

LIBRARIES

UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN-MADISON

Tkaye·lí tsi? Waté·skute.

[s.l.]: [s.n.], 1970/1979

<https://digital.library.wisc.edu/1711.dl/LV7Y4VTAR44IQ8V>

The libraries provide public access to a wide range of material, including online exhibits, digitized collections, archival finding aids, our catalog, online articles, and a growing range of materials in many media.

When possible, we provide rights information in catalog records, finding aids, and other metadata that accompanies collections or items. However, it is always the user's obligation to evaluate copyright and rights issues in light of their own use.

Fried Right

They tell a story about how it happened when God made people. They say a white man was the first one he made and he fried it up so quickly that he took it out while it was still white. He said, "It's too uncooked."

Then another time he made another body and fried it and he forgot about it so this time it turned out quite black with his hair still wrinkled. This was the black man. God said, "This is cooked too much."

So right away he made another one and he fried it again, but they say this time he was really careful and when it was cooked well, it was brown in color and that is when he took it out from frying. Now he was satisfied and this was the Indian. Then they say he had given them this land here.