The libraries provide public access to a wide range of material, including online exhibits, digitized collections, archival finding aids, our catalog, online articles, and a growing range of materials in many media.

When possible, we provide rights information in catalog records, finding aids, and other metadata that accompanies collections or items. However, it is always the user's obligation to evaluate copyright and rights issues in light of their own use.

Jonas Elm

When I was six years old they taught me at the government school for three years but I didn't learn a thing in those three years. Then I came home where my parents lived. I was always working until 1911 and then I went to school in Tomah for three years. I was able to complete the fifth grade. Then I worked until 1918.

Then I enlisted as a soldier and went to war overseas. On April 29 I left with the army. I got to England and then we arrived in France. It was terrible when I got there where we were stationed with the 5th Division fighters. We got lucky and I came back fine except that I was sickly. I suffered a lot in my back and had rheumatism in my legs.

I went back to work where I had been working before in 1921. Then I worked for ten years at the coal dock until 1936. Just recently I returned to work. While I was sick, relief helped me out and they gave me a little bit until I got my bonus. Then I bought two acres and I built a house. Then I lived there with my wife and we are contented as the days go on. Just now I work for WPA and it keeps going on.
