Memorial Union to Get Financial Boost Tonight At 800-Couple Dance

Regular Lathrop Dance Called Off; Overflow Crowd Expected

Students tonight will gather at 9 o'clock at the Loraine hotel in the first university social event of the year, the Memorial Union benefit dance. From the standpoint of numbers in attendance, the affair is expected to be second only to the junior promenade. If the Badgers win at Purdue, the dance will probably be, beside a Memorial Union rally, a football jubilee.

Tickets were selling rapidly at the Co-op and in fraternities yesterday. Several fraternities will attend in a body. Many Madisonians have been invited and will be present. Altogether provisions are being made for approximately 800 couples.

All Receipts Help Building Every cent taken in will be turned over to the Memorial Union building fund and applied toward the letting of building contracts next week.

Arrangements for the dance were compete last night. Flindt's 11-piece orchestra, which has offered its services for the evening, will appear immediately after its engagement at the Strand theater and be ready to start the dance at 9:15 o'clock. A special program has been prepared by the Flindt troupe which includes vocal numbers by Jimmy Puddycourt and Ed Crosby. Dancing will continue until midnight.

May Use Mezzanine The Crystal ballroom floor, which is exceptionally good for dancing, will be further prepared for tonight's party. If the ballroom becomes crowded, the whole mezzanine floor which adjoins the ballroom will be thrown open for dancing. Special check room and lounging arrangements have been made on the mezzanine floor.

The usual Union dance at Lathrop parlors has been called off in (Continued on page two)

Legion Head

Howard P. Savage

Savage, Former Badger Student, Now Heads Legion

Howard P. Savage, who was elected yesterday as the American Legion commander who will lead "the second A. E. F. to Paris in 1927," attended the university during the year 1903-04. Savage did not cuss in topping his rival, Col. J. Monroe Johnson, for the leadership of the Legion until after 11 ballots had been cast by the delegates at the national convention in Philadelphia.

Savage did not graduate from the university, being enrolled for only one year. While studying here he was in the Course in Commerce as a junior.

He is now living in Chicago where he is general superintendent of maintainance for the South Side elevated railway.

The convention also honored the Wisconsin department of the Legion yesterday in awarding it the James A. Drain trophy, given to the department which shows consistent service to the community. Another honor came to Wisconsin when Mrs. MacAuley of Menomonee, was elected president of the American Legion auxiliary.

DORMS MEN MAY NOW SMOKE IN REFECTION

The men who are occupying the dormitories, Tripp and Adams halls, may now smoke at the table, Don E. Halverson, director of dormitories and commons, announced yesterday noon. The men had been requested not to smoke in the refactory, Halverson said, because of a rule made by the regents. The regents at their meeting Wednesday modified the rule to allow smoking at the tables.

RIGHTLY TREMBLE, YE, FOR EXAMS APPROACH

The little books of ominously blue color will soon be making their appearance upon the campus, bringing cheer and grim foreboding, fear and trembling into the hearts of the undergraduates.

Dean Sellery of the College of Letters and Science yesterday warned that six weeks exams will begin Oct. 19 and continue till Oct. 29. It is probable that in the very near future the students will be forced to give up their idle ramblings about the campus, reveling in the Indian summer weather, the bright, golden tints of the autumn leaves and the cool invigorating sweep of the wind off Lake Mendota, and confine themselves to the pleasures of the study-table and printed page.

The Service institute will be adjacent to the Wisconsin General hospital, and there will be a covered passageway connecting the two buildings. The new building will be on Linden Drive and Charter street.

ELIGIBILITY CHECK BEING MADE IN POLITICAL RACE

Names of All Candidates Will be Made Known by Tonight

Because it was impossible to check the scholastic eligibility of candidates after the last minute rush of filing petitions for the election on Oct. 29, the Student senate election committee last night refused to announce the names of those entering the fall political race.

With the exception of the senior class, at least two complete tickets were filed at the dean of men's office before 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The seniors, innovating a new system, held caucuses to agree on their candidates; in this manner all competition except for the president's office was eliminated. There are two men running for the presidency of the senior class, but other offices, having been decided upon by a representative gathering of seniors beforehand, will go by default to the one ticket.

Three For Prom Chairman

The junior politicians were the only ones to file more than two tickets. Three candidates for the junior prom chairmanship and their supporting tickets are being groomed for the race.

The sophomore class entered two complete sets of candidates for all offices including Badger board and Student senate.

Frosh File Petitions

The only failure to file petitions before the deadline yesterday afternoon occurred in the freshman class where only the president on the third ticket succeeded in recording his signed nomination before 5 o'clock. Since he is left unsupported by the rest of his ticket, Daniel Kerth '27, election board head, said he believed it likely that the third man would withdraw, leaving the field to the other two entrants. Dolphin Club Picks 33 Frosh, 3 Sophs as New Members

Out of the 53 girls who entered the two try-outs of the Dolphin club, held in Lathrop pool this week 35 were elected to membership. Of those entering the second try-outs, held Oct. 1, the vice-president, Bernice Marion '27, wishes to announce that the following are elected:

Margaret Bobbit, Ruth Goldman, Florence Ritchie, Martha Carson, Eleanor Reese, Edith Finn, Jane Gage, Alverna Blei, Virginia Kruse, Sally Owen, Florence Swenson, Mary Parkhurst, Freddie Peace, Virginia Downs, Virginia Clement, Elen Preston, Helen Hoops Martin, Louise Lyon, and Gertrude Bartlett, all freshmen.

Upper classmen elected are Virginia North '28, Genevieve Jones '28, and Arleigh Kent '28.

Cardinals Meet Purdue Today in Big Ten Game; Boilermakers Confident

Badgers Score on Grid-graph Today

Watching the gains, downs, and scores roll in via gridgraph at 2 o'clock today at the gym annex, more than 1400 university men and women will cheer the Badgers on to victory over Purdue.

Overcoming the important factor of distance, the gridgraph makes it virtually possible for the student to follow the play yard by yard. And when the ball is put across, the echoes of the cheers should reach the ears of the fighting teams.

Thirty-five cents for two hours of thrills is the price, and "Varsity" will boom out across the campus just the same as if the game were at Camp Randall.

FORUM DISCUSSES VARIOUS SUBJECTS

Group's First Meeting Informal; Will Bring Scott Nearing Here

Considering matters that are almost absolutely repressed at other Big Ten universities, the Wisconsin Student Forum opened its year's activity Thursday at 7:30 o'clock in the fellowship room of the university Y. M. C. A. with a discussion of "Problems Facing the Modern Student."

Questions ranging from religion to free trade were brought up, and members were free to give five minute discussions concerning their views on the subjects. No definite program was followed and no business meeting was held.

Scott Nearing, prominent lecturer and writer, who was prevented from giving a talk in Minneapolis last year by the University of Minnesota authorities, will be brought to Madison by the Forum on December 16.

"We are depending on the Wisconsin tradition for free speech and open-mindedness," said Richard Ludwig Li, president of the Forum, "to prevent any such intolerant repression from interfering with our plans."

SOCIAL HOUR PLANNED BY LUTHER MEMORIAL

On Sunday evening there will be a social hour from 5 to 6 o'clock at the Luther Memorial church which will be followed by a cost supper at 6 o'clock and Luther league meeting at 6:45 o'clock. A very interesting entertainment will be given at the social hour.

PROF. KOFFKA STARTS COURSE IN NEW GERMAN PHILOSOPHY

Arriving in New York on Monday from Germany, Prof. K. Koffka, noted German psychologist, hurried to Madison so that he would be able to begin his work at the university as soon as possible. He gave his first lecture at the university yesterday.

Prof. Koffka is one of the world leaders in his science. He is known as the chief exponent of the "Gestalt" school of psychology. The classes that he is now teaching at the university are "Psychology of Mental Development," and "Psychology of Perception."

This is Prof. Koffka's second visit to America. During his first stay, he taught in the educational department of Cornell university for one year and in the psychology department at the University of Chicago for six weeks.

