"The need of preparation for the peaceful pursuits of normal existence is not less imperative than that we should be prepared for war. We have shown that the colleges have helped in a great national crisis and we should, as alumni, see to it that they are prepared to furnish men who will help to bring in the victories of peace which are no less difficult to win than those of war."

Madison, Wis., April, 1920

The following statement, made after careful and painstaking investigation by eminent representative members of the faculty, accompanied a letter recently mailed by the class president and class secretary to all members of the class of 1916. (See 1916news section for the letter itself.)

Statement by The University Committee

January 27, 1920

"The University Committee, composed of Professors Gilmore, Leith, Meek, L. R. Jones, McGilvary, Commons, and Westermann, has made an extended study of the cost of living in Madison. This H. C. L. vs. U. W. Salaries study shows that the necessary living expenses of University professors have increased almost 75%. To be exact, a careful calculation, based upon expense records of faculty families and actual market prices in Madison, shows the increase in the cost of living to be 74.9%.

"During the six years from 1913-1919 while costs were going up 75%, the average salary of University teachers has advanced from $2020 to $2449, only 22%. But even the 22% increase is more apparent than real. The average salary to-day, measured in purchasing power, at present prices, leaves the University professor considerably less income than he had in 1913. The average salary of $2449 to-day will purchase only $1200 worth at current prices.

"Assuming that University teachers were not overpaid before the war, they should have an increase of 48%, amounting to an average salary of $3696, to restore them to the financial standing which they had in 1913."

Note: On January 29, 1920, The Regents authorized an increase in salaries amounting to nearly 25 per cent per annum. A full statement by President Birge, of this action, that "no one should suppose, however, that the financial status of the University is even temporarily settled by this action" is to be found in the March number of THE WISCONSIN ALUMNI MAGAZINE.

It is with great pleasure, that the Alumni Headquarters states that the prompt payment of Association dues during the current year has enabled the Association to meet all bills promptly. Indeed, the usual appeal Life Membership through the MAGAZINE for the payment of past due dues has not been necessary as yet. The payment of dues from those few members now in arrears will, of course, be much appreciated. The generally improved financial condition is a decided benefit to the Association as it naturally gives to the Headquarters more time for constructive activities. Nevertheless the expense and labor in collecting dues is, of course, considerable. Consequently, the growing popularity of life membership is commended to the serious consideration of all graduates who can afford an investment of $50.00 in alumni loyalty. Life membership saves bothering about annual dues; does away with the expense of the annual mailing of statements; simplifies book-keeping, and places the Association on a permanent financial basis. Graduates interested in life membership but preferring to make annual payments of not less than $10.00 per payment are earnestly invited to write to the Headquarters where details can be secured concerning the securing of life membership under the partial payment plan mentioned.

The Alumni Headquarters desires very much that reports of all meetings of Wisconsin graduates be promptly and regularly published in the official MAGAZINE. Secretaries of organized local U. W. clubs are to be commended for the reports they have furnished. Throughout the country there will be many Wisconsin meetings of county and city local organizations held in the interests of the Memorial Union. Published reports of these meetings appearing in the ALUMNI MAGAZINE will stimulate other groups of graduates to hold similar gatherings. It is, of course, to be hoped that the new organizations formed in connection with the Memorial Union project may prove permanent so as to continue the great assistance that can be rendered to the University through cooperative organized effort from time to time.

The University has, at various times in the past, celebrated Founders' Day on the first Monday in February, Lincoln's Birthday on February 12, and Washington's birthday on February 22. Examination schedules and Founders' Day vacation periods constantly interfered with such celebrations.

This year the Committee on Public Functions, the Committee on Student Life and Interests, and the Students' University Traditions Committee agreed to hold a special convocation appropriately commemorating the three occasions on the first Friday of the second semester, February 20. This special convocation was such a success that it has been decided to make the first Friday of the second semester a permanent date for the appropriate commemoration of the lives of the founders of the Nation and of the University. This is unquestionably a wise decision. We believe, however, that any attempt to change the appropriate name "Founders' Day" to "Convocation Extraordinary" is undignified and unnecessary. Another new name suggested is "University Day." This term while not without dignity lacks the definite suggestive descriptiveness of the present well known and constantly increasing significant designation "Founders' Day." The great objects of Founders' Day are that graduates of the University of Wisconsin shall annually give some serious attention to the proud record achieved by this institution, and that they shall by the annual observation of Founders' Day be the better prepared to do their part in solving present and future problems relating to the University. For local advertising purposes the term Convocation Extraordinary may be excusable as temporary expediency. We believe graduates will refuse to accept it as a substitute for Founders' Day, and we seriously question the advisability of even changing the term to University Day.

