CALENDAR FOR 1867.

CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES.

We, the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty, to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this constitution for the United States of America.

ARTICLE I.

SECTION I.

1. All legislative powers herein granted shall be rested in a congress of the United States, which shall consist of a senate and house of representatives.

SECTION II.

1. The house of representatives shall be composed of members chosen every second year by the people of the several states; and the electors in each state shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the state legislature.
2. No person shall be a representative who shall not have attained to the age of twenty-five years, and been seven years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that state in which he shall be chosen.
3. Representatives and direct tases shall be apportioned among the several states which mar be included within this union, according to their respective numbers, which shall be determined by adding to the whole number of free persons, including those bound to service for a term of years, and excluding Indians not taxed, threefifths of all other persons. The actual enumeration shall be made within three years after the first meeting of the congress of the United States, and within erery subsequent term of ten years, in such manner as they shall by law direct. The number of representatives shall not exceed one for erery thirty thousand, but each state shall have at least one representative: and until such enumeration shall be made, the state of New Hampshire shall be entitled to choose three; Massachusetts, eight; Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, one; Connecticut, five; New York, six; New Jersey, four; Pennsylvania, eight; Delaware, one; Maryland, six; Virginia, ten ; North Carolina, five; South Carolina, five; and Georgia three.
4. When racancies happen in the representation from any state, the executive authority thereof shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies.

5 . The house of representatives shall choose their speaker and other officers, and shall have the sole power of impeachment.

SECTION III.

1. The senate of the United States shall be composed of two senators from each state, chosen by the legislature thereof, for six years ; and each senator shall have one vote.
2. Immediately after they shall be assembled in consequence of the first election, they shall be divided, as equally as may be, into three classes. The seats of the senators of the first class shall be vacated at the expiration of the second year, of the second class at the expiration of the fourth year, and of the third class at the expiration of the sixth year, so that one-third may be chosen every second year ; and if vacancies happen, by resignation or otherwise, during the recess of the legislature of any state, the executive thereof may make temporary appointments until the next meeting of the legislature, which shall then fill such vacancies.
3. No person shall be a senator who shall not have attained to the age of thirty years, and been nine years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that state for which he shall be chosen.

4, The vice-president of the United States shall be president of the senate, but shall have no vote, unless they be equally divided.
5. The senate shall choose their other officers, and also a president pro tempore, in the absence of the vice-president, or when he shall exercise the office of president of the United States.
6. The senate shall have the sole power to try all impeachments. When sitting for that purpose, they shall be on oath or affirmation. When the president of the United States is tried, the chief justice shall preside; and no person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present.
7. Judgment in cases of impeachment shall not extend further than to removal from office, and disqualification to hold and enjoy any office of honor, trust, or profit under the United States; but the party convicted shall nevertheless be liable and subject to indictment, trial, judgment, and punishment, according to law.

SECTION IV.

1. The times, places, and manner of holding elections for senators and representatives, shall be prescribed in each state by the legislature thereof; but the congress may at any time, by law, make or alter such regulations, except as to the places of choosing senators.
2. The congress shall assemble at least once in every year, and such meeting shall be on the first Mondar in December, unless they shall by law appoint a different day.

SECIION T.

1. Each house shall be the judge of the elections, returns, and qualifications of its own members; and a majority of each shall constitute a quorum to do business; but a smaller number may adjourn from day to dar, and may be authorized to compel the attendance of absent members, in such manner and under such penalties as each house may provide.
2. Each house may determine the rules of its proceedings, punish its members for disorderly behavior, and, with the concurrence of two-thirds, expel a member.
3. Each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and from time to time publish the same, excepting such parts as may in their judgment require secrecy; and the reas and nays of the members of either house, on any question, shall, at the desire of one-fifth of those present, be entered on the iommal.
4. Neither house, during the sesion of congress, shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other place than that in which the two houses sinall be sitting.

SECTION TI.

1. The senators and representatives shall receive a compensation for their services, to be ascertained by lam, and paid out of the treasury of the United States. They shall, in all cases, except treason, felony, and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance at the session of their respective houses, and in going to and returning from the same; and for any speech or debate in either house, they shall not be questioned in any other pláce.
2. No senator or representative shall, during the time for which he was elected, be appointed to any civil office under the authority of the United States, which shall have been created, or the emoluments whereof shall hare been increased, during such time; and no person holding any office under the United States shall be a member of either house during his continuance in office.

SECTION TII.

1. All bills for raising revenue shall originate in the house of representatives; but the senate may propose or concur with amendments, as on other bills.
2. Every bill which shall hare passed the house of representatives and the senate, shall, before it become a law, be presented to the president of the Cnited States; if he approve, he shall sign it; but if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to that house in which it shall have originated, who shall enter the objections at large on their journal and proceed to reconsider it. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and if approved by two-thirds of that house, it shall become a law. But in all such cases, the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for and against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the president within ten days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the congress by their adjournment prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a law.
3. Every order, resolution, or vote to which the concurrence of the senate and house of representatives may be necessary, (except on a question of adjournment,) shall be presented to the president of the United States; and before the same shall take effect, shall be approved by him, or being disapproved by him, shall be repassed by two-thirds of the senate and house of representatives, according to the rules and limitations prescribed in the case of a bill.

SECTION VIII.

The congress shall have power:

1. To lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts, and excises; to pay the debts and provide for the common defense and general welfare of the United States; but all duties, imposts, and excises shall be uniform throughout the United States:
2. To borrow money on the credit of the United States:
3. To regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several states, and with the Indian tribes:
4. To establish an uniform rule of naturalization, and uniform laws on the subject of bankruptcies throughout the United States.
5. To coin money, regulate the value thereof, and of foreign coin, and fix the standard of weights and measures:
6. To provide for the punishment of counterfeiting the securities and current coin of the United States:
7. To establish post-offices and post-roads:
8. To promote the progress of science and useful arts, by securing for limited times, to authors and inventors, the exclusive right to their respective writings and discoveries:
9. To constitute tribunals inferior to the supreme court. To define and punish piracies and felonies committed on the high seas, and offenses against the law of nations:
10. To declare war, grant letters of marque and reprisal, and make rules concerning captures on land and water:
11. To raise and support armies ; but no appropriation of money to that use shall be for a longer term than two years:
12. To provide and maintain a navy:
13. To make rules for the government and regulation of the land and naval forces:
14. To provide for calling forth the militia to execute the laws of the union, suppress insurrections, and repel inrasions:
15. To provide for organizing, arming, and disciplining the militia, and for governing such part of them as may be employed in the service of the United States, reserving to the states respectively the appointment of the officers, and the authority of training the militia according to the discipline prescribed by congress:
16. To exercise exclusive legislation in all cases whatsoever, over such district (not exceeding ten miles square) as may by cession of particular states, and the acceptance of congress, become the seat of government of the Enited States; and to exercise like aathority over all places purchased, by the consent of the legislature of the state in which the same shall be, for the erection of forts, magazines, arsenals, dock-yards, and other needful buildings: and,
17. To make all laws which shall be necessary and proper for carrying into execution the foregoing powers, and all other powers vested by this constitution in the government of the Cnited States, or in any department or officer thercof.

SECTION IT.

1. The migration or importation of such persons as any of the states now existing shall think proper to admit, shall not be prohibited by the congress prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eight, but a tax or duty may be imposed on such importation, not exceeding ten dollars for each person.
2. The privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended, unless when, in cases of rebellion or invasion, the public safety may require it.
3. No bill of attainder, or ex-post-facto law, shall be passed.
4. No capitation or other direct tax shall be laid, unless in proportion to the census or enumeration hereinbefore directed to be taken.
5. No tax or duty shall be laid on articles exported from any state. No preference shall be given by any regulation of commerce or revenue, to the ports of one state over those of another; nor shall vessels bound to or from one state, be obliged to enter, clear, or pay duties in another.
6. No money shall be drawn from the treasury, but in consequence of appropriations made by law; and a regular statement and account of the receipts and expenditures of all public money shall be published from time to time.
7. No title of nobility shall be granted by the United States, and no person holding any office of profit or trust under them, shall without the consent of the congress, accept of any present, emolument, office, or title, of any kind whatever, from any king, prince, or foreign state.

SECTION x .

1. No state shall enter into any treaty, alliance, or confederation; grant letters of marque and reprisal ; coin money; emit bills of credit; make any thing but gold and silver coin a tender in payment of debts; pass any bill of attainder, ex-post-facto law, or law impairing the obligation of contracts; or grant any title of nobility.
2. No state shall, without the consent of the congress, lay any imposts or duties on imports or exports, except what may be absolutely necessary for executing its inspection laws; and the net produce of all duties and imposts, laid by any state on imports or exports, shall be for the use of the treasury of the United States, and all such laws shall be subject to the revision and control of the congress. No state shall, without the consent of congress, lay any duty of tonnage, keep troops or ships of war in time of peace, enter into any agreement or compact with another state, or with a foreign power, or engage in war, unless actually invaded, or in such imminent danger as will not admit of delay.

ARTICLE II.

SECTION I.

1. The executive power shall be rested in a president of the United States of America. He shall hold his office during the term of four years, and, together with the vice-president, chosen for the same term, be elected as follows:-
2. Each state shall appoint, in such manner as the legislature thereof may direct, a number of electors equal to the whole number of senators and representatives to which the state may be entitled in the congress; but no senator or representative, or person holding an office of trust or profit under the United States, shall be appointed an elector.
[3. *The electors shall meet in their respective states, and vote by ballot for two persons, of whom one at least shall not be an inhabitant of the same state with themselves. And they shall make a list of all the persons voted for, and of the number of votes for each; which list they shall sign and certify, and transmit sealed to the seat of the government of the United States, directed to the president of the senate. The president of the senate shall, in the presence of the senate and house of representatives, open all the certificates, and the votes shall then be counted. The person having the greatest number of votes shall be the president, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if there be more than one who have such majority, and have an equal number of votes, then the house of representatives shall immediately choose, by ballot, one of them for president; and if no person have a majority, then from the five highest on the list, the said house shall, in like manner, choose the president. But in choosing the president, the votes shall be taken by states, the representation from each state having one vote: a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the states, and a majority of all the states shall be necessary to a

[^0]choice. In every case, after the choice of the president, the person having the greatest number of votes of the electors, shall be the vice-president. But if there should remain two or more who have equal votes, the senate shall choose from them, by ballot, the vice-president.]
4. The Congress may determine the time of chosing the electors, and the day on which they shall give their votes; which day shall be the same throughout the United States.
5. No person, except a natural born citizen, or a citizen of the United States at the time of the adoption of this constitution, shall be eligible to the office of president; neither shall any person be eligible to that office, who shall not have attained to the age of thirty-five years, and been fourteen years a resident within the United States.
6. In case of the removal of the president from office, or of his death, resignation, or inability to discharge the powers and duties of the said office, the same shall derolve on the rice-president; and the congress may, by law, provide for the case of removal, death, resignation, or inability, both of the president and vicepresident, declaring what officer sholl senen act as president, and such officer shall act acendingly, wat the wisabity be remored, or a president shahl he elecont
7. The president shall, at stated imes, receive for his services a compensation, which shall neither be increased nor diminished during the period for which he shall have been elected, and he shall not receive within that period any other emolument from the United States or any of them.
8. Before he enter on the execution of his office, he shall take the following oath or affirmation:-
"I do solemnly swear [or affirm] that I will faithfully execute the office of president of the United States, and will, to the best of my ability, preserve, protect, and defend the constitution of the United States."

SECTION II

1. The president shall be commander-in-chief of the army and nary of the United States, and of the militia of the several states, when called into the actual service of the United States; he may require the opinion, in writing. of the principal officer in each of the executive departments, upon any stbject relating to the duties of their respective offices; and he shall hare power to grant reprieves and pardons for offenses against the Cnited States, except in cases of impeachment.
2. He shall have power, by and with the adrice and consent of the Senate, to make treaties; provided two-thirds of the senators present concur ; and he shall nominate, and, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, shall appoint ambassadors, other public ministers, and counsels, judges of the supreme court, and all other officers of the United States whose appointments are not herein otherwise provided for, and which shall be established by law. But the congress may, by law, rest the anpointment of such inferior officers as they think proper, in the president alone, in the courts of law, or in the heads of departments.
3. The president shall have power to fill up all vacancies that may happen during the recess of the senate, by granting commissions which shall expire at the end of their next session.

SECTION III.

1. He shall, from time to time, give to the congress information of the state of the union, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient. He may, on extraordinary occasions, convene both houses, or either of them, and in case of disagreement between them, with respect to the time of adjournment, he may adjourn them to such time as he shall think proper; he shall receive ambassadors and other public ministers; he shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed, and shall commission all the officers of the United States.

SECTION IV.

1. The president, vice-president, and all civil officers of the United States, shall be removed from office on impeachment for, and conviction of, treason, bribery, or other high crimes and misdemeanors.

ARTICLE III.

SECTION I.

1. The judicial power of the United States shall be vested in one supreme court, and in such inferior courts as the congress may, from time to time, ordain and establish. The judges, both of the supreme and inferior courts, shall hold their offices during good behavior, and shall, at stated times, receive for their services a compensation, which shall not be diminished during their continuance in office.

SECTION II.

1. The judicial power shall extend to all cases in law and equity, arising under this constitution, the laws of the United States, and treaties made, or which shall be made, under their authority; to all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers, and consuls; to all cases of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction; to controversies to which the United States shall be a party; to controversies between two or more states, [between a state and citizens of another state,] between citizens of different states, between citizens of the same state claiming lands under grants of different states, and between a state, or the citizens thereof, and foreign states, citizens, or subjects.
2. In all cascs affecting ambassadors, other public ministers, and consuls, and those in which a state shall be a party, the supreme court shall have original jurisdiction. In all the other cases before mentioned, the supreme court shall hare appellate jurisdiction, both as to law and fact, with such exceptions and under such regulations as the congress shall make.
3. The trial of all crimes, except in cases of impeachment, shall be by jurr, and such trial shall be held in the state where the said crimes shall have been committed; but when not committed within any state, the trial shall be at such place or places as the congress may by law have directed.

SECTION III.

1. Treason against the United States shall consist only in levying war against them, or in adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on confession in open court.
2. The congress shall hare power to declare the punishment of treason; but no attainder of treason shall work corruption of blood, or forfeiture, except during the life of the person attainted.

ARTICLE IV.

SECTION I.

1. Full faith and credit shall be given in each state to the public acts, records and judicial proceedings of erery other state. And the congress may by general laws, prescribe the manner in which such acts, records, and proceedings shall be proved, and the effect thereof.

SECTION II.

1. The citizens of each state shall be entitled to all privileges and immunities of citizens in the several states.
2. A person charged in any state with treason, felony, or other crime, who shall flee from justice, and be found in another state, shall, on demand of the executire authority of the state from which he fled, be delivered up, to ise remored to the state having jurisdiction of the crime.
3. No person held to service or labor in one state under the laws thereof, escaping into another, shall, in consequence of any law or regulation therein, be discharged from such service or labor; but shall be delivered up on claim of the party to whom such service or labor may be due.

SECTION III.

1. New states may be admitted by the congress into this union; but no new state shall be formed or erected within the jurisdiction of any other state, nor any state be formed by the junction of two or more states, or parts of states, without the consent of the legislatures of the states concerned, as well as of the congress.
2. The congress shall have power to dispose of, and make all needful rules and regulations respecting the territory or other property belonging to the United States; and nothing in this constitution shall be so construed as to prejudice any claims of the United States, or of any particular state.

SECTION IV.

1. The United States shall guarantee to every state in this union a republicon form of government, and shall protect each of them against invasion; and, on application of the legislature, or of the executive, (when the legislature cannot be convened,) against domestic violence.

ARTICLE V.

1. The congress, whenever two-thirds of both houses shall deem it necessary, shall propose amendments to this constitution; or, on the application of the legislatures of two-thirds of the several states, shall call a convention for proposing amendments, which, in either case, shall be valid to all intents and purposes, as part of this constitution, when ratified by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several states, or by conventions in three-fourths thereof, as the one or the other mode of ratification may be proposed by congress; provided, that no amendment which may be made prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eight, shall in any manner affect the first and fourth clauses in the ninth section of the first article; and that no state without its consent, shall be deprived of its equal suffrage in the senate.

ARTICLE VI.

1. All debts contracted, and engagements entered into, before the adoption of this constitution, shall be as valid against the United States under this constitution, as under the confederation.
2. This constitution, and the laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof, and all treaties made, or which shall be made, under the authority of the United States, shall be the supreme law of the land; and the judges in every state, shall be bound thereby; anything in the constitution or laws of any state to the contrary notwithstanding.
3. The senators and representatives before mentioned, and the members of the several state legislatures, and all executive and judicial officers, both of the United States, and of the several states, shall be bound by oath or affirmation to support this constitution; but no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office or public trust under the United States.

ARTICLE VII.

1. The ratification of the conventions of nine states shall be sufficient for the establishment of this constitution between the states so ratifying the same.

[The following amendments were proposed at the first session of the first congress of the Tnited Stetes, which was begun and held at the city of New York, on the 4th March, 17S9, and were adopted by the requisite number of states.-1 rol. Laws of U.S., p. 72.]
[The preamble and resolution following, preceded the original proposition of the amendments, and as they have been supposed by a high equity judge, (8th Wendell's reports, p. 100,) to have an important bearing on the construction of those amendments, they are here inserted. They will be found in the journals of the first session of the first congress.

Congress of the United States, begun and held at the city of New York, on Wednesday, the 4th of March, 1789. The conventions of a number of the states having, at the time of their adopting the constitution, expressed a desire, in order to prevent misconstruction or abuse of its powers, that further declaratory and restrictive clauses should be added; and as extending the ground of public confidence in the government, will best insure the benificent ends of its institution, -

Resolved, By the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America, in congress assembled, two-thirds of both houses concurring, that the following articles be proposed to the legislatures of the several states, as amendments to the constitution of the United States, all or any of which articles, when ratified by three-fourths of said legislatures, to be valid to all intents and purposes, as part of the said constitution; namely:]

article I.

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof, or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press, or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances.

ARTICLE II.

A well regulated militia being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed.

ARTICLE III.

No soldier shall, in time of peace, be quartered in any house without the consent of the owner; nor in time of war but in a manner to be prescribed by law.

ARTICLE IV.

The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated; and no warrants shall issue but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, and the persons or things to be seized.

ARTICLE V .

No person shall be held to answer for a capital or otherwise infamous crime, unless on a presentment or indictment of a grand jury, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the militia, when in actual service, in time of war or public danger; nor shall any person be subject for the same offense to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb; nor shall be compelled, in any criminal case, to be a witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.

ARTICLE VI.

In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjor the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury of the state and district wherein the crime shall have been committed, which district shall have been previously ascertained by law, and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation : to be confronted with the witnesses against him: to have compalsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor; and to hore the assesance of counsel for his defense.

ARTICLE TII.

In suits at common law, where the value in controversy shall exceed twenty dollars, the right of trial by jury shall be preserved; and no fact tried by a jury shall be otherwise re-examined in any court of the United States, than according to the rules of the common law.

article vili.

Excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishments inflicted.

ARTICLE IX.

The enumeration in the constitution of certain rights shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people.

ARTICLE x .

The powers not delegated to the United States by the constitution, nor prohibited by it to the states, are reserved to the states respectively, or to the people.
[The following amendment was proposed at the second session of the third congress. It is printed in the laws of the United States, lst vol., p. 73, as article xi.]

ARTICLE XI.

The judicial power of the United States shall not be construed to extend to any suit in law or equity, commenced or prosecuted against one of the United States by citizens of another state, or by citizens or subjects of any foreign state.
[The three following sections were proposed as amendments at the first session of the eighth congress. They are printed in the laws of the United States as article xii.

ARTICLE XII.

1. The electors shall meet in their respective states, and vote by ballot for president and vice-president, one of whom, at least, shall not be an inhabitant of the same state with themselves; they shall name in their ballots the person voted for as president, and in distinct ballots the person voted for as vice-president; and they shall make distinct lists of all persons voted for as president, and of all persons voted for as vice-president, and of the number of votes for each; which list they shall sign and certify, and transmit sealed to the seat of the government of the United States, directed to the president of the senate; the president of the senate shall, in the presence of the Senate and house of representatives, open all the certificates, and the rotes shall then be counted; the person having the greatest number of votes for president, shall be the president, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if no person have such a majority, then from the persons having the highest numbers, not exceeding three, on the list of those voted for as president, the house of representatives shall choose immediately, by ballot, the president. Crox; anci the county of Richland shall be attached to Iowa, the county of Chippewa to the county of Crawford, and the county of La Pointe to the county of St. Croix, for judicial purposes, until otherwise provided by the legislature.

Sec. 6. The legislature may alter the limits, or increase the number of circuits, making them as compact and convenient as practicable, and bounding them by county lines, but no such alteration or increase shall have the effect to remore a judge from office. In case of an increase of circuits, the judge or judges shall be elected as provided in this constitution, and receive a salary not less than that herein provided for judges of the circuit court.

Sec. 7. For each circuit there shall be a judge chosen by the qualified electors therein, who shall hold his office as is provided in this constitution, and until his successor shall be chosen and qualified; and after he shall have been elected he shall reside in the circuit for which he was elected. One of said judges shall be designated as chief justice, in such manner as the legislature shall provide. And the legislature shall, at its first session, provide by law, as well for the election of as for classifying the judges of the the circuit court, to be elected under this constitution, in such manner that one of said judges shall go out of office in two years, one in three years, one in four years, one in five years, and one in six years, and thereafter the judge elected to fill the office shall hold the same for six years.

Sec. 8. The circuit courts shall have original jurisdiction in all matters, civil and criminal, within this state, not excepted in this constitution, and not hereafter prohibited by law, and appellate jurisdiction from all inferior courts and tribunals, and a supervisory control over the same. They shall also have the power to issue writs of habeas corpus, mandamus, injunction, quo warranto, certiorari, and all other writs necessary to carry into effect their orders, judgments and decrees, and give them a general control over inferior courts and jurisdictions.

Sec. 9. When a vacancy shall happen in the office of judge of the supreme or circuit courts, such vacancy shall be filled by an appointment of the governor, which shall continue until a successor is elected and qualified; and when elected, such successor shall hold his office the residue of the unexpired term. There shall be no election for a judge or judges at any general election for state or county officers, nor within thirty days either before or after such election.

Sec. 10. Each of the judges of the supreme and circuit courts shall receive a salary, payable quarterly, of not less than one thousand five hundred dollars annually; they shall receive no fees of office, or other compensation than their salaries; they shall hold no office of public trust except a judicial office, during the term for which they are respectively elected, and all votes for either of them, for any office except a judicial office, given by the legislature or the people, shall be void. No person shall be eligible to the office of judge, who shall not, at the time of his election, be a citizen of the United States, and have attained the age of twenty-five years, and be a qualified elector within the jurisdiction for which he may be chosen.

Sec. 11. The supreme court shall hold at least one term annually, at the seat of government of the state, at such time as shall be provided by law, and the legislature may provide for holding other terms, and at other places, when they may deem it necessary. A circuit court shall be held at least twice in each year, in each county of this state, organized for judicial purposes. The judges of the circuit court may hold courts for each other, and shall do so when required by lar.

Sec. 12. There shall be a clerk of the circuit court chosen in each county organized for judicial purposes, by the qualified electors thereof, who shall hold his office for two years, subject to remoral, as shall be provided by law. In case of a vacancy, the judge of the eircuit court shall have the power to appoint a clerk, until the vacancy shall be filled by an election. The clerk thus elected or appointed shall give such security as the legislature may require; and when elected, shall hold his office for a full term. The supreme court shall appoint its own clerk, and the clerk of a circuit court may be appointed clerk of the supreme court.

Sec. 13. Any judge of the supreme or cireait court may be removed from office by address of both houses of the legislature, if two-thirds of all the members elected to each honse concur therein, but no remoral shall be made by virtue of this section, unless the judge complained of shall have been surved with a copy of the charges against him as the ground of address, and shall have had an opportunity of being heard in his defense. On the question of remoral, the ayes and noes shall be entered on the journals.

Sec. 14. There shall be chosen in each county, by the qualified electors thereof, a judge of probate, who shall hold his office for two years, and until his successor shall be elected and qualified, and whose jurisdiction, powers, and duties shall be prescribed by law: provided, however, that the legislature shall have power to abolish the office of judge of probate in any county, and to confer probate powers upon such inferior courts as may be established in said county.

Sec. 15. The electors of the several towns, at their annual town meetings, and the electors of cities and villages, at their charter elections, shall, in such manner as the legislature may direct, elect justices of the peace, whose term of office shall be for two years, and until their successors in office shall be elected and qualified. In case of an election to fill a vacancr occurring before the expiration of a full term, the justice elected sinall hold for the residue of the unexpired term. Their number and classification shall be regulated by law. And the tenure of two years shall in no wise interfere with the classification in the first instance. The justices thus elected shall hare such civil and criminal jurisdiction as shall be prescribed by law.

Sec. 16. The legislature shall pass laws for the regulation of tribunals of conciliation, defining their powers and duties. Such tribunals may be established in and for any tornship, and shall have power to render judgment, to be obligatory on the parties, when they shall voluntarily submit their matter in difference to arbitration, and agree to abide the judgment, or assent thereto in writing.

Sec. 17. The style of all writs and process shall be, "The state of Wisconsin." All criminal prosecutions shall be carried on in the name and by the authority of the same; and all indictments shall conclude against the peace and dignity of the state.

Sec. 18. The legislature shall impose a tax on all civil suits commenced or prosecuted in the municipal, inferior, or circuit courts, which shall constitute a fund to be applied toward the payment of the salary of judges.

Sec. 19. The testimony in causes in equity shall be taken in like manner as in cases at law ; and the office of master in chancery is hereby prohibited.

Sec. 20. Any suitor in any court of this state shall have the right to prosecute or defend his suit either in his own proper person or by an attorney or agent of his choice.

Sec. 21. The legislature shall provide by law for the speedy publication of all statute laws, and of such judicial decisions made within the state, as may be deemed expedient. And no general law shall be in force until published.

Sec. 22. The legislature, at its first session after the adoption of this constitution, shall provide for the appointment of three commissioners, whose duty it shall be to inquire into, revise, and simplify the rules of practice, pleadings, forms, and proceedings, and arrange a system adapted to the courts of record of this state, and report the same to the legislature, subject to their modification and adoption; and such commission shall terminate upon the rendering of the report, unless otherwise provided by law.

Sec. 23. The legislature may provide for the appointment of one or more persons in each organized county, and may vest in such persons such judicial powers as shall be prescribed by law: provided, that said power shall not exceed that of a judge of the circuit court at chambers.

RESOLUTIONS.

Resolved, That the congress of the United States be, and is hereby requested, upon the application of Wisconsin for admission into the Union, so to alter the provisions of an act of congress entitled " an act to grant a quantity of land to the territory of Wisconsin for the purpose of aiding in opening a canal to connect the waters of Lake Michigan with those of Rock river," approved June eighteenth, eighteen hundred and thirty-eight, and so to alter the terms and conditions of the grant made therein, that the odd numbered sections thereby granted, and remaining unsold, may be held and disposed of by the state of Wisconsin, as part of the five hundred thousand acres of land to which said state is entitled by the provisions of an act of congress entitled "an act to appropriate the proceeds of the sales of the public lands, and to grant preemption rights," approved the fourth day of September, eighteen hundred and forty-one; and further that the even numbered sections reserved by congress may be offered for sale by the United States for the same minimum price, and subject to the same rights of pre-emption as other public lands of the United States.

Resolecd, That congress be further requested to pass an act whereby the excess price over and above one dollar and twenty-five cents per acre, which may have been paid by the purchasers of said eren numbered sections which shall have been sold by the Cnited States, be refunded to the present owners thereof or they be allowed to enter any of the public lands of the Enited States, to an amount equal in value to the excess so paid.

Resolved, That in case the odd numbered sections shall be ceded to the state as aforesaid, the same shall be sold by the state in the same manner as other school lands: porided, that the same rights of pre-emption as are no $\%$ granted by the laws of the Cnited States shall be secured to persons who may be actually settled upon such lands at the time of the adoption of this constitution: and provided further, that the excess price, over and above one dollar and twenty-five cents per acre, absolutely or conditionally contracted to be paid by the purchasers of any part of said sections which shall have been sold by the territory of Wisconsin, shall be remitted to such purchasers, their representatives, or assigns.

