Coming Elections

Twelve class offices will go by default it was learned yesterday after the dean of men's office had checked the eligibility of all nominees for the coming fall elections. Those who will take office without any contest at the polls are:

These candidates must carry through the formality of a vote. It is necessary for them to receive but one vote each to remove all technicalities between them and their offices.

Three Ineligible

Three candidates were ruled out on ineligibility.

Elections will be held in all but the junior class. Edward Crofoot, Harry Thoma, and George Hotchkiss will stage a three-cornered duel for the presidency of the senior class, and Beatrice Arnsen will oppose Josephine Barker for the position of secretary.

The hottest election fight will probably develop in the sophomore class where Joseph Lucas and Addison Mueller will run for president; Dorothy Holt and Emily Hurd for vice president; and Janet Smith and Doris Zimmerman for secretary.

Among the freshman two offices will be contested. Arthur Brandt and Ted Berner are running for president. Robert Levin and William Newman are both candidates for the treasurer-ship.

The election season, which started with the avowed purpose of being "harmonious," has become plain leg- arthic. Inertia developed in more sec- tors this year than practically any other in the history of student poli- tics.

In addition to the generally large number of defaulted offices, the tran- quility of the junior class is particu- larly noteworthy.

Caucuses, which may indicate either harmony or group control, have characterized the pre-election man- euverings, and may be held respon- sible for some of the defaulting. In the workaday world caucuses are re- garded as particularly adapted to us- age of bosses.

The Live Stock Breeders' associa- tion, and the College of Agriculture co-operate in giving this show. Its main purpose is to stimulate the in- terest of the young farmers in rais- ing high grade stock.

The show opens this morning with the registration of the entrants at 8 o'clock. The judging of lambs will start at 10 o'clock, and this afternoon, the judging of swine will start. The Fifteen of the Daily Cardinal ques- tionnaires on fraternity rushing had been returned to the editorial office by 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Fol- lowing are the names of fraternities who have responded to date:

Need 20 More

Members of the committee inves- tigating the feasibility of installing some system for fraternity rushing state that at least 20 more question- naires must be returned if the sta- tistics which will be compiled from them are to be indicative of general conditions and opinion.

This committee stated definitely that it was not working for a system of deferred rushing or pledging, but was merely ascertaining campus opin- ion in the matter, and would draw up some plan from tendencies indi- cated in the answers received to sub- mit at a meeting of the Interfrater- nity council. For this reason, it is im- perative that as many as possible are filled in and mailed to the Cardinal office.

Fill Out Blanks

It is also desired that the ques- tionnaires be returned this week, be- cause all statistics will have to be arranged before the representative fraternity organization holds its first meeting.

The Daily Cardinal will continue to publish names of fraternities respond- ing to the list of questions.

Cast For U.W.

Play Shrouded

In Big Mystery

Dark mystery surrounds the produc- tion of the first of the university plays to be given this season. "In the Next Room," is the name of the three act mystery play which will make its initial appearance Friday night.

The mystery lies not merely in the plot of the play, which involves two murders that would puzzle Sherlock Holmes himself, but is extended even to the members of the cast. Perhaps th baby-fac'd lad who sits beside you in "Econ" is the villain who threatens the happiness of several Broadway actors. Perhaps the girl you dated last night is the heroine. For just who plays what in this drama is a secret that Prof. William C. Troutman, di- rector, refuses to reveal. The reason for his mysterious silence is another mystery.

Who's on Cast?

Page the would-be detectives, who, having solved the problem of what questions will be asked in exams this week, will find more baffling material in 200 Bascom hall. Never before has the cast of a university play been so deftly hidden from the news-sharpened eyes of a reporter.

In addition to the general public performances of the play on the nights of Oct. 28 and 9, Father's week- end performances will be given Nov. 4 and 5. Tickets for the Father's week-end performances may be bought from John Bergstresser, alumni re- corder, in the Union building. Tickets for the general performances are on sale in 200 Bascom hall.

Five More Receive

Sophomore Honors

To the list of 14 names of sopho- mores receiving high honors as an- nounced in the Cardinal on October 20, three new names have been added. They are: John King Fairbank, Fran- cis Lee Utley, and Wallace Murrey Jensen.

Two new names have also been add- ed to the list of those receiving sopho- more honors.

They are Harold Oliver Leiser, and Edward Meagner.

This brings the total of Sophomore high honors and honors conferred this year up to 83, as compared with 65 in 1926.

Campus Groups

Will Decorate

for Homecoming

Sororities, Fraternities, Dormitories, Rooming Houses

to Vie for Prizes

All fraternities and sororities, girls rooming houses, and university dor- mitories are entering the four compe- titions for the best Homecoming de- corations according to Edward P. Cole, '28, and Mildred McCune, '30, chair- men of the men's and women's divi- sions of the work.

Cups are to be awarded in each of the four groups. Three cups will be awarded the best decorated fraternity houses, three to the best decoratd sororities, one to be disputed between Chadbourne and Barnard, one between Tripp and Adams, and another group of cups for girls rooming houses.

Judged Nov. 11

"I wish to make it very emphatic," Cole said, "that all fraternity and sorority houses entered in the com- petition will be judged on Friday eve- ning, Nov. 11. House decorations are to be ready for judging at 7 o'clock that evening."