On June 20-23 classes whose numerals end in "naught" and "five" hold reunions at Madison. Mr. W. P. Powers of the class of 1860 writes that he will make the trip back from California to join Prof. J. B. Parkinson in making the return by the members of 1860 100 per cent. Dr. C. H. Vilas is in correspondence with all his classmates of 1865. He reports that he expects most of them to return. Honorable Burr Jones is looking after the interests of 1870. A high per cent of attendance by that class is assured. Chief Justice J. B. Winslow has assumed the responsibility of the return of the "Laws of '75." Members of the class of 1880 are asked to read the special reunion notice written by Mrs. Magnus Swenson (Anne Dinsdale) which is to be found under the 1880 class news in this issue. Dr. F. C. Rogers has already announced the committees at work in the interest of the reunion of the class of 1885. W. N. Parker is in correspondence with every member of 1890. "Mighty Ninety" will be here. Next month we hope to announce the plans of the class of 1895. Leaders of the class of 1900 have already written that their reunion plans will be announced in the May MAGAZINE. The secretary of the class of 1905 started class reunion plans last fall. The class of 1910 has the Yale form of class organization which places major responsibility on the class secretary. Mr. Milton Blair, the energetic secretary of that class, has already made a trip to the alumni office in the interest of the class reunion. Mr. Wm. Foster, president of the class of 1915, has appointed well-chosen committees and has written to all members of the class. The challenge of 1915 is "Let us know the largest attendance by any class at a reunion. We will beat it!" Reunion plans are moving earlier and faster than ever before. The great Band reunion seems a certainty. All former Band leaders are lending energetic cooperation. The Athletic Department again promises the Chicago-Wisconsin baseball game. The alumni dinner, the alumni ball and the reception are to have features of special interest. June 20-23 promises to be worth the time of any graduate who will return. Even if you are neither a "naught" nor a "five" come in June 1920; it will be a great source of pleasure to you and to your friends and a lasting benefit to the University.

The University began instruction in February, 1849. It bore the name of a university, but had in operation only a preparatory school of twenty pupils, under the tuition of John W. Sterling, a graduate of Princeton.

The Beginning who bore the title of Professor of Mathematics. Professor Sterling gave a life of sacrificial devotion to the institution as it added to its academy a little college, and as the little college carried on its struggling and painful life. He was fortunate enough to live until the University began to assume proportions worthy of its ambitious name. The chancellor, John H. Lathrop, a graduate of Yale, called from the presidency of the University of Missouri, entered upon his duties in the autumn of 1849.

Chancellor Lathrop was a man whose plans were genuinely large, but they were in the main never realized for lack of funds. Under his administration (1849-1858) the faculty grew to seven members. There was much criticism of the University because the curriculum was not "practical" enough. This criticism caused Chancellor Lathrop's resignation. A new Chancellor, the well-known educational theorist, Henry Barnard, was elected, but did not serve, Professor Sterling presiding as Vice-Chancellor. The dark days of the Civil War followed. The professors lived on half pay. Many of the students entered the army, so that in 1864 no Commencement Exercises were held, only one of the senior class being in residence.—J. E. O. '84.

WISCONSIN ALUMNI CLUBS

"Sit together, listen together, sing together, eat together, and talk together, and you'll work together."

By C. L. BYRON

DURING the past four weeks, two of our regular luncheons have been strictly of the good fellowship type without any special speakers. These good fellowship meetings around the festive board are a great deal like the meetings we had back in Madison in Varsity days, with the exception that our present day gatherings are even more gay and buoyant, due probably to the fact that we have no examinations confronting us in the afternoon. We have ideal times together and talk over many interesting subjects, including old college mates. We urge all Wisconsinites to come to our luncheons and tell us the latest news about our old friends, or come without news, and we will entertain you. This invitation is given with the hope that those who pass through Chicago on any Friday will drop in at the Chicago City Club at 12:30 P. M. to enjoy mutual good fellowship.

On February 27, Paul R. Wright, '00, editorial writer for The Chicago Daily News, told us of his Siberian experiences. He illustrated his talk with colored stereopticon views. Those present enjoyed a rare treat and got a close-up view and a vivid impression of Siberian life and also of the condition of refugees in that country.