Resolved, That congress be requested, upon the application of Wisconsin for admission into the Union, to pass an act whereby the grant of five hundred thousand acres of land, to which the state of Wisconsin is entitled by the provisions of an act of congress entitled "an act to appropriate the proceeds of the sales of the public lands, and to grant pre-emption rights," approved the fourth day of September, cighteen hundred and forty-one, and also the five per centum of the net proceeds of the public lands lying within the state, to which it shall become entitled on its admission into the union, by the provisions of an act of congress entitled " an act to enable the people of Wisconsin territory to form a constitution and state grovernment, and for the admission of such state into the union," approred the sixth day of August, eighteen hundred and forty-six, shall be granted to the state of Wisconsin for the use of schools, instead of the purposes mentioned in said acts of congress respectively.

Resolved, That the congress of the Tinited States be, and hereby is requested, upon the admission of this state into the union, so to alter the provisions of the act of congressentitled "an act to grant a certain quantity of land to aid in the improvement of the Fox and Wisconsin rivers, and to connect the same by a canal in the territory of Wisconsin," that the price of the lands reserved to the United States shall be reduced to the minimum price of the public lands.

Resolved, That the legislature of this state shall make provision by law for the sale of the lands granted to the state in aid of said improvements, subject to the same rights of pre-emption to the settlers thereon, as are now allowed by law to settlers on the public lands.

Resolved, That the foregoing resolutions be appended to and signed with the constitution of Wisconsin, and submitted therewith to the people of this territory, and to the congress of the United States.

We, the undersigned, members of the convention to form a constitution for the state of Wisconsin, to be submitted to the people thereof for their ratification or rejection, do hereby certify that the foregoing is the constitution adopted by the convention.

In testimony whereof, we have hereunto set our hands, at Madison, the first day of February, A. D. eighteen hundred and fortyeight.

> MORGAN L. MARTIN, President > of the convention and delegate from Brown county. THo's McHuGH, Secretary.

PARLIAMENTARY PRACTICE.

BY THOMAS JEFFERSON.

IMPORTANCE OF RULES.

SECTION I.
the importance of adhering to RUles.
Mr. Onslow, the ablest among the Speakers of the House of Commons, used to say, "It was a maxim he had often heard when he was a young man, from old and experienced members, that nothing tended more to throw power into the hands of the Administration, and those who acted with the majority in the House of Commons, than a neglect of, or a departure from, the rules of proceeding; that these forms, as instituted by our ancestors, operated as a check and control on the actions of the majority; and that they were, in many instances, a shelter and protection to the minority, against the attempts of power.

So far the maxim is certainly true, and is founded in good sense, that as it is always in the power of the majority, by their numbers, to stop any improper measure proposed on the part of their opponents, the only weapon by which the minority can defend themselves against similar attempts from those in power, are the forms and rules of proceeding, which have been adopted as they were found necessary from time to time, and become the law of the House ; by a strict adherence to which, the weaker party can only be protected from those irregularities and abuses, which these forms were intended to check, and which the wantonness of power is but too often apt to suggest to large and successful majorities.-2 Hat., 171, 172.

And whether these forms be in all cases the most rational or not, is really not of so great importance. It is much more material that there should be a rule to go by, than what that rule is: that there may be a uniformity of proceeding in business, not subject to the caprice of the Speaker, or captiousness of the members. It is very material that order, decency and regularity be preserved in a dignified public body.-2 Hats, 149.

SECTION II.

LEGISLATURE.

All witative powers herein granted, shall be vested in a Congress of the Thited states, which shall consist of a Senate and House of Representatives.Constitution of the United States, Article 1, Section 1.
The Senators and Representatives shall receire a compensation for their services, to be ascertained by law, and paid out of the Treasur of the Tnited States. -Const. U. S., Art. 1, Sec. 6.

SECTHS IT.

pritileged.

The privileges of the members of Parliament, from small and obscure beginnings, have been advancing for centuries with a firm and never-yielding pace. Claims seem to have been brought forward from time to time, and repeated till some example of their admission enabled them to build law on that example. We can only, therefore, state the point of progression at which they now are. It is now acknowledged: 1st, That they are at all times exempted from question elsewhere, for anything said in their own House ; that during the time of privilege; 2d, Neither a member himself, his wife,* or his servants, [familiares sui,] for any matter of their own, may be $\dagger$ arrested on mesne process, in any civil suit; 3d, Nor be detained under exccution, though levied before the time of privilege ; 4th, For impleaded, cited or subpenaed in any court; 5th, Nor summoned as a witness or juror ; 6th, Nor may their lands or goods be distrained: i:... Nor their persons assaulted, or characters traduced. And the period of time, covered by privilege, before and after the session, with the practice of short prorogations under the connirance of the Crown, amounts, in fact, to a perpetual protection against the course of justice. In one instance, indeed it has been relaxed by 10 G. 3, e. 50, which permits judiciary proceedings to go on against them. That these privileges must be continuously progressive, seems to result from tieir rejecting all definition of them, the doctrine being, that "their dignity and independence are preserved by keeping their privileges indefi-

[^3]nite ;" and that " the maxims upon which they proceed, together with the methord of proceeding, rests entirely in their own breast; and are not defined and ascertained by any particular stated law." -1 Blackstone 163, 164.

It was probably from this view of the encroaching character of privilege, that the framers of our Constitution, in their care to provide that the laws shall bind equally on all, and especially that those who make them shall not exempt themselves from their operation, have only privileged "Senators and Representatives" themselves from the single act of " arrest in all cases except treason, felony and breach of the peace, during their attendance at the sessions of their respective Houses, and in going to and returning from the same, and from being questioned in any other place for any speech or debate in either House."-Const. U. S., Art. I., Sec. 6. Under the general authority "to make all laws necessary and proper for carrying into execution the powers given them." Const. U. S., Art. II, Sec. 8 , they may provide by law the details which may be necessary for giving full effect to the enjoyment of this privilege. No such law being as yet made, it seems to stand at the present on the following ground: 1. The act of arrest is void ab initio, 2 Stra., 989 . 2. The member arrested may be discharged on motion, 1 Bl ., 166,2 Stra., 959 ; or by Habeas Corpus under the Federal or State autthority, as the case may be; or a writ of privilege out of the Chancery, 2 Stra., 989 , in those States which have adopted that part of the laws of England.-Orders of the House of Com. 1550, Feb. 20. 3. The arrest, being unlawful, is a trespass, for which the officer and others concerned are liable to action or indictment in the ordinary courts of justice, as in other cases of unauthorized arrests. 4. The court before which the process is returnable, is bound to act as in other cases of unauthorized proceeding, and liable, also, as in other cases, to have their proceedings stayed or corrected by the superior courts.
The time necessary in going to and returning from Congress not being defined, it will, of course, be judged of in every particular case by those who will have to decide the case.

While privilege was understood in England to extend, as it does here, only to exemption from arrest, eundo, morando et re deundo, the House of Commons themselves decided that "a convenient time was to be understood."-1580-1 Hats., 99, 100. Nor is the law so strict in point of time as to require the party to set out immediately on his return, but allows him time to settle his private affairs and to prepare for his journey; and does not even scan his road very nicely, nor forfeit his protection for a little deviation from that which is most direct; some necessity perhaps constraining him to it.-2 Stra., 986, 987.

This privilege from arrest, privileges of course against all process, the disobedience to which is punishable by an attachment of the person; as a subpœna and respondendum, or, testicandum, or a summons on a jury; and with reason, because a member has superior duty to perform in another place.

When a representative is withdrawn from his seat by summons, the 47,700 people whom he represents, lose their voice in debate and vote, as they do in his voluntary absence; when a senator is withdrawn by summons, his state loses half its voice in debate and vote, as it does in his voluntary absence. The enormous disparity of evil admits no comparison.

So far there will probably be no difference of opinion as to the privileges of the two Houses of Congress; but in the following cases it is otherwise: InDec., 1795, the House of representatives committed two persons of the names of Randall and Whitney, for attempting to corrupt the integrity of certain members, which they considered as a contempt and breach of the privileges of the House; and the facts being proved, Whitney was detained in confinement a fortnight, and Randall three weeks, and was reprimanded by the Speaker. In March, 1796, the House of Representatives voted a challenge given to a member of their House, to be a breach of the privileges of the House ; but satisfactory apologies and acknowledgments being made, no further proceedings were had. The editor of the Aurora, having, in his paper of Feb. 19, 1800, inserted some paragraph defamatory of the Senate, and failed in his appearance, he was ordered to be committed. In debating the legality of the order, it was insisted in support of it, that every man, by the law of nature, and every body of men. possess the right of self defense : that all public functionaries are essentially invested with the powers of self-preseration; that they have an inherent right to do all acts necessary to keep themseme in a condition to discharge the trusts contided to them; that whemer morties are given, the means of carrying them into execution are given by rich of punishing contempts; all the State Legislatures exercise the same power. and every court does the same; that if we have it not, we sit at the mace of eney intuder who may enter our doors or gallery, and by noise and tumat., render proceeding in business impracticable ; that if our tranquility is to be perpetually disturbed by newspaper defamation, it will not be posinhle to exercise our functions with the requisite coolness and deliberation; and that we must, therefore, have a power to punish those disturbers of our peace and proccedings. To this it was answered, that the Parliament and Courts of England have cognizance of contempts by express provisions of their law ; that the State Legislatures have equal authority, because their powers are plenary; they represent their constituents completely, and possess all their powers, except such as their constitutions have expressly denied them; that the courts of the several States have the same powers by the laws of their states, and those of the Federal Government by the same State laws, adopted in each State by a law of Congress; that none of these bodies, therefore. derive those powers from natural or necessary right, but from express law : that Congress heve no such natural or necessary power, nor any powes bus suancocen them by Constitu-their own members and procedits : tot thee no futher inw is necesary, the Constitution being the law: that, morcover, oz that article of the Constitution which authorizes them "to make all laws necessary and proper ior carrying into execution the powers vested by the Constitution in them," they may provide by law for an undisturbed exercise of their functions, $e g$, for the punishment of contempts, of affrays or tumults in their presence, etc., but till the law be made it does not exist; and does not exist, from their own neglect; that in the meantime, however, they are not unprotected, the ordinary magistrates and courts of law being open and competent to punish all unjustifiable disturbances or defamations, and even their own sergeant, who may appoint deputies ad libitum to aid him, 3 Grey, $59,147,255$, is equal to the smallest disturbances; that in requiring a previous law, the Constitution had regard to the inviolability of the citizen as well as the member; as, should one House, in regular form of a bill, aim at too broad privileges, it may be checked by the other, and both by the President; and also as, the law being promulgated, the citizen will know how to avoid offense. But if one branch may assume its own privileges without control; if it may do it on the spur of the occasion, conceal the law in its own breast, and after the fact committed, make its sentence both the law and the judgment on that fact; if the offense is to be kept undefined, and to be declared only ex re nata, and according to the passions of the moment, and there be no limitation either in the manner or measure of the punishment. the condition of the citizen will be perilousindeed. Where there is no fised lav, the fuderment on any particular case, is the law of that single case osly, and dies witt, When a new and even similar case arises, the judgment which is to make ane tame apply, the law, is open to question and consideration, a : $\because:-\mathrm{a}$ lams. Perhaps Congress, in the meantime, in their care for the safety of the citizen as well as that for their own protection, may declare by law what is necsary and proper to enable them to carry into execution the powers vested in inm. and thereby hang up a rule for the inspection of all. which mar direct the condact of the citizens, and at the same time test the judgrents they shall themselves pronounce in their own case.

Privilege from arrest takes place by force of the election; and before a return be made, a member elected may be named of a committee, and is to every intent a member, except that he cannot vote until he is sworn. - Mrmon., 10t, 1ns.-D' Eres, 642, col. 2. 653, col. 1.-Pet. Miscel. Pet?. 11!-Ĺr. Pul., © $23-2$ Hats. 22, 62.

Every man must, at his peril, take notice, who are members of either House returned of Record.- Lex. Parl. 23-4-lnst. 24.

On complaint of a breach of privilege, the party may either be summoned or sent for in custody of the sergeant.- 1 Grey, 88, 95.

The privilege of a member is the privilege of the House. If the member waive it without leave, it is a ground for punishing him, but cannot in effect waive the privilege of the House.- 3 Grey, 140, 322.

For any speech or debate in either House, they shall not be questioned in any other place.-Const. U. S., Art. I., Sec. $6,-S_{.} P$., protest of Commons to James I., 1621-2 Rapin, No. 54, p. 211, 212, But this is restrained to things done in the House in a Parliamentary course, 1 Rush., 663. For he is not to have privilege contramorem parliamentarium, to exceed the bounds and limits of his place and duty.-Comp. $p$.

If an offence be committed by a member in the House of which the House has cognizance, it is an infringement of their right for any person or court to take notice of it, till the House has punished the offender, or referred him to a due course.-Lex. Parl. 63.

Privilege is in the power of the House, and is a restraint to the proceedings of inferior courts, but not of the House itself.- 2 Nalson, 450-2 Grey, 399. For whatever is spoken in the House, is subject to the censure of the House; and offences of this kind have been severely punished, by calling the person to the bar to make submission, committing him to the Tower, expelling the House, etc.-Scob. 72.-Lex. Parl. c. 22.

It is a breach of order for the Speaker to refuse to put a question which is in order. -2 Hats. 175, 176-Grey, 133.

And even in case of treason, felony and breach of the peace, to which privilege does not extend as to substance ; yet in Parliament, a member is privileged as to the mode of proceeding. The case is first to be laid before the House, that it may judge of the fact, and of the ground of the accusation, and how far forth the manner of the trial may concern their privilege. Otherwise it would be in the power of other branches of the government, and even of every private man, under pretenses of treason, etc., to take any man from his service in the House; and so as many, one after another, as would make the House what he pleaseth.-Decision of the Commons on the King's declaring Sir John Hotham a traitor, 4 Řushw. 586. So when a member stood indicted of felony, it was adjudged that he ought to remain of the House till conviction. For it may be any man's case, who is guiltless, to be accused and indicted of felony, or the like crime.-23 El. 1850-D'Ewes 283, vol. 1-Lex. Parl. 133.

When it is found necessary for the public service to put a member under arrest, or when, on any public inquiry, matter comes out which may lead to affect the person of a member, it is the practice immediately to acquaint the House, that they may know the reasons for such a proceeding, and take such steps as they think proper.-2 Hats. 259. Of which see many examples.-2 Hats. 256, 257, 258. But the commuuication is subsequent to the arrest.-1 Blackst. 167.

It is highly expedient, says Hatsell, for the due preservation of the privileges of the separate branches of the Legislature, that neither should encroach on the other, or interfere in any matter depending before them, so as to preclude, or even influence, that freedom of debate, which is essential to a free council. Ther are therefore not to take any notice of any bills or other matters depending, or of rotes that hare been given, or of speeches that hare been held, by the members of either of the other branches of the Legislature, until the same hare been communicated to them in the usgal Parliamentary manner.-2 Hats. 252-4 Inst. 15-Seld. Judd. 53. Thus the King's taking notice of the bill for suppressing soldiers, depending before the House, his proposing a provisional clatec for a bill before it was presented to him by the two Houses, his expressing displeasure against some persons for matters moved in Parliament during the debate and preparation of a bill, were breaches of privilege.-2 Nalson, 743 ; and in 1783, December 17, it was declared a breach of fundamental privileges, etc., to report any opinion, or pretended opinion of the King, on aiy bill or proceeding depending in either House of Parlianent, with a riew to influence the votes of the members.-2 $1 F+2.251$, ti.

80 Previous to December 31. 1819. West Tircinia was part of the state of Virginia, which state was entitled to eleven members of the House of Representatives. 31 Admitted under act of Congress of October 31, with one Representative.

When vacancies happen in the representation from any state, the executive authority thereof shall issue writs of eleccion to fill such vacancies.-Const. U. S., Art. I, Sec. 2.
No Senator or Representative shall, during the time for which he was elected, be appointed to any civil office under the authority of the United States, which shall have been created, or the emoluments whereof shall have been increased during such time; and no person, holding any office under the United States, shall be a member of either House during his continuance in office.-Const. $U$. S., Art. I, Sec. 6.

SECTION VI.

QCORCM.

A majority of each House shall consin: ate a duorum to do business; buta smaller number may adjourn from day :c.e. mar be authorized to compel the attendance of absent members. in stic: and under such penalties as each House may decide.-Const. U. S., A, I. $\%$.

In general, the cinair is not to be taken until a quorum for business is present; unless. after due waiting, such a quorum be despaired of, when the chair may be taken and the House adjourned. And whenever, during business, it is observed that a quorum is not present, any member may c:ll for the House to be counted; and being found deficient, business is suspended.-2 Hots., 125, 126.

The President having taken the can:- ari a ranem present, the journal of the preceding day shall be read. of ementione may be corrected that shall have been made in the envies.-l? sog te sate, 1.

SECTION VII.

CALL OF THE HOUSE.

On a call of the House, each person rises up as he is called, and answereth; the absentees are then only noted, but no excuse to be made till the House be fully called orer. Then the absentees are called a second time, and if still absent, excuses are to be heard. Ord. H. of C., 92.

They rise, that their persons may be recognized; the voice in such a crowd, being an insufficient verification of their presence; but in so small a body as the senate of the United States, the trouble of rising cannot be necessary.

Orders for calls on different days may subsist at the same time. 2 Hats., 72.

SECTION VIII.

ABSENCE.

No member shall absent himself from the service of the Senate without leave of the Senate first obtained. And in case a less number than a quorum of the Senate shall convene they are hereby authorized to send the Sergeant-at-Arms, or any other person or persons by them authorized, for any or all absent members, as the majority of such members present shall agree, at the expense of such absent members, respectively, unless such excuse for non-attendance shall be made, as the Senate, when a quorum is convened, shall judge sufficient; and in that case the expense shall be paid out of the contingent fund. And this rule shall apply as well to the first convention of the Senate at the legal time of meeting, as to each day of the session, after the hour is arrived to which the Senate stood ad-journed.-Rule 8.

SECTION IX.

SPEAKER.

The Vice-President of the United States shall be President of the Senate, but shall have no vote unless they be equally divided.-Const. U. S., Art. 1, Sec. 3.
The Senate shall choose their other officers. and also a President pro tempore in the absence of the Vice-President, or when he shall exercise the office of President of the United States.-Const. U. S., Art. 1, Sec. 3.
The House of Representatives shall choose their Speaker and other officers.-Const. U. S., Art. 1, Sec. 2.

When but one person is proposed, and no objection made, it has not been usual in Parliament to put any question to the House ; but without a question, the members proposing him conduct him to the chair. But if there be objections, or another proposed, a question is put by the clerk.-2 Hats., 168. As are also questions of adjourn-ment.-6 Grey, 406. Where the House debated and exchanged messages and answers with the King for the week, without a speaker, till they were prorogued. They have done it de die in diem for fourteen days.-1 Chand., 331, 335.

In the Senate, a President pro tempore, in the absence of the Vice-President, is proposed and chosen by ballot. His office is understood to be determined on the Vice-President appearing and taking the chair, or at the meeting of the Senate after the first recess.--Vide Rule 23.

Where the Speaker has been ill, other Speakers pro-tempore have been appointed. Intances of this are, 1 H., 4, Sir John Cheney, and for Sir William Sturton, and in 15 H . Sir John Tyrrell, in 16ธ̆6, Jan. 27-16ธั8, March 9-1659, Jan. 13.

1 Speaker may be removed at the will of the House, and a Speaker pro tempore appointed.-Grey, 186.—5 Grey, 134.—Vide Riule Sen. 23.

SECTION X.

ADDRESS.

 state of the Union, and recommend to ineir consideation suc: meanes as he shall judge necessary and expedient.-Cionst. C. S., irt. 2, Ste. 3.

A joint address from both Houses of Parliament is read by the Speaker of the House of Lords. It may be attended by both Houses in a body, or by a committee from each House, or by the two Speakers only. An address of the House of Commons only may be presented by the whole House, or by the Speaker.-9 Grey, 473, 1 Chandler, 298, 301, or by such particular members as are of the Privy Council.-2 Hats., 276.

SECTION XI.

COMMITTEES.*

Standing committee, as of privileges and elections, etc., are usually appointed at the first meeting, to continue through the session. The person first named is generally permitted to act as chairman. But this is a matter of courtes: ever committee having a right to elect their own chairman, who presides over them, puts questions, and reports their proceedings io the House.-Inst., 11, 12.Scab., 7.-1 Giry, 112.

At these committees the members are to speak standing, and not sitting; though there is reason to conjecture it was formerly other-wise.-D'Ewes, 630 col. 1-4 Pairl. Hist. 44:3-2 Hat.s. it.

Their proceedings are not to be published, as they are of no force, till confirmed by the House. - Rushe, pont :3, w. 2. it-3 Grey, 401 -Scob. 39. Nor can the receive a petition but through the House. -9 Girey, 412.

[^4]When a committee is charged with an inquiry, if a member proved to be involved, they cannot proceed against him, but must make a special report to the House; whereupon the member is heard in his place, or at the bar, or a special authority is given to the committee to enquire concerning him.- $9 G_{r e y}, 523$.

So soon as the House sits, and a committee is notified of it, the chairman is in duty bound to rise instantly, and the members to attend the services of the House.-2 Nals. 319. Vide Rutes H. R. 192.

It appears that on joint committee of the Lords and Commons, each committee acted integrally, in the following instances.-7 Grey, 261, 278, 285, 338-1 Chandler, 357, 462. In the following instances it does not appear whether they did or not.-9 Grey, 129, 7 Grey, 123, 229, 321.

SECTION XII.

COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE.

The speech, message, and other matters of great concernment, are usually referred to a committee of the whole House-6 Grey, 311, where general principles are digested in the form of resolutions, which are debated and amended until they get to a shape which meets the approbation of a majority. These being reported and confirmed by the House, are then referred to one or more select committees, according as the subject divides itself into one or more bills-Scob. 36, 44. Propositions for any charge upon the people are especially to be made first in a committee of the whole- 3 Hats. -Vide Rules $H . R .423,124$. The sense of the whole is better taken in committee, because in all committees every one speaks as often as he pleases.-Scob. 49-Vide Rules H. R. 125. They generally acquiesce in the chairman named by the speaker; but as well as all other committees, have a right to elect one, some member, by consent, putting the question.-Scob. 36-3 Gicy, 301-Vide Rules $H$. $R$.118. The form of going from the House into committee, is for the Speaker, on motion, to put the question that the House do now resolve itself into a committee of the whole, to take under consideration such a matter, naming it. If determined in the affirmative, he leaves the chair, and takes a seat elsewhere, as any other member; and the person appointed chairman seats himself at the clerk's table.-Scob. 37-Vide Rules HI. R. 118. Their quorum is the same as that of the House; and if a defect happens, the chairman, on a motion and question rises; the Speaker resumes the chair, and the chairman can make no other report than to inform the House of the cause of their dissolution. If a message is announced during a committee, the Speaker takes the chair and receives it, because the committee cannot.-2 Hats. 125, 126.

In a committee of the whole, the tellers, on a division, differing as to number, great heats and confusion arose, and danger of a decision by the sword. The Speaker took the chair, the mace was forcibly laid on the table: whereupon the members retiring to their places, the Speaker told the House "he had taken the chair without an order to bring the House into order." Some excepted against it; but it was generally approred as the only expedient to suppress disorder. And every member was required, standing up in his place, to engage that he would proceed no further, in consequence of what had happened in the grand committee, which was done.3 Grey, 139.

A committee of the whole being broken up in disorder, and the chair resumed by the Speaker without an order, the House was adjourned. The next day the committee was considered as thereby dissolved, and the subject again before the House ; and it was decided in the House, without returning into committee.-3 Grey, 130.

No previous question can be put in a committee; nor can this committee adjourn as others may; but if their business is unfinished they rise on a question, the House is resumed, and the chairman reports that the committee of the whole have, according to order, had under their consideration such a matter, and have made progress therein; but not haring time to go through the same, have directed him to ask leare to sit again. Whereupon, a question is put on their having leare, and an the the when the Ifouse will again resolve itself into a enmmitiee.-Sol. $\because$. But it they have gone through the mater retance a the:n, anmber moves that the committee may rise, and the chamman repre their proceedings to the House, which being resolred, the chairman rises, the Speaker resumes the chair, the chairman informs him that the committee have gone through the business referred to them, and that he is ready to make report when the House shall think proper to receive it. If the House have time to receive it, there is usually a cry of "Now, now," whereupon he makes the report; but if it be late, the cry is, "To-morrow, to-morrow," or "On Monday," etc.; or a motion is made to that effect, and a question put, that it be received to-morrow, etc.-Scob. 38.

In other things the rules of proceedings are to be the same as of the house.-Scob. 39.

SECTION XIII.

EXAMINATION OE WINESSES.

Common fame is a good ground for the House to proceed by inquiry, and even to accusation. - Resolutions of House of Commons, 1, Carl. 1, 1625-Rush. Lex. 115-1 Giry, 16, 22, 92-8 Grey 21, 23, 27, 45.

Witnesses are not to be introduced but where the house has previously instituted an inquirr, 2 Hats. 102, nor then are orders for their attendance given blank-3 Grey, 51 .

When any person is examined before a committee, or at the bar of the House, any member wishing to ask the person a question, must address it to the Speaker ne chamman, who repeats.the question to the person, or says to him, " Iou inear the question, answer it." But if the propriety of the question be objected to, the Speaker directs the witness, counsel and parties to withdraw; for no question can be mored or put, or debated while they are thereHats. 108. Sometimes the questions are previously settled in writing before the witness enters.-2 Hats. 106, 107-8 Grey, 64. The question asked must be entered in the journals.-3 Grey, 81. But the testimony given in answer before the House, is never written down; but before a committee it must be, for the information of the House, who are not present to hear it.—7 Grey, $52,334$.

If either House have occasion for the presence of a person in custody of the other, they ask the other leave that he may be brought up to them in custody.-3 Hats. 52.

A member in his place gives information to the House of what he knows of any matter under hearing at the bar.-Jour. H. of C., Jan. $22,1744,5$.

Either House may request, but not command, the attendance of a member of the other. They are to make the request by message to the other House and to express clearly the purpose of attendance, that no improper subject of examination may be tendered to him. The House then gives leare to the member to attend, if he choose it; waiting first to know from the member himself whether he chooses to attend, till which they do not take the message into consideration. But when the Peers are sitting as a court of Criminal Judicature, they may order attendance ; unless where it be a case of impeachment by the Commons. There is to be a request.- 3 Hats. 17-9 Grey, 306, 406-10 Grey, 133.

Counsel are to be heard only on private, not on public bills; and on such points of law only as the House shall direct.-19 Grey, 61.

SECTION XIV.

ARRANGEMENT OF BUSINESS.

The Speaker is not precisely bound to any rules as to what bills or other matter shall first be taken up, but is left to his own discretion, unless the House on a question decide to take up a particular suhject.-Hakew, 136.

A settled order of business is, however, necessary for the government of the presiding person, and to restrain individual members from calling up favorite measures, or matters under their special patronage, out of their just turn. It is useful also for directing the discretion of the House, when they are moved to take up a particular matter, to the prejudice of others, having a priority of right to their attention in the general order of business.

[^5]4. Bills or other matter before the House, and unfinished on the preceding dar, whether taken up in turn, or on special order, are entitled to be resumed, and passed on through their present stage.
$\overline{5}$. These matters being despatched. for preparing and expediting business, the general file of bills and other papers is taken up, and each article of it is brought on according to its seniority, reckoned by the date of its first introduction to the House. Reports on bills belonging to the dates of their bills.