No prizes are offered for men's room- ing houses, Cole pointed out, as the men usually live in small groups and are seldom interested in the compe- titions.

The judges of the contest have not yet been chosen.

BUTTON, BUTTON,

WHO HAS BUTTON?

A contest for the design for the Homecoming buttons, open to every- one in the university, started yester- day and will close tomorrow eve- ning. Announcement of the contest was made by Jean Droppers '29 and Theron Pray '29, chairmen of the but- ton committees.

Designs are being placed in the Oc- topus contribution boxes which are located in several of the campus build- ings. No count has been made as yet of the number of designs submitted.

A $3 prize is being offered to the winner. Designs must not contain more than two colors, white not being considered a color.

Judging will be done by a commit- tee consisting of John Bergstresser '25, Donald Albert '28 and a member of the art department faculty.

The deadline for the contest is 6 o'clock tomorrow evening.

Wisconsin Bandmen

to Accompany Team

to Minnesota Game

Exactly 100 cardinal-caped Wiscon- sin bandmen will carry the strains of "On Wisconsin" to Minneapolis next Saturday to vie with those of "Min- nesota, Hail to Thee" at the annual clash of Minnesota and Wisconsin football teams.

This band, according to the an- nouncement made by Major E. W. Morphy yesterday, is one of the larg- est groups ever sent to a foreign foot- ball field. The band is to leave Mad- ison late Friday night, and will arrive in Minneapolis early Saturday morn- ing. The Minnesota union building, where the Wisconsin band was enter- tained two years ago, is to be used as headquarters during the stay at Min- nesota.

Washburn Observatory

Installs New 10 Inch

Lens and Machinery

A new 10 inch lens to be mounted in the telescope in the small dome of the Washburn observatory, has been received here, and will be installed soon, according to Prof. Joel Stebbins of the astronomy department.

The clock work mechanism, recent- ly devised by O. E. Romare, university mechanician, for the purpose of keep- ing a telescope pointed constantly at one object while the earth revolves, will be powerful enough to operate the telescope with th new lens.

When the new mounting has been adapted, this smaller telescope will be used to supplement the work of the larger instrument in the measure- ment of the light of stars.

The observatory, this year, is open to the public only on the first and third Wednesdays of each month. Jup- iter, and the moon, when it is visible, will be the principle objects viewed on public nights, Prof. Stebbins de- clared.

Senate Now Definitely De-

funct; Charter Given Back to Regents

BY WARREN C. PRICE

After 11 years of futile attempts to make self-government a success, the Student Senate at its last meeting laid to rest the few remaining rem- nants of business on its calendar.

Following the six to five vote for disorganization last, Wednesday, all that remained upon which the senate had to take action concerned the jur- isdiction of the senate, but which will now become subject to other control.

Wind Up Affairs

All recommendations for the dis- posal of the few minor powers of the senate, suggested by Clyde Kluckhohn '28, were passed unanimously, after having been laid on the table since the meeting of last week.

The passage of these recommenda- tions now completely obliterates the senate from the list of student legis- lative bodies, leaving only the five major boards, the Union board, the Badger board, the Cardinal Board of Control, the Athletic board, and the Forensic board. Each of these bodies will continue to function in the fu- ture as they formerly did in the past when under the supervision of the Student Senate.

Give Up Charter

By the decision yesterday, the pow- ers and the charter have been put back into the hands of the faculty and the Regents, in whose control rests the future of so-called self-gov- ernment, if there is to be any. No more meetings of the senate will be held unless upon the request of the faculty, or in the vent that the Re- gents fail to accept the resignation of the body.

Any money remaining in the treas- ury of the senate has also been placed at the disposal of the Regents, to be used by them in any way that is deemed advisable.

Form Election's Board

In the case of controlling annual fall and spring elections, the one major duty of the former legislative body, the passage of Kluckhohn's re- commendations signifies that, with the spring elections of 1928, the heads of the five administrative boards shall constitute, together with four appoint- ed members of the student body, an elections board, which shall appoint an elections committee.

This board, according to Kluckhohn, will hold two regular meetings a year, one on the second Tuesday in the fall semester and the other on the first Tuesday in March. Members of the elections committee will be notified of

Cardinal Invited

All workers, new and old, on the editorial and business staffs of the Daily Cardinal are invited to attend a banquet to be given in their honor at 6:15 o'clock next Thursday eve- ning, Oct. 27, at the Hotel Loraine. They will be guests of the Daily Car- dinal Board of Control which has re- quested that everyone planning to attend the banquet sign the blank published herewith and drop it in a box which will be conveniently placed and plainly labeled in the Union building.

In order to facilitate plans for the big event, the board has ruled that all acceptances must be dropped in the box before 5:30 o'clock Wednes- day afternoon, Oct. 26.

It is rumored that several inter- esting speeches will be made, and all Cardinal workers will be given a chance to become acquainted with each other. When interviewed on the subject, the corner newsboy stated that past Cardinal banquets had al- ways been very enjoyable. "Even the food was good," he said.

these meetings through the office of the Dean of Men.

It has been provided that this legislation will not interfere with the established practice that the Women's Self Government association shall have proportionate representation on the elections committee.