We have had another shop talk, and it was a good one. On March 12th, Dave O. Thompson, '05, Secretary of the Illinois Agricultural Association, told us about the organization and helpful cooperative work of that institution.

CLEVELAND

By R. K. CONAWAY, '13

A meeting of the Cleveland club was held Feb. 25, at the University Club. The speakers of the evening were Professor U. A. C. Hennon and Thomas Lloyd Jones of the University.

DETROIT

By W. G. ERDMAN, ex'14

The club is getting on fine. We meet every Tuesday noon at the Board of Commerce and never have less than ten out and very often more. On Friday, Feb. 27, we had an evening meeting which was an extreme success with almost fifty men out. Dr. Burt Shurly, '94, gave us a very interesting paper on "The Medical Corps in the War Zone." Prosecutor Matthew Bishop, ex'95, was also present. In fact we had the best showing ever held in Detroit. We feel that we are now getting an organization and will be able in the next few months to do our part on the Alumni Memorial Fund. We are also getting more publicity in the Detroit papers. When something good comes along we pass it on. The Madison Democrat keeps us well-posted although the paper comes several days late.

LA CROSSE

By CATHERINE E. HAYES, '08

The sixth annual dinner of the Wisconsin Club of La Crosse was held at the Chamber of Commerce, Feb. 20. Helen Dorset, '99, president of the Club, acted as toastmistress. F. H. Clausen, '97, discussed the Memorial Union. T. M. Hammond, of the Board of Regents, had as his theme "The University." [Esther Heisig, '18, responded to the toast, "Men, Women and Events." The Glee Club, which appeared last year for the first time, added much to the enjoyment of the evening. Resolutions favoring higher salaries for professors and instructors were offered by C. H. Schweizer, '87. They were adopted by the Club and a copy was sent to the Board of Regents. Resolutions of condolence to President Birge on the death of his wife and son were offered by B. E. McCormick, '04. These were adopted by the Club.

The newly elected officers are: J. E. McConnell, '87, president; Harry Hirshheimer, '91, vice-president; Marie Hektoen, '01, secretary and treasurer. Andrew Lees, '95, and Mrs. Harry Curtis were chosen to serve on the Board of Directors. Mr. Hirshheimer, county chairman, named the local committee for soliciting funds for the Memorial Union.

LOS ANGELES

By W. F. ADAMS, '00

The dinner of the alumnae and alumni of the University of Wisconsin, in honor of Founders' Day, was held at the University Club, Feb. 7. There were about eighty people present and it was a very enjoyable dinner. There were no set speeches or addresses, but the remarks made were most entertaining and were greatly enjoyed by every one present. C. C. Montgomery, '97, presided as toastmaster and toasts were responded to by Dr. Silas Evans, president of Occidental College, by W. J. Carr, '01, and by Prof. John Schuster. Helen Abrams, '15, gave us some of the current history of the University, and Genevieve Church Smith, ex-'98, entertained us with a recital of her experiences in France during the war. Harry Grinde, '15, who has recently become one of the directors at the Universal Film Company, also entertained us in his usual humorous style. A committee was appointed in connection with the campaign for funds for the Memorial Building. Everybody went away from the dinner hoping that another one would be arranged for soon.

MINNEAPOLIS

By W. H. WILLIAMS, '15

Broadway and Ward Ave., N. E.

T. M. Hammond, of the University Board of Regents, was the guest of the Minneapolis Alumni Association at a luncheon at Dayton's Tea Room, Feb. 13. He favored the members present with a very interesting talk on the attitude and activities of the University during the war, and gave information on present conditions. His visit was greatly appreciated. Our membership is growing rapidly—123 names on the list for 1920. Many Wisconsin men have recently located in Minneapolis and are urged to attend the luncheon at Dayton's, usually held the first Friday of each month. If you wish to receive notice of meetings send your name and address to the secretary.

NEW YORK

The annual dinner of the Association was held at the Hotel Commodore at 7 p. m., Friday, March 12. With nearly five hundred former students and faculty members of the University in New York and vicinity, a record attendance was natural. Dr. P. S. Reinsch, '92, and Harlan F. Stone, Dean of the Columbia Law School, were the speakers. Dinner was followed by dancing. This was the first big function of the Association for several years.

PEORIA

By JANET BUSWELL, '14

The Wisconsin alumni of Peoria and vicinity met March first and formed a local Alumni Association. The purpose of our banquet was to arouse enthusiasm for the Memorial Building which is to be erected, and we decided to form a club so as to have a sort of bond holding us together and keeping us in touch with our Alma Mater.

