J. B. PARKINSON AND W. P. POWERS
Celebrating 65th Anniversary of Graduation

Published by GENERAL ALUMNI ASSOCIATION of University of Wisconsin

N. B.—Ten thousand copies mailed this month.

It is part of the business of electricity to make homes brighter, safer and more livable.

Electrical engineers are at the service of every manufacturer who seeks larger production with lower costs.

CHEAP ELECTRICITY

—a great achievement

THE CHANCES are you have not visited your electric light and power company. You may not even know where it is.

But a great achievement has been going on inside its walls.

Old machinery has been taken out, new machinery installed. In years when the cost of most commodities has risen, the cost of electricity has been kept down. It is lower now than before the war.

This means lower manufacturing costs for your industries and better light for your homes.

It means that the routine tasks of home life can be done by inexpensive little motors.

It means conservation of the nation's coal supply.

To an industry in which such achievements are possible, the General Electric Company has made many contributions. It has built new and improved machinery for the electric light and power companies; and in its research laboratories it has developed better lamps and other devices by which electricity is efficiently used.

And day by day, progress continues. There are still millions of homes without electricity; still many tasks being done in factories and homes by human hands which electric motors ought to do.

By cooperation on the part of all—manufacturer, public utility company, and public—this improvement will go on.

This monogram is on all sorts of electrical equipment, large and small—the big generators that produce electricity, the lamps that banish darkness, and the motors which do the hard and tiresome tasks of life. You can rely upon the letters G-E. They are a symbol of service, wherever electricity is used.

CREWS AND GRADS AT POUGHKEEPSIE

By GEORGE HILL, '08

SEVEN racing shells were aligned across the broad Hudson, ready for the starting gun. A minute before, a hundred Badger grads had sent the strains of "Varsity" out across the waters as a message to the farthest boat, the one that carried the colors and hopes of Wisconsin.

The gun thudded. And just then the No. 7 slide in the Navy boat, a piece of furniture with no sense of drama, jammed, and all the crews were called back amid much cussing.

Again they got set. Again, ten thousand spectators held their breaths—and believe me, there were a few breaths on the observation train that were hard to hold. It was so still that one could hear the referee's "Are you ready?"

wasn't. Coulter put up his hand, but the referee didn't see it. The gun sounded, and Wisconsin got away a fraction of a length to the bad.

Penn was the first to step out ahead, but within the first mile Navy took the lead, Washington right with them. It wasn't long before it was apparent that as far as first place was concerned, those two were going to make it a private fight.

Wisconsin was way back, last, rowing the most deliberate stroke on the river. Emotional alumni on the train felt they ought to take some drastic action about it—sing "Varsity" again, or something.

Then, just about the two and a half mile mark, Wisconsin began coming up, imperceptibly at first, then faster. Cornell and Columbia were passed as if they were a couple of given points. Wisconsin next passed the Poughkeepsie bridge, which was standing still, and the Syracuse shell, which was moving, but not enough.

The Pennsylvanians at their apogee had had about five lengths lead on Wisconsin. Now they had one length, and that was shrinking like $2 flannel pants after summer rain.

The last half mile! The prow of the Badger boat went inching forward along the profile of the Penn shell, and out into the lead. The Penn eight threw all they had into a last effort, but Wisconsin shot over the finish line, an eighth of a length to the good.

Distant alumni, reading in the paper that Wisconsin had rowed third, maybe didn't get much of a kick out of it, but to those on the spot that last mile and a half provided one of the richest thrills in the annals of Badger sport.

The time: Navy 19:24½, Washington 19:28, Wisconsin 19:58, Penn 19:59, Cornell 20:04, Syracuse 20:05, Columbia 20:10.

Coach Vail said afterwards that the crew had rowed just the race he wanted them to. Wisconsin had neither the evenly-distributed power nor the unshakable form of Navy and Washington. Carrying out "Dad" Vail's strategy, Capt. Teckemeyer kept the stroke easy to start, saved the stamina of the less powerful men in the boat, and worked them into just the right swing, and so brought them into the crucial last half of the race with their energy and oarsmanship at the peak.

The freshman race was not so good. Wisconsin never got out of last place and Syracuse won. We had no entry in the junior varsity race, which Washington took.

Reviewing the season, "Dad" Vail said the weather had been the hardest handicap. The crew got on the water March 30, but then followed weeks of wind and rain, when the boats were driven to Monona or came in waterlogged.

For next year, things look prosperous. Harold Coulter, '26, coxswain the past two seasons, has been elected captain. Stroke Teckemeyer, who needs only one semester to graduate, plans to take it in the spring, and row again. Burrus, '27, and McCarter, '27, will be on the job again, and there is good j. v. and frosh material.

"DAD" VAIL

"Jerry" Dahl is Host.

The most princely party in U. W. alumni history was that given by Gerhard Dahl, '96, to the New York Wisconsinites who attended the regatta. High words—but listen further.

There were 135 in the crowd. For their transportation, "Jerry" Dahl provided the 228-foot steam yacht Collier County, all arrayed with steamer chairs, bridge tables, cushions and everything. There was a six-piece orchestra to dance by, plus amateur musical talent. Lunch and dinner were served aboard, and just to make it easier the catering was by Sherry.

This hospitality, mind you, was "Jerry" Dahl's individual contribution to the big day.

The trip up-river was something to remember—a perfect breezy Hudson morning. Arrived opposite Poughkeepsie, most of the bunch disembarked to take the observation train. The banjos and saxophones came along, giving Wisconsin the only band present. The Collier County anchored, at a spot from which, later, those who had stayed on board had a grandstand view of the crew's great rally in the varsity race.

In the evening, the whole crowd voyaged back, hoarse but happy, and full of salt air, Sherry eats and appreciation.

Showing the Crews the Big Town.

That wasn't all. Next evening, the crews, coaches, and others were guests of a reception committee of thirty-three local alumni. Over sixty people sat down to a stag dinner at Beefsteak Charlie's, old grads and undergrads alternating at the long tables.

Can you beat this line-up at the head table? Gerhard Dahl, '96, presiding; "Dad" Vail; Andy O'Dea; Capt. Oscar Teckemeyer, '26; Prof. Ray Owen, '04; and Morris Gest. Lieutenant Gitz-Rice dropped in on his way to the Capitol Theater, and sang and played for us his song "Dear Old Pal of Mine," and some of his new ones.

"Dad" Vail told us what he is aiming at, in doing his part of the University's task of building men, mentally and spiritually as well as physically. Ray Owen eulogized "Dad," as teacher and leader. Capt. Teckemeyer spoke for the crew, and paid his own tribute to them, as a gang with more fight in them than any other he'd ever known. Andy O'Dea said it looked to him as if the old slogan, "No quitters at Wisconsin," was still good.

A pleasant surprise feature was the presentation to "Jerry" Dahl of resolutions signed by the regatta committee and other alumni, putting on record their appreciation of all that he had done, not only at the regatta but on many previous occasions, for the alumni and for Wisconsin. (See 1896 class news.)

From the dinner the crews and their alumni hosts adjourned to Mr. Ziegfeld's unequalled and educational Follies. When Will Rogers finished his act he stepped before the curtain, and introduced the crews to the New Amsterdam audience—The Thrill That Comes Once in a Life-time. The boys got a big hand, and by Rogers' request obliged with "On Wisconsin"—Then Rogers introduced "Jerry" Dahl and "Dad" Vail, and when "Dad" wasn't looking, lassoed him. Aye, a spacious and merry evening.

The arrangement of the foregoing events was the work of a regatta committee of fourteen. Gerhard Dahl, '96, was chairman, H. Edw. Bilkey, '12, secretary. Frank Stoppenbach, '12, managed the dinner, Raymond Bill, '16, the theater party. Harry Benedict, '16, decorations, James Thompson, '10, publicity.

Among those present at Poughkeepsie were Louis Zollner, '13, from Europe, Billy McMillan, '09, from Milwaukee; and from Madison, came Mr. and Mrs. Teckemeyer, parents of our captain, Prof. E. H. Gardner and family, and a group of "studes" who drove all the way by flivver. Andy O'Dea, U. W. crew coach from 1899 to 1906, now with Spaulding's, New York, was at the regatta for the first time since he brought the '06 crew there.

WISCONSIN ROWING A REMARKABLE ACHIEVEMENT

ALAN J. GOULD, Sports Editor, New York Evening Post.

"To Vail's unflagging interest, his high purpose, and fine coaching ability are due

Wisconsin's showing on the water and the fact that the sport has been kept alive where in ninety-nine out of one hundred cases it would have been abandoned long ago.

"With the spirit to carry on under these conditions, it is no wonder Wisconsin has succeeded in rowing. Our hat is off to any crew willing to carry its boat two miles a day in order to practice and get a chance to compete in one race at the end of the season.

"It may take years, but Vail is convinced the seed has been planted for a rowing group in the Middle West which will dispute the supremacy now enjoyed by the East and Far West."

COMMENCEMENT WEEK

FRANK K. WALTER, librarian of the University of Minnesota, delivered the commencement address to the graduating class of the library school in the auditorium of the City Library, Thursday evening, June 18. He took as his subject "In a Quiet Corner with a Little Book," from Thomas à Kempis, emphasizing the joy to be found by the librarian in her own personal reading. Dr. Birge delivered the charge to the class. Guests of the evening were Dr. Willard Bleyer of the Department of Journalism and Dean F. Louise Nardin. The class gift to the school was a nest of tables.

The School of Music senior recital took place in Music Hall on June 18, with Gudrun Estvad, violinist, accompanied by Marion Pelton, and Constance Maclean, pianist, performing. The program was as follows:

CLASS DAY

At 10:15 the Alumni Board met at Music Hall Friday, June 19. Reasons why other duties prevented Catharine Cleveland accepting re-appointment to the Board of Visitors were presented. After discussion the appointment of Mrs. Lucy McLaughlin Berry, '94, Chicago, was unanimously agreed upon.

The semi-annual meeting of the Alumni Council was called to order at 10:30 a. m. in the lecture room of the Law Building by Vice President Charles Byron, who explained that President Haight was absent because of illness. The following responded to roll call:

Classes: 1880—Annie Dinsdale Swenson; 1884—Clara Baker Flett; 1885—O. D. Brandenburg; 1889—Ernest Warner; 1893—Julia Murphy; 1894—Caroline Young; 1895—Anna Griffiths; 1902—Jane Sherrill; 1904—Florence Moffatt Bennett; 1906—L. W. Bridgman; 1909—Edwin Witte; 1910—William Meuer; 1913—Alvin Reis; 1914—Russell Carpenter; 1916—Jessie Maurer; 1920—Phyllis Hamilton.

The following acted as proxies for class secretaries: 1912—William Aberg for Laura Johnson; 1878—Charles Buell for Frank Noyes; 1924—Walter Frautschi for Esther Bilstad; 1898—Arlene Grover for May Church John; 1921—Helen McCarthy Teckemeyer for Mary Parkinson; 1860—W. P. Powers for J. B. Parkinson.

Clubs: Ames—L. H. Pammel; Antigo—C. H. Perry; Baraboo—H. M. Langer; Chicago Alumni—Samuel Hickox, E. S. Nethercut, Walter Bemis, H. C. Marks; Dayton—R. L. Hankinson; Denver—John Gabriel; Dodge County—Mildred Elser; Knoxville—Neena Myhre Woolrich; New York—Wm. Kies; Rusk County—Leo Schoepf; Sioux City—Helen Stilwill.

Members at Large: H. W. Adams, Charles Byron, Catherine Cleveland, John Gabriel, Charles Rogers, and D. Y. Swaty.

The recommendation of the Alumni Board of Mrs. Lucy McLaughlin Berry, '94, for member-hip on the Board of Visitors, received unanimous approval.

Secretaries from several local clubs presented informal reports of much interest. The growth of local clubs received favorable comment. Hope was expressed that a local club might be organized in Madison and that Milwaukee might strengthen its club, and that throughout the state the local club idea might secure firm endorsement and support.

The proposed new constitution was then brought before the meeting by S. S. Hickox, '14. After discussion as to why the second publication of the proposed new constitution had not yet appeared, together with some arguments regarding provisions of the new constitution, agreement was reached to publish both the present constitution and the proposed new constitution in this issue of the ALUMNI MAGAZINE, so that all members of the Association might have opportunity to determine by vote which one is desired.

Loyal Durand, '91, then explained the difficulties which had forced the Alumni Board to become "extra-constitutional," confidently trusting that every member of the Alumni Association would support the action taken by the Board in helping the University through the recent crisis; that this action was required to save the legislative program for the University. On suggestion of S. S. Hickox, the following statement by Loyal Durand regarding the situation is published: "The Alumni Board has had several meetings dealing with the finances of the Association. The president of the Association has gone out among his friends and raised money. We have not had a budget. It was necessary to employ a man to organize local clubs. President Haight personally undertook to finance him, if necessary. He has done that for quite a while. That was necessary really to save the legislative program of the University; and in my opinion it has done more to help the University than any other thing that has been done. Then in the May meeting we came up against a stone wall; we did not have enough available funds to go on with the work, unless funds were raised voluntarily as had been done. At that meeting our treasurer, Mr. Elwell, brought in a scientific report. We discussed this matter of dues the entire evening. Finally when we were up against going out to ask for charity or become extra-constitutional and see whether the alumni would come across or not, we finally voted for $4.00 annual dues, hoping that under the extreme circumstances which demanded it you would all support our extra-constitutional action. From now on we want to put Mr. Elwell's report into operation. In order to do that we must be on a sound financial basis. We find that many other alumni associations that are very strong have dues of at least $5.00. Some associations have annual dues as high as $10.00. While we felt that $5.00 should be our minimum, we finally compromised on $4.00. We also believe that $4.00 will not keep any loyal alumnus out of the Association. We want those who serve on the Alumni Board to get the finances on a budget system so that a program for a year ahead can be carried out without being from month to month in the position of not knowing where the money is to come from."

As several members of the Council expressed doubt as to the wisdom of holding the annual business meeting in conjunction with the alumni dinner as had been arranged, Vice President Byron announced that the annual meeting would therefore be changed from Saturday evening to Saturday morning at 10:00 o'clock.

In the traditional Ivy Ceremony Alice Corl delivered the ode, and Elmer Barringer planted the ivy near Bascom Hall, preceding the following 1925 Class Exercises which were held on the lake-shore back of the Union Building at five o'clock.

The class play "Dear Brutus" received cordial applause from all alumni who had the opportunity to attend. Many volunteered that they had never seen an amateur performance which equalled this. Exercises for class day were concluded with the Pipe of Peace ceremony on the lower campus in which G. W. Mitchell represented the seniors and O. L. Wiese represented the juniors.

ALUMNI DAY

From 10:30 to 11:30 Saturday morning June 20, the Benson quartettes entertained alumni at Music Hall between registration periods.

The annual business meeting was called in the lecture room of the Law Building at 10:40 a. m. The nominating committee presented the following recommendations for positions on the Alumni Board: To fill the unexpired term of the late R. N. McMynn, B. E. McCormick, '04, LaCrosse; to represent the College of Agriculture, L. W. Graber, '10, Madison; to represent the College of Engineering, L. F. Van Hagan, '04, Madison; to represent the College of Medicine Dr. V. S. Falk, '11, Stoughton. This report was unanimously adopted.

Motion was then formulated by A. H. Melville, '12, New York City, and C. B. Rogers, '93, Ft. Atkinson, to the effect that alumni desire notice of visits of faculty members to their cities, so that arrangements can be made for them to be guests of local U. W. clubs. This motion, which was accompanied by instructions to the general secretary to advise local clubs of such prospective visits, received unanimous endorsement. C. V. Hibbard, '00, then moved that the meeting recommend to the Alumni Board that they consider the problem of giving out facts in response to false publicity and of being a clearing house for alumni matters. Motion was formulated by C. B. Rogers and amended by E. S. Nethercut, instructing the executive secretary to call this annual meeting at 10:00 o'clock each Alumni Day in the lecture room of the Law Building, and to include with the notice a program of the business to be taken up. Motion was then passed.

On request of Vice President Byron, Mr. Shrimski spoke of the excellent work accomplished by President Haight for the Association and of his plans for enlarging and improving the organized alumni activities during the coming year. On motion of E. S. Nethercut, a letter commending Mr. Haight, assuring him of support in his efforts, and expressing hope for his early and complete recovery was drafted for presentation at the alumni dinner. Subsequent to such presentation and approval by those present, the secretary was instructed to forward it to Mr. Haight. On suggestion of Mrs. George Buckstaff (Florence Griswold, '86), a letter of commendation was also sanctioned for similar action in appreciation of the work by Theodore Kronshage Jr., '91, president of the Board of Regents. Frank Saridakis, '04, then made the excellent suggestion that secretaries of local clubs send important personal news items as well as notices of regular club meetings for publication in the ALUMNI MAGAZINE.