Prof. Koffka said, "I am sure I will like it in Madison, because there is no doubt about its being a great university. The greatest difference I notice between the universities in the United States and in Germany is in the number of girls attending. There are so many more that attend the universities in the United States than in Germany."

According to Prof. Koffka the University of Giessen where he formerly taught, although it has only 1500 students, is considered the greatest university of Germany.

"Universities in Germany do not teach such a general education to the masses as do the universities of America. They are more for research and specialization in the professional field," said Dr. Koffka.

Prof. Koffka's book, "The Growth of the Mind," was recently translated by Prof. R. M. Ogden, dean of Cornell university.

Thirty-three Men Uphold Badger Hopes at LaFayette This Afternoon

By STAN KALISH
Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 15. — The University of Wisconsin Cardinal wave of 33 players went through its final workout here this afternoon in the Ross-Ade Stadium prior to the opening game of the Big Ten season with the Purdue eleven. Purdue Confident

Under the eagle eye of Head Coach Gorge Little the players place kicking, and going through a passed the ball around panting, short signal drill before the Boilermakers took the field for their final workout. Lafayette is bedecking itself with all the regalia of a gala event, it is the Boilermakers Home-coming tomorrow and the school is doing itself proud entertaining alumni and visitors.

The talk around town is not "to hold the Badgers," but rather "the Badgers will be lucky to tie." Cotton Wilcox, who deems well to replace with his 99 the 77 of the Illinois phantom, "Red Grange" is expected to tear off long gains in tomorrow's game. Coach Phelan, The Purdue Mentor, has withdrawn his team to the Lafayette country club, and will keep them there in seclusion until the time for the game.

Harmon to Start
Although the Boilermakers were defeated by the Navy 17-13 two weeks ago, and just eked out a 21 to 14 victory over Wabash last week they are a potentially strong eleven, and bid well to give the Badgers a great battle, but critics generally believe the diversified attack of the Cardinals along with their weight advantage and reserve strength will wear the Purdue team down, and in all probability the victory will be snatched in the third or fourth periods. Every man on the Boilermaker team is in a fit condition that the Boilermakers are far more (Continued on page three)

REGENTS APPROVE FACULTY CHANGES

Also Grant Degrees to 61 Graduates Who Completed Work

A large number of routine changes in the university instructional staff were approved by the Board of Regents at its meeting Wednesday afternoon. New appointments were necessary in order to meet the increased teaching load occasioned by the heavy increase in enrollment this fall. The regents also granted degrees to 61 persons who have completed requirements since June commencement.

In the College of Letters and Science—C. O. Swanson was promoted from instructor to assistant professor of geology. Elizabeth Yerxa was appointed lecturer in sociology and Susan B. Davis lecturer in speech. Mrs. Marion Johnson Phillips was appointed instructor in applied arts. Assistants were appointed as follows:

In botany, Isabel Buntin, James A. Lotz; in chemistry, M. Leslie Holt; in English, Mildred Brownlee, Mildred Fish Harnack, Dorothy Poindexter, Mrs. Harriett Newton Hall, Vivian Monk, Wyman Smith, Robert H. Tucker; in history, Eva Swantner, LaVone Patrick, Marian Silenus, Mrs. Jessie W. Luther; in applied arts, Emile Wiedenbeck; in journalism, Mrs. Lillian Hughes Neiswanger; in mathematics, Robert Erickson, Mrs. L. H. Bunyan, Elizabeth Hart; in philosophy, Carl M. Bgholt, Norman Bradish, Eve Knower, John W. Powell; in political science, John F. Schreiner; in French, Sophie (Continued on page nine)

DOCTOR EXPLAINS NEW CLINIC WORK

High Heels Are Cause of Most Foot Trouble, Examiners Find

A great slump in the price of pediatric remedies is predicted to the basis of the economic law that a lack of demand for an article causes its price to drop until the supply may be apportioned to the want. The foot clinic headed by Dr. H. D. Denniston of the Department of Physical Education for Women, is the cause for the improved condition of the feet of Wisconsin women.

Service and advise for the correction of pediatric troubles is offered by Dr. Denniston and Miss E. M. Smith of all women students from 2 to 1:30 o'clock every Friday in their respective offices in Lathrop hall. During the physical examinations held recently, students whose feet needed correction were advised to come to the clinic, but it was not until yesterday that a schedule could be arranged to accommodate all who sought advice.

Dr. Denniston attributed a great number of foot troubles to the fact that women wear high-heeled pumps on the campus daily. Instead of being held back in the heel of the shoe, the foot is thrust forward in such a manner that the toes receive the weight of the entire body.

This condition is very often the cause of bunions, fallen arches, and flat feet. It was stated that people from flat parts of the country should be especially careful to wear correct and sensible shoes, since foot troubles which they never suspected are caused by climbing the hill.

"We hope," said Dr. Denniston, "by establishing the foot clinic to take care of difficulties in girls' feet without taking her out of her general activities in the gymnasium or elsewhere."

favor of the general assembly at the Loraine. Andy Brown, valuable policeman at Lathrop, will be on hand with his stick and the regular Union staff to see that things go as they should.

Chaperons will be present in the persons of Dean and Mrs. Chester Snell, Prof. and Mrs. Leon Iltis, and Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Carpenter.

Tickets to the dance may be secured during the day at the Co-op or tonight in the Loraine hotel lobby. The price per couple is $2. No stags will be admitted.

Nelson Jansky '26 Now Music Critic for Boston Paper

Nelson M. Jansky '26, son of Prof. and Mrs. C. M. Jansky leaves Monday to accept the position of music and dramatic editor of the Boston Transcript. Jansky was graduated from the course in journalism last June and participated in various activities while in the university.

He was sophomore assistant of the editorial department of the 1925 Badger, special writer and theater editor of the 1924 Daily Cardinal, publicity officer of the Men's Glee club, a member of Philomathia literary society and of Sigma Delta Chi, honorary journalistic fraternity.

Since October, 1924, Jansky has been music and dramatic critic for the Wisconsin State Journal, and for the last month has been Sunday editor.

Octy Subscription Contest Ends at Noon; Race Close

Octopus Inter-sorority subscription contest, which has been on throughout the campus for the past two weeks will close at noon today, according to Barbara Hornsby, '26, publicity manager. All subscriptions must be turned in by 6 o'clock tonight to be counted toward the cup presented by the Octopus, Miss Hornsby stated.

Race for leadership is exceedingly close and at present it is impos-

School of Music Graduates Now in Many Posts

That graduates of the School of Music are making their mark in the musical world is evidenced by the number of positions taken by the music students of 1926. Public school work has claimed many members of the class while positions in colleges have taken others.

The graduates of the School of Music are now dispersed throughout the country, some working as far away as Louisiana and Arkansas. Students of whom the school has heard are as follows:

Rosemary Rooney, Centenary College, Shreveport, La.; Grace Plumlee, A. and M. College, Monticello, Arkansas; Gladys Waters, Baraboo, Wisconsin; Luella Nienaber, Reedsburg, Wisconsin; Elizabeth Madden, Highland Park, Illinois; Joy Matzek, Watertown, Wisconsin; Anna M. Clifford, Detroit, Michigan; Berenice Zender, Walworth, Wisconsin; Ethel Slicher, Argyle, Wisconsin.

Pauline Norseng, who is not a graduate, but who finished three years work at the school, is at Prairie du Chien, in public school music. Maude Glynn, a graduate of three years ago, is located in Milwaukee in public school music there.

SCOTT, GARDNER TALK AT COMMERCE SMOKER

Prof. W. A. Scott, director of the course in commerce, and Prof. E. H. It is of course impossible to give any exact figures on the number of subscriptions taken in the contest, but indications point to the fact that between 1000 and 1100 of them have been sold.

CANDIDATES NOT NAMED; ELIGIBILITY IS CHECKED

Lack of interest in the Student senate was evidenced when only the sophomores entered more men than positions open. Only one senior threw his hat in the senatorial race when there were three positions open. One junior filed for the junior class portal on the senate; two posts were open. The second year class entered four men for its two positions. No graduate student presented a petition for the one position open to graduates on the senate.