SHEBOYGAN COUNTY

By JENNIE T. SCHRAGE, '06

The University of Wisconsin Alumni Association of Sheboygan County had its beginning at a meeting called by a committee headed by Marie Kohler, '01, who extended the invitation to all former students of the University, whether graduated or not, and to their husbands and wives.

The meeting took the form of a dinner, served at the Robert Blow Parish Hall at 6:30 p. m., on February 19th, at which there were present:

Regent Walter Kohler and Mrs. Kohler, Mr. and Mrs. Ansom Prescott, '77, Judge Paul Krez, '80, Mr. and Mrs. John Hansen (Meta Schumann, ex'98), Marie Kohler, '01, William Collins, '01, William Urban, '04, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Richardson (Maude Conry, '04), Mr. and Mrs. Henry Detling, '01, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Boigt, ex'04, John Detling, '05, Mrs. John Detling (Minnie M. Riess, '05), Mrs. Walter Vollrath (Florence Rietow, '06), Jennie Thayer Schrage, '06, Alfred L. Sommers, '07, Mr. and Mrs. Ivar Lohmann (Elsa Bitter, '08), Mrs. Wm. Reiss (Rhoda Rietow, '08),

Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Buchen, '09, Dr. Theodore Guenther, '09, Mr. and Mrs. John Stuckert, '09, Kathryn Prescott, '10, Violet St. Sure, '10, Konrad Schreier, '10, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Wolters, '08, Mrs. Alfred Steffen (Anna Kurt Rietow, '11), Mrs. Arthur Raab (Marie Thieman, ex'11), Mary Green, '16, Edward Stielow, Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Fessenden (Jessica Buchanan), Irma Koehn, '20, Mabel Colton, '13, Regina Hein, '14, Clara Dahlman, '16, Mrs. Jesse Kommers, Ernst Toennies, '18, Arthur Erdman, '18, Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Leister, '12, Arno Froelich, '12.

The Varsity Toast at the beginning, various songs throughout the evening, with Mr. Froelich performing wonders at the piano, and the Varsity Toast at the end, constituted the musical part of the program. Mr. Sommers presided, calling for toasts "The Days of Real Sport" by Judge Krez; "The Co-ed," Miss Schrage; "The Memorial Union Building," Mr. Kohler; "Organization," Mr. Collins. Judge Krez' reminiscences were supplemented by Mr. Prescott, who was the oldest grad present, and the only one who had a daughter, also present, who is also a Wisconsin graduate. The three Rietow sisters formed the largest family group present.

Regent Kohler's talk on the plans for a Memorial Union Building was supplemented by slides showing what other universities have in this line, and the tentative plans for Wisconsin's Union. A unanimous rising vote to support the project expressed the enthusiasm aroused.

After Mr. Collins' remarks, a motion was made and carried to organize an association for Sheboygan County, and the following officers were elected: Judge Paul Krez, president, Gustave Buchen, vice-president, Jennie Thayer Schrage, secretary, John Stuckert, treasurer. Constitution and by-laws were dispensed with, dues were unmentioned; the only requirement for membership being former attendance at the University, and an enthusiastic interest in the welfare of our Alma Mater. Regent Walter Kohler was unanimously elected an honorary member of the organization.

The campaign for funds for the Memorial Union Building is in the hands of Marie Kohler—who, with the assistance of a number of the Wisconsin folk of this vicinity, is now engaged in a thorough canvass of the county. In another month or so we will be able to report the quota reached or surpassed.

WASHINGTON

By LOUISE EVANS, ex'09

The February meeting of the Wisconsin alumni in Washington took the form of a dancing party at the Thompson School. About seventy-five couples attended. Commissioner B. H. Meyer, '94, of the Interstate Commerce Commission, who is chairman of the Memorial Union Building Committee for Washington, told of the plans for the building.

ATHLETICS

BASKETBALL

S EVEN games won and five lost was the record of the Badgers in the Big Ten basketball race. Chicago won a clear title to the championship with only two defeats, one by Wisconsin. Purdue, a team the Badgers did not meet, won second. Illinois, with whom Wisconsin broke even, won third honors, and Lowman's team finished fourth.

Wisconsin's season was a series of ups and downs. After a comparatively easy victory over Iowa State, the Badgers dropped three games in a row. Then followed four consecutive victories, including a brilliant performance which knocked Illinois out of the title race, and championship hopes began to arise. But this run of good basketball was followed by a slump and two defeats served to banish all such aspirations. The last two games were victories, and the win over Chicago in the finale was pleasing indeed.

