PREFACE.

IN presenting to the public this work, as the revision of the City Directory of the City for 1877-8, its object and value in its preparation have been constantly held in view. Every effort was made in the canvass to procure the correct location of all citizens, while in connection with their business they become recognized in each and all branches conducted by them; also containing much other matter of utility and interest to the citizens of Madison and to strangers, rendering it a fit representation of the business and enterprise of the City.

The General Directory shows 3,500 names — an increase by actual count of 200 over 1875, and from which an estimate of the number of people living in the City can be made.

For any imperfections or omissions that may occur — notwithstanding the diligence used in gathering the promiscuous matter necessary to complete a work of this kind, especially the large number of names, which is believed to include all that would claim recognition within its pages — the publishers ask the indulgence of the public, trusting that the work will meet with that satisfaction and approval which it has been their earnest endeavor to achieve.

PRYOR & CO.

MADISON,

CAPITAL of the State of Wisconsin, and seat of justice for Dane county, is pleasantly situated on an isthmus lying between Lakes Monona and Mendota, the third and fourth of the four lakes. It is also the junction of the Prairie du Chien division, and the Madison branch of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway, at the crossing of the Madison branch of the Chicago and Northwestern Railway; also the southern terminus of the Madison and Portage Railroad. The history of the four lake country extends to a period far beyond the location of the Capitol here. The beauty of the scenery and the fertility of the soil had drawn forth eoniums of the tourist and adventurer. It was not, however, until the year 1836 that the site was purchased with the view of founding here a city. The Territorial Legislature which had assembled in the early part of 1837, at Belmont in Lafayette county, passed an act locating the Capitol at this place, then an unbroken wilderness, a result of which was the laying out of a town in February of the same year, by J. Catlin and Moses M. Strong. A more beautiful site for a city could not be desired. Standing upon the dome of the Capitol, the picture presented is of the most grand and exciting nature. To the southeast, and almost under your feet, is the beautiful Lake Monona, dotted with white sails, and tracked by the constant passing to and fro of several little pleasure steamers. To the northwest is the broad and beautiful Lake Mendota with the State Hospital for the Insane occupying its north bank in full view of the city. Immediately west, at the head of State street, situated on a mound like hill, is the State University.

Surrounding the Park are long rows of stately business blocks many of them of beautiful design and finish. On every hand private residences enveloped with foliage present themselves. The long avenues bordered with shade trees, afford a most beautiful and inviting spectacle.

As the Capitol, Madison, is the pride of the whole state, and surely no other state in the Union has a capitol whose location is so enchantingly beautiful. The Lake Side retreat—with its charming scenery of fairy lakes, rolling prairies and noble woodlands, all conspire to render it the most attractive place for summer resort in the whole northwest. Here conventions almost numberless, and of every kind — political, literary and scientific — constantly assemble, and here, where the best libraries in the state are concentrated, men of science and literary taste naturally resort. It must always be the favorite watering place, and always remain the Athens of Wisconsin.

APPLETON, WIS.:
PRYOR & CO., PUBLISHERS.

1877.

PREFACE.

We present to our patrons a new Directory of the City of Appleton, hoping that it will meet with their approval.

A thorough canvass of the city has been made, and every effort used to obtain the names of all persons who should be represented in a Directory.

The General Directory shows 2,300 names, an increase of over 500 since 1874, from which an estimate of the number of people living in the city may be made.

The classified Business Directory is a complete mirror of the business and manufacturing interests. The Miscellaneous Department shows the City and County Official Lists, and the various Public Institutions.

To those who have extended to us their aid and patronage, our thanks are due.

APPLETON.

The City of Appleton is situated on the banks of the Fox River, and is the seat of justice of Outagamie County; is on the line of the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad, 213 miles from Chicago, and 30 miles from Green Bay. It has railroad connection with all important points in the Northwest, also a water connection with the Mississippi River and the Lakes by the Green Bay and Mississippi Canal—formerly known as the Fox and Wisconsin River Improvement—giving the city the advantage of competing markets and communication with all parts of the country. The improvement and progress of the place has been gradual and healthy. One of the finest water powers in the world affords superior advantages for almost all kinds of manufactures. The timber, for several miles about here, consists of oak, maple, ash, hickory, butternut, pople, basswood, etc., used in the manufacture of almost every useful article made of wood, which, on account of its proximity to the water power, is exceedingly valuable. The flow of this river is steady, constant, and uniform, being supplied from the immense reservoir—Lake Winnebago—which is thirty-five miles in length, from nine to fifteen miles in width, and from twelve to twenty-five feet in depth. The flow is so well regulated that the fluctuations between high and low water seldom exceed three feet, thus furnishing a very nearly uniform supply—never troubled by either drought in summer, ice in winter, nor floods at any time. The bottom of the river is a rock-bed, furnishing a good quality of building stone, used to a considerable extent about here. Races, flumes and wing dams are built at a trifling cost, and the rock bottom furnishes a solid and secure foundation for mills and other structures—offering a combination of advantages, to those desiring to invest in that kind of property seldom met with. Cheap and ready facilities for extensive and varied manufactures may be had here—an abundant water power, plenty of hard timber of various kinds, a healthy climate, ample shipping facilities, a rich and productive soil, cheap living, and all the advantages that contribute to render it one of the most favorable points for investment by capitalists. Capital is needed here, and a full understanding of the opportunities of investment will not fail to attract it.