The meeting adjourned at 11:45 a. m.

Many class groups availed themselves of the privilege of Lathrop Cafeteria for enjoyable, informal luncheon gatherings.

The zigzag parade made a fine spectacle as it wound up the campus led by the 1915 reunion band. The class of 1910 claimed W. P. Powers, '60, as their adopted son, while 1915 refused to surrender their claim on President Birge, who under feminine guard wore the 1915 reunion cap despite attempts of 1910 to replace it with their head-piece. William Meuer's company took a panoramic picture of the class reunion groups on Lincoln Terrace. Here the Benson quartettes again sang for the alumni, and a few faculty members were on hand to extend their greetings.

The Chicago-Wisconsin ball game on the lower campus, and the fine band concert on the President's lawn furnished entertainment during the rest of the afternoon. Chicago won the ball game. Major Morphy showed his pluck by personally directing his wonderful student band despite an unfortunate accident in the morning in which he had both bones of his right arm broken. It is a question whether any other University band can surpass the concert band that has been developed at Wisconsin.

A thousand alumni, led by the University band, marched from Music Hall to the Gymnasium at 5:30 for the Alumni Dinner. Julius Olson, '84, got that great parade of classes (1860 to 1925) together with regents and some faculty members under way so that every one reached the Gymnasium on time. Here Don Halverson aided by George Chandler and other capable assistants seated this large congregation and provided them with a fine chicken dinner in the face of what to many would have been insurmountable physical difficulties and inconveniences. We were fortunate, too, in having Professor Gordon in charge of the music, with Robert Nethercut, '25, at the piano. As was natural, "Varsity" was sung by all before the dinner; the Benson quartettes followed, and then the reunion classes broke loose. Details of their entertainment may be found among the special accounts of class reunions. All during the dinner there was quartette music and class reunion stunts—good music and entertaining stunts. The 1915 band responded to special requests and Leo Schoepf played a euphonium solo. There was some community singing, and of course everybody had a good time.

A stenographic report of a portion of the program which followed this hilarious good time is presented:

Mr. Byron: As many of you know, George Haight, president of our General Alumni Association, is ill tonight and for that reason cannot be present. At the alumni meeting this morning the following resolutions were adopted and instructions given for their transmission to George Haight. It will be done. The following are the resolutions:

"The members of the Association desire to express to you the unanimous appreciation of the splendid work which you have undertaken in behalf of Wisconsin. In a most remarkable way you have realized an opportunity for service on the part of every alumnus and taken a leadership in a manner which is an inspiration.

"May you soon be restored to good health. You have the complete sympathy of all."

On behalf of the Association,

Charles Byron, Vice President

Robert Crawford, Executive Secretary

Also at our meeting this morning other resolutions were passed in behalf of Regent Kronshage. I now wish to read such resolutions:

"Times of stress develop strong men. The alumni of the University in recognition of the work you have done and are doing for our Alma Mater desire to express to you their appreciation and confidence."

The Alumni Association,
By the Officers.

Mr. Byron: Fifty years of service in a single organization is a real accomplishment. Fifty years as an educator has given an exceptional opportunity to leave a wonderful impress upon the lives of thousands of students who now constitute the alumni body. Our President not only has witnessed our University grow from its infancy to strong manhood, but in a large measure he is responsible for that healthy growth. At all times he has been a kindly counselor and a patient executive. Naturally it is hard for us to give him up as our leader; but he is entitled to have a much-desired opportunity to accomplish other results dear to his heart. We glory in the fact that he may enter upon his chosen pursuits with full vigor and motion. We who know him respect, honor,—and love him. President Birge. (Prolonged applause and skyrocket for Prexy. Audience rose.)

Dr. Birge: "Members of the Alumni Association: May I begin with a word of personal thanks to you. I have appreciated fully the kind words that have been said about me during the latter part of this year. I have taken unalloyed happiness in them, more than I ever have in any compliments before or in any that I shall receive. And my main reason for happiness is that none of you expects me to live up to what you have said! (Applause and laughter.) May I sum them all up in a way that I should like to be remembered by you. Do you recall what Sergeant Mulvaney said of one of his privates?—'He was a good man while he lasted.' And if you will so remember me, and say also that he lasted a good while— (Prolonged applause and much laughter.)

"I should like to greet all of the classes here. There are hardly any with which I have not some special recollection. But I must confine myself to two—to the class of 1915, first (applause). You will notice that that class is extremely proud of me, and they have reason to be, because I am the champion long-distance degree-getter and I belong to their class. I began to study at the University of Wisconsin in 1875 and forty years later I received a degree. I suppose that I am the only specimen of that kind in captivity, and as a unique specimen the class is justly proud of my companionship. (Applause.)

"And I want to say one word of greeting to the class of 1875, the class which celebrates its semi-centennial with me. I am glad that so large a proportion of the class is present. In 1923 when I celebrated my semi-centennial at Williams, my class bore the record for the largest percentage of attendants. And I think that the class of '75 today has the largest percentage of attendants of any class here. (Applause.) May I recommend to you of the alumni a custom which we have had at Williams for years. There is a large silver bowl, more appropriate perhaps in pre-Volstead days than it is now, and yet a beautiful souvenir of repeated occasions at present, and on that is inscribed each year the name and number of the class which has the maximum percentage of attendants. And my class of '73 will be handed down in the annals of Williams as having had the record at its semi-centennial, and I wish that it was possible for the class of '75 to have a similar record made of its attendance here.

"My thoughts go back, of course, to those days when I began my teaching here. The year that is just closing, fifty years ago, was my first year of teaching, and in the class which I then taught two names distinguished in the annals of the state, and equally distinguished in the annals of the University, appear. They are the names of Charles R. Van Hise and Robert M. La Follette, both of them members of the first classes which I taught. Perhaps I ought not to say 'taught,' for I had never taught classes before—the classes on which I practiced, and you have had the benefit of that practice.

"I wonder if you appreciate how small an affair the University was fifty years ago. The class of '75 had thirty-one on the hill, and thirty-six lawyers. That brought the total list of alumni up to 436; less than half as many in the total list of graduates during twenty-five years as are present at this dinner here tonight. During those fifty years that have passed since '75 graduated, there have been added more than 25,000 diplomas to our list; 20,000 and more of those have come in the last twenty-five years; and in my own administration of seven years, if I include the diplomas for this commencement, I shall have signed nearly 10,000 diplomas. So rapid has been the growth of the University.

"But it has not grown equally, and it has been especially true that its financial advancement has come in waves. I came in on one of those tides of financial prosperity. In 1875 the first Science Hall was granted by the legislature. In 1876 the one-tenth mill tax was granted for the first time. In the early 90's the next great wave of prosperity came. And the next one, after a somewhat longer interval, came in 1903 and the succeeding years. And then at this time we may believe that a similar wave of prosperity has started. During the past year there have died here in Wisconsin four governors, each of whom was associated with these waves of prosperity: Governor Upham, under whose administration in 1895 the income of the University from the state was more than doubled, as a temporary measure; Governor Schofield, his successor, under whom that addition to our income was made permanent; Governor Philipp who broke through the long period in which no appropriations had been given us for buildings by discovering the way and where funds might be found for the building of the hospital; and last, he whose body now lies in state in the Capitol, Governor La Follette, who is associated with too many items in the development of our University for me to attempt to name them.

"No university, I think, in this country ever was so fortunately situated as was Wisconsin in the years following 1903, when President Van Hise assumed the administration and when Senator LaFollette was governor of the state. They were friends from boyhood, intimate friends in the years that had followed graduation as well as in college. They shared the same education. They had the same ideals, the same large plans for both state and University. The governor was profoundly interested in education; the president was profoundly interested in the development of the state. It was a unique situation in which two men thus united could both plan and execute for the joint advantage of the state and of the University. And that situation was fully utilized by both of them, and during the ten years which followed the inauguration of President Van Hise, the University of Wisconsin through the joint care of these two men and of those who were associated with them in the administration of the state and the administration of the University, through their care, through the interest of the alumni, through the interest of the citizens of the state, the University of Wisconsin developed intellectually and materially as perhaps no other university in this country has developed during an equal period of years. That period lasted, as I say, about ten years, and words will always fail the graduate of the University of Wisconsin to express the debt which this University and through the University the state of Wisconsin owes to the two men, Van Hise and LaFollette. Then came the war. And with that came the period of unsettlement and more or less confusion which has lasted until the present time. And now as this period comes to a close, the friendship between these two men, which was broken by death a few years ago, is now reunited by death.

"Let me turn from the past to say a few words of the results of the year. All of you have heard more about the University this year than for a long time before. You know the general results which have been reached in the legislature of the current year. We have received from the legislature funds sufficient to maintain the University in the strength in which you have known it, funds sufficient to begin the restoration of our buildings, a restoration of the increase, perhaps I should say, of the area of our buildings and of the condition which you who were here ten, fifteen, or twenty years ago recall as existing in your day, but which has been destroyed by the increase in the number of students and by the lack of building appropriations. You will hear the results of this in toto when the legislature has adjourned and when we have time to sum these gifts up and send them out to you.

"But tonight I wish to speak of a much more important matter, the renewed interest of the alumni and state in the University. And that renewed interest you owe, more than any other two men, to those whose names were read by the vice president of the Alumni Association and for whom they so rightly adopted resolutions of thanks—Haight of the Class of 1899, and Kronshage of the Class of 1891. More and more as years pass will their services during the past winter stand out with distinction as great gifts to the University, nobly responded to by you who are alumni.

"And that is not all. Because, after all, while the University is dearer to us who are alumni, must be dearer to us than to any other citizens of the state, it is the university of the state and not the university of faculty, of students, or even of alumni. Those who have been out in the state during the past weeks come back with the unanimous report of the renewed interest of the citizens of the state, alumni, and others as well—that great majority of the citizens of the state who are not and cannot be alumni. They report that the carping spirit which has been so prevalent in the state during the past three years has been replaced by a spirit of warm interest. The efforts of the Alumni Association, led by Haight and Kronshage, have stimulated the imagination of the people of the state. A university which lives close to the people as we do, not only aids them but establishes points of friction, and too often it is the small frictions of the University, the small incidents in its going on, that attract the attention and call out comment. But when some situation comes which arouses the imagination, which touches the heart of the people of the state, then these small matters disappear, and the real affection and the real respect of the state and its citizens as well as the alumni makes itself manifest in its strength as it has done during the past weeks and months, and to which our legislature has responded, not grudgingly or of necessity, but giving us that which they would gladly give if they felt and when they felt that they had behind them the warm sympathy and support of the people of Wisconsin. For that happy situation you owe, much more than any other names, Kronshage and Haight, and their achievement will stand out in the records of the University as distinguished service to the University and to the state of Wisconsin.

"Now may I say a few words as to the future. One who came into service as I did immediately following the armistice cannot help but have a special disappointment as the years have passed that the confusion and distress that followed the war have lasted so long. Early in the period, as I have said, through the aid of Governor Philipp, the University found the way to get past one of its great difficulties, the establishment of an adequate hospital—for the state as a public service institution, for the University as a laboratory for the medical school—the way to find the large sum of money necessary for that purpose without encroaching on the tax-raised money in the state due for general administrative as well as for University interests. He found this special fund in the surplus of the soldier bonus fund on which we were able to draw for this great advantage of the University. And I had hoped that when that had been accomplished and when the ice had been broken which had so long held back our building appropriations, we had hoped that the rest would follow in due course. But the panic or depression, as I call it, following immediately on 1920 set things back and prolonged the period of confusion. And so where I had hoped soon to be able to turn the University over to a successor, it seemed to me as though our voyage was bound in shallows and in miseries and was destined to continue there for an indefinite length of time. But today we may feel that we are fairly out of these, and therefore the administration of President Frank, which will begin next fall, we may look to see as a period of rapid advancement both in the material and in the intellectual interests of the University. Wisconsin has always been the home of the Wisconsin spirit. The University has been its center. And we hope and believe and have full faith that in the years to come the University will be for us in a higher and greater sense the home of Wisconsin spirit, the center from which that spirit radiates and influences the state." (Prolonged applause.)

President Birge was then presented with a floral tribute by William Foster on behalf of the class of 1915, with a beautiful engrossed parchment containing congratulatory resolutions by William Kies, '00, on behalf of the U. W. Club of New York, and by funds for a Birge Scholarship by Lynn Williams, '00, on behalf of the class of 1900. Regent M. B. Olbrich, '02, was then called to the platform by Mr. Byron.

Mr. Olbrich: I come to the platform tonight for the simple purpose of moving the supplement of the resolutions passed this afternoon. It is not my purpose to add to or amplify anything that President Birge has said about Senator LaFollette. I shall simply content myself with moving that the officers of the Alumni Association as the unanimous expression of this body be instructed to draft suitable resolutions of condolence and sympathy and to transmit them with an appropriate floral tribute to the funeral services and to the family of Senator LaFollette.

Motion was passed by a rising vote. Resolutions which were drafted and transmitted are found on page 383 of this issue.

Mr. Byron: I cannot let this opportunity go by; only two sides of a triangle have really been given. George Haight and Regent Kronshage are the two fellows who have done a great deal for our University the past year. But the third member of that triangle is President Birge. (Applause.)

We are going to adjourn shortly. But a little opportunity must be given to a few of the classes. Some have performed, some have not. I shall give all of them an opportunity. Before we enter into any other proceedings, I want to emphasize the fact that when we adjourn we will all attend President Birge's reception at his home. Now we come to the class of 1860. We have a representative here. It would appear that the class of 1910 had confiscated him. Mr. Powers. (Applause.)

Mr. Powers: I did not come here to say a word I came to listen. It is a long way from Los Angeles. I am reminded of the fellow that was unexpectedly asked to speak. He came up in a bashful way and said that he had made only one speech in his life and that was to the girl he afterwards married. The lights were turned low; he never could remember what he said, but he held an audience! (Applause.) Now I can only say I am very glad to be here. I date back a long way in the history of the University of Wisconsin, but I have never ceased to love the institution. I was here five years ago and enjoyed very much the 60th anniversary. At that time I had my classmate, John B. Parkinson, with me to share the enthusiasm and the attention that we received. My only regret is that tonight he is unable to be with us and probably will be unable to take any part in the commencement exercises on Monday. I am very glad to be with you, and I wish you all a happy life and a prosperous time. (Applause.)

Mr. Byron: The class of 1870—the Hon. Burr W. Jones.

Mr. Jones: I am the only one of my class here, but I have been having lots of fun.

Mr. Byron: Ordinarily we don't jump in between the classes, but we are going to tonight. We have one of our fellow alumni, A. F. Warden of the class of 1873. We wish just a word from him.

Mr. Warden: Mr. President and Alumni of the University: I am very much pleased to be here tonight to witness before this audience, many of whom I know, the greatness of our institution.

Various classes gave class yells.

Audience sang "On Wisconsin" and disbanded at 8:30 p. m.

President Birge and daughter had the pleasure of welcoming the largest number of alumni ever attending a president's reception, as practically all who attended the dinner went directly to Dr. Birge's home at 8:30 p. m.

Following the reception many then attended the annual alumni ball at Lathrop Hall until midnight.

BACCALAUREATE EXERCISES

President Birge chose for his ninth baccalaureate address "Science." Our great president talked of science as it had been an inspiration and a hope in his own life. Attractively printed copies of this inspiring address were presented to all seniors. Mr. George Chandler, assistant secretary of the faculty, states that any member of our organization desiring a free copy may have it by sending written application to him at Bascom Hall.

The twilight concert by the University Band on the upper campus Sunday night brought forth a large audience who were delighted with the splendid program rendered for them.

COMMENCEMENT DAY

The frontispiece picture tells much of the story of our first out-of-door commencement held late Monday afternoon, June 20. (Reference to page 389 of last year's volume of this MAGAZINE gives us pride in having printed the suggestion that an out-of-door commencement be tried.) It was a success. The stadium offered ample room for all. Professor Terry and assistants installed mechanical amplifiers which carried the voices of the speakers to all sections of the audience.

Mention also must be made of the success that attended the annual Station Day arranged by the College of Agriculture. It gave many alumni opportunity to see part of the important activities of the University and made it possible for a number primarily interested in Station Day to receive the inspiration of the commencement program.

Space does not permit details regarding the commencement program, at which 1,491 degrees were conferred. The register containing the names of the recipients of these degrees is itself a book of 136 pages. Members of the Alumni Association will rejoice that C. F. Harding, '75, past president of the Alumni Association, received the honorary degree of doctor of laws, while another past president of our organization, Dr. J. M. Dodson, '80, received the honorary degree of doctor of science, and that this degree was also conferred upon another eminent member of the Alumni Association, Prof. L. F. Pammel, '85, now of Iowa State College. (See 1875, '80 and '85 class news.) An honorary M. A. degree was conferred upon Prof. C. E. Patzer of the Milwaukee Normal School, and the honorary degree of doctor of letters was given to Prof. M. I. Rostovtzeff of the University faculty.