The victory over Minnesota, which was described in the ALUMNI MAGAZINE last month, was followed by successive victories over Michigan, Illinois and Ohio State, defeats in the return games at Minneapolis and Ann Arbor, and finally victories at Columbus and in the Chicago game at home.

WISCONSIN 40, MICHIGAN 13

The Wolverines' first appearance at Wisconsin since their return to the Big Ten was not exactly a success, for the Badgers more than tripled the score. The first half was fairly close, the count being 15 to 9, but in the second half Wisconsin cut loose with an attack that bewildered the opposition. Captain Knapp scored ten times from the floor, six times in the second half, while Karpus' count of three baskets and three free throws was Michigan's best.

WISCONSIN 33, ILLINOIS 29

A truly sensational over-time battle marked the downfall of the Illini on Feb. 21. From the small end of a 20 to 14 score, Captain Knapp and his mates battered their way to a lead of 29 to 26 just a few seconds before the final gun, when a foul by a Wisconsin player and two fouls called on the audience for too vigorous a protest resulted in three free throws, with which Carney of Illinois tied the score. In the five-minute over-time period, Taylor scored two baskets for Wisconsin and the greatest game of the season passed into history as a victory.

Weston started the scoring for Wisconsin and Captain Knapp followed with the first of his ten baskets. Illinois gradually crept up, and finally went into a 15 to 14 lead at half-time, thanks largely to the free throwing of Carney, who made eleven points in fourteen chances during the game.

Illinois ran five points before the Badgers got under way in the second half, but from that point on it was all Wisconsin. Knapp shot baskets from all angles, and Caesar's close guarding broke up play after play for Illinois, although he was finally taken out for four personal fouls. The excitement was so tense when Wisconsin finally went into a three-point lead, that Referee Schommer called two fouls on the spectators after a foul was declared on Taylor. Carney's performance in scoring three free throws at the critical moment was brilliant, but the Badgers were not to be denied, holding Illinois without a point in the extra five minutes while Taylor scored twice.

WISCONSIN 31, OHIO STATE 27

Ohio State gave Wisconsin a hard fight on the home floor, but the Badgers were two points better in each half, with a total of fourteen field goals to eight by their opponents. Ex-Captain Zulfer was the individual scoring star of this game, with seven field goals to his credit. In this game as in several previous encounters a lamentable weakness on free throws almost discounted Wisconsin's supremacy on the floor, for Ohio scored eleven points on thirteen Wisconsin fouls while three badgers tried their luck, with only three successful throws in ten attempts.

MINNESOTA 32, WISCONSIN 26

After four consecutive victories Wisconsin invaded the Minnesota camp with high hopes, but the Gophers played desperately to break a string of defeats. Arntson, the Minnesota forward who played brilliantly in the game at Madison, repeated his performance in the return game and scored fourteen points for his team. Taylor of Wisconsin duplicated this feat with four field goals and six free throws, turning in over half the points for the Cardinal team, but Minnesota led by six points at the final gun.

MICHIGAN 23, WISCONSIN 19

A slow start on the part of Wisconsin gave Michigan a long lead in the game at Ann Arbor, and Wisconsin ended up three points behind. The Badgers were off color in their floor work, and took too long to get accustomed to the old-style baskets with which the Wolverine gym is equipped. Michigan's forwards and center scored three baskets apiece, while Taylor was the only Wisconsin man to do as well. He scored Wisconsin's entire nine points the first half, throwing five free throws and three baskets during the game.

WISCONSIN 34, OHIO STATE 22

In the return game at Columbus, Wisconsin scored eight points before the Staters started, and held their opponents to three scattered field goals in the entire game. Taylor and Knapp each scored five times from the floor, Weston three, and Zulfer two. The game was not close at any stage.

WISCONSIN 26, CHICAGO 17

Wisconsin finished its season in a blaze of glory by humbling Chicago in the game at Madison, March 12. Pat Page's new champions were played to a standstill. Ten field goals by the Badgers to four by the Maroons gives a fair indication of the playing of the rival teams. This was Chicago's second defeat of the year.

Coach Lowman started the game with what has proved his most effective lineup, Captain Knapp and Taylor at forwards, Zulfer at center, and Weston and Caesar at guards. Late in the game the veteran Pease went in at guard, after a season of inactivity with an injured knee, and Frogner, Sundt and Fanning also got into action.