Following an attempt to seat three new members of the senate, elected by default because of the usual lack of sufficient petitions to warrant holding the election, a spirited parliamentary discussion arose, the last stand in defending a dying cause. Since the new candidates were elected without competition and were scholastically eligible, it was assumed that they were entitled to their seat, but inasmuch as the fall elections scheduled for Nov. 4 have not yet been held, the senate ruled them ineligible to vote at the meeting yesterday.

Frederick Koehler '28, chairman of the elections committee for this fall, who last week was among the five defending the senate, struck the keynote in the futility of the efforts of continuing the body as an active organization, in his report.

"In considering all this material of our last meeting," said Koehler, "I have come to some very different conclusions as to my stand. I agree with the majority report of the committee in most of their implications at least."

"I realized not so long after I became a member of this body that there was no need of it, that it had nothing much to do. In fact, I realized it was only a body by name. I tried to think of things that might be done, but to no avail. Then along came this report, which at first was a bad blow, and which took me temporarily off my feet. I doubted the sincerity of the committee, and doubted the advisability of such a big step, and therefore voted against it.

"However," he said, "now I feel it is just what should have been. I see no use in going on, championing a lost cause, lost in its respect to the boards, and also to the students in general."

"But, Mr. President, I feel if we stop right here, we have not done our duty. Let us go further. Let us abolish the wearing of these money-making green caps; let us abolish the bag rush, so there will be no need of an Athletic board. Let us recommend that the distinguished Forensic board be abolished, and that their heavy duties be taken from their breaking backs and perhaps given to the fast disappearing duties of the Union board."

"But I don't like the name of the Union board. It is not creditable. Let us change it, perhaps call it the M. S. G. A. They could receive a new charter, fitting to take the place of the all, and then take charge of all student activities."

Theodore L. Dammann, secretary of state, will speak tonight at the meeting of the Young Men's Progress-

HERE'S the DOPE

And now, fellows, let us stand and cheer, for Minnesota is next and we're gonna give 'em a close shave.

Plenty of feeling always attends a Minnesota-Wisconsin get-together, but there will probably be more than ever on this forthcoming Saturday. The Gophers have, by some strange manipulation, acquired a reputation for playing football, and this reputation leaves little room for overconfidence in Wisconsin ranks.

Critics point with impolite fingers at Minnesota's one-handed conquest of Iowa, 38-0, and remark pleasantly, "What chance has Wisconsin against a team like that." Without arguing the matter, we might say that Minnesota's defeat of Iowa in 1926 was quite as decisive and yet the Gophers barely scraped through at Madison a week later. Proving what.

In spite of a great line, a great backfield, and a host of reserves, Minnesota still seems to lack something. That was apparent in the Indiana game, though such lapses in championship morale have occurred during almost every season. The fact remains that Minnesota is not unbeatable.

Tired of crashing the line, the Gophers opened up with passes against Iowa and literally ran the Hawkeye secondary defense into the ground. A team that can both pass and run makes one dangerous combination to play around with.

Other Western conference teams performed just about according to schedule Saturday. North western learned the sad lesson that Illinois is never to be taken lightly; Ohio State took her annual setback from Michigan; Indiana fought a game but losing fight against the flying legions of Notre Dame; and Chicago sent Pen back east with another wild tale of western gridiron prowess.

One not at all displeasing feature of Saturday's game here was the excellent performance of Harold Rebholz and Neil Hayes, sophomore backfield men. Hayes, starting the game in Capt. Crofoot's position, held up very well until he was taken out. On his second entrance into battle, he played even better, carrying the ball and watching the defense like a veteran. Rebholz, backing up the line, appeared to be just what Wisconsin will need against Minnesota, and his further ability as a ball-transporter and punter, makes him extremely valuable.

Two All-Americans

Two candidates for All-American honors will captain the elevens in the Illinois-Michigan homecoming game at Illinois Saturday. Captain Bennie Oosterbaan of the Wolverines has been an All-American end for two seasons and is likely to repeat. Captain Bob Reitsch, Illini leader, is a leading western candidate for All-American center.

and Barr. Beta Kappa—Bauernfeind, Decker, Schueller, Goodrich, Volk, Dahlman, and Sampson.

Twelve fraternity bowling teams will begin mowing down the pins at the Wisconsin alleys tonight in the first round of the Greek bowling race. Twenty-eight fraternities are entered in the race this year for the championship which is now held by Phi Delta Phi.

Badgers Settle Down to Work for Minnesota

Rose, Wagner, Slightly Hurt; Line, Pass Defense Stressed

Suffering no real losses from the battle against Purdue last Saturday, the Wisconsin varsity will now settle down to four days of intensive drill for its big game of the season against Minnesota at Minneapolis, this Saturday.

Gene Rose, star halfback, received a few bruises in the last quarter of the Boiler-maker game, but is expected to be in uniform again tonight, and by the end of the week should be in good condition.

Wagner Not Serious

"Rube" Wagner, who played a great game last week at tackle, was the only other Wisconsin casualty, but as injuries were light, he is able to be in uniform again.