NEWS AND COMMENT

Are You Proud? Are you proud that you are a member of an alumni organization which really aided your Alma Mater recently in the greatest crisis she has ever faced? Are you proud enough to become a life member? Are you proud enough to pay your dues in advance? Are you proud enough to urge other former students to be come part of this "great, new, heart-felt, common endeavor to make and keep this school of ours the peer of our democratic institutions of learning in this America?" Are you proud enough to really support the able triumvirate leadership shown by Birge, Haight, and Kronshage—all members of your Association? If you are filled with this sort of pride, your alumni organization will grow in its ability and efficiency to serve as your agent.

Invitation Local alumni clubs urge graduates locating in cities having such clubs to send name and address to the secretary of the local club. Any graduate who loses contact with fellow alumni has surrendered one of the great assets of his college course. Keep in touch with your University and with your many classmates and friends through your General Alumni Association. And also keep in direct contact with all alumni living where you reside through the local club. The scores of graduates who go to cities like Chicago and New York each year can get acquainted more quickly with other graduates through membership in the local club than through any other means. Then, too, the older graduates welcome the new ideas, the recent viewpoints, the spirit of courage and enthusiasm in youth that you contribute to local meetings. Register with the local club secretary! (See page 382.)

Promptness This magazine is mailed on time because every one responsible for class reunion stories furnished them as requested on July 10. W. P. Powers sent his article by aeroplane mail. Class and club secretaries can always help mightily by having copy at the alumni office on or before the tenth of each month. Thank you.

Skyrocket for Faculty Much of the success of the recent alumni reunion is due to the splendid cooperation extended to alumni by University officers who as individuals, officials, members of committees and departments did everything possible to make alumni feel they were really once more "at home," that anything that could be given should be given, and that anything that must be paid for should not exceed cost.

To mention the many individuals would prove embarrassing, and of course many deserving such mention would be omitted, as there is no possible way of knowing who helped. No one who was asked to help refused, and many volunteered valuable suggestions and assistance.

Such faculty friendliness should be met with a similar spirit of alumni willingness. The faculty, of course, know how cordial and sincere the alumni support of the University has been during the past trying year. Now that that crisis is successfully passed, let us continue to encourage the growth of such spirit of cooperation.

On a Sound Financial Basis Your Alumni Board speaks the prompt cooperation of all members to put the financial affairs of the Alumni Association on a sound financial basis, so that plans for a year in advance can be formulated with certainty of there being means of carrying out such plans without appealing to a few individuals for assistance.

To do this dues should be paid in advance. Are yours paid for 1925-1926? If not, you are asked to please help out by sending check for $4.00 without waiting for a bill.

Or you may prefer to take a life membership. It is the cheapest and at the same time the best membership for you and for your organization. It costs but $50.00 and your life membership payments go into a trust fund from which your Association is assured the income.

Naturally among some 10,000 members a few perfectly responsible ones are now in arrears. The few who have neglected to answer the last bill are now asked by the Board to send check without awaiting another bill covering such arrears.

If every member will cooperate in the request made by the Board that dues be paid in advance, our present strong alumni organization will show a surprising increase in power and ability to serve the Alma Mater which it was fortunately able to do so much to save in the recent crisis.

1925 Addresses All members of the Alumni Association are particularly urged to keep Alumni Headquarters, 821 State St., Madison, advised promptly of change of address. To check our list of new addresses we particularly need the address of every 1925 graduate who joined the Alumni Association. The list furnished us does not contain the present addresses of all such members. Postal regulations do not permit the forwarding of second-class mail, even though you may have left a forwarding address at the post office. It devolves on every member, therefore, to keep correct address on file at Alumni Headquarters in order to receive the official publication promptly.

Life memberships are increasing

Railroad Courtesy The special convention rate under the certificate plan granted to members of our Alumni Association always requires the local representatives of the railroads to handle many special cases. During the three years we have been granted the rate of a fare and a half, all of these special cases have received the most courteous consideration from these railway representatives. In behalf of the Alumni Association, this note of thanks is therefore in order.

Decorate the City Several Madison business firms attractively decorated their windows in honor of returning alumni this year. A prominent local business man makes a number of excellent suggestions that more be done along this line hereafter. Inasmuch as there is hardly a convention that comes here which attracts so many out-of-towners already "sold" to Madison, he feels that in addition to urging gala day window decorations, the local Association of Commerce should use its influence to have the Welcome sign placed on the City Hall, the cardinal "W" shine from the Capitol dome, curb flags placed along the principal business streets, and canvas banners hung near the chief arterial highways leading to Madison.

FACULTY NEWS

By KATHRYN PERRY, '23

PRESIDENT E. A. BIRGE, has been elected president emeritus at his present salary by the Board of Regents. Relieved of administrative duties, he will devote his time to a zoological study of the life in Wisconsin lakes that he has been carrying on for thirty-five years. He has bought a new home in University Heights, Madison, where he plans to remain with his daughter, Miss Anna Birge.

The regents voted to purchase a portrait of Dr. Birge recently painted by Christian Abramson, and to place it in the new Memorial Union building.

PROF. BENJAMIN W. SNOW will be on a year's leave of absence during 1925-1926. Professor Snow will travel in Europe.

DR. RICHARD T. ELY, department of economics, has given the University a gift of $5,000 for a scholarship in economics as a memorial to his wife. The endowment will be called "The Anna Morris Ely Scholarship in Economics." In order that the scholarship may be available for use this next fall, Dr. Ely has given an additional $250 to take the place of the first year's income. The scholarship is available to any student in economics recommended by the department.

PROF. STEPHEN W. GILMAN, of the Course in Commerce, has recently received the honorary degree of LL.D. from Franklin college, Indiana, as a recognition of his work in business administration and finance. For twenty years Professor Gilman was in business in Chicago, and for twenty years he has been a member on the faculty of the Wisconsin Course in Commerce. He left Madison last week for Los Angeles, Calif., to teach in the University of Southern California summer session.

PROF. MICHAEL I. ROSTOVITZEFF, for five years a member of the history faculty, was awarded the honorary Litt. D. by the University at the Commencement exercises this June. Professor Rostovtzeff is a distinguished Russian scholar of ancient history. He will join the faculty of Yale next fall. Because of his studies of ancient civilization, he has been honored by the Russian Academy, by Oxford, and by the French Academy, and is considered one of the most distinguished scholars who received their training in pre-war Russia and pre-war Europe.

DR. RICHARD T. ELY has resigned as professor of economics at Wisconsin after thirty-three years of service, and will join the faculty of Northwestern University as director of the Institute for Research in Land Economics and Public Utilities, which he founded five years ago. In recognition of his important service to Wisconsin, the regents, upon accepting his resignation, voted him the title of honorary professor of economics, so that he may continue to be a member of the faculty in an honorary capacity.

With the transfer of the Institute to Northwestern, other members of the Institute now at Wisconsin who will go with Dr. Ely include Dr. G. S. WEHRWEIN, DR. MARY L. SHINE, PROF. H. D. SIMPSON, PROF. H. B. DORAU, EDWARD W. MOREHOUSE, and ARTHUR J. MERTZKE.

DR. ALEXANDER VASSILIEF, professor of Byzantine history in the University of Petrograd and professor of medieval history in the Petrograd Institute of Education, has been appointed by the regents to fill the vacancy in the history department resulting from the resignation of Prof. Michael I. Rostovtzeff. Professor Vassilief is a member of the Academy, formerly known as the Imperial Institute of Archeology, and speaks excellent English. The general course in ancient history will be taken over by Professor Vassilief, and his advanced and graduate courses will be in Byzantine history.

VOTE!

The final draft of a proposed new constitution is herewith submitted for a vote by mail.

Vote!

Mail your vote to Alumni Headquarters, 821 State St., Madison, Wis. Vote!

A majority of the votes cast, whether the number is three or many thousand, decides if the present constitution continues or if this proposed new constitution displaces it. Vote!

That each member may accurately examine the two constitutions we print both. Compare them carefully and express your preference by voting. Vote!

Don't pass this matter by because constitutions are not "best sellers" for August reading. Study these constitutions closely, compare them carefully, consider them seriously, and then decide conscientiously which one will in your opinion best serve your growing GENERAL ALUMNI ASSOCIATION. Vote!

You will find that some of the changes such as the name of the governing board, the size of the governing board, and the number to constitute a quorum are modifications rather than radical differences.

The three most marked differences which seem to need careful consideration before deciding which constitution to endorse seem to be the following:

1. The present constitution guarantees every class and every local alumni club representation on the Alumni Council. The proposed new constitution abolishes the Alumni Council. What effect will this have on class solidarity and on local club interests? Vote!

2. The present constitution guarantees representation of every college of the University—agriculture, engineering, law, letters and science, and medicine—on the governing board. No such guarantee is provided in the proposed new constitution. Is the omission of such guarantee dangerous or is it desirable? Vote!

3. The third marked change is in the establishment of ten geographic units together with a method of securing votes from officers of local clubs within such geographic units. This portion of the new constitution should be read very carefully. It involves not alone questions as to the relative power of large and small clubs within the same geographic unit, and questions of democracy and representation, but also very practical questions of feasibility and workability. Will it function better than the Alumni Council? Consider, decide, vote. Vote!

All members in good standing are entitled to vote. Every member should vote. It would seem unfortunate to let apathy determine such an important question, which should be settled by intelligent interest. Vote!

We ask that all votes be mailed to Alumni Headquarters, 821 State Street, Madison, before September 1.

After deciding which constitution you favor please use one of these ballots.

Section 2—There is also established a Living Endowment Fund, to consist of yearly contributions from alumni—aside from dues—for the present use of the Association. U. W. CLUBS

"Sit together, listen together, sing together, eat together, and you'll work together."

LOCAL U. W. CLUBS

The organized alumni body of our University is rapidly growing in numbers and effectiveness. The Alumni Council, to which the various alumni clubs send representatives, and which is the central directing organization, is ambitious to bring about a closer fellowship among the alumni, former students, and friends of the University. It believes that one of the most effective means to this end is the formation throughout the country of University of Wisconsin clubs. There are numerous communities in which the number of available members is such as to make the formation of these clubs entirely feasible and desirable. Clubs have already been established in a number of cities, in several counties, and in a few states.

The reports from local clubs are always important. We ask each club secretary to see to it that all members of the local club are members of the General Alumni Association.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA ALUMNAE

MABEL BRADLEY BREWER, '04, Publicity Chairman

THE U. W. Alumnae Club of Southern California met Saturday, June 13, at a luncheon at the new Woman's Athletic Club. Eighteen members were present. After the luncheon we adjourned to the parlors where a social hour was enjoyed, followed by a short business meeting. The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Genevieve Church Smith, and a vote of thanks was tendered to the outgoing officers. The following officers were elected for next year: President, Emma Rosenstengel Ward, '91, Vice President, Helen Steensland Nielsen, '89, Secretary and Treasurer, Clara Maud Berryman, ex '97.

Among the alumnae present was Mrs. I. S. Leavitt, of the class of 1874, who related some of her pleasant experiences when she attended her 50th class reunion a year ago.

TOLEDO

The Toledo U. W. Club gathered at the Woman's Building for a dinner on June 10. New members, Frances Malm Mebane, '20, and Harold Anderson were initiated by being required to tell the history of their lives up to the hour of the alumni dinner. Wisconsin, past, present, and future was toasted.

We rejoiced with Dr. Birge as he closes fifty long years of successful service and retires to a well-earned rest; we greeted, in spirit, Dr. Frank as he takes the reins to guide the University into a still more glorious future.

After electing Dr. Ralph Daniells, '96, president for the coming year, we adjourned to meet again early in the fall.—5-10-25.

DEATHS

Dr. CHARLES WILLIAM CABEEN, '66, Syracuse, N. Y., died in the Syracuse Memorial Hospital on June 13, of mastoiditis, following several operations. Dr. Cabeen had been a member of the faculty of Syracuse University for thirty years, since 1897 as professor of romance languages and literatures and head of that department.

Mrs. Cabeen, one daughter, and two sons survive.

GEORGE W. LATTA, '74, Antigo, passed away at his home on June 17, following a stroke. Mr. Latta has been in failing health for about a year. Following his graduation from the University Mr. Latta began the practice of law in Shawano. He was elected district attorney for Shawano County for the years 1878 and 1879 and remained in Shawano until 1881, when he removed to Antigo. Mr. Latta was very active in the organization of Langlade county. He was appointed by the governor to be the first district attorney in the county and was elected to that position for three consecutive terms. Later he served in the Wisconsin Assembly and as city attorney of Antigo; he held the office of circuit court commissioner from 1876 until 1901 and as United States court commissioner from that year until his death. For over forty years he was the local legal representative of the Milwaukee, Lake Shore & Western Railway Company and its successor, the Chicago & Northwestern Railway Company. He was regarded as one of their most efficient and able attorneys.

Interment took place at Albion, near Madison. Mrs. Latta and three daughters survive.

ROBERT MARION LA FOLLETTE, '79, Wisconsin's distinguished alumnus, passed away on June 18, at Washington, D. C., following a short illness.

Mr. La Follette was born at Primrose, Wisconsin, June 14, 1855. Following graduation from the University in 1879 and the study of law, he was admitted to the Wisconsin bar in 1880, whereupon his useful and active political life immediately began. In 1880 he was elected district attorney for Dane County, in which office he served until 1884, when he was elected to represent the third Wisconsin district in the 49th Congress of the United States. He served through the 51st Congress, from 1885 to 1891, when he was recalled to Wisconsin, to serve as governor of the state for three terms, from 1901 to 1905. On January 25, 1905, he was elected United States senator, in which office he served until his death.

Mr. La Follette was married on December 31, 1881, to Belle Case, '79, Baraboo, to whom he frequently paid tribute during his life time as his "best counselor and helper."

In 1913 he published his autobiography—"A Personal Narrative of Political Experiences."

Funeral services were held at Madison. The body lay in state in the Capitol on Sunday, June 21, where many thousands came to pay homage to him. The funeral services, held on commencement day, June 22, were marked by extreme simplicity. Music was furnished by the Madison Mozart Club and the Madison Maennerchor. Dr. A. E. Hayden, of the University of Chicago, delivered the funeral sermon. He said in part:

"We shall remember him as the embattled prophet of a new democracy—a democracy directed by intelligence and organized to give free opportunity for a satisfying life to every individual soul. His was the voice of humanism in politics. The drift of the centuries has swept away the tribal chieftain, the tyrant priest, the absolute king. The aristocracies of blood have passed. In this new age of industry and science mankind, the world over, faces a new tyranny of economic power, lacking the saving graces and refining culture of the aristocracies of old.

"Confronted with the tragedies of a soulless, material civilization, Robert Marion La Follette dedicated himself to the principle that government is the guardian and servant of the life of all the people, to the ideal that statecraft should be an intelligent instrument for social amelioration. He pointed the way to a co-operating democracy of intelligence and heart. He was therefore above the battle of factions and parties.

"He said—I favor equal and exact justice to each individual and to every interest, yielding neither to clamor on the one hand nor being swerved from the straight course by an interest on the other." He worked for the solution of problems, the righting of wrongs, the removal of injustices and his weapon was intelligence, burning with a white light in analysis and accumulation of facts. Dedicated to this ideal he found himself constantly on the side of the poor, of the worker, fighting the battle of those in whose faces the doors of opportunity were being closed in this once free land. He was forced to challenge special privilege in every form and sphere. He became the champion of the weak against the arrogance of wealth and power. Fearless, incorruptible, his head above the murk and miasma of selfishness and greed, his feet firmly planted in the thickness of fact, he gave his life to make government the servant of human values in a new and difficult age. When the day comes, as come it will, when social organization will center about the values of the higher life, when wealth will mean common weal, when property will be less than humanity, then men will remember that Robert Marion La Follette trod that path before them."

The following resolutions were unanimously adopted by a rising vote at the alumni dinner June 20:

We, the alumni of the University of Wisconsin, gathered at the time of greatest gladness in the academic year, are shocked and stunned by the sudden, sad taking off of our most distinguished, well beloved, fellow alumnus. We pause to place on record a deep feeling of sympathy for his widow and his children. To them we suggest the hope that time may temper the terrible grief of the hour and afford abiding consolation in contemplating his illustrious career, which has brought high honor to the state and to the University, and which constitutes the noblest heritage that he could leave to them.