Wisconsin started off in the lead and was never headed. Knapp and Taylor alternated in shooting baskets from the floor, each forward making five. The short-pass game beat the long-pass game. The Badger guards, with Zulfer aiding them, defended their goal splendidly, and the long shots of the champions netted them only four baskets. Taylor scored six free throws in eleven chances, and the all-around work of this aggressive forward gave promise of great things next season.

INDOOR TRACK

Wisconsin's track team placed in only three events in the Illinois Relays, held at Urbana, March 6. Captain Andrews of Wisconsin gave the great Carl Johnson of Michigan a splendid race in the 75-yard high hurdles, winning second honors. The Badger leader was the only one of his team to score in an individual event.

Relay teams won two third awards for Wisconsin. The four-mile relay team was seriously handicapped by the illness of Gordon Crump, who took eight seconds more than his usual time for the mile. Coach Jones has a quartet of milers who will compare favorably with any four-mile team in the country when all the men are right, and they will be heard from before the season is over. Wisconsin's two-mile relay team also placed third.

New records were established in both these events.

The track team has two more meets in the indoor season, a dual meet with Northwestern at Madison, and the Big Ten classic at Evanston. For the outdoor season the team will probably be strengthened by the return of Malekar, sprinter, and the release from basketball duties of Sundt, shot putter.

Dear Classmate:

At a meeting of your Class Officers and members of the 1916 Executive Committee in Madison November 1, 1919, two matters of importance were taken up, and it was decided to lay them before the class.

FIRST

In anticipation of our FIVE YEAR REUNION in June, 1921 it is proposed to issue one or two class journals next year. These journals will be live class organs, containing a complete class directory and interesting paragraphs about every member of the class from whom or about whom the Secretary can secure material.

Write the Alumni Secretary NOW of your own location and occupation, and send us word from time to time about any classmates in your vicinity. We want our Reunion to be a record-breaker, so we are getting an early start on the preliminaries.

SECOND

Ours is not an endowed University. It is supported by the generous bounty of a state whose people have seen in this institution, the finest monument they could build. But where an institution is supported by public sentiment, that sentiment must keep pace with its growth and needs or the painstaking work of years may be dissipated in a brief interval.

There is grave danger that under the stress of insistent demands for curtailed budgets, the next Legislature may not provide sufficient funds to meet the University's imperative needs, especially for salary increases. A failure to do so will cost the University, in the loss of irreplaceable faculty members, more than it can rebuild in two decades.

This matter bears a particular significance now, when Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Cornell, and other leading universities are raising an aggregate sum of over $50,000,000, a large portion of which will be devoted to augmenting salaries for the faculties. Despite the fact that these institutions are heavily endowed, they find it necessary to gather funds in this manner in order to assure themselves of unimpaired faculties.

You realize the challenge which such a situation holds for our Alma Mater. You know the story of the struggle which has carried this University to a position of leadership recognized all over the world. If you live in the state, you are acquainted with the great extension service which has been developed to serve the farmers and business men and families of Wisconsin. As maintenance expenses increase, the budgets brought before the legislature must of necessity be larger. Legislators and citizens will seek to learn the facts concerning the importance of these matters. When the President and the Regents present their statements, they will need the active support of an alert and intelligent Public Opinion.

To create such a public opinion the aid of every alumnus is demanded. Here are a FEW SUGGESTIONS as to how you may help. If you are in Wisconsin, make it a point to interest your influential friends in this matter. Take every opportunity to lay it before gatherings of business men or citizens. Ask the editors of your city or community newspapers to run editorials and news stories about the University, and help them to get the material they need for an article on this all-important matter of faculty salaries. If you live outside the state, you can nevertheless write your friends, your home paper (if you once lived in Wisconsin), or some member of the Wisconsin legislature.

Come on "Sixteener"! Take the lead! Get into action today!

Faithfully yours,

CRAWFORD WHEELER, President.

THE 1919 ECONOMICS CONVENTION

By C. REYNOLDS GROSSER, '18

At first thought it would seem that the story of a five-ring economics convention, in which Wisconsin took a prominent part, held last December, would need an apology for appearing at this date, but since the P. O. Department can stand a lot of abuse, let's blame the delay to it. One remembers how some one suggested that Bursleson run for the Presidency, with a campaign cry of, "He kept us out of mail." Even so, the official publication of the affair has not yet come, and so perhaps a "scoop" can still be secured.