Eight sophomores are up for the four Badger board offices. Two men, Chris Zillman '29 and John Fairbanks '29, recommended earlier in the week for Union board, complete the fall slate.

Dr. Eloise Gerry to Help Conduct Forest Field Day

Dr. Eloise Gerry of the U. S. Forest Products laboratory will leave Oct. 27 for Florida to assist in conducting a Forest Field Day in the Florida national forest near Crestview.

Another member of the Forest Products laboratory, J. A. Newlin, recently was sent to visit a number of logging operations in the north and northwest in a study of utilization problems connected with logging.

Mr. Newlin's chief purpose is to form an opinion as to whether or not engineering knowledge may be applied to finding practical methods of reducing the amount of breakage occurring during the felling of large

While Wisconsin is putting unsightly cleat-marks all over the new green turf of Rose-Ade stadium, Lafayette, this afternoon, other football teams in other centers of learning, notably, Urbana, Evanston, Ann Arbor and Chicago, will be going about the same business in much the same manner.

At Ann Arbor, where the props are set for a nasty 60-minute struggle between those delightful old friends, Michigan and Minnesota, many of the mere onlookers are wondering whether the Gophers will stumble again. For some six years now, Minnesota has been promising to beat Michigan; and for an equal length of time, Minnesota has failed to do just that thing.

Wolverine supporters, however, are not a little perturbed over the injury of Louis Gilbert, the one and only good Michigan punter. Gilbert has practiced only a little this week and may be unable to stay with his team throughout the game.

And on the usual other hand, Minnesota in planning to let Alquist and Joesting, her mightiest backs, give the Wolverine line all the pounding it can stand and some extra. If Molenda, whom the Michigan Daily refers to as the "stop and go sign behind me Michigan line," does nothing else, he will have his hands full stopping these lads.

Illinois, for no apparent reason, seems to think it has an edge on Iowa in the Homecoming battle at Urbana today. Young "Frosty" Peters, sophomore halfback, is the main reason for this confidence. He flashed an amazing brand of broken-field running against Butler last week, and the Illini can't get it out of their heads that he will do the same thing today.

Those who watch the game from the Iowa side will be more interested in the antics of that erratic bucko, "Cowboy" Kutsch. Nick ruined a perfectly good victory for Illinois last year by ambling nonchalantly across the goal line with an extra touchdown just before the game ended. His score gave the Hawks the decision, 12-10.

Harlan O. "Pat" Page, new Indiana coach, wheeled a green Hoosier team into Evanston last night for its first start against what the Western conference calls good football. Northwestern's veteran eleven will get little cooperation from the Indians, but it may eke out a touchdown of two anyway. Page has picked his men largely for their ability to get steamed up in the heat of battle and the team can easily be irritated to a pitch that may prove dangerous, even for Northwestern.

Ohio State is making a deep bow to the East today as it sends its great team into the Polo Grounds, New York, for a return game with Columbia. Since the passing of Percy Haughton, Columbia has again slipped into careless football ways and it is doubtful whether she will offer any stubborn resistance to Marty Karow and Elmer Marek, Buckeye backfield aces.

The last conference eleven, Chicago Franklin field, Philadelphia, where "Red" Grange and his Illini interference scored their most impressive 1925 victory. Pennsylvania, opposing the Maroons, has been spoken of highly by numerus eastern journalists who are supposed also to know something about football. If that is true, Chicago has an afternoon of going ahead of her.

Think of all the good football games you might be seeing today, then drag out your imagination and brave the multitudes in the Gym annex to watch the little light go through its expressive gyrations. Expressive of victory, we hope.

BIG TEN ELEVENS PLAY HARD GAMES THIS AFTERNOON

All Schools, Save Ohio and Chicago, Meet Conference Opponents

By H. O. L.

With the Western Conference season swinging into full blast today there are many headliners on the afternoon's grid card. Ohio and Chicago are the only schools playing teams outside the conference, but nevertheless, they are meeting outfits strong enough to give them the acid test.

Wisconsin will undoubtedly enter the Purdue contest as a favorite, regardless of the faith Purdue backers have in their new team. With the addition of Capt. Doyle Harmon to the backfield, the Badgers should be that much stronger. It is possible and very probable that the Hoosiers may shove over a touchdown on Little's bunch, but that should not hinder Wisconsin from obtaining a victory. It looks as though the score ought to be about 21 to 7 in favor of the Badgers.

Gophers Attract Attention

The Michigan-Minnesota game is attracting much attention this week as is the Illinois-Iowa game. Michigan will set Minnesota back without a great deal of trouble unless the Gophers have been concealing their actual strength. Michigan ought to win by at least 21 to 0. Illinois is favored to defeat the Hawkeyes even though Coach Zuppke is fearful of a surprise attack on the part of Iowa. It will be an interesting match between "Frosty" Peters and "Cowboy" Kutsch.

Another game that is bound to attract a great following is the Indiana-Northwestern battle. It will be Pat Page's formal initiation into Big Ten football and though his team is not favored to down the Wildcats still it has been hinted that he has not yet released his few words.

On the whole it looks like a fairly close battle with the Badgers the favorites, but not by too many points. About 5 o'clock today we'll know, and until then we must use our paper guesses. The probable line-ups:

WISCONSIN EXPECTED TO SEND STRONG TEAM AGAINST PURDUE

Capt. Harmon Adds Strength to Backfield; Line is Much Improved

Coach Little has stressed the fact that the Boilermakers are far more powerful offensively than defensively, so Wisconsin will make every effort to retain the ball as much as possible and a diversified attack to smash the line to victory. Doyle Harmon, Badger captain, who has been on the sidelines all season is slated to get into the game. Along with "Toad" Crofoot this pair should make sizeable gains on end runs and off-tackle slashes.

Kreuz and Barnum will do the smashing. Frank Shaw, the 138-pound streak of greased lightning, who has one of the most deceptive ball carrying methods in the Big Ten, will no doubt see service part time as will Gene Rose, Joe Kresky and Mansfield, who was only a mediocre performer until he found himself in the Kansas game last week. Coach Phelan surprised the Lafayette fans Wednesday night, when instead of an expected last scrimmage he did not even have his team don uniforms, but rather spent the time in a long explanation and lecture on "How to Beat Wisconsin" which we don't quite believe possible.

Frank Speaks

To top off the game the Wisconsin team with Coach Little and they tell us President Glenn Krank will be guests at the banquet here after the game. President Elliot of Purdue who somewhere in the dim past was a professor at Madison is slated to speak and of course, President Frank and our own "Big George" will be expected to say a few words.

On the whole it looks like a fairly close battle with the Badgers the favorites, but not by too many points. About 5 o'clock today we'll know, and until then we must use our paper guesses. The probable line-ups:

Wisconsin	Positions	Purdue

HOOSIERS COMBAT WILDCATS TODAY

Pat Page Brings Scrappy, Young Team to Evanston for First Big Game

BLOOMINGTON, Ind.—Indiana university's football team, one of the two Hoosier elevens remaining undefeated this season, left yesterday for Northwestern where this afternoon the Crimson will open the Conference season in the new Purple stadium.

Coach Pat Page will send his athletes through a short limbering up session this afternoon on the new field.

The appearance of Coach Page in Chicago with a football team will be the first since he left the coaching staff of Alonzo Stagg, six years ago. Page was a three-sport star under Stagg and later assisted Stagg for ten years. His return to Conference football as a pilot of Indiana university will be watched with added interest.

It is a severe test for Coach Page as a starter. Northwestern has a veteran eleven and many critics have picked the Wildcats as a favorite for Big Ten honors. Indiana is light, lacks experience, but has a powerful fighting machine.

SECOND ROUND OF TOUCH FOOTBALL GAMES TOMORROW

Fraternities to Continue Intramural Play at Camp Randall; Schedule Announced

Touch football will again swing into action Sunday morning with twelve fraternities battling for honors.

Every fraternity seems to be talking and playing touch football and all are hoping that their teams come through with victories. The number of men practicing every night on the lower campus shows that they have a fighting interest this year.