In Robert M. La Follette the University of Wisconsin ever had an able, most devoted champion. Than him she never had more loving, loyal son. No higher tribute to her influence was ever penned than when he wrote; "For myself, I owe what I am, and what I have done, largely to the inspiration I received while there." Never were its ideals more fittingly, feelingly stated than when in deep and vibrant tones that voiced the ultimate sincerity of his soul, he put, in words this lofty academic standard:

"It is not enough that this University shall zealously advance learning, or that it shall become a storehouse of knowledge into which are gathered the accumulating fruits of research, and all of the world's best culture, or that it shall maintain the highest standards of scholarship and develop every latent talent—all these are vitally essential—but the state demands more than all these. The state asks that you give back to it men and women strong in honesty and integrity of character, in each of whom there is deeply planted the obligation of allegiance to the state."

No man ever more fully exemplified by the beauty of his daily life, the ideal he then proclaimed:

"Upon every citizen rests the obligation to serve the state in civil life as the soldier serves the country in war."

While the sweet graciousness of his winning, noble person is lost to us, his spirit still prevails. His influence for high and upright conduct in public service pervades the life of the state as that of no other man has ever done.

Similar resolutions were adopted by the board of regents and by the faculty.

Robert M. La Follette is survived by Mrs. La Follette, two daughters, and two sons.

THOMAS O'MEARA, '79, Seattle, Wash., died at the Providence Hospital in that city on May 31, from injuries received in an automobile accident on April 29.

He is survived by three sons and four daughters.

KATE HAMILTON PIER, '87, Fond du Lac, passed away on June 23; death was due to heart failure and came unexpectedly, although she had been in declining health for many months.

Mrs. Pier was one of the ablest and best known business women in the state. As a young woman she became interested in the real estate business in Fond du Lac and upon her father's death took charge of his estate and subsequently opened an office and actively engaged in that profession. She was married in 1866 to Col. Colwert Kendall Pier; four daughters were born to them. In 1887 Mrs. Pier graduated from the University law school in the same class with her daughter. Another daughter later graduated from the law school. In 1888 when the family moved to Milwaukee the wife and daughters became associated with Mr. Pier in the practice of law in that city. Mrs. Pier practiced chiefly as an office consultant, and in 1891 was appointed a circuit court commissioner, the first woman in the United States to be appointed to this office.

Mrs. Pier was active in clubs and societies. She was a member of the Woman's Relief Corps, the Order of Eastern Star, of the county, state, and national bar associations, of the National Women Lawyers' Association, founder and president of the Portia Club, whose membership is composed of women lawyers of Wisconsin, Kappa Beta Pi legal sorority, Milwaukee Business and Professional Women's Club, Blue Mound Country Club and the Athletic Club of Milwaukee. Mrs. Pier was one of the oldest and most esteemed residents of Fond du Lac.

Three daughters survive.

Dr. ALBERT HEALD VAN VLEET, '95, Norman, Okla., died on June 22 following an illness of six months. Dr. Van Vleet went to Norman from Johns Hopkins University in 1898 and organized the biology department of the University of Oklahoma. Through his efforts the biology and botany departments have shown steady and extensive growth. He was appointed dean of the graduate school in 1909. He held that office and was professor of botany at the time of his death.

Dr. Van Vleet was the author of several books. They include "Plant Life in Oklahoma," "Birds of Oklahoma," and "Snakes of Oklahoma." He was active in civic affairs, a director of the Chamber of Commerce, and chairman of its good roads committee for many years. Mrs. Van Vleet survives.

NELSON S. HOPKINS, '95, Milwaukee, one of the city's best known business and club men, died suddenly on the Oconomowoc golf course on July 4. It is believed death was caused by heart failure. Mr. Hopkins graduated from the law school in 1895 and practiced law with the firm of Winckler, Flanders, Bottum & Vilas for about a year. Feeling that he was better fitted for a business career, he entered the employ of the Cutler-Hammer Manufacturing Co. twenty-three years ago. At the time of his death Mr. Hopkins was director of purchases for the company. Mrs. Hopkins and five step-children survive.

Viola Zimmerman SCOTT, '00, South Milwaukee, passed away on July 13. Mrs. Zimmerman is survived by two children.

Dr. PAUL L. HEFTY, '18, New Glarus, died suddenly on June 16 while returning from a trip to Monroe. Death is thought to have been caused by apoplexy. Dr. Hefty was a graduate of Rush Medical College. He is survived by his widow, his parents, two sisters, and one brother.

Reunion of 1860

By W. P. POWERS

MRS. POWERS and I greatly enjoyed being in attendance at the commencement exercises, and felt amply repaid for the long journey from Los Angeles to Madison. On Friday evening, the day of our arrival, I was privileged to give, by the courtesy of Prof. W. H. Lighty, a talk over the radio on "Early Days of the University" and this I followed by reading the Baccalaureate address delivered to our class in 1860 by the acting chancellor, John W. Sterling, a most masterly production, and one that should be heard and taken to heart by every young man at the threshold of his business life.

The reunion of the class of 1860 was a success. Professor John B. Parkinson and myself are all that are left of the class of eight. We were both there, one hundred per cent strong. I doubt if any of the other classes had as full a representation of its living members. (Pictures on Cover page.)

During the zigzag march up the campus on Saturday as well as at the cafeteria lunch and the banquet in the evening, my wife and I were "adopted" by the class of 1910, and as my classmate Parkinson was unable to take part in these functions, it added much to our enjoyment of the occasion, as the writer without such interest on the part of the 1910ers would have been a "lone orphan." The peaked cap which they put upon my head added to the hilarity if not to the dignity of the occasion.

On commencement day my honored classmate was with us on the platform with Governor Blaine, President Birge and the regents of the University, this being in the stadium on the site of old camp Randall, where we were trained for service in the Civil War. Our presence there brought back to me many memories of those far-off days. We saw the numerous classes as they were formed in front of the platform and afterwards as the members passed by us one by one to receive at the hands of President Birge their diplomas. We saw the special decorations awarded to those who have gone out in previous years and achieved distinction in other fields, this honor having been given to my classmate five years ago, when we celebrated our sixtieth anniversary.

At the request of President Birge we stood while he presented us to the graduating classes and the throng of spectators filling the stadium seats as the oldest living graduates of the University. The ovation we received was a fitting tribute to our years, and was much appreciated by the remnant of the class of 1860. It is not given to many college graduates to attend a class reunion after sixty-five years, and we wondered as we looked into the faces of these young men and young women how many of them would return after so many years. That many may be spared to do so and that they may make good in the world, reflecting credit upon our Alma Mater, is the fervent wish of the writer.

Fiftieth Anniversary

By CLARA MOORE HARPER.

ROBERT CRAWFORD says we have the best record for a fiftieth class reunion. Members of the class of '75 present at reunion events were W. G. Clough and wife, Portage, and daughter, Mrs. Ben Reynolds, Madison; Charles Harding, wife, and sons, Charles and W. H., Dr. Fred Luhman and wife, Manitowoc, Percy Stone and wife, Rockford, Ill., William Gundry, Mineral Point, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Brown and daughter, Dorothy, Dr. J. W. Fisher, Milwaukee, Dr. and Mrs. Alice Crawford Gorst, Madison, Mr. and Mrs. Clara Moore Harper and daughter, and son, Dr. Carl and Mrs. Harper, Madison, Dr. Clinton Lewis and daughter, Dr. Mary Lewis, Mrs. Delia Draper Noys, Mrs. Fannie West Williams, Milwaukee, James Melville, Madison, or Gainesville, Fla., B. C. Wolter, wife, and daughter, Appleton. Two members wrote they could not come: Carrie Barber Chandler, of Baltimore, Md., and W. H. Rogers, San Jose, Calif., owing to ill health.

After fifty years, fourteen of the class of thirty-two united to make the reunion a happy event. Members of '74 were represented by W. E. Brown and Allan Conover. Miss Edith Conover also favored us and gave us some verses:

"We have come back to old Wisconsin
Built on blue Mendota's shore
We've come back to greet our comrades
As in happy days of yore.
Life has brought us joys and sorrows
Life has brought us smiles and tears
And we're here to tell each other
Of the harvest of the years."

"Seventy-five, seventy-five
We're the Class of '75
We've come back to tell Wisconsin
That we are very much alive!"

The first meeting and greeting was June 19 at the Loraine Hotel for lunch at one o'clock. Mr. Gundry said, "I enjoyed it. The place and the company seemed to me an ideal way to begin such a reunion." After some music, all the company were invited to meet at Mrs. Harper's for dinner at 6 o'clock; and seats were reserved at the class play in the evening. The spirit of J. Warner Mills of '75 came in his son, Clifford Mills, who arrived from Denver with wife and three fine little girls. After the dinner, Mr. Harding, president of the class, reviewed the names of the absent members, and then Dean Birge and his daughter came in to greet the class.

Saturday noon we were all taken in cars to Maple Bluff Golf Club by Mrs. Ben Reynolds. This was a very delightful party and a charming courtesy to the class in honor of her father, Mr. Clough. We came away all too soon in order to be present on the Hill for the zig-zag parade and faculty reception around the Lincoln monument! The class of '75 marched, led by Mr. Clough carrying a gold banner, modeled from the gold badge designed and worn by the class during school days. Cheers greeted us. In the dinner march Professor Olson invited us to follow the regents to the Gym. We carried our banner with us and when we marched around the room and gave a class slogan, we were greeted on all sides by friendly cheering.

Mrs. Gorst had invited classmates and guests to her home for Sunday night supper. By this time Allan Warden of '73 and his wife had joined us, but Mr. Stone had gone home, also Dr. Fisher, and Dr. Luhman, and Mr. Gundry; and Webb Brown and Juliet and Fan West and the Wolters said they must go in the morning. Those who stayed over for Commencement found the outdoor scene and ceremonies beautiful. By use of amplifiers the audience could hear the presentation of diplomas and degrees. The crowning honor of our fiftieth anniversary was given by the faculty and regents in awarding the degree of doctor of laws to Charles Harding.

We have added another to our heart's holidays. (See center spread page for class picture.)

C. F. Harding, was one of the five honored by the University at the commencement exercises. He was presented as follows:

Mr. President: CHARLES FORD HARDING was graduated from this University fifty years ago with the degree of Bachelor of Arts and five years later the University conferred upon him the degree of Bachelor of Laws. He has served his adopted State of Illinois in time of peace, and his country in time of war, in the highly important matter of the administration of justice; and the ability, fidelity, and high ideals which he has brought to bear upon the legal problems confided to his trust have given him high repute and regard as counselor and attorney. Nor have the exacting duties of his professional life engrossed his attention; for in the midst of the strenuous activities of modern public and private life he has ever refreshed his mind and renewed his youth at the inexhaustible fountains of literature to which his Alma Mater first led him.

As a distinguished son of the University who, like you, Mr. President, is celebrating his Wisconsin jubilee, we rejoice to do him honor.

On the recommendation of the Faculty and by vote of the Regents, I present to you Charles Ford Harding to receive the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.

Forty-fifth Anniversary

By H. J. DESMOND.

EIGHT of the twenty-three living members of the class of '80 were present at the forty-fifth anniversary reunion, June 19. A splendid reunion dinner at the College Club on Friday, with Mr. and Mrs. Magnus Swenson as hosts, included the following guests: Dr. and Mrs. Waldo Fisher, Dr. and Mrs. John Dodson, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Schaub, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lamb, Miss Lenore Northrop, Humphrey Desmond, Miss Mary Hill, who took the M. A. degree with the class, Mrs. Sarah Dudgeon Baskerville, and Mrs. Stella Abbott, who were with the class to its junior year.

During the evening Dr. Birge was able to be present for a short time to share in the class reminiscences. Letters were read from nine classmates unable to be present.

It was very gratifying to '80 to hear of the University honor (degree of doctor of science) conferred at commencement on one of our most loyal members, Dr. John Dodson.

John Dodson was presented to President Birge by Professor McGilvary as follows:

Mr. President: JOHN MILTON DODSON was graduated from this University forty-five years ago with the degree of Bachelor of Arts. He took his degree in medicine at Rush Medical College in 1882, and seven years later, after successful practice, he joined its staff. Here as teacher of anatomy, physiology, and finally of pediatrics, and as dean from 1901 to 1923, he participated as a leader in the development of a great medical school and in the establishment of medicine upon the foundation of a solid training in the basic sciences. At present he is carrying on his work as a medical educator through the editorship of Hygeia.

As a native son of high distinction, and as one of the early and grateful pupils of Dr. Birge, it gives us especial pleasure to do him honor today.

On the recommendation of the Faculty and by vote of the Regents, I present to you JOHN MILTON DODSON to receive the honorary degree of Doctor of Science.

Commencement Register: Mrs. Charles Abbott, H. J. Desmond, J. M. Dodson, Waldo Fisher, Mrs. David B. Frankenburger, Lenora Northup, A. E. Schaub.

FELLOW CLASSMATES: The crowning event of the year is a closed incident. Commencement exercises and class reunions for 1925 are a reminiscence. The class of 1881 was better represented, numerically, than any other class that was not celebrating a five-year period, but that is not saying much! I dislike to disparage your return on "off" years, but I must record the truth. If one excludes the five-year class reunions there are not enough of the irregulars or "miscellaneous," as they are classified, who return, to make it interesting. Scarcely enough at Music Hall to form a quorum at the general alumni meeting; not half a dozen leaning up against the stately old elms outside the Hall, waiting for the glad hand of recognition. Not much like olden times when we all went back and greeted old comrades of all the classes, from '76 to '81. Now one meets a few ancients of a period five years ahead of us, or a lot of juveniles five years our junior. Scarcely an intermediate man. If you will recall you had many intimate friends both in the upper classes as well as amongst freshmen and sophs, some of whom you cherished even more than your own members.

My suggestion to remedy this is: urge all alumni between '70 and '80, '80 and '90 etcetera, to endeavor to return, and then with the loud pedal on five-year periods we would have a rousing meeting. The irregulars made a sorry spectacle in the grand parade from campus to alumni dinner—a paltry fifty in all. There were so few we were almost lost in the scramble for seats, and we were so unimportant that twenty-five of us were never waited on until dinner was nearly over, and then only through urgent calls from Moroney.

Howard Smith and wife, W. J. Moroney, wife and son, Dan McArthur, and F. S. White represented '81. Steensland promised to come and bring his estimable wife, but golf diverted him. He is doubtless fortifying his energies to enable him to give us a vigorous reception at our five-year reunion next year.

The speeches at the dinner were brief, pointed, and excellent. Especially good were the remarks of our beloved retiring President Birge. None of our class was called upon, but one could perceive that our ready-for-all-emergency man, Howard, was quietly cogitating on what he would say, if called on to replace any defaulter. You know him. He is always par oneri. I believe that was his high school class motto. After the alumni dinner we all paid our farewell respects to President Birge at a reception at his home.

Please remember—June 21, 1926, will be our 45th anniversary. All must endeavor to be present and to bring the grandchildren. Sorry I did not see more of you this year.

Before I close I want to say there was much commotion in the meeting of the Alumni Council, a body composed of all class secretaries. It seems there is much criticism about the merits or demerits of our ALUMNI MAGAZINE. One secretary, who never, in ten years, has had anything but his own name and address in his space, offered a resolution "condemning all contributions that savored of a social or literary nature!" He offered no substitute for such trivialities, so no one knows how he would remedy matters. Personally I have monthly access to ten leading college alumni magazines, and I am proud to say our WISCONSIN ALUMNI MAGA- ZINE is on a par with any of them. Let the person who can improve on it try a suggestion—F. S. W.

The following letter has just come from E. G. McGILTON, Omaha, Neb.:

My dear White:

Your letter came about a week ago enclosing a photographic copy of my law class upon their graduation in 1885, and I appreciate very much your having clipped it and sent it to me. There are only a few of the fellows in that class that I have kept track of. Of course, I know that Frisby, Teall and Stephenson and also Timothy E. Ryan are dead. Vinje, of course, is on the Supreme Bench in Wisconsin. What has become of the others I do not know; they may be alive and prosperous or may have passed on to better things. We have always felt very proud of the fact that Mrs. La Follette was a member of our class.

In looking at this picture I am reminded of an incident that occurred in the spring of the year we graduated, when Fred Stephenson, Fred Teall, E. J. Dockery and I arose one morning about three-thirty to go bass fishing across Fourth Lake near the asylum. Stephenson and I were room mates and had been spending the week end in Chicago and while there each purchased a new derby hat, which cost $6.00 per. The morning of the fishing trip I decided to leave my derby in the room and wear a slouch hat; Stephenson, however, said he would wear his derby down to the landing and leave it in the bow of the boat and then put on a slouch. I forgot to add that Stephenson and I were exactly the same height and the same weight and were able to wear each other's clothes from shoes to collars with a perfect fit. We went across the lake in two boats, Stephenson and Dockery in one and Teall and I in the other. When we reached the landing on the Asylum side where we intended to eat our breakfast Dockery and Stephenson got to scuffling in their boat with the result that Dockery stepped back into the bow of the boat squarely on Stephenson's new derby crushing it so that it was never after serviceable. Of course we all had the laugh on Stephenson and joshed him about not having left his new hat in the room. However, when we returned to our rooms in the evening I discovered that Stephenson had worn my derby to the boat and had left his in the room so then the laugh was turned on me.