The arrangement of the busines of the Senate is as follows:

1. Motions previously submitted.
2. Reports of committees previously made.
3. Bills from the Honse of Representatives, and those introduced on leave, which have been read the irst time, are read the second time, and if not referred to committee, are considered in committee of the whole, and proceeded with as in other cases.
4. After welve ocloch, engrossed bills of the Senate, and bills of the House of Representatives, on the third reading are put on their passage.
5. If the above are finished before one o'clock, the general file of bills, consisting of those reported from committees on the second reading, and those reported from committees after having been referred, are taken up in the order in which they are reported to the Senate by the respective committees.
6. At one o'clock, if no business be pending, or if no motion be made to proceed to other business, the special orders are called, at the head of which stand the unfinisned business of the preceding day.-Tide Rules $H . R ., 19$ to 24, inclusive.

In this way we do not waste our time in debating what shall be taken up; we do one thing at a time, follow up a subject while itis fresh, and till it is done with; clear the House of business, gradatim, as it is brought on and prevent, to a certaiu degree, its immense accmalation wores.

 House. Such are original moinns, and repors on bats. such are, bills from the other Honse, whiniane recera a all times and receive their tirst reading as soon as the question then before the House is disposed of ; and bills brought in on leave, which are read first whenever presented. So, messages from either House, respecting amendments to bills, are taken up as soon as the House is clear of a question, unless they require to be printed, for better consideration. Orders of the day may be called for, even when another question is before the House.

SECTION XV.

ORDER.

Each House may determine the rules of its proceedings; punish its members for disorderly behavior ; and with the concurrence of two-thirds, expel a member. -C'onst., I, 亏.

In Parliament, "instances make "order," per Speaker Onslow, 2 Huts, 14t; but what is done only by one Parliament, cannot be called custom of Parliament: lin, 1 Grey, 52.

orders respecting papers.

The clerk is to let no journals, records, accounts or papers, be taken from the table, or out of his custody.-2 Hots., 10:3, 194.

Mr. Prynne having, at a committee of the whole, anended a mistake in a bill, without order or knowledge of the committee, was reprimanded.-1 Chand., 77.

A bill being missing, the House resolved, that a protestation should be made and subscribed by the members, "before Almighty God and this honorable House, that neither myself nor any other, to my knowledge, have taken away, or do at this present, conceal a bill entitled," &c.-5 Grey, 202.

After a bill is engrossed, it is put into the Speaker's hands, and he is not to let any one have it to look into.-Tořn. col., 209.

SECTION XVII.

ORDER IN DEbate.

When the Speaker is seated in the chair, every member is to sit in his place.-Scob., 6-3 Grey, 403.

When any member means to speak, he is to stand up in his place, uncovered, and to address himself, not to the House, or any particular member, but to the Speaker, who calls him by his name, that the House may take notice, who it is that speaks.-Scob., 6-D'Ewes, 487. col. 1-2 Hats., 77-4 Grey, 66-8 Grey, 108. But members who are indisposed, may be indulged to speak sitting.-Hats., 75 , 97-1 Grey, 195.
In Senate, every member, when he speaks, shall address the chair standing in his place; and when he has finished, shall sit down.-Rule 3 .
When any member is about to speak in debate, or deliver any matter to the Honse, he shall rise from his seat, and respectfully address himself to "Mr. Speaker," and shall confine himself to the question under debate, and avoid per-sonalities.--Rule H. R. 28.

When a member stands up to speak, no question is to be put, but he is to be heard, unless the house overrule him.-4 Grey, 390-5 Grey, 6, 143.

If two or more rise to speak nearly together, the Speaker determines who was first up, and calls him by name ; whereupon he proceeds, unless he voluntarily sits down, and gives way to the other. But sometimes the House does not acquiesce in the Speaker's decision; in which case the question is put, "Which member was first up ?"-2 Hats., 76-Scob 7-D'Euces 434, col. 1, 2.

In the Senate of the United States, the President's decision is without appeal. Their rule is in these words: When two member's rise at the same time, the President shall name the person to speak; but in all cases, the member who shall first rise and address the chair, shall speak first.--Rule 5 .

No man can speak more than once to the same bill, on the same day; or even on another day, if the debate be adjourned. But if it be read more than once in the same day, he may speak once at every reading. Co. 12, 116-Hakew, 148-Scob., 58-2 Hats. 75. Even a change of opinion does not give a right to be heard a second time.-Smyth Comv. L. 2, c. 3-Arcan. Pari. 17.

The corresponding rule of the Senate is in these words: No member shall speak more than twice in any one debate on the same day, without leave of the Senate, --Rule 4.

No member shall speak more than once on the same subject, without leave of the House, unless he be the mover, proposer, or introducer of the matter pending; in which case he shall be permitted to reply, but not until every member choosing to speak shall have spoken,--Rule H. R. 32 .

But he may be permitted to speak again to a clear matter of fact. 3 Grey, 327, 416. Or merely to explain himself, 3 Herts. 78, in some material part of his specch, $i 3$. 75 ; or to the manner or words of the question, keeping himself to that only, and not traveling into the merits of it, Memorials in Hakew. 29 ; or to the orders of the House, if they were transgressed, keeping within that line, and falling into the matter itself.-Hem. Hakew. 30, 31.

But if the Siener rise to speak, the member standing up ought to sit down, that he may be first heard.-Town. col. 205-Hale, Parl. 133-Mem. ic Ifoci!. 30, 31. Nevertheless, though the speaker may of right speak to matters of order, and be the first heard, he is restrained from speaking on any other subject, except where the IIousc iave occasion for facts within his knowledge; then he may, with their leave, state the matter of fact.- 3 Grey, 38.

No one is to speak impertinently or beside the question, superfluously or tediously.—Scob. 31, 31-2 Hets. 16tj, 108-Hutt., Porit. 133.

No person is to use indecent language against the proceedings of the House, no prior determination of which is to be reflected on by any member, unless he means to conclule with the motion to re-proposition is under consdemano it is ath in tieri, though it has eren been reported by a commitive, reflections on it are no reflections on the House.-9 Grey, 308.

No person, in speaking, is to mention a member then present by his name ; but to describe him by his seat in the House, or who spoke last, or on the other side of the question, etc.-Mem in Hawke. - 3 Smyth's Com. L. 2, c. 3 ; not to digress from the matter to fall upon the person.-Scob. 41-Hale. Parl. 133-2 Hats, 166 by speaking, reviling, nipping, or unmannerly words against a particular member.-Smyth's Comw. L. 2, c. 3. The consequence of a measure may be reprobated in strong terms, but to arraign the motives of those who propose or advocate it, is a personality, and against order. Qui digreditur a materia ad personam. Mr. Speaker ought to suppress. Oicl. Com. 1604, Apr. 19.

When a member shall be called to order by the President, or a Senator, he shall sit down, and every question out of order shall be decided by the President without debate, subject to an appeal to the Senate, and the President may call for the sense of the Senate on any question oi order - Rule 6 .

While the Speaker is putting any ou-son, or addressing the House, none shall walk out or across the House; nor, in - $\because \cdots$ or when a member is speaking. shall entertain private discourse; nor wit: an mer is speaking shall pass between him and the Chair. Every member san remain uncovered during the session of the Honse. No member or other $1 \times$ on sha! visit or remain by the Clerk's table while the ayes and noes are calliner, or ballots are counting.--Pule H. R. 34.

No one is to disturb another in his speech, by hissing, coughing, spitting, 6 Grey, 332 - Sob S-D'Eues, :3:2. co? 1 ; nor stand up to interrupt him, Town. col. 2aj-Mem. in Haten: :31: nor to pass between the Speaker and the speaking member: nor to across the House, Scob. 6 ; or to walk up and down it: or to take books or paper from the table, or write there- -2 Ifots. 177.

Nevertheless, if a member sucis is is nos the intention of the House to hear him, or that by conversution or any other noise, they endeavor to drown his voice, it is the most prudent way to submit to the pleasure of the House and sit down; for it scarcely ever happens that they are guilty of this piece of ill-manners without sufficient reason, or inattentive to a member who says anything worth their hearing.-2 Hats. 77, 78.

If repeated calls do not produce order, the Speaker may call by his name any member obstinately persisting in irregularity; whereupon the House may require the member to withdraw. Then the speaker states the offence committed, and the House considers the punishment they will inflict. 2 Hats. 176, 7, 8, 172.

For instance of assaults and affrays in the House of Commons, and the proceedings there, see 1 Pet. Misc. 82-3 Grey, 8, 128Grey, 328-5 Grey, 38-26 Grey, 204-10 Grey, 8. Whenever warm words or an assault have passed between members, the House for the protection of their members, requires them to declare in their places not to prosecute any quarrel, Grey, 128, 263-5 Grey, 289; or orders them to attend the Speaker, who is to accommodate their differences, and to report to the House, 3 Grey, 419 ; and they are put under restraint, if they refuse, or until they do.-9 Grey, 234, 312.

Disorderly words are not to be noted until the member has finished his speech, 5 Grey, 3ă6-6 Groy, 60. Then the person objecting to them, and desiring them to be taken down by the clerk at the table, must repeat them. The speaker then may direct the clerk to take them down in his minutes. But if he thinks them not disorderly, he delays the direction. If the call becomes pretty general, he orders the clerk to take them down as stated by the objecting member. They are then part of his minutes, and when read to the offending member he may deny they were his words, and the House must then decide by a question whether they are his words or not. Then the member may justify them or explain the sense in which he used them or apologize. If the House is satisfied no further proceeding is necessary. But if two members still insist to take the sense of the House, the member must withdraw before that question is stated, and then the sense of the House is to be taken. 2 Hats. 199-4 Grey, 170-6 Grey, 59 . When any member has spoken, or other business intervened, after the offensive words spoken, they cannot be taken notice of for censure. And this is for the common security of all, and to prevent mistakes, which must happen, if wdrds are not taken down immediately. Formerly, they might be taken down at any time the same day.-2 Hats. 196Mem. in Hakew. 71-3 Grey, 48-9 Grey, 514.

Disorderly words spoken in a committee, must be written down as in the House; but the committee can only report them to the House for animadversion.-6 Grey, 47.

The rule of the Senate says, If any member be called to order for words spoken, the exceptional words shall be immediately taken down in writing, that the President may be better enabled to judge.-Rule T.

In Parliament, to speak irreverently or seditiously against the King, is against order.-Smyth's Comzv. L. 2, c. 3-2 Hats. 170.

It is a breach of order in debate to notice what has been said on the same subject in the other House, or the particular votes or majorities on it there ; because the opinion of each House should be left to its own independencr, not to be influenced by the proceedings of the other; and the quoting them might beget reflections leading to misunderstanding between the two Houses.-S Grey, 22.

Neither House can exercise any authority over a member or officer of the other, but should complain to the House of which he is, and leare the punishment to them. Where the complaint is of words disrespectfilly spoken by a member of another House, it is difficult to obtain punishment because of the rules supposed necessary to be observed (as to the immediate noting down of words) for the security of members. Therefore, it is the duty of the House, and more particularly of the speaker, to interfere immediately, and not to permit expressions to go unnoticed, which may give a ground of complaint to the other House, and introduce proceedings and mutual accusations between the two Houses, which can hardly be terminated without difficulty and disorder.-Hats. 51.

No member may be present when a bill, or any business concerning himself, is debating; nor is any member to speak to the merits of it till he withdraws.-2 Hats., 210 . The rule is that if a charge against a member arise out of a report of a committen, or examina-those points, before any queston is nowed or stated aganst him. He is then to be heard, and withdraw beiore any question is mored. But if the question itself is the charge, as for the breach of order, or matter arising in debate, there the matter must be stated, that is, the question must be moved, himself heard, and then to with-draw.-2 Hats., 121, 122.

Where the private interests of a member are concerned in a bill or question, he is to withdraw. And where such an interest has appeared, his voice has been disallowed, even after a division. In a case so contrary, not only to the laws of decency, but to the fundamental principles of the social compact, which denies to any man to be a judge of his own case, it is for the honor of the House that this rule of immemorial observance should be strictly adhered to.2 Hats., 119, 121-6 Gioy, 368.

No man is to come into the House with his head covered, nor to remore from one place to the other with his hat on, nor is to put on his hat in coming in, or removing, until he be sit down in his place.-Scob., 6.

A question of order may be adjour:es to give time to look into precedents.-2 Hats. 118.

In the Senate of the Cnited States every question of order is to be decided by the President without debate: but if there be a doubt in his mind, he may call for the sense of the Senate. - Rwle 6 .

If any member, in speaking or otherwise, transerses the rules of the House, the Speaker shall, or any member may, call to order: in which case the member so called to order shall immediaiely sit down, unless pemitied to explain; and the House shall, if appealed to, decice on the case, but withoat deate if there be no appeal, the decision of the chair shal be submitted $: 0$. It: te decision be in favor of the member called to order, he shall beat liberty to procedi if otherwise, he shall not be permitted to proceed. in case my moject. without leave of the House: and if the case require it ie sol: to the censure of the House.-Rule H. R. 29.

In Parliament, all discussions of the Speaker may be controlled by the House.-3 Grey, 318.

SECTION XVII.

ORDERS OF THE HOCISE.

Of right, the door of the House ought not to be shut, but to be kept by porters, or sergeants-at-arms, assigned for that purpose.Mod. ten. Parl., 23.

By the rule of the Senate, on motion made and seconded, to shut the doors of the Senate, on the discussion of any business which may, in the opinion of a member, require secrecy, the President shall direct the gallery to be cleared, and during the discussion of such motion the door shall remain shat.-Rule 18.

No motion shall be deemed in order to admit any person or persons whatsoever within the doors of the Senate chamber, to present any petition, memorial, or address, or to hear any such read.--Rule 19.

The only case where a member has a right to insist on any thing is, where he calls for the execution of a subsisting order of the House. Here, there having been already a resolution, any member has a right to insist that the Speaker, or any other whose duty it is, shall carry it into execution; and no debate or delay can be had on it. Thus any member has a right to have the house or gallery cleared of stangers, an order existing for that purpose ; or to have the House told when there is not a quorum present.-2 Hats. 87, 129. How far an order of the House is binding, see Hakew, 392.

But where an order is made that any particular matter be taken up on any particular day, there a question is to be put when it is called for Whether the House will now proceed to that matter? Where orders of the day are not important or interesting matter, they ought not to be proceeded on till an hour at which the House is usually full-(which in Senate is at noon).

Odrers of the day may be discharged at any time, and a new one made for a different day.-3 Grey, 48, 313.

When a session is drawing to a close, and the important bills are all brought in, the House, in order to prevent interruption from further unimportant bills, sometimes comes to a resolution that no new bill be brought in, except it be sent from the other House. 3 Grey, 156.

All orders of the House determine with the session; and one taken under such an order, may, after the session is ended, be discharged on Habeas Corpus.-Raym, 120—Jacobs, L. D. by Ruffhead -Parliament, 1 Lev. 165̆, Pritchard's case.

Where the constitution authorizes each house to determine the rule of its proceedings, it must mean in those cases, legislative, executive, or judiciary, submitted to them by the Constitution, or in something relating to these, and entered in the journals, having no relation to these, such as acceptances of invitations, to attend orations, to take part in processions, etc. These must be understood to be merely conventional among those who are willing to participate in the ceremony, and are therefore perhaps improperly placed among the records of the House.

SECTION XIX.

PETITIONS.

Abstract

A petition prays something. A remonstrance has no prarer.-1 Grey, 58.

Petitions must be stibscribed by the petitioners, Seob. si-L. Parl. c. 2.2 Giry, $30^{2}$, unless they are attending, 1 Grey, 401, or unable to sign and averred by a member, 3 Grey, 418. But a petition not subscribed, but which the member presenting it affirmed to be all in the handwriting of the petitioner, and his name written in the beginning was on the question, (March 14, 1800,) received by the Senate. The averment of a member or somebody without doors, that ther know the handwriting of the petitioners, is necessary, if it be questioned.-5 Grey, 36. It must be presented by a member, not by the petitioners, and must be opened by him, holding it in his hand.-10 Grey, 57 .

Before any petition or memorial addressed to the senate, shall be received and read at the table, whether the same shall be inteoneced by the President or a bally be made by the intretmee. $-F$, $\because:$.
 sented by the Speaker, or anmor in his place: a bed satement of the contents thereof shall be made webally be the introducer; they shall not be debated on the day of their being presented, nor on any day assigned by the House for the reccipt of petitions after the first thirty days of the session, unless where the House shall direct otherwise, but shall lie on the table, to be taken up in the order in which they were presented.-Rule H. R. 55 .

Regularly a motion for receiving it must be made and seconded, and a question put, whetherit shall be received? But a cry from the House of "Received," or even its silence, dispenses with the formality of this question; it is then to be read at the table, and disposed of.

SECTION XX.

MOTIONS.

When a motion has been mate, it is not to be put to the question, or debate, until it is seconded.- 21 .

The Senate say, Nic motion shall be debated until the same shall be seconded. --Rule 9.

It is then, and not till then, in possession of the House. It is to be put in writing, if the House or Speaker require it, and must be read to the House br the Speaker as often as any member desire it for his information--2 Hots., 82.

The rule of the Senate, is when a motion shat be made and seconded, it shall be reduced to writing, if desired b: the Preicn ut member, delivered in at the table, and read by the President. bete shall be debated.-Rule 10 .

When a motion is made and seconced, is shall be stated by the Speaker; or, being in writing, it shall be handed to the Chair, and read aloud by the Clerk before debated.-Kule IK. R. 38.
Every motion shall be reduced to writing, if the Speaker or any member desire it.-Rule H. R. 39.

It might be asked whether a motion for adjournment, or for the orders of the day can be made by any one member while another is speaking? It cannot. When two members offer to speak, he who rose first is to be heard, and it is a breach of order in another to interrupt him, unless by calling him to order, if he departs from it. And the question of order being decided, he is still to be heard through. A call for adjournment, or for the order of the day, or for the question, by gentlemen from their seats, is not a motion. No motion can be made without arising and addressing the Chair. Such calls are themselves breaches of order, which though the member who has risen may respect as an expression of impatience of the House, against further debate, yet, if he chooses, he has a right to go on.

SECTION XXI.

RESOLUTIONS.

When the House commands, it is an "order." But facts, principles, their own opinions, and purposes, are expressed in the form of resolutions.

A resolution for an allowance of money to the clerks being moved, it was objected to as not in order, and so ruled by the Chair. But on appeal to the Senate, (I. e., a call for their sense by the President, on account of doubt in his mind, according to Rule 16), the decision was overruled.-Jour. Sen. June 1, 1786. I presume the doubt was, whether an allowance of money could be made otherwise than by bill.

SECTION XXII.

BILLS.

Every bill shall receive three readings previous to its being passed; and the President shall give notice at each, whether it be the first, second or third ; which reading shall be on three different days, unless the Senate unanimously direct otherwise.-Rule 26.
Every bill shall be introduced on the report of a committee, or by motion for leave. In the latter case, at least one day's notice shall be given of the motion; and the motion shall be made, and the bill introduced if leave is given, when resolutions are called for ; such motion or the bill when introduced, may be commit-ted.--Rule H. R. 108.

SECTION XXIII.

bills, Leave to bring in.
One day's notice, at least, shall be given of an intended motion for leave to bring in a bill.--Rule 25 .

Wher a member desires to bring in a bill on any subject, he states to the House, in general terms, the causes for doing it, and concludes by moving for leare to bring in a bill entitled, etc. Leare being given, on the question, a committee is appointed to prepare and bring in the bill. The mover and seconder are always appointed on the commitiee, and one or more in addition.-Ir:co, 132Scob., 40.

It is to be presented fairly written, without any erasure or interlineation, or the sneaker may refuse it.-Scob., 31, Grey, S2, St.

SECTION XXIV.

BILLS, FIRST READING.

When a bill is first presented, the clerk reads it at the table, and hands it to the Speaker, who, rising, states to the House the title of the bill ; that this is the first time of reading it ; and the question will be, Whether it shall be read the second time? Then sitting down, to give an opening for objections: if none be made, he it mar ise done and rejectu.- $D E=3,35$, col. 1.--3 Hoto., 198. [Vide Rules H. R. 109.]

SECTION XXV.

BILLS, SECOND READING.

The second reading must regularly be on another dar. Hukew., 143. It is done by the clerk at the table, who then hands it to the Speaker. The Speaker, rising, states to the House the title of the bill, that this is the second time of reading, and that the question will be, Whether it shall be committed, or engrossed and read a third time? Bat if the bill came from the other House, as it always comes engrossed, he states that the question will be, Whether it shall ter read a third time? And before he has so reported the state of tiee bill, no one is to speak to it.-Hakelv., 143, 146.

In the Semare of the United States, the President reports the title of the bill, that this is tie cond time of reading it, that it is to be considered as in a committee of the whole, and that the question will be, Whether it shall be read a tiiird time? or that it may be referred to a special committee.--Vide Rule 27.

SECTION XXVI.

BILLS, COMMITMENT.

If, on motion and question. it he decined that the bill shall be committed, it may then be movei is se refred to a committee of the whole House, or to a special committee. If the latter, the Speaker proceeds to name the committee. Any member also may name a single person, and the clerk is to write him down as of the committee. But the House have a controlling power. over the names and number, if a question be moved against any one; and may in any case put in and put out whom they please.
Those who take exceptions to some particulars in the bill, are to be of the committee. But none who speah directly against the body of the bill. For he that would totally destroy would not amend it.-Hakew., 146-Town col., 208-208-D'Euces, 634, col. 2Scob., 47 ; or, as is said, 5 Grey, 145 , the child is not to be put to a nurse that cares not for it-6 Grey, 673. It is therefore a constant rule, " that no man is to be employed in any matter who has declared himself against it."-Grey, 228.

And when any member who is against the bill hears himself named of its committee, he ought to ask to be excused. Thus, March 6,1606, Mr. Hadley was, on the question being put, excused from being of a committee, declaring himself to be against the matter itself.-Scob., 48.

No bill shall be committed or amended until it shall have been twice read, after which it may be referred to a committee.--Rule 27 .
The first reading of a bill shall be for information; and, if opposition be made to it, the question shall be 'Shall the bill be rejected?" If no opposition be made, or if the question to reject be negatived, the bill shall go to its second reading without a question.--Rules H. R. 110 .
In the appointment of the standing committees, the Seate will proceed, by ballot, severaily to appoint the chairman of each committee, and then by ballot, the other members necessary to complete the same; and a majority of the whole number of votes given shall be necessary to the choice of a chairman of a standing committee. All other committees shall be appointed by ballot, and a plundity of votes shall make a choice. When any subject or matter shall have been referred to a committee, any other subject or matter of a similar nature, may, on motion, be referred to such committee.--Rule 34 .

The clerk may deliver the bill to any member of the committee. -Town. col., 138. But it is usual to deliver it to him who is first named.

In some cases, the House has ordered the committee to withdraw immediately into the committee-chamber, and act on, and bring back the bill, during the sitting of the House.-Scob., 48, (Vide Rules $H$. R. 102.)

A committee meets when and where they please, if the House has not ordered time and place for them.-6 Grey, 370. But they can only act when together, and not by separate consultation and consent, nothing being the report of the committee, but what has been agreed to in committee actually assembled.

A majority of the committee constitutes a quorum for business. -Elsynge's method of passing bills, 11.

Any member of the House may be present at any select committee, but cannot vote, and must give place to all the committee, and must sit below them.-Elsynge, 12-Scob., 49.

The committee have full power over the bill, or other paper committed to them, except that they cannot change the title or sub-ject.-8.

The paper before the committee, whether select or of the whole, may be a bill, resolutions, draft of an address, \&c., and it may either originate with them, or be referred to them. In every case, the whole paper is read first by the clerk, and then br the cioirman, by paragraphs, Scob., 49, pausing at the end of each manacraph, and putting questions for amending, if proposed. In the case of resolutions on distinct subjects, originating with themselves, a rucstion is put on each separately, as amended, or unamended, and no final question on the whole.-3 Hats., 276. But if they relate to the same subject. a question is put on the whole. If it be a bill, draught of an address, or other paper originating with them, they proceed by paragraphs, putting questions for amending, either by insertion or striking out, if proposed; but no question on agreeing to the paragraphs separately. This is reserved to the whole for agreeing to it as amended or unamended. But if it be a paper referred to them, they proceed to put questions of amendment, if proposed, but no final question on the whole, because all parts of the paper having been adopted by the House, stand, of course, unless altered, or struck out by a vote. Eren if they are opposed to the whole paper, and think it cannot be made good hy amendments, they cannot reject it, but must report is bece : $: \therefore$ In ene wisont amendments, and there mone the: $\quad$ a. $:=$.
 begin at the i, eginates and powed throage is by paragaphs; and this order is so strictly adhered to in larliament, that when a latter part has been amended, you cannot recur back and make any alteration in a former part.-2 Hats., 90. In numerous assemblies, this restraint is, doubless, important.

But in the Senate of the United States, though in the main we consider and amend the paragraphs in their natural order, yet recurrences are indulged; and they seem on the whole, in that small body, to produce advantages overweighing their inconveniences.

To this natural order of beginning at the beginning, there is a single exception found in parliamentary usage. When a bill is taken up in committee, or on its second reading, they postpone the preamble, till the other parts of the bill are gone through. The reason is, that on consideration of the body of the bill, such altertions may therein be made, as may asocasion the atteration of the preamble.-Scob., $50-7$ (ira, $\therefore$.

On this head, the following case new: : : :he Senate, March 6, 1800: A resolution which had no 1,wam: haring been already amended by the House, so that a few wose mained in it, a motion was made to pretix a preamble, which, having an aspect very different from the resolution, the mover intimated that he should afterwards propose a correspondent amendment in the body of the resolution. It was objected that a preamble could not be taken up till the body of the resnlution is done with. But the preamble was received: because we are in fact through the body of the resolution we have amended, that as faras amendments have been offered, and indeci :he inte oi te m:ginal is left, it is the proper time, therefore, to cossere a peamble; and whether the one offered be consistent with the resolution, is for the House to determine. The mover, indeed, has intimated that he shall offer a subsequent proposition for the body of the resolution; but the House is not in possession of it ; it remains in his breast, and may be withheld. The rules of the House can only operate on what is before them. The practice of the Senate, too, allows recurrences backward and forward for the purpose of amendments, not permitting amendments in a subsequent, to preclude those in a prior part, or e converso.

When a committee is through the whole, a member more that the committee may rise, and the chairman report the paper to the House, with or without amendment, as the case may be.- 2 Hats., 289, 292-Scob. $53-H a t s .290-8$ Scob. 50.

When a vote is once passed in a committee, it cannot be altered but by the House, their votes being on themselves.-1607, June 4.

The committee may not erase, interline or blot the bill itself; but must, in a paper by itself, set down the amendments, stating the words that are to be inserted or omitted, $S c o b .50$; and where, by reference to the page, line and word of the bill.- Scob. 50.

SECTION XSVII.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE.

The chairman of the committee, standing in his place, informs the House, that the committee to whom was referred such a bill, have, according to order, had the same under consideration, and have directed him to report the same without any amendment, or with sundry amendments, (as the case may be), which he is ready to do when the House pleases to receive it. And he, or any other, may move that it may be now received. But the cry of "now, now," from the House, generally dispenses with the formality of a motion and question. He then reads the amendments, with the coherence in the bill, and opens the alterations, and the reasons of the committee for such amendments, until he has gone through the whole. He then delivers it at the clerk's table, where the amendments reported are read by the clerk, without the coherence; whereupon the papers lie upon the table, till the House, at its convenience, shall take up the report.-Scob. 52-Hakw. 148.

The report being made, the committee is dissolved, and can act no more without a new power.-Scob. 51. But it may be revived by a vote and the same matter recommitted to them.-4 Grey, 361.

SECTION XXVIII.

BILL, RECOMMITMENT.

After a bill has been committed and reported, it ought not, in an ordinary course be recommitted. But in cases of importance, and for special reasons, it is sometimes recommitted, and usually to the same committee.-Hakw. 151. If a report be committed before agreed to in the House, what has passed in the committee is of no validity; the whole question is again before the committee, and a new resolution must be again mored, as if nothing had passed.-3 Hats. 131, note.

In Senate, January, 1800, the salvage bill was recommitted three times after the recommitment.

A particular clase of a bill may be committed without the whole bill.-3 Hats. 131: or so much of a paper to one, and so much to another committec.

SECTION XXIX.