HAWKEYES INVADE ILLINOIS STADIUM

"Nick" Kutch and His Iowa Mates Aim to Spoil Sucker Homecoming

URBANA, Ill.—That the 50,000 fans who will travel to the Illinois stadium today for the big homecoming battle between the Illini and Iowa are likely to see a real game is the opinion of the wise ones in the orange and blue camp.

On the eve of the game, Bob Zuppke and his aides, convinced that the Hawkeyes are underestimated and that Illinois has no edge Saturday, were striving hopefully to keep up the Illini.

The Illinois campus is losing its earlier confidence, and it seems to be agreed now that the Hawks will be troublemakers. The conviction that there will be a battle from start to finish is shown by the great increase in ticket sales. Just let the sun shine Saturday. Then the Illini expect to sell 10,000 tickets at the gate. They are able to assure all last minute patrons that tickets will be available and it is improbable that anyone will have to sit in the temporary stands.

Even at the last minute Coach Zuppke is seeking to strengthen the team. Sam Jones, sub guard, sprang into the limelight this week as a possibility. Frank Lanum, bothered by his infected arm, nevertheless is counted on but Zuppke has Blair Freney ready to take a place in the back field.

Nick "Cowboy" Kutsch, who galloped 61 yards for a touchdown against North Dakota, is the act of the Iowa backfield. Evers, quarterback; Schmidt, fullback; and Grimm, halfback, are sprinters who may break loose any time. Armil, Hogan and Cuhel are other good ball carriers. Hogan is also a finished drop-kicker, who may be called for in an emergency.

Four veterans will be found in the Iowa line. Captain Smith is playing his third year at end, Rice, the other end, and Hines and Nelson, tackles are third year men. Chatterton, guard, and Brown, center, are sophomores. Both are big and powerful and of the aggressive fighting type.

WOLVERINES TEST MINNESOTA TODAY

Michigan Prepared to Loose Powerful Attack Against Northerners

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—Michigan and Minnesota were ready and willing for their conflict at Ferry Field here today.

Possessed of a heavy, driving team, Minnesota was hopeful that she would crush the jinx Michigan has held over her in recent years. The two opposing lines are reckoned as good as any in the conference, while the backfields employ almost totally different methods of ground-gaining.

Almquist and Joesting, long range guns in the Gopher turret, may crumple the superb tackle and guard combination that Michigan has set up to stop them. But Friedman, Oosterbaan, and Molenda, the three points of the Wolverine open attack, are likely to prove equally dangerous.

This is the first of the two game series to be played by Michigan and Minnesota this year. The second game is scheduled for Minneapolis.

With the railroads of Greece unable to keep up to the demands of the growth in population even with government aid, the officials of the country are rushing highway construction in order to encourage automobile

Sacrifice

Tonight one of the largest university dances will be held at the Hotel Loraine for the purpose of helping to swell the cash available for the Memorial Union building. There will be no dance at Lathrop and students will find all their friends heading for the Memorial Union dance.

In the crisis which has developed in the Union project it is consoling to see the response by townspeople as well as students to the call for aid. During the past week several thousand dollars have been turned in by students. Alumni too, have answered the call, and tonight there is to be a dance given through the courtesy of the Hotel Loraine, the Strand Theater, and Flindt's orchestra. Each of these organizations has given willingly of the profits which might have been made through their regular channels.

It is highly gratifying to see this sacrifice upon the part of organizations which are not directly concerned with the campus. This spirit of sacrifice seems to be the keynote of the whole Union project and is fittingly so. The building is intended as a memorial to those who sacrificed themselves across the sea that we might enjoy the benefits of such an education as we are receiving at Wisconsin. Sacrifice should go into the making of such a memorial.

The Hotel Loraine, the Strand theater, and Flindt's orchestra are to be congratulated on their response to the call for aid. It should be an inspiration to students to dig deeper into their pockets, to give a little more, to sacrifice something—for the Union.

Clean Politics

The elections petitions are out and the heated debates among juniors is finally settled. The organizations have at last agreed upon their candidates and from now on there will be no question as to who is in the field. From the type of politics which have been evidenced during the past three weeks we suspect that there yet will be some knifing in the back and swinging of support from one side to the other.

There is at least one significant thing about the elections this year which may prove of great worth to future classes. The action of the seniors in uniting upon a ticket without rotten politics is entirely meritorious in our estimation. The choice between the two men for class president will rest entirely upon the merits of the individual and no campaigning will be conducted. The question will be decided by the seniors in a fair and square method without the tiring and futile campus politics which have accompanied so many other class elections.

Last year when Jeff Burrus was selected by the juniors as their candidate for prom chairman there was no antagonism to the event itself because of political animosities. The 1927 prom had the entire support of the junior class and was not troubled with the quibblings of the various factions which have ruined other proms.

It was felt last year that the unity of the class of 1927 was a marked improvement over the system which had prevailed in the past. The senior class has accepted the decision made last spring and adopted similar plans this year. The two candidates for presidency are the choice of the class as far as a primary vote could ascertain. The choice between the two will rest with the entire senior class to decide.

By the time students have become seniors they should know each other well enough, and should know the eligible men well enough to decide upon one ticket and vote on that group without the house to house canvass, without the still sessions behind closed doors, and without the knifings in the back which have made campus politics so distasteful.

Congratulations to the seniors.

CHEAP CAPITALISTS

The capitalists who run this land of ours have done queer things from time to time but the queerest of all is their present inclination toward personal cheapness. It is to be deplored that "big" men like Henry Ford and Thomas A. Edison resort to petty means and foul to get around an advertising expenditure. One wonders whether he should call them "big" after all.

Mr. Edison recently made what he hoped would be detrimental remark about the radio in which he said that for musical purposes the radio is an absolute failure. Shortly before making that statement the great inventor had brought out a new type of his famous phonograph. It does not take so much reasoning to see Mr. Edison's motive, but it would take a lot of imagination to believe that it can hurt the radio. Simply a way of getting publicity that he did not need.

On the heels of Edison's statement comes Henry Ford starting a revolution in the working week, reducing it to five days. At first thought this sounds very well, and Mr. Ford is again heralded as a benefactor of mankind. More publicity! Ford's sales take another jump. But is it really a beneficent act? Little has been said about the fact that the laborers in the Ford's factories will be paid for five days instead of six. Two days out of every week thousands of men will lie idle, literally wasting one of them. Would it not be a much more charitable act on the part of Mr. Ford if he would let his men work six days but cut their hours and pay them for the full week?—The Daily Iowan.

Readers' Say-So

ROUGH HOUSE NECESSARY

Editor, The Daily Cardinal:

There has been so much written and said about the bag rush that I feel a bit more cannot now discourage your readers. And I am really interested in the matter.

I readily grant that the rush is not an only solution to the problem of class supremacy which is bound to assert itself every year. But I maintain that some sort of rough-house is necessary to remove an excess of steam on the part of both freshman and sophomore classes. The rush as it now exists does not entirely satisfy this need in that all effort—after the first minute or two—is perfectly futile. It appears to me that this objection might be done away with if there were twice as many bags. Were there half as many men at a bag, there would be increased opportunity for real hand-to-hand fighting and no piling up of men. I believe that this provision might also decrease the number of hurts, for now almost all injuries come to those at the bottom of the pile around each bag and are due to the weight of the men above.

There is another matter, and it is the real cause for my writing. And I write feelingly about it. I am most antagonistic toward the police as they perform their duties now. It is not, as Dean Goodnight and others think, the rough-housing which causes the injuries and hurts; those come to the physically tired men who attempt to withdraw but who are again thrown into the mélée by the police. There they are jostled about, slip and fall, and are trampled on. It is then that they are hurt. One overzealous member of the police picked up a small and exhausted frosh in his arms and tossed him into the pile where that gladiator descended onto my head. Is it a wonder that I am aroused?

I have also heard the police encourage the tearing of cloths—not one policeman but many. One white-sweatered man at my bag shouted "Come on, frosh! There haven't been any clothes torn off yet. Pull his pants off!" (I may be under a misapprehension, but I understood that the police were to discourage such things.) In acting in this manner, the police resemble old women more than athletically interested young men.