The loss of either of these two men to the Badgers at a time when they will need their full strength, if they expect to hold the powerful Gopher attack, would be a serious blow to the team. Rose has been an offense star in every game this season, and Wagner has been shining at his line position.

The practices this week are to be against the yearlings, who have been drilled in Gopher formations. Smith, the star fresh fullback, will impersonate Joesting, while others of the team will impersonate such stars of the Gophers as "Mallie" Nydahl, Phamer, Knoerr, and Hovde.

Workers Rest

Last night's practice was one of the last night's practice was one of rest for the Wisconsin men that saw much action in Saturday's game, and the reserves were given an evening of hard scrimmage and play against the all-Americans.

Pass Defense Weak

Wisconsin again showed a big gap in its defense against forward passes, and this department will be worked on during the next few days. Minnesota sprung something new on the dope sheets when they began to function behind a successful aerial attack on their last few games, and this will only add to the offensive power of the Gophers.

Against Minnesota, the Wisconsin line will be called upon to do its best. Tom Lieb will be grooming the line all this week to stop the great Herb Joesting, and if this can be done, the Badgers may yet upset the game predictions.

Upon Capt. Crofoot will rest Wisconsin's hopes for a victory. Under his able guidance, and backed by the fine running of Gene Rose, the team is certain to function smoothly.

Saturday's game showed several more backfield men upon whom the Badgers may depend for good work, both defensively and offensively. They are namely, Hayes and Rebholz, who looked good at halfback and fullback.

In the punting department, Rebholz's improvement showed up against Purdue, and if the youngster continues his work, that weakness of the Wisconsin defense will be overcome.

Cross Country Team on High Road to Fifth Big Ten Title

Wisconsin, continuing its habit of victory in cross country, and successfully defeated Indiana, Chicago, and Northwestern in the quadrangular meet held at Jackson park, Chicago last Saturday.

Capt. John Zola, Wisconsin's premier distance runner, finished ahead of the field over the three mile course in the time of 16 minutes 1.3 seconds. Fields of Indiana finished a close second behind the diminutive Badger captain.

Rivalry Intense

Wisconsin found the competition at this opening conference meet very keen, and were not by any means able to easily garner a victory. The final scores gave Wisconsin 25, Indiana 30; Northwestern 76; and Chicago 79.

Wisconsin took first, third, fourth, eighth, and ninth. Indiana took second, sixth, seventh, and tenth. Bullamore, veteran "aWa" harrier from last season's team surprised everybody by pulling in ahead of John Petaja, veteran "W" harrier, and finishing third, with Petaja in the following position.

All-American Gridders to Meet Intramurals in First League Contest

The All-American team will play its first game in the Wisconsin pre-varsity league at 4 o'clock Wednesday when it meets the Intramural team on the intramural field.

The Intramural team took a defeat at the hands of the league leading Phy Eds in the opening game of the new league, by a score of 6-0. The All-Americans have not as yet played a game in the new league, and the game is looked forward to with interest.

Phy Eds Strong

A defeat by the Phy-Ed team has not come to be regarded as a disgrace yet, due to the fact that group thoroughly trounced the Freshman team last week, 7-0.

At the Intramural-Phy-Ed game a considerable display of power on the intramural team was noticeable. These men are the pick of all those playing football for gymnasium credit. Many of them are freshman who, for some reason or other have been cut from the freshman squad, and have since been working under the tutelage of Mr. Little.

The All-Americans are an unknown team, and will go into the game as a favorite to win.

Speech Class Thespians Register Pantomime Before Movie Camera

Five speech students chose a novel way of presenting a required pantomime by deciding to take movies of it. The story is that of a harassed freshman sorely tempted to cut class whose better sense finally triumphs and leads him to the class room only to find "no class today" posted upon the door.

The shooting of scenes about the campus yesterday caused speculations of various nature concerning the amateur actors. Some thought the producers from Hollywood were seeking a little authentic atmosphere, and others were just astonished.

Stan Martin, Charles Marsbach, Scott Goodnight, Anastasia Johnson, and Betty Baldwin, all juniors, are the adventuresome thespians and performed with appropriate spirit and gusto. These pioneers of the Wisconsin silent drama anxiously await the preview of their efforts.

Volley Ball to Occupy Stage in Women's Sports

Alpha Chi Omega Wins First Game; Kappa Delta Takes Horse Shoes

BY P. M.

With the horseshoe tournament nearing its end, the volley ball tournament is now stepping in and occupying the center of the stage.

The first of the volley ball games played off yesterday between Alpha Chi Omega and Chad A was keenly contested, resulting in a 32 to 20 victory for Chad. The results of last night's matches will appear in tomorrow's Cardinal, and similarly in the future. Due to the fact that these games are played in the late evening, their results will be published on the second day following.

Teams entered in this tournament are urged to make use of the practice periods scheduled by the intramural committee, and should make such arrangements with Hattie Trauba '29, who is in charge of the tournament.

Horseshoe Matches

The Kappa Deltas yesterday defeated the Phi Mu's in the first match of the final elimination contest of the horseshoe tournament, with a 2 to 0 score. Helen Orecutt '28 pitched a consistently excellent game for the Kappa Deltas, dramatically making a ringer at a time when the score was tied, and so taking the game. The Phi Mus were represented by Helen Febock '28 and Florence Koepsel '29.