BILL, REPORT TAKEN UP.
When the report of a paper, originating with a committee, is taken up by the House, they proceed exactly as in committee. Here, as in committee, when the paragraphs have, on distinct questions, been agreed to seriatim.-5 Gire, sbob Grey, 36S-8 needs be put on the whole repori.-. Gity, 3 si.

On taking up a bill reported with amendmente, the amendments only are read by the clerk. The Speaker then reads the first, and puts it to the question ; and so on till the whole are adopted or rejected, before any other amendment be admitted, except it be an amendment to an amendment.-Elsynge's Mem., 23. When through the amendments of the committee, the Speaker pauses, and gives time for amendments to be proposed in the House to the body of the bill; as he does also if it has been reported without amendments; putting no question but on amendments proposed; and when through the whole, he puts the question, Whether the bill shall be read the third time?

SECTION XXX.

QLASI-COMMITTEE.
If on the motion and question, tie inll be not committed, or if no proposition for commitment be mase, then the proceedings in the Senate of the Cnited States, and in Parliament, are totally different. The former shail be first stated.

The 28th Rule of the Senate says, "All the bills. on a second reading, shall first be considered by the Senate in the same manner as ii the Senate were in committee of the whole before they sinall be taken up and proceeded on by the Senate agreeably to the standing rules. unless otherwise orciered: that is to say, unless ordered to be referred to a special committee. And when the Senate shall consider a treaty, bill or resolution, as in committee of the whon ihe Vice President, or President pro tempore, may call a member to fill tio char. during the time the Senate shall remain in committee of th: whole : and the c.:aiman so called, shall, during such time, have the power of a prean one
The proceedings of the Senate, as in a comme of the whole, or in quasicommittee, is precisely the same as in a real committee of the whole, taking no questions but on amendments. When through the whole, they consider the qua-si-committee as risen, the House resumed, without any motion, question or resolution to that effiect, and the President reports, " that the House, acting as in committee of the whole, have had under their consideration the billentitled, &c., and have made sundry amendments, which he will now report to the House." The bill is then before them, as it would have been if reported from a committee, and questions are regularly to be put again on every amendment; which being gone through, the President pauses to give time to the IIouse to propose amendments to the body of the bill, and when through puts the question whether it shall be read the third time?
After progress in amending a bill in quasi-committee, a motion may be made to refer it to a special committee. If the motion prevails, it is equivalent in effect to the several votes that the committee rise, the House resume itself, discharge the committee of the whole, and refer the bill to a special committee. In that case, the amendments already made fall. But if the motion fails, the quasi-committee stands in statu quo.

How far does this 28 th rule subject the House, when in quasicommittee, to the laws which regulate proceedings of committees of the whole? The particulars in which these differ from proceedings in the House, are the following: 1. In a committee every member may speak as often as he pleases. 2. The votes of a committee may be rejected or altered when reported to the House. 3. A committee, even of the whole, cannot refer any matter to another committee. 4. In a committee, no previous question can be taken; the only means to aroid an improper discussion, is to move that the committee rise ; and if it be appreliended that the same discussion will be attempted in returning into committee, the House can discharge them and proceed itself on the business, keeping down the improper discussion by the previous question. 5. A committee cannot punish a breach of order in the House or in the Gallery. 9 Grey, 113; it can only rise and report it to the House, who may proceed to punish.

The first and seeond of these peculiarities attach to the quasi-committee of the Senate as every day's practice proves; and seem to be the only ones to which the 28th rule meant to subject them ; for it continues to be a House, and therefore, though it acts in some respects as a committec, in others it preserves its character as a House. Thus, 3 d . It is in the daily habit of referring its business to a special committee. 4th. It admits the previous question; if it did not, it would have no means of preventing an improper discussion; but being able, as the committee is, to void it by returning into the House ; for the moment it would resume the same subject there. the 20 th rule declares it again a qusi-committee. 5th. It would doubtless exercise its powers as a House on any breach of order. 6th. It takes a question by Yea and Nay as the House does. 7th. It receives messages from the President, and the other House. 8th. In the midst of a debate, it receives a motion to adjourn, and adjourns as a House, not as a committee.

SECTION XXXI.

BILLS, SECOND READING IN THE HOUSE.
In Parliament, after the bill has been read a second time, if on the motion and question, it be not committed, or if no proposition for commitment be made, the Speaker reads it by paragraphs, pausing between each, but putting no question but on amendments proposed ; and when through the whole, he puts the question, Whether it shall be read a third time! if it came from the other House. Or, if originating with themselves, Whether it shall be engrossed and read a third time? The Speaker reads sitting, but rises to put a question. The clerk stands while he reads.

But the Senate of the Enited States is so much in the habit of maine many and material amendments at a third reading, that it has become the practice not to engross a bill till i: has passed. An irregular and dangerous practice; because in this way the ypr which passes the Senate is not that which goes to the other House : as the act of the senate has never been in the Senate. In reducing numerous. dinticult and illegible amendments into the text, the secretary may, with the moz: innocent intentions, commit errors, which can never again be corrected.*

The bill being now as perfect as its friends can make it, this is the proper stage for those fundamentally opposed, to make their first attack. All attempts at other periods, are with disjointed efforts; because many who do not expect to be in favor of the bill, ultimately, are willing to let it go on to its perfect stage, to take time to examine it themselves, and to hear what can be said for it; knowing that, after all, ther hare sufficient opportunities of giving it their veto. Its two last stages, therefore, awe vesered for this, these is usually the ment inseret:on vores: ancuse t.en the whole subject is new and engaging, and the minds of the members having not yet been declared by any trying rote, the issue is the more doubtful. In this stage, therefore, it is the main trial of strength between its friends and opponents; and it behooves every one to make up his mind decisively for this question, or he loses the main battle; an accident and management may, and often do, prevent a successful rallying on the next and last question, Whether it shall pass.

SECTION XXXII.

READING PAPERS.

Where papers are laid before the House, or referred to a committee, every member has a right to have them read once at the table, before he can be compellei io vote on them. But it is a great, though common error, to suppose tha: in ins a right, toties quoties, to have acts, journals, accounts or paners, an the table, read independently of the will of the Housc. Tise delay and interruption

[^6]which this might be made to produce, erince the impossibility of the existence of such a right. There is, indeed, so manifest a propriety of permitting every membor to have as much information as possible on every question on which he is to vote, that when he desires the reading, if it be seen that it is really for information, and not for delay, the Speaker directs it to be read without putting a question, if no one objects. But if objected to, a question must be put.-Hats, 117, 118.

It is equally an error to suppose that any member has a right, without a question put, to lay a book or paper on the table, and have it read, on suggesting that it contains matter infringing on the privileges of the House.-2 Hats. 117, 118.

For the same reason, a member has not a right to read a paper in his place, if it be objected to, without leave of the House. But this rigor is never exercised but where there is an intentional or gross abuse of the time and patience of the House.

A member has not a right even to read his own speech, committed to writing, without leave. This, also, is to prevent an abuse of time; and therefore is not refused but where that is intended.- 2 Grey,227.

A report of a committee of the Senate on a bill from the House of Representatives being under consideration, on motion that the report of the committee of the House of Representatives on the same bill be read in the Senate, it passed in the ngative.-Feb. 28, 1793.

Formerly when papers were referred to a committee, they used to be first read, but of late, only the title; unless a member insists they shall be read, and then nobody can oppose it.-2 Hats.. 117.

SECTION XXXIII.

PRIVILEGED QUESTIONS.

When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received but to adjourn, to lie on the table, to postpone indefinitely, to postpone to a day certain, to commit or to amend; which several motions shall have precedence in the order they stand arranged, and the motion for adjournment shall always be in order, and be decided without debate.-Rule I1.
When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received but to adjourn, to lie on the table, for the previous question, to postpone to a day certain, to commit, or amend, to postpone indefinitely; which several motions shall have precedence in the order in which they are arranged; and no motion to postpone to a day certain, to commit, or to postpone indefinitely, being decided, shall be again allowed on the same day, and at the same stage of the bill or proposition. A motion to strike out the enacting words, of a bill shall have precedence of a motion to amend, and, if carried, shall be equivalent to its rejection.-Rules H. $R$. , 41.

It is no possession of a bill unless it be delivered to the clerk to be read, or the Speaker reads the title.-Lex. Parl., 274-Elsynge Mem., 65—Ord. House of Commons, 64.

It is a general rule that the question first moved and seconded, shall be first put.-Scob., 21, 22-2 Hats., 81. But this rule gires way to what may be called privileged questions; and the privileged questions are of different grade among themselves.

A motion to adjourn simply takes place of all others: for, otherwise the House might be kept sitting against its will, and indefinitely. Yet this motion cannot be received after another question is actually put, and while the House is engaged in roting.

Orders of the day take place of all other questions, except for adjournment. That is to say, the question which is the subject of an order, is made a pivilesed one pio hac vice. The order is a repeal of the general rule as io this special case. When any member moves, therefore, for the orders of the day to be read, no further debate is permitiec on the ciucstion which was before the House, for if the debate might proceed, it might continue through the day, and defeat the order. This motion, to entitle it to precedence, mus: be for the orders generally, and not for any particular one; and if it be carried on the question-" Whether the House will now proceed to the orders of the day?" they must be read and proceeded on in the course in which they stand.-2 Hats., 83. For priority of order gives priority of right, which cannot be taken away but by another special order.

After these, there are other pririleged questions, which will require considerable explanation.

It is proper that every parlamenary ascomb somh have certain forms of questons, so are a pose of every proposition mistit can we made to them. such are: 1. The previous question; 2. To postpone indefinitely; 3. To adjourn to a definite day; 4. To lie on the table ; 5. To commit ; 6. To amend.

1. When a proposition is moved which it is useless or inexpedient now to express or discuss, the previous question has been introduced for suppressing, for that time, the motion and discussion. 3 Hats., 188, 189.
2. But as the previous question gets rid of it only for that day, and the same proposition may recur the next day, if they wish to suppress it for the whole of that session, ther postpone it indefi-nitely.-3 Hats., 183. This quashes the proposition for that session, as an indefinite adjourmment is a dissolution, or the continuance of a suit sine die is a discontinuance of it.
3. When a motion is mate which it will be proper to act on, but information is wanted, or something more pressing claims the present time, the question or debate is adjourned to such a day within the session as will answer the riews of the House.-2 Hats., 81. And those who have spoken before, may not speak again when the adjourned debate is resumed.-2 Hats., 73. Sometimes, however, this has been abusively used, by adjourning it to a day beyond the session, to get rid of it altogether, as would be done by an indefinite postponment.
4. When the House has something else which claims its present attention, but would be willing to reserve in their power to take up a proposition whenerer it shall suit them, ibey order is to lie on their table. It may then be called for at any then.
5. If the proposition will want more amenciment and digestion than the formalities of the House will convenienty admit, they refer it to a committee.
6. But if the proposition be well digested, and may need but few and simple amendments, and especially if these be of leading consequence, they then proceed to consider and amend it themselves.

The Senate, in their practice, vary from this regular gradation of forms. Their practice, comparatively, with that of Parliament, stands thus.

For the Parliamentary, Postponed indefinitely, Adjournment, Lying on the table.

The Senate uses,
--Postm't to a day beyond the session. --Postm't to a day within the session. \{ Postponement indefinite. $\{$ Lying on the table.

In their 11th Rule, therefore, which declares, that while a question is before the Senate, no motion shall be received, unless it be for the previous question, or to postpone, commit or amend the main question, the term postponement must be understood according to their broad use of it, and not in Parliamentary sense. Their rule then establishes as privileged question, the previous question, postponement, commitment and amendment.

But it may be asked, Have these questions any privilege among themselves? or are they so equal that the common principle of the "first moved, first put," takes place among them? This will need explanation. Their competitions may be as follows:

| Prev. Qu. and postpone $\left.\begin{array}{c}\text { Commit } \\ \text { Amend }\end{array}\right\}$ |  | In the 1st, 2 d and 3 d classes, and the 1st member |
| :---: | :---: | :---: |
|  |  |  |
|  |  | of the 4th class the rule |
| 2. Postpone and Prev. Qu. |  | "first moved, first put, |
|  |  | takes place. |
|  | Amend |  |
| 3. Commit and Prev. Qu. $\left.{ }_{\text {Postpone }}\right\}$ |  |  |
|  |  |  |

In the 1st class, where the previous question is first moved, the effect is peculiar. For it not only prevents the after motion to postpone or commit from being put to question before it, but also from being put after it. For if the previous question be decided affirmatively, to wit, that the main question shall now be put, it would of course be against the decision to postpone or commit. And if it be decided negatively, to wit, that the main question shall not now be put, this puts the House out of possession of the main question, and consequently there is nothing before them to postpone or commit. So that neither voting for nor against the previous question will enable the advocates for postponing or committing to get at their object. Whether it may be amended shall be examined hereafter.

2d class. If postponement be decided affirmatively, the proposition is removed from before the House, and consequently there is no ground for the previous question, commitment or amendment. But if decided negatively, that it shall not be postponed, the main question may then be suppressed by the previous question, or may be committed or amended.

The 3d class is subject to the same observations as the 2 d .
The 4th class. Amendment of the main question first mored, and afterwards the previous question, the question of amendment shall be first put.

Amendment and postponement competing, postponement is first put, as the equivalent proposition to adjourn the main question would be in Parliament. The reason is, that the question for amendment is not stipmressed by postponing or adjourning the main question, but remains before the House whenever the main question is resumed, and it might be that the occasion for other urgent business might go bry, and be lost by length of debate on the amendment, if the House had it not in their power to postpone the whole subject.

Amendment and commitment. The question for committing though last moved, shall be first put; because in truth it facilitates and befriends the motion to amend. Scobcll is express-_" On a motion to amend a bill any one may, notwithstanding, move to commit it, and the question for commitment shall le tirst put."-Scob., 46.

We have hitherto considered the case of two or more of the privileged questions contending for privilece isewen themselves, when question, but on the seconsaz one, e. 8

Suppose a motion to posipoie, comint, or amend the main question, and that it be moved to suppress that motion by putting the previous question on it. This is not allowed, because it would embarrass questions too much to allow them to be piled on one another several stories high ; and the same result may be had in a more simple way, by deciding against the postponement, commitment or amendment. 2 Hats., 81, 2, 3, 4.

Suppose a motion for the previous question, or commitment or amendment of the main question, and that it be then mored to postpone the motion for the previous question, or for commitment or amendment of the main question: 1. It would be absurd to postpone the previous question, commitment, or amendment, alone, and thus separate the appendix from its principal ; yet it must be postponed separately irom its original, if at all; because the sth rule of the senate sars sas: when a main question is before the House, no motion shail be received but to commit, amend, or pre-question the original question; which is the Parliamentary doctrine; therefore the motion to postpone the secondary motion for previous question, or for committing or amending cannot be received. 2. This is piling of questions one on another, which, to avoid embarrassment, is not allowed: 3. The same result may be had more simply, by voting against the previous question, commitment, or amendment.

Suppose a commitment moved of a motion for the previous question, or to postpone or amend.

The 1st, 2 d and 3 d reasons before stated, all holl good against this.

Suppose an amendment morel in a motion for the previous question. Answer: The previous question cano: ive amended. Parliamentary usage, as well as 9 th Rule of the Senate has fixed its form to be, "Shall the main question be now put?" i. e. at this instant. And as the present instant is but one, it can admit of no modification. To change it to to-morrow, or any other moment, is without example and without utility. But suppose a motion to amend a motion for postponement, as to one day instead of another, or to a special instead of an indefinite time. The useful character of amendment gives it a privilege of attaching itself to a secondary and privileged motion. That is, we may amend a postponement of a main question. So we may amend a commitment of a main question, as by adding, for example, " with instructions to inquire," etc. In like manner, if an amendment be moved to an amendment, it is admitted. But it would not be admitted in another degree; to wit, to amend an amendment to an amendment of a main question. This would lead to too much embarrassment. The line must be drawn somewhere; and usage has drawn it after an amendment to the amendment. The same result may be sought by deciding against the amendment to the amendment, and then moving it again, as it was wished to be amended. In this form it becomes only an amendment to an amendment.

When motions are made for reference of the same subject to a select committee, and to a standing committee, the question on reference to the standing committee shall be first put.--Rule 35.

In filling a blank with a sum, the largest sum shall be first put to the question, by the 13 th Rule of the Senate," contrary to the rule of Parliament, which privileges the smallest sum and longest time.-5 Grey, 179-2 Hats., 8,83-3 Hats., 132, 133. And this is considered to be not in the form of an amendment to the question ; but as alternate or successive originals. In all cases of time or number we must consider whether the larger comprehends the lesser, as in a question to what day a postponement shall be, the number of a committee, amount of a fine, term of imprisonment, term of irredeemability of a loan, or the terminus in quem in any other case. Then the question must begin a maximo. Or whether the lesser includes the greater, as in questions on the limitation of the rate of interest, on what day the session shall be closed by adjournment, on what day the next shall commence, when an act shall commence or the terminus a quo in any other case where the question must begin a minimo. The object being not to begin at that extreme which, and more, being within every man's wish, no one could negative it, and yet if we should vote in the affirmative, every question for more would be precluded; but at that extreme which would unite few, and then to advance or recede till you get to a number which will unite a bare majority. $3 G_{v} \cdot y, 376,384,385$. "The fair question in this case is not that to which, and more, all will agree, whether there shall be addition to the question. - 1 Grey, 365 .

Another exception to the rule of priority is, when a motion has [^7]been made to strike out or agree to a paragraph. Motions to amend it are to be put to the question, before a vote is taken on striking out, or agreeing to the whole paragraph.

But there are several questions, which being incidental to every one, will take place of every one, privileged or not, to-wit, a question of order arising out of any other question, must be decided before that question.-2 Huts., SS.

A matter of privilege arising out of any question, or from a quarrel between two members, or any other cause, supercedes the consideration of the original question, and must be first disposed of.-2 Hots., ss.

Reading papers relatire to the question before the House. This question must be put before the original.-2 Hats., 88.

Leave asked to withdraw a motion. The rule of Parliament being, that a motion mrde and seconded is in possession of the House, and cannot be withdrawn without leare. the rery terms of the rule imply that leave may be giren, and consequently may be asked and put to the question.

SECTIOS NXN:

When any question is before the House, any member may move a previous question, "Whether that question (called the main questibn) shall now be put." If it pass in the affirmative, then the main question is to be put immediately, and no man may speak anything further to it, either to add or alter.-Memor. in Hakew., 284 Grey, 27.

The previous question being moved and seconded, the question from the chair shall be, "Shall the main question be now put?" and if the nays prevail, the main question shall not then prevail.--Rule 9 .

This kind of question is understood by Mr. Hatsell to have been introduced in 1604.-2 Hats., 80. Sir Henry Vane introduced it.2 Giey, 113, 111-3 Gicy, 384. When the question was put in this form: "Shall the main question be put?" A determination in the negative suppressed the main rastion during the session; but since the words " now put" are wect, tiey exclude it for the present only. Formerly, indeed, only : ini the present debate was over; 4 Grey, 43 ; but now for that day ani no longer.-2 Grey, 113, 114.

Before the question, "Whether the main question shall now be put," any person might formerly hare spoken to the main question, because otherwise he would be precluded from speaking to it at all. -Mem. in Hakerv., 28.

The proper occasion for the prerious question is, when a subject is brought forward of a delicate nature as io high rersonages, etc., or the discussion of which may call forth otesriations, which might be of injurious consequences. Then the previous question is proposed, and in the modern usaze. the disussea of the main question is suspended, and the debate conswei to the previous question.

The use of it has been extended abusively to other cases; but in these, it is an embarrassing procedure; its uses would be as well answered by other more simple Parliamentary forms, and therefore it should not be favored, but restricted within as narrow limits as possible.

Whether a main question may be amended after the previous question on it has been moved and seconded ?-2 Hatsell, 88, says, If the previous question has been mored and seconded, and also proposed from the Chair, (by which he means stated by the Speaker for debate,) it has been doubted whether an amendment can be admitted to the main question. He thinks it may, after the previous question moved and seconded; but not after it has been proposed from the Chair.

In this case he thinks the friends to the amendment must vote that the main question be not now put; and then move their amended question, which being made new by the amendment, is no longer the same which has been just suppressed, and therefore may be proposed as a new one. But this proceeding certainly endangers the main question, by dividing its friends, some of whom may choose it unamended, rather than lose it altogether; while others of them may vote, as Hatsell advises, that the main question be not now put; with a view to move it again in an amended form. The enemies of the main question, by this manoeuver to the previous question, get the enemies to the amendment added to them on the first vote, and throw the friends of the main question under the embarrassment of rallying again as they can. To support his opinion, too, he makes the deciding circumstance, whether an amendment may or may not be made, to be that the previous question has been proposed from the Chair. But as the rule is that the house is in possession of a question as soon as it is moved and seconded, it cannot be more than possessed of it by its being also proposed from the Chair. It may be said, indeed, that the object of the previous question being to get rid of a question which it is not expedient should be discussed, this object may be defeated by moving to amend, and in the discussion of that motion involving the subject of the main question. But so may the object of the previous question be defeated by moving the amended question, as Mr. Hatsell proposes, after.the decision against putting the original question. He acknowledges, too, that the practice has been to admit previous amendment, and only cites a few late instances to the contrary. On the whole I should think it best to decide it ad inconvenienti; to-wit, Which is the most inconvenient, to put it in the power of one side of the House to defeat a proposition by hastily moving the previous question, and thus forcing the main question to be put amended? or to put it in the power of the other side to force on, incidentally at least, a discussion which would be better avoided? Perhaps the last is the least inconvenience, in so much as the Speaker, by confining the discussion rigorously to the amendment only, may prevent their going into the main question; and insomuch also as so great a proportion of the cases in which the previous question is called for, are fair and proper subjects of public discussion, and ought not to be obstructed by a formality introduced for questions of a peculiar character.

SECTION XXXV.

AMENDMENTS.

On an amendment being mored, a member who has spoken to the main question mer speak again to the amendment.-Scob., 23.

If an amendment be proposed inconsistent with one already agreed to, it is a fit ground for its rejection by the House; but not within the competence of the Speaker to suppress, as if it were against order. For, were he permitted to draw questions of consistence within the rortex of order, he might usurp a negative on important modifications, and suppress, instead of observing the legislative will.

Amendments may be made so as totally to alter the nature of the proposition ; and it is a way of getting rid of a proposition by making it bear a sense different from what was intended by the movers, so that they vote against it themselves.-2 Hats., 79, 4, 82, 84. A new bill may be engrafted by way of amendment on the words, "Be it enacted," ete.-1 Gre\% $16 n .16 \cdot 2$.

 of the words of the amemment, whiti is equimatent to leaving them in the bill.-2 Hots., 80, 9. The Parliamentary question is always whether the words shall stand part of the bill?

When it is proposed to amend by inserting a paragraph, or part of one, the friends of the paragraph may make it as perfect as they can, by amendments, before the question is put for inserting it. If it be received it cannot be amended afterwards in the same stage, because the House has, on a vote, agreed to it in that form. In like manner, if it is proposed to amend by striking out a paragraph, the friends of the paragraph are first to make it as perfect as they can by amendment, before the question is put for striking it out. If, on the question, it be retained, it cannot be amended afterwards; because a rote against striking out is equivalent to a vote agreeing to it in that form.

When it is moved to amend herihing out certain words and inserting others, the manner of statige the question is, first to read the whole passage to be amended, as it stands at present, then the words proposed to be struck out ; next, those to be inserted; and lastly the whole passage as it will be when amended. And the question, if desired, is then to be divided, and put first on striking out. If carried, it is next on inserting the words proposed. If that be lost, it mar be moved to insert others.-2 Hats., 80, 7.

A motion is made to amend by striking out certain words and inserting others in their place, which is negatived. Then it is moved to strike out the same words and insert others of a tenor entirely different from those first proposed. It is negativeni. Then it is moved to strike out the same word and inser: nothing, which is agreed to. All this is admissable : because to strike out and in--sert $A$, is one proposition. To srike cu: and insert $B$, is a different proposition.

And to strike out and insert nothing, is still different. And the rejection of one proposition does not preclude the offering of a different one. Nor would it change the case were the first motion divided by putting the question first on striking out, and that negatived. For as putting the whole motion to the question at once would not have precluded, the putting the half of it cannot doit.*

But if it had been carried affirmatively to strike out the words and to insert A, it could not afterwards be permitted to strike out $A$ and to insert B. The mover B should have notified, while the insertion of A was under debate, that he would move to insert B. In which case, those who preferred it would join in rejecting $A$.

After A is inserted, however, it may be moved to strike out a portion of the original paragraph, comprehending A, provided the coherence to be struck out be so substantial as to make this effectively a different proposition. For then it is resolved into the common case of striking out a paragraph after amending it. Nor does anything forbid a new insertion, instead of $A$ and its coherence.

In Senate, January 25, 1798, a motion to postpone, until the second Tuesday in February some amendment proposed to the Constitution. The words, "until the second Tuesday in February," were struck out by way of amendment. Then it was moved to add "until the first day of June." Objected that it was not in order, as the question should first be put on the longest time; therefore a shorter time decided against, a longer cannot be put to question.

It was answered that this rule takes place only in filling blanks for time. But when a specific time stands part of a motion, that may be struck out as well as any other part of the motion; and when struck out a motion may be received to insert any other. In fact it is not till they are struck out and a blank for the time thereby produced, that the rule can begin to operate, by receiving all the propositions for different times, and putting the questions successively on the longest. Otherwise it would be in the power of the mover, by inserting originally a short time, to preclude the possibility of a longer; for until a short time is struck out you camnot insert a longer, and if, after it is struck out, you cannot do it, then it cannot be done at all. Suppose the first motion has been to amend, by striking out "the second Tuesday in February," and inserting instead thereof, "the first of June." It would have been regular then to divide the question, by proposing first the question to strike out, and then that to insert. Now this is precisely the effect of the present proceeding ; only instead of one motion and two questions, there are two motions and two questions to effect it ; the motion being divided as well as the question.

When the matter contained in two bills might be better put into one, the manner is to reject the one and incorporate its matter

[^8]into another bill by way of amendment. So, if the matter of one bill would be better distributed in to two, any part may be struck out by way of amendment, and put into a new bill. If a section is to be transposed, a question must be put on striking it out where it stands, and another for inserting it in the place desired.

A bill passed by the one House with blanks. These may be filled up by the other, by way of amendments, returned to the first, as such, and passed.-3 Hats., S3.

The number prefixed to the section of a bill being merely a marginal indication, and no part of the text of the bill, the clerk regulates that: the House or committee is only to amend the text.

SECTION XXXVI.

DIVISION OF THE QCESTION.

If a question contain more parts than one, it may be dirided into two or more questions.-MEin. in IFhlac. 29. But not as the right of an individual member, but with the $a=a$ ar Inowe. For tion is by moving amendments in it; and these must be decided by the House on a question, unless the House orders it to be divided; as on the question, Dec. 2,1640 , making void the election of the Knights for Worcester, on a motion it was resolved to make two questions of it, to-wit, one on each Knight.-2 Hats., 85, 86 . So whenever there are several names in a question they may be divided and put one by one.-9 Grey, 444. So 1729 , April 17, on an objection that a question was complicated, it was seperated by amendment. -2 Hats., 79, 5.

The soundness of these observations will be evident from the embarrassments produced by the $12 t h$ rule of the Senate, which says, "If the question in debate contain sereral points, any member may have the same divided; but on a motion to strike out and insert, it shall not be in order to move for a division of the Guestion: but the rejection of a motion to strike out and insert one proposition shall not prevent a motion to stike ont and insert a different proposition, nor prevent $a=u b s e q u e n t$ motion simply :o strike out; nor shall the rejection of a motion simply to strike out, p=ive: : $:=3$ insert."

1798, May 30, the alien bill in quasi-committee. To a section and proviso in the original, had been added two new provisos by way of amendment. On a motion io strike out the section as amended, the question was desired to be dirided. To do this, it must be put first on striling out either ine former proviso, or some distinct member of the section. But when noting remains but the last member of the section, and the pronis), aey canot be divided so as to put the last member to question by :tot: for the provisos might thus be left standing alone as exerens:o a rule when the rule is taken away; or the :ew artase be left to a second question, after having been deede one vefore at the same reading, which is contrary to rule. But the question must be on striking out the last member of the section as amended. This sweeps away the exceptions with the rule, and relieves from inconsistence. A question to be divisible, must comprehend points so distinct and entire, that one of them being taken away the other may stand entire. But a proviso or exception, with an enacting clause, does not contain an entire point or proposition.