Alice L. Bemis, '18, and her mother, from Carleton College, stopped long enough between civic duties, organizing mill village workers into Y. W. C. A. classes, and the running of Chicago in general, not to mention the close affiliation with the god of music—or is the god a goddess—to shoo a number of ex-economic students, and others who should have been, into the convention. It was like old times to listen to and visit with the faculty of the Political Economy Department, at the La Salle Hotel.

The associations that met from December 29 to 31 were the American Association for Labor Legislation, American Economic Association, American Sociological Association, American Association for Agricultural Economics, and the American Statistical Association. Wisconsin was well represented in the papers and in the discussions at all the meetings. A. P. Haaake '14—what would a meeting of economists, or socialists, be without "Al"—said that everyone from the department at Madison was down except J. G. McKay, '13. Dr. S. Perlman, '16, admitted that he did not come merely to listen to a lot of arguments that he already knew, but that he "liked to look around and meet people." Several entrancing plays, as well as the opera were on the boards those nights, and there is no doubt that many others wanted to look around also.

From the programs it was evident that no effort was spared to have the most prominent and expert men in all economic questions as speakers. To give the full list would fill too many pages, but a few might be indicative of the nature of the convention as a whole: The Effect of International Trade on Germany's Indemnity Payments, by F. W. Taussig, of Harvard. The Nature of Our Economic Problem, by H. B. Gardner, of Princeton, president of the Economic Association. Collective Bargaining in Agriculture, by B. H. Hibbard, '01. Banking Policy and the Price Situation, by H. G. Moulton of Chicago, with discussion by James B. Forgan, W. A. Scott, and Irving Fisher. Immigra- tion and Immigration Problems, by D. D. Lescohier. Teaching of Economics, by W. H. Kiekhofer. The Railway Problem, by Glenn Plumb.

Professor Commons presided over the sessions devoted to the immediate program for international labor legislation, where Don D. Lescohier spoke on the employment problem. Other speakers were: Grace Abbott, Agnes Nestor, J. B. Andrews, G. D. Robertson, Minister of Labor in Canada, S. McCune Lindsay, of Columbia, President of the Association for Labor Legislation.

S. K. Ratcliffe, editor of the London Daily News, spoke on democracy and reconstruction in Europe.

Harry Lauder happened along during the convention, with a "Lest you forget"—about the war, and with a song with his pied pipers at the Association of Commerce luncheon. With the aid of a yellow railroad ticket which passed for a correspondent's card of entrance, these pipers piped at least one person away from a very serious sociological exposition across the hall.

At the Wisconsin dinner held at the City Club, the Johns Hopkins men who were associates and students

"patron saint." Among his brilliant students of earlier days are: President Wilson, Prof. D. R. Dewey of Boston Tech., Dean Gardner of Princeton, Prof. T. N. Carver of Harvard, and Dr. E. W. Bemis.

Professor Scott presided. He started the eulogies, and one after the other added to what was already said. Everyone attested to Dr. Ely's keenly inspirational qualities as teacher and friend, and generous contributor to the world's fund of knowledge. These kind words were not lacking in humor, but one must have passed through recent phases of economic teaching to have fully appreciated both Gardner and Carver. The former remarked that he always believed in first impressions, and that somehow or other he could not entirely eradicate the impressions even with age. He had come to Johns Hopkins, with the warning that "that fellow Ely was a dangerous man, a rank radical," and that even now, as they sat together, he could not forget that warning. Professor Carver came to the rescue. He said he came from the wild and woolly west originally, that he was not always the effete Easterner (one must see him to appreciate him), and that as far as he could remember he always thought for himself, and that he came as a student under Dr. Ely, convinced that he was afraid of no one. "And as the years roll along," he concluded, "somehow, I never lost my first impression."

It seemed difficult for those of the younger generation to believe that the genial, and jovial little man, with those twinkling blue eyes, and white hair, who sat before us, was ever considered really dangerous. But then, the younger generation seems to know of some really dangerous radicals. Some of them seem to be meeting with rather unpeaceful ends, in Chicago.

Complete proceedings of all the meetings, with full lists of speakers with and under Dr. Ely, were guests, and Dr. Ely was, as some one remarked and papers, may be secured from the various associations.

BOOK NOTES

City Manager in Dayton (The Macmillan Co., New York) by C. E. Rightor, '09. This is one of eight volumes of Prof. R. T. Ely's new series. "The Citizen's Library of Economics, Politics and Sociology." The author, who was formerly director of the Dayton Bureau of Research, presents a detailed description of a remarkable experiment in city government, which is in effect a statement of fact about the organization and operation of that type of government. It is of particular interest to students of the problems of municipal governments.