When the Kappa Deltas meet the Tri Deltas in the next of the elimination matches at 4:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon there will undoubtedly be an unusual display of skill, and rooters are encouraged to turn out to support their teams.

Today's Volley Ball Schedule

The following volley ball matches will be played off this afternoon at Camp Randall and tonight in the Lathrop gymnasium:

Alpha Epsilon Phi vs. Kappa Delta, 3:30 o'clock.
Alpha X Delta vs. 929 University, 4:30 o'clock.
Delta Zeta vs. Phi Omega Pi, 7:30.
Barnard vs. Phi Mu, 7:30.
Gamma Phi vs. Phi Phi, 8:30.
Alpha Delta Pi vs. C. L. G. C., 8:30.

FOUR TRIPP HALL SECTIONS WIN GAMES

The unbeaten team of Section F, Tripp, added another easy victory to its credit by romping over Section A, 40-0. Mehl's passing and kicking for Section F was the feature of the game. Sell and F. Bennett, at the ends, for F, were at the receiving end of most of the passes. Section A was forced to play with only four men and could not cover the field against their opposition.

Section A—Keith, Marshall, Justl, Hintz.

Section F—Sell, Wahlberg, F. Bennett, Dasny, Rudolph, Mehl, B. Bennett.

Section G Wins

The short passing game of Section G, Tripp, was too much for Section B, and they won 12-0. Cole to Tardex formed the main offense of Section G. Intercepted passes played havoc with Section B's chances.

Section B—Trapini, Werblow, Shapnow, Lehman, Woren, Tieges, Erickson.

Section G—Arliaskas, Moran, Yuel, Cole, Buddert, Kelly, Tardek.

Flashy Offense

The long punting of Roensch, whose average was 65 yards, helped Section D, Tripp, defeat Section E, 12-0. One touchdown was made by Peters on a 55 yard run around end. Lyons pulled down a long pass for the other score of the game.

Section E—Dahlen, Phillips, Constance, Anderson, Hubbard, Landwehr, Wedback.

Section D—Lyons, Warson, Roensch, Peters, Czerwonsky, Millies, Hill, with Lott, and Bennett as substitutes.

Fumble Decides Game

A recovered fumble by Garstong gave Section H, Tripp, a 6-0 victory over Section C. But for the one misplay the teams were evenly matched, the ball being near midfield most of the time.

Section C—Clement, Stoffel, H. Miller, Nehs, Kaiser, McCandles, Jess.

Section H—Still, Garson, Stewart, Ackley, Nowell, Sladen, Evans.

Bring on the Hearse

MEMBERS OF what used to be the Student senate gathered solemnly at the University club yesterday afternoon, and duly observed the sorrowful obsequies of their defunct organization. But the sorrowful tenor of this last meeting was not altogether unruffled. Harmony, of which we have heard so much this fall, was not especially plentiful. In fact, there was a considerable amount of quibbling and argumentation before the body was at last interred.

It was seen from the first that certain members had been acquired since the last meeting. They were three in number, and were culled from the rank and file of Wisconsin's student body of 9,000 by the method of election by default. It seemed that certain old-timers objected to this acquisition, in defiance to the president of the body. So there followed considerable rough and tumble mangling of Robert's much-quoted rules of order, with the result that the president was not sustained, the men were not eligible, the new members were not given their seats, or what you will in any phraseology which suits you best. The point was, the newly-elected-by-default members were ruled out.

At this point, one of the die-hards, the secretary in fact, apparently became disgusted and moved adjournment. A certain gentleman, seated at the other end of the table, volubly protested with, "Aw, what's the idea?" So the meeting was not adjourned. But it might as well have been, for little more was accomplished in the remainder, than to demonstrate how hopeless the "lost cause" really was. It is true that a few motions of slight importance were passed, but quibbling, sophomoric spoutings, student senatorial effusions, and occasional flashes of brilliant conversational powers occupied most of the time.

Yesterday's meeting was a final demonstration of how useless, ineffective, and farcical the Student senate actually was.

Let's Have an Answer

AT A RECENT meeting of representatives of several extant farm organizations, a few senators, and the heads of the state departments of marketing and agriculture, members of the university agricultural college faculty were charged with interfering in the work of various agricultural unions. Orin Fletcher, East Troy, John Norgaard, Ettrick, and Senator V. S. Kepple, Holman, were especially loud-spoken in their denunciations of the college. Among other things, Senator

Kepple charged that members of the "agric" faculty were stockholders in the Kennedy dairy company and other industrial enterprises and that such members of the faculty were not fair-minded advisers of agricultural organizations dealing with these industries.

These charges are serious, and, as Mr. Evjue, editor of the Capital Times, stated editorially last Sunday, charges that cannot be ignored by the college of agriculture. We wish to join our appeal with that of The Capital Times that some refutation of explanation of them be given by authorities of the college. For various reasons, many of which have been inevitable, the status of the Wisconsin college of agriculture has been impaired considerably during the past few years. Its standing with farmers of the state will be still lower if the college officials continue to ignore these attacks.