May 31. The same bill being before the Senate. There was a proviso, that the bill should not extend, 1. To any foreign minister; nor 2. To any person to whom the President should give a passport ; nor 3. To any alien merchant, conforming himself to such regulations as the President shall prescribe; and division of the question into its simplest elements was called for. It was divided into four parts, the 4th taking in the words, "conforming himself," etc. It was objected that the words "any alien merchant" could not be separated from their modifying words, "conforming," &c., because these words, if left by themselves, contain no substantive idea, will make no sense. Butadmitting that the divisions of a paragraph into separate questions must be so made as that each part may stand by itself, yet the House having, on the question, retained the two first divisions, the words, "any alien merchant," may be struck out, and their modifying words will then attach themselves to the preceding description of persons, and become a modification of that description.

When a question is divided, after the question on the 1 st member, the 2 d is open to debate and amendment; because it is a known rule, that a person may rise and speak at any time before the question has been completely decided by putting the negative as well as the affirmative side. But the question is not completely put when the vote has been taken on the first number only. One half the question, both affirmative and negative, still remains to be put. -See Executive Jour., June 25, 1795. The same decision by President Adams.

SECTION XXXVII.

CO-EXISTING QEESTIONS.
It may be asked, whether the House can be in possession of two motions or proposition at the same time? So that, one of them being decided, the other goes to question without being moved anew. The answer must be special. When a question is interrupted by a vote of adjournment, it is thereby removed from before the House; and does not stand ipso facto before them at their next meeting, but must come forward in the usual way: so, when it is interrupted by the order of the day. Such other privileged questions also as dispose of the main question, (e.g., the previous question, postponement or commitment, ) remove it from before the House. But it is only suspended by a motion to amend, to withdraw, to read papers, or by a question of order or privilege, and stands again before the House when these are decided. None but the class of privileged questions can be brought formard while there is another question before the House; the rule being, that when a motion has been made and seconded, no other can be received, except it be a privileged one.

SECTION XXXVIII.

EQCITALENT QLESTIONS.

If, on a question for rejection, a bill be retained, it passes of course to its next reading.-Hakew., 141, Scob., 42, and a question for a second reading determined negatively, as a rejection without further question.-4 Grey, 149. And see Elsinge's Memor., 42, in what cases questions are to be taken for rejections.

Where questions are perfectly equivalent, so that the negative of one amounts to the affirmative of the other, and leare no other alternative, the decision of the one concludes necessarily the other. -4 Grey, 157. Thus the negative of striking out amounts to the affirmative of agrecing : and theson: $: \ldots$ a reestion on agree-two Houses. A motion io recede being negatived, does not amount to a positive rote to insist, because there is another alternative, towit, to adhere.

A bill originating in one House, is passed by the other with an amendment. A motion in the originating House, to agree to the amendment is negatived. Does this result from this vote of disagreement, or must the question on disagreement be expressly voted? The questions respecting amendments from another House are, 1st, To agree ; 2d, Disagree ; 3d, Recede ; 4th, Insist; 5th, Adhere.

1st. To agree. $\}$ Either of these concludes the other neces-
2 d . To disagree. $\int$ sarily for the positive of either is exactly the equivalent of the negative of the other, and no other alternative remains. On either motion amendments to the amendment may be proposed; e. $g$. if it be moved to disagree, those who are for the amendment have a right to propose amendments, and to make it as perfect as they can, before the question of disagreeing is pat.
3d. To recede. ) Tou may then either insist or adhere.
4th. To insist. You may then either recede or adhere.
5th. To adhere. Tou may then either eecede or insist.
Conseruently, the necatire of these is not equivalent to a posit:re rote, the other way. It does not raise so necessary an implication as may authorize the secetary inference to enter another roie; ion :ro alternatives still remain, either of which may be adopted by the House.

SECTION XXXIX.

THE QUESTION.

The question is to be put first on the affirmative, and then on the negative side.

After the Speaker has put the affirmative part of the question, any member who has not spoken before the question, may rise and speak before the negative be put. Because it is no full question till the negative part be put.-Scob., 23, Hats., 73.
But in small matters, and which are of course, such as receiving petitions, reports, withdrawing motions, reading papers, etc., the Speaker most commonly supposes the consent of the House, where no objection is expressed, and does not give them the trouble of putting the question formally.-Scob., 22-2 Hats., 87-5 Grey, 129, 9 Grey, 301.

SECTION XL.

BILLS, THIRD READING.

To prevent bills from being passed by surprise, the House, by a standing order, directs that they shall not be put on their passage before a fixed hour, naming one at which the House is commonly full.-Hakew., 153.

The usage of the Senate is, not to put bills on their passage till noon.
A bill reported and passed to the third reading, cannot on that day be read the third time and pass. Because this would be to pass on two readings on the same day. At the third reading the clerk reads the bill and delivers it to the Speaker, who states the title, that is the third time of reading the bill, and that the question will be, Whether it shall pass? Formerly, the Speaker, or those who prepared a bill, prepared also a breviate or summary statement of its contents, which the Speaker read when he declared the state of the bill at the several readings. Sometimes, however, he reads the bill itself, especially on its passage.-Hakew., 136 , 137, 153-Coke, 22, 115. Latterly, instead of this, he, at the third reading, states the whole contents of the bill, rerbatim; only instead of reading the formal parts, "Be it enacted, etc," he states that " the preamble cites so and so; the first section enacts that, etc., the second section enacts, ete."

But in the Senate of the United States, both of these formalities are dispensed with, the breviate presenting but an imperfect view of the bill, and being capable of being made to present a false one; and a full statement being a useless waste of time, immediately after a full reading by the clerk, and especially as every member has a printed copy in his hand.

A bill on the third reading, is not to be committed for the matter or body thereof; but to receive some particular clause or proviso, it hath been sometimes suffered, but as a thing very unusual. Hakew., 156 ; thus 27 El. , 1584 , a bill was committed on the third reading, having been formerly committed on the second; but is declared not usual.-D'Ewes, 127, col. 2,414, col. 2.

When an essential provision has been omitted, rather than crase the bill, and render it suspicious, they add a clause on a separate paper, engrosed and called a rider, which is read and put to the question three :imes-Frmers Memorials, 59-6 Grey, 335Blacks., 1s?, For exampe oi riders, see 3 Hats., 121, 122, 124, 126. Erery one is at liferiy to bring in arider without asking leave. 10 Gu\% 5 .

It is laid down as a ceneral rule, that amendments proposed at the second reading shail be twice read, and those proposed at the third reading thrice read: as also all amendments from the other House. -Town. col., 19, 23. 2.1, 2.5, 2․ 27, 23.

It is with great and almost invinciole reluctance, that amendments are admitted at this reading, which occasions erasures or interlineations. Sometimes the proviso has been cut off from a bill, sometimes crased..-? Grey, ils.

At this reading the bin is debated airest, and for the most part is more spoken to, at this time, than on any of the former read-ings.-Hakew., 153.

The debate on the question, Whether it should be read a third time? has discovered to its friends and opponents the arguments on which each side relies, and which of these appear to have influence with the House. They have had time to meet them with new arguments, and to put their old ones into new shapes. The former vote has tried the strength of the first opinion, and furnish grounds to estimate the issue; and the question now offered for its passage, is the last occasion which is ever offered for carrying or rejecting it.

When the debate is ended, the Speaker, holding the bill in his hand, puts the question for its passage, by saying, "Gentlemen, all who are of opinion that this bill shall pass, say aye," and after the answer of ares, "All those of contrary opinion say no."Hakcu., 154.

After the bill has passed there ca: be no further alteration of it in any point.-Hakev., 159.

SECTION SLI.

DITISION OF THE HOTSE.

The affirmative and negatire of the question having been both put and answered, the Speater declares riether the yeas or nays have it by the sound, if he be himself satiseed, and it stands as the judgment of the House. But if he le ant himself satisfied which roice is the greater, or if, before any other member comes into the House, or before any new motion is made, (for it is too late after that,) any member shall rise and declare himself dissatisfied with the Speaker's decision, then the Speaker is to divide the House.-Scob., 24-2 Hats., 140.

When the House of Commons is divided, the one party goes forth and the other remains in the House. This has made it important which go forth, and which remain; because the latter gain all the indolent, the indifferent, and inattentive. Their general rule, therefore, is, that those who give their vote for the preservation of the orders of the House, shall stay in, and those who are for introducing any new matter, or alteration, or proceeding, contrary to the established course are to go out. But this rule is subject to many exceptions and modifications-2 Rush., p. 3, fol. 62-Scob., 43, 52-Co., 12, 116-D'Ewes, 105, col. 1-Mem. in Hakew., 25, 29, as will appear by the following statement of who go forth:

The one party being gone forth, the Speaker names two tellers from the affirmative, and two from the negative side, who first count

[^9]those sitting in the House, and report the number to the Speaker. Then they place themselves within the door, two on each side, and count those who went forth, as they come in, and report the number to the Speaker.-Mem. in Hakelo., 26.
A mistake in the report of the tellers may be rectified after the report is made.-2 Hats., 14.5. Sote.

But in both Honses of Congress all these intricacies are avoided. The ayes first rise and are commed sandin their places, by the President or Speaker. They then sit, and the noes tiee ami are counted in like manner.
In Senat it the be eqtaty divided, tine Vice-President announces his opinion. whech decices.
The Cortitution, however, has directed that "the yeas and nays of the members of tither House, on any question, shall, at the desire of one-fifth of those present. be entered on the journal." And again, that in all cases of reconsidering a bill. disapproved by the President, and returned with his objections, "the rotes of both Houses shall be determined by the yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for and against the bill, shall be entered on the journals of each House respectively."
By the 16th and 17th rules of the Senate, when the yeas and nays shall be called for by one-fifth of the members present, each member called upon shall, unless for special reasons he be excused by the Senate, declare openly, and without debate, his assent or dissent to the question. In taking the yeas and nays and upon the call of the House the names of the maraser: betatem alphabetically.

 vote ater the dectsion thatanced foun the chat.

When it is proposed to take a you iy yen and nays, the President or Speaker states, that "The question is whether, $\epsilon$. $g$., the bili shall pass? That it is proposed that the yeas and nays shall be entered on the journal. Those, therefore, who desire it will rise." If he finds and declares that one-fifth have risen, he then states, that "those who are of opinion that the bill shall pass are to answer in the affirmative; those of the contrary opinion in the negative." The clerk then calls over the names alphabetically, notes the yea or nay of each, and gives the list to the President or Speaker, who declares the result. In Senate, if there be an equal decision, the Secretary calls on the Vice-President, and notes affirmative or negative, which becomes the decision of the House.

In the House of Commons every member must give his vote the one way or the other.-Scob., 24 . As it is not permitted to any one to withdraw, who is in the House when the question is put, nor is any one to be told in the division, who was not in when the question was put.-2 Hats., 140 .
This last position is always true when the vote is by yeas and nays; where the negative as well as the affirmative of the question is stated by the President at the s.:.: time, and the vote of both sides begins and proceeds pari 1, Is is true, also, when the question is put in the usual way, if the negative has also been put. But if it has not, the member entering, or any other member, may speak, and even propose amendments, by which the debate may be opened again, and the question greatly deferred. And, as some who have answered aye, may have been cinnged by the new arguments, the affirmative must be put orer again. If then, the member entering may, by speaking a few words, oceasion a repetition of the question, it would be useless to deny it oan his simple call for it.

While the House is telling, no member may sers or move out of his place; for if any mistake be supecta it inust be told again. -Mem. in Hakew., 26-2 Hats., 145.

If any difficulty arises in point of order, during the division, the Speaker is to decide, peremptorily, subject to the future censure of the House if irregular. He sometimes permits old, experienced members to assist him with their advice, which they do sitting in their seats, covered, to avoid the appearance of debate; but this can only be with the Speaker's leave, else the division might last several hours.-2 Hats., 143.

The voice of the majority decides. For the lex majoris partis, is the law of all councils, elections etc., where not otherwise expressly provided.-Hakew., 93. But if the House be equally divided, "semper presumatur pro negante;" that is, the former law is not to be changed but by a majority.-Towns, cot., 134.
But in Senate of the United States, the Vice-President decides, when the House is divided.-Const. U. S., Art. 1, Sec. 2.

When, from counting the House, on a division, it aprears that there is not a quorum, the matter continues exactly in the state in which it was before the division, and must be resumed at that point on any future day. Hats., 126.

1606, May 1, on a question whether a member having said Yea, may afterwards sit and change his opinion? A precedent was remembered by the Speaker, of Mr. Morris, attorney of the wards, in 39 Eliz., who in like case changed his opinion.-Mem. in Hakerv., 27.

SECTION XLII.

TITLE.

After the bill has passed, and not before, the title may be amended, and it is to be fixed by a question; and the bill is then sent to the other House.

SECTION XLIII.

RECONSIDERATION゙

When a question has been once made and carried in the affirmative or negative, it shall be in order for any member of the majority to move for the reconsideration thereof; but no motion for the reconsideration of any vote shall be in order after a bill, resolution, message, report, amendment or motion, upon which the vote was taken, shall have gone out of the possession of the Senate, announcing their decision; nor shall any motion for reconsideration be in order unless made on the same day on which the vote was taken, or within the two next days of actual session of the Senate thereafter.--Rule 20 .
1798, Jan. A bill on its second reading, being amended, and on the question whether it shall be read a third time negatived, was restored by a decision to reconsider the question. Here the votes of negative and reconsideration, like positive and negative quantities in equation, destroy one another, and are as if they were expunged from the journals. Consequently the bill is open for amendment, just so far as it was the moment preceding the question for the third reading. That is to say, all parts of the bill are open for amendment, except those on which votes have been already taken in its present stage. So also may it be recommitted.
The rule permitting the reconsideration of a question affixing to it no limitation of time or circumstances, it mar be asked whether there is no limitation? If, after the vote, the paper on which it has passed has been parted with, there can be no reconsideration; as if a vote hat ben for the passage ot a bill and the bill has been sent to the other House. But where the paper rem:ins. as on a bill rejected, when or under what circums:ances. does it cease to be susceptible of reconsideration? This remains to be settied, unless a sense that a right of reconsideration is a right to waste the time of the House in repeated agitations of the same question, so thatit shall never know when a question is done with, should induce them to reform this anamalous proceeding. ${ }^{\prime \prime}$.

In Parliament a question once carried, cannot be questioned again at the same session, but must stand as the judgment of the House. -Tymis col., 67-Mem. in Hakew., 33. And a bill once rejected, another of the same substance cannot be brought in again the same session.-Hakew., 158-6 Grey, 392. But this does not extend to prevent putting the same question in different stages of a bill; because every stage of a bill submits the whole and every part of it to the opinion of the House, as open for amendment, either by insertion or omission, though the same amendment has been accepted or rejected in a former stage. So in reports of committees, e. $g$. report of an address, the same question is before the may be discharged. So a i: B......: : er and there rejecied, may be ennom egan in the other, passed and sent back.-1b., 92-3 Hats., 161 . Or if, instead lof being rejected, they read it once and lay it aside, and put it off for a month, they may order in another to the same effect, with the same or a different title.-Hakew., 97, 98.

Divers expedients are used to correct the effects of this rule; as, by passing an explanatory act, if anything has been omitted or illexpressed, 3 Hats., 278 ; or an act to enforce and make more effectual an act, etc., or to rectify mistakes in an qet, etc., or a committee on one bill may be instructed to receive a clause to rectify the mistakes of another. Thus, June 24, 1685, a clause was inserted in a bill for rectifying a mistake committed by a clerk in engrossing a bill of reply.-2 Huts., 194, 6. Or the session mar be closed for one, two, three or more dars, and a new one commenced. But then all matters depending mus: be finished, or they fall, and are to begin de nowo.-2 Hats., g.t, as. Or a part of the subject may be taken up by another bill, or taken $\mathrm{in}_{\mathrm{p}}$ in a different way.-6 Grey, 304, 316.

And in cases of the last magnitude, this rule has not been so strictly and verbally observed as to stop indispensable proceedings altogether.-2 Hots., 92,98 . Thus, when the address on the preliminaries of peace, 1782 , had been lost by a majority of one; on account of the importance of the question, and smallness of the majority, the same question in substance, though with words not in the first, and which might change the oninion of some members, was brought on again and carried; as the motives ior it were thought to outweigh the objec:ion of form.-2 Inis., 91, 100.

A second bill may be passed, to continue an act of the same session ; or to enlarge the time limited for its execution.- 2 Hats., 95 , 98. This is not in contradiction to the first act.

SECTION XLIV.

BILLS SENT TO THE OTHER HOLSE.

Abstract

All bills passed in Senate shall, before they are sent to the House of Representatives, be examined by a committee, consisting of three members, whose duty it shall be to examine all bills, amendments, resolutions, or motions, before they go out of the possession of the Senate, and to make report that they are correctly engrossed, which report shall be entered on the journal.--Rule 33 .

A bill from the other House is sometimes ordered to lie on the table.-2 Hats., 97.

When bills passed in one House and sent to the other, are grounded on special facts requiring proof, as usual, either by message, or at a conference, to ask the grounds and evidence; and this evidence, whether arising out of papers, or even from the examination of witnesses, is immediately communicated. - 3 Hats., 48.

SECTION XLV.

AMENDMENTS BETWEEN THE HOUSES.

When either House, e. g. the House of Commons, sends a bill to the other, the other may pass it with amendments. The regular progression in this case is, that the Commons disagree to the amendment; the Lords insist on it ; the Commons insist on their disagreement; the Lords adhere to their amendment; the Commons adhere to their disagreement. The term of insisting may be repeated as often as they choose to keep the question open. But the first adherence by either, renders it necessary for the other side to recede or adhere also; when the matter is usually suffered to fall.-10 Grey, 148. Latterly, howerer, there are instances of their having gone to a second adherence. There must be an absolute conclusion of the subject somewhere, or otherwise transactions between the Houses would be endless. 3 Hats., 268, 270. The term of insisting, we are told by Sir John Trevor, was then [1679] newly introduced into parliamentary usage, by the Lords.-7 Grey, 94. It was certainly a happy innovation, as it multiplies the opportunities of trying modifications, which may bring the House to a concurrence. Either House, however, is free to pass over the term of insisting, and to adhere in the first instance.-10 Grey, 146. But it is not respectful to the other. In the ordinary Parliamentary course, there are two free conferences, at least, before adherence. -10 Grey, 147.
Either House may recede from its amendment, and agree to the bill; or recede from their disagreement to the amendment, and agree to the same absolutely, or with an amendment. For here the disagreement and receding destroy one another, and the subject stands as before the disagreement. Elsynge, 25, 27-9 Grey, 470.

But the House cannot recede from, or insist on, its own amendment with an amendment, for the same reason that it cannot send to the other House an amendment to its own act aiter it has passed the act. They may modify an amendment from the wier House by engrafting an amendment on it, because they have never assented to it; but they cannot amend their own amendment, because they have, on the question, passed it in that form.-9 Grey, $353-$ 10 Grey, 240. In Senate, March 29, 1798. Nor where one House has adhered to their amendment, and the other agrees with an amendment, can the first House depart from the form which they hare fixed by an adherence.
In the case of a money bill, the Lords' proposed amendments became, by delay, confessedly necessary. The Commons, however, refused them, as infringing on their privilege as to money bills, but they offered themselves to add to the bill a proviso to the same effect, which had no coherence with the Lords' amendments, and urged that it was an expedient warranted by precedent, and not unparliamentary in a case become impractic ble, and irredeemable fused, and the bill was las.-1 6 311. So the Comous resite tas at armameatary to strike out at a conference anyinige in atill wincin bas been agreed and passed by both Houses. 6 Gricy, 274-1 Chand., 312.

A motion to an amendment firom the other House, takes precedence of a motion to agree or disagree.
A bill originating in one House is passed by the other with an amendment.

The originating House agrees to their amendment with an amendment. The other may agree to their amendment with an amendment; that being only in the second and not the third degree. For as to the amending House, the first amendment with which they passed the bill is a part of its text; it is the only text they have agreed to. The amendment to that text by the originating House, therefore, is only in the first degree, and the amendment to that again by the amending House is only in the second, to wit; an amendment to an amendment, and so admissible. Just so when on a bill from the originating House, the other at its second reading, makes an amendment ; on the third reading, this amendment is become the tex: of the bill, and if an amendment to it be moved, an amendment to that amendment may also be moved, as being only in the second degree.

SECTION XLVI.

CONFERENCES.

It is on the occasion of amendments between the Houses that conferences are usually asked: bat they may athed in all cases of difference of opinion between the $: w i f o w s$ matters depending between them. The request of a conference, however, must always be by the House which is possessed of the papers.-Hats., 71.- 1 Grey, 425.

Conferences may be either simple or frec. At a conference simply, written reasons are prepared by the House asking it, and they are read and delivered without debate, to the managers of the other House at the conference; but are not then to be answered.3 Grey, 144. The other House then, if satisfied, rote the reasons satisfactory, or say nothing; if not satisfied they resolve them not satisfactory, and ask a conference on the subject of the last conference, where they read and deliver in like manner, written answers to those reasons.-3 Grey, 183. They are meant chiefly to record the justification of each House to the nation at large, and to posterity, and in proof that the miscarriage of a necessary measure is not imputable to them.-3 Grey, 255. At free conferences, the managers discuss viva voce, and freely, and interchange propositions for such modifications as may be made in a Parliamentary way, and may bring the sense of the two Houses together. And each party reports in writing to their respective Houses the substance of what is said on both sides, and it is entered in their journals.-6 Grey, 220-3 Hats., 280. (Vide Joint Rules, 1.) This report cannot be amended or altered as that of a committee may be.-Uour. Senate, May 24,1796.

A conference may be asked, before the House asking it has come to a resolution of disagreement, insisting or adhering. - 3 Hats., 269,341 . In which case the papers are not left with the other conferees, but are brought back to be the foundation of the vote to be given. And this is the most reasonable and respectful proceeding. For, as was urged by the Lords on a particular occasion, "it is held vain, and below the wisdom of Parliament, to reason or argue against fixed resolutions, and upon terms of impossibility to per-suade."-3 Hats., 226. So the Commons say "an adherence is never delivered at a free conference, which implies debate." 10 Grey, 147. And on another occasion the Lords make it an objection that the Commons had asked a free conference after they had made resolutions of adhering. It was then affirmed, however, on the part of the Commons that nothing was more Parliamentary than to proceed with free conferences after adhering, 3 Hats., 269 ; and we do, in fact, see instances of conference or free conference, asked after the resolution or disagreeing. 3 Hats., 251, 253, 260, $286,291,316,349$, of insisting, ib., 280, 299, 319, 322, 355, of adhering, $269,270,283,300$, and even of a second or final adhe-rence.- 3 Hats., 270 . And in all cases of conference asked after a vote of disagreement, etc., the conferees of the House asking it are to leave the papers with the conferees of the other; and in one case where they refused to receive them, they were left on the table in the conference chamber.-2 Hats., 271,317, 323, 354.-10 Grey, 146.

After a free conference, the usage is to proceed with free conferences, and not to return again to a conference.-3 Hats., 270.-9 Grey, 229.

After a conference denied, a free conference may be asked.-1 Grey, 45.

When a conference is asked, the subject of it must be expressed or the conference not agreed to.-Ord. H. Com.s9-1 Grey, 4257 Grey, 31. They are sometimes asked to inquire concerning an offense or default of a member of the other House-b Grey, 181-1 Chandler, 304 ; or the failure of the other House to present to the King a bill passed by both Houses, 8 Grey, 302, or on information received, and relating to the safety of the nation.-10 Gricy, 171; or when the methods of Parliament are thought by the one House to have been departed from by the other, a conference is asked to come to a right understanding thereon.- 10 Grey, 148. So, when an unparlimmentary mesage bas been sent, instead of answering it, they ask a confereace-:3 Girey, 155. Formerly, an address, or articles of impeacme:. $0:$ a bill with amendments, or a vote of the Howse, or concurrence in a vote, or a message from the King, were sometimes communcated by way of conference. 7 G Gey, 128, 300, 38i-T Grey. S0-s Grey, 210, 2.j-1 Twryneles D6b., 278 - 10 Grey, 293-Chandler, 49, 눈. But this is not the modern practice. -8 Grey, 255.

A conference has been asked after the first reading of a bill.1 Grey, 194. This is a singular instance.

Messages between the two Houses are only to be sent while both Houses are sitting.-3 Hats., 15. They are received during a debate without adjourning a debate.-3 Hats., 22.

In Senate, messengers are introduced in any state of business, except-1. While a question is putting. 2. While the yeas and nays are calling. 3. While the ballots are calling. The first case is short; the second and third are cases where any interruption might occasion errors difficult to be corrected.-Rule 46.
In the House of Representatives, as in Parliament, if the House be in a committee, when a messenger attends, the Speaker takes the chair to receive the message, and then quits it to return into a committee, without a question or interruption. -1 Grey, 226 .

Messengers are not saluted by the members, but by the Speaker, for the House.-Grey, 2053, 474 .

If the messengers commit an error in delivering their messages, they may be admitted or called in to correct their message. - 4 Grey, 41. Accordingly, March, 13th, 1800, the Senate having made two amendments to a bill from the House of Representatives, their seeretary by mistake delivered one only; which being inadmissible by itself̂, that House disagreed, and notified the Senate of their disagreement. This produced a discovery of the mistake. The secretary was sent to the other House to correct his mistake, the correction was received, and the two amendments acted on de novo.

As soon as the messenger who has brought bills from the other House has retired, the Speaker holds the bill in his hands and acquaints the House, "that the other House have by their messengers, sent certain bills," and then reads their titles, and delivers them to the clerk to be safely kept till they shall be called for to be read. -Hakew., 178.

It is not the usage of one House to inform the other by what numbers a bill has passed.- 10 Grey, 150. Yet they have sometimes recommended a bill as of great importance to the consideration of the House to which it is sent.-3 Hats., 25. Nor when they have rejected a bill from the other House, do ther give notice of it; but it passes sub-silentio to prevent unbecoming altercations.-1 Black., 133.

But in Congress the rejection is noticed by message to the House in which the bill originated.-Joint Rules, 12.

A question is never asked by the one House or the other, by way of a message, but only at a conference; for this is an interrogatory, not a message.-3 Giey, 151, 181.

When a bill is sent by one House to the other, and is neglected, they may send a message to remind them of it.- 3 Hats., 25 -Grey, 154. But if it be mere inattention, it is better to have it done informally, by communication between the Speakers, or members of the two Houses.

Where the subject of a message is of a nature that it can properly be communicated to both Houses of Parliament, it is expected that this communication should be made to both on the same day. But where a message was accompanied with an original declaration, signed by the party to which the message referred, it being sent to one House, was not noticed by the other, because the declarations being original, could not possibly be sent to both houses at the same time.-2 Hats., 260, 261, 262.

The King having sent original letters to the Commons, afterwards desires them to be returned that he may communicate them to the Lords.-1 Chandler, 303.

SECTION XLVIII.

ASSENT.

The House which has received a bill, and passed it, may present it for the King's assent, and ought to do it, though they have not by message, notified to the other their passage of it. Yet the notifying by message is a form which ought to be obserred between the two Houses, from motives of respect and good understanding-2 Hats., 243. Were the bill to be withheld from being presented to the King, it would be an infringement of the rules of Parliament. -2 Hats., 242.

When a bill has passed both Houses of Congress, the House last acting on it notifies its passage to the other, and delivers the bill to the joint committee on enrollment, who see that it is truly enrolled in parchment.- (Vide Joint Fules, 6). When the bill is enrolled, it is not to be written in paragraphs, but solidly and all of a piece, that the blanks within the paragraphs may not give room for forgery.-9 Grey, 143. It is then put in the hands of the clerk of the House of Representatives, to have it signed by the Speaker. The clerk then brings it by way of message to the Senate, to be signed by their President. Their Secretary of the Senate returns it to the committee on enrollment, who presentit to the President of the United States. - Vide Joint Rules, 8, 9. If he approves, he signs, and deposits it among the rolls in the office of the Secretary of State, and notifies by message the House in which it originated, that he has approved and signed it; of which that House informs the other by message. If the President disapproves, he is to return it. with his objections, to the House in which it shall have originated, who are to enter the objections at large, on their journal, and proceed to reconsider it. Ii afer sech reconsideration, two-thirds of the House shall agree to pass the bill. it shall be sent. together with the President's objections, to the other House bowe. it shall likewise be reconsidered, and if approved by two-thirds of tina Hotse, it shali become a law. If any bill shall not be returned by the Presicent within ten days (Sundays excepted), after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law, in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the Congress by their adjournment, prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a law.-Const. U. S., Art. 1, Sec. 7.