Another incident connected with that class. In the front row right next to Mrs. La Follette is a man by the name of

Jones. He lived on a farm near Madison and paid his way through the law school by peddling milk throughout the city. At the top of the picture is a man by the name of Lewis H. Towne who was skilled as a cartoonist. One day in class he drew a cartoon and passed it around representing Jones pumping water into a can of milk with one hand and with the other reading a book entitled the "Statute of Frauds."

These are only two of the very happy reminiscences of college life and I am giving them to you since I am sure you know all of the participants.

With kindest regards, I am

Sincerely yours, —E. G. McGilton.

FORTY YEARS AFTER

By BERTHA PITMAN SHARP

ON SATURDAY, June the twentieth, 1925, members of the class of 1885 with relatives and friends numbering forty were the guests at luncheon of Charlie Brigham and his wife at their beautiful Blue Mounds farm. After a luncheon which in delicious abundance was of the country, and in daintiness was the best of the country and city, a business meeting was held on Top row: O. D. Brandenburg, Professor F. C. Sharp, Mrs. Florence Griswold Buckstaff, Mrs. Bertha Pitman Sharp, Dr. F. C. Rogers, Mrs. Arabelle Sarles Brandenburg, Doctor L. H. Pammel, Mrs. Grace Clark Conover, Mrs. Edith Updegraff Simmons, J. C. Gaveney, Mrs. J. A. Williams, J. A. Williams.

Middle: Mrs. F. C. Rogers, Miss Anna Burr Moseley, Mrs. Leigh Howe Aitchison, Mrs. L. H. Pammel, Miss Elizabeth Agnes Waters, T. E. Lyons, Mrs. Mina Stone Gabriel, George H. Buckstaff.

Lower: John H. Gabriel, Corydon T. Purdy, F. A. Pike, Miss Daphne Conover, James A. Stone.

Dues for 1925-26 are due the broad porch overlooking miles and miles of beautiful and properous rolling prairie. Appended are the signatures of the people present. Telegrams were read from Emma Goddard Marsh and Charles I. Earll.

O. D. Brandenburg was made chairman of the meeting, and Bertha Pitman Sharp secretary. The report on class letters presented by the historian, Mr. Brandenburg, gave the total cost of the sixty books of forty letters, with introduction, some statistics, and fine pictures of our beloved president Bascom, the present president, Dr. Birge, and the future president, Glenn Frank as $145.00. The books were printed at cost by the Democrat Printing Company. It was decided to ask $4.00 a book, and with that a considerable deficit will be met by our generous historian. It was voted to send a book to the University Library and to Dr. Florence Bascom of Bryn Mawr.

Several members of the class had died since we last met. In memory of those members Mr. Waldo spoke of Mr. Connolly, Mr. Stone, of A. H. Long, Dr. Frederick Rogers of Dr. Fenelon and Dr. F. W. Rogers; Mark Patek, who was with us two years, was spoken of, Mr. Purdy and Mr. Waldo gave some account of Mr. Frank Holt, whose hobby was marksmanship which he taught during the war. He was one of the best marksmen in the U. S.

It was moved and seconded that Grace Clark Conover be historian, secretary, and chairman of the entertainment committee for our next reunion; motion was carried. Mr. Waldo moved that Elizabeth Waters be permanent substitute chairman; motion carried. A motion that the expense of the reunion be shared by out of town members was tabled. An error by scorer Buckstaff over forty years ago against catcher Waldo was recorded.

It was noted that Mr. Williams and Mrs. Sharp each had a son in the class graduating at U. W. this year.

Membership of '85 in the Alumni Association is almost 100 per cent.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mr. and Mrs. Brigham for their hospitality and to their son, Charles Jr., for his delightful singing of "The Old Oaken Bucket." Mr. Erdahl expressed surprise at the musical ability of a son of Charlie Brigham. Late adjournment and the hour's drive back to Madison made us a bit tardy at the Alumni dinner in which we took no active part except to rise when our class was called.

Sunday evening we drove to the beautiful Maple Bluff home of Katherine Brandenburg Bassett, where Mr. and Mrs. Brandenburg were our hosts at an al fresco supper served to forty enthusiastic guests including Mr. and Mrs. Moroney, Dallas, Texas, of the class of '81, and Mr. F. S. White of the same class. Mr. Waldo presented us with a box of Chicago's best candy. A typical thunder storm did not dampen our ardor. We sang. Sallie Waters recited Dooley, as of yore, and Mr. Williams dramatically repeated Kipling's "If."

Frederic Pike spoke with appreciation, realization, and feeling of this fortieth anniversary. He moved that we meet at "Library" now Music Hall at 9 o'clock Monday morning to have a class picture taken; seconded, carried, and behold the picture. A hearty vote of thanks was given to the loyal Brandenbergs who had so large a part in the success of the reunion of 1885 in 1925.

P. S.—As a result of some correspondence, Mr. Briggs and your secretary are convinced against their wills, on the authority of the State Historical Library investigator, that our motto Kagigekamig Kija means "Perpetually advancing" and not "Paddle your own canoe."—B. S. P. S.

"Your kind gift of the Post Graduate History of the Class of Eighty-Five has reached us," writes the Alumni Records office to O. D. Brandenburg, class historian of '85 during the past five years. "We appreciate your courtesy a very great deal. It is such printed information as this volume contains that will serve best to build up the alumni records of the University to the point of greatest usefulness and value for the University and for all her alumni. Your booklet will be preserved in this office and used as a reference for all those persons who will, from time to time, be inquiring about members of the class of '85."

From the WISCONSIN ALUMNI ASSOCIATION comes this note: "Accept our congratulations on the fine reunion held by '85 and on the most interesting volume of letters of 1885 compiled by you. We have just read the book from cover to cover."

The volume, it may be noted, is the eighth issued by '85 in the forty years since graduation. It contains seventy-five pages; opens with a 10-page historical review of the class, 1881 to 1885; has personal narratives from thirty-nine out of a possible fifty-one members; blazons a pridelful record of a dozen or more notable events in U. W. annals attributable to '85, including junior "annual," now the Badger; has a page or two of fragmentary gossip about '85ers; gives suggested class yell and class songs; is illustrated with portraits of former Presidents Bascom and Birge and President-Elect Frank; and embraces a mortuary list of twenty names. The booklet is bound in cardinal and lettered in silver—a combination of University and class colors.

L. H. Pammel received the degree of doctor of science with the following presentation by Professor McGilvary:

Mr. President: LOUIS HERMANN PAMMEL was graduated from this University forty years ago, and was one of the first to receive our degree of Bachelor of Science in Agriculture.

After further training with Dr. Farlow of Harvard and our own Dr. Trelease at the Missouri Botanical Gardens, he became in 1889 Professor of Botany at the great agricultural school now known as "Iowa State College." Today he is the senior man in service in Economic Botany in this country and is easily without a peer in the work of his chosen field. A great teacher and productive scholar, he has lately been chosen to lead in the development of the State Park system of Iowa, a task for which he is peculiarly well-fitted by his vision, judgment, and botanical knowledge.

He is a distinguished son of the State and the University whom it is our delight to honor.

On the recommendation of the Faculty and by vote of the Regents, I present to you LOUIS HERMANN PAMMEL to receive the honorary degree of Doctor of Science.

Class of 1888

ALTHOUGH it was not our year for quinquennial celebration we staged a successful "interim reunion," thanks to the valiant efforts of Israel Shrimski. He wrote to every member of the class, except a few who have been mislaid, and organized the whole affair with characteristic ability and generosity. He gave us a gorgeous luncheon on Saturday at the Loraine, with music 'n' everything. Afterwards some of us drove out to Mary Brittingham's lovely home, spent a pleasant hour there and came back just in time for the alumni dinner.

On Sunday there were drives and visiting bees, and we met at the Kentzler's charming country place for a picnic supper.

Those present on Saturday, Sunday, or both days were W. C. Black and wife, N. S. Robinson and wife, Israel Shrimski, J. C. Jamieson, wife and daughter, Jessie M. Cole, Delia Haner Cobb and husband, Louise McMynn Greene, W. S. McCorkle and son, F. A. Geiger, wife and daughter, Harry Russell, son and daughter-in-law, Emma Purdy Kentzler, husband, daughter and son, A. B. Winegar and wife, May Stewart Lamb and husband, E. E. Brossard and wife, Edward Kremers, Melissa Brown, Sophie Lewis Briggs.

We had expected to have the Clarks and Colignons with us, but as "Pete" had not sufficiently recovered from an attack of quinsy and Mollie had recently fallen down stairs they were obliged to be among those absent. Interesting letters were read from Bertha Stiles, W. A. Rogers, Kirke Cowdery, Fred Beglinger, A. H. Reid, Seymour Cook, Mary Sarles Clark and Mollie Conklin Colignon; Dr. Bloodgood wired his regrets.

'88 respectfully passes on the suggestion that the older classes—of the eighties and earlier—hold annual reunions. As the years go on our ranks are becoming depleted, and once a year is not too often to renew old associations. The classes in between those which are holding quinquennial reunions might well arrange to meet together. For next year this would mean joint reunions of 1882-85, inclusive, 1887-90, etc. It is a plan worth considering.

The 35th Reunion of Mighty '90

By WILLARD PARKER.

THE 35TH REUNION of the great and glorious class of Mighty '90 was held at the beautiful country home of J. B. Ramsay, Maple Bluff, Madison, on the afternoon of Saturday, June 20, 1925.

There were present a total of eighty-three including wives, husbands, children, and grandchildren of the original members of the class.

The following figures are interesting:

Original number of graduates in 1890.....	82
Members present at this reunion.....	29
Members deceased.....	16
Members not present but who sent regrets.....	16
Members not heard from.....	21
	82

Pursuant to call, the members of the class and their families gathered at the State Historical Library at 12 o'clock noon, and were taken to the beautiful country residence of our class-mate, Jim Ramsay, who had opened his lake-shore home on Maple Bluff to us. At one o'clock all sat down to a luncheon on the lawn, and at the close of this the business program was opened, with Ben Parkinson, the President-elect until the crack-of-doom, presiding.

The minutes of the proceedings of the 30th reunion in 1920 were read and approved. The roll was then called, and the following answered present to their names:

Bolender, Fred J.; Browne, Edward E.; Cairns, W. B.; Churchill, Mrs. William W. (Lettie Wood); Drake, Dr. Frank Irvin; Fairchild, D. L.; Harrington, Dr. Timothy Louis; Hart, Royal Bryant; Kiser, Daniel Elliott; Maurer, Edw. R.; Millman, James Charles; Moe, Hans Hansen; Moseley, Caroline Flora; Myrl-and, August John; McGovern, Francis E.; Parker, Willard Nathan; Parkinson, Ben Carroll; Pier, William Francis; Potter, William Gray; Ramsay, James Bowen; Seymour, Walter Frederick; Smith, Leonard Sewal; Smith, Mary Allegra; Smith, Walter McMynn; Steenis, Mrs. John W. (Orithia Holt); Swansen, Samuel T.; Webster, D. Edward; Wieman, Edward Frank; Willard, Mrs. W. W. (Mary H. Ela).

Reitbrock, A. C.; Durand, Loyal, Brittingham, Mrs. Mayme Clark.

Regrets were received from the following: Austin, Eleanor Cerinthia; Brown, Howard; Brumder, William Charles; Bruning, Mrs. Charles (Eugene Naffz); Dow, Mrs. Frederick S. (Emma Diment); Giddings, Mrs. Chas. E. (Augusta Lee); Hoskin, Arthur Joseph; Joyce, Charles F.; Kraege, Louis Michael; Luce, Mrs. C. A. (Mary Fairchild); Shepard, John Leslie; Showerman, Mrs. Grant (Zilpha Vernon); Silliman, Arthur P.; Simpson, George Thomas; Townley, Sidney Dean; Uehling, Otto Casper.

It was recorded that since the last reunion in 1920 only one graduate of the class had died. This was Andrew William Anderson, who passed away on June 1, 1925. Besides these, three non-grads have departed this life: Robert N. McMynn, Milwaukee, Harry Pugh, Racine, Dr. F. E. Colony, Evansville.

The following resolution in memory of our departed class-mates was offered, and unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, There have departed from this life since our last reunion in 1920, the following named, Andrew William Anderson, Robert N. McMynn, Harry Pugh, and F. E. Colony, therefore be it

Resolved, That we, the members of the class of Mighty '90, in reunion assembled this 20th day of June in the year 1925, do deeply express our sorrow at the loss of these worthy men; and be it further

Resolved, That the secretary be instructed to notify their relatives of our appreciation of these men as they lived their lives and of our sorrow at their death.

Resolutions were offered congratulating Professor John B. Parkinson and William Penn Powers, the two surviving members of the class of 1860, who were in attendance upon the commencement exercises this year.

Ajax Myrland offered the following resolution on President Edwin A. Birge:

WHEREAS, the members of the class of Mighty '90 recall with great pleasure their contact with President Edwin A. Birge of the University while they were students at the institution, and

WHEREAS, We feel that in his fifty years' connection with the institution he has been a most potent factor in the growth of Wisconsin's great educational institution; therefore be it

Resolved By class of Mighty '90, in 35th reunion assembled this 20th day of June, 1925, that we tender our felicitations to President Birge as he retires from his work, and wish for him the pleasure and profit which should come to a man in his later years who has such a record of achievement in educational circles as President Birge.

The above resolutions were unanimously adopted, and the Secretary was ordered to transmit a copy of them to President Birge.

Jim Ramsay and his good wife were given a rousing vote of thanks for the hospitality extended to the members of the class and the opportunity offered us in holding our reunion in such pleasant environment.

The long-distance record was won by Dr. Walter Frederick Seymour, who came all the way from Shantung, China, to join in our festivities. Walter was called upon by President Ben to enlighten his class-mates on his past history and his present work in the Orient. His story was most interesting. He said he had not attended a reunion of the class in the last twenty-five years, that he had traveled 17,000 miles to get here, and that the occasion was one to be long remembered in his eventful life. Walter spoke of China's problems, and at the urgent request of his class-mates told something of his work. He said he had been in China for thirty-two years as a medical missionary; that he administered not only to the physical needs of the unfortunate natives of that country, but likewise gave them spiritual aid. He gave us a little dissertation in the Chinese language, which, so far as his auditors could determine, was a perfect rendition of his thoughts in the heathen vernacular. After a furlough of one year, he is to return to his work in China, and expects to remain there the rest of his life.

The next member of the class to be called upon was William Francis Pier, now residing at Altadena, Calif. who had never before attended a reunion of the class. He stated, after an absence of thirty-five years, that the present occasion was a most enjoyable one to him. Since graduation he has been in the real estate and oil business on the western coast, and when pressed to state just what was his present occupation he demurred, and left it to us to conclude that he had struck it rich in oil and wasn't necessarily a hard laboring man any longer. Pier looked the part, and his class-mates gave him a hearty welcome.

Then came Edward Everett Browne, the once be-whiskered and deep-voiced member of our class, who has achieved honors in the field of statesmanship, and for twelve years has represented the Waupaca district in Congress. Ed's age naturally compelled him to reminisce, and he told something of the good old club eating days when board was $2.10 per week, and a student could get through on $400.00 a year. He stated that these figures were not applicable at the present time, inasmuch as he had sent two boys and two girls through college. Ed was for a reunion every year, and the holding of it right on Jim Ramsay's lawn. To this Jim gave his hearty consent.

Next appeared our other illustrious statesman of the class, Ex-Governor Francis E. McGovern. In his first formal speech, Frank didn't open up very much, and talked in rather a dignified manner about education and other trivial matters.

At this point Mrs. Mayme Clarke Brittingham, our official chaperon, was called, but much to our regret we found that she had been obliged to leave only a few moments before to meet other engagements.

Up to this time the program had been of the usual type and more or less enjoyed, but there now came on the scene the irrepressible Tim Harrington, whose Irish qualities would not permit him to longer remain silent, and he arose in a most dignified manner and demanded that after thirty-five years of ignorance on the part of his class-mates, the episode in which Frank McGovern and Dan Kiser were associated during their undergraduate days be fully explained to their class-mates. Although Tim is a doctor and knows nothing about law, he offered the bluff that the statute of limitations had operated, and that these fellows should now come clean with the details of their deeds in the University.