The College Coach

COMMENTING ON recent statements of Knute Rockne, famous coach of Notre Dame elevens, regarding the professionalism of modern college football and the grossly exaggerated position of its coaches, Dr. John W. Wilce, football mentor at Ohio State, recently agreed that there is little doubt of the over-emphasis of the coach's position, but declared that this is not of their own choosing. Dr. Wilce went on to say that a recent improvement in the game is the acceptance of football as a part of the legitimate university activities and the relative acceptance of coaches as faculty members.

An aspect of this question, particularly of that on the position of the coach was brought up at a discussion meeting last year, when the relative salaries of faculty members and members of the coaching staff was brought up. It was pointed out that the man who taught students how to tackle, pass, punt, and run with the ball received from two to three times the emolument given a professor who taught students some of the things they were supposedly sent to the university to get.

Perhaps the blame for this seemingly disproportionate salary ratio can best be laid at the door of the general public. Due to the immense popularity of football, people are more likely to attend a school, or to send their children to a school, which turns out a winning team occasionally rather than one which is unknown in the sporting world. Football has become a medium of advertising for the modern university. Officials of these institutions have realized the value of this publicity or propaganda, and are consequently desirous of having good teams. And a man who is capable of developing good teams is secured by that university at a salary which the importance of the game gives him the power to command.

The salary question is simply another instance of supply and demand; when good coaches are plentiful, the market will go down, but at present they are scarce, and are paid accordingly by competitive schools. When good educators are scarce, we will probably have with us the sufficiently-paid professor. But these changes do not seem to be forthcoming in the immediate future.

Another reason for the exaggerated importance of the college football coach is the publicity he receives in plentiful quantities from every sporting sheet in the country. Notre Dame is instantly associated with Knute Rockne, Indiana with "Pat" Page, Wisconsin with Glenn Thistlethwaite, Purdue with "Jimmy" Phelan, and so on. In the public mind, due to the influence of misguided sports writers resorting to such pronouns as "Staggmen," or "Rockne's aggregation," the football coach has become of more prominence than the president of a university. There are a hundred people who can name the coach at one school or another to the one who can name the faculty head of that institution.

This prominence of the coaches is not, in most cases, of their own choosing. A coach is hired to turn out a winning football team, and he sticks to his job whether the limelight be shed on him or on his players. Most of them are indifferent to publicity which they receive. Indifference is, of course, the only sensible attitude for them to adopt.

We believe conditions at Wisconsin are better than in the majority of American universities. Wisconsin does not exist solely for football. We have a well-paid coach, but we also have our well-paid instructors. We are too metropolitan to become unduly excited over crucial grid battles. A nice balance has been achieved, and, from all indications, it will remain indefinitely.

Where is That "W"?

A SHORT TIME before the Michigan game, much was heard about a mammoth block "W," red upon a white background, which would be formed in the Wisconsin stands by means of pennants in the hands of enthusiastic rooters. In one of the just-before-the-battle pep stories, it was announced that this gigantic symbol would rise up in the west stands, and would terrify Wolverine backers on the other side of the field.

But the red letter, like that over the heart of Hawthorne's parson, seemed to have been something which existed only in the mind. From his vantage point in the press box, the writer watched patiently throughout the Michigan game, but no such spectre appeared. Also, in the Purdue game, elaborate plans for this unique device seemed to have vanished into thin air.

We imagine the cause of failure was that of rather hasty planning. Although two men went so far as to obtain permission to sell the pennants that they appeared before the very august Student senate with their plan, their system for arranging them, apparently, did not receive quite so much attention.

The idea of forming a large red and white "W" in the stands is an excellent one, and would doubtless be quite impressive. A few years ago, Iowa had considerable success with a large black "I" against an old gold background. But the Iowa master of ceremonies did not depend upon minute triangles of color; he gave each person in that cheering section a large piece of colored cardboard. We believe this would be more effective here. If Mr. Bliffert would give rooters in a certain section correctly correctly tinted pieces of cardboard or stiff paper, his dream for a large block "W" might become an actuality. We don't know whether it could be done or not—that's up to the cheer leaders.

Don't send my boy to Harvard, the football player said.

We hate to say anything about the Tridels, everybody knows that, but we just phoned the artist who is to illustrate our magnificent opus in the next Octy (see advertisements) and the sweet female voice on the telephone announced that the artist had gone out to lunch.

After all, that's really nothing. After some of our meals we go out to the infirmary.

"Who was that man we pledged last night?"

"Him? Why he was your brother."

From the amount of publicity about it, the new Union should be known as the gas works.

DAD DAD DAD DAD DA!

And the Grinnell game is the Dad's day game. We had sort of wanted dad to come up and see a conference game. But Grinnell, we hear, nobody seems to know much about it, has a good team. Of course, it's not in the conference, and nobody much cares anything about the game. But it, so we hear by rumor, has a good team. And Wisconsin needs a field house and the two bucks that we fork out for dad will help some in building it. But still, we did rather want dad to see a conference game on Dad's day.

Our roommate says that whenever he takes out a girl who needs Listerine, he gives her a stick of gum to chew, because it's too darned much work to make her gargle.

Yes, children, this is very nice weather. We always have nice weather for our midsemesters. And the weather for spring exams is even better.