Rise of the Spanish-American Republics (D. Appleton & Co., New York) by William Spence Robertson, '99, assistant professor of history at the U. of Illinois. The lives of seven famous liberators of Hispanic-American history are presented in such a manner as to trace the beginnings of the various republics considered. Francisco de Miranda, Miguel Hidalgo Costilla, Agustin de Iturbide, Mariano Morena, Jose de San Martin, Simon de Bolivar, and Antonio Jose de Sucre, are the characters whose careers are studied in this work.

Seventy-five students in the Course in Journalism have become charter members of the Wisconsin chapter which is applying for a charter in the American Journalists' Association. This is a recently established professional organization of newspaper writers and editors which has grown out of the so-called "St. Louis Plan." Students in recognized schools of journalism may apply for charters as auxiliary chapters in this new national organization.

One hundred and fifty women students are specializing in physical education at Wisconsin this year. The number includes 51 freshmen, compared with about a dozen last year, 30 sophomores, 30 juniors, and 12 seniors. Some 27 others have elected physical education as a minor subject. The demand for women physical education teachers is so great that it is impossible to fill all the calls.

Lieut. John H. Culnan, Marinette, now a junior in the College of Letters and Science, received his second decoration recently for the new navy cross for "extraordinary or distinguished services rendered during the recent war." Lieut. Culnan, with the fifth marines, was awarded the distinguished service cross for carrying a wounded comrade off the field in the battle of Belleau Wood.

A weekly rate of $3.05 is the average room rent paid by men students at the University this year, according to a survey and report on men's rooming houses just completed by Prof. S. H. Goodnight, dean of men. From incomplete data, the average increase over last year is estimated at 41 cents per man per week. Of the 4,497 men in the University, 1,183 were disregarded because they are living at home in Madison. The remaining 3,314 live in 864 houses, which accommodate on the average four students each. However, 246 have but one student roomer each, and 24 fraternity houses and dormitories accommodate more than 20 each. The total weekly rent paid by the 3,314 is $10,082.64. According to the report's tables, 1,465 pay less than $3 a week; 704 pay $3 a week; and 1,140 pay more than $3, some as high as $10 for private bath or special accommodations. By another grouping, 3,022 pay between $2 and $4 per week; only 75 pay less than $2; and 212 pay more than $4. Only 218 men students live more than a mile from the Main Hall of the University, according to a map which accompanies the survey. Exactly 1,689 live within one half mile; 2,568 within three quarters mile; and 3,096 within a mile. The ground within three blocks of the campus is the great center of concentration of student lodgings.

Between 700 and 800 men live in some 35 fraternity houses which, according to the report, are giving meals and board at reasonable prices. In the absence of university-owned dormitories, Dean Goodnight emphasizes the fine service that they are rendering to the university students, for which the university is at no expense and for which it has no responsibility. "Prices are on the average not exorbitant," the report concludes. "The few cases of over-charging would be much more easily obviated if we had one or two good university dormitories which would both take up a considerable portion of the excess (for example by housing the 218 students who are now obliged to live more than a mile away from University Hall) and standardize prices in the manner in which Barnard and Chadbourne Hall exercise a stability influence upon the prices of women's rooms."

"Who's Who at Wisconsin," compiled under the direction of White Spades, is to be ready for distribution about May 1. According to L. W. Murphy, '21, editor, this book will include all former Wisconsin students whose names now appear in Who's Who in America, about 500 graduates of the past five years, a number of the present senior and junior classes, officers of administration and instructors above the rank of assistant professor, the Regents, and the Board of Visitors. Entries of the names of the graduates of the past five years, of the seniors and of the juniors have been carefully made on a basis of leadership, participation in activities, and scholarship. A department of the publication entitled What's What at Wisconsin, devoted to various events, activities, and organizations of importance on the campus is said to be of special interest. The book will not be illustrated. The edition is limited to 1500 copies. The compilers state that the present volume was undertaken as a means of promoting interest in outside activities and as an advertising medium for the University, that these two ideas have been kept in mind in the selection of the material that the book will contain, and that the present volume is to be the nucleus for a more complete book to be published later.

Representatives are being sent to every town and city in the State to organize councils composed of active and influential public-spirited citizens for community cooperation. These representatives will pay frequent visits to the towns where councils are established, will assist in the solution of local after-the-war problems, explain and inaugurate the various forms of community service that are available through the Extension Division and will register students who desire to study at home under University direction.