There was considerable quibbling. Dan Kiser was asked to tell of his connections with the pepper episode, and he said he would if Frank would come through on the tragedy of the Middleton sleigh ride party. Frank accepted the challenge, and explained how innocent he was in all the events connected with that awful tragedy when a score of the members of the Ancient Order of Hypnotics and their fair ladies were stranded in the village of Middleton all Saturday night and far into the morning of Sunday. He told how Martin Feeney, Ralph Green, and others put it over the Madison police and got away without a state's prison sentence—it would make an interesting story for the Police Gazette). Then Dan Kiser, the only member of our class who admitted he was a democrat in his under-collegiate days, and who strangely claims that he is still a Democrat, came through slick and clean with his story of the pepper episode in the old library hall. Dan brought several other names into the story, of course showed his own innocence, but at the same time indicated a familiarity with the minute details of the affair which raised some suspicions in the minds of his class-mates.

The picture of the class was taken, and on final adjournment it was arranged to visit Professor Parkinson at his residence on Wisconsin Avenue, President Birge, and Mrs. Brittingham at her Dunmuven estate on the Middleton road.

All in all, the 35th reunion of our class may be set down as the most interesting one we have ever had. In fact, as the years roll by, each reunion grows better and more interesting. From the original class of 82 members who went out from the University in June, 1890, the estimated total of the class, including wives, husbands, children and grandchildren probably now numbers in the vicinity of close to 200.

Final adjournment was taken at 5:15 p. m. until the next reunion in 1930. (See center spread page for class picture.)

By ANNA GRIFFITHS.

TWELVE of the class of 1895 met informally at luncheon at Lathrop Hall, Saturday noon, June 25, and in the evening united with the law class of 1895 in the giving of their toasts and songs at the alumni banquet. Those returning for their thirtieth anniversary were: Jessie Shepherd, Chicago, E. H. Cassells, Chicago, Rodney Elward, Castleton, Kan., Anna Tarnutzer Arn, Kansas City, Frances Weller, Milwaukee, Mr. Elwell, Milwaukee, Dr. Victor Marshall, Appleton, Dr. W. W. Pretts, Platteville, Ida Parman Frautschi, Martha Scheibel Cramton, Charles Burgess, Vroman Mason, Madison.

Best wishes to all the class of '95 were sent by Helen Baker Cady, Evanston, Ill., Alice Bunting, LaCrosse, C. R. Frazier, Pocatello, Idaho, Margaret MacGregor Harrington, Milwaukee, Florence Vernon Steensland, Syracuse, O. M. Salisbury, Seattle, Wash. The letter from O. M. Salisbury is published for the benefit of those members of '95 who were not present to hear it read.

There is a real longing in my heart to be with you people of '95 who will gather in Madison this week. It is a long, long time since I have had that pleasure. I promised myself for years after I came West, that I would at least get back for the quarter centennial of the class but when that time came I was among the mountains of Albania where I could not even get mail out for months at a time or even be sure that it would ever get out. Those were the days when the Albanian mountaineers were bushwhacking the Italians who thought they were exercising a mandate over the benighted country.

It surely was a surprise when a stray copy or two of the ALUMNI MAGAZINE found their way down there and located me. How it happened, and who it was who was thoughtful enough of a man's loneliness in that far away country of stage brigands, to try to get the magazine to me, I do not know, but it was surely appreciated.

I saw Guy Ford in Washington in 1918 and again in Minneapolis on my return to this country in January, 1921, and he was the only member of '95 I have seen in years till I went into "Patsy" Ryan's office here in Seattle for the first time in November, 1923.

Ryan is the same sort of a solid citizen, in every sense of the word, that he promised to be in the days when he bucked the line with the giants of the days of the "flying wedge." I was surprised to find him simply a whale of a man, with little superfluous flesh, for one of his massive frame.

Possibly there are other members of '95 here in Seattle or in the country about, but it is so long since I have seen a University directory that I know nothing about where anyone is and am not always sure of my own whereabouts for long at a time. Just now I am considering the possibility of taking charge of a school, a store and a reindeer herd for the Government at Point Barrow, the most northern point in America. I am a little staggered at the enthusiasm my wife shows over the matter because I have seen enough of the "remote corners" to understand some of the possibilities, but I confess to a sort of sneaking disposition to roam again.

My older boy entered the University of Washington this spring to take a course in forestry, and it seems such a short time since I was passing my first days in the University of Wisconsin. The thirty years which have passed have doubtless been the big thirty years in the lives of most of the class and many have a record behind them to be proud of, with probably more to come, like the Burgess Brothers and many others.

I have felt keen regret over the difficult trail the University has had to travel of late years, but there is always an end to everything, and it seems probable to me that the politicians will meet their Waterloo before the University has slid down the grade too far.

I have seen times when I felt prouder of old Wisconsin, as a state to live in, than I do right now, but the state is filled with the right kind of people and one of these days they are going to be found on top.

What wouldn't I give to be with you all and have a chance to learn what has been going on with you all, but I am a long way from Tipperary!

Please extend my best greetings to the crowd and assure them I shall still continue to hope to be with them one of these days.

Most cordially yours, O. M. SALISBURY,
4521—10th Ave., N. E., Seattle, Wash.

The following resolutions in honor of Gerhard Dahl, who contributed so largely to the success of the 1925 regatta for Wisconsin alumni, were passed by about one hundred enthusiastic New York alumni at the dinner following the crew race recently.

WHEREAS, The State and University of Wisconsin have given to New York one of its most distinguished citizens and alumni, one of its most constructive factors in the business and civic life of the first metropolis of America in the person of Mr. Gerhard M. Dahl;

WHEREAS, Through his enviable position in the commercial, civic, and social life of New York, through his unselfish and disinterested service in connection with all matters having to do with the promotion of the best interests of his Alma Mater and native state, he has been responsible through his whole-hearted, enthusiastic, and untiring efforts in placing the alumni of the University of Wisconsin as individuals and collectively to function in matters having to do with the promotion of the best interests of the University of Wisconsin;

WHEREAS, Due to his generosity, vision, and unselfish and constructive attitude the annual Intercollegiate Regatta held at Poughkeepsie on Monday, June 22, was a huge success and a thorough demonstration of the extent to which the University of Wisconsin was properly represented through its New York alumni in all respects in connection with true sportsmanship, gameness to the end, and social propriety, and

WHEREAS, It would be unbecoming, if not ungrateful, for the individual members of the New York alumni not to express their unqualified appreciation of the great service performed by Mr. Gerhard M. Dahl relative to the representation, the organization, and the success of the part which the New York alumni played in having Wisconsin's crew finish third in what was the fastest rowed crew race held on the Hudson since the inception of the races in 1897; therefore be it

Resolved, That the alumni of the University of Wisconsin here assembled express to Mr. Gerhard M. Dahl their unqualified admiration of the enviable position which, because of his great ability, talents, and unselfish devotion to all that is best in American life, has enabled him to assume leadership in the metropolis, and be it further

Resolved, That we pledge our best efforts, individually and collectively, to cooperate with him in his wise leadership in connection with the execution in the future of any project which has to do with the securing for the State of Wisconsin and its great University the most far-reaching benefits possible to secure in this city through its loyal and enthusiastic alumni, in evidence of their appreciation of the opportunities and gifts it has bestowed upon them.

The Reunion of the Class of 1900

By C. V. HIBBARD

ON FRIDAY, June 19, the members of the class who arrived early in the day, met for luncheon at the College Women's Club. Covers had been laid for forty, but nearly twice that number arrived, and a genial atmosphere developed which was even more evident at the dinner which took place that evening at the Maple Bluff Golf Club. About eighty-five were present there, this number including the wives, husbands, and children of a number who brought their families. John Niven presided at the dinner and called the roll of those present, requiring each one to account for his activities during the quarter century just past. Gilson Glasier led the songs and demonstrated that 1900 is not among those who "cannot sing the old songs." Lynn Williams enjoyed his usual easy pre-eminence in starting more things than all the rest of the class put together.

The class voted to establish a Class of 1900 Birge Scholarship with funds contributed by members of the class. It was agreed that the selection of candidates should be left entirely with President Birge, the class suggesting merely that if any son or daughter of the Class of 1900 were among those eligible to the scholarship the child of the class should have priority over other candidates.

The class sat together at the alumni dinner on Saturday evening. We all felt proud of the men and women of the class. Lynn Williams on behalf of the class announced the scholarship to President Birge. Wm. Kies, acting for the Wisconsin alumni in New York City, presented engrossed resolutions of appreciation to President Birge.

The large proportion of the class present and the satisfaction in getting them together led to the resolution that we should prepare with even more care for the reunion of 1930. It was further suggested that as many of us have college friendships with the members of the classes of 1899 and 1901, we should invite the members of these classes to join with us at the time of the next reunion. (See center spread pages for class picture!)

Leo NOHL, 709 Caswell Block, Milwaukee, was unanimously elected president of Optimist International at their convention at Houston, Texas, in June. Mr. Nohl is serving his second term as president of the Milwaukee Optimist Club.—H. T. PLUMB, electrical engineer connected with the Salt Lake City office of the General Electric Co., is among the forty-three employees of the company to be honored with awards given workers under the Charles A. Coffin foundation for the year 1925. Mr. Plumb has been with the company fourteen years. When the disaster occurred at the Castle Gate coal mine at Castle Gate, Utah, in which an explosion resulted in the death and injury of a large number of miners, Mr. Plumb went to the scene of the disaster and helped with the rescue work for six days. He initiated a systematic direction of the work at the mine portal through which bodies were brought from the mine, and organized a telephone service for rescuers in the mine. He took charge of the supplies, kept a record of telephone conversation from the rescue workers, and directed much of the work in the mine by telephone. It was because of this service in time of disaster that the award was made him. In addition he was given $250 in General Electric Employees Securities corporation bonds, bearing 8 per cent interest. Mr. Plumb is well known in the electrical industry and has taken an active part in its affairs. He is a past president of the Utah Society of Engineers, and in 1921 acted as general chairman of the committee in charge of the annual A. I. E. E. convention held in Salt Lake City in that year. Mr. Plumb was formerly professor of electrical engineering at Purdue University.—Ray PALMER is president of the New York & Queens Electric Light & Power Co., with offices in the Electric Building, Long Island City, N. Y.—Antoinette JACKOWSKA Peterson, attorney at law, Milwaukee, represented the Portia Club, a group of women lawyers of the state, at the funeral of Kate Hamilton Pier, '87, in Fond du Lac recently. Mrs. Peterson is the only woman member and the first woman to be appointed a member of the civil service commission of Milwaukee, which examines, recommends, and has a general supervision over more than 3,000 city employees. She returned recently from Detroit, where she was a delegate to the convention of the National Woman's party. Mrs. Peterson has been in active law practice in Milwaukee for more than twenty years and has a large clientele there.

Always on Top

By WILLIAM TUBESING.

THE 1905 top, painted green with red bands, and a larger 1905 in white, made its appearance in front of the Gath house on Gilman and North Henry early Friday, June 19th, and from that time on a registration of '05 alumni took place that rivaled any previous gathering of our class. Rex Welton of Madison, who sells and repairs automobiles, called early and was followed by G. F. Grahams, who is in the contracting business in New York. Kittie Brahany Blumenthal did not fall down on her promise to come. She is the same girl, only she lives in New York. Clifford Mills brought his wife and his three charming daughters from Denver by motor car. If you need any legal advice out West he can give it to you. David Bogue from Portage, although very busy, said he couldn't resist coming. John Berg, state engineer for South Dakota, rolled in early with his new Buick, and of course Mrs. Berg, and his two large sons were not left at home. You all remember E. F. Sinz. Well he is our long distance holder. He brought his wife from Aguirri, Porto Rico. You see he went to one reunion and wouldn't miss another for anything.

Ed Wray, just as youthful as ever, is a publisher in Chicago. Of course he has nothing on his wife or daughter. By the way, he took some pictures of the picnic on Sunday that would make any of you old timers who missed the reunion feel like coming to see what was going to happen in 1930. The North was also there. Albert Dean of Duluth, Minn., F. B. Cronk and wife, Jessie M., and daughter, Iva Grace, held their own against John Baker, who is now attorney for the Northwestern Railroad, at the Valentine luncheon held at the Madison Club on Sunday. I really believe Mrs. Baker helped John out.

R. L. Hankinson and wife with their daughter, Wilra, came from Dayton. They like to reunite and always come. The Inbusch twins were there—Walter who now lives in Hubbard Woods, Ill., brought his wife, but poor Herbert is still going it alone. Can't some of you give him a prescription?

Lloyd Pullen is happily married and is a barrister in Kansas City, Mo. Oh, indeed, Mrs. Pullen was there. Bill Hagenah was only going to stay Friday, but Tube saw to it that he did not get away. Well, you all remember Ellis Walker. She was there early and late. She is the queen bee at Kalamazoo, Mich., seeing that the sick are properly taken care of. Tube appointed her official top spinner of the class. Oh, yes, did you say Anthony? Well you bet they were there. Little Harriet Pietzsch Anthony has not grown an inch in twenty years. Well, you don't have to look at the picture long for our own Cornelia Cooper. She is the same girl, only more attractive. Madison is her home where she teaches all Madison children how to do dramatics. Leta Wilson is the same jovial Leta of old—always a good word for everybody. She is one of the prize teachers at Madison High. Victor Griggs, although married, came single-handed. He lives and does business at Havre, Mont. Chicago arrived with a bundle of enthusiasm when Harold Weld arrived. His only trouble was finding Mrs. Weld. Indeed, E. G. Orbert, now practicing engineering in his own office at West Allis, brought Mrs. Orbert. He succeeded in getting Jack Balch to leave his work and bring Mrs. Balch. They won't miss another reunion.

Augusta Lorch of Madison was glad to give all of us the glad hand. Charles Hammersley, who has his law office in the Majestic Building, Milwaukee, brought his sister, Ellen, and his wife and three children. I really believe he lost a pound during the banquet. Yes, Alice Green Hixon was right there at our dancing party at the Loraine Hotel ballroom. Harold Geisse blew in, all whistles on full force. His wife and son were full of pep. Our own Oswald Wagley and his wife, Bessie, motored from Milwaukee. Albert Larsen is still a staid old bachelor but says there are hopes. Our treasurer, Herb Lindsay, brought his wife and daughter. They saw to it that nobody held up Herb after he had made the collections of the Mighty '05 Reuners.

Albert Vinson showed us that an '09 wife isn't such a bad acquisition. Nell sounds good, too. Dagmar Vea now lives at Stoughton, John Detling and his wife, Minnie Reiss, are in business in Sheboygan. They are agreed—1930 for them. Amy Bronsky was there with bells on. She seems to favor a reunion every year. Good for her.

Well, well, the engineers were certainly glad to see O. B. Hosig of Powell, Wyo., breeze in. O. B. was covered with dust an inch-thick. Fred Dorner, just back from Los Angeles Shrine Convention, brought his son, Jack, whom he registered for the class of 1935. Gymnast, did you say? Yes, indeed. J. R. Blame, who now lives in Oak Park, Ill., and say, boys, you ought to see his son do some stepping at the dance of our class. Our dear Amy Allen was there to take in all the good times '05 had to offer.

W. R. Schmidley came over from Janesville. He certainly is a lucky boy to be so close to Madison. Of course, he had nothing on P. B. Turner of Madison. Dr. did you say—George Neilson was there to give first aid. Don't forget girls, his wife was with him. Not to be outdone, William Colburn, who is superintendent of the trade school in Milwaukee, brought his wife and has a good healthy-looking son who will graduate from the U in 1926. It pays to get married early.

Although Bill Tubesing got up the Big Top, it took Bill Jr., to spin the small tops that we all wore suspended by a red ribbon. Oh, yes, we had quite a sewing bee putting on ribbons and safety pins. Mrs. Tubesing saw to it that the men got a prize in the races at the picnic. Dan Hoan, many times mayor of Milwaukee, and his family were there to help liven up things.

Well, so much for who is who. Everybody helped to spin the top. You could always spot an '05-er because he wore a top. Our horns, caps, and rattlers made some din at the zigzag parade and at the banquet. And music! Well the way Dan Hoan and Bill Tubesing can make the drums talk—why they had to call out the engineers to save the Gym roof from collapsing.

All you girls and boys who missed our dance at the Loraine Hotel ballroom missed something. You never saw such a good-looking bunch of coeds come back for their 20th reunion. You have got to hand it to the Loraine management for a place and the eats to match; we certainly will come again.