ED IS THE MOST SUSPICIOUS GUY

So Ed Fronk thought that perhaps some politicians had got together and arranged the junior political ticket. You just can't keep anything from Ed. Pretty soon he will suspect that occasionally there is drinking at Prom, and that all freshmen themes are not written by freshmen, and that Wisconsin beat Purdue last Saturday.

It's a lucky thing that the Chicago game is coming off soon. The fraternities are getting pretty low on silverware.

Dutch is a very selfish man. We asked to use his canoe, but he was going to use it, so we asked him for his car. And he wouldn't even fix a flat tire so we could use it!

They used to laugh at Philadelphia and say that it was still fighting the Civil war. We have to laugh. That's nothing at all, children, nothing at all. In Chicago they are still fighting the Revolutionary.

There will be a little informal get-together of the Gamma Phi Beta group at the Ag auditorium, 8:30 Thursday evening. Introductions will be arranged for sisters who have not yet met each other. Overflow will be taken care of at the Bascom theater.

HEY! ANNOUNCEMENT

We are pleased to announce that, in spite of all the hoorah about the things now, Rockets will this year print no puns on Rhodes scholars or Rhodes scholarships.

Isn't it strange how little you hear about "Coolidge luck" and "Coolidge taste" and "Coolidge silence" now that he has decided not to run for a third term?

BOSS OF THE INVITATIONS PLEASE TAKE NOTICE

The Cardinal banquet, we are informed on credible authority, takes place Thursday night. Last year at the banquet the meat was cold and the speeches poor. It is notorious that nobody ever has a good time at a Cardinal banquet. We have not yet received an invitation for this year's Cardinal banquet.

It is very good weather outside. Far too nice to write Rockets. But we must be conscientious. We shall flip. Heads and we go out. Tails and we flip over again.

R. O. T. C. Clash Continues at Iowa

Debates and opinions on the question of optional or compulsory military training on the University of Iowa campus, more or less dormant over the week end, received fresh fuel yesterday when several new phases developed.

Rumors current, and gaining in strength, were that after the return of President Walter A. Jessup and Dean George F. Kay, of the college of liberal arts, Saturday, a meeting with several other members of the faculty was held, in order to outline to the administrators the various details of the situation.

Straw votes held in several classes Friday, Saturday and Monday resulted in a student vote overwhelmingly against compulsory military training.

Dean Kay declared yesterday that he thought the best thing for the university as a whole would be not to lay so much stress on the situation. "However, the matter has been referred to the proper committee and until it reports I am not prepared to make a statement," the dean said.

The conservative branch of the Society of Friends, meeting in West Branch at their annual meeting last week-end passed a motion denouncing military training.

Mrs. J. J. Gittens, of Iowa City, who is a gold star mother, is not in favor of compulsory military drill. She said, "I certainly am in favor of military training being made optional, not because my boy was killed in the World war. He wanted to go and it was his duty to go. But I think that to have such a thing thrust upon a person detracts from good citizenship. Many of these boys, just out of high school, come from homes against military training. They are immediately forced into something contrary to their home ideals and beliefs."

"I think it is childish to have peace conferences and a league of nations and then force military training on students!"

PLAYER'S TRYOUTS

Tryouts for men for parts in 'He Who Gets Slapped' will continue to be held daily at 4:30 o'clock in Bascom theater.

Directories to be Out in November Registrar Says

Miss Martin, the assistant registrar was unable to state definitely the time at which the student directories will be out, but it is probable that they will be ready early in November.

In the second week of school the typing for the directories was started. At the present time the galley proof has been completed, the page proof is approximately one-half finished, and the faculty list copy is practically completed.

Few realize how much time is spent in checking over the lists so that they will be accurate. It is necessary to check over the entrance blanks of the new students and to verify the names and classifications of last year's students. The card which the student has filled out is checked with the lists for correct telephone numbers and street addresses, after which any changes are made on the cards and on the copy. The fee cards are gone over and also special lists for the verification of the colleges and courses. No name is printed unless the student has paid his fees.

Notices will be posted and announcements will appear in the Cardinal as soon as it is possible to obtain the directories.

Theatres

BY M. M.

"The Cat and the Canary" seems to be endowed with the nine lives credited to the animal which contributes its name to the fore part of this title, for it has returned to town, this time as a film attraction showing at the Madison theater. It is welcome, too, because it is as good an entertainment on the two-dimension stage as it was in what some persons call the "legitimate" theater.

Paul Leni, the director, should be doubly congratulated for adhering so closely to the text of the play and transferring the mystery of it as effectively as he did. To be sure, there is some cheating. Suspicion is deliberately misdirected—there are some items that do not fit when the play is worked backwards, but that is the fault of author John Willard, and not director Paul Leni.

An important point is that the story does not unfold backwards, and therefore these weaknesses are apparent only in retrospect. In the course of the action, the attention is held firmly, and many a deft touch impossible in the stage production has been incorporated for that express purpose.

In order to heighten the spooky effect, the director has moved his camera just as he saw fit. For instance, he once gives it the viewpoint of a ghost moving down a corridor, and again the viewpoint of a falling picture. There is no artistic justification for this, such as the Germans have when they set their cameras at peculiar angles, but the desired results are attained—and who cares about art in a mystery play?