Another thing! The spectators crowd so closely about that the gladiators are hindered. Of course, it must be difficult to hold women back, but if the police tried to maintain room for the men, they would probably be so busy that they too would no longer be a hindrance.

I am in favor of the bag rush if it is correctly managed.

Sincerely,
Sandro B. Mayer, '29.

HITS BARSTOW

Editor, The Daily Cardinal:
I have followed with interest the discussion aroused by your editorials against the Prohibition amendment which were answered with some heat by the reverend clergy and students of a theological turn of mind including the devastating comments of one Rev. Barstow.

That worthy divine alleges that not only do the people of this state not want their beer and wine but that they are dead set against the return of the good old days. In answer to his statements that the law was fairly enacted, one can only be referred to his intelligence but in answer to the former may I submit the following: To improve my acquaintance with the surrounding country during the past weekend I "bummed" over 200 miles and everyone in whose automobile I rode assured me of his extreme disgust with the present law, and his infinite capacity for the forbidden juice. Do I hear the Doctor say that I didn't ride with the best people? It is but too true but a bum cannot choose and I am convinced that those who returned my humble solicitations with a haughty smile and a swerve to the other side of the road would have confirmed the divine origin of that unique piece of legislation. Thus ever with the Pharisees!

LETHAL VERSE

The quiet of our politics
Reminds us of the River Styx.

With only 13 candidates for the good old job of Prom chairman and many worthy candidates for all the other offices, Wisconsin seems to have elected a good time for itself.

We hereby place in nomination for the office of official humorist, the tow-headed non-girl-attracting Lochinvar. Attributes lie in the fact that he was once overheard saying that the dean was a good guy.

HOW ABOUT IT?

At the Strand this week there has been "The Waning Sex"—Hasn't a t been dropped out of one of the words?

To celebrate the victory at Purdue, we offer the fourth of Wisconsin's great institutions:

4. JOSEPH STEINAUER

A Wisconsin institution is Joe Steinauer. Humble, bringin at any harsh word—yet a man of the highest calibre is this Joe Steinauer. Little Joey they call him down in the gym, a quiet meek person always will'ng to help, and ever speaking words of encouragement in that quaint chirpy voice of his.

It was only last week, the boys tell us, that Joey was almost in tears. Yes, our little Joe. It seems the poor fellow had been almost harsh with some frosh who couldn't swim, and Joe, heartbroken that he had dared raise his voice, sat in a corner of the verge of tears.

Which concludes Uncle Bob's bedtime story. Station WHOPPER now signing off.

DEFECTIVE VISION FOUND PREVALENT

Public Health Service Surveys Industrial Field of Women Workers

A federal health study embracing a ten year period reveals that of 10 industries, post office and garment workers show the highest percentage of defective vision according to an announcement by the Eyesight Conservation council of America. Thirty thousand men and women workers were examined by officers of the United States Public Health service.

The industry surveyed were pottery, post office, glass, gas, foundry, steel, chemical, cement, cigar and garment. In general, no race showed particular differences, it was said in a statistical analysis of the study prepared by Pollo H. Britten, associated statistician, and L. R. Thompson, surgeon of the public health service.

In the post office study it was found that the largest number of eye defects and the poorest eyesight prevailed among the letter separators, whose task requires the most intensive eye work. In the garment industry the class of workers known as finishers ranked lowest in the vision tests. It is worthy to note, the analysis pointed out, that both of these groups were composed of workers whose job made severe demands upon the eyes.

It was not expected that vision would show much of a relationship to occupations in the industries studied, but there was considerable difference in the vision of groups according to the length of service.

The simple visual acuity test was used in all the industries, studied for determining the defects of vision. This test was considered reliable for the purpose, although it was explained in the announcement of the Eye Sight Conservation council, it is only an approximation at best and admits only the detection of cases most seriously handicapped by defective vision.

Landscape Society Invites Foreigners to Drive, Outing

The Wisconsin chapter of the World Agricultural society and the Friends of Our Native Landscape have invited all students from foreign countries to join in a drive and outing to the state park at Devils Lake today.

The party will start at 1 o'clock from the library and will return in the evening after a picnic supper. All foreign students attending this outing have been asked to submit their names so that adequate transportation may be provided.

The informal program will include talks by Prof. Finch on "Origins of Devils Lake," by Prof. Aust on Appreciation of Art in Nature, and by Dean Russell on "Visits to Foreign Lands."

Fifteen countries will be represented, showing the wide international scope of these organizations. Prof. Donald is president and Prof. Aust is the secretary of the Friends of Our Native Landscape society.

State Street, Chicago, Is Now Huge "White Way"

CHICAGO—(AP)—Chicago now has the world's whitest way, a $100,000 installation for the benefit of window shoppers.

State street, home of the city's great department stores, and which does an annual business of $450,000,000, became a mile long ribbon of light Thursday night when President Coolidge pressed a button in Washington that released current into 140 new 2100 watt lamps.

The street, one of the country's busiest arteries in daylight hours virtually has been deserted at night.

Merchants believe that thousands will be attracted to the street at night as "window shoppers" or promenaders.

OGG CARRIES ON SOCIAL RESEARCH

Will Publish Report of Ex- tensive Survey in Polit- ical Science

What research in the humanistic and social sciences is being carried on in the United States? Who is carrying it on? Who is financing it? Who is publishing the results?

These and other questions will be answered in a report now being compiled by Prof. F. A. Ogg, chairman of the political science department, for the American Council of Learned Societies. The report will be published in 1927.

From February to September of this year Prof. Ogg directed a nation-wide survey of research in history, economics, political science, philosophy, archeology, and philology under the auspices of the Council of Learned Societies which was granted a subvention for this work by the Carnegie foundation.

The report will give a comprehensive summary of all such research under way in the United States, of the facilities for carrying it on and for publication and of the parts that various agencies play in promoting it. The first section will give a historical view of research in the United States, and an account of the methods and scope of the survey. The second section will present the means of humanistic and social research in universities, colleges, learned societies, institutes and bureaus, private business, the national government, foundations and endowments, libraries and miscellaneous national and local institutions.

Fellowships, prizes, and other pecuniary aids or rewards will be listed and commented upon, and the existing facilities and future needs

A third section of the report will give an accounting of investigations in progress or in contemplation and of tendencies and problems in the fields of history, economics, political science, sociology, philosophy, archeology, and philology.

The two appendices now being compiled will be of especial value to the 15,000 members of the American Council of Learned Societies who will receive the report. The first appendix will be a bibliography of humanistic and social research. The second will be a directory of lists of doctoral dissertations.

LIBRARY SCHOOL OF UNIVERSITY HAS FULL ENROLLMENT OF 28

The Library school of the university begins its twenty-first year this autumn with the usual enrollment of thirty-eight students. It is necessary to limit the registration to this number because of lack of space.

According to Miss Mary E. Hazelton, principal of the Library school, all of the graduates of last year's class are now filling positions in library work. These were obtained last year before the close of school in June, and some of the graduates took up this work immediately after commencement.

Eighteen of those registered in the Library school are residents of Wisconsin, but there are students from California, Colorado, North Dakota, Kansas, Tennessee, and North Carolina, as well as from the more adjacent states of Illinois, Minnesota, Iowa, Ohio, and Indiana.

Sixteen of the students are college graduates, and thirteen are seniors on the joint course basis, that is, they have done three years of college work in the College and Science. There is one other student of Senior rank, and all of the other students have had from one to three years of college training.

Those enrolled in the Library school are:

Margaret Babcock, Milton, Wis., Lillian L. Bruce, Marinette, Wis., Madge J. Collar, Wabash, Ind., Louva M. Crane, Windom, Minn., Alma Davis, Clear Lake, Iowa, Esther Conner, Wabash, Ind., Leah E. Geology Classes

Take Field Trips

For Study Today

Two trips to nearby places of scenic beauty and scientific interest will be taken today by students enrolled in geography and geology classes.

Prof. R. H. Whitbeck will lead a party of Geography 4 students who will visit Cross Plains to study the geologic formations in that region. More than 300 undergraduates will make the trip, leaving the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul station at 10:25 o'clock and returning at 5:25 o'clock that afternoon.