Rex Welton arranged for our Sunday luncheon at the Madison Club, and what a time we had at this unique Valentine party without a shirt—you missed something, old top, by not being there. After a ride around Lake Mendota in a chartered launch and a stop at Bernard's Park, and our games, at which Graham showed his heels to all of us, and with the good music furnished by Ed Wray on his banjo and songs sung by all, we arrived at the boat landing, and then with tears in our eyes and an order out for handkerchiefs, we bade each other God Speed and vowed that 1930 must see every '05-er back.

When the writer said good-by to G. F. Graham, who had never been to a reunion before, G. F. said, "Bill, I miss the bunch already. Nineteen-thirty will see me back with the whole family. It was a glorious reunion. Nineteen-five will always be "on top."

The class here wishes our general alumni secretary who was so solicitous of our success a locomotive—U—rah—rah—Crawford!

And our own Prexy whom you see right back of the top—Many more years of usefulness to our glorious University.

Altogether boys—U—Rah—Rah—WISCONSIN!

Eleanor BURNETT without a doubt journeyed the longest distance to be present at the reunion of her class. China, India, Egypt, Palestine, Greece, Italy, France, and England followed in succession after she left Japan, with Wisconsin and the University her goal. Miss Burnett arrived in New York City a full week before the dates of reunion activities, happy to have traveled so far and to have arrived in time to be able to reach Wisconsin by the 19th. But illness seized her, and she was forced to remain in New York through the week. When she reached Madison, late Saturday evening, the 20th, many of her classmates had already left for their homes and she was keenly disappointed to have missed seeing them. In true Eastern philosophical attitude she was glad that she had come so near to them as to read their names on the commencement register. Miss Burnett can be reached care of W. B. M. I., Room 1315, 19 South LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.

“Back to Wisconsin”

(Tune—“On Wisconsin”)

Back to Wisconsin
Back to Wisconsin
We have come again
To let our Alma Mater know
There's still some class to “Ten”
Something doing
Big time brewing
Always will be when—
Wisconsin sings “Welcome Home”
To Nyn—teen—ten.

ITSALLOVER buttopaythebills. And we hijacked enough out of the gang to do that and still have some left for a humid day.

'Twas a Grand and Glorious Reunion. Those who were present had a great time—those who weren't here were missed and then some by those who came to feed the whimsical Wham. By the way, his appetite and nature is as good as ever. Look at him (above) and weep not for his was the most exalted and most envied roll of all reuners this year. He carried off all honors as was always his wont and although he may have become a bit more quite and dignified he still winks a wicked eye anon and even his tall pomador still holds its delectable marcell high up among the stars, and oh! them teeth—how did they behave both in season and out. The great Whamskizzle of the Grand and Glorious Class of Nynteenen still lives—he came back stronger than ever this year and the future is most propitious.

It won't do to say over much about reunion. Those who were on hand don't have to be told what happened—they know, to their eternal delight. The rest of you should have been here but then there would be no excuse for busting into print—so you also served.

So here goes. A houseful gathered at headquarters on Friday night. An exceptional Chicago male quartette furnished by George Haight, Alumni Association president, worked their heads off till nine o'clock when all of us started for Prexy Birge's home. The President greeted us, the quartette sang a few songs to him, we sang our "Back to Wisconsin" song, gave a few sky-rockets and returned to headquarters. There we were met by our own George Miller and his singing friend Jim Goddard.

George had written a new Nyneteen song to the tune of "It Ain't Goin' to Rain No More No More," which was a "knock-em-cold-and-carry-em-out" number. He with the master help of Goddard led us in this song and many others till the evening was worn to a frazzle.

On Saturday we ate lunch at Lathrop together in a specially-reserved room having as our guest Mr. W. P. Powers of the class of 1860, the oldest U. W. graduate, and his good wife. We sang many of our old songs and new, under the leadership of Jim and George—and a great time was had by all.

Then came the alumni parade on the Upper Campus, the ball game on the lower campus, the bridge party for the girls at the College Woman's Club and the alumni banquet at the Gym at six o'clock. The banquet was especially successful with Nyneteen in prominent evidence it would seem. We filled two and one-half tables—over ninety of us—and kept busy for three hours eating, singing, putting on stunts, and listening to songs and features by other classes. Mr. Powers, '60, and wife had again joined us and seemed to enjoy themselves as much as we did. We had also an Italian accordion player with us and Emil Iverson, University of Minnesota coach, who graduated from the University of Copenhagen, Denmark, in 1910. Our tables were decorated with the idol image—the Wham, and we were decked out with conical green and white hats, canes, green carnations, green sashes and many hydrogen-filled balloons. And thus went the banquet.

Then we proceeded to Lathrop and in the concert room to the strains of the accordion we danced for an hour and a half. About ten thirty we returned to headquarters where we were entertained by George Morris' wife and Jim Goddard, both former grand opera singers.

On Sunday came the big picnic at the city Y camp on the west shore of Lake Mendota. Oliver Storey pulled the stuff for us here, giving us much satisfying eats and reams of entertainment. Did the kids have fun? Yes, they did, and so did the grownups. And about four bells it was all over and now we've got to wait for another five years. And we'll be back with a bang.

It is a hard job to give credit to all who worked on the arrangements, but a few must be mentioned. Four diners by Madison members were staged in preparation of plans, and an average of twenty attended each. Calla Andrus, the secretary of the reunion, did most of the work on the dinners and mailing of propaganda. And hats off to her from all of us. Oliver Storey handled the picnic in masterful style and he and Kemp Sidell got up the literature, ably assisted by Clarke and Leslie Weed Gillette. Walter Schulte handled the regalia which was mighty attractive and not expensive. And did Frank Thiessen and his efficient wife decorate the headquarters? It must be said with superlatives; most effective, tasty and neat appearing. Hazel Strait Stafford handled the reception in big style and personally staged a bridge party at the College Woman's Club for the girls on Saturday afternoon. Mollie Wright Abel took care of the kiddies and Sid Dudgeon was working with the various committees. George Luhman was the custodian in chief on finance and brought in the last few shekels to bring the make part a little above the break on the balance sheet. Leslie Weed Gillette, L. F. Graber, Oliver Rundell, and Henry Schuette also get honorable mention for their general activities.

And we're a money-making gang, too, for we came out of the fracas some thirty-five dollars ahead with all bills accounted for except a few odds and ends that may still come in. We had to ask for a silver offering at the picnic, but everybody had so much fun that we had a hard time keeping 'em from shelling out more than we needed. Here's the statement so you can see how we hijacked the thing through:

But lingeringly the Wham says—watch the fall number of this here alumni dope sheet for a big announcement which has been duly hatched but is being held from publication till the wings have fully grown. What is the function of the class in the alumni body? What is it supposed to do as an organization? Should it do anything during the five years between reunions, or like some flowers should it contain itself and burst forth in full bloom only at those intervals?

The proposed new constitution, as we know, or should know as interested readers of our MAGAZINE, contemplates doing away with class representation on the Alumni Council on the ground that the local alumni club is the most effective administrative unit. If this is passed, the class will no longer have a representative in the alumni body. Of course this will be no hardship on our class, for example, since there has never been any subject we have wished to bring before the Council. But what do we think of this as a class? Your Class Secretary stands ready to see that all suggestions receive the proper attention. Let us have some suggestions.

There is obviously one thing which the class organization should do, namely, see to it that the maximum number come back for reunion and that the most interesting, instructive, and enjoyable program be prepared. In this matter it is impossible to lay too much stress upon finances, not only because of the necessity of paying bills for the essential reunion paraphernalia and reunion events, but because of that principle of human nature which urges people to use that for which they have paid in advance, thus making the stay-at-home inertia easier to overcome. We believe that, beginning next year, a reunion fund should be built up and that members should contribute 50c per year to the fund. We should like criticism and suggestions on this plan.

We believe that 1914 will serve the University if it can discover or work out what is the function of the class in the Alumni Association. As yet nobody has told us. Let's find it out ourselves or at least try. This is the last issue of the MAGAZINE this school year and let's be prepared next year to tackle this question in a big way.

While discussing class affairs, and our own in particular, we cannot but pause to express our sentiments both of pity and welcome for our neighbor class of 1915. We note their self-made title—"Outstanding." To be sure we have seen this before—this "Outstanding-ness,"—when they were timid freshmen pressing their buttons at our pleasure, and we note with much pity that they are still standing out. Alas, too bad! We did indeed "take them in" at our 1914-15 class rush, and on numerous other occasions, and we did welcome them to take the reins of the U. W. when we were leaving ten years ago. But apparently they are still standing out in the cold, and so once more we most heartily welcome them in. Come on in, Outstanding 1915, and be like the rest of us!

The 1915 Reunion

By WILLIAM FOSTER

*"What was so rare as the three days in June,
When the Outstanding Class came back to reunite!"*

WITH apologies to Whittier, this expresses the sentiment of the 160 members of the Outstanding Class, who threw ten annual desk calendars in the waste basket, and came back to the Hill of Happiness.

All Friday morning the returning Fifteeners kept coming to the Campus Headquarters in the Theta Delta Chi House at 22 Langdon. Gossip, bridge, and renewed friendships took up the all-too-short forenoon.

A luncheon with strawberry shortcake 'n everything was served on the lawn overlooking Lake Mendota.

During the afternoon, a "Gymkhana" or "Carnival of Fun," was held on the lawn. Tea was served to the weary athletes at 4 p. m.

The Class Banquet and Ball at the Madison Club was a feature of the reunion. A good meal was served by Florenz Altendorf, '15, manager of the Club. During the dinner hour, music was furnished by the Benson entertainers of Chicago.

Al Thompson's orchestra of six pieces furnished the music for the dance. Selections that thrilled in 1914 and 1915 were frequently played. "Too Much Mustard," "I Want To Go Back To Michigan," "Missouri Waltz," "Alexander's Rag Time Band," and other pieces of our senior days brought everyone onto the floor. George Little, new athletic director, gave a short snappy talk on his plans for the future. The cabaret of the evening was furnished by four members of the Outstanding Class. Elsa Fauerbach, Louise Matthews Buerki, Pat Norris, and Carrington Stone brought tears of laughter and rounds of applause as they executed "The Boston Dip," "Grapevine," and "Tango," in costumes of 1915 vintage.

Saturday morning, in cars and motor busses, the Outstanding Class went out to Fox's Bluff, overlooking Lake Mendota. Here a brunchon (combined breakfast and luncheon), was served.

The classes formed for the class parade at 1:30 p. m., Saturday, 1915, with its reuniting members of the Coast Trip Band, under the leadership of Charlie Mann, and its dashing Valentino regalia, was much in evidence both in numbers and in pep.

At the alumni dinner at the Gym, Saturday evening, President Emeritus Birge marched with his classmates and was presented with a floral tribute from the Outstanding Class to its Outstanding member. Again the Band was the hit of the evening.

Leo Schoepf, '15, broadcast a solo during the evening. After the banquet, the class, led by the Band, marched en masse to President Birge's home for the reception.

At the Alumni ball at Lathrop Hall, the Outstanding Class had a special booth decorated with the class colors.

Sunday was devoted to the whims of the individual members.

The new officers of the Outstanding Class are: President, Nat Biart, Vice President, Rhoda Owen Otto, and Vice President, Dorothy Dana Walton, Secretary, Elsa Fauerbach, Treasurer, I. J. Schulte, Sergeant-at-Arms, Ray Keeler.

1915 Band Reunion

By CHARLES SANDERSON

PERHAPS no single University unit has cemented itself more closely than the personnel of the 1915 University Band that travelled and played concerts on a seven thousand mile trip for two full months.

in the summer of 1915.

On June 20, 1925, that same band, or at least a one-third remnant of it, sat down in Music Hall and rehearsed Stradella, Orpheus, Gypsy Love, and those other selections that made the band famous from Mo-bridge to the Prae-sidio. It was the same band, and Charlie (Mann) with the old stick. What a thrill! And then after hiring out at non-union wages to the Outstanding Class who paid cash, the band led the zig-zag parade and afterwards played a concert in the shadow of Lincoln's Statue. And in the evening at the alumni banquet (ask anyone who was there) over the radio was carried "Gypsy Love," the baritone solo by Leo Schoepf with full band accompaniment, played so many times before on that memorable Western tour.

Absent members sent in letters, letters of regret and sadness for having missed the ten-year reunion. These were read at the "round table" at the Band Smoker where many an incident of the trip was discussed. Officers elected for the next five years are Hugo Hering, '10, President, and Charles Sanderson, ex'15, Secretary and Treasurer. "The Band Echo," which is the "house-organ" of the band, is published from time to time with all the news of the band men, who are now scattered from Bisbee, Arizona, to New York City, and from Washington D. C., to Santa Monica, California.

Reunion of 1920

By PHYLLIS HAMILTON AND DOROTHY BELLE WOOD.

WELL, ANYHOW, all I can say is that you stay-at-homes missed a wonderful time. From start to finish it was the best reunion I've ever attended. To start with, everyone in town Friday morning trooped over to Class Headquarters to register. We had a wonderful old home in which to make our headquarters (thanks to Dorothy Belle Wood.)—The old Vilas home on the corner of East Gilman and Wisconsin Avenue, now known as the College Club. This stately old house with its huge rooms, big, screened-in porches and beautiful lawns, made an ideal setting for this first reunion of ours. The class headquarters were attractively decorated with the class colors, purple and white. Colored bunting wound around the pillars and a huge sign over the door proclaimed to the passing world that this was the headquarters of the glorious class of 1920, The "Leisure Class."

In the evening we had our lawn party. Colored lanterns strung among the trees gave the place a festive air. Inside there were many choices for entertainment. An orchestra provided music for those who wanted to dance—there were tables of bridge in the library—or there was the screened-in porch overlooking the lake where one could sit and discuss old times. We all stopped in time to see the Pipe of Peace ceremony held on the lower campus.

The next morning we had our class meeting at the club. Harlow Pease, in the absence of our president, presided. It was voted to re-elect the present officers, and beginning with the next reunion to elect officers each five years.

The president was entrusted with the job of appointing a chairman for our next reunion at least one year before it was to be held. This will give us ample time to lay plans for the biggest reunion of all.

It was also voted to continue the present scheme of raising money for our future reunions. Every one who hasn't paid in their sheckels, please do so at once. Send 'em to Harlow Pease, 50 E. Milwaukee Ave., Wauwatosa, Wis.

At one o'clock we all gathered in front of Science Hall to have our picture taken. How I wish that it could show our colors; they were truly gorgeous and eye-commanding.

Everyone wore the regulation class cap, a fetching purple tam with a white dangling tassel. The men had huge purple ties. The girls sashes of the same color. All carried balloons.

But the crowning touch of all was the noisemakers. Every loyal 1920'er carried one and used it. They were wonders at making 1920 heard and respected.

And then started that long march up the hill with the band leading, and Whitney Seymour's and Hazel Wolfe Charlton's sons at our head. We all gathered around Old Abe to have our picture taken.

That night 1920 attended the alumni banquet in a body. Again we led the way in running around the old armory to gather at Prexy's table and sing our song to him.

The next morning we wound up our festivities with a picnic on Observatory Hill. Such eats! And such a view, with old Mendota and Picnic Point spread out before our eyes.

Madison was just as beautiful as ever. All our old friends were just the same old friends we knew in school.

If you were at this reunion you will be back for all the rest. You who couldn't come make it a point to return in 1930.

Read the following story of our reunion:

By DOROTHY BELLE WOOD.

THE "leisure class" of 1920 held a select but successful reunion at Madison, June 19 and 20. From near and far loyal '20ers journeyed back to the "city of youth," to forget dull care and to frolic for two days and nights in the shadow of their Alma Mater. One of the first to arrive was Whitney Seymour, all the way from New York, and accompanied by his wife and curly-headed son, "Mike."

Registration was carried on at the 1920 class headquarters, the spacious and quiet College Club; about seventy-five people registered in all. The club was also the scene of the chief class activity, the lawn party held Friday night at eight o'clock. About fifty attended this affair which was informal and peppy from start to finish. The lawn of the club was decorated with gaily-colored Japanese lanterns, dance music of the finest order was furnished by Thompson's, and those who did not care to dance amused themselves with bridge or visiting.

Saturday morning the class officers called a business meeting and although this meeting was rather lightly attended some very necessary business was transacted. It was decided that the present class officers should continue to hold office during the next five years; new officers will be elected at the ten-year reunion.

Saturday at one, about fifty members of the class, attired in striking purple and white caps, bows, and sashes gathered at Music Hall to join the other reuniting classes in a zigzag parade on the upper campus. It was rather notable that what our class lacked in number was made up in noise, since every member of the "youngest" class was provided with a horn, a rattle, a drum, or a wood-cricket. Not even Master Charlton, son of Hazel Wolf Charlton, could out-do Henry Katzenstein in handling a pair of drum-sticks.