Heading the cast as the much bedeviled Annabelle West is Laura La Plante, of full face and beautiful hair. She is as scared and lovely as any heroine in the play has been, and that is enough. Excited laughter is kept at a high pitch by the efforts of Flora Finch, practiced comedienne, who acts the part of Aunt Susan in what has come to be the traditional manner.

The rest of the cast, including Creighton Hale, Forest Stanley, Tully Marshall, Gertrude Astor, and Martha Mattox are somewhat better than they need be, because here is a production that could carry through with unknowns and still make a hit.

Minnesota Students Plan Campus Movie Entitled "Gopher Love"

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—Lovers of all kinds, lovers of dramatics, of movies, and of expression appeared yesterday at the Music building to try out for the Minnesota movie "Gopher Love" which will be filmed on the campus.

Although more than 50 students appeared for the trials, the casting committee, consisting of Edward Staadt, director of dramatics, and members of National Collegiate players were undecided whether a sufficient number of campus actors had appeared. Due to the particular difficulties connected with filming actors inexperienced in movie work, it was decided to leave the elimination tryouts until a later date, and in the meantime to ask for more candidates.

Twenty men and 20 women will be chosen at the preliminary trials to be later tested in front of the camera.

"Gopher Love" will be a full-length movie and will be shown in the Music building later on in the fall. The scenario has been written by Harriet Ellis and will be portrayed, filmed, produced, and acted by campus talent.

Forest Products Has Research Students From Five Countries was host during the summer to a group of foreign research men who came from England, Australia, Sweden, Finland, and Mexico.

Mr. Wilhelm Rosen, a graduate of the Technological Institute of Stockholm, Sweden, has just finished 9 months of research of the distillation of softwoods in the laboratory's chemical utilization section.

Messrs. J. E. Cummins and H. S. Dadsell from Australia are engaged in general research.

Mr. W. G. Campbell, from England has concluded a two year stay at the laboratory in which he has been engaged in general forest products researches.

Sr. Hermenegildo Barrios, from Mexico spent a year in studying the methods used at the Forest Products Laboratory here.

Mr. Uno W. Lehtinen of Finland has just completed three years of extensive study in the S. S., the last month of which he spent at the laboratory. Mr. Lehtinen was amazed at the absence of forest insurance, a policy which is common to Finland to the extent that 50 per cent of their farmers carry insurance on their wooded lands.

All of which goes to show in what high repute the laboratory on University Avenue, is held not only by citizens of this nation, but also by people of all enlightened countries.

F. O. N. L. Festival Held on Saturday at Memorial Park

A council fire and feast by starlight will feature the third and final outing to be held this season by the Friends of Our Native Landscape, when they journey to Richmond Memorial park, more commonly known as the Rocks of Gibraltar, Saturday, Oct. 29.

The outing is the annual festival of the falling leaf and will include the selection of a site for a permanent mark preliminary to the formal dedication of the park.

A caravan of cars will leave the library building on the lower campus at 1:15 o'clock on Saturday. Members of the club, which include a number of faculty members and Madison people, will be in the party, as well as university students from foreign countries. Foreign students are annually guests of the club and transportation will be provided for them. The Chicago chapter of the organization will also make the trip which involves a thirty mile drive from Madison along highway 112 to a point two miles west of Oke.

The Richmond park comprises about twenty acres of some of Wisconsin's most picturesque scenery, part of which has been called the Rocks of Gibraltar from a fancied resemblance to the Pillars of Hercules.

The parks presented to the Friends by Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Richmond, both lovers of the out-of-doors. It will be dedicated to "the original homesteaders and the memory of early pioneering and the history of the past."

An informal program, including talks by Jens Jensen and Prof. Finch, will be presented Saturday at the park and songs will be sung at the council fire, which will conclude the day's outing. J. S. Donald, president of the Madison chapter and professor of agricultural economics in the university, is anxious that those who intend to participate in the trip notify Franz A. Aust, secretary, before Wednesday. He would appreciate information as to transportation accommodations.

Foreign students are urged to make the trip and are assured of a most interesting afternoon.

Judge Carcasses

The live animals will be judged this afternoon. Tomorrow the pigs will be slaughtered at the Oscar Mayer Packing plant, and Friday the carcasses will be judged.

Arle Mucks, secretary of the Live Stock Breeders' association in charge of the Live Stock show bemoaned the fact that few university students ever attend an affair of this kind.

"It's not a private affair," he declared, "and we would like to see the university students out here. There is no charge for admission."

Glenn Thistlethwaite Tells Kiwanis Club of Minnesota Game

"We are going to meet the 'thundering herd' on Saturday and anyone who has ever had any experience with stampeding cattle can be of aid to me," Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite told members of the Kiwanis club Monday noon at the Park hotel.

Members of the university coaching staff were introduced by George E. Little, director of athletics, who spoke briefly on his theory of athletics for all.

In judging the work of officials, Coach Thistlethwaite urged the public to be careful of its words. "I am not in favor of a coach and player protesting that every ruling of an official is correct, but I do not think that it is the place of people not on the team to protest too vehemently the rulings of officials."

"The reason that the public feels it can protest indiscriminately," said Coach Thistlethwaite, "is probably because it costs them nothing to do so."
