINEUP

|-----------|-------------|
| Wisconsin | Chicago |
| Seaser | f. Dickson |
| Taylor | f. Halladay |
| Gibson | c. Yardley |
| Williams | g. Romney |
| Tebell | g. McGuire |

The Badgers will clash with Chicago on the Midway tonight in the final Big Ten Conference clash of the season. The outcome of the game will tell whether Wisconsin will tie with Michigan for second place or with Illinois for third place.

The two teams appeared to be evenly matched when they played here on Wednesday night, and it is difficult to predict the victor in tonight's clash. The slight edge that the Badgers rated in the previous game will be off-set by the fact that the Maroons have the advantage of their own floor.

Team in Good Shape

Coach Meanwell's squad is in the best of shape for this last tilt. Gus Tebell still wears a brace on his leg, but the injured member is rapidly improving.

Two of the Badger regulars will play their last game for Wisconsin tonight. Captain Seaser has played a brilliant and a consistent class of ball all season. Last year he was shifted from one position when Coach Meanwell was trying to locate a winning combination. Due to the fact that he has occupied a forward berth in every game this year, he has been even more valuable than a year ago. Duke is not a spectacular style of player, but his excellent ability to play the floor has made him an indispensable cog in the complicated Meanwell offense.

Closes Brilliant Career

When "Cop" Taylor walks off the floor after tonight's game, Wisconsin will have lost one of the greatest basketball players ever produced in this institution. His work during his first year of Conference brought him the honor of being captain in his junior year. This year it was necessary to bank on him for most of the points, as consistent scorers were sadly lacking on the squad. At the end of each Taylor has placed on several mythical fives, and last year he led the Conference scoring column at the end of the season.

Coach Meanwell took about 20 men on the Chicago trip. Every man who is now on the squad, in addition to Managers Davis and Ellis, was carried along. They will return to Madison on Sunday.

PLAN FOR BIG 10 GYM MEET HERE

With the Big Ten Conference gymnastics and wrestling meet to be held here next week, Wisconsin coaches are preparing to entertain athletes and mentors from institutions throughout the entire Middle West. The meet is only held at Madison once every 10 years.

In addition to representatives from each of the Conference schools, men from Nebraska, Ames, and other prominent institutions of the Middle West will be here.

Championships in wrestling and gymnastics will be determined. The schedule of events as outlined by Coach Fred E. Schlatter, secretary of the Big Ten Gym and Wrestling association, calls for preliminary wrestling matches to be held Friday.

Semi-final wrestling matches will be run off on Saturday afternoon in conjunction with Coach "Eddie" Borgelt's all-university boxing tournament. The Big Ten championship gym team will be determined on Saturday evening and champion-

Wisconsin Tank Men Battle at Northwestern

Plungers Engage in Last Dual Meet of Season; Victory Will Give Cardinals Strong Title Claim

Wisconsin swimmers will engage in their last dual meet of the season when they give battle to Northwestern mermen in the Patten gym tank at Evanston tonight. The Badger team left early this morning for the Methodist institution.

Although every one of the tank men is in good condition, Coach Joseph C. Steinauer is not overly confident of defeating the Purple. "Coach Tom Robinson is a crafty mentor," said Steinauer yesterday, "and he will do everything possible to defeat Wisconsin. The Methodists walloped Chicago and the redoubtable Blinks by a larger score than we did. They were defeated by Illinois and Minnesota, but any team that can beat the Maroons has my respect."

Purple Has Veterans

A large number of veterans will compete for the Northwestern outfit. Childs and Paver are two men who can be counted on to get points in every event that they enter. Agnew is a good man in the dives, and Hayford has placed consistently in middle distance swims. With these men adding points to those gathered by new material that Coach Robinson has developed, the meet will be close all the way.

Wisconsin is again depending upon the speedy "Johnny" Bennett to do his share in fighting for a victory. Bennett will swim in the relay, the 40-yard swim, and the 220-yard event. If necessary, he will also start in the 100-yard sprint. The Badger fish has expressed a desire to enter each of these events in the Big Ten Conference swimming meet which will be held at Chicago next Saturday, and he also wants to enter a fifth event, the 440-yard swim. If Bennett beats his Northwestern opponents tonight, it is likely that Coach Steinauer will grant his wishes.

ship wrestling bouts will be held on the same program.

Returning from Minneapolis, where the Badger tumblers meet Minnesota tonight, Coach Schlatter will confer at Iowa City with Coach Mayser of Ames and President Schroeder of the gym association. Matmen, who by their work in dual meets have shown themselves to be of championship calibre, will be selected at this session. Four men in every weight are to be chosen to enter the Conference meet here next week.

LE VIELLE WINS 130 POUND GLOVE TITLE

The championship of the 130 pound class in the inter-class boxing tournament was awarded to Le VIELLE yesterday afternoon when he won a decisive victory over Leonard in the final scrap of the tournament.

Leonard entered the ring showing plainly the effects of his previous battles. His left eye was nearly closed. It proved to be a serious handicap, but Leonard fought gamely against his rival without flinching.

The Leonard-Le VIELLE contest completes the finals of the inter-class boxing tournament. All the division winners will be awarded numerals.

GYM TEAM OFF FOR MINNEAPOLIS

The Varsity gym squad entrains today for Minneapolis, where the meet with Minnesota will be held tonight. The prospects seem very good, as the Gophers were defeated by Chicago earlier in the week.

Although the Badger team has been badly crippled by the loss of several of the best men through ineligibility, among them being Kubosch who won three firsts in the all-university meet held Thurs-today is the spirit of brotherhood, a kindness to our neighbors as accomplished by few sprinters in the Big Ten today.

Devine to Pole Vault

Gordon, Locke, and Devine, football stars who put Iowa on the gridiron map last fall, will compete with the track squad. Locke is entered in the shot put, and Devine throws a mean weight in the same event. Devine is also listed as an entrant in the pole vault.

One of the outstanding events in the meet will be the relay. With Stolley, Spetz, Johnson, and McClure slated to carry the Badger baton, and Brookins, Wilson, Moore, and Keppler doing the running for Iowa, a close event will be the outcome.

Knollin Picked to Win

Capt. "Al" Knollin has been picked to win the high hurdles from Belding and Brookins. Stolley is also slated to count points in this event. Johnson has developed into one of the fast sprint men in the Conference. His work in the 300-yard dash at the Illinois relays made him look as a possible winner at the Conference meet which will be held next Saturday. Johnson will be pitted against Wilson tonight.

Dale Merrick, Conference pole vault champion and winner of the event in the 1921 Penn relays, will probably have things his own way in the aviation test. "Pete" Platten and Hoffman of Iowa should put on an interesting battle for honors in the high jump. Both of the men are good for more than six feet. Platten's work at the Illinois meet when he took a third place has placed him in the first rank of Big Ten high jumpers.

Gibson, the other Badger entrant, is close behind them and should be good for third place.

A new world's record for the 400-yard relays was maderecently by the Illinois A. C.'s team. Johnny Weissmuller swam the last hundred yards in 51 3-5 seconds, one second faster than the world's record for the 100-yard free style.

The intercollege relays will also be held tonight.