Every order, resolution, or vote, to which the concurrence of the Senate and House of Representatives may be necessary, (except on a question of adjournment), shall be presented to the President of the United States. and before the same shall take effect shall be approved by him, or being disapproved by him, shall be repassed by two-thirds of the Senate and Honse of Representatives. according to the rules and limitations prescribed in the c:es of a bill.-C'onst. U. S., Art. 1, Sec. 7.

SECTION NLIA.

JตCRM.Es.

Each Honse shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and from time to time publish the same, excepting such parts as may, in their judgment, require secrecy.Const. U. S., Art. 1, 5, 3.
The proceedings of the Senate, when not acting as in a committee of the House, shall be entered on the journals, as concisely as possible, care being taken to detail a true account of the proceedings. Every vote of the Senate shall be entered on the journals, and a brief statement of the contents of each petition, memorial, or paper, presented to the Senate, be also inserted on the journals.- Rule 32.
The titles of bills, and such parts thereof only as shall be affected by proposed amendments, shall be inserted on the journals.-Rule 31 .

If a question is interrupted by a vote to adjourn, or to proceed to the orders of the day, the original question is never printed in the journal, it never having been a vote, nor introductory to any vote; but when suppressed by the previous question, the first question must be stated, in order to introduce and make intelligible, the second.-2 Hats., 83.

So, also, when a question is postponed, adjourned or laid on the table, the original question, thoughnt ret a vote, must be expressed in the journals; because it makes part of the vote of postponement, adjourning, or laring on the table.

Where amendments are made to a question, those amendments are not printed in the journal, separated from the question, but only the question as finally agreed to by the House. The rule of entering in the journals only what the House has agreed to, is founded in great prudence and good sense; as there mar be many questions proposed which it may be improper to publish to the world, in the form in which they are made.- Hots., 85.

In both Houses of Congress, all ques:ions whezen= the weas and nays are desired, by one fifth of the members p

The first order for printing the votes of the House of Commons was October 30th, 1685.-1 Chandler, 387.

Some Judges have been of opinion that the journals of the House of Commons are no records, but remembrances. But this is not law.-Cob.. 110, 111-Lex. Parl., 114, 115-Jour. H. C., Mar. 17, 1592-Hale Parl., 105. For the Lords in their House, have power of judicature; the Commons in their House, hare power of judicature ; and both houses together have power of judicature ; and the book of the clerk of the House of Commons is a record, as is affirmed by act of Parliament.-6 $H$., $8 c$. 16-Inst., 23, 34 ; and every member of the House of Commons has a judicial place. 4 Inst., 15. As records, they are open to every person; and a printed note of either House is sufficient ground for the other to notice it. Either may appoint a committee to inspect the journals of the other, and report what has been done by the other in any particular case.- 2 Hats., 261-3 Hats., 27, 30. Every member has a right to see the journals, and to take and publish votes from them. Being a record every one may see and publish them.-6 Grey, 118, 119.

On information of a mis-entry or omission of an entry in the journal, a committee may be appointed to examine and rectify it, and report it to the House.-2 Hats., 19.t, 5.

SECTION L.

ADJOURNMENT.

The two Houses of Parliament have the sole, separate and independent power of adjourning, each their respective Houses. The King has no authority to adjourn them ; he can only signify his desire, and it is in the wisdom or prudence of either House to comply with his requisition or not, as they see fitting.-2 Hats., 332-1 Blackstone, 186-5 Grey, 122.

By the Constitution of the United States, a smaller number than a majority may adjourn from day to day.--1, 5. But neither House. during the session of Congress, shall without the consent of the other. adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other place than that in which the two Houses shall be sitting. $-1,5$. The President may, on extraordinary occasion, convene both Houses, or either of them, and in case of disagreement between them, with respeet to the time of adjournment, he may adjourn them to such time as he shall think proper.--Const. 11, . 3

A motion to adjourn, simply, cannot be amended, as by adding, "To a particular day." But must be put simply, "That this House do now adjourn ?" and if carried in the affirmative, it is adjourned to next sitting day, unless it has come to a previous resolution, "That at its rising it will adjourn to a particular day;" and then the House is adjourned to that day.-2 Hats., 82.

Where it is convenient that the business of the House be suspended for a short time, as for a conference presently to be held, etc., it adjourns during pleasure.-2 Hats., 305. Or for a quarter of an hour.-5 Grey, 331.

If a question be put for adjournment, it is no adjournment till the Speaker pronounces it.-5 Giey, 137. And from courtesy and respect no member leaves his place till the Speaker has passed on.

SECTION LI.

1 SESEION.

Parliament has three modes of separation, to wit: by adjournment, by prorogation or dissolution by the King, or by the efflux of the terin for which they were elected. Prorogation or dissolution constitutes there what is called a session; provided some act has passed. In this case, all matters depending before them are discontinued, and at their next meeting are to be taken up de now, if taken up at all.-1 Blackst., 186. Adjournment, which is by themselves, is no more than a continuance of the session from one day to another, or for a fortnight, a month, ad libituiz. All matiers depending remain in statu quo, and when the mees ags.a. bou tom ever so Parliamenis-Blackst., 186. Their whole session is considered in law but as one day, and has relation to the first day thereof.-Bro. $A b r$. Parliament, 86.

Committees may be appointed to sit during a recess by adjournment, but not by prorogation.-5 Grey, 374-9 Grey, 350-1 Chandler, 50. Neither house can continue any portion of itself in any Parliamentary function, beyond the end of the session without the consent of the two other branches. When done, it is by bill constituting them commissioners for the particular purpose.

Congress separate in two ways only, to wit, by adjournment or dissolution. by the effius of their time. What then constitutes a session with them? A dissolution certainly closes one session, and the meeting of a new Congress begins another. The Constitution authorizes the President, "On extraordinary occasions, to convene both Houses, ot either of them.--Art. 1, Sec. 1. If convened by the President's proclamation, this must begin a new session, and of course determine the preceding one to have been a session. So, if it meets under the clause of the Constitution, wila so. The Congress shall assemble at least once in every year, and such monern he on the first Monday of December, unless they shall by law appoint a dierat day."--I, 4 --this must begin a new session. For even if the last adjournm: was to this day, the act of adjournment is merged in the higher authority of the Constitution, and the meeting will be under that, and not under their adjournmont. So far we have ifxed landmarks for determining sessions. In other cases. it is declared by a joint vote authorizing the President of the Senate and the Speaker. to close the session on a fixed day, which is usually in the following form. Pesolved br the Senate and House of Representatives, that the President of tas Senate and Speaker of the House of Representatives, be authorized to close the peesent session by adjourning their respective Houses on the - day of -.."

When it was said abore that all matters deveniing before Parliament were discontinued by the demention withe session, it was not meant for judiciary cases depending ione the House of Lords, such as impeachments, appeals, and writs of error. These stand continued, of course, to the next session.—Raym., 120, 381—Ruffh. Jac. L. D. Parliament.

SECTION LII.

TREATIES.

The President of the United States has power, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, to make treaties, provided two-thirds of the Senators present concur.--Const. U. S., Art. 2, Sec. 2.
All confidential communications made by the President of the United States to the Senate, shall be by the members thereof, kept inviolably secret; and that all treaties. which may hereafter be laid before the Senate, shall also be kept secret until the Senate shall, by their resolution, take off the injunction of secre-cy.--Rule 38.

Treaties are legislative acts. $A$ treaty is the law of the land. It differs from other laws only as it must have the consent of a foreign nation, being but a contract with respect to that nation. In all countries, I believe, except England, treaties are made by the legislative power; and there also, if they touch the laws of the land, they must be approved by Parliament. Ware vs. Hylton.-3 Dallas' Rep., 199. It is acknowledged, for instanee, that the King of Great Britain cannot, by a treaty, make a citizen of an alien. Vattel, b. I c. 19, sec. 214. An act of Parliament was necessary to validate the American treaty of 1783. And abundant examples of such acts can be cited. In the case of the treaty with Utrecht, in 1712, the commercial articles required the concurrence of Parliament ; but a bill brought in for that purpose was rejected. France, the other contracting party, suffered these articles in practice, to be not insisted on, and adhered to the rest of the treaty. -4 Russel's Hist. Mod. Europe, 457-2 Smollett, 242, 246.

By the Constitution of the United States, this department of Jegislation is confined to two branches only, of the ordinary legislature: the President originating, and Senate having a negative To what subjects this power extends has not been defined in detail by the Constitution; nor are we entirely agreed among ourselves. 1. It is admitted that it must concern the foreign nation, party to the contract, or it would be a mere nullity, res inter alias acta. 2. By the general power to make treaties, the Constitution, must have intended to comprehend only those objects which are usually regulated by treaty, and cannot be otherwise regulated. 3. It must have meant to except out of these the rights reserved to the States; for surely the President and Senate cannot do by treaty what the whole Government is interdicted from doing in any way. 4. And also to except those subjects of legislation in which it gave a participation to the House of Representatives. This last exception is denied by some, on the ground that it would leave rery little matter for the treaty to work on. The less the better, say others. The Constitution thought it wise to restrain the Executive and Senate from entangling and embroiling our affairs with those of Europe. Besides, as the negotiations are carried on by the Executive alone, the subjecting to the ratification of the Representatives such artieles as are within their participation, is no more inconvenient than to the Senate. But the ground of this exemption is denied as [^10]unfounded. For example, the treaty of commerce with France; and it will be found that out of thirty-one articles, there are not more than small portions of two or three of them which would not still remain as subjects of treaties, untouched by these exceptions.

Treaties being declared, equally with the laws of the United States, to be the supreme law of the land, it is understood that an act of the Legislature alone can declare them infringed or recinded. This was accordingly the process adopted in 'the case of France, in 1798.

It has been the usage of the Executive, when it communicates a treaty to the Senate for their ratification, to communicate also the correspondence of the negotiations. This having been omitted in the case of the Prussian treaty, was asked by a vote of the House, of February 12, 1800 , and was obtained. And in December, 1800, the Convention of that year between the United States and France, with the report of the negotiations, with the Envoys, but not their instructions, being laid before the Senate, the instructions were asked for, and communicated by the President.
The mode of voting on questions of ratifications, is by nominal clll.
Whenever a treaty shall be laid before the Senate for ratification, it shall be read a first time for information only ; when no motion to reject, ratify, or modify the whole or any part shall be received.
Its second reading shall be for consideration; and on a subsequent day, when it shall be taken up as in a committee of the whole, and every one shall be free to move a question on any particnlar article, in this form: "Will the Senate advise and consent to the ratification of this article," or propose amendments thereto, either by inserting or leaving out words, in which last case the question shall be, "Shall the words stand part of the article?" And in every of the said cases, the concurrence of two-thirds of the Senators present shall be required to decide affirmatively. And when through the whole, the proceedings shall be stated to the House, and questions be again severally put thereon for confirmation, or new ones proposed, requiring in like manner a concurrence of two-thirds for whatever is retained or inserted.
The votes so confirmed shall, by the House or a committee thereof, be reduced into the form of a ratification with or without modification. as may have been decided, and shall be proposed on a subsequent day, when every one shall again be free to move amendments, either by inserting or leaving out words ; in which last case the question shall be, "Shall the words stand part of the resolution ?" And in both cases the concurrence of two-thirds shall be requisite to carry the affirmative, as well as on the final question to advise and consent to the ratification in the form agreed to.-Rule 37.
When any question may have been decided by the senate, in which two thirds of the members present are necessary to carry the affirmative, any member who voted on that side which prevailed on the question, may be at liberty to move for a reconsideration; and a motion for reconsideration shall be decided by a majority of votes. -Rule 42.

SECTION LIII.

IMPEACHMENT.

The Honse of Representatives shall have the sole power of impeachment.Const. U. S., Art. 1, Sec. 3.
The Senate shall have the sole power to try all impeachments. When sitting for that purpose, they shall be on oath or affirmation. When the President of the United States is tried, the Chief Justice shall preside; and no person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present. Judgment in cases of impeachment, shall not extend further than removal from office and disqualification to hold and enjoy any office of honor, trust or profit, under the United States. But the party convicted shall nevertheless be liable and subject to indictment, trial, judgment, and punishment, according to law.--Const. $U$. S., Art. 1, Sec. 3.

The President, Vice President, and all civil officers of the United States, shall be removed from office on impeachment for, and conviction of treason, bribery, or other high crimes or misdemeanors.-Const. U. S. Art. 2, Sec. 4.
The trial of crime, except in cases of impeachment, shall be by jury.--Const. U. S. Art. 3, Sec. 2.

These are the provisions of the Constitution of the United States on the subject of impeachments. The following is a sketch of some of the principles and practices of England, on the same subject:

JURISDICTION.

The Lords cannot impeach any to themselves, nor join in the accusation, because they are judges.-Seld. Judic. in Parl., 12, 63. Nor can they proceed against a commoner, but on the complaint of the Commons. Id., 84. The Lords may not, by the law, try a commoner for capital offence, on the information of the King, or a private persore; because the accused is entitled to a trial by his peers generally; but on accusation by the House of Commons, they may proceed against the delinquent of whatsoever degree, and whatsoever be the nature of the offence; for there they do not assume to themselves trial at common law. The Commons are then instead of a Jury, and the judgment is given on their demand, which is instead of a verdict. So the Lords do only judge, but not try the delin-quent.-Id., 6, 7. But Wooddeson denies that a commoner can be charged capitally before the Lords, even by the Commons; and cites Fizharris's case, 1681, impeached of high treason, where the Lords remitted the prosecution to the inferior courts. 8 Grey's Deb., 325, 6, 7-2 Wooddeson, 601, 576-3 Seld., 1610, 1619, 1641-4 Black., 257-3 Seld., 1604, 1618, 9, 1656.

ACCUSATION.

The Commons, as the grand inquest of the nation, becomes suitors for penal justice.-2 Woodd., 597-6 Grey, 356. The general course is to pass a resolution, containing a criminal charge against the supposed delinquent, and then to direct some member to impeach him by oral accusation, at the bar of the House of Lords, in the name of the Commons. The person signifies that the articles will be exhibited, and desires that the delinquent may be sequestered from his seat, or be committed, or that the Peers will take order for his appearance.-Sachev. Trial, 325-2 Woodd., 602, 605-Lords' Jour., 3 June, 1701-1 Wms., 616-6 Grey, 324.

PROCESS.

If the party do not appear, proclamations are to be issued, giving him a day to appear. On their return, they are strictly examined. If any error be found in them a new proclamation issues, giving a short day. If he appear not, his goods may be arrested, and they may proceed.-Seld. Jud., 98, 99.

articles.

The accusation (article) of the Commons, is substituted in place of an indictment. Thus, by the usage of Parliament in impeachment for writing or speaking, the particular words need nott be specified.—Sach. Tr., 325-Woodd., 602, 605-Lords' Jour., 3 June, 1701-1 Wms., 616.

There may be a replication，rejoinder，etc．Seld．Jud．，114－8 Grey＇s Deb．，233—Sach．Tr．，15－Jour．H．of Commons， 6 March， 1640， 1.

WITNESSES．

The praactice is to swear the winesses in open House，and then examine them there ；or a committce may be named，who shall ex－ amine them in committee，either on interrogatories agreed on in the House，or such as the commmittee，in their discretion，shall de－ mand．－Seld．Jud．，120， 123.

JURY．

In the case of Alice Pierce， $1 R$ ．，2，a jury was empanneled for her trial before a committee．－Scld．Jud．，12．But this was on a complaint，not an impeachment by the Commons．－Seld．Jud．， 163. It must have also been for a misdemeanor naly，as the Lords Spirit－ ital cases．－Seld．Jud．，148．The jucgment was a forfeiture of all her lands and goods.—Seld. Jud., 188. This, Seldon says, is the only jury he finds recorded in Parliament for misdemeanors, but he makes no doubt, if the delinquent doth put himself on the trial of his country, a jury ought to be empanncled; and he adds that it is not so on impeachment by the Commons; for they are in loco proprio, and here no jury ought to be empanneled. Id. 124. The Lord Berkley, 6 E., 3, was arraigned for the murder of L. 2, on an information on the part of the King, and not an impeachment of the Commons, for then they had been patria sua. He waived his peerage, and was tried by a jury of Gloucestershire and Warwickshire. Id., 125. In one, $1 H .7$, the Commons protest that they are not to be considered as parties to any judgment given or hereafter to be given in Parliament.-Id. 133. They have been generally, and more justly considered, as is before stated, as the grand jury. For the conceit of Seldon is certainly not accurate, that they are the patria sua of the accused, and that the Lords do only judge, but not try. It is undeniable that they do try. For they examine witnesses as to the facts, and acquit and condemn according to their own belief of them. And Lord Hale says, "The Peers are judges of law as well as of fact." 2 Hale, P. C., 275. Consequently of fact as well as of law.

PRESENCE OF COMMONS.

The Commons are to be present at the examination of witnesses. Seld. Jud., 124. Indeed, they are to attend throughout, either as a committee of the whole House ; or otherwise, at discretion, appoint managers to condact the proofs.-Rushw., Tr. of Straff., 37-Com. Journ., 4 Feb., 1709, 10-2 Wood., 614. And judgment is not to be given till they demand it.-Seld. Jud., 124. But they are not to be present on impeachment when the Lords consider of the answer or proofs, and determine of their judgment. Their presence, however, is necessary at the answer and judgment in cases capital. $l d$. 58,159 , as well as not capital, 162. The Lords debate the judgment among themselves. Then the vote is first taken on the question of guilty or not guilty; and if they conrict, the question, or particular sentence, is out of that which seemeth to be most generally agreed on.-Seld. Jud., 167-2 Woodd., 612.

JUDGMENT.

Judgments in Parliament for death, have been strictly guided per legem terrox, which they cannot alter; and not at all aecording to their discretion. They can neither admit any part of the legal judgment nor add to it. Their sentence must be secundum, non ultra, legem. Seld. Jud., 168, 169, 170, 171. This trial, though it varies in external ceremonies, yet differs not in essentials from criminal prosecutions before inferior courts. The same rules of evidence, the same legal notions of crimes and punishments, prevail. For impeachments were not framed to alter the law, but to carry it into more effectual execution against too powerful delinquents. The judgment, therefore, is to be such as is warranted by legal principles or precedents.-6 Sta. Tr., 14-2 Wood., 611. The Chancellor gives judgments in misdemeanor ; the Lord High Steward formerly, in cases of life and death.-Seld. Jud., 180. But now the Steward is deemed not necessary.-Fost., 144,-1 Wood., 613. In misdemeanors the greatest corporeal punishment hath been im-prisonment.-Scld. Jud., 184. The King's assent is necessary in capital jupgments, (but 2 Wood., 614, contra,) but not in misde-meanors.-S'eld. Jud., 136.

CONTINUANCE.

An impeachment is not discontinued by the dissolution of Parliament, but may be resumed by the new Parliament.-T. Ray,383 -5 C'om. Jour: 23 Dec. 1790.—Lord's Jour. May 16, 1691.—2 Wood., 618.

RULES AND ORDERS OF THE SENATE.

Calling senate to order.

1. The Lieutenant Governor of the State, who, by the 8th Section of the 5th Article of the Constitution, is constituted ex officio President of the Senate, shall, when present, take the chair at the hour fixed for the mecting of the Senate, when he shall immediately call the members to order, who shall thereupon take their seats, and continue with their heads uncovered, while the Senate remain in session; the clerk shall call the roll of members, and as soon as a majority is present, the journal of the preceding day shall be read, to the end that any mistake may be corrected.

DUTIES OF PRESIDEAT.

2. The President shall preserve order and decorum ; may speak to points of order in preference to other members, rising from his seat for that purpose; and shall decide points of order, subject to an appeal to the Senate by any member.

TEMPORARY PRESIDENT.

3. The President shall have the right to name any member to perform the duties of the chair temporarily, who shall be invested, during such time, with all the powers of the President; but no member shall be excused from voting on any question by reason of his occupying the chair; nor shall such substitute's authority, as presiding officer, extend beyond a day's adjournment of the Senate.

PRESIDENT PRO TEM.

4. In the absence or inability of the President, except as provided in rule three, the Senate shall appoint a President pro tempore, who shall possess all the powers and prerogatives of the President of the Senate for the time being.

COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE.

5. Whenever the Senate determines to go into committee of the whole, the President shall name one of the members as chairman, who shall, for the time being be invested with all the authority of the presiding officer of the Senate.

DCTIES OF THE PRESIDENT.
6. The President shall appoint all committees, unless otherwise directed, he shall sign all acts, memorials, addresses and resolutions; and all writs, warrants and subpœenas, that may be issued by the Senate, shall be signed by him, and attested by the Clerk.

DISTERBANCES IN LOBBY.

7. Whenerer any disturbance or disorderly conduct shall occur in the lobbr, the President (or chairman of the committee of the whole) shall hare power to cause the same to be cleared of all persons except the members and officers of the Senate.

QUESTIONS-HOW STATED AND DECIDED.

S. Questions may be stated by the President while sitting, but he shall rise to put a question, and shall use this form: "As many as are of the opinion that [as the question may be.] will say aye;" and after the affirmative voice is expressed. ${ }^{*}$.ls many as are of a different opinion, will sar no." If the peesident doubt as to the President shall appoint two tellers, one from each side, to make the count and report the same to the President, who shall declare the same to the Senate.

QUORUMS.

9. A majority of all the members elected to the Senate, must be present to constitute a quorum for the transaction of ordinary business; three-fifths of all the members elected to the Senate, must be present to constitute a quorum for the passage of appropriation bills, as provided by the constitution of the State; a smaller number, however, can adjourn from time to time, and have power to compel the attendance of absent members.

LEATE OF ABSENCE.

10. No member or officer of the Enate, unless from illness or other cause he shall be unable to aries. shall absent himself from the sessions of the Senate during an entire day, without first having obtained leave of absence.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

11. Any committee required or entitled to report upon a subject referred to them, mar make a majority and minority report; any member of such committee dissenting in whole or in part, from either the conclusions or the reasoning, of both the majority and minority, shall be entitled to present to the Senate a brief statement of the reasons for such dissent, which, if decorous in its language, and respectful to the Senate, shall be eatered on the journal in connection with the majorisy an m:ao: $:=$ reports.

CLERK-ELECTION OF, AND DUTIES.

12. A Clerk shall be elected at the commencement of each session, to hold his office at the pleasure of the Senate, he shall keep a correct journal of the daily proceedings of the Senate, and perform such other duties as may be assigned to him; he shall superintend the recording of the journal of proceedings, the engrossing, enrolling, transcribing, and copying of bills, resolutions; ete.; shall permit no records nor papers belonging to the Scnate to be taken out of his custody, otherwise than in the regular course of business; shall report any missing papers to the notice of the President; and generally shall perform, under the direction of the President, all duties pertaining to his office as Clerk.

SERGEANT-AT-ARMS

13. A Sergeant-at-Arms shall be elected at the commencement of each session to hold his office at the pleasure of the Senate. It shall be his duty to execute all orders of the President of the Senate, and to perform all duties they may assign to him, connected with the police and good order of the Senate Chamber; to exercise a supervision over the ingress and egress of all persons to and from the chamber; to see that messages, etc., are promptly executed, and the requisite fires are kept up during the appropriate season ; and to perform all other services pertaining to the post of Sergeant-at-Arms.

COMMITTEES.
14. The following standing committees shall be elected by the Senate at such time as may be designated, unless otherwise directed:

 RULES AND ORDERS OF THE SENATE.22. No member shall vote on any question in any case where he was not in the chamber of the Senate when the question was put, unless by leave of the Senate; nor shall any member be counted, upon a division and count of the Senate, who shall be without the chamber at the time.

EVERY SENATOR TO VOTE UNLESS EXCCSED.

23. Every member who may be within the Senate chamber when the question is put, shall give his vote unless the Senate shall excuse him from voting. When a question is being taken, or about to be taken, it shall be competent for any member to call for the ayes and noes, which shall be entered on the journal. All motions to excuse a member from voting shall be made before the call of ayes and noes is commenced; and any Senator wishing to be excused from voting, may briefly and pertinently explain his reasons therefor, before the call of ayes and noes is commenced; but when the ayes and noes are being taken, the call shall not be interrupted for any purpose whatever.
24. When a motion is made and seconded, it shall be stated by the President, or, being in writing, it shall be handed to the Chair, and read aloud before debate.
25. Every motion shall be reduced to writing, if the President or any member desire it.
26. After a motion is stated by the President, or read by the clerk, it shall be deemed to be in possession of the Senate, but may be withdrawn or altered at any time before a decision or amendment, on leave of the Senate.
27. When a question is under debate, no question shall be in order, except to adjourn, to send for papers for reconsideration, to reconsider, to lay on the table, for the previous question, to postpone to a day certain, to commit, to amend, to strike out the enacting clause, or postpone indefinitely; and these several motions shall have precedence in the order in which they herein stand arranged. But a motion to postpone to a day certain, to strike out the enacting clause, or postpone indefinitely, shall not again be in order on the same day, or at the same stage of the proposition.
28. A motion to adjourn shall be alwars in order, except as restricted by the "previous question." A motion to adjourn, to lay on the table, to take a recess, shall be decided without debate.

THE PREVIOUS QUESTION.
29. The "previous question" shall be put in this form: "Shall the main question be now put?" It shall only be admitted when sustained by a majority of the members present. and shall preclude amendments and further debate, until the main question shall have been disposed of. The "main question" shall be the original proposition and pending amendments. When the Senate shall have determined that the main question shall not now be put, the pending subject shall be considered as remaining under debate. And may be proceeded with and determined upon in the same manner as though the previous question had not been mored. When the Senate shall have determined that the main question shall now be put, its effect shall be to bring the Senate to a direct rote-first on pending amendments in their order, and then on the main question, without debate or further amendment. But after the previous question has been sustained, and prior to the Senate haring determined that the main question shall now be put, a motion to adjourn, and a call of the Scnate, shall each be once in order; but no further motion or call shall be in order, except to receive the report of the Sergeant-at-Arms, or dispense with proceedings under the call; and all motions and proceedings authorized by this rule, shall be decided without debate, whether on appeal or otherwise.

RECONSIDERATION.

30. It shall be in order for any member who roted in the majority on any question, for any member who roted in the negatire, when the Senate was equally divided, to move a reconsideration of such vote, on the same or next succeeding day that the Senate shall be in session ; and such motion shall take peecedence of all other questions, except a mntina in adman. it:ation soconsider having been put and > DIfision of etasioni.

31. Any member may call for a division of the question, when the same shall admit of it. A motion to strike out being lost, shall not preclude an amendment, nor a motion to strike out and insert.
32. In presenting a petition, memorial, remonstrance or other communication, addressed to the Senate or Assembly, the member shall only state the general purport of it.

PAPERS TO BE READ BEFORE PRESENTED.

33. A member offering a resolution or an amendment to a bill, resolution or memorial, shall first read the same in his place, before presenting it to the President; and every petition, memorial, remonstrance, resolution, bill and report of committee, shall be endorsed with its appropriate title: ind immediately under the endorsement, the name of the memer presenting the same shall be written.

CAll of the sevite.
34. Any three members mar make a call of the Senate and require absent members to be sent for, but a call of the Senate cannot be made after the voting has commenced; and the call of the Senate being ordered, the doors shall be closed, and the absentees noted, and no member permitted to leave the room until the report of the Sergeant-at-Arms be received and acted upon, or further proceedings in the call be suspended, or the Senate adjourn. Previous to the reception of such report, further proceedings in the call shall not be suspended, excep: a $\because \because=2$ of $i w o-t h i r d s$ of the members present.

COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE.