One hundred Geology 5 students, under the leadership of Prof. W. H. Twenhofel, will go to Blue Mounds, 25 miles from Madison. They will leave the city in special busses at 7:30 o'clock, meeting in front of Science hall, and will return at 6:30

Bulletin Board

This column is for the use of all organizations and university staff members who wish to reach large groups readily. No charge is made for notices. Notices may be brought to the editorial office at 772 Langdon street, or phoned to Badger 250, before 5 o'clock of the day preceding publication.

SOCIAL HOUR

Social hour for Calvary Lutheran university church will be held at 5:30 o'clock Sunday evening. Prof. M. B. BeGlyvary will speak at 6:30 o'clock. Cost lunch will be served.

SENIOR SUMMARIES

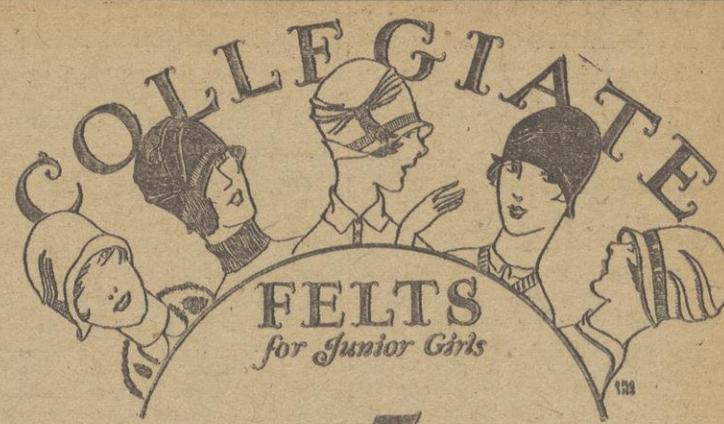

Senior summaries for the Badger are due Oct. 25. Bring them to the Badger office, second floor of the Union building.

RIFLE CLUB

All men wishing to try out for the Rifle club should see Sergeant Thomas in the armory for details. A meeting of the club will be held at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday evening in the armory office.

Y. W. DELEGATE TELLS OF TOUR

Elizabeth George Relates Incidents of Recent European Student Trip

A realization of the strong common bond which education makes among students all over the world was impressed upon the four Wisconsin representatives of the Y. W. C. A. tour of Europe last summer, and Elizabeth George '27 were the university members of this party of 23 girls from colleges and universities all over the United States.

"American students think they can give everything and are inclined to lower the foreign student," declared Alice Brown, "but the foreign student has a great deal to give to the American. We realized this most vitally when we attended the sixth International Student Conference which was held this year at Karlovic, Jugo-Slavia. Here we were intimately connected with students from 30 different nations.

"Although the foreign students are no older than we are physically, mentally they are much more mature. 'You Americans seem younger and happier,' a Jugo-Slavian youth remarked to me. Perhaps the reason for this is that the war marred their youth, and perhaps it is because the students over there are the very select few, and the people expect great things of them. The realization of this sobered them."

During their tour the girls visited the International Students Service Bureau at Geneva which is managed by a Wisconsin graduate, Conrad Hoffman. "It is his tact and spirit that keeps the bureau going in spite of national quarrels," said Alice Brown.

Uncertain About Co-Op Ad Case Prosecution

No action was taken concerning fraudulent advertising on the part of the University Co-Op by Dist. Atty. La Follette, following the conference Thursday at which George W. Meggers, state treasury agent, and James Vinnie, state inspector of fraudulent advertising, presented examples of advertising which are alleged to be fraudulent by the complainant, William Gatewood.

Atty. La Follette declared after the conference that he wanted to go over one or two points in the examples submitted and to secure others before any action was made or the case dropped.

News of Young and Old Wisconsin Grads

The members of the 1926 journalism class have already started on their life work and the reports coming in reflect favorably on Wisconsin's courses in that subject.

Lloyd Gladfelter occupies the position as reporter on the Milwaukee Journal. Walter Monfried has a similar situation with the Terre Haute Post of Terre Haute, Ind., while the Wisconsin Herald of Port Washington, Wis., has Curtis White on its payroll.

Advertising has appealed to Alton Grimsrud, now advertising manager of the Waupun Leader. Elizabeth Ellingson does advertising work in Watertown, and Palmer Nareson is connected in a similar capacity with the Carnation Milk company of Oconomowoc. Margaret Kolars solicits advertising for the Standard Democrat of Burlington.

Kenneth Hamlin is the sporting editor of the Tucson Citizen of that Arizona city. Florence Meyer is an editorial assistant of the Rotarian in Chicago, and Herbert Siekman is also doing journalistic work in Chicago, being connected with the Patterson Publishing company.

Last year's class has one graduate teaching journalism, Alice Colony who is at the high school at Ashland.

Grunow Oleson '25, who completed his masters degree in Agricultural journalism last year, has accepted a position as extension editor at Massachusetts Agricultural college at Amherst. Oleson had considerable experience in editing campus publications while here. He was editor of the Wisconsin Country Magazine and also served as farm editor of the Lodi Enterprise, a country weekly published in Dane county.

Two Army Officers

Die In Plane Crash

PORT JEFFERSON, N. Y.—(P)—Two army pilots lost their lives here late yesterday when their plane fell into Long Island sound. The victims were Henry R. Perra of Taunton, Mass., and William H. Preston of Belmont, Mass., both second lieutenants. The crew of a tugboat reported they heard an explosion and saw the plane take a nose dive into the water. Both pilots were strapped into the cockpit.

Flindt's Orchestra, Which Plays at Memorial Union Dance Tonight

E. H. Flindt, the Paul Ash of Madison, will play for the Memorial Union benefit dance at the Loraine hotel tonight.

Flindt's organization of 11 men, who appear regularly at the Strand theatre, is one of the highest paid bands in the state. Coming from the Rosalind ballroom in Milwaukee, Flindt has now been at the Strand for two years and in that period has made his band available for public dancing only once besides tonight.

He has had bids to appear at the Purdue prom and several other big dances in the Middle West, but has not made a practice of leaving his regular work at the Strand.

Tonight the services of his band are offered free in the interests of the Memorial Union campaign for cash. He has prepared a special program which will feature his vocalists, Jimmy Paddycoart and Ed Crosby.

Seek Millions for War Upon Crop Ravages

Secretary Jardine Tells Of Invasion Of Pests

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Millions of dollars for defense of the country against depredations of foreign invaders will be sought of congress at its approaching session by the federal department of agriculture.

The annual report of Secretary Jardine, now in course of preparation, will disclose that this year's efforts to destroy alien insect hosts which have been ravaging American crops in all sections of the country were not crowned with marked success and that the battle lines next year must be formed on an elaborated scale. This will require a much larger expenditure than congress has yet provided for fighting plant pests.

From the Atlantic coast to the Great Lakes, insects which in their native foreign haunts are not regarded as dangerous, have secured lodgment and are wreaking havoc. Unless some effective control method is devised, the richest agricultural districts of the country will in a few years be infested and the attendant loss will reach staggering proportions, according to Secretary Jardine.

In the New England states the satin moth and the gypsy moth apparently are defying science's efforts to effect their extermination.

Farther east, the Japanese beetle has dug in and is increasing in defiance of poisons and quarantine regulations. The infestation is heavy in New Jersey, Delaware, and Pennsylvania, and next year the quarantine lines will be drawn to take in portions of New York and Connecticut, and an area embracing almost half of the state of Pennsylvania.

The lake states have a grave problem of their own in the European corn borer, which is spreading in all directions from a focal point in eastern Ohio. The borer has become established in western Pennsylvania and New York and is slowly pushing its way eastward. To the west the outlook is regarded as even more alarming. The borer during the past year was given credit for great destruction in Michigan and in Ontario. Its presence has been noted in Indiana, and quarantine regulations will cover a portion of that state next year.