At the alumni banquet, held in the men's gym Saturday night, the class of 1920 distinguished itself by the snappy way in which it performed its "stunt." A song, the verses of which were composed by "Red" Perkins, and a yell attributed to "Sunny" Ray, were the framework of the stunt, but those who were not there cannot possibly appreciate with what enthusiasm it was delivered and received. The program of class activities ended with a picnic breakfast on Observatory Hill on Sunday morning at which it was voted that the 1920 fifty year reunion had been a big success.

Classmates, the first reunion is over. Begin to plan now for the next one in June 1930! It's not necessary to buy your ticket for Madison just yet, but it is essential that you send in your $3.00 contribution for the class reunion fund to Phyllis Hamilton immediately, if you have not done it before. This reunion cost approximately $235; the succeeding ones will cost a little more. We must get our fund accumulated promptly in order to insure the foundations of success for the reunion to come. Do your share! (See class picture on center spread page.)

Reunion of Class of '24

By WALTER FRAUTSCHI

MORE THAN FIFTY members of the class of 1924 journeyed back to Madison to attend the first annual reunion of the class, and from this group a permanent nucleus was formed for future years at commencement time. The class headquarters were established in a large tent next to the Union building near the lake, and under the direction of Porter Butts, official alumni recorder of the University, some member of the class was on hand at all times to greet the reuners. Chairs, a table, and interesting literature were kept here, and the tent was continuously a busy place.

One of the features of the reunion was a large record book, bound in full black morocco in which everyone signed his name, his present occupation, the name of his wife or husband (if he had one) and also the names of any children. Each year this book will be present so that a permanent record of the reuniting members of the Class of 1924 will be maintained.

On Saturday afternoon of commencement week, the class held an informal picnic at Sunset Point. Although this was not exceptionally well-attended because of the many conflicting attractions, such as the journalist's picnic and the W. A. A. meeting, it proved to be a memorable time. In the evening the class sat together at the alumni dinner in the gym.

The sentiment of those members of the class who returned this year was that a similar effort should be made every year. It was felt that this would in no way detract from the magnitude of the regular five-year reunion, but would rather amplify it and would create a definite and enthusiastic interest in the class.

'24 has therefore permanently adopted the slogan, "Watch '24—We Reune Every June."

Journalism Grads Held Powerful Reunion

By FRANKLIN BUMP

FROM ALL OVER the country they came—loyal Badger scribes to celebrate Twenty Years of Journalism at Wisconsin. And indeed it was a noteworthy celebration, for it marked the beginning of an organized effort to establish a proper School of Journalism at the University.

Registration of the reuners was held at South Hall on Friday, June 19, and at ten o'clock Saturday morning, June 20, the Scribes gathered in front of the hall and donned their costumes, consisting of newspaper hats, special reunion ribbons, and "Extra" sashes. Then they went howling forth through the Latin quarter on parade.

Saturday noon the Scribes took a boat at the Park street pier for Camp Indianola on Lake Mendota for their big picnic. After a goodly repast, Bingling Brothers Greater Side Shows furnished about thirty minutes of amusement for the reuners who saw featured many weird freaks, such as Zeko, the dog-faced boy, Mooli, the Sansu Idiot, Boo-Wah, the wild man from Zubzub, and a "For Men Only" show which was open to women also. After the monstrosity display, there followed a lively ball-game, the result of which is still in doubt.

At the general alumni banquet Saturday night, the Journalists had their own table and created a big sensation with their special edition of the Wisconsin State Journal, copies of which were distributed to everyone in the banquet hall directly after the fake crash of Chet Bailey's airplane just outside the gym. Chet was then brought into the hall well-bandaged and looking sadly shaken-up after his supposed air-ride from Benton Harbor, Mich.

Sunday noon, June 21, the reuners had dinner at the Woman's Building, and at this meeting a permanent Journalism alumni organization was effected. The following officers were elected: President, Waldo Arnold of the Milwaukee Journal; Vice-president, Jane Pine, Associate Editor of Hygeia, magazine of the American Medical Society, Chicago; and Secretary-Treasurer, Franklin Bump Jr., publicity director of the Gisholt Machine Company, Madison.

Four resolutions were adopted at this meeting. The first one expressed appreciation to Professor Bleyer for his long years of devoted service to Journalism at Wisconsin and reasserted the firm loyalty of the alumni to him; the second was directed to President E. A. Birge, and commemorated his fifty years of untiring work at Wisconsin; the third was for the new president, Glenn Frank, expressing regret that he was unable to attend the reunion and confirming the Journalism alumni body confidence in him; and the fourth was directed to the president, faculty, and board of regents asking that a School of Journalism be established at Wisconsin.

Mrs. Bleyer was presented with a bouquet of flowers as a token of appreciation of her interest and help in Journalistic work at the University.

Those who gave short talks were Prof. W. G. Bleyer, Prof. Grant Hyde, Prof. E. M. Johnson, Mrs. "Buddie" Stewart Campbell, Bronxville, N. Y., Louis Bridgman of Madison, Wallace Meyer of the F. W. Nichols Advertising Company, Chicago, Roy French, Journalism director at the University of North Dakota, and "Bud" Murphy of the Journalism Department at the University of Illinois.

During the three days, the men's headquarters was located at the Delta Pi Delta house and the women's at the Coranto house.

The following resolutions were adopted:

To Willard Grosvenor Bleyer:

On this the 20th anniversary of the establishment of a professional course in Journalism at the University of Wisconsin, we the alumni of that course wish to express to its founder and director through those years our loyalty, admiration, and affection: loyalty inspired by his own unswerving devotion to a great ideal; admiration inspired by his scholarship which has won for him undisputed leadership in his field; affection inspired by his help and generous interest in the welfare of his students.

And we here direct that this memento be properly inscribed and hung in the lecture room of the School of Journalism and that its care be entrusted to each succeeding senior class.

The University of Wisconsin Journalism Alumni Association. President, Waldo Arnold. Secretary, F. E. Bump Jr.

To Our Beloved President, Edward A. Birge:

We the alumni of the Course of Journalism at the University of Wisconsin wish to extend our congratulations on the completion of a most remarkable achievement as a member of the faculty and President of the University, to whose service he has given fifty years of devoted and significant leadership.

The University of Wisconsin Journalism Alumni Association. President, Waldo Arnold. Secretary, F. E. Bump Jr.

To President-Elect Glenn Frank:

We the alumni in the Course of Journalism at the University of Wisconsin in convention to commemorate the Twentieth Anniversary of the institution of Journalism, wish to express to the new President of the University, Glenn Frank, regret that he was unable to be present at the reunion.

We wish to convey to him our gratification that he is to be the leader of this great University and that he comes to that leadership from active and distinguished service in the profession of Journalism.

The University of Wisconsin Journalism Alumni Association. President, Waldo Arnold. Secretary, F. E. Bump Jr.

To the President and Faculty of the University and the Board of Regents:

WHEREAS, The School of Journalism is recognized as the proper educational unit for the study in preparation for the profession of Journalism, and

WHEREAS, This recognition has the unqualified endorsement of the American Society of Newspaper Editors and the profession generally, and

WHEREAS, the council on the classification of schools of journalism recognizes the school as the most desirable form for administrative purposes, and

WHEREAS, The Course in Journalism at the University of Wisconsin does not now have the prestige and dignity which such a distinct organization implies, and

WHEREAS, The Course in Journalism at the University of Wisconsin is the oldest and largest professional course of study in Journalism in the world, and

WHEREAS, The Journalism faculty by winning national and international recognition has demonstrated its fitness to administer a more distinctive and dignified form of organization, and

WHEREAS, The students who take Journalism and the character of the work which they do compare favorably with those in any professional school, and

WHEREAS, Journalism demands as high a type of preparation as any other profession,

Therefore, Be It Resolved, That the term Course in Journalism is outgrown and should be abandoned, and in its place the term School of Journalism be used, and

Be It Further Resolved, That we believe the status of this School of Journalism should be complete in every sense having a dean, a prescribed curriculum, and a special degree, and

Be It Further Resolved, That The University of Wisconsin Journalism Alumni Association pledges its support to such professional school.

The University of Wisconsin Journalism Alumni Association. President, Waldo Arnold. Secretary, F. E. Bump Jr.

BUILDING OF MEMORIAL UNION STARTS NOVEMBER FIRST

The building will be set far back from the shore of Lake Mendota leaving a broad colored tile and grass terrace for a student and public gathering place on such occasions as Venetian night, band concerts, University sings, and crew races. Entering the building from the Langdon street side, the visitor will find a direct and sweeping view through the high windows of the men's lounge to the lake. The dining room, cafeteria, and tap room also have the lake view.

THE BUILDING PROGRAM

- August 1
Work begins in State Architect's office on foundation plan.
- October 1
Old Clinic and Union buildings torn down and site cleared for excavation.
- November 1-10
Excavation begins on Langdon street site for foundation of central unit.
- November and December
Foundation for central unit laid.
- January and February
Final drawings for central unit completed.
- March 1
Contracts let for superstructure of central unit (and commons—perhaps).
- April 1-15
Construction begins on superstructure of central unit (and commons—perhaps).

FINANCIAL FACTS

Total Amount Pledged.....	$970,000
Cash needed to let contracts for two units.....	$900,000
Cash for building fund
In hand.....	$393,000
From Tripp Est.....	$200,000
TOTAL.....	$593,000
Balance needed by MARCH 1.....	$307,000

Estimated saving by letting contracts for two units rather than one..... $50,000

The State Architect estimates a considerable saving here because a contractor can figure closer on a large job than on a smaller one.

The illustration shows the three units of the building as they were recently planned in an adventurous revision of the original single unit plan. On the left is the Tripp commons or dining unit, in the center the Union or men's club unit, on the right a theatre unit with a seating capacity of 625. The building follows the typical University scheme of southern Italian renaissance architecture and is to be built of Madison gray stone.

CAMPUS NOTES

By KATHRYN PERRY, '23

THE FOOTBALL SCHEDULE for next fall, 1925, has just been announced by Coach George Little, athletic director, and includes five games at Madison. The schedule is as follows:

- Oct. 3—Iowa State at Madison.
- Oct. 10—Franklin at Madison.
- Oct. 17—Homecoming, Michigan at Madison.
- Oct. 24—Purdue at Madison.
- Oct. 31—Minnesota at Minneapolis.
- Nov. 7—Iowa at Iowa City.
- Nov. 14—Mich. State College at Madison.
- Nov. 21—Chicago at Chicago

A NEW FOUR-YEAR ATHLETIC COACHING and physical education course for men has just been established at Wisconsin under the direction of Coach George Little, athletic director. Wisconsin was the first to establish such a course in 1911, but the old course was designed for both men and women, and the new course has been outlined to meet the particular needs of men. The entire four-year course is divided into three general groups—the cultural studies, the physiology and anatomy studies, and the athletic teaching and technique. The "block" form of athletics is prescribed whereby the student spends two hours each day, ten hours a week, or six credits a year for four years, and the necessary work in sports and technique is divided to meet seasonal needs.

DR. BIRGE'S LAST GRADUATING CLASS numbered 1,870 graduates. President E. A. Birge gave out, at the June commencement, 1,451 degrees and diplomas to 821 men and 636 women at the open air exercises held at five o'clock in the evening. Besides these there were 413 degrees, diplomas, and certificates that have been conferred since the last commencement exercises. Of the 1,870 degrees, 1,382 were bachelor's or other first degrees, 297 were master's, 91 were doctor's, 7 were honorary degrees, and 93 were short course certificates.

STOLEN EXAMINATION QUESTIONS in elementary French and Spanish this spring resulted in a series of incompletes and re-examinations. Investigation showed such surprising discrepancies in many of the students' average grades and their examination grades that Dean Scott Goodnight decided that all students whose examination grade was five points or more above the class average should repeat the examination. The source of the theft was traced to a Madison youth, not enrolled in the University, who was serving as part-time janitor in one of the buildings. He hoped to make money from the students by selling advance copies of the examination questions.

THE WILLIAM F. VILAS PRIZES of $50 and $25 for the best undergraduate essays for 1924-25 were awarded to Howard Roper, Milwaukee, who wrote on "Random Thoughts on the Students and the Outer World," and to Helen Busyn, Duluth,

Minn., whose subject was "Thinking Caps and Students."

THE LEWIS PRIZE of $25, awarded each year to the freshman who writes the best theme during the collegiate year was awarded to Stuart Palmer, Baraboo, who wrote on "The Color of Yesterday." Honorable mention was given to the essay, "The Peace of the Hills," by Virginia Kemp, Boscobel.

COMMERCE DAY was held for the first time this year by the students in the Course in Commerce and the Madison business clubs—Gyro, Kiwanis, Rotary, and Lions. Speeches by Andrew Stevenson, Chicago financier, W.H. Mann, general manager of Marshall Field and Company, formerly advertising manager of Munsey's Magazine, and prominent Madison business men, were given in the afternoon and there was a banquet in the evening.

A NEW RULE TO RAISE FRATERNITY SCHOLARSHIP and penalizing chapters that fall below the average has just been put in effect by Dean Scott Goodnight and Interfraternity Council. Each fraternity must maintain a scholastic average of "fair." If the fraternity falls below, it will be put on probation for one semester without penalty. If again the average falls, the fraternity will lose its social and initiation privileges until the scholarship average is brought up. A rule similar to this is now in force at the universities of Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois, Texas, Michigan, and Purdue.

THE NEW MEN'S DORMITORIES, to be built on Lake Mendota behind the old soils building, will be begun this fall. Architect's plans for the first two quadrangles and the refectory are now being completed and building operations are now being arranged for, according to J. D. Phillips, business manager of the University.

The first two quadrangles and refectory will cost $900,000 equipped and will accommodate 500 men. They will be the first sections of a series of quadrangles which will eventually house some 2,000 men. The dormitories will be built of Madison sandstone in Italian renaissance style, and will be financed under a law recently passed by the legislature by a non-profit stock corporation now being formed by J. D. Phillips, business manager, A. S. Johnson, comptroller, and M. E. McCaffrey, secretary to the regents.

The quadrangles will each be divided into units, containing 32 men each, and the sections will be separated by fireproof walls. Each quadrangle will be built around a central court. The plan is to have the first units house freshmen men, with an upperclassman, graduate, or student "leader" in each unit. The rooms will be single but doors between will enable the men to make two or three rooms into a suite. It is probable that some new fields for sports will be located near the dormitories, and the location will become an important center of student activity.

THEODORE KRONSHAGE JR., Milwaukee, was re-elected president of the Board of Regents for the coming year. BEN F. FAAST, of Eau Claire, was re-elected vice president. M. E. McCaffrey was re-elected secretary, and WALTER KOHLER, of Kohler, was re-appointed a regent member of the University Board of Visitors.

A PERMANENT JOURNALISM ORGANIZATION was formed by the journalism students at their "20-years-of-Journalism" reunion held this year at commencement time.

A SPECIAL TWO-WEEKS COACHING SCHOOL for high school and junior college athletic coaches was conducted from June 15 to June 27, between the close of the academic year and the opening of the summer session, by Coach George Little and Coach Walter Meanwell. Some 125 registered and the work included an intensive lecture and demonstration program from 7:30 in the morning until 5 at night. A group of demonstrators were employed, and as each play was discussed, the men were shown on the field, and were then required to execute the play themselves.

A NEW MILITARY DRILL-PHYSICAL EDUCATION ARRANGEMENT for freshmen men has been established. The freshmen may choose three hours of either drill or gym work, and either department will credit him. The old plan of a series of options has been found confusing, impractical, and the new plan makes the organization more workable.

SORROW at the death of SENATOR ROBERT M. LAFOLLETTE was expressed by the faculty, alumni, and the regents of the University by resolutions in his honor sent to Mrs. LaFollette. All three resolutions expressed a deep appreciation of the work he has done for the University, and offered sympathy to Mrs. LaFollette at his death.

ANOTHER ADDITION OF 1,000 CONCRETE SEATS in the Camp Randall stadium was authorized by the Board of Regents. The new work began in July and the addition, which is to cost $10,000, will include the replacing of the wooden bleachers on the west end, the open end of the "horseshoe," with concrete seats, and improvements in the lockers provided for the teams.

To the Marco Polos of 1925

DID the world hold more to be conquered in the days of courtly adventurers than it does for daring knights of '25? Does no far-off Cathay, no passage to India, beckon today?

Perhaps not; but that's no reason for disappointment. Graduates of 1925 can look about them without sighing for worlds to conquer.

There's high adventure in the lanes of business. Hidden riches underfoot. The very hugeness of modern business demands bigger vision than ever before. Thinking must be on a scale so large and unfettered by precedent as to try any man's mental equipment.

Here's where college graduates have proven their mettle. Here's where they have justified their training. And here they may indulge their fancy for exploring new fields.