35. The rules observed in the Senate shall rovern, as far as practicable, the proceedings in committee of the whole, except that a member may speak oftener than twice on the same subject, and that a call of the ayes and noes, or for the previous question cannot be made in committee.
36. Amendments made in committee of the whole shall be entered on a separate piece of paper, and reported to the Senate by the Chairman, standing in his place on the floor of the Senate. All amendments and other propositions reported by committee of the whole, shall be disposed of in the same manner as if proposed in the Senate.

introduction of bills.

37. All bills and resolutions shall be introduced by motion for leave, or after one day's previous notice, or upon report of committees. And all bills, when introduced, shall be endorsed with the name of the member or committec.
38. Every bill, memorial, or joint resolution requiring the signature of the Governor shall receive three several readings previous to its passage. But no such bill or memorial, or joint resolution, shall receive a second and third reading on the same day.

commitments.

39. No bill or joint resolution shall be committed or amended until it has been twice read. If objections are raised to the bill on its first reading, the question shall be, "Shall the bill be rejected?" If no objection be made, or the question to reject be lost, the bill shall go to its second reading.

COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE TO CONSIDER ALL BILLS

40. All bills and joint resolutions, requiring the approval of the Governor, shall, on a second reading, be considered in committee of the whole, before they shall be acted upon by the Senate, and those originating in the Senate, except resolutions not requiring the approval of the Governor, and except appropriations or local bills, before being considered in committee of the whole, shall be printed unless otherwise ordered by the Senate.

COPIES TO BE PRINTED.

41. Two hundred and forty copies of erery bill, joint resolution, or memorial, of a general nature, shall be printed after the second reading, unless otherwise ordered ; and no bill of a private or local nature shall be printed unless ordered; and all bills, resolutions and amendments, after being printed, shall remain at least one day on the files before being considered.

ENGROSSMENT OF BILLS.

42. The final question upon the second reading of erery bill or other paper, originating in the Senate, and requiring three readings previous to being passed, shall be, "Shall it be engrossed and read the third time $\because$, And upon every such bill or paper originating in the Assembly, "Shall it be ordered to a third reading?"

AMENDMENTS ON THIRD READING.

43. After a bill has been read a third time, no amendment shall be in order, except to fill blanks, without the unanimous consent of the Senate, unless, on commitment, such amendments shall have been reported by a committee, in which case, after amendments so reported shall have been disposed of, the question shall be the same as was pending before the reference, unless otherwise ordered by the Senate. A bill, resolution, or memorial, may be committed at any time previous to its passage.

53. A motion to adjourn, to lay on the table, and a call for the previous question, shall be decided without debate. And all incidental questions of order, arising after a motion is made for either of the questions named in this rule, and pending such motion, shall be decided, whether on appeal or otherwise, without debate.

JOTIONS NOT TO BE RENEWED.
54. A motion to postpone to a day certain, to commit, or to postpone indefinitely, being decided, shall not be again allowed on the same day, and at the same stage of the bill or proposition.

MOTIONS, HOW STATED, ETC.

55. When a motion is made, it shall be stated by the Speaker, or read by the Clerk, previous to debate. If any member require it, all motions (except to adjourn, postpone or commit,) shall be reduced to writing. Any motion may be withdrawn, by consent of the Assembly, before division or amendment.

QUESTIONS, HOW PCT.

56. All questions shall be put in this form : "Those who are of opinion (as the case may be,) say Aye. Those of contrary opinion say, No." And in doubtful cases any member may call for a division.

AYES AND NOES, WHEN TAKEN.

57. It shall be competent for one-sixth of the members present, when a question is taken, to order the yeas and nays, which shall be recorded by the Clerk.

Members to vote giless excused.

58. Every member present, when a question is put, or when his name is called, shall vote, unless the Assembly shall, for special cause, excuse him; but it shall not be in order for a member to be excused after the house has commenced voting.

DIVISION OF A QUESTION.

59. Any member may call for the division of a question, which shall be divided, if it comprehend propositions, in substance so distinct, that, one being taken away, a substantive proposition shall remain for the decision of the Assembly. A motion to strike out and insert shall be deemed indivisible; but a motion to strike out being lost, shall preclude neither amendment, nor a motion to strike out and insert.

COMMITTAL OF PAPERS.
60. Bills, reports and motions may be committed at the pleasure of the Assembly.

MANUAエOE  CUSTOMS, PRECEDENTS AND FORMS.

ORGANIZATION.

The legislature convenes at 12 o'clock, M., on the second Wednesday in January in each year.

Custom, so prevalent and so ancient as to have the force of law, has made it the duty of the Chief Clerk of the previous Assembly to call to order, and to conduct the proceedings generally, until a Speaker is chosen.

The Secretary of State furnishes to the Clerk a certified statement of the names of the members elect, which is read. The members then advance to the Clerk's desk, generally the delegation of each county by itself, and subscribe the oath of office.

It often happens, that by neglect of the proper county officer, to return the proceedings of the county canvassers, some members find their election not to be on record in the Secretary's office. In such case, the certificate held by the member himself, should be produced to the Clerk. This answers every purpose, and should always be secured by members elect, from the clerk of their county.

The oath of office is then administered to the members elect. It may be administered by the Speaker, the President of the Senate, the Governor, Secretary of State, Attorney General, or any of the Judges of the Supreme Court. It has been administered in this State, usually, by one of the Judges. Members coming in after the first day of the session are sworn in by the Speaker.

After all are sworn, the roll is called, when, if a quorum is found present, the clerk declares the House to be qualified and competent to proceed to business.

If the parties in the Assembly have determined their choice for officers, the election proceeds forthwith; if not, an adjournment is had until the next day.

The election for Speaker, Clerk and Scrgeant-at-Arms, is required to be viva voce, and these are the only officers which the Assembly can fill.

The roll is called, and each member announces audibly the name of the candidate of his choice.

The Clerk announces the result, and names a committee to conduct the Speaker elect to the chair ; the other elections proceed in the same manner, except that when the result is announced by the Speaker, the officer elect adrances to the Clerk's desk and is sworn in by the Speaker.

A committee is then appointed to wait on the Senate, and inform them that the Assembly is organized; or the Clerk is directed, by resolution, to inform the Senate of the fact.
A Joint Committee of both Houses is then appointed to convey a like message to the Governor, and inform him that the Houses are in readiness to receive anr communication from him.
The Senate and Assemblr hare usually assembled in Joint Convention, in the Assembly Chamber, upon some day and hour suggested by the Governor; during the first week of the session, to hear his annual message.
The message has been read sometimes by his Private Secretary and sometimes by the Clerk of one of the Houses.

At the first opporiuas: 5 after hearing the message read, the various recommendations therein contained, are referred, by resolution, to appropriate standing committees, or select committees.
Standing committecs ace appointed br the Speaker at as early a day in the session as is possible. They consist of five members to each committee, except that on railroads, which consists of nine members, the Joint Commitioe on Printing, and the Joint Committee on Local Laws, which consist of three...an'es encl.

DRAWING OF SEATS.

The drawing of seats by lot has been observed since the Assembly first took possession of the new Assembly Chamber.

The method heretofore pursued is as follows:
The members leave their seats, and take places in the open area behind the seats.

The Clerk having placed in a box, slips of paper containing the names of the members respectively, a page or messenger draws them therefrom.
The Clerk announces each name as it is drawn, and the member named selects his seat, and occupies it until the drawing is completed.

COMPENSATION.

148

 CUSTOMS, PRECEDENTS AND FORMS.and Clerk, as to the proper sum to which each member is entitled.
The members are entitled to per diem due them, whenever demanded. Since 1862, members have received their per diem certificates from the Chief Clerk at regular interrals of twenty days; which course is preferable on many accounts to the former method of drawing certificates only when demanded by members.

PAY OF OFFICERS.

Chapter 136, General Laus 1860.

Section 1. There is hereby annually appropriated, out of any money in the State Treasury not otherwise appropriated, a sum sufficient to pay the per diem of officers of the Legislature, as follows: To the Chief Clerks, each, five dollars; to the Assistant Clerks, and Sergeant-at-Arms, each, four dollars; to all other Clerks, Postmaster and Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms, each, three dollars; to the Assistant Postmaster, Doorkeeper and firemen, each two dollars and fifty cents; to all Messengers, each, one dollar and fifty cents.

Sec. 2. The per diem hereby established shall only be allowed from the commencement to the adjournment of the Legislature, and each of the officers mentioned in this act is hereby authorized to receive his per diem from the Treasury on the certificate of the presiding officer of their respective Houses, as to the number of days attendance.

DUTIES OF OFFICERS.

Speaker-The duties of this officer are generally as follows:
To open the session at the time to which the Assembly is adjourned, by taking the chair and calling the members to order.

To announce the business before the Assembly in the order in which it is to be acted upon;

The Book-Keeper-It is his special duty:

1. To keep the register of Bills, Resolutions, Memorials, etc., showing therein, and opposite to each title, all action taken and proceedings had, with regard to such paper.
2. To distribute to the proper committee, or officers, all bills, petitions and other papers referred.
3. To make out all certificates for per diem and mileage, ready for the signature of the Speaker and Clerk.
4. To prepare the Messages to be delivered to the other House, and when not otherwise occupied to help the Assistant Clerk in the performance of his duties.

The Engrossing Clerk-It is his special duty:

1. To engross all bills ordered to a third reading which the rules require to be engrossed, properly placing all amendments adopted prior to the order for their engrossment.
2. By the direction of the Chief or Assistant Clerk, to perform any necessary service appertaining to the duties of the other deputies.

The Enrolling Clerk-It is his special duty:
To make clear, legible copies of all bills which have been concurred in, without erasures or interlineations.

The Transcriblag Clerk-It is his special duty:
To copy the record of the proceedings of the Assembly into a book prepared for that purpose.

GENERAL REGULATIONNS.

1. Each Deputy, when not occupied in the performance of his own special duties, is to render such assistance to the Clerk and to his associate deputies as may be in his power, or as the pressure of duties in a particular department may render necessary.
2. The Deputies are expected to notify the Chief Clerk of any interference by members or others with their duties, and of all improper approaches or requests made to them by any person. They are not to exhibit to any person any bill or other document in their official possession without leave of the Chief Clerk.
3. Perfect courtesy must at all times be maintained towards members, reporters, associate deputies, and all who have business to transact with the department; and interference with legislation cannot be allowed under any circumstances.
to Members, officers and reporters.
It is especially requested that no member, officer or reporter will interrupt the Assistant Clerk while engaged in keeping the journal.
"No journal, record, account or paper" of any kind, must be taken from the desk, unless by express permission of the Clerk.

Sergeant-at-Arms.-This officer is the executive officer of the House. He has charge of the post office and other appurtenant conveniences of the Assembly. He controls the police regulations, attends to the warming of the chamber, serves the subponas and warrants of the Assembly, announces messages from the Governor and from the Senate, provides rooms for committees, receives from the Superintendent of Public Property all public documents ordered or coming in due course, and distributes the same through the post office, or otherwise, to members and officers entitled thereto. He is to organize his depar:ment with such system that each of his subordinates shali know his precise duties, and he is to see that each performs his duty promptly, thoroughly and courteously. He is required to keep the Chamber open from 8 o'clock A. M. to 10 o'clock P. M.

He should have the printed bills and other documents in his possession so classified and arranged that he can at once answer any call upon him for them. His assistant assists him generally in the discharge of his duties, and takes his phace when le is absent.

The Postmasten atiende to the receptend centery of all mail matter coming to memisers and otiicers of the Assembly. Each member has a box in the Assembly post office, in which his mail matter is deposited ; and the Postmaster must, by himself or assistant, be at his post from $8 o^{\prime}$ clock A. M. until $10 o^{\prime}$ 'clock P. M., and until the adjournment of the Assembly for the day. He receives and forwards all mail matter deposited in his office by members or officers, in time to be mailed from the Madison post office. He is to prominently post in the cloak and hat room (which is the members' side of the post office) a notice of the hours of closing the Assembly mails. He is entitled to the exclusive use of the post office, and no one ought to be admitted thereto except the Sergeant-at-Arms and the Speaker.

The Assistant Postmaster brings the mail to and from the Madison Post office, and assists the Postmaster generally in his duties.

The Doorfeeper attends to the principal door; opens and closes it for the entry and exit of all persons; maintains order in the lobby and vestibule; sees that visitors are seated, and that the regulations of the House, in his department, are strictly enforced. For the proper discharge of this office, both patience, courtesy and firmness are required.

The Assistant Doorkefpers-Each at their respective stations, are to discharge the same duties as the principal Doorkeeper.
They must be in attendance as well during the recess as the sessions of the Assembly, to keep out intruces, and maintain order.

The Fireman attend to the warming and ventilation of the Assembly Chamber, and, under direction of the Sergeant-at-Arms, make themselves generally useful.
The Postmasters, Doorkeepers and Firemen are appointed by the Sergeant-at-Arms, and are responsible to him. He is to see that they perform their duties faithfully.
The Messengers are appointed by the Speaker, except those in particular attendance upon the Chief Clerk and Sergeant-at-Arms, who are appointed by said officers respectively.

DUTIES OF MESSENGERS.

1st. To be in attendance from 8 o'clock A. M., until 10 o'clock P. M., every day, (Sunday's excepted,) whether the Assembly is in session or not.

2d. To receive the Journals and printed bills from the Sergeant-at-Arms, and arrange them in order on the file of each member.

3d. Not to leave the Assembly Chamber during the morning hour, or absent themselves from the sessions of the Assembly during an entire day, except upon leare of the Speaker or Clerk.

4th. During the morning hour to take the positions assigned to them by the Clerk; and, standing up, so as to see and be seen, hold themselves in readiness to bring all bills, resolutions, etc., from the several members to the Clerk, when presented.

5 th. After the expiration of the morning hour, and when not engaged in filing bills, etc., for the members they have in charge, to answer promptly any call, and render assistance to any member requiring it.

6th. To refrain from throwing any paper balls, darts, or other missile, to move lightly across the Assembly Chamber, and demean themselves respectfully towards every member and officer of the Assembly.

STATIONERY.

The Superintendent of Public Property furnishes to each member of the Assembly, and to the Chief Clerk and Sergeant-at-Arms, a uniform outfit of stationery, comprising foolscap, letter and note paper, envelopes, a gold pen and case, a pocket pencil, a good penholder, and several common penholders, a box of steel pens, an inkstand, a mucilage bottle, an eraser, a pocket knife, a ruler, etc., etc., for which a receipt must be given.

Whatever else a member or officer desires, must be ordered, in writing, of the Superintendent, who charges the order to the person making it, and reports the same, when required, either to the Governor or Legislature. But under the law of 1859, as amended in 1865, no member can order more stationery than will amount to $$ 30$.

NEWSPAPERS.

The Secretary of State, at the commencement of each session of the Legislature, furnishes each member with a blank order, upon which the member designates the names of the newspapers, and the number of each, which he wishes to take, as provided for by Chapter 16, General Laws, 1861, which is as follows:
Sec. 1. Members of the Legislature, the Lieutenant Governor, the Chief Clerk and Sereant-at-Arms of the Senate, and the Chief Clerk and Sergeant-at-1tms of the Assembly, are hereby authorized, during each session of the Legislature, to take such newspapers as each mar choose, at the expense of the State, at a cost not to exceed twenty dollars to each menser and officer named, for the session.
Sec. 2. Members of the Lema, and the oficers named in the preceding section, shal ach with the Secretary of State a list of such papers as he maze weste to have ordered in his behalf; and it is made the duty of the Secretary of State to order the papers named in such lists, to be sent in the mewhers officers desir-

POST OFFICE ARRANGEMENTS.

The Assembly post office is in charge of a Postmaster appointed by the Sergeant-at-Arms. Each member has a separate box; and all mail matter deposited with the Postmaster is sent to the Madison post office by the Post Office Messenger, at regular hours, corresponding with the hours of closing the mails at the Madison office.
It is the custom for members to prepay all their mail matter, with postage stamps, which the Assembly orders, from time to time, by resolution, from the Superintendent.

PROCESS OF PASSING BILLS.

Some diversity of practice exists herein, bu: the ordinary method in the Assembly is as follows:

A member having prepared a bill and endorsed the title thereof, together with his name, upon the back of it, rises to his feet, at such time as the introduction of bills is in order, and says :

> "Mr. Speaker:"

If recognized, the Speaker responds:
"The gentleman from

The member announces:

"I ask leave to introduce a bill."
The bill is then sent to the Chief Clerk by a messenger. The Clerk then reads the title of the bill, and the Speaker announces:
"First reading of the bill."
If no objection is made, the Clerk reads the bill at length, if it is a bill appropriating money; if not, by its title only; when the Speaker announces:
"Second reading of the bill."
And refers the same to some standing committee, suggested by the member, or if desired, to a select committee ; or to the General File, or, as is usual, the Speaker of his own motion, makes the reference to such committee as seems to him appropriate.

The bill is, in due course, reported back to the Assembly, by the committee, when it is placed in what is called the General File.

Bills in the General File are considered in Committee of the Whole in the exact order in which they are placed upon the file. Proceedings in Committee of the Whole will be elsewhere considered.

After a Committee of the Whole has completed its action upon any bill, and reported the same back to the Assembly, and any recommendations made by the committee passed upon, it is taken up in its order, when the Speaker puts the following question:
"Shall this bill be engrossed, and read a third time?"
If decided affirmatively, the bill is sent by the Chief Clerk to the Engrossing Clerk for engrossment. Upon its return engrossed, the original and engrossed bills are placed in the hands of the committee on engrossed bills, who compare them and correct any errors which they may find. When found correct, or made so, the committee report them to the House, as correctly engrossed, when the original is filed by the Chief Clerk, and the engrossed bill goes into the order of "Bills ready for a third reading."

When, under the order of business, the bill is reached, the bill, (unless it appropriates money) is read by its title, when the Speaker says as follows:
"This bill having been read three several times, the question is, shall the bill pass?"

If the bill passes, it is taken to the Senate, with a message announcing its passage by the Assembly, and desiring the concurrence of the senate therein.
Going through with a similar process in the Senate, it is returned with a message announcing their action upon it.
If the Senate concurs, the bill is sent to the Enrolling Clerk, who makes a copy thereof, as is elsewhere described. When enrolled, it goes to the Committee on Enrolled Bills, who compare it with the engrossed bill ; when found or made correct, they report the bill to the Assembly as correctly enrolled ; the engrossed bill is filed by the Chief Clerk; the enrolled bill is then endorsed by the Chief Clerk as having originated in the Assembly, (for the information of the Governor, in case he vetoes it), then it is signed by the Speaker, and taken with a message to the Senate, desiring the signature of the President of the Senate thereto. The Committee on Enrolled Bills of the two Houses, acting jointly, then present the bill, duly signed, to the Governor, for his approval, and report that fact to the House. The Governor if he approves the bill, informs the House in which it originated, of that fact; and that he has deposited it with the Secretary of State.

This is the ordinary process of a bill throwen a!l its stages, until it becomes a law. A bill of greas meeest matance, or one which is warmly contested, mar, by reason of majority and minority reports, special orders, re-commitment, amendments, substitutes, committees of conference, and rarious other Parliamentary appliances, pass through a vast variety of stayes not before enumerated.
Senate bills coming into the Assembly, after passing the Senate, are read twice by title, (unless they appropriate money, when they must be read at length), and then referred to the appropriate committee.
After consideration in Committee of the Whole, the recommendation of the committee is acted upon in the Assembly-the question being, after recommendations are disposed of,
"Shall this bill be ordered to a third reading."
If it is decided affirmatively, the bill passes into the order of "Bills on third reading;" and when reached in that order, the question is,
"Shall this bill be concurred in?"
If concurred in, the bill is returned to the Senate, with the message informing it of that fact.
If it is desired to hasten the passage of the bill, it is done by motion as follows:
"I move to suspend all rules which will interfere with the immediate passage of Bill No.
If this motion prevails, which requires an afirmative rote of twothirds of the members present, the member who desires the immediate passage of the bill may at once more that the bill do pass; and if passed, it will go at once to the Enate.

COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE.

The Committee of the Whole is an expedient to simplify the business of legislative bodies. No record is made of its proceedings, and it has no officers, except its own creation, for temporary purposes. It is liable to instant dissolution in case of disorder, when the speaker takes the chair to suppress it-in case of lack of quorum, when the Speaker takes the chair for a call of the House, or an adjournment, and in case of a message from the Senate or Governor, when the Speaker takes the chair to receive it.
The House may resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole, upon some particular bill, resolution or subject, or it may go into Committee of the Whole upon the General File of Bills. In the first case, the motion is, "That the Assembly do now resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole upon [Bill No. - A., a bill - ] or [Joint Resolution No. --, A., providing, etc.] or [upon all bills relating to --] as the case may be."

In the second case it is,
"That the Assembly do now resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole upon the General File of bills."

Bills, resolutions and general matters which hare been once considered in Committee of the Whole, and in which progress has been made and leave granted for further consideration, have the preference. The motion of the Committee of the Whole, for their further consideration must be made under the head of "Bills in which the Committee of the Whole have made progress and obtained leave to sit again"; and in which case the member who presided when the same matter was previously considered in Committee of the Whole, resumes the chair.

The motion for the Committee of the Whole upon the General File, must be made under the order of "Bills not yet considered in Committee of the Whole."

When the Assembly resolves itself into Committee of the Whole, the Speaker selects a Chairman as follows:
"The Gentleman from —_, Mr. __, will take the Chair."
The appointed Chairman advances to the Speaker's desk and having taken the chair, receives from the Clerk the papers indicated by the motion for the committee, when the Chairman announces:
"Gentlemen:-The committee have under consideration, Bill No. - entitled , (reading the title from the back of the bill.) Or in case of consideration of the General File, (The committee have under consideration the General File of Bills: the first in order is Bill No. -, A., entitled --).
"The first section is as follows:"
The Chairman then reads the first section, and asks-
"Are there any amendments proposed to the first section?"
If none are offered, the Chair says:
". No amendments being offered to the first section, the second section will be read."

This process is continued through the whole bill, when, at the close of the reading the Chairman says:
"The -th section and the whole bill have now been read, and are open to amendment."

At this point, after the friends of the bill have perfected it, it is customary for the opponents of the bill to open their attack.

After the discussion of the bill to such an extent as may be desired, if no amendments are made, the final vote is generally upon a motion-
"That the bill be reported back to the House, without amendment."
If any other bills are before the committee, they are proceeded with in the same manner. If it is desired to have further consideration of any matter before the committee, or if the General File has not been gone through with, the motion is,
" That the commiter rise ven:
If the commitiee has completed its cuates, the motion is,
"That the committee rise and report."
Which being analagous to a motion to adjourn, is not debatable. The Chairman states the matter as follows:
"It is moved that the committee do now rise and report [or otherwise as the case may be]." case may be]."
"Is the committee ready for the question?"
"GENTLEMEN:-Those who are of opinion that this committee do now [rise and report,] say Aye; those of a contrary opinion, say No.

In case of doubt a division must be had, as the ayes and noes cannot be called in Committee of the Whole.

When the committee rises, the Speaker resumes his seat, and the Chairman, in his place on the floor, reports as follows:
"Mr. Speaker."
The Speaker answers-
"Mr. Chairman."
Who reports-
"The Committee of the Whole have had under consideration Bill No. 一, A., entitled - $"$, and have instructed me to report the same to the House with amendment," [or as the case may be.]

When the General File has been under consideration, the report is as follows:

158 CUSTOMS, PRECEDENTS AND FORMS.

[^14]In case the file has been left unfinished, the report is-
"The Committee of the whole have had under consideration the General File of bills, and have made some progress therein. I am directed to report back the following bills, with the amendments and recommendations hereinafter specified, and ask leave for the committee to sit again. [Here follows the report of amendments, etc., as above.]

On the latter report, the question is-
"Shall leave be granted?"
When, upon a count, it is ascertained that a quorum is not present, the report is-
"The Committee of the Whole have had under consideration —, and after some progress therein, find there is no quorum present; that fact I herewith report to you."

In case of confusion or disorder, the Speaker, of his omn accord, resumes the chair temporarily, and without any formality, for the purpose of suppressing it. When order is restored, the Chairman resumes the chair, and the business proceeds.

Upon the coming in of a report, the recommendations are at once acted on by the Assembly.

When, in Committee of the Whole, any member desires to offer an amendment, it must be reduced to writing and sent to the Chairman, who reads it, and asks-"Is the committee ready for the question upon the amendment $!$ "
And if no further amendment or debate offer, he puts the question in the usual manner.

After a section is once passed, with an unsuccessful effort to amend it, no further amendments are in order. The strictness of this rule is, however, not always adhered to-an amendment once made, may, however, be reconsidered. Such a motion is-"That the amendment offered by the gentleman from ——, to the -th section, be reconsidered."

And is stated as follows:
"The gentleman from ——moves that the amendment of the gentleman from ——, to the --th section, be reconsidered.
"Is the committee ready for the question?
"Those who are of the opinion that said amendment be reconsidered, say Aye; those of a contrary opinion, say No."

In case the amendment is reconsidered, the Speaker says:
"The motion is carried. The amendment is reconsidered. The question now recurs upon the adoption of the amendment. Is the committee ready for the question?" etc.

FORMS.

Of Titles:

INVESTIGATIONS.

When an investigation is required into any matter, the person most interested in having the inquiry made, should move the appointment of a committee to take the subject in charge. This is done by resolution. The resolution should be so drawn as to state the precise subject to be investigated, and to give the committee all the power which the mover may deem necessary to a thorough examination into the subject matter to be laid before them; this should be done to prevent any misapprehension as to the intention and extent of the inquiry to be made. In case of the adoption of the resolution, the mover, together with other members, will be appointed a committee. They have power to send for persons and papers. The form of a subpœena is as follows:
"The State of Wisconsin,
To -
" You are hereby commanded, that, laying aside all business and excuse, you personally appear and attend before Messrs. - on the part of the Senate, and on the part of the Assembly, a joint committee appointed under a resolution of the Senate and Assembly, to investigate at at the room of said committee - in the city of Madison, the capital of the State, on the - day of , A. Sergeant-at-Arms of the Assembly."
A resolution declaring the defaulter to be in contempt, is the next proceeding.

The following form for such resolution was used at the session of 1858:

Resolved, That the neglect or failure of $\qquad$ to appear before the joint investigating committee, composed of Messrs. $\qquad$ of the Senate, and $\qquad$ Assembly, in compliance with the mandate of the writ of subpena of this As sembly, served upon him on the - instant. as fully appears by the said writ and the aflidavit of the service themen ensed thereon, now on file with the Chief Clerk of this House, be, and the semelect and failure is hereby declared

This is followed by an interrogatory, as follows:

Interrogatory 1.-Why did you not appear befure the joint investigating committee, as required by the mandate of the sitipana served upon you on the inst.?

To which the defaulter pleads before judgment is inflicted. Another form is as follows:
"Resolved, That the refusal of —— to answer the carations pat to him by a member of the joint investigating committee. on the -insant. and which questions were certified to the House br-charman ande committee; and are

Followed by the corresponding interrogatory:
"Why did you not answer the question put er propounded to you on the- is instant, by a member of the joint investigating committee, of which chairman?"

In case the answer is satisfactory, the offender is discharged; if otherwise, he is punished by reprimand, fine or imprisonment, or both; but such imprisonment cannot extend bejond the session of the legislature.

The report of a committee of investigation should consist of three parts:

1. The testimony taken;
2. A statement of the facts proven thereby, or conclusions derived therefrom :
3. Resolutions, or a bill providing for the action which the committee deem proper to be taken in the premises.

DEPARTIIENTS OF GOVERNMENT.

1.-EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

The President is the Chief Executive Officer of the United States, and his duties are defined by the Constitution.

The Cabinet, who hold their offices at the will of the President, are composed of the Secretaries of State. the Treasury, Interior, War, and Sary: Posimaster General and Attorney General.

2.-DEPARTMENT OF STATE.

The Secretary of State is aided by two Assistant Secretaries and a Chief Clerk; the latter, as his title imports, supervises the labors of all the clerks of the department.

The Diplomatic Branch has charge of all correspondence between the department and other diplomatic agents of the United States abroad, and those of foreign powers accredited to this government.