No problem confronting the nation today is so grave as that presented by the alien insects pests, it is said by Secretary Jardine. The presence of an alien army, he declares, would in every way be pref-

Muzumdar, Great Friend of Ghandi, Here on Thursday

Haridas T. Muzumdar, Bombay, personal friend and biographer of Mahatma Ghandi, is to be in Madison next week, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, as the guest of the Oriental Students' conference.

Muzumdar, the author of "Ghandi, the Apostle," and "The Sermon on the Sea," has spoken at the University of Chicago, Northwestern University, Vassar, Miami University, and other colleges and universities in this country. He is very much interested in American students and wants to discuss with them "problems confronting the youth of the East and of the West."

According to Arthur Gosling '28, secretary of the executive committee of the Oriental Students' conference, the purpose of bringing Muzumdar to Madison is "to create better understanding between Oriental and American students in this university. To further this end, we should like to have as many students as possible attend at least one of his lectures."

Legion Elects Floyd C. Rath Commander

Other Officers Named At Cairns Post Meeting

Floyd C. Rath, city chemist, was elected commander of the William B. Cairns post of the American Legion here at the annual election of officers held last night at the G. A. R. hall. Floyd W. Long was chosen vice commander.

Other officers elected were Colen Stewart, finance officer; Albert Flint, historian; Rev. H. C. Hengell, chaplain; John Beaumont, master-at-arms; Past Commander Norman B. Wood, service commander. Herbert W. Meiller was appointed by Commander Rath to fill the office of adjutant.

The executive committee for the ensuing year will consist of Herman P. Lochner, R. Hutchinson, Pauline Camp, and Past Commander Wood.

The entertainment committee, headed by William Phelps, will again plan a series of dances at Mendota during the coming year, 21 of which events were held last year under the auspices of the Legion. There were 35 members present last night.

Call for Women's Glee Club Brings Out More Than 100

More than 100 girls tried out for Glee club in answer to the call for candidates issued this fall.

Ellen Burkhart '27, this year's president, said "We are all very sorry that we are unable to make use of all of the material offered to us. Many of the girls whom we were not able to accept have fine voices which we would like to have been able to use."

"We are trying out a new plan this year of keeping on file the names of 20 girls who will make up our waiting list. In this way we can use some of the girls who were not chosen for the club at this time."

The following girls have been elected to the club: Bessie Gustafson '27, Opal Kramer '29, Mrs. Terhune, Ruth Johnson, Dorothy McCullough, Lucy Peckham '28, Agnes Phillips '29, Rose Myer, Ruth Kantz, Maurine Honeycomb '28, Savilla Struble '28, Ruth Troyer '29, Carol Neison, Jeanette Vedder, Ruth McCombs '29, Edith Hitchner, Mrs. Quetona Keller, Margaret Maclay, and Fredora Soldan '27.

Giant Dirigible At Ford Airport After Trip Without Mishap

BULLETIN

DETROIT, Mich.—The Los Angeles will start her return trip about four o'clock this afternoon.

DETROIT, Mich.—The Navy's great airship, the Los Angeles, arrived at the Ford airport at Dearborn, near here, at 3:28 a. m. today and was anchored safely to the mooring tower 2 hours later.

The big Zeppelin completed the voyage from the airport at Lakehurst, N. J., to Dearborn, the objective of the ill-fated Shenandoah, in slightly more than 16 hours. Weather conditions encountered along the route were generally good and the ship functioned well.

Thousands of persons waited all night for the arrival of the ship at the airport and cheered as the big gray hulk hove into sight.

Lieut. Z. W. Hicks of the Lakehurst airport was in charge of the landing crew detailed to receive the Los Angeles. The ship hovered about the mooring mast more than two hours before it was landed.

Lt. Commander C. E. Rosendahl, in charge of the ship, was the first to clamber down the ladder to the ground. He was quickly followed by Admiral Moffett and others of the personnel.

Most of the 44 men showed signs of fatigue, having been on watch since their departure from Lakehurst.

The trip, which marked the first inland voyage of the Los Angeles, was without serious mishap.

Purchasing Agent For City Voted

Approval of Budget Board Action Rests With Council

Provision for a full time city purchasing agent will be placed in the 1927 budget by the city board of estimates it was decided by the board last night.

The question was discussed by the board members and they approved the recommendations made by Karl F. McMurry, certified public accountant. The vote was by acclamation. Ald. D. C. Sullivan and Patrick H. Barry declared themselves as opposed to the step after the vote was taken.

Final decision on whether the budget provision for a purchasing agent be allowed in the budget rests with the common council when the completed budget is presented to it for approval. It is believed that the item will be retained.

To Work Out Details.

Details of the new office such as the salary to be paid, the person, and the method of operation, will be worked out at future meetings of the board of estimates. Members of the board favored the establishment of a limit in expenditures to which the purchasing agent could enter into contract without waiting for council or committee action. Any expenditures over this amount would first be acted upon by the council supplies committee. The agent would do all the purchasing of supplies required by the city enabling him to buy in large lots and secure a better price. At the present time each department head purchases his own supplies as needed. In this way each department probably buys the same things in small quantities with the result that a greater price is paid in each instance.

An estimate on the salary to be paid and the amount required for maintaining the office was given the board by George Nelson, city auditor. The total of the figures presented by Mr. Nelson was $4,695 of which the salary estimate amounted to $2,700 and $1,200 was provided for clerical help. The remainder of the amount was estimated for office equipment, stationery, telephone service and other minor expenditures. The position, if created, will be entirely separate from the auditor's department.

Ald. Sullivan although not definitely opposed to the plan, declared that a doubt existed in his mind as to whether this step was advisable at this time.

No Salary Increases.

Ald. Barry said that he would be opposed to the plan unless the board of education was brought under control of the purchasing agent and school supplies also bought through this office.

Members of the board asserted that there would be no general increases in salaries of city employees next year. Any increases made will be in the nature of readjustments.

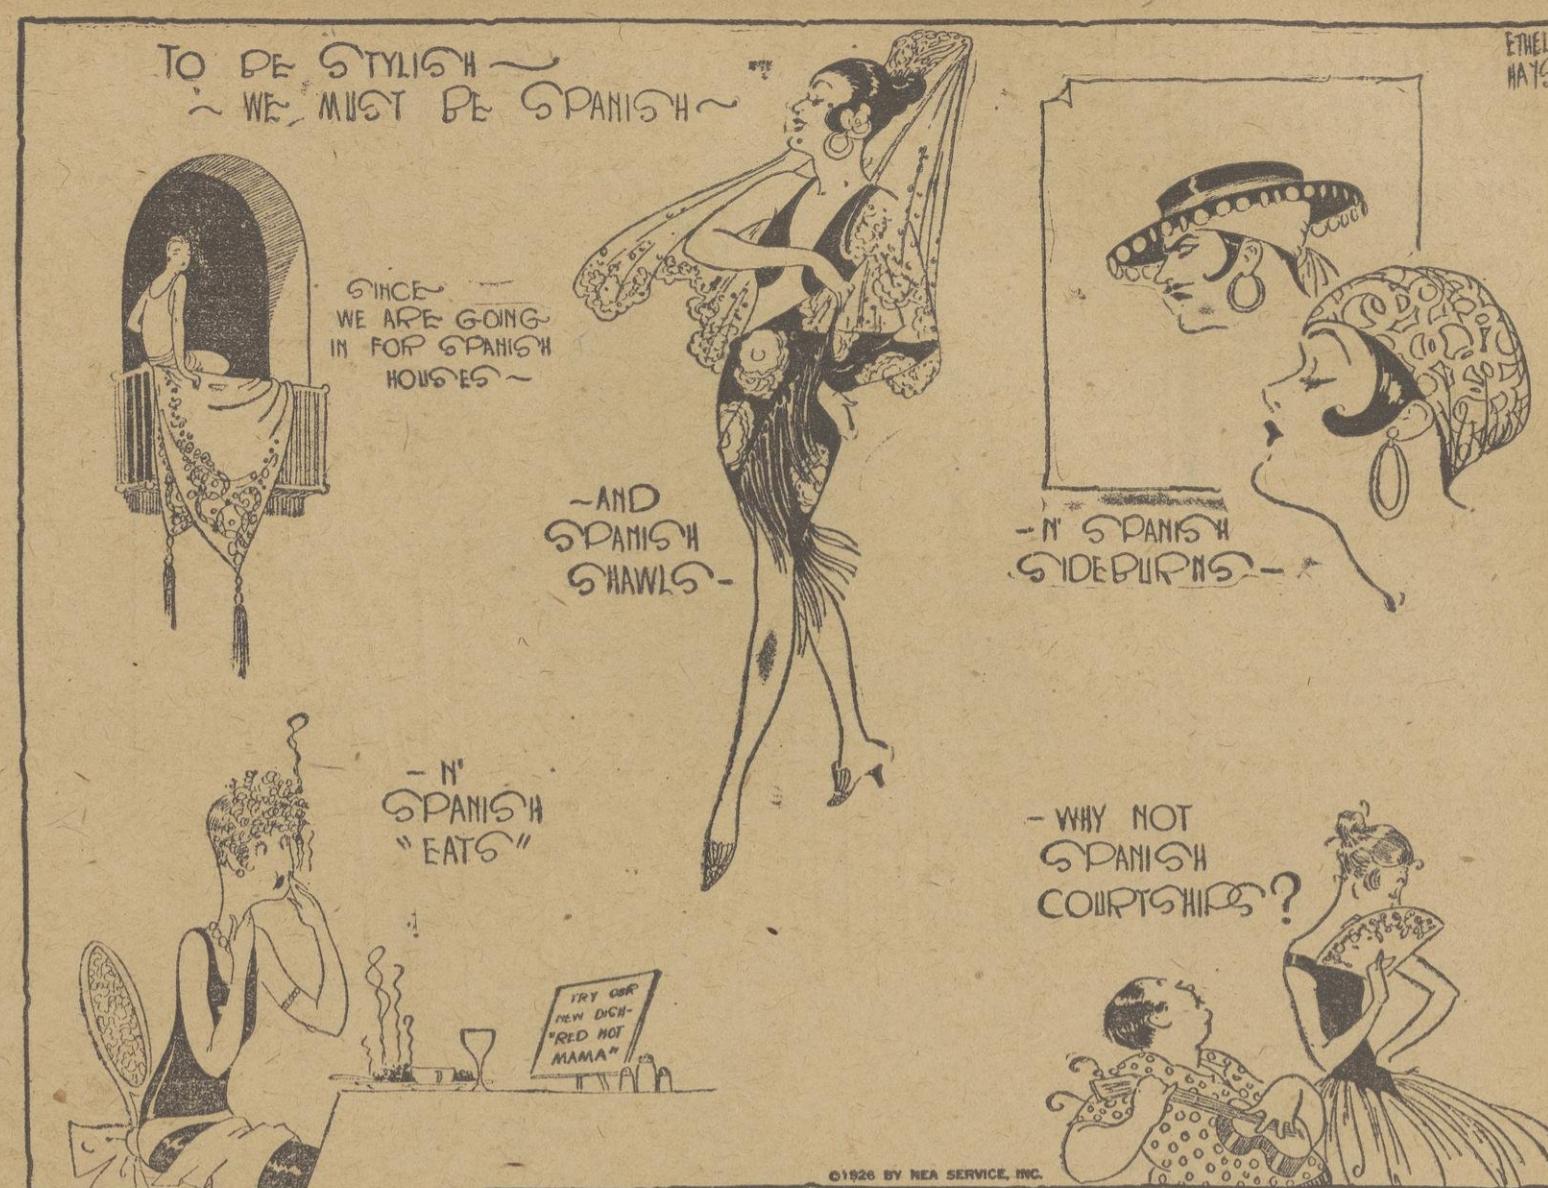

Local Man To Address Paper Manufacturers

GREEN BAY, Wis.—(P)—Discussions of the paper-making industry will be held with about 150 paper mill superintendents participating at their convention here Saturday. The mill officials will come from all parts of Minnesota, upper Michigan and Wisconsin and will represent the American Pulp and Paper association.

A feature of the convention will be the address of John D. Rue, of the United States Forest Products laboratory at Madison. Mr. Rue will discuss "Refining Paper Stock by the Rod Mill Method." This is a process upon which the laboratory has been working for four years and one which was recently put into production at two mills in order to check results under actual practice conditions.

J. M. Conway, head of the Hoberg Paper and Fibre Co., will address the superintendents on the "Relation of the Manufacturing and the Sales Departments," at the morning session of the association.

A banquet will be held in the evening for the superintendents and their wives at which Commander James H. McGillan, of the coast guard unit, will speak.

Orders Independents' Names To County Clerks

Secretary of State Zimmerman filed a statement of compliance with the supreme court's order today, announcing that he has certified the names of Theodore N. Thomas, Laysmith, and A. R. Amundson, Lake Nebagamon, to the county clerks to be placed on the regular election ballots.

Thomas is an independent candidate for congress from the 11th district, and Amundson is an independent candidate for the state senate from the 11th district. Upon receipt of this notice today, the court dismissed the case without costs. The two men had appealed to the supreme court to compel the secretary of state to place their names on the ballot when the secretary declared their nomination papers were filed too late.

Dry Squad Maps Up Big Oasis In Iowa

DES MOINES—(P)—The "oasis of northern Iowa" in which prohibition officers believe bootleg liquor dealers of Omaha, Des Moines and New York are interested was dry today.

Officers seized 3,050 gallons of denatured alcohol and re-distilling apparatus in Carroll county, opening of a drive to break up what they regarded as one of the biggest booze rings supplying both Iowa and Nebraska.

OCTOBER MARKS ERIE CANAL FETE

Centenary Celebration to be Held by Bordering Cities

The centenary celebration of the completion of the Erie canal, which has been a large factor in the progress of New York state during the last century, will be held this month in all the cities bordering on the canal.

But the story of the canal goes back 50 years or more, for it was before the Revolutionary war that a few far-sighted men first dreamed of a canal through the Mohawk river valley, a canal which would connect New York with the great resources of the Middle West. However, 15 years before the completion of the canal, the first active work in its behalf began.

In March, 1810, the legislative body of New York state passed a resolution which demanded the appointment of two commissioners to explore the route to the Great Lakes. In 1811, Gouverneur Morris and Jesse Hawley covered the route, and made a report to President Madison, but received little encouragement. In June 1812, the New York legislature went ahead on its own authority to borrow $5,000,000 in Europe, but the war which came on put all such schemes to route, and the matter was not actively brought up again until March, 1816. At that time Col. Rutger Van Rensselaer introduced a bill for the canal in the New York legislature. The bill, after being butted around for over a year, became a law in April, 1817.

Ground for the new project was broken near Rome in the following July 4. The construction of the canal went forward rapidly in three separate sections. Work on the eastern and central sections progressed so fast that in 1819, the canal was navigable from New York to Utica. But delays were encountered in the last third of the project, and it was not until 1825 that the canal was completed.

The importance, commercially and economically, of the canal for the state of New York, has been shown eloquently by the rapid growth of the principal cities of the state. At the time when the canal was begun, Connecticut, Massachusetts, and Pennsylvania were far ahead of New York. The Erie canal has brought a tremendous amount to New York both city and state, and it is no wonder that the cities which are situated along its banks today will make the most over it in this celebration.

Plastics, Danish Gymnastics, Now Being Taught Here

Miss C. M. Rice, of the Women's Physical Education department, returned this semester from attending a gymnastic school in Denmark, and has inaugurated in the department of which she is a member a new course, based on that which she learned abroad, called plastics.

There are but six educational institutions in this country which have such a course, and all are conducted by people who have attended the Niels Buck school of gymnastics in Denmark.

Fifty are enrolled in the course this semester. Miss Kirsten Runge, a graduate of the Danish school, returned with Miss Rice this fall to assist her in conducting the course.

The course does not include dancing, but is a series of gymnastics which loosen muscles and joints stiffened from disuse and after the loosening has been accomplished further exercise is given to strengthen those parts that have been loosened. It is new theory of gymnasium exercises which started in Denmark and is especially spreading throughout Europe and the United States.