The Consular Braych has charge of the correspondence, etc., between the department and the consuls and commercial agents of the United States.

The Disbursing Agent has charge of all matters connected with accounts relating to any fund disbursed by the department.

The Translator furnishes suca manslations as the department may require, and records the commisionas of consuls and vice-consuls, when not in English, upon which exequaturs are issued.
The Clerk of Appontments and Cominsions makes out and records commissions, letters of appointment, nominations to the Senate, exequaturs, and records, when in English, the commission on which they are issued, and has charge of the library.

The Clerk of Rolls ayd Archives takes charge of the enrolled acts and resolutions of Congress as they are received from the President; prepares authenticated copies thereof; superintends their publication, and that of treaties; attends to their distribution, and that of all documents and publications in regard to which this duty is as. signed to the department; mriting and answering all letters connected therewith; has charge of all Indian treaties, and business relating thereto.

The Clerk of Authentications has charge of the seals of the United States and of the department, and prepares and attaches certificates to papers presented for authentication; receives and accounts for the fees; records all letters from the department, other than diplomatic and consular.

The Clerk of Pardons and Passports prepares and records pardons and remissions; and registers and files the papers on which they are founded, and makes out and records passports.
The Bureau of Emigration, recently established, is also connected with the State Department.

3.-TREASURY DEPARTMENT.

The Secretary of the Treasury, aided by two Assistant Secretaries, is charged with the general supervision of the fiscal transactions of the government, and the execution of the laws concerning commerce and navigation, the survey of the coast, the light-house establishment, the internal revenue, the currency, and loans; the marine hospitals of the United States, and the construction of certain public buildings for custom-houses and other purposes.

The First Comptroller prescribes the mode of keeping and rendering accounts for the civil and diplomatic service, as well as the public lands, and revises and certifies the balances arising thereon.

The Second Comptroller prescribes the mode of keeping and rendering the accounts of the army, navy, and Indian departments of the public service, and revises and certifies the balances arising thereon.

The Commissioner of the Customs prescribes the mode of keeping and rendering the account of the customs, revenue and disbursements, and for the building and repairing custom-houses, etc., and revises and certifies the balances arising thereon.

The First Auditor receives and adjusts the accounts of the customs, revenue and disbursements, appropriations and expenditures on account of the civil list and under private acts of Congress, and reports the balances to the Commissioner of the Customs and the First Comptroller, respectively, for their decision thereon.

The Second Auditor receives and adjusts all accounts relating to the pay, clothing, and recruiting of the army, as well as the armories, arsenals, and ordnance, and all accounts relating to the Indian department, and reports the balances to the Second Comptroller for his decision thereon.

The Third Auditor receives and adjusts all accounts for subsistence of the army, fortifications, military academy, military roads, and the quarter-master's department, pension claims arising from military services previously to 1816, and for horses and other property lost in the military service, and reports the balances to the Second Comptroller for his decison thereon.

The Fourth Auditor adjusts all accounts for the service of the Navy Department, and reports the balances to the Second Comptroller for his decision thereon.

The Fifth Auditor adjusts all accounts for diplomatic and similar services performed under the direction of the State Department, and reports the balances to the First Comptroller for his decision thereon.

The Sixth Auditor adjusts all accounts arising from the service of the Post Office Department. His decisions are final, unless an appeal be taken in twelve months to the First Comptroller. He superintends the collection of all debts due the Post Office Department, and all penaltics imposed on postmasters and mail contractors for failing to do their duty; he directs suits and legal proceedings, civil and criminal, and takes legal measures to enforce the prompt parment of moners due to the department; instructing attorneys, marshals, and clerks relative thereto; and receives returns from each term of the United States courts of the condition and progress of such suits and legal proceedings ; has charge of all lands and other property assigned to the United States in payment of debt due the Post Office Department, and has power to sell and dispose of the same for the benefit of the United States.

The Treasurer receives and keeps the moneys of the United States in his own office and that of the depositories, and pays out the same upon warrants drawn by the Secretary of the Treasury, countersigned by the First Comptroller, and unnom warants drawn ranced by warrant to disibursing oificers, and pays out the same upon their checks.

The Register keeps the accounts of public receipts and expenditures; receives the returns and makes out the official statement of commerce and navigation of the United States; and receives from the First Comptroller and Commissioner of Customs all accounts and vouchers decided by them, and is charged by law with their safe keeping.

The Solicitor superintends all civil suits commenced by the United States (except those arising in the Post Office Department, and instructs the United States attorneys, marshals, and clerks in all matters relating to them and their results. He receives returns from each term of the United States courts, showing the progress and condition of such suits; has charge of all lands and other property assigned to the United States in payment of debts (except those assigned in payment of debts due the Post Office Department,) and has power to sell and dispose of the same for the benefit of the United States.

Commissioner of Revenue.-This is a new office, created by act of Congress, approred, July 1, 1862. "The Commissioner is charged, under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, with preparing all the instructions, regulations, directions, forms, blanks, stamps, and licenses, and distributing the same, or any part thereof, and all other matters pertaining to the assessment and collection of the duties, stamp duties, licenses, and taxes which may be necessary to carry this act into effect."

The Light-house Board.-The Secretary of the Treasury is ex officio president of this board. Has charge of maintenance and support of all the light-houses, light-iessels, buoys, etc., directs building, repairing, etc., of the same ; procures supplies and fixtures of all kinds required for the service.

The Superintendent of the Coast Survey has charge of the survey of the Atlantic, Gulf, and Pacific coasts and tidal waters of the United States, and the publication and distribution of charts of the same. He is also superintendent of Weights and Measures, having charge of the duty of constructitrg and distributing sets of standard weights and measures of the United States.

4.-DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR.

The Secretary of the Interior, aided by an Assistant Secretary, has the supervision and management of the following branches of the public service:

1st. The Public Lands.-Its head is the Commissioner of the General Land Office. The Land Bureau is charged with the survey, management, and sale of the public domain; the revision of Virginia military bounty-land claims, and the issuing of scrip in lieu thereof.

> 9.-DEPARTMENT ÓF AGRICCLTCRE.

Sec. 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled, That there is hereby established at the seat of government of the United States a Department of Agriculture, the general designs and duties of which shall be to acqiure and to diffuse among the people of the United States useful information on subjects connected with agriculture in the most general and comprehensive sense of that word, and to procure, propagate, and distribute among the people new and valuable seeds and plants.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That there shall be appointed by the Presinent, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, a "Commissioner of Agriculture," who shall be the chief executive officer of the Department of Agriculture, who shall hold his office by a tenure similar to that of other civil officers appointed by the President, and who shall receive for his compensation a salary of three thousand dollars per annum.

Sec. 3.. And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of the Commissioner of Agriculture to acquire and preserve in his department all information concerning agriculture which he can obtain by means of books and correspondence and by practical and scientific experiments (accurate records of which experiments shall be kept in his office), by the collection of statistics and by any other appropriate means within his power ; to collect, as he may be able, new and valuable seeds and plants; to test, by cultivation, the value of such of them as may require such tests; to propagate such as may be worthy of propagation, and to distribute them among agriculturists. He shall annually make a general report in writing of his acts to the President and to Congress, in which he may recommend the publication of papers forming parts of or accompanying his report, which report shall also contain an account of all moneys received and expended by him. He shall also make special reports on particular subjects whenever required to do so by the President or either house of Congress, or when he shall think the subject in his charge requires it. He shall receive and have charge of all the property of the agricultural division of the Patent Office in the Department of the Interior, inclnding the fixtures and property of the propagating garden. He shall direct and superintend the expenditure of all money appropriated by Congress to the department, and render accounts thereof, and also of all money heretofore appropriated for agriculture and remaining unexpended. And said commissioner may send and receive through the mails, free of charge, all communications and other matter pertaining to the business of his department, not exceeding in weight thirty-two ounces.

Sec. 4. Defines the duties of the Chief Clerk, and such other assistants as shall be appointed to carry this act into effect.

ELECTION OF SENATORS TO CONGRESS.

The following Law, regulating the election of U.S. Senators in the different States, was passed by the 39th Congress:

An Act to regulate the Times and Manner of holding Elections for Senators in Congress.
Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the legislature of each State which shall be chosen next preceding the expiration of the time for which any senator was elected to represent said State in Congress, shall, on the second Tuesday after the meeting and organization thereof, proceed to elect a senator in Congress, in the place of such senator so going out of office, in the following manner: Each house shall openly, by a viva voce of each member present, name one person for senator in Congress from said State, and the name of the person so voted for, who shall have a majority of the whole number of votes cast in each house, shall be entered on the journal of each house by the clerk or secretary thereof; but if either house shall fail to give such majority to any person on said day, that fact shall be entered on the journal. At twelve o'clock, meridian, of the day following that on which proceedings are required to take place, as aforesaid, the members of the two houses shall convene in joint assembly and the journal of-each house shall then be read, and if the same person shall have received a majority of all the votes in each house, such person shall be declared duly elected senator to represent said State in the Congress of the United States; but if the same person shall not have received a majority of the votes in each house, or if either house shall have failed to take proceedings as required by this act. the joint assembly shall then proceed to choose, by a viva voce vote of each member present, a person for the purpose aforesaid, and the person having a majority of all the votes of the said joint assembly, a majority of all the members elected to both houses being present and voting, shall be declared duly elected; and in case no person shall receive such majority on the first day, the joint assembly shall meet at twelve o'clock, meridian, of each succeeding day during the session of the legislature, and take at least one vote until a senator shall be elected.
Section 2. And be it further enacted, That whenever, on the meeting of the legislature of any State, a vacancy shall exist in the representation of such State in the senate of the United States, said legislature shall proceed, on the second Tuesday after the commencement and organization of its session, to elect a person to fill such vacancy, in the manner hereinbefore provided for the election of a senator for a full term; and if a vacancy shall happen during the session of the legisiature, then on the second Tuesday after the legislature shall have been organized and shall have notice of such vacancy.
SECTion 3. And be it further enacted, Tha it shall be the duty of the governor of the State from which any senator shall have been chosen as aforesaid to certify his election, under the seal of the State, to the President of the Senate of the United States, which certificate shall be countersinged by the secretary of state of the State.
Approved, July 25, 1866.

STATISTICS OF THE UNITED STATES,

The United states of america, with its Territories, extends from the Atlantic west to the Pacific Ocean, occupying the middle division of North America ; being bounded on the north by the British Possessions, and on the south by the Gulf of Mexico and the Republic of Mexico. It lies between $25^{\circ}$ and $49^{\circ}$ of north latitude, and between $66^{\circ}$ 59' and $125^{\circ}$ west longitude from Greenwich ; or between $10^{\circ} .1^{\prime}$ east and $48^{\circ}$. west longitude from Washington City. Its greatest length from east to west is estimated at 3,000 miles, and its greatest breadth from north to south 1,700 miles; containing an estimated area of $3,250,000$ square miles. It has a frontier line of about 10,000 miles, of which 3,500 miles is along the Atlantic coast and the Gulf of Mexico, and 1,620 miles on the Pacific Ocean and straits of Juan de Fuca. Its surface embraces about one-third of North America, including the West India Islands, being about one-twentieth of the land of the whole earth. It was first discovered to the inhabitants of the Old World by John Cabot, A. D. 1497, being five years after the landing of Columbus at St. Salvador.

The first permanent English settlement in the United States was at Jamestown, Va., in 1607,* which continued an English colony till the Declaration of Independence, July 4, 1776. After a war of seven years' duration, peace was made, and independence acknowledged by treaty with England in 1783.

The articles of Confederation were entered into in 1777. The present United States Constitution, framed in 1787, went into operation March 1st, 1789, after being approved of by the thirteen original States of the Union. Louisiana, comprising the States and Territories now belonging to the United States west of the Mississippi, was purchased of France in 1803, and Florida of Spain in 1819. Texas was admitted into the Union by "Joint Resolutions" of Congress, passed March 1, 1845. New Mexico and Upper California, including Utah, were acquired by treaty with Mexico, ratified in 1848. Arizona was acquired by treaty with Mexico, ratified in June, 1854.

In the District of Columbia, originally formed by cessions from Maryland and Virginia, $\dagger$ is situated Washington City, the United [^17]States seat of Government, being first occupied in 1800. The District and Capital are exclusively under the jurisdiction of the Federal Government. Congress meets on the first Monday in December in every year, unless otherwise directed by law.

The population of the United States at the time of taking the first census in 1790 , was $3,929,328$; in $1800, \breve{5}, 309,758$; in 1810 , $7,239,903$; in $1820,9,638,166$; in $1830,12,566,020$; in $1840,17,-$ 068,666 ; in $1850,23,191,876$; in $1860,31,443,321$; of the latter number $3,953,760$ were slaves of African descent.

The slave trade was prohibited by act of Congress after January 1, 1808. In 1818, Congress declared the traffic piracy. Slavery was abolished in the District of Columbia in 1862 by act of Congress.

Maine, Vermont, Louisiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, Florida, Texas, and fourteen Territorial governments have been organized and converted into States since the Revolution, making in all (in 1864) thirty-six States, $\ddagger$ together with ten organized Territories.

Estimated population in 1870, 41,000,000, being an increase of about three per cent. per annum, the same as the increase for the last sixty years. At the same ratio of increase, the population in 1900 will amount to about $100,000,000$.

Toters, erery male person, aged twenty-one, of either of the following classes, to wit: white citizens of the United States; white persons of foreign birth, who have duly declared their intentions to become citizens; persons of mixed white and Indian blood, who who have adopted the customs and habits of civilization; and per. sons of Indian blood residing in the State, who have adopted the language, customs, and habits of civilization, when pronounced capable by any District Court in the State, may vote, if they hare rein the election district tea day next preeding the election. Capital, St. Pata. Area, s:, $;: 31$ square miles. Population in 1860, 172,023 whites, and about 25,000 Indians.
Kasisas.—Organized as a Territory by act of Congress, passed May, 1854 ; settled by emigrants from the Eastern, Northern, and Southern States. Admitted into the Union January 29, 1861. It lies between $37^{\circ}$ and $40^{\circ}$ north latitude, being bounded on the east by the State of Missouri, and on the west by the twenty-fifth meridian of longitude west from Washington. For several years a fierce contest raged in this Territory on the subject of slavery, but the strife was finally adjusted by its being admitted as a free State, that being the declared will of the majority of its inhabitants. Capital, Topeka. Area, 83,000 square miles. Population in 1860, 107,206.

California.-Settled by Spaniards in 1769, the early establishments being of a missionary and military character. The boundary of this large region of country was considered rather indefinite while under Mexican authority, in rezard to its eastern limits. By treaty of peace with Mexico, ratified March 16, 1848, this Territory, together with New. Mexico, was ceded to the United States. Admitted into the Union September, 1850. Its area is 169,000 square miles, lying between the $32^{\circ}$ and $42^{\circ}$ of north latitude. The gold mines of this State are the most raluaibe and extensive of the known world. Every white male citizen of the United States, and every white male citizen of Mexico who shall hare elected to become a citizen of the United States, under the treaty of peace exchanged and ratified at Queretaro on the 30th of May, 1848, of the age of 21 years, who shall have beea a resident of the State six months next preceding the election, and the county or district in which he claims his vote, thirty dars, shall ise entitled to vote at all elections which are now, or hereafter may be, authorized by law.

Capital, Sacramento. Population in 1852, from official returns, 262,435 ; in 1860, $305,430$.

Oregon.-This extensive region, including Washington Territory, was discovered by Captain Robert Gray, May 7, 1762, who entered the Columbia River, to which he gave the name of his vessel. Settled by British belonging to the Hudson Bay Company, and American emigrants; also, inhabited by numerous tribes of Indians. Organized as a Territory August 4, 1848; admitted into the Union February 14, 1859. This is a fertile and healthy region of country. Capital, Eugene City. Area, 100,000 square miles. Population in $1860,52,464$.

TERRITORIES.

New Mexico.-This large Territory, as defined by Spanish or American authorities, extended from $32^{\circ} 30^{\prime}$ to $42^{\circ}$ north latitude, and from $23^{\circ}$ to about $33^{\circ}$ longitude west of the city of Washington. It was early settled by Spaniards, and formed a territory of the Republic of Mexico until 1848, when it was ceded to the United States. In September, 1Sə0, this Territory was defined by act of Congress, and provision made for its organization. Right of Suf-frage-Every free white male inhabitant, above the age of 21 years, who shall have been a resident of said Territory at the time of the passage of this act, shall be entitled to vote at the first election, and shall be eligible to any office within the said Territory; but the qualifications of voters, and of holding office, at all subsequent elections, shall be such as shall be prescribed by the Legislative Assembly. Capital, Sante Fe. Estimated area, 110,000 square miles. Population in 1850, 61,547; in 1860, 93,516 . Within the bounds of this Territory and Arizona, are residing large tribes of Indians, many of a warlike character, roaming over this region and western Texas, as well as the northern part of Mexico.

Uтан.-Organized by act of Congress, passed Sept. 9, 1850, comprises a large extent of country lying in the "Great Basin of North America," west of the Rocky Mountains. It originally included a portion of the new Territories of Colorado on the east, and Nevada on the west. Capital, Great Salt Lafe City, situated about two miles due east of the river Jordan, or Utah, near the base of a mountain, in north latitude $40^{\circ} 45^{\prime}$; west longitude from Greenwich, $111^{\circ} 26^{\prime}$; altitude, 4,300 feet above the level of the sea, being in the valley of the Great Salt Lake. Estimated area, 121,000 square miles. Population in 1850, 11,380; in 1860, 40,273, being mostly Mormons, or "Latter day Saints."

Nebraska Territory.-Organized by act of Congress, passed May, 1854 ; was mostly settled by emigrants from the Northern and Western States. It lies between $40^{\circ}$ and $43^{\circ}$ north latitude, being bounded on the east by the Missouri River, which separates it from the State of Iowa, and on the west by the 104th parallel of longitude, dividing it from the Territory of Idaho. The Nebraska or Platte River runs centrally nearly its entire length from east to west, its head waters rising near the South Pass of the Rocky Mountains. Capital, Omara City. Estimated area, 70,000 square miles. Population in 1860, 28,842. In addition to the white population, it is sparsely inhabited by roving tribes of Indians who hunt the buffalo and other wild game.

Washington Territory.-Organized by act of Congress, passed March 2, 1853 ; settled by emigrants from the Northern and Western States. It was taken from the northern part of Oregon, "being all that portion of territory lying and being south of the 49 th degree of north latitude, and north of the middle of the main channel of the Columbia River, from its mouth to where the 46 th degree of north latitude crosses said river, near Fort Wallah Wallah, thence east to Snake River; thence north to the 49th parallel of latitude, being bounded on the east by the Territory of Idaho, and on the north by the British Possessions." Capital, Olympia, lying on Puget's Sound, in north latitude $47^{\circ}$; west longitude from Greenwich $122^{\circ} 25^{\prime}$, having a mean annual temperature of $51^{\circ}$ Fahrenheit.* Estimated area, 71,000 square miles. Population in 1860 , 11,594.

Dakota Territory.-Organized by act of Congress, passed March 2,1861 , comprises a large extent of country, being bounded on the east by Minnesota, south by Nebraska, west by the 27 th derrice of on the south, and by the Red hirer ui the Nont emptring into Hudson Bay, possessing for the most part, a fine healthy climate and good soil; first settled on the north by emigrants in the employ of the Hudson Bay Company, and now being peopled by a hardy race of men from the Northern and Western States. Capital, Yankton. Estimated area, 220,000 square miles. Population in 1860, 4,837 whites, and a large number of Indians of different tribes. In this Territory the buffalo and other wild animals are found in great abundance.

Colorado Territory.-Organized March 2, 1861, is included within the following limits, viz: "Commencing on the 37 th parallel of north latitude where the 25th meridian of longitude west from Washington crosses the same; thence north on said meridian to the 41st parallel of north latitude ; thence along said parallel west to the 32 d meridian of longitude west from Washington; thence south on said meridian to the nothern line of New Mexico; thence along the 37 th parallel of north las:ade to the place of beginning," embracing "Pike's Peak and the goll region in the vicinity of the Rocky Mountains." Capital, Goldex City. Estimated area, 104,000 square miles. Population in 1860, 34,277; also many tribes of Indians. The climate of this elerated country is remarkably healthy and invigorating, while "the soil is rich and productive, being capable of producing corn, wheat, barley, potatoes, oats, turnips, and every kind of vegetable in profusion, and of most superior quality." The climate of the South Platte Talley, and of the [^19]mountain region, is mild and regular, and from its altitude very dry and of surprising purity.

Nevada.-Organized March 2, 1861, was admitted into the Union Oct. 3,1864 , by act of Congress. It lies east of the Sierra Nevada range of mountains, and mostly within the Great Basin of North America. Gold and silver mines of great value are found along the western slope of the Sierra Nevada, while the climate and soil produce grasses, cereals, and vegetables of almost every description when properly cultivated. Capital, Carson Ciry. Estimated area, 90,000 square miles. $\dagger$ Population in 1865, 6,857.

Anizona.-Organized by act of Congress, approved February 24, 1863 , embraces "all that part of the present Territory of New Mexico situate west of a line running due south from the point where the southwest corner of the Territory of Colorado joins the northern boundary of the Territory of New Mexico, to the southern boundary of said Territory," containing an estimated area of 131,000 square miles. It is thinly settled by natives of Mexico and emigrants from different States of the Union, besides containing a large number of Indians of a warlike character. The right of suffrage and territorial organization is similar to that of New Mexico, with the provision, "that there shall neither be slaves nor involuntary servitude in said Territory." Capital, Prescott, situated north of the Gila River in a fertile valley. This Territory is rich in gold, silver, copper, and other minerals, while the soil is mostly sterile except in the few valleys susceptible of irrigation. Arizona, proper, was acquired by treaty with Mexico known as the "Gadsden Treaty," and ratified in June, 1854, the estimated area being 39,000 square miles, lying south of the Rio Gila.

Inano.-This new Territory, lying on the west side of the Rocky Mountains, was organized by act of Congress. approved March 3, 1863. Its boundary is as follows: "Beginning at a point in the middle channel of Snake Rive where the northern boundary of Oregon intersects the same; then follow down the said channel of Snake River to a point opposite the mouth of the Kooskooskia, or Clearwater River; thence due north to the 49th parallel of latitude; thence east to the new Territory of Montana; thence west along the 42 d parallel of latitude to the eastern boundary of the State of Oregon ; thence north along said boundary to the place of beginning." Capital, Lewiston, situated on the western confines of the Territory. Estimated area, 100,000 square miles. A great portion of this extensive region is susceptible of cultivation, the climate being comparatively mild and healthy. Gold is found in numerous localities along the different ranges of mountains, as well as in the beds of streams flowing into the Columbia river, by which this Territory is drained. By late authority the Territory is found to contain 60,000 white inhabitants. The delegate to Congress and members of the Legislature are elected in October.

Montana.-This new Territory, lying between the 45 th and 49th degrees of north latitude, and the 27 th and 39 th degrees of longi-[^20]tude west from Washington, was organized by act of Congress, approved May 26, 1864. It may be said to form the northern half of the Territory of Idaho, as organized March 3, 1863. Estimated area of Montana, 150,000 square miles. This extensive territory embraces the head sources of the Missouri river, lying east of the Rocky Mountains, and the head sources of the north branch of the Columbia river, lying west of the above Mountains and north of the Bitter Root Mountains. A great portion of this region is susceptible of cultivation, although forming, in part, the northern limit of the United States, the climate being comparatively mild and remarkably healthy. Gold is found in numerous localities along the different ranges of mountains, as well as in the beds of streams flowing into the Columbia and Missouri rivers, by which this Territory is drained. The Indian tribes are numerous, but generally peaceably inclined. Capital, Bannock City. Fort Benton, situated on the Upper Missouri river, north latitude, $47^{\circ}$, $50^{\prime}$, lies near the center of the Territory, favored with a mean annual temperature of $48^{\circ}$ Fahrenheit. The proposed line of the Northern Pacific Railroad will, no doubt, pass Fort Benton, and cross the Rocky Mountains through one of the several mountain passes exploreed by authority of the United States Government.

Indins Territory.-Sithated west ot the Statas of Arkansas and Missouri, and south of the 37th degree of north latitude, is bounded on the south and west by the State of Texas. This is a fruitful region inhabited by many tribes of civilized Indians, mostly Cherokees, Creeks, Choctaws, and Seminoles, amounting to 60 or 70,000 souls. Capital, Tah.le-quah. Estimated area, 70,000 square miles.

CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES.

XXXIXth SESSION COMMENCED MARCH 4TH, 1865, AND WILL TERMINATE MARCH 4TH, 1867.

Congress meets on the first Monday in December of every year. The Senate is composed of two Senators from each State elected for a term of six years. They are divided into three classes as to terms of service: one class goes out every two years. By this arrangement the Senate is renewed biennially in one-third of its memberships. No persons can be a Senator who is under thirty years of age, nor unless he has been nine years a citizen of the United States; and he must be, when elected, a citizen of the State from which he is chosen. The Vice-President of the United States is the presiding officer of the Senate. In event of the death of the President of the United States, the Vice-President becomes Chief Magistrate: when the Senate elects its own presiding officer, pro tempore, who, in case the Chicf Magistrate shall die, or vacate his office, becomes President of the United States, pro tempore, until a new election by the people shall be effected. The present presiding officer of the Senate, La Fayette S. Foster, of Connecticut, would, therefore, in event of the death of Andrew Johnson, become, pro tempore, Chief Magistrate of the United States,

The House of Representatives is composed of members elected by the people of the several States every two years. No person is eligible who is under twenty-five years of age, nor unless he has been seven years a citizen of the United States. By the law of 1850 , the whole number of members was fixed at 233 , to be chosen by all the States-the appointment being regulated by taking the census of 1850 for each State, dividing it by 233 , the quotient being the ratio of population required to elect a member. The ratio, as determined by the census of 1860 , was 124,183 -upon which basis the several states were represented; but by act of March 4 th, 1862, the whole number of representatives was increased to 241 from and after March 3d, 1863, by allowing one additional representative to each of the following States, viz.:

Illinois, Iowa, Kentucky, Minnesota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and Vermont. One member has since been added for the new state of Nevada-making the XXXIXth Congress stand 244 members; but as only a few of the States lately in rebellion will be represented, the actual count of members will not exceed 200 present and voting.

The Territories are represented by Delegates-one from each, who may present subjects for legislation, and have the rights of the floor to address the House, but they have no vote.

The ratio for a Member of Congress is 127,316 . Under the old apportionment it was less than 100,000 . The number of Representatives being fixed at two hundred and thirty-three, requires a new apportionment for every new census, which is taken every ten years. In the next census (1870) it will probably require 160,000 population for a Representative.

[^5]:    In Senate, the bills and other papers which are in possession of the House, and in a state to be acted upon, are arranged every morning, and brought on in the following order:

    1. Bills ready for a second reading are read, that they may be referred to committee, and so put under way. But if, on their being read, no motion is made for commitment, they are then laid on the table in the general file, to be taken up in their just turn.
    2. After twelve o'clock, bills ready for it are put on their passage.
    3. Reports in possession of the House, which offer grounds for a bill, are to be taken up, that the bill may be ordered in.
[^6]:    *This difficulty has since been obviated by the following rule of the Senate:
    "The final question, upon the second reading of every bill, resolution, or constitutional amendment, or motion. originatint in the semte, and requiring three readings previous to being passed, shall be, Whether it shall be engrosed and read a third time? and no mendment shall be received fordiscussion at the third reading of any bill, resolution, amendment, or motion, whes by umimous consent of the members present; but it shall at all times be in order before the final passage of any such bill, resolution. constitutional mendmen. or motion, to move its commitment; and should sucis commitumert take paces and any amendment be reported by the committee, the sid bi!!, -s...:n. consitutional amend ment, or motion, shall be again raci a considered as in com-

[^8]:    *In a case of a division of the question, and a decision against striking out, $I$ advance, doubtingly, the opinion here expressed. I find no authority either way; and I know it may be viewed under a difterent aspect. It may be thought that having decided separately not to strike out the passage, the same question for striking out cannot be put over again, though with a view to a different insertion. Still I think it more reasonable and conrenient to consider the striking out and insertion as forming one proposition; but should readily yield to any evidence that the contrary is the practice in Parliament.
